COMMISSIONS

The following students enrolled in the Reserve Officers Training Corps, USA, have received commissions from Captain Ernest F. Jackson:

Brian John Holms	Lance A. Newton
Jamie Lynn Kiessling	William James Snodgrass, Jr.

Degrees are officially granted to the preceding lists of candidates when the fulfillment of all academic requirements has been certified by the University.

 Summa Cum Laude indicates recipient has earned a grade point average of 3.75 to 4.0.

 Magna Cum Laude indicates recipient has earned a grade point average of 3.60 to 3.74.

* Cum Laude indicates recipient has earned a grade point average of 3.50 to 3.59.

The Academic Procession

The Centuries old pagentry of the academic procession dates from ancient tradition rooted in the early universities. Since the first academic ceremonies were predominantly in charge of the clergy, they followed the familiar order of the religious procession in which the place of highest honor was at the end of the procession. Accordingly, the academic procession is made up of members of the platform party, members of the faculty, and members of the graduating class, marching in that order. After the commencement ceremony, the order of march is reversed.

The Mace

The staff carried at the front of the academic procession is called the mace. It is a symbol of authority and indicates that the activity is an official function of Lock Haven University. Since responsibility for the ceremony is shared by co-marshals, each of them carries a mace. The maces were fashioned from wood from old Sullivan Hall which once stood on the present site of Stevenson Library.

Academic Attire

The traditional costume worn by Lock Haven University faculty, staff, Council of Trustees and distinguished speakers at Convocation and Commencement is a record of academic achievement.

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th Centuries, when universities were taking form in England and other parts of Europe. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric. Long gowns were worn, and may have been necessary for warmth, in unheated buildings. Hoods may have served as a cover to protect the tonsured heads of monks and other medieval scholars in the winter.

European institutions have always had great diversity in their specifications of academic dress. In contrast, shortly after the traditional academic dress was brought to the United States with the founding of Kings College (now Columbia University), American educators opted for a standardized system that all colleges and universities might follow.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, drafted a code of academic dress, which in addition to regulating the style, cut and material of the gowns, prescribed the colors which represent various degrees of learning. This code was revised in 1932 and 1959, and updated in 1986.

The wearer's level of degree is indicated by the gown's cut. Doctoral gowns have full sleeves which are round and open. Gowns worn by Masters have long, closed, somewhat fuller sleeves, which reach nearly to the wearer's knees. The arm goes through a slot, giving the appearance of short sleeves. Those worn by Bachelors have long, pointed sleeves.

The color of the gown also varies. Although most of the doctoral gowns are black, in some cases their color is that of the university conferring the degree. Trimmed with three two-inch velvet bars on the sleeves and a five-inch velvet border extending from the back of the neck down the two sides in front, the doctoral gown is usually black. The velvet trimming may be of a color that indicates the nature of the degree. Master's and Bachelor's gowns have no such facing.

The size and shape of the hood, which is the most significant part of the academic dress, indicate the degree of the wearer. The Bachelor's hood is three feet in length with a two-inch velvet border; The Master's hood measures three and one half feet in length with a three-inch border; and the Doctoral hood is four feet with a five-inch border.

The color of the velvet border and hood lining indicate the academic field and the color or colors of the institution granting the degree respectively. The hood worn by University President Craig Dean Willis is lined in the school colors of The Ohio State University—crimson and gray. Other representative colors displayed by members of the University faculty and staff include:

Pennsylvania State University dark blue and white
Ohio State University scarlet and gray
Temple University red and white
Columbia University slate blue and white
Duke University royal blue

Some of the colors worn by Lock Haven University faculty and staff for all academic purposes, including the trimmings of doctors' gowns, edging of hoods, and cap tassels, are associated with the following disciplines:

White Arts, Letters, Humanities
Drab Commerce, Accountancy, and Business
Light Blue Education
Brown Fine Arts
Crimson Journalism
Lemon Library Science
Pink Music
Silver-Gray Oratory
Dark Blue Philosophy
Sage Green Physical Education
Golden Yellow Science
Citron Social Science

The mortarboard cap, conventionalized from the skull cap worn by the monks of the 12th and 13th Centuries, is usually black. Tassels are worn over the left front quarter by degree holders; candidates wear the tassel over the right quarter until the degree is conferred.

W. TERRELL JONES, D.Ed.
Deputy Vice Provost
The Pennsylvania State University

Today's commencement address is presented by Dr. W. Terrell Jones, the deputy vice provost at the Pennsylvania State University.

A 1972 graduate of Lock Haven University, Dr. Jones received his Masters and Doctoral degrees in Student Personnel Services from the Pennsylvania State University.

In his position as deputy vice provost, Dr. Jones provides leadership for the development of a multicultural environment on campus. Through cultural awareness training programs and curricular changes, he directs the university's progress toward meeting its goals as a multicultural institution.

A noted expert in the area of diversity in higher education, Dr. Jones also serves as a consultant for many institutions that are committed to cultural diversity and multicultural diversity. He has presented workshops and speeches on cultural diversity, cultural/ethnic identity, racism reduction models and intercultural communications for the public and private sectors as well as for student and professional diversity focused conferences. His client list includes such leading academic institutions as Fordham University, Syracuse University, Colgate University and Clemson University.

The chairperson of the Human Relations Association Agency, Dr. Jones also works with the Pennsylvania Departments of Transportation, Correction, and Probation and Parole.

During his 14-year tenure at the Pennsylvania State University, Dr. Jones has served as the associate director of the Division of Campus Life, assistant director of the Residential Life Programs, and the area coordinator for 14 residence halls. Prior to his association with the Pennsylvania State University, Dr. Jones served as the assistant dean of student life and the assistant director of admissions at Lock Haven University.
