Academic Attire

The traditional attire worn by Lock Haven University faculty, staff, Council of Trustees and distinguished speakers at Convocation and Commencement is a record of academic achievement.

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries when universities were forming in England and other parts of Europe. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric. Long gowns were worn, and may have been necessary for warmth, in unheated buildings. Hoods may have served as a cover to protect the tanned heads of monks and other medieval scholars in the winter.

European institutions have always had great diversity in their specifications of academic dress. In contrast, shortly after the traditional academic dress was brought to the United States with the founding of Kings College (now Columbia University), American educators opted for a standardized system that all colleges and universities might follow.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, drafted a code of academic dress, which in addition to regulating the style, cut and material of the gowns, prescribed the colors which represent various degrees of learning. This code was revised in 1932 and 1959, and updated in 1986.

The wearer's level of degree is indicated by the gown's cut. Doctoral gowns have full sleeves which are round and open. Gowns worn by Masters have long, closed, somewhat fuller sleeves, which reach nearly to the wearer's knees. The arm goes through a slot, giving the appearance of short sleeves. Those worn by Bachelors have long, pointed sleeves.

The color of the gown also varies. In some cases their color is that of the university conferring the degree. Trimmed with three two-inch velvet bars on the sleeves and a five-inch velvet border extending from the back of the neck down the two sides in front, the doctoral gown is usually black. The velvet trimming may be of a color that indicates the nature of the degree. Master's and Bachelor's gowns have no such facing.

The size and shape of the hood, which is the most significant part of the academic dress, indicate the degree of the wearer. The Bachelor's hood is three feet in length with a two-inch velvet border; the Master's hood measures three and one half feet in length with a three-inch border; and the Doctoral hood is four feet with a five-inch border.

The color of the velvet border and hood lining indicate the academic field and the color or colors of the institution granting the degree respectively. The hood worn by University President Craig Dean Willis is lined in the school colors of The Ohio State University— crimson and gray. Other representative colors displayed by members of the University faculty and staff include:

Pennsylvania State University.....dark blue and white
Temple University.....red and white
Columbia University.....slate blue and white
Duke University.....royal blue and white

Some of the colors worn by Lock Haven University faculty and staff for all academic purposes, including the trimmings of doctors' gowns, edging of hoods and cap tassels, are associated with the following disciplines:

White.....Arts, Letters, Humanities
Drab.....Commerce, Accountancy, Business
Light Blue.....Education
Brown.....Fine Arts
Crimson.....Journalism
Lemon.....Library Science
Pink.....Music
Silver-Gray.....Oratory
Dark Blue.....Philosophy
Sage Green.....Physical Education
Golden Yellow.....Science
Citron.....Social Science

The mortarboard cap, conventionalized from the skull cap worn by the monks of the 12th and 13th centuries, is usually black. Tassels are worn over the left front quarter by degree holders; candidates wear the tassel over the right quarter until the degree is conferred.

The Academic Procession

The centuries old pageantry of the academic procession dates from ancient tradition rooted in the early universities. Since the first academic ceremonies were predominantly in the charge of the clergy, they followed the familiar order of the religious procession in which the place of highest honor was at the end of the procession. Accordingly, the academic procession is made up of members of the platform party, members of the faculty, and members of the graduating class, marching in that order.

The Mace

The staff carried at the front of the academic procession is called the mace. It is a symbol of authority and indicates that the activity is an official function of Lock Haven University. Since responsibility for the ceremony is shared by co-marshals, each of them carries a mace. The maces were fashioned from wood from old Sullivan Hall which once stood on the present site of Stevenson Library.

A four-year letterman in football and gymnastics, he was named to the All State Teachers College team and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics All-Pennsylvania team as a quarterback. During his sophomore and junior years, he was elected class president. Upon his graduation in 1957, he received the William Welliver Award as the outstanding graduating senior.

After leaving Lock Haven, Dr. Berringer taught and coached at Bellefonte Area High School before volunteering and fulfilling a military term in the U.S. Army. Upon finishing his enlistment, he returned to central Pennsylvania where he taught and coached at Penns Valley Area High School. In 1961, he accepted a graduate assistantship at Florida State University where he finished his master's degree and received a faculty appointment. While at Florida State, he completed a Ph.D. in health sciences with an emphasis in anatomy from the University of Oregon. Continuing at Florida State, he published a photographic "Atlas and Dissection Manual of Rhesus Monkey Anatomy." He also was the recipient of the outstanding teacher award, and attained the tenured rank of full professor.

In 1971 Dr. Berringer accepted the position of associate director for student affairs in the program in medical sciences- a first-year medical school curriculum. Honored in 1975 as the recipient of the Richard C. Winzler Award, a year later his achievements were recognized by Lock Haven University as he was named the recipient of the Alumni Achievement Award.

In 1979 Dr. Berringer served as a health maintenance consultant for the U.S. Navy. In 1981, he returned to academia as the director of the Prehealth Professions Advisement Office at the University of Central Florida in Orlando, Florida. In this capacity he coordinates all applicants to the health professions of medicine, dentistry, optometry, pharmacy, podiatry and veterinary medicine. He is a full professor in the Department of Molecular Biology and Microbiology. Recently, he received the Order of Omega "Professor of the Year" award symbolic of exemplary service to students at the University of Central Florida.

He and his wife, Lynn, a practicing pediatrician, have two children— Jennifer, 12, and Chad, 6.
