Hardwick & Magee Hold Reunion

A GREAT family gathering of the Hardwick & Magee Company executives, brought together for a social evening, was held at the Old York Road Country Club in Philadelphia, June 25. In all there were nearly one hundred executives, representing the many varied departments from the time the yarn is received in the mill, and through the manifold processes of dyeing, drying, winding, designing, weaving and so on. Also representatives responsible for the smooth running of the mill and for its physical upkeep, office and financial heads as well as sales and publicity, wholesale and retail, were there.

The whole affair was informal and thoroughly enjoyable. A photograph of the group was first taken and then the party sat down to a dinner served at small tables. After the meal there was a period of community singing to the accompaniment of an excellent orchestra—all home talent. William G. Berlinger, president of the Hardwick & Magee Company, very briefly and cordially welcomed the gathering. This was followed by vocal and instrumental selections again furnished by home talent. No set speeches marred the informality of the occasion, but extemporaneous remarks were made from time to time.

THE PASSING OF THE BACKHOUSE

WHEN memory keeps me company and moves to smiles or tears,
A weather-beaten object looms through the mist of years.
Behind the house and barn it stood, a half a mile or more,
And hurrying feet a path had made straight to its swinging door.
Its architecture was a type of simple classic art,
But in the tragedy of life it played a leading part;
And oft the passing traveler drove slow and heaved a sigh
To see the modest hired girl slip out with glances shy.

We had our posse garden that the women loved so well;
I loved it too, but better still I loved that stronger smell
That filled the evening breezes so full of homely cheer
And told the night o'er-taken tramp that human life was near.
On lazy August afternoons it made a little bower
Delightful, where my grandsire sat and whiled away an hour.
For there the summer mornings its very cares entwined
And berry bushes reddened in the steaming soil behind.

All day fat spiders spun their webs to catch the buzzing flies
That fitted to and from the house, where Ma was making pies.
And once a swarm of hornets bold had built a palace there,
And stung my unsuspecting Aunt—I must not tell you where.
Then father took a flaming pole—that was a happy day—
He nearly burned the building up, but the hornets left to stay.
When summer blooms began to fade and winter to carouse,
We banked the little building with a heap of hemlock boughs.

But when the crust was on the snow and the sullen skies were gray,
In sooth the building was no place where one could wish to stay.
We did our duties promptly, there one purpose swayed the mind,
We tarried not, nor lingered long on what we left behind.
The torture of that icy seat would make a Spartan sob,
For needs must scrape the gooseflesh with a lacerating cob
That from a frost-encrusted nail was suspended by a string—
My father was a frugal man and wasted not a thing.

When grandpa had to "go out back" and make his morning call,
We'd bundle up the dear old man with a muffler and a shawl.
I knew the hole on which he sat—'twas padded all around—
And once I dared to sit there—'twas all too wide I found.
My loins were all too little and I jack-knifed there to stay;
They had to come and get me out, or I'd have passed away.
Then father said ambition was a thing that boys should shun,
And I just used the children's hole 'til childhood days were done.

And still I marvel at the craft that cut the holes so true;
The baby hole and the slender hole that fitted Sister Sue.
That dear old country landmark; I've tramped around a bit,
And in the lap of luxury my lot has been to sit,
But ere I die I'll eat the fruit of trees I robbed of yore,
Then seek the shanty where my name is carved upon the door.
I ween the old familiar smell will soothe my jaded soul;
I'm now a man but none the less I'll try the children's hole.

EXPECT NEW BLDG. METHODISTS TO BE FINISHED IN FEB.

Bishop McDowell Coming for Dedication During the Winter

MAKE GOOD PROGRESS

Foundation Completed and Steel Is Expected Here
Next Week

Bishop William F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C., will have charge of the dedication of the new church school of the First Methodist church, which will probably be held in February. Dr. E. A. Pyles, pastor of the church, told the members of the Sunday School board last evening.

Dr. Pyles said that the Bishop had informed him that he would come to Bloomsburg for the dedication at any time he was wanted and that it appeared by the progress being made on the building that the dedication would be held in February.

Next Sunday will be Rally Day and the pastor urged that there be 1,000 at the Sunday School and that all of those attend the communion service. He also asked that reports of the pledges made to the new building fund be made on Sunday.

There are 33 windows in the new building and the glass for these windows is expected to be purchased by individuals or classes as memorial windows.

Work is now under way on the erection of the walls for the building and the steel is expected to reach Bloomsburg Tuesday. The school will be one of the finest in the conference. The part of the present main Sunday School room given over to the intermediate department will be claimed by the adult classes upon the completion of the new building and it is probable that the new building will be given over entirely to the young people.

The meeting was the first of the fall and there were a large number attending. The following excellent menu was served by the teachers of the primary department:

Bolled Ham
Escaloped Potatoes
Baked Beans Pickled Cabbage
Brick Ice Cream. Coffee. Spice Cake

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holmes, Miss Christine E. Holmes, Miss Marce E. Pensch, Nelson M. Penman, Mrs. J. C. Wolf, Mrs. G. M. Holdren, Miss Emily Barber, Miss Margaret A. BENEFITS UNDER GROUP INSURANCE

Plan of Magee Carpet Company Gives Mrs. Foulke $1,500

CLAIM ALREADY PAID

The payment of $1,500 to the widow of B. Pierce Foulke under the group insurance plan of the Magee Carpet Company brings to mind the fact that there has already been paid under the plan 29 claims for a total of $22,054 since this piece of welfare work was inaugurated by the late James Magee. It was the last of such work he did before he died and, surely enough, his was the first claim paid.

Mr. Magee took out group insurance on all employees who had been in the company's employment three months or over, at no cost in any way to the employees, with the insurance to be paid to any beneficiary the employee might name.

This group insurance was issued according to the following table:

For less than 3 months of continuous service, no insurance.

For 3 months but less than 1 year of continuous service, $250.

For 1 year but less than 2 years of continuous service, $500.

For 2 years but less than 3 years of continuous service $550.

For 3 years but less than 4 years of continuous service $600.

For 4 years but less than 5 years of continuous service $650.

For 5 years but less than 6 years of continuous service $700.

For 6 years but less than 7 years of continuous service $750.

For 7 years but less than 8 years of continuous service $800.

For 8 years but less than 9 years of continuous service $850.

For 9 years but less than 10 years of continuous service $900.

For 10 years but less than 11 years of continuous service $1000.

For 11 years but less than 12 years of continuous service $1100.

For 12 years but less than 13 years of continuous service $1200.

For 13 years but less than 14 years of continuous service $1300.

For 14 years but less than 15 years of continuous service $1400.

For 15 or more years of continuous service $1500.

Many of the claims were paid on employees who had been sick and away from work for several years.

Mr. Foulke, who died at the age of 72, started work for the company in 1908 and after sixteen years' service, was taken sick on September 30, 1922. From that time on the premiums were paid by the company, and the money has already been turned over to Mrs. Foulke.

It is all another indication of the increasing presence of the human element of cooperation between employers and employees which has become increasingly in evidence in recent years.

East Fifth street. Mrs. J. C. Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Magee and Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Barger have returned from a motor trip to the White Mountains.

THE DATES ARE FIXED

In addition to classes for the Boy Scouts, life saving classes for girls, young women, men and boys will be provided during the winter by the Red Cross.

Good young women swimmers include Miss Mary Stackhouse, Miss Cleora McKinstry, Mrs. Albert Duy, Jr., and others.

Classes for senior life saving for women are not complete. Instructions will be given Monday and Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 the first and third weeks of November and Saturday afternoons of that month from 2:30 to 4.

Only good swimmers will be accepted and classes are restricted to twelve.

More young men are urged to join the men's class to be organized later. Some time later it is hoped to have instructions in junior life saving for girls.

FORMER RESIDENT IS CRASH VICTIM

Boyd Chamberlain, Manager Chamberlain Amusement Co., Dies

HIS CAR TURNS OVER

Boyd Chamberlain, for a time manager of the Victoria Theatre here, was killed instantly early yesterday morning on the Stonington hill between Sunbury and Shamokin when his Lincoln roadster turned over and later crashed into a tree.

The car, travelling at terrific speed, had left the concrete and when the driver tried to get back into the road, the wheels skidded along the edge of the concrete and turned over. He had attended a picnic of the Shamokin Lodge of Elks, then visited Sunbury and was on his way home when the accident occurred.

He left here some years ago, and was vice president and general manager of the Chamberlain Amusement Company, owning a string of theatres in the coal fields and nearby towns.

He was aged 38 years and is survived by his wife, two sons and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Chamberlain, of Shamokin.

"Trenton makes and the world takes"
Folks in Trenton say;

Whene'er he comes this way.
Oh, Trenton, Trenton, in Jersey land so fair,
Skeeters humming all about nobody seems to care.
Connie came along with Pete,
To show him his old home,
To meet the boys of these two towns,
Where he used to browse and roam.
Oh, Trenton, Trenton, with not a thing to fear,
Be happy in our little burg, there are no skeeters here.

MISS APPLEMAN SEPTEMBER BRIDE

Miss Kathleen Appleman
Bride Williamsport Man
Saturday Evening

BRIDE WELL KNOWN

At the parsonage of the First Methodist church at eight o'clock Saturday evening, the Rev. Dr. E. A. Pyles officiated at the marriage of Miss Kathleen Appleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Appleman, of 49 East Third street, to Jenkin Jones, of Williamsport.
The bride and groom were attended by Miss Alice Fisher and Donald Decker, both of Bloomsburg.
The bride was attractively gowned in green georgette, with hat to match.
Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Appleman home, with music furnished by the orchestra which has been giving an engagement at the Columbia theatre.
The bride, a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School and a popular town girl, has been employed for several years in the office of the Magee Carpet Company and will retain her position there for the present. The groom, formerly of Wilkes-Barre, has recently been named manager of the Woolworth store at Williamsport, and eventually the bride and groom will make their home in that city.

VACATION TRIP - 1926

Wednesday, August 25.

Started August 18, 1926 - 7:40 A. M.

Ate at P. Brown's 9:30. Raining - leaving Wilkes Barre at 10:00 going east. Bought our lunch at P. Brown's. Breakfast and lunch cost $4.96 Boys wearing sweaters (delayed 2 minutes by truck). First detour outside of Wilkes Barre. Stopped at a church to eat lunch, etc. - time 1:40 P. M. Egypt Mills, Union Sunday School. Drove in rain all day. Ten miles detour. Arrived at Newburg, N. Y. at 5 P. M. Palatine Hotel. We took the ferry across the Hudson to a small town named Beacon. Had ride on cable train to Mt. top. Some thrill! (Lyd. was scared to death.) Came back to Hotel Palatine and went to piazza to watch the boats on the Delaware river. This spot where the Hotel is now situated is where Washington gave a farewell address to a remnant of his soldiers, the address was written by Hamilton. Retired at 10:30 P. M. Big day. Drove 185 miles.

The Hudson River is like a big arm to the ocean. Nearly all the water in the Hudson is salty. The river drops at about 3 inches to the mile. Thursday, August 19. Got up at 7:30 (Daylight Saving time). Ate breakfast at 8:30 (Punky). Hotel bill was $21.85. The country along the Hudson was wonderful. Had lunch at a little Inn called "The Olde Dutch Inn." It was punk. No one ate. Came to Saratoga Springs. Stopped and had a soda. Boys bought cigarettes. Had a nice trip to Lake George and arrived here about 5 P. M. and found a nice hotel - "The Sagamore." It is on an island and is very good. Went motor boat riding at 9 P. M. Moon beautiful. A great ride, price $8.00 per hour. Came in and hit the hay at 10:30. All slept fine. Sodas 80¢, cigarettes $1.50, gas $21.5. Motor boat ride $8.00.

Friday, August 20. Got up at 8:30 - Had breakfast and waited nearly one hour and a half. Harry bawled head waiter out but we got service. Went to the town of Lake George and saw Air-a-plane, also the Fort William Henry Hotel. Very nice. Came back to Hotel Sagamore and had lunch. Very good service. Sat around and went to take a motor boat ride and something went wrong with the motor so we came back to the porch and played bridge. Ate dinner and went to Lake George and took a moonlight trip. Very pretty but the boat was much too slow for us. Came home and retired at 11:30.

Saturday, August 21. Got up at 8:30 - Ate breakfast, went down to dock and from there walked over to Bolton Landing. Found out about the boat trip and bought a few things in the stores. Came home and read until lunch time. After lunch went for motor boat ride in a speed boat. Saw canoe racing. All had a great trip. We all took a nap until dinner time. After that we played cards in our room. Lyd and Paul were winners. Retired at 10:45.

Sunday, August 22. Got up at 8 A. M. after a very restful night. Harry paid hotel bill of $146.60. Ate breakfast and packed bags. Taking the boat trip up the lake. Taking car with us. Had a very pleasant trip at Lake George. Went twenty miles on Lake George and went to Ticondaroga and saw the Fort. It was wonderful. Had dinner and bought cards and history of the fort. Drove to Elizabethtown, got rooms in a large house (spooky), went to Ben Stetson's Deer Head Inn and had supper. Went to M. E. Church (Some time) took walk and retired at 11 P. M.

Monday, August 23. Got up at 8:30 - Ate breakfast and drove to St. Johnsbury, Vt. where we had lovely rooms, also good eats. Ate supper at 8:30 - Went to see Lon Chaney in the "Phantom of the Opera" Retired at 10:30. All very tired. The scenery in Vt. was beautiful but the roads were terrible. (raining all day)

Tuesday, August 24. Arose 8 A. M. - had breakfast, bought candy and sent home. Lyd and I went shopping in St. Johnsbury, Vt. Drove to Bethel, N. H. and got lovely rooms at the Sinclair hotel. Ate dinner and took drive around the Flume, also saw "The Old Man of the Mts." Came back to the Hotel, ate supper and then more shopping. Played cards. Lyd and I cleaned up. Retired at 10:30.

for Mt. Washington. Took lunch with us. Took the trip up the mountain on the trestle railway and had a wonderful view of the surrounding country. Started back at 2:10 then drove to Franconia for mail and back to the Hotel at 5:30, all tired. Supper, then Alice and I went Shopping, after which we all went to see Doug. Fairbanks in the "Black Pirate." Retired at 11 P. M.

Thursday, August 26, Had breakfast and left the "Sinclair" Hotel at Bethlehem, H. H. about 10:30. Stopped at Hanover, N. H. for lunch and drove to Rutland, from there to Bumoseen Lake, looked over the place and decided to go on. Drove to White Hall, N. Y. and found no road across the mountain to Pearl Point, drove to Hudson Mills and stopped at Edwin Hotel and telephoned to the "Sagamore", Lake George for reservation for the night. Drove to Glen Falls, had supper and came on to Lake George, arriving at the "Sagamore" about 8 P.M. All tired. After a game of "rum" we all retired for the night.

Friday, August 27. After breakfast at the "Sagamore" we all walked into Bolton Landing and had sodas, bought magazines and the boys visited barber shop. After lunch we rested, read and later Harry and Paul took a walk around the Island and at upper end met some woodcutters and after they left, the boys cut down a cedar tree about 30" in diameter and all in, so much so that in taking a bath Harry fell in the tub. Supper, after which we sat around and then played cards until 11 P.M.

Saturday, August 28. After breakfast we all walked thru the woods to see the tree that Harry and Paul had cut down, took books to read and sat by the lake most of the morning. After dinner we wired to the Palatine at Newburgh for reservations for the night and started about 2 o'clock. Stopped for supper outside of Kingston, N. Y. (very rotten). Arrived in Newburgh about 9 o'clock and found the "Palatine" did not hold rooms so we went to the "Plaza" for the night, deciding to drive to Bloomsburg next day.

Sunday, August 29. Left Newburgh, N. Y. about 7:10 and drove to Hazleton where we had lunch at the "Altamont." Leaving there we arrived in Bloomsburg about 2:45 having driven 1210 miles on our trip.

Winter Weather Reduced Speed of Operations Along the Catawissa Narrows

More than a half mile of track has been laid by the D. L. & W. Railroad Company in re-laying their tracks along the Catawissa Narrows preparatory to the improvement of the Bloomsburg-Catawissa road.

While winter weather has held up the work somewhat, it has failed to halt the activities of the company on re-laying the stretch of track along the narrows which is about a mile and a half in length.

Thus far about three-fifths of a mile has been laid, the new track extending from the Catawissa station about half way to the hollow below Rupert.

There are about 20 men working on the track. The men come from Bloomsburg and Berwick and make the trip by gasoline cars. The track at the present time is almost up with the fill.

The fill of the old canal bed for the new track is going on steadily but winter has decreased the number of carloads dumped each day. The average at the present time is about three or four cars a day.

During the work of placing the new track the telegraph and telephone wires of the railroad company have been placed along the old right of way of the North Branch Transit Company.

With Spring not far off and with each day seeing the track nearer completion indications are that the paving operations will not be held up by the railroad company.

There will be a very important meeting of the Executive Committee of the Columbia County Republican Committee at the office of Mr. H. A. M'Killip, on Monday evening, December 20th, 1926, at 7:30.

It has been suggested, in view of the splendid result at the last election in this County, that the County should send a representative delegation to participate in the inaugural ceremonies for the Governor, at Harrisburg, on January 18th, and the suggestion has been met with quite universal approval by the Party workers who feel that it will be a great stimulus to the present party spirit in the county.

I view this as a matter of such importance that I desire the judgment and advice of the whole Executive Committee, and sincerely trust that you will arrange to be present.

Faithfully yours,

Bloomsburg, Pa., Jan. 12, 1927.

Fellow Member of the Bloomsburg Fair Association

My Dear Sir:

I desire herewith to announce that I am a candidate for re-election as your Treasurer of the Bloomsburg Fair Association. Election to be held Sat. Jan. 15, 1927, at the Court House. The voting will begin at 10 A. M. and end at 2 P. M.

I have worked faithfully, since I have been elected your Treasurer to serve you well, and we now have one of the finest fair grounds in the state and a remaining debt of only $18,000.00 with $5,304.70 cash on hand.

Consider the large grounds we now have, the many good buildings, the ground inside of the race track circle free from any parking or other obstructions, thereby eliminating the danger from crossing and re-crossing the track during the races, by having ample parking space outside the race track. The bogs and low places have been filled to make the grounds level and beautiful; an iron fence encloses the entire grounds, and a large grandstand at a cost of nearly $100,000.00 placed on the grounds, besides numerous other important improvements not here mentioned.

The part I have had in making the fair a success has by no means been a small thing. It has meant hard work with considerable sacrifice which you no doubt well know. I have always tried to do my best in carrying out my part of the work and have tried at all times to please the members whom I served and all other people interested in our fair.

From the very day I was elected your Treasurer you have been kept well informed as to the funds handled by me and with my system you have always been able to know each evening before leaving the grounds the number of admission tickets sold for the day. There is no guess about my branch of the work but only careful and accurate figures go to make up my reports. Ask any one or as many as you wish of the numerous men who have ever assisted me during thi times of fairs as to what efficiency and correctness exists in handling the gate receipts.

The very same gang who mixed and nosed in where they had no business when the arrangements and plans were being made for the erection of the New Bloomsburg High School Building, by making various and numerous political deals and otherwise to bring about their desired wishes to share in the funds of nearly a half million dollars in some way or another, is now vitally interested to prohibit my re-election if possible. The taxpayers are fully aware that the gang made a real mess of it. The wreckage is now being repaired and the taxpayers very likely will be obliged to pay the bills. The Fair Association is selected for this gang's next victim. They have nothing else to work on for the present time.

I wish to state that the article which appeared in print on Thursday morning Oct. 7th as to my treatment the nurses of the Bloomsburg Hospital at the Fair Ground was misleading and untrue and a lie of the blackest kind and the party who caused it to be put in print knew it was untrue at the time it was being prepared to be given to the public, because he was told at the Fair Ground while spying around, by many of the board of Directors before the public had the lie passed to them, therefore the only conclusion that can be reached is that the lie was purposely and maliciously given to the public for no other but a selfish purpose. For further and more detailed information about this LIE, if you care to have it, call and see me.

If you consider me worthy to be re-elected as your Treasurer after considering the service I have already rendered you, then I shall be proud to have your vote and support in every way, and I hope you will not hesitate to tell others just what you know and think about my work and the motive of the gang trying to defeat me.

Respectfully yours,

Jacob H. Maust

Central Business Block and Apartments Wrecked in $200,000 Fire

Aid From Berwick, Danville and Catawissa Enables Firemen to Halt Flames

Special to The Inquirer.

BLOOMSBURG, March 12.—Eleven fire companies, including three from Berwick, two from Danville and one from Catawissa, aided Bloomsburg firemen in a four-hour battle against flames in the Bloomsburg business section today which caused a loss of $200,000.

The Victoria Theatre was destroyed, the Reimard Building, housing the Economy Stores Company, and eight apartments, wrecked, and the Harry Sharpless Building damaged. Several other buildings were threatened and merchants and apartment tenants for an entire block along the street moved their belongings out when the fire was at its height.

The Victoria, owned by the Bloomsburg Amusement Company, cost $87,000 to build about fifteen years ago and could not now be replaced for $150,000. There was $60,000 insurance. Loss to the Reimard Building was placed at $30,000, and to the Economy Stores Company at a similar amount, its stock being almost a total loss.

Hopi Indians, performing in the theatre, lost $15,000 and much of their equipment was priceless. A children's performance was scheduled an hour after the fire started, but the theatre was empty at the time.

Occupants of apartments were able to get their goods out before the Reimard Building was afire and escaped serious loss. Four men were overcome by smoke or hurt, one of them, Ron R. Linn, manager of the theatre.

Fire was discovered in the theatre about eight o'clock, the cause being undetermined and spread rapidly. Absence of wind saved most of a square from being burned, and valuable aid was given by visiting firemen, who doubled the available equipment.

ESTIMATING THE LOSS

Some of Economy Stores Company Stock Can be Salvaged From the Ruins

Work started yesterday clearing away the debris of Saturday's fire on East Main street, and considerable progress was made during the day.

The front of the Victoria was boarded up during the day, and the sidewalk in front of the theatre was cleared of the debris which fell during the fire. The sidewalk was not opened for pedestrians, however, the ropes being kept in place because it was feared there might be other loosened bricks coming down.

Watchmen were on guard throughout the day in the vicinity to be on hand in the event there was another outbreak of the fire, but none occurred during the day.

Work also was started during the day checking up on the losses which had been suffered in the fire. A large part of the stock of the Economy Stores Company was ruined by the water which had been poured into the building during the fire, manager Harry Gorton said, but some of the stock was in such condition that it will be possible to obtain salvage.

Fire chief Elmer Dietterick yesterday expressed the thanks of the fire department to those who had served sandwiches and coffee to the firemen during the battle of Saturday morning.

It was learned yesterday that there has been no definite decision by the Bloomsburg Amusement Company on a site for the theatre which will be rebuilt. There is a possibility, it was said, that another site may be chosen for the new theatre.

In examining the ruins of the fire yesterday, Manager Linn of the Victoria found that only about 25 feet of the 11,000 feet of the film in the projection booth had been damaged by water.

Hopi Indians Appearing in Playhouse Lose $15,000 in Equipment

Special Telegram to Public Ledger
BLOOMSBURG, March 12.—Firemen of Bloomsburg, Berwick, Catawissa and Danville at noon today overcame a fire which raged four hours in Bloomsburg's business district. It was the most disastrous blaze the town has had in thirty years or more.

The loss was approximately $200,000, according to early estimates. The Victoria Theatre was destroyed, the Reimard Building, housing the Economy Stores Company and eight apartments, were wrecked and the Harry Sharpless Building was damaged.

The Victoria cost $87,000 fifteen years ago and could not be replaced for $150,000. There was $60,000 insurance.

Loss to the Reimard Building is estimated at more than $30,000, and to the Economy Stores Company at a similar amount. The stock of house furnishings and furniture was ruined by smoke and water.

Hopi Indians performing at the theatre suffered a loss of $15,000 in equipment. A children's performance was scheduled an hour after the fire started, but the theatre was empty when the blaze was found. The fire started in the theatre about 8 o'clock.

Occupants of apartments in the adjoining buildings moved their household goods and owners of nearby stores began removing their stocks.

Berwick sent three companies, Danville two and Catawissa one. Four men were overcome by smoke or injured, none seriously. Among those overcome was Byron R. Linn, manager of the theatre, which was owned by the Bloomsburg Amusement Company.

Absence of wind prevented destruction of a square along Main street and scores of firemen watched nearby buildings for an outbreak.

Hardwick & Magee—A Short History

SOON after the close of the Civil War, William Ivins, who, with Jacob Y. Dietz, had for some years conducted a successful retail and jobbing carpet business at 52 South Second street, Philadelphia, began to give serious consideration to the question of manufacturing. The result was his association with Francis Magee and the beginning of the now great manufacturing plant under the name of Ivins, Dietz & Magee. Mr. Magee, the father of the present Henry I. Magee, had learned carpet manufacturing abroad and his technical knowledge joined to Mr. Ivins' business experience made a strong combination. A mill was built on the corner of Columbia avenue and Howard street, and over one hundred hand looms were soon weaving ingrain carpets.

From the beginning of manufacturing a standard of quality was set, to be improved if possible, but never lowered. This policy has been consistently followed through the more than half century that has elapsed and has placed Hardwick & Magee goods in the pre-eminent position which they now occupy.

Take Larger Quarters

In the course of ten or twelve years the rapid growth of their business and the desirability of adding brussels to their production forced Ivins, Dietz & Magee to contract for larger quarters. The result was the building of a then large mill at Seventh street and Lehigh avenue, the present site, and the first unit of the buildings in the great group which now constitutes the Hardwick & Magee plant. Here an enlarged number of ingrain looms were installed and about twenty-five Brussels looms.

In 1892 the production was much increased by consolidation with Hogg & Metzger, the resulting corporation being Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Co. The large Hogg & Metzger mill at Second and Huntington streets was given up and the entire production plant housed in the enlarged Lehigh avenue mills. At about that time Mr. Harry Hardwick joined the concern. His inventive genius had already won for him recognition in carpet weaving. There are many who remember the famous "Mate thread" and Agra weaves in ingrains which were the invention of Mr. Hardwick. In his new connection his ability had full scope and was soon apparent in the company's products. A lasting monument to his memory is Bundhar Wilton, now known from coast to coast, under its slogan "Durable as Iron."

Pioneer Wilton Producers

Marked changes in the character of floor-coverings made themselves manifest in the closing years of the nineteenth century and the opening of the twentieth. The modern wilton rug, now in such general use, made its appearance, Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Co. being pioneers in the production of this useful and ornamental article of furnishing. The trade of today, familiar as it is with the every-day handling of wilton rugs, hardly realizes the many problems which had to be encountered and solved before their manufacture and use became practical in a large way. Again the ingrain fabric waned in popularity, followed by the Brussels, and pile fabrics became more and more in demand. Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Co. were among the first to swing into the new current, soon disposing of their ingrain plant and a little later devoting their whole attention to wiltons.

Mr. Ivins died in 1904. In 1906 Mr. Hardwick became president and in 1910 the company was re-incorporated under the name of Hardwick & Magee Company, its present title and a name that guarantees the thousands of wilton rugs and the many yards of carpet which it ships to all parts of the United States.

William G. Berlinger

In the meantime Mr. William G. Berlinger, who had joined the company in 1886 as a young man, had become an important factor in the business. Long before Mr. Ivins' death he had gained a position of confidence and during Mr. Hardwick's incumbency he was, in the president's absence, the virtual head of the company. Thus, when Mr. Hardwick died in 1912 Mr. Berlinger was ready to take his place and was elected to the presidency in 1913. During the years that have elapsed since his becoming president even greater strides have been made than before. Hardwick & Magee goods are esteemed by all who handle them and the company's reputation for service and fair dealing is very high indeed, really an asset of inestimable value.

The last great change that occurred was the removal, in August, 1925, of the entire wholesale department to the mill buildings. This move was made possible by the building of a new unit to their already large plant, which took care of the finishing and shipping of rugs and carpets, thus freeing a considerable amount of space in the old building. The space formerly occupied by the wholesale department at 1220 Market street, the retail store, was badly in need by the retail, and, moreover, it was felt that a consolidation of the executive, wholesale and manufacturing under one roof would be of decided benefit to the business. This has proved to be the case. The company's operations are now conducted with more smoothness than ever before.

Speaking of Carl Mentrup this calls to mind, when we think of it, the men who have trained, or are having trained, their sons in their chosen occupation. Jack Black's son is with Crex Carpet Company. Wm. Ross' son is with him at Sanford's. Sam Winter's son is with Firth. Tom Breslin's sons are all being, or have been, trained in the game. The late Wm. Greer's son has been with Shoaff for the past twelve years. R. E. Vickerman's sons are in the mill with him at Philadelphia, Lawrence Collins' boys are in the mill and we could go on down the line or up the line and name many others who are following an occupation that was good enough for dad and who feel with pride, no doubt, that they are just another generation of carpet men, trained from infancy by brains that made good when making good meant not only brains but physical labor as well. The Beatties, Roland Pollock, Tom Develon, the Magees, the Sanfords, the Sloans, the Holmes the Bromleys, the Hamiltons, the Gays and others whom I can't call to mind now are of the second and third generation of floor covering manufacturers in this country, none of whom have had the word failure chalked up against them.

Ask the man who LAYS IT!

After all, no one knows much more about linoleum quality than the experienced layer. That is why we have been particularly interested in hearing layers' comments on W. & J. Sloane Linoleum:

- "More flexible"
- "Wonderful finish"
- "I can lay it in $\frac{2}{3}$ of the time"
- "Easy to handle"

Such are the comments that are coming to us with increasing frequency.

The combination of new efficiency methods and improved processes found only in the world's most modern linoleum plant enables us to offer you this new standard of quality at competitive prices.

To insure early spring deliveries, act now. If your jobber has not shown you the Sloane line, write our Selling Agents for lithographs and quality samples.

Mr. Harry & Magee

Hardwick & Magee—A Short History

SOON after the close of the Civil War, William Ivins, who, with Jacob Y. Dietz, had for some years conducted a successful retail and jobbing carpet business at 52 South Second street, Philadelphia, began to give serious consideration to the question of manufacturing. The result was his association with Francis Magee, a great manufacturing talent. Dietz & Magee, then Henry I. Magee, came abroad and his Ivins' business expanded. A mill was built and Howard street were soon weaving. From the beginning of quality was never lowered. It followed through the elapsed and has the pre-eminence.

In the course of growth of their business, the Ivins, Magee to the building and Lehigh valley of the building substitutes the large number about twenty.

Pioneer Wilton Producers

Marked changes in the character of floor-coverings made themselves manifest in the closing years of the nineteenth century and the opening of the twentieth. The modern wilton rug, now in such general use, made its appearance, Ivins, Dietz & Metzger Co. being pioneers in the production of this useful and ornamental article of furnishing. The trade of today, familiar as it is with the every-day handling of wilton, hardly realizes the many problems which had facturing under one roof would be of decided benefit to the business. This has proved to be the case. The company's operations are now conducted with more smoothness than ever before.

FARM BUREAU HAS MEANT THOUSANDS

most important phases of modern farming, and more farmers are turning to it yearly.

Two carloads of seed potatoes will be brought into the county from Michigan this spring, as they have been other years, since the farm bureau's demonstrations have shown that good seed is one of the essentials of good potato production. Three scattered farms in the county on which records of the results of spraying were kept last year showed an increase due to spraying of 50 per cent., approximating the state average.

More Community Shows

During the coming year also community farm products shows are planned, as it is believed better shows will result from this method than by an attempt to assemble the products at once place. Such a show is staged annually in connection with the fair, and a general show means only a duplication of effort at a season when the best products are not available.

Since the farm bureau's necessity was demonstrated, it has been supported by county appropriations, and county agent Niesley recently figured that the taxes which are devoted to the farm bureau's annual appropriation by the county to about 14 cents per farm each year.

Any estimate of the value of the farm bureau since it was organized is merely a guess, but the wheat smut work, and the work done in a year when potato blight is evident mean many thousands of dollars more. What losses from insects and diseases might have been had not the farm agent and his assistant on the job is problematical, of course, but the total runs into figures that would be amazing, and the saving effected by such work must be included in the value of work done by the bureau.

of the future will have to find some way to provide more of it. Five vocational schools now are operating in the county—Benton, Conyngham, Orangeville, Millville and Millville.

Reaching More Here

Despite the fact that more pupils in this county are receiving the benefits of vocational education than in any other county in the state, the work is reaching only about one-third of the county's school children. This third is reached through the vocational schools and the courses given by the county vocational supervisor in a number of the rural schools.

Another development of the future, in the belief of Mr. Evans, will be the organization of junior high schools in most of the districts, feeding their graduates into a smaller number of centrally located senior high schools. The instructors of special subjects in the senior high schools would supervise the work in these subjects in the junior high schools so the students entering the senior high school would have an idea of the work that is expected of them, and would be prepared for it.

There is little comparison between the qualifications of the teacher of 25 years ago and the qualifications of the average teacher of today. Practically all of the teachers now are Normal School trained and are eager to have the training because of the better salaries they can command.

Paid $28 a Month

In one township of the county in 1902, the teachers were paid $23 a month, and when the minimum salary law was passed making the wage $35 a month, residents of the district were up in arms. After this year, under the requirements, all teachers will have a Normal School education or its equivalent, and because of this will command minimum salaries of $100 per month.

The monthly meetings of the teachers of the county have had a great influence on the schools, for methods of teaching and problems that arise are discussed in these meetings, and bulletins are issued with instructions for teachers. The great amount of war work done in the county was largely through the organization of the county teachers and in the schools in recent years has attracted wide attention.

The reorganization of the schools on the basis of consolidation is one of the big things of the future, in the opinion of Mr. Evans, for Main and Sugarloaf townships have shown that consolidation costs are not prohibitive and that the plan works out well.

The one room school of the county have been well cared for, with few exceptions during the quarter century, but until the last few years school boards were unable to make many improvements because state appropriations were held up for months.

Erect Many Buildings

During the 25 years new buildings have been erected or existing buildings completely remodeled in Beaver, Main, Mifflin, Locust, Conyngham, Catawissa borough, Hemlock, Madison, Sugarloaf, Orangeville, Millville, Mt. Pleasant, Centre, Greenwood, Briar Creek and Stillwater, and the Benton board now is giving consideration to the erection of a new building.

Changes in the curriculum during the quarter century have been many. Introduction and placing emphasis on instruction in science, vocational training and practical work in civics have been among the changes. Vocational guidance and problems in democracy have been added to the civics course, replacing the instruction that formerly was given on the course of a bill through congress or the qualifications for a president.

The curriculum has become more practical and less theory and student participation in the work has grown to such an extent that it frequently has replaced much teacher instruction. The students have acquired the habit of learning by doing better.

Attendance Better

The attendance has increased tremendously in the last quarter century and there is almost no trouble now with the compulsory attendance law. At first much trouble was experienced because the schools were thought of as a necessary evil. Since then, however, the compulsory vaccination has also been accepted almost without difficulty, and the attitude of the people has undergone a wonderful change.

The changed curriculum has brought a decrease in the age of pupils in the higher grades, and the "big fellows" who frequently were the cause of trouble are through school before they reach the age where they cause mischief. This has come about, not through making it more interesting. When the work in the upper grades consisted merely of a review of what had gone before, time was hanging heavily on the hands of many of the pupils, and as a result they frequently were in mischief.

Throughout the schools today, the plan is to give every pupil a smattering of many kinds of knowledge, with the view to finding that for which he has a particular interest or inclination. Later this inclination can be more fully

These Snapshots Well Tell Why The Leader Store Helps Boost Bloomsbu

A Store's Spirit

Because the management of The Leader Store believes that the operation of a successful store is more than a matter of the mere sale of merchandise, there permeates this store the Deep Spirit of Service in its broadest meaning.

The Store's Aim

To be of the greatest service to the greatest number, never deviating from the fixed policy to handle only Quality Merchandise, is the unswerving aim of the management of the Leader Store.

An Anniversary Dedication

UPON the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of The Morning Press, we believe that we can in no more forceful nor appropriate manner, give the Public the plans and purposes of this great store—a real factor in the community life of Bloomsburg—than by today reprinting our "Affirmation of Store Policy," as first published in The Morning Press on October 17, 1921, soon after the present ownership of a store established in 1892, took control:

"The new ownership and new management of The Leader Store are firmly of the conviction that this section of the state has room and need for the kind of a store they are conducting now and from which they will never deviate.

"They have no gold bricks for sale, neither are they planning to give away two dollars for one. They are, however, selling and will continue to sell first-class merchandise only on as narrow a profit as it is safe to conduct business.

"When they advertise a special sale it will be a special sale, with the public having full confidence in the intrinsic value of the merchandise they have to offer. They will get in no job lots of inferior merchandise to be worked off as bargains, neither will they distort prices to give their merchandise the semblance of a big bargain when that is mere camouflage.

"They propose conducting their business just as near the Golden Rule policy as they know how.

"This does not mean they will never offer special bargains—they will, for every legitimate store finds stock accumulations at times which makes it wise business policy to abandon profits and clear the decks for more seasonable merchandise.

"This is to be a store to which you can send your children with the same perfect confidence that you shop here yourself—and that means much.

"This is also to be a store in which the very latest things are to be shown just the minute they become "the thing." Untiring energy is being placed into the work of making this all that a modern store should be, holding up, at all times, the fixed purpose of pleasing the public and making of them real friends and boosters.

"The store, long recognized as the most beautiful in Central Pennsylvania, is being re-arranged and improved so that it will be a real "homey" store—one where you will be glad to meet your friends, and one where you are always welcome, whether you purchase or not. If the management succeeds in their efforts to make it this kind of a store they will feel their efforts have been amply rewarded.

Once that necessary Plans and Specifications are firmly adopted, then a substantial foundation can be laid for the proper financing—here the picture changes—now the Architects' pencil is interpreted in a beautiful structure, it may be either Brick, Stone, or Concrete and Steel;—however, the project becomes an enterprise, fundamental with instant reaction in property values.

Of course, you Mr. Owner, in the selection of your Architect and Builder must do so in the same precise manner as you would a Physician for medical service or an Attorney for your legal adviser. In either case you depend alike, upon the skilled attention that the practitioner gives his devoted subject.

THE TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY EDITION OF THE MORNING

FIRST ORDINANCE SHOWS THE CHANGES

Many Things Requiring Regulation
Then Have Passed Out of Existence,
Such as Riding Horses on Sidewalk

Drunkenness was much more of a problem in Bloomsburg in 1870, when the town was incorporated, than it is at the present time. This is shown by the first ordinance, passed on May 13, 1870, that is devoted largely to the fixing of fines with the first one fixed being a fine not exceeding $5 for being intoxicated. Only eight were arrested on that charge in 1926.

The ordinance is a lengthy one and is made up of ten sections and almost 30 articles. While State laws and changes in the town ordinances since that time have made some changes there are parts of the first ordinance that remain in effect.

Time Brings Changes
Time has made some of the provisions useless. In this age the riding of a horse or mule on a pavement would be a curiosity that would draw a crowd but in that day it was something that had to be guarded against just as they had to guard against cows being allowed to run loose in the streets and fields of the town during the night.

The first section of the ordinance is headed "Of Offences Against Public Peace." The first article fixes a fine not exceeding $5 for drunkenness and the second article fixes a similar fine for any person convicted of fighting, disturbing the peace or assault and battery.

Any person convicted of participating in any "riot, rout, tumult or affray" could be sentenced to pay the costs and a fine not exceeding $20. This was provided in article three. The next article sets forth that "no evil disposed or disorderly persons" are permitted to assemble for all groups of more than six convicted of being disorderly would be subject to paying a fine not exceeding $2 each and the costs. The next article gives the police officer power to arrest any person for any offense set forth in the section and to take the defendant before the president of the council for a hearing.

The firing of firearms, firecrackers or town was prohibited with the offenders liable to a fine not exceeding $5. The law did not apply to officers in the performance of duty or on the Fourth of July.

Fine for Fast Driving
"All fast or furious driving and racing horses or other animals within the limits of the built-up portion of the town" was prohibited and the offender was liable to a $10 fine and costs.

"Offences Against Public Policy, Health, etc." were covered in the second section with the first article directing the removal of nuisances that might endanger the health. The article specifies that "refuse of slaughtered animals" had to be removed after notice given by a constable. A fine of not more than $10 was fixed for this.

offender liable to the same fine.

Listed under "Offences Against Public Morals," which was the fourth section, were indecent language or actions. The offender was liable to arrest without warrant and could be fined $5 and the costs.

Persons not cleaning side walks within six hours after a storm ceased could be fined $1.

Article two of this section which was headed "Concerning Pavements, Streets, etc." stated that it was unlawful to "ride, drive or lead horses, mules or wagons along and upon any sidewalk or pavement within the limits of the town." The fine did not exceed $3.

Fifty Cent Fine
The lightest fine fixed in the ordinance was for persons blocking the crossings and streets with animals or vehicles. That fine was 50 cents and the costs.

Ashes or other substances could be dumped into the streets only with the permission of council or the highway commissioner and anyone doing that without permission was subject to a $5 fine. The highway commissioner was empowered to enforce all of the laws concerning the streets and following a one day notice by him to remove an obstruction the citizen who failed to do so was liable to a $2 fine.

Building Victoria Theatre With a View to Giving High Type Entertainment

THE VICTORIA LOBBY

Always the Newest and Best
the Victoria

VICTORIA EXTERIOR

BYRON R. LINN
MANAGER

The Victoria Has For Its Policy:

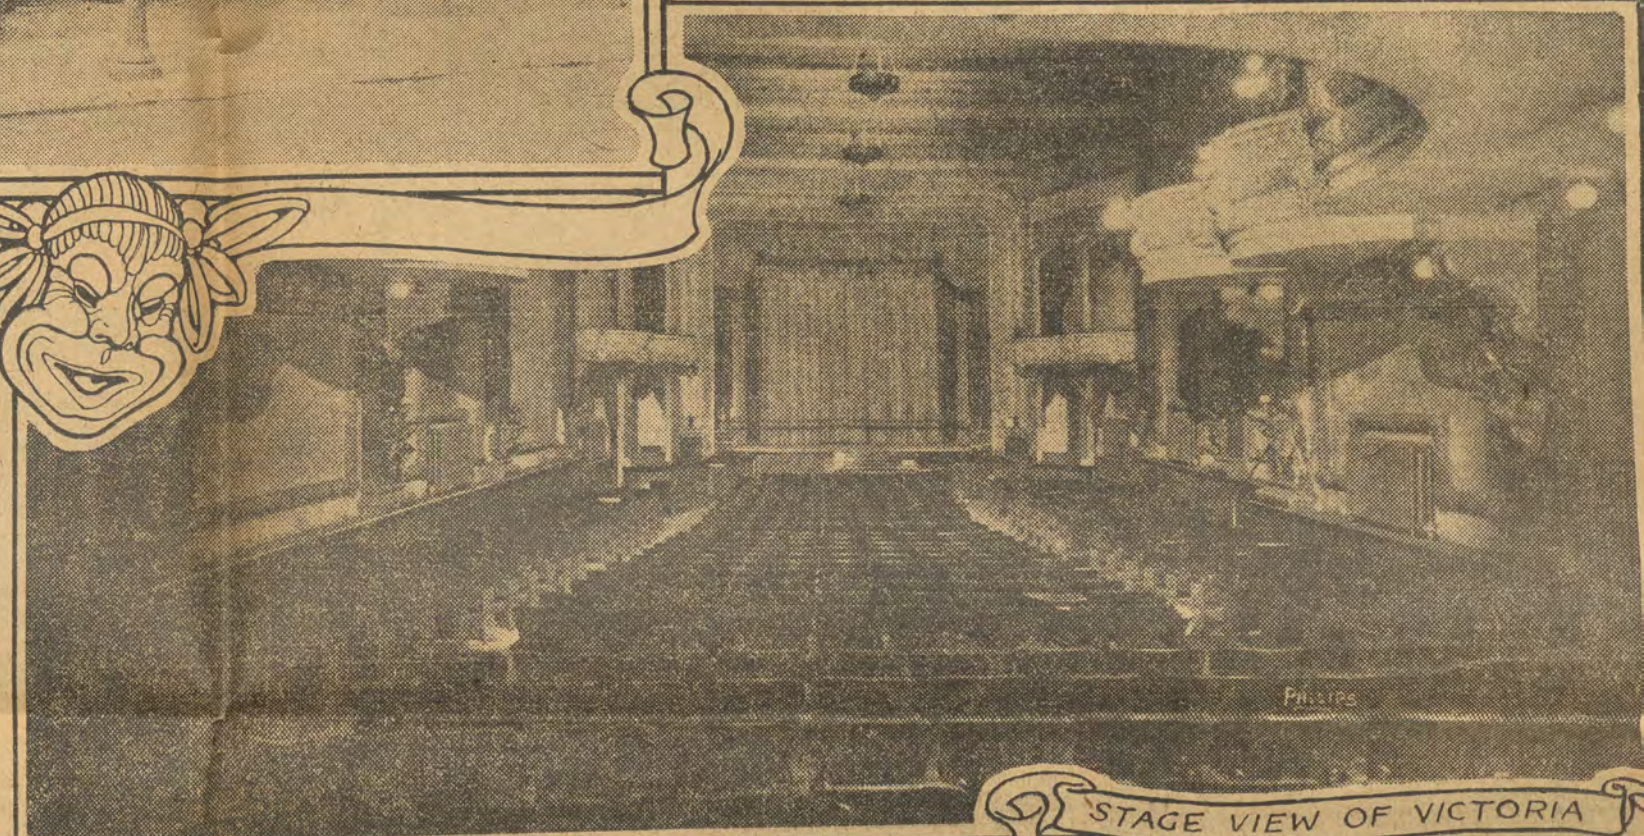

A firmly fixed belief that a motion picture house can be made, with the right direction, a real asset to a community, from every point of view.

It believes that a motion picture house, operated with an eye to the community good, rather than to the box office alone, is continuing a worthwhile effort to a community.

It believes in presenting the best pictures to the public when they are new.

The Management's Viewpoint by Byron R. Linn

"The Bloomsburg Amusement Company, operating the Victoria Theatre, stands today for absolutely the best and cleanest in motion pictures, and will continue so to stand—a place of amusement where the effort will always be made to raise the standard, and never to lower it. There is too much in life besides cold dollars to win them at the sacrifice of the better things of life. This will illustrate the point. When I first came here I found there were under contract a large number of pictures of the blood and thunder type and many that appealed to the passions. They were anything but the sort of pictures one could take pride in showing. I sounded out sentiment, and found the public responded, enthusiastically to the idea of cleaner and better pictures. I decided, with the board of directors fully concurring and giving me the strongest possible support, to completely change the type of pictures being shown."

STAGE VIEW OF VICTORIA

Building Not for the Day

IN the spirit of "the public be served" there has been developed in Bloomsburg a moving picture business that is more than a business-- rather is it an institution.

The Victoria Theatre has become such because it is a business conducted on the principle that if it deserves success, the success will come. It is a business in which there is the deep-seated realization that there rests a tremendous responsibility to the community upon the part of those responsible for its management.

It is because there is this feeling of responsibility that the public has come to have faith in it, and to realize that the Victoria is a motion picture house in which the salacious never has a place and in which there must always be staged productions to which parents may send children without hesitancy.

Because that standard has been set-- and from it there is never deviation, the public has responded and to prove its faith by deeds, for, after all, the public does want the better things and will appreciate them.

A real definite asset to the community the Victoria Theatre has become, and to become more so in the future will be the unceasing aim of the management.

Long ago we learned that if the public is given Real Service, Real Value and Real Cour-

The best evidence of the fact that all this is so, is the constantly increasing volume of busi-

We have found that the public does want the

VICTORIA THEATRE BURNS; LOSS ABOVE $200,000 IN FIRE

Reimard Building Gutted; Loss Heavy

Bloomsburg's worst fire in years this morning destroyed the Victoria Theatre, gutted the Reimard building and damaged the Harry Sharpless building on Main street, with a loss of more than $200,000. Firemen from Berwick, Danville and Catawissa aided in fighting the flames, which, for a time, threatened most of the north side of Main street from Iron to Center street.

Thousands of persons were attracted to the scene of the blaze, which broke out about 7:45 o'clock in the Victoria theatre. It is believed to have been smouldering for several hours.

Firemen who were first in the building said the theatre seemed to have caught fire almost simultaneously in front and rear, and both ends of the building were afire when the alarm sounded.

Occupants of the apartments in the Reimard and Harry Sharpless buildings moved their household goods out before the fire reached its height, and no one was seriously hurt.

The Economy Store suffered a heavy loss through water and smoke moving only their office records and office equipment. Before the fire was even under control arrangements had been made to open an office of the store in the J. L. Sharpless building at the corner of Iron and Main streets at noon.

Students on their way to the Normal School about 7:45 o'clock discovered the fire and the alarm at once was sounded. Within a few minutes the fire had spread from the theatre to the Sharpless and Reimard buildings and an appeal was sent to Berwick, Danville and Catawissa for aid.

Danville and Berwick responded with two companies each, and later, when longer ladders were needed, the Berwick companies sent down their hook and ladder truck.

Pumpers were attached on Iron street and at Main and Center streets and at one time more than 15 streams of water were playing on the blaze. The greatest difficulty was experienced in fighting the blaze in the Reimard building because of its construction. A galvanized veneer on the front was over a wooden structure, and the fire back of this veneer could not be reached.

Smoke poured from the building for several hours, and occasionally flames broke out, to be quickly smothered by a stream of water, only to break again in a new place.

Damage to the Sharpless building was confined to the rear, in an addition of frame construction. The brick walls of the front part of the store prevented that part of the building from taking fire, but in the rear the frame building soon burned through and there was some damage to stock there.

Fire lines held back the crowd from the crowd from interfering at times with even so the police were unable to keep the crowd from intruding at times with the work of the firemen. Several extra policemen were on duty in addition to the fire police.

Tenants in the apartments in the Reimard building were Edward Shaffer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sifter, the Misses Laycock, Mrs. Quinn and Luther Smith. The Meuch family had just moved out.

Several Main street business places began to move out their stock and fixtures before the fire was under control, but quickly moved it back when it was seen that the blaze would not spread.

Brick walls of the sharpless building prevented certain spread in an easterly direction, and the proof garage of Charles Reimard in the rear of the Economy store building prevented the spread of the fire in that direction.

Firemen were on the roofs of adjoining and nearby buildings throughout the morning to put out any outbreak of fire there.

The fact that there was no wind worked in the favor of the firemen and aided in preventing spread of the flames after the fire had reached its height.

Within less than an hour after the fire was discovered, the roof of the Victoria theatre had crumbled in, and part of the front had fallen into the street.

The crowd of spectators picked the sidewalk on the south side of Main street and there were a number on the roofs of the buildings across the street from the burning buildings.

Harry Sharpless and Dana Sharpless moved their household goods from the Sharpless building when the rear end caught fire from the burning theatre.

Occupants of the apartments in the Reimard building moved their belongings out quickly, much of the household goods being stored in the rear of the lot across Miller avenue.

Lines of hose were run to the fire from Center and Iron streets as well as Main, and into the rear from Ridge avenue.

There was a constant threat at the rear of the Victoria, where several small flame buildings stood. These were destroyed along with the main theatre building, and all of the time they were burning, threatened to spread the flames to adjoining frame structures.

While the fire did not reach the first floor of the Reimard building to damage the stock of the Economy Stores Company, the smoke and tons of water poured into the building caused heavy damage to the stock. Spring goods in the store swelled the stock at this season, so that the total amount of stock carried at the present time was between $25,000 and $30,000 much of which will be lost.

Residents of the apartments in the building suffered some loss due to damage to the furniture when it was being carried out, and there have been fewer hasty movements in town. Volunteers aided the apartment occupants in moving the furniture.

The Bloomsburg pumper was attached at the corner of Main and Center streets and the pumper which came down from Berwick was attached at the corner of Iron and Main streets.

Traffic was shut off Main street at East and Market, and Iron street was blocked between Main and Iron.

Hundreds of persons living out of town, hearing of the fire came here, and during the time traffic was blocked on Main street, cars were parked down Market street below Fourth, and far down West Main street while East street also held a large number of machines.

Ray Murphy, of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, was on the scene within a few minutes and cut the wires leading into the theatre. At that time, he said there was fire only in the rear of the building and that it seemed to have started back of the stage.

Members of the Hopi Indian tribe, playing at the Victoria this week, attempted to get into the theatre to save their belongings, but could not reach

LOSS WELL OVER
$200,000 TODAY
IN MAIN ST. FIRE

Estimates of losses in this morning's fire were incomplete at 11 o'clock because an inspection of the buildings had not been made, but the loss is estimated to be more than $200,000.

The Victoria theatre was appraised at $87,000, Harry Magee said, and the cost of replacing the building today would be considerably higher.

The Reimard building was valued at well over $50,000, but an estimate of the loss there could not be made. The Economy Stores Company suffered heavy loss on their stock, but the extent of this could not be determined. The store had between $25,000 and $30,000 worth of stock and carried about $15,000 insurance. Most of the furniture is a total loss.

The Sharpless hardware store suffered some loss through the destruction of part of one wall of the building and some stock in the rear of the store, but this amount is not expected to be heavy.

Supplied Extra Hose

The Magee Carpet Company supplied 12 additional sections of hose for use of the fire department during the blaze this morning. A number of employees of the company also aided in fighting the blaze.

Fed the Firemen

Coffee and sandwiches were served to all of the firemen during the morning by Bush's.

GRAPPLING THE RIVER FOR BODY OF MRS. BARNES

Disappeared From Her Home
This Morning and No
Trace Since Found

SWEATER ON PIER

Had Been in Ill Health for
Some Time, as Result of Nervous Breakdown

Mrs. Minnie Barnes, wife of Daniel Barnes, East Eighth street, is missing from her home, and the Susquehanna at the East Bloomsburg bridge, is now being grappled in an effort to find her body.

Mrs. Barnes has been in poor health for the last ten years, and for the last two weeks she had been suffering from a complete nervous breakdown. She appeared no worse Friday night, when she retired than she had been, and there was no thought in the minds of the family that the situation was more serious than it had been.

When Mr. Barnes awoke in the morning it was to find her missing. A quick search revealed the fact that some of her clothing were also missing.

Starting out to find her, Mr. Barnes found her sweater at the first pier on the Bloomsburg side of the East Bloomsburg bridge.

Examination of the river bank at the Bloomsburg shore revealed the fact that a woman had walked to the river bank and the retraced her steps. At a point closer to the bridge the footprints in the mud showed that someone had walked to the river, but those steps were no retraced.

The State Police were notified and a search is being made for her. Mrs. Barnes is 42 years of age. When she left home she wore a tan dress bearing a blue design, a dark blue tie, grey stockings and black oxfords with three black straps. She is 5 feet, 4 inches in height, and weighs 135 pounds.

Mrs. Barnes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rupert of town. She has two children, Ella and Robert, and the following brothers: William, Harry, Paul, Lester, Dewey, Peter and Robert Rupert.

Any information as to the whereabouts will be appreciated by the State Police or members of the family.

Work on grappling for the body was started shortly after 10 o'clock this morning by her nephew, Hops Rupert and others. The river is high at present, and that makes the possibility of results should the body be there, most likely.

Power was Off

Because it was necessary to cut the wires leading to the Victoria theatre, light and power was cut off from a number of Main street buildings for a time this morning.

Fire chief Yohey, of Berwick, accompanied the Berwick trucks here and assisted in fighting the fire this morning.

THE VICTORIA LOBBY

VICTORIA EXTERIOR

BYRON R. LINN
MANAGER

MAKES STATEMENT ON THE FIRE

Harry L. Magee this morning made the following statement relative to the fire at the Victoria Theatre:

"After arriving at the fire to all appearances the fire was contained in the upper story of the lobby and it was a belief of the firemen at the time that by the use of chemical it would be out in short order.

"Shortly afterward a group of men with a hose without a shut-off nozzle entered the exit door on the Sharpless side of the building with the full intention of playing the hose on the interior of the theatre when it was utterly impossible to see any blaze from this point.

"I requested the firemen to withdraw their hose and not to turn on the water at that point inasmuch as the stream was needed much more in the rear of the theatre or in the fly loft. I count remanded any action at that time on the part of playing water inside the theatre at that point for the reason that the fire was raging in the rear. I therefore feel that I have been misjudged by the rumor on the streets in which it was stated that I refused the plying of water in the theatre.

"The firemen are to be complimented in their handling of the fire and the Bloomsburg Amusement Company wishes to express its appreciation to its local firemen and the surrounding companies who so kindly lent aid.

"The Magee Carpet Company placed at the disposal of the local organization 12 sections of hose for use subject to the approval of the fire chief.

"The insurance carried on the building was $40,000 and the contents $20,000 against a valuation of actual cost of $87,000. So you can readily see I would be one of the last ones to ask for the withdrawal of aid at that time and ask at this time that this rumor be contradicted according to the above statement.

"HARRY L. MAGEE."

Turned in Alarm

Ed Tubbs, employed at the Bucka Shoe Store, turned in the alarm for this morning's fire.

Stopped Town Clock

Because of the breaking of the steel cables holding the striking weight on the town clock, the clock was stopped this morning and will not be running until a new cable is obtained.

Miles Betz, custodian of the court house, said the fire alarm operation would not be affected by the stopping of the clock.

Business at Standstill

Business along Main street was at a standstill during the fire, with many of the business men engaged as firemen and others witnessing the battle against the flames as spectators.

Trouble Breaking Glass

Firemen encountered considerable trouble breaking the glass in the windows of the Reimard building and several shots were fired at different times to break the glass.

A quarter century has brought into the service of Bloomsburg dozens of men as councilmen, for the peculiarity of its government as the only incorporated town in Pennsylvania has frequently meant wholesale changes, since the terms of all councilmen expire at the end of every two years.

ROTARY PRESIDENT

C. T. VANDERSLICE

HAS DONE MUCH IN SIX SHORT YEARS

Bloomsburg Rotary Club's Field of Service is Constantly
Widening

WAS FORMED IN 1920

Organized in the winter of 1920, the Bloomsburg Rotary Club in a little more than six years has given Bloomsburg much for which the town is thankful, and the field of service of this service club has widened constantly as its members have become more thoroughly imbued with the idea of service for others.

Dr. A. Lawrence Miller, then pastor of the First Methodist church, brought the suggestion that Bloomsburg needed a Rotary Club, and members of the Berwick and Sunbury clubs were interested in sponsoring the organization which was born in December, 1920.

The history of Rotary in Bloomsburg is practically the history of civic movements of the last six years in Bloomsburg. In the club the movement was initiated to give the Bloomsburg hospital a Christmas present which resulted in its new ambulance, new elevator and new X-ray equipment, with almost $19,000 given. In Rotary also there was born the idea that resulted in the boulevard light system, and the raising of more than $25,000 for its installation and maintenance for ten years.

Rotarians sponsored the idea that gave the town a sinking fund instead of carrying temporary loans, and Rotarians played a big part in making the Public Library campaign a success.

The club also has supported the Boy Scouts in the annual dinner of

HEADS INDUSTRY THAT HAS MEANT MUCH

For Years E. S. Stackhouse Alone Saw the Possibilities of The Salem Coal Field Near Shickshinny

Dreams do not always become realities, but they will if the dreams are based on facts, and if there be the determination and the vision to stay with them.

As an illustration of the foregoing paragraph there might be cited the experience of E. S. Stackhouse with the E. S. Stackhouse Coal Company, of Shickshinny, who succeeded where others failed, and who succeeded because he was convinced of the soundness of his judgment and because he allowed no disappointments to thwart him in his determination to develop the coal land which he now owns, and which has played a real part in recent years in the development of this part of the state.

The property now owned by him has been known as the Salem Coal Field for almost a century and the mountain which contains the coal has been known locally as Rocky Mountain on account of the bold exposures of the Pottsville conglomerate and the various sandstones of the coal measures. The Wyoming Coal basin is in the form of a crescent running from Forest City on the North to Shickshinny on the South and the striking geological feature of this section is that the run at this point cuts straight through the measures, thus making a clear exposure of the coal measures themselves, the Pottsville conglomerate, the Mauch Chunk Red Shale, the so-called Red Shale Valley on either side, while beyond this on both North and South the Pocono sandstone, the base of the carboniferous period, rears its bold escarpment, thus forming the Lee mountain on the South and the Huntington mountain on the North which towards the West join together in the Knob mountain as the measures spoon out.

and terminate at Orangeville.

The Salem Coal property has been worked from an early day. Humphrey Davenport, a pioneer blacksmith opened up many rough holes on various veins, established his forges and supplied the farmers who were venturesome, with fuel. Other parties at various times since have conducted operations on this property, notably Lewis and Clark, Nathan Beech, N. B. Crary and Jesse Beadle, until in 1866, John M. Stackhouse, the father of Edwin Stackhouse with his brother Cyrus and Charles R. Paxton, of Bloomsburg, purchased the property. They operated it until 1879 under a company known as Paddy Run Coal Company and in the fall of 1869 they leased to Lloyd Paxton and Jerry Harman, of Bloomsburg, and Charles and James Hutchinson, of Wyoming. The partnership was known as The Salem Coal Company, and operated the property from 1870 until 1887 when the plant was shut down on account of exhaustion of coal as was claimed.

Directly followed Mr. Stackhouse's graduation from Lehigh University, with the degree of Bachelor of Metallurgy, and where he also won the degree of Engineer of Mines in his post graduate course, Mr. Stackhouse entered the lumber and mercantile business. Even before he graduated, however he was convinced that the land owned by the E. S. Stackhouse Coal Company contained unworked coal. But no one else believed it. Even as a student at Lehigh he had gone over the land, studying rock formations and prospecting, and was satisfied he was on the right track.

For twenty-five years he stuck to his theory. Open fun was poked at his efforts; he was alone in his convictions.

At every turn or open opposite the land in of forced to buy, struggle he had

The Town With The Punch!

¶ Bloomsburg citizens are justly proud of their town and they want the world to know that they are. They know of no town where more consistent success attends every worthwhile community enterprise, and they realize that such enterprises are only the successes they are because of the public spirit of its citizens.

¶ They know that Bloomsburg has builded. They know that it is no boom town—up one day and down another, but that each year sees it going steadily and surely on to its ultimate destiny—a town with a real vision.

¶ They know that nowhere in the country is there a more beautiful town, with that beauty emphasized in its broad, well kept thoroughfares, lined with magnificent trees; in the pride which its citizens take in their homes and their surroundings, and in the business section, unrivaled in all Central Pennsylvania.

¶ They know that nowhere in the state is there a town that offers finer educational advantages—to provide which millions have been invested, and to maintain which almost a half million dollars is expended yearly.

¶ They know that no town is blessed with better opportunity to worship the Creator, each according to the dictates of his own conscience, for, not only is there existing a broad fellowship but there are likewise provided magnificent church homes in which further millions have been invested as proof of the fact that Bloomsburg is a church-loving town.

¶ They know that in the provision that has been taken for its public institutions the citizens have also been well blessed, with its modern hospital and public library as evidences thereof.

¶ They know, also, that no town or city is more fortunate in the magnificently appointed homes in which its fraternal organizations are housed—each a monument to the energy and ability that made possible their marvelous growth.

¶ Likewise do they know that in its diversity of industries Bloomsburg and its citizens are doubly blessed, for there never has been a time when the town has missed that hum of industry that plays such an important part in the development of any town. In the happy relations that exist between employer and employe are its citizens likewise blessed.

¶ What more—not overlooking every modern convenience which Bloomsburg had for years before it was generally adopted—could any town offer?

¶ Bloomsburg is essentially a town of home owners and home lovers. One fact that has been responsible for the happy relationships that exist in the "Parlor City of Pennsylvania" is that a large percentage of its citizens are home owners—owners who take pride in home improvement. It is a matter of comment with visitors here that Bloomsburg homes are always well painted; the flowers and shrubbery are always beautiful, and lawns well kept.

¶ Because Bloomsburg has all this and because Bloomsburg citizens want the world to know the spirit that has made Bloomsburg the real town that it is, this page is published by one who has the real interests of Bloomsburg at heart.

State House Briefs

Harrisburg, Feb. 28.—Employees in the state department of agriculture are mourning the loss of a hive of bees. The gay life which the bees led at the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial exposition coupled with the lack of natural food there caused the colony to waste away so that when it returned to the department it was unable to brave the cold weather.

The bees were taken to the exposition as a part of the department's exhibit. The colony had been housed in a hive which stood in a window in the South office building. There it grew and thrived, but city life proved too strenuous for the bees which had been used to the wide open spaces.

The board of game commissioners recently received from a Perry county sportsman the rear legs of a buck deer, each leg having two sets of feet. The extra set of feet were a trifle above the normal ones so that they apparently did not interfere with the deer's movements.

The governor's office receives many strange communications and one of the most unusual was from a woman who had found an exhausted carrier pigeon and desired to know what disposition should be made of it. A reply stated that the Governor could offer no advice other than to release the bird when it appeared normal, explaining that it undoubtedly would find its way home.

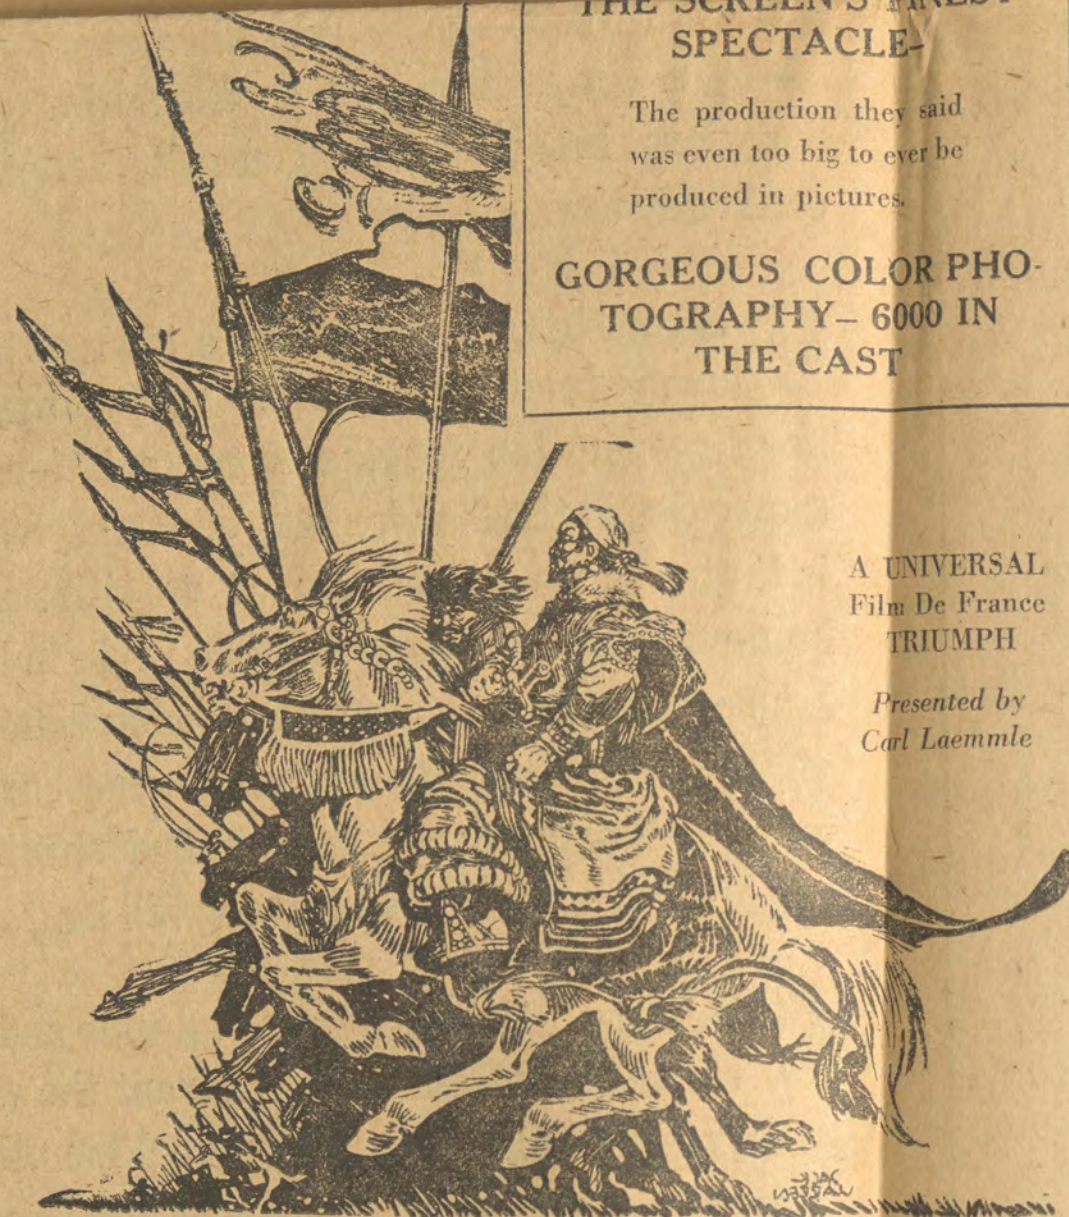

Captain W. C. Price, head of the state highway motor patrol, has returned from Raleigh, North Carolina, where he explained the Pennsylvania patrol system to state authorities who are contemplating establishment of a service similar to that in Pennsylvania. The monthly reports of the Pennsylvania patrol have disclosed that it has caused hundreds of arrests for motor law violations since its inception.

GREATEST CAMPAIGN IN HISTORY SECTION STARTS WITH A BANG

A $100,000 subscription to the Bloomsburg Hospital drive by Mrs. James Magee was the opening gun fired last night in the greatest drive in the history of this section of the state.

The 400 and more workers gathered from every county town and township from which the hospital draws its patronage cheered to the echo when chairman Willie Law, in a stirring address, said that the $200,000 had long ago been paid for by the people of the county, and that the hospital was now a part of the county's permanent resources. He then turned to the friends, William W. Evans, the commander-in-chief of the out of town forces, and all the out of town division chiefs as well as the workers, for the most remarkable demonstration of civic spirit he had ever seen.

Wholehearted Support Assured of Territory

Work has been started on the mammoth bulletin board upon which will be indicated the progress of the Bloomsburg Hospital campaign which will be launched on Monday, May 9, and which will continue until Tuesday night, May 17.

This bulletin board will be the centre of interest to thousands as the campaign progresses, for it will indicate the success that will attend each day's efforts.

As the time approaches the more nearly for the greatest civic effort ever put forward in this section of the state, the fact is the more realized that this is the one great opportunity to place the hospital beyond the problem stage.

The enthusiasm already evidenced has been remarkable. Practically everybody who has thus far been called upon to work has given an enthusiasm that has been remarkable. Never has there been a civic project advanced that has been marked by the outstanding evidence of wholehearted support. History will have been made before another month is history.

Preliminary Work for Hospital Campaign is Begun

Work will be started this week on the preparation of the cards to be used by workers in the drive for the Bloomsburg Hospital.

The fact that almost 17,000 cards must be typewritten gives the public a little idea of the tremendous volume of work involved in the forthcoming campaign.

It will not be long before the movement will begin to assume the proportions of the greatest civic undertaking ever attempted by any community in this part of the state, and another month promises to see the opening gun fired in what will undoubtedly prove a momentous week.

CHEERS OF 400 WORKERS GREET PLEA FOR HOSPITAL ON NEW SITE; MRS. JAMES MAGEE GIVES $100,000

GREATEST CAMPAIGN IN HISTORY SECTION STARTS WITH A BANG

Workers of Towns and Townships Enthusiastic as Campaign to Meet Hospital's Needs Begins

A $100,000 subscription to the Bloomsburg Hospital drive by Mrs. James Magee was the opening gun fired last night in the greatest drive in the history of this section of the state.

The 400 and more workers gathered from every county town and township from which the hospital draws its patronage cheered to the echo when chairman Willie Law, in a stirring address, declared that $300,000 had long since been forgotten as the object of this drive; that their aim should be $500,000, and that would mean the erection of a new 100-bed hospital on elevated ground and away from the low ground and noises that make the present location undesirable.

Had Great Setting

It was a night such as Central Pennsylvania has never before seen; the closing night of the campaign alone will probably see its duplication. Every last man and woman present in Caldwell cathedral, the setting for the great drive, left with the determination to give his or her utmost in the seven working days that remain until the drive is history. It was a night that saw men moved in a common cause as they have seldom been moved; it was an epochal hour in Columbia county's life history.

From the minute that Willie Law, chairman of the drive, opened the speaker until he brought it to a close, enthusiasm was the keynote.

The precepts and example of Jesus of Nazareth is at work in this twentieth century. I say that, because you men are here setting aside for a season, those interests that vitally concern yourselves, and are devoting that time to those things that vitally concern the interests of others. As men of affairs in the community, in the discussion of this problem, I desire to meet you on the ground that instinctively presents itself to your mind in every problem with which you deal in every day of your life.

"Whenever you are invited to buy goods or are induced to manufacture goods, or enter into an engagement or enterprise; the very first thing that suggests itself is: 'Is it worth while?' And that being the first thing you think about in all your business relations, I am perfectly willing that it shall be the first thing you shall think about here.

"Is this enterprise into which you are now about to launch your energies, worth while your effort and your time? Ever since the light of civilization touched the uplifted brow of humanity, there has been a spark of sympathy in man's soul for the weak and afflicted of the race, and a yearning that is some expression of it.

slam increased until it was at high tide.

Mr. Law spoke of the gratification it gave him to see such a remarkable attendance. He congratulated the county friends, William W. Evans, the commander-in-chief of the out of town forces, and all the out of town division chiefs as well as the workers, for the most remarkable demonstration of civic spirit he had ever seen.

"Long since have we lost sight of the goal of $300,000," he said. "$500,000 must be our aim. The hospital cries out for more room and more equipment. Our job must be that of helping to build an institution worthy of ourselves and the great work done there.

To Make History

"Columbia county is going to make history in this drive, and I see our job to be the raising of sufficient money to make possible a new hospital up on a hill and away from the present undesirable location."

He told of the fact that this drive was being financed without a single cent of expense; that every cent given would go directly into the building fund. He spoke of the wonderful work of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and then made an announcement that brought round another round of applause.

"I am glad to be able to state that I hold in my hand the cards signed by (Continued on page 3) venture, or industry, of the failure of those concerned when they have decided that the object of their pursuit was worthy the effort. There is an old story which has come down from the Middle Ages of an artist who had found a wonderful red color; a red which gleamed, and glowed, and burned upon his canvas.

"His fellow artists sought in vain to discover his secret, but even when they mixed their colors with rare and costly pigments, they were dull, and heavy and dead beside his. When the artist died they examined his body and found round the region of his heart a number of old puncture wounds. There was the secret of his success. He had painted his pictures with his blood.

"That, gentlemen, is the price of all real success, and if you are really inspired by the absolute need of this great work of mercy, the goal is yours."

Paul R. Eyerly, vice chairman of the campaign, followed in presenting other in phases of the campaign.

The singing got away to a wonderfully fine start under the direction of Harry S. Barton. Through the courtesy of Columbia Theatre and Homer Law Lind & Company, the latter named company of skilled musicians delighted the great crowd with their harp and violin selections. They proved themselves excellent artists.

The singing of the evening demonstrated the fact that it is again going to play a real part in the campaign. So new campaign songs were sung; the crowd caught them quickly and liked them much. The night's singing indicated that before the campaign is far along a new singing record will be broken.

Notes on the Drive

Harry L. Magee, Frank C. Edwards, Earl Crawford and others were on the job throughout the day in arranging the tables for the night, and it was a wonderful sight the tables presented. The working tables were also fully equipped. Not a detail had been overlooked. Everybody marveled at the completeness of the arrangements.

Harry J. Achenbach and Ralph Homann explained the machinery of the drive in a way that was readily understood.

CHEERS OF 400 WORKERS GREET PLEA FOR NEW HOSPITAL ON NEW SITE; MRS. JAMES MAGEE

THE TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY EDITION

CHEER PLEA FOR NEW HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ella Magee and countersigned by the Harrisburg Trust Company, for $100,000, representing her subscription to this campaign.

Cheer after cheer greeted this remarkably fine subscription, and the announcement provoked the incentive that will carry the drive on to a glorious conclusion.

Rev. S. A. Harker Speaks
Rev. Samuel A. Harker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg, sounded the slogan of the campaign in an outstanding address. Never was this gifted speaker heard to better advantage, and he held the vast audience with a grip that was not relaxed from the moment he took his feet until he closed his marvelous appeal for a worthwhile cause. He spoke as follows:

"I have been asked to come and say a few words to you upon this occasion of the launching of an effort which is for the purpose of raising funds to enlarge the usefulness of our local hospital. I am delighted to be present upon this occasion, which strikes me as being an epoch making affair; and I consider it an honor to be asked to speak to you men who are busy every day with the interests of your own life, and the maintenance of your own families.

"Without an attempt at flattery, a scene of this sort strikes me as being a demonstration of the truth, that the precepts and example of Jesus of Nazareth is at work in this twentieth century. I say that, because you men are here setting aside for a season, those interests that vitally concern yourselves, and are devoting that time to those things that vitally concern the interests of others. As men of affairs in the community, in the discussion of this problem, I desire to meet you on the ground that instinctively presents itself to your mind in every problem with which you deal in every day of your life.

"Whenever you are invited to buy goods or are induced to manufacture goods, or enter into an engagement or enterprise; the very first thing that suggests itself is: 'Is it worth while?' And that being the first thing you think about in all your business relations, I am perfectly willing that it shall be the first thing you shall think about here.

"Is this enterprise into which you are now about to launch your energies, worth while your effort and your time? Ever since the light of civilization touched the uplifted brow of humanity, there has been a spark of sympathy in man's soul for the weak and afflicted of the race, and a yearning that in some way he may assist these. But it took a long time for this instinct to develop into that deeper urge which inspired men and women to devote their whole time and the best of their thought and energy to the study of and the providing for ways and means to alleviate human ills.

"Out of this devotion has come much of lasting benefit to the race. Think of the wonderful way in which medical science has conquered, one by one, the dread diseases that formerly scourged humanity. Small-pox, which used to disfigure thousands so badly, need no longer be dreaded by those who accept Jenner's simple formula. Diphtheria has been robbed of its terrors by antitoxin. Rabies has been conquered by the researches of Pasteur.

And now, gentlemen, I ask you to consider the need of a new hospital. The old hospital, which has served us so well for so long, is now so crowded and so old that it is no longer fit for the purpose. It is a disgrace to our community, and it is a disgrace to our race. We must have a new hospital, a hospital that is fit for the purpose, a hospital that is a credit to our community, a hospital that is a credit to our race.

"A thousand times, as I have stood in the midst of such conditions, I have earnestly declared that there was not much I would not do to bring relief. I am forced to the cheek; to hush sighs and to make a little more comfortable the bed upon which lie the afflicted; does that to strike you as a thing worth while? Many centuries ago, the great lover of to humanity declared: 'I was sick and ye visited me, and in as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me.'

"There stands the Master's teaching, that wherever there is a child of need, there the Savior stands, and what is done to the one is done to the other. He is in every thirsty pilgrim on the road. He is in the sick and the pain-ridden. And that is how He often comes to us. He comes to us in human guise, and we overlook Him because He does not wear the imperial robes of a king. I tell you men, Christ looks at us through the appealing eyes of the sick and the maimed; and I ask, is it worth your while to respond to that appeal?

"The other question I propose is: Can the goal be reached; can this thing be done? Do you agree that this is a worth while object? Then I declare that this question is absurd.

"For you cannot point out a single instance in science, or discovery, or adventure, or industry, of the failure of those concerned when they have decided that the object of their pursuit was worthy the effort. There is an old story which has come down from the Middle Ages of an artist who had found a wonderful red color, a red which gleamed, and glowed, and burned upon his canvases.

"His fellow artists sought in vain to discover his secret, but even when they mixed their colors with rare and costly pigments, they were dull, and heavy and dead beside his. When the artist died they examined his body and found round the region of his heart a number of old puncture wounds. There was the secret of his success. He had painted his pictures with his blood.

"That, gentlemen, is the price of all real success, and if you are really inspired by the absolute need of this great work of mercy, the goal is yours."

Paul R. Eyerly, vice chairman of the campaign, followed in presenting other phases of the campaign.

Wholehearted Support Assured Campaign From Every Part of Territory

Work has been started on the mammoth bulletin board upon which will be indicated the progress of the Bloomsburg Hospital campaign which will be launched on Monday, May 9, and which will continue until Tuesday night, May 17.

This bulletin board will be the center of interest to thousands as the campaign progresses, for it will indicate the success that will attend each day's efforts.

As the time approaches the more nearly for the greatest civic effort ever put forward in this section of the state, the fact is the more realized that this is the one great opportunity to place the hospital beyond the problem stage.

The enthusiasm already evidenced has been remarkable. Practically everybody who has thus far been called upon to work has given an enthusiasm that has been remarkable. Never has there been a civic project advanced that has been marked by the outstanding evidence of wholehearted support.

History will have been made before another month is history.

START ON CARDS

Preliminary Work for Hospital Campaign is Begun

Work will be started this week on the preparation of the cards to be used by workers in the drive for the Bloomsburg Hospital.

The fact that almost 17,000 cards must be typewritten gives the public a little idea of the tremendous volume of work involved in the forthcoming campaign.

It will not be long before the movement will begin to assume the proportions of the greatest civic undertaking ever attempted by any community in this part of the state, and another month promises to see the opening gun fired in what will undoubtedly prove a momentous week.

TELEGRAM WISHES CAMPAIGN SUCCESS

Two Former South Side Residents Telegraph Division Manager Crimes

URGE A NEW HOSPITAL

M. J. Grimes, commander-in-chief of the South Side forces in the hospital campaign, yesterday received two telegrams wishing success to the Hospital Drive.

One came from Dr. George E. Pfahler, of Philadelphia, considered one of America's leading physicians and himself a South Side boy. It read:

"I am glad to learn that Columbia county is going to build a first class hospital. Columbia county should have one of the best hospitals that can be built. It will serve as a medical center and will help to improve medical practice throughout the county. There is nothing so important to any community as the health of its people."

It will serve as a medical center and will help to improve medical practice throughout the county. There is nothing so important to any community as the health of its people."

The guest of honor was Mrs. James Magee, whose subscription of $100,000 had made possible the campaign on its present proportions. When she was introduced the audience arose to its feet, and three lusty cheers in her honor were given, while the ladies serving the luncheon sang her favorite song. It was a most impressive scene.

Town division honors of the day went to Division D. S. J. Johnston, manager, with a total of $4,325, while the flag for out of town honors went to the South Side, and the familiar goat, given to the team taking highest honors for the day, also went out of town. It was captured by Samuel Rarig's team from Catawissa. There it will remain until some other team can take the honor from him.

BUILDING PROJECT FOR HOSPITAL TO BE STARTED SOON

Project Discussed At Annual Meeting of the Institution

HOPE START IN SPRING

Numerous Meetings of Executive Committee Held on the Plan

At yesterday's annual meeting of the Bloomsburg Hospital the status of the hospital building project was discussed, and it can be definitely stated that it is the thought of the officers of the hospital to start the building project at the earliest possible date.

There have been many things for the executive committee to take into consideration before announcement of completed plans could be made, and during the months following the campaign numerous meetings have been held to whip the project into shape.

It is expected that it will not be long before definite announcement can be made, and that building operations can be started when Spring opens up.

The remarkably fine cooperation of the public in meeting subscription payments was a matter of general comment at yesterday's meeting, and there is the confident expectation that the dream of a modern hospital for the community will become a reality in the near future.

BUILDING PROJECT FOR HOSPITAL TO BE STARTED SOON

Project Discussed At Annual Meeting of the Institution

HOPE START IN SPRING

Numerous Meetings of Executive Committee Held on the Plan

At yesterday's annual meeting of the Bloomsburg Hospital the status of the hospital building project was discussed, and it can be definitely stated that it is the thought of the officers of the hospital to start the building project at the earliest possible date.

There have been many things for the executive committee to take into consideration before announcement of completed plans could be made, and during the months following the campaign numerous meetings have been held to whip the project into shape.

It is expected that it will not be long before definite announcement can be made, and that building operations can be started when Spring opens up.

The remarkably fine cooperation of the public in meeting subscription payments was a matter of general comment at yesterday's meeting, and there is the confident expectation that the dream of a modern hospital for the community will become a reality in the near future.

HOSPITAL WORKERS IN REAL ACTIVITY

your money but more than a week of your time to this great movement. I'm wondering what is the reason. It is not commercial because there is no direct return due and I conclude that there must be two outstanding reasons and first is the humanitarian reason, alleviation of human suffering and distress and the second the economical reason of restoring to a community a man who is incapacitated by reason of sickness or accident and making him a self supporting citizen and an asset to the community.

"The Bloomsburg Hospital since its organization and up to the present time has been a wonderful institution for this town and the whole community. With its splendid staff of physicians and nurses the great work that it has done in caring for the health of the community in alleviating suffering, and healing and curing men of the accidents that seem as if they must come, in caring for the children of this community, I believe we can form no estimate.

"It is said that every man, woman and child spoken of commercially is an asset of so much value to the community. The children are to carry forward this community and their proper care and support in matters physical depends upon such institutions as the Bloomsburg Hospital.

"Let us take for a moment the humanitarian side of this question. Considered from that point increased hospital resources are absolutely necessary to care for the sick, the suffering and the distressed. Viewed from an economic standpoint when one meets with an accident and has the opportunity of hospital service to restore alleviating human suffering and the restoration of people to health and life.

"In old times when a man sat under a vine or a fig tree it was his so long as he had strength to hold it against a new comer. Then 'might was right' is a great movement in his humanitarian and economic aspects and thereby help you more than reach your goal."

Under the leadership of Harry S. C. Barton the singing was spirited, and the scenes that were enacted during the luncheon indicated that it will not be long before the interest is at fever heat. The marching of the victors of the day was only an indication of what the future will hold in store.

TELEGRAM WISHES CAMPAIGN SUCCESS

Two Former South Side Residents Telegraph Division Manager Grimes

URGE A NEW HOSPITAL

M. J. Grimes, commander-in-chief of the South Side forces in the hospital campaign, yesterday received two telegrams wishing success to the Hospital Drive.

One came from Dr. George E. Pfahler, of Philadelphia, considered one of America's leading physicians and himself a South Side boy. It read:

"I am glad to learn that Columbia county is going to build a first class hospital. Columbia county should have one of the best hospitals that can be built. It will serve as a medical center and will help to improve medical practice throughout the county. There is nothing so important to any community as the establishment of a hospital."

BUILDING PROJECT FOR HOSPITAL TO BE STARTED SOON

Project Discussed At Annual Meeting of the Institution

HOPE START IN SPRING

Numerous Meetings of Executive Committee Held on the Plan

At yesterday's annual meeting of the Bloomsburg Hospital the status of the hospital building project was discussed, and it can be definitely stated that it is the thought of the officers of the hospital to start the building project at the earliest possible date.

There have been many things for the executive committee to take into consideration before announcement of completed plans could be made, and during the months following the campaign numerous meetings have been held to whip the project into shape.

It is expected that it will not be long before definite announcement can be made, and that building operations can be started when Spring opens up.

The remarkably fine cooperation of the public in meeting subscription payments was a matter of general comment at yesterday's meeting, and there is the confident expectation that the dream of a modern hospital for the community will become a reality in the near future.

MRS. MAGEE OF HONOR, BY CROWD

Necessity for Realization of the Day; Reading of Will in Murder Case

Getting down to real business in the big Hospital Drive—that promises to make history for this section of the state—workers made their first report at the first noon day luncheon and there was rung up the first total of $114,304.20, this including the $100.00 of Mrs. James Magee.

It was a real first day in the campaign, even though the workers had practically no time in which to work the cards they had received the night before.

The guest of honor was Mrs. James Magee, whose subscription of $100.00 had made possible the campaign on its present proportions. When she was introduced the audience arose to its feet and three lusty cheers in her honor were given, while the ladies serving the luncheon sang her favorite song. It was a most impressive scene.

After the program a by the way, the familiar goat, given to Division D, S. J. Johnston, manager, with a total of $4,325, while the flag out of town honors went to the South Side, and the familiar goat, given to the team taking highest honors for day, also went out of town. It was captured by Samuel Rarig's team from Catawissa. There it will remain until some other team can take the honor from him.

Harvey A. McKillip was the speaker of the day, and he was never heard of again.

TELEGRAM WISHES CAMPAIGN SUCCESS

Two Former South Side Residents Telegraph Division Manager Grimes

URGENT A NEW HOSPITAL

M. J. Grimes, commander-in-chief of the South Side forces in the hospital campaign, yesterday received two telegrams wishing success to the Hospital Drive.

One came from Dr. George E. Pfahler, of Philadelphia, considered one of America's leading physicians and himself a South Side boy. It read:

"I am glad to learn that Columbia county is going to build a first class hospital. Columbia county should have one of the best hospitals that can be built. It will serve as a medical center and will help to improve medical practice throughout the county. There is nothing so important to any community as the establishment of a hospital."

Another telegram came from Dr. J. H. Johnson, of the South Side, who wrote: "The hospital drive is a noble and laudable one. It is a step towards the betterment of the community. I am sure it will be successful."

The telegrams were received by M. J. Grimes, who is in charge of the campaign. He is a former resident of the South Side and is now in the hospital drive to build a new hospital for the community.

BUILDING PROJECT FOR HOSPITAL TO BE STARTED SOON

Project Discussed At Annual Meeting of the Institution

HOPE START IN SPRING

Numerous Meetings of Executive Committee Held on the Plan

At yesterday's annual meeting of the Bloomsburg Hospital the status of the hospital building project was discussed, and it can be definitely stated that it is the thought of the officers of the hospital to start the building project at the earliest possible date.

There have been many talks for the executive committee to take into consideration before an announcement of completed plans could be made, and during the months following the campaign numerous meetings have been held to whip the project into shape.

It is expected that it will not be long before definite announcement can be made, and that building operations can be started when Spring opens up.

The remarkably fine cooperation of the public in meeting subscription payments was a matter of general comment at the yesterday's meeting, and there is the confident expectation that the dream of a modern hospital for the community will become a reality in the near future.

ERS DOW REATCA

MRS. MAGEE OF HONOR BY CROW

Necessity for Real By H. A. McKil The Day; R

Getting down to real business in the big Hospital Drive—that promises to make history for this section of the state—workers made their first report at the first noon day luncheon and there was rung up the first total of $114,804.20, this including the $100,000 of Mrs. James Magee.

It was a real first day in the campaign, even though the workers had practically no time in which to work the cards they had received the night before.

The guest of honor was Mrs. James Magee, whose subscription of $100,000 had made possible the campaign on present proportions. When she was introduced the audience arose to its feet and three lusty cheers in her honor were given, while the ladies serving luncheon sang her favorite song, "I am a South Side boy. It read:

"I am glad to learn that Columbia county is going to build a first class hospital. Columbia county should have one of the best hospitals that can be built. It will serve as a medical center and will help to improve medical practice throughout the county. There is nothing so important to any community as the establishment of a hospital."

After the program a luncheon was served by John Johnston, chairman of the hospital drive, and the ladies serving luncheon. The luncheon was a great success and the workers were very happy.

Harvey A. McKillip was the speaker of the day, and he was never heard from again.

List of Ladies Who Served Yesterday's Luncheon to Workers

Another exceptionally fine luncheon was provided yesterday by the Ladies' Auxiliary for the workers in the Hospital Drive.

Mrs. G. Edw. ... Mrs. W. ... Mrs. E. ... Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Lockard, Mr. Magee, Miss man Lemon, Mrs. J. P. I. and Mrs. J. ... Mrs. C. W. I. ... H. S. Maste ... Mrs. Mahlor ... Laubach, B. ... Volume XII, Number 34

ALTHOUGH Cadillac has attained such a high degree of prominence as leader in the fine car field and is the most completely satisfactory answer to the demand for fine motor car transportation, we who are engaged in merchandising the Cadillac, are apt to forget the basic reasons for its success.

Cadillac's leadership is so pronounced, its prestige so thoroughly established that we are inclined to accept this leadership without giving much thought to the fundamental factors that are responsible for it.

We are, perhaps, too close to the picture. Cadillac has been dominant for so many years that its position has ceased to be a novelty. As a result, we accept it as a natural thing. We take too much for granted. We are too prone to assume that, of course, everyone knows Cadillac as we do.

If we get in this attitude of mind we fail to tell the Cadillac story in the right way and consequently we

In order, therefore, that we may clearly understand the things that have made Cadillac, and that keep it in its enviable position of leadership, it is well for us occasionally to refresh our memories by examining the factors that contribute to Cadillac's success. For it is only by dwelling constantly on these things and by continually remembering that not all prospects know Cadillac as we know it, that we are able to tell the Cadillac story in the right way.

This is the first of a series of articles in which we will briefly review the salient facts of Cadillac's history and Cadillac value. By following these articles and becoming familiar with the more important parts of the Cadillac story, everyone engaged in selling Cadillac cars will be in a much better position to present Cadillac in a more convincing manner.

For this series we have drawn up the following which we are calling the Cadillac Sales Platform:

The object of our efforts is to sell Cadillac cars. This should be accomplished by selling the following idea:

1. 25 years of building fine motor cars.
2. Cadillac's ability to sense, and thereby anticipate, not only what the public wants in fine car transportation but also what the public needs.
3. 14 years' concentration on the one best type of eight-cylinder engine.
4. The advantages that result from the Cadillac principle of engine design—unequalled performance; simplicity; flexibility; smoothness; long life; freedom from trouble; dependability.
5. Beauty, variety, luxury, comfort, distinction and prestige of Cadillac cars.
6. Records of success.
7. Distributing organization.
8. Service facilities.
9. General Motors Connections.

We will take up these points one by one, and elaborate on them in subsequent issues of the CLEARING HOUSE.

Sales And Service—The activities that are so apparent in the Service Department at the factory, and the increasing of its staff to cope with the work entailed by the introduction of the new Cadillac Standard Service Policy are evidence of the importance which is attached to service in the merchandising of Cadillac.

For service in its reaction on actual sales, is being more and more stressed as its influence on repeat business is becoming realized.

THE CADILLAC ORGANIZATION accepts under the new policy an obligation to assure the users of its product maximum service while the car is in their hands.

It is accepted that it is not sufficient to build the car but the car must be kept serviced. In other words, the company ranks service of equal importance with production.

That service is not being unduly stressed is confirmed by the fact that nearly three-fourths of Cadillac new car sales are to former owners and friends of former owners.

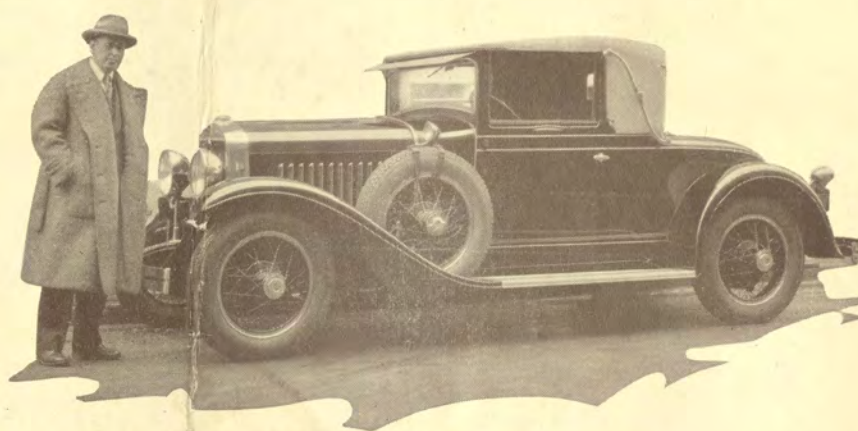

These sales have been made because the customers have been kept satisfied—for a satisfied owner never complains.

WE ALL HAVE heard cases of service work being performed in a faulty manner, necessitating the car being brought back for more attention; of customers' cars being damaged or soiled by careless workmen; of service work being unnecessarily delayed by lack of spare parts or proper tools; or of promises that were never kept. But this list could be extended indefinitely.

All of these annoyances are responsible for loss of good will on the part of the Cadillac owner, and good will once lost is hard to regain.

THE FACTORY has formulated the New Service Policy with the definite idea of creating a still bigger market for Cadillac sales and the success of the policy will rest in the hands of those who have actual customer contacts.

If the distributing organization will co-operate with the factory and apply the policy as it is intended to be applied, the effect on sales will become quickly apparent.

No sounder judge of what a car should be and do is known than "Tommy" Milton, world-renowned racing driver. It is significant that he was one of the first to own a LaSalle. He is shown with his new car in the picture above, when taking delivery at the plant.

Check Up On These Sources of Prospects!

SPRING BUSINESS with its usual increase in sales is commencing, and it is timely and advisable, therefore, to take stock of all potential sources from which further sales may be secured.

The sources of prospects summarized below, though obvious, are none the less valuable, and it behooves all Cadillac salesmen to check up on these points to see that nowhere are sales being lost through lack of concentration on, and contact with, these possible prospects.

First: Cadillac owners are proud of their cars. They talk to friends about their cars. Get them to give you the names of their friends who are interested in Cadillac or in a new car of the same or medium priced class.

Second: Use city directories and telephone books from which to compile lists of possible prospects, particular attention being given to the professional, executive and higher salaried business men.

Third: A good many of the business people with whom you deal may be possible prospects for Cadillac. Have you thought of your own doctor, lawyer or attorney? Have you given much business recently to realtors or insurance companies? Possibly they will see the fairness of reciprocating business.

Fourth: Watch the newspaper columns and know when people have money to spend—when legacies are left, property sold, promotions won. Many live prospects may be found in this way.

Fifth: Service stations can tell you what people are having trouble with their cars or who are dissatisfied with their present cars. It pays to cultivate good will with garage folk. People who have had "smash-ups" are first-class prospects.

Sixth: Extend your acquaintance through clubs and similar organizations possessing members capable of owning fine cars. You will certainly increase the number of your prospects in this way.

Having checked up on these sources, the volume of business will depend on the persistency of the canvass, the enthusiasm with which the Cadillac is presented plus the frequency of the contacts.

This two-passenger Convertible Coupe, equipped with a full-size machine gun, protects the large payroll of the MaGee Carpet Works, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Obtaining Good Will in Handling Cadillac Parts

IN FURTHER connection with the actual sale of Cadillac parts to independent garages, the Newark Branch of the Upper Cadillac Corporation sends a man, selected for his personality, to contact in their territory.

He looks and dresses the part of a thoroughly high grade man and drives up to the independent garage in a new Cadillac, telling the garage owner that he is handling parts for Cadillac cars.

The garage man is then asked to take a ride in the new Cadillac so as to feel and appreciate just what kind of car to which he is giving service. The car is always a new one and in the very best of condition.

In this way two thousand six hundred contacts have been made so far and it has been found a valuable method of creating good will and promoting sales.

GMCOverseasDevelopment

THE GENERAL MOTORS Corporation is continuing the policy of developing its overseas business by building in the most substantial manner possible and by making itself a real factor in the industrial life of each country served.

In line with this policy, new operations were established during the year 1926, as follows:

Five assembly plants were installed in Australia at Adelaide, Brisbane, Melbourne, Perth and Sydney; an assembly plant was installed at Montevideo, Uruguay; a warehousing operation was started in Alexandria, Egypt; and new assembly operations have been authorized at Osaka, Japan; Batavia, Java; and Stockholm, Sweden.

Machine Gun Is Mounted on Cadillac Convertible Coupe

THE FIRST CADILLAC to be mounted successfully with a full-sized machine gun is that owned by Harry L. MaGee, Bloomsburg, Pa., which is used for protecting the large payroll of the MaGee Carpet Works when being conveyed from the bank.

Capable of firing six hundred and fifty steel shells per minute, the gun is a new Marlin Automatic and is mounted on a carrier specially designed by Mr. MaGee.

The car is a two-passenger Convertible Coupe. Persons interested in mounting a similar type gun on a convertible coupe may procure blueprints of the carrier by application to Mr. MaGee.

You may know your own business if you don't advertise—but nobody else will!

This Cadillac Phaeton was recently delivered to Roger Rhinehart of Charlottesville, Virginia, and is the twenty-third Cadillac sold by E. L. Thurston, salesman for the Jones Motor Car Co., Inc., Richmond, Virginia, to the Rhinehart family in the last eleven years. Within the last four months this family has bought five new model 314's

"Ask Me Another"—A Questionnaire on LaSalle

WITH THE object of enabling salesmen to become thoroughly familiar with the outstanding features of the LaSalle car, in issues of the CLEARING HOUSE a series of questions and answers compiled by the Service Department will be run.

Salesmen are advised to make a weekly practice of checking up on these questions for only by a sound understanding of the car they are selling can they hope to present LaSalle to the prospect in the right manner.

Here is the first set of questions:

Gasoline System
Ques. 1—How may the LaSalle gasoline system be described?

Ans.—As a "Dual" Vacuum System.

Ques. 2—How does this differ from the usual vacuum feed as applied to other cars?

Ans.—The LaSalle system has a vacuum pump which supplements the vacuum of the intake header.

Ques. 3—Why is a vacuum pump necessary?

Ans.—Because the vacuum of the intake, which on most cars is depended upon to feed the fuel, is not uniform under all conditions. At wide open throttle, when the fuel consumption is at its maximum, the vacuum of the intake is at its minimum.

The ordinary vacuum system, therefore, fails to supply an adequate amount of fuel when the throttle is held open continuously either for high speed or hill climbing.

The LaSalle vacuum pump on the other hand gives its maximum vacuum at high speeds and, therefore, insures adequate flow of fuel under all conditions even at the highest speeds and on the longest hills.

Ques. 4—What type of pump is the vacuum pump and how is it driven?

Ans.—The vacuum pump is a simple plunger pump, similar to the gasoline pressure pump on 314 cars. It is driven by an eccentric on the rear end of the camshaft.

Ques. 5—Does the vacuum pump affect the operation of the windshield cleaner?

Ans.—No. The windshield cleaner is operated only by the vacuum of the intake header the same as on Cadillac cars.

NEW BOILER PLANT AT CARPET MILL PUT IN OPERATION

AUTOMATIC OPERATION

One Man Handles Coal and Ashes With Automatic
Conveying System

Following several months of intensive construction work, The Magee Carpet Company yesterday placed its new boiler plant in operation.

In the presence of officials of the company and representatives of the architects and engineers, The Ballinger Company, the steam was admitted through the lines to the mill by the opening of the valve controlling the admission of steam, by president Willie Law. At the same time the whistle was blown by Harry L. Magee, thereby marking the time when the old power plant went out of existence by the banking of the fires.

With the completion of this modern plant, which is capable of producing 2,400 horse power, with provision for 1,200 additional horse power when future installation is desired, the company is now in a position to make further expansion as ample power is available for increased production.

Not without interest is the fact that the new plant will be operated by one man on each shift. The coal and ashes are handled automatically by conveyors and the water and steam are likewise controlled by automatic devices.

The various contractors on the job were building construction, The Dresser Company; boiler, Edge Moor Iron Company; ash and coal conveyors, Link Belt Company; chimney, Alphans Custodes Chimney Corporation; furnace arches, M. H. Dierich Company; piping, equipment and plumbing, Walter W. Muench; boiler setting, H. Vincent Charles; stokers and forced draft equipment, Combustion Engineering Corporation.

The basement wall, boiler room floor and boiler foundation are of reinforced concrete. The building from the boiler room floor to the roof is of steel and brick. The building houses two 640 h. p. Edge Moor boilers. These boilers are equipped with M. H. Dierich arches, especially designed for the burning of river coal; Cox chain grate stokers and forced draft fans. The forced draft fans and stokers are operated either with electricity or steam turbine.

The coal handling equipment consists of a track hopper for receiving coal, apron conveyor for conveying the coal from the hopper to a continuous bucket conveyor which carries the coal to overhead bunkers. The coal is taken from which automatically weighs the contents and then dumps them into stoker hoppers at the boilers. The ashes are handled by the same bucket conveyor as used for the coal, dumping the ashes into an overhead ash hopper and delivered to either freight cars or trucks by chutes. The boilers are regulated by an automatic combustion control system which controls the speed of the stokers, forced draft fans, etc.

FORMER DIRECTOR MAGEE 4-8-27 CARPET COMPANY DIES

Abraham Portenbaugh, of Harrisburg, for some years a director of the Magee Carpet Company here, died at an illness in Harrisburg this week after a long illness. Mr. Portenbaugh was a member of the state legislature for several terms and was the last president of the Halifax bank. He had resided in Harrisburg since his retirement. Mr. Portenbaugh was 59 years of age and is survived by his wife, two daughters and a son.

Large New Theatre Rumored; Considering Three Sites

A conference was held yesterday between M. E. Comerford, head of the Comerford chain of theatres, and the officers of the Bloomsburg Amusement Company, owners of the Victoria theatre.

There is no question but that the theatre situation was discussed, but there was none to speak with authority who would state definitely whether an amalgamation of interests or sale had been effected or was in process of being effected.

It is persistently rumored that the Comerford interests have under consideration three sites for a proposed large new theatre. These are the Central hotel property, the Dr. T. C. Harter property on East street and the Cathcart property on Market street.

It is understood that the next few days will see something definite develop in the local theatre situation.

CARPET OPENING

Local Men Attending Opening in New York This Week

Chief interest in Bloomsburg this week centers in the results of the carpet opening in New York City, when there is determined, in large measure, the prospect for business with the Magee Carpet Company during the coming six months.

W. Law, president of the company, and Harry Magee, the secretary, left last night for New York, and today F. C. Edwards, James Law and A. F. McCollum, Marcus Harlem and Arthur Naylor leave to be in attendance during the remainder of the week. W. G. Lentz, of the sales force, has been there since Sunday.

The company has an unusually fine selection of patterns to be displayed at the opening this spring.

FULL AMOUNT PAID FOR BLOOMSBURG PARK WITHOUT ANY DRIVE

Title to The Park Land of 14 Acres At Foot Market Street To Be Taken
In Few Days

Without any public drive and quietly, thirty public spirited Bloomsburg citizens or interests have contributed $250 each toward the purchase price of Bloomsburg's proposed public park.

The full amount required, $7,500, has been subscribed and paid in, and within a few days title to the park will be taken.

The title will probably be taken in the names of a number of the town citizens, acting possibly in the capacity of a park commission, and it will likely not be long before some actual work is done toward developing the scheme that will eventually give Bloomsburg a magnificent park.

There is no thought of going before the public at this time, but there is sufficient interest in the movement to make possible a start which will come through the widening of the culvert over Market street to the full width of the street. This will be started this summer, and there will also be started the work of filling in needed places.

"Now that our strenuous labors have been so successfully completed, I turn the results over to you as president of the Bloomsburg hospital, and also to the management of same, knowing that you will remember the self-sacrifice of all these men, in obtaining these wonderful results; and that your stewardship and administration will be to administer, build, equip on the most economical lines, consistent with efficiency and that you will surround yourself with men, who are well qualified to advise and give their assistance in the building and equipment, whether it be a new building or additions to the old building."

EXPECT TOTAL WILL REACH $400,000 WHEN ALL IS IN

WORKERS IN JOYOUS CELEBRATION AT END HISTORY MAKING DRIVE

450 Workers And Many Spectators Witness Remarkable Close of Region's Greatest Civic Campaign

When $382,273.91 was announced last night as the grand total in the Hospital Drive, history was made. That magnificent total which is confidently expected will go beyond the $400,000 mark as the tag ends of the campaign are brought in and as the outlying districts complete their work, sets a new record for drives in communities of similar size. It did far more than that—an even greater thing; it has brought the communities of Columbia county together as they have never been and has given birth to a spirit that will send Columbia county far.

A scene such as that presented at the climax of the drive was one that can never be forgotten. This section has never seen one like it; years may pass before it can be duplicated. Four hundred and fifty workers, representing the greater part of Columbia county, were there, as were hundreds of spectators and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. There was a realization that something would happen. And something was happening from the time the High School Band opened up with a march until the big street parade climaxed the historic night.

Setting for Celebration

The setting indicated plans had been made for a celebration. Division C's table was adorned with stockings placed over the standards indicating the location of the team captains. Division D Carried a banner "Low Division in Town But We'll Grow Up." Babies' bottles filled with milk and adorned with nipples took the places on the team standards.

As the workers gathered it was to be observed that the tables for the South Side and for Division B were vacant. That indicated something to the close observer. The something quickly began to happen.

South Side Celebrates

As a dirge was played in filed the record-breaking South Side delegation which has played such a prominent part in the campaign throughout. At their head "Bud" Grimes marched with a banner proclaiming: "We've buried the Misanthropists from the South Side."

TENSION WAS RELAXING

The noon day meeting yesterday was one that also will not soon be forgotten for it marked the high tide in the history making campaign and it was a spirit of determination that can only be evidenced in the last day of a drive and especially this drive.

The noonday report from the teams produced the magnificent total of $42,998.19, sending the campaign to $28,465.16, and it then saw everybody striving himself for the gruelling last hours of the fight.

It was a memorable meeting. Everybody realized that the break had come in the campaign. The high school orchestra was on hand to furnish a fine program of music under the direction of W. Clair Hower. The singing was spirited. Quartets vied for honors against each other. The terrific strain of the last few days was gradually being released.

Announcement of the outstanding work of the teams was greeted by cheers that swept the hall.

It was a gala day.

Chairman Law expressed the debt owing the workers for their loyalty and faithfulness and to the Ladies' Auxiliary for the magnificent way in which the ladies of that organization had functioned. Everybody was smiling; everybody was happy.

Division A captured the honors of the day and proudly marched with the flag, while Herman White's team captured the goat, with $7,513. There were big doings and a great time. The out of town honors for the day remained with the Mount-Hemlock-Mount Pleasant division.

The returns from the various divisions for the meeting were as follows:

Division A, $15,231.
Division B, $88,943.
Division C, $9,047.50.
Division D, $7,682.60.
Division G, $1,052.

SITE NOT SELECTED

Owners Bloomsburg Amusement Company to Retire From Motion Picture Business

Work will be started today on clearing the ruins on the site of the Victoria theatre preparatory to the erection there of a new theatre by the Comerford interests, it was announced last night.

The site was purchased from the Bloomsburg Amusement Company by the Comerford interests some time ago, and there have been several sites under consideration, but final decision has been reached to utilize the site of the former theatre.

The new theatre, it was stated, will be considerably larger than was the Victoria, and work on it will be started as soon as the debris from the fire has been removed.

At the same time announcement was made that C. M. Southwell, who has been manager of the New Columbia Theatre here since it opened under the Comerford management three years ago last Thanksgiving, will leave next week for Honesdale, where he will become manager of a theatre seating 1100 persons. The new position comes as a promotion to Mr. Southwell, and his departure from town will be regretted by many who have come to know him favorably since he has resided in Bloomsburg.

It was also announced that Byron R. Linn, former manager of the Victoria, would assume the management of the New Columbia on the departure of Mr. Southwell, and will be in charge of the erection of the new theatre.

The many friends of Mr. Linn will be glad to know that he is remaining in Bloomsburg, for since coming to town two years ago he made for himself a real place in the town.

There was consummated yesterday the sale of the Victoria theatre lot to M. E. Comerford, owner of the New Columbia theatre, for $25,000 cash.

This sale means that the Victoria theatre will not be rebuilt and those identified with the ownership of the Bloomsburg Amusement Company will retire from the motion picture business in Bloomsburg.

Coincident with that announcement comes the announcement that the Comerford interests will erect a new and modern theatre in Bloomsburg, and one that will have a seating capacity of 1,500.

In addition to the sites previously mentioned as being under consideration it is stated that a fourth location has been taken under consideration. It is expected a decision will be reached in the very near future.

The Victoria will not pass without town regret, for it has long played a part in Bloomsburg's entertainment. Erected by L. J. Chamberlain in 1914 it was the finest theatre in this section when it was opened. Operated by the Chamberlain interests for some years it was later purchased by the Bloomsburg Amusement Company, and owned locally.

Under the regime of Byron R. Linn as manager the house went steadily forward in popularity and at no time in its history was it more in public favor than when it was destroyed by fire. After the building had been fireswept there came a general realization of just what it meant to the community and the real work that had been done in the last few years to make it a centre of high class presentations.

There will be the general hope that Mr. Linn may find some field locally in which to use his outstanding ability. No young man ever come to town as a stranger and more firmly established himself with the citizens of the town. In all community undertakings he has always been willing to carry more than his share of the burden. It was his initiative that largely made possible the Sunday afternoon meetings in the Victoria last winter.

The fact that the theatre interests of the town now rest in the hands of Mr. Comerford will undoubtedly mean a fine theatre for Bloomsburg. He has the reputation of doing big things in a big way, and the local situation, with the wide territory from which to draw will undoubtedly offer an attractive avenue for his genius and for the creation of another beautiful amusement centre to bear the Comerford name. He has long realized that his present location is entirely inadequate, and something big may be expected in the near future.

American Legion's Plan

Bloomsburg is to have a modern new theatre on a Main street site to be erected by the Valley of Bloomsburg Post of the American Legion.

Announcement of the Legion's plans for the construction of a building was made last night, after four weeks' exhaustive study of the situation by a committee.

Every phase of the question has been considered by the committee, it was stated, and there remains alone the announcement of the site for the theatre. A tentative site has been selected, but negotiations for it have not been concluded, and a definite announcement is expected in the next few days.

Under plans of the Legion post, the theatre will take place of the new home project which had been under consideration likely will be provided in the building.

Preliminary plans already have been obtained from an architect for the theatre building. These plans, it was stated last night, contemplate the construction of a theatre with an entrance on Main street, and with three store rooms will go a long way toward paying the interest on bonds, which will be

Work on the theatre problem was begun by a committee of the Legion about four weeks ago, and the plans were formulated rapidly. Last Friday night the committee presented its report at a meeting of the Legion and was received enthusiastically, but public announcement of the project was withheld for several days by the committee in the hope that the negotiations for a site would be concluded before the first public announcement was made.

Plans call for the construction of a ground floor theatre with a seating capacity of between 1,300 and 1,500 with no balcony.

The theatre will be located in the rear of the store rooms which front on Main street, with an entrance to the theatre from the Main street on the site which is under consideration.

It is also planned to have club rooms for the legion above the stores.

Members of the Legion are enthusiastic over the proposition and with the negotiations for a site expected to be concluded within a few days, active work is expected to start within a short time.

Roast Lamb
Mint Sauce
New Peas
Creamed New Potatoes
Parker House Rolls
Orange Sherbet
Fresh Fruit Salad with Whipped Cream

All of the cottages at Arbutus Park were filled with guests over the weekend. Sports were enjoyed and early Monday morning there was a fireworks display given by Harry L. Yesterday morning there was a ball game while many other sports were enjoyed.

Work on the theatre problem was begun by a committee of the Legion about four weeks ago, and the plans were formulated rapidly. Last Friday night the committee presented its report at a meeting of the Legion and was received enthusiastically, but public announcement of the project was withheld for several days by the committee in the hope that the negotiations for a site would be concluded before the first public announcement was made.

Plans call for the construction of a ground floor theatre with a seating capacity of between 1,300 and 1,500 with no balcony.

The theatre will be located in the rear of the store rooms which front on Main street, with an entrance to the theatre from the Main street on the site which is under consideration.

It is also planned to have club rooms for the legion above the stores.

Members of the Legion are enthusiastic over the proposition and with the negotiations for a site expected to be concluded within a few days, active work is expected to start within a short time.

All of the cottages at Arbutus Park were filled with guests over the weekend. Sports were enjoyed and early Monday morning there was a fire works display given by Harry L. At the rectory of St. Columba church at eight o'clock yesterday there was a record you have helped to make this year. This is your record, not ours. "The trade in general cannot understand how we have been able to operate at 100 per cent during the past year, and especially during the present year, 1927, when statistics show that the average operation of the carpet industry has only been 68 per cent. Of course there have been times when we were afraid we would have to cut down on shorter hours too, for our stock rooms and the Magee Garage warehouses were stocked up so that we hardly knew where or how to put more in. It required a lot of nerve and optimism to do this but our sales department was on its toes. The results you all know, and proved that if we made our goods right, our salesmen were able and will be able to distribute all we make.

"Of course we run up against snags which are good for us at times, but then if we just remember that it is 'easy enough to be pleasant when things go along like a song. But the man worth while, is the man with a smile, when everything goes dead wrong.' And this is the way to get over difficulties. Also remember when things are not going just as smooth as you would like them to go, that there are others who are worrying, too. Get together. Help and suggest means to your foreman—changes that will eliminate trouble, expense and waste. Cut down cost, remember this is the only way the company can hope to continue to hold its own.

"The early part of the year business was fairly good, and at the opening in April, notwithstanding the fact that Smith sold at auction 144,000 bales of rugs and carpets, our business was not affected. We went right along steadily through April, May and June, slacked up a little in July, but went ahead again in August and September. Then came the October opening, with 94,000 bales at auction, which were readily absorbed at market prices. We had good business again through October and, in November, until another Auction for 93,000 bales was advertised to open Dec. 5th. This was rather a knock-out, and put a check on business at once. You have often heard the remark 'Blue Monday'. Well, Monday December 5th, was as blue as indigo. The week previous several manufacturers had advertised so-called drop patterns at 20 per cent off the list. Naturally, at the opening of the sale Monday morning, every one was looking for low prices, and they got them. 20 to 25 per cent off the October prices, losing from $1 to $8 a rug. Tuesday more buyers were at the sale and Wednesday still more, so that prices were a little better, but every sales office was like a morgue—no customers, no sales and even no visitors. So we had to sit around all day with nothing to do except wait for reports from the auction room. The sale closed Friday with prices going back to October list, but only guaranteed to March 1st, which means that the opening will be a month earlier and with another auction. However, we are not pessimistic, and believe we will have all the business that we can handle until that time. Of course, 1928 is a Presidential year, but from reports we get from financial centers, and indicated by the President's speech to Congress, 1928 should be a prosperous year.

"During the present year several carpet concerns have reduced wages. It is reported Smith's have passed up their employee's bonus the first in many years, and in addition to this, have reduced wages and salaries 10 per cent.

"Sanford's have only been operating about half time. John Gay's & Sons have liquidated and gone out of business, caused by the radical actions of the Union headed by men like Breen who was here several years ago. There are quite a number of changes taking place in the carpet industry, as, like most other textile industries, there has been too much production for the demand.

"There is no mistaking the fact that the tendency is for lower prices. If commodities become cheaper and lower, then raw material and labor will certainly have to come down too. One cannot come down without the other, except by more efficient management and machinery so that there are 3 factors entering into costs:—1st, raw material; 2nd, labor; 3rd, load or overhead expense. There are also 3 factors to offset the above—1st, efficiency and production; 2nd, economy, cutting down waste eliminating seconds. 3rd, good quality, and good work enabling us to give a customer good salable values for his money.

"You are the ones we have to rely on to give us the above results.

"There is one factor to be regretted, however, although working conditions and living conditions have improved, a good many of you are apparently not providing for the day when work and wages will not be as good as they are at this time. Any business that is conducted without making provision for reserve and surplus, to take care of adverse conditions, is committing a business suicide and sooner or later will find itself in a very bad position. This same condition holds good for individuals and families. We have made up and given you several budget systems on your pay envelopes, which I know, if you tried for a year, you would continue to use.

"You have a Beneficial Assn. of which 833 are members out of 1200. The dues in this Assn. are only 10 cents per week or 40 cents per month, and you receive the same benefits as are received by outside associations which cost 60 cents per month. This association is entirely your own, and all dues, profits from the candy wagons, and the Cafeteria, fines, etc., go for your own benefit.

"The First Aid Dept. is a big asset to your Assn. and also to the Company. This Department is kept as busy as a beehive. During 1927, to date, the nurse has treated 5209 inside patients, and visited 1322 outside, or a total of 6531, which is an average of 18 per day, counting Sundays.

"Eight of our number have passed to the great Unknown Country from whence no traveler returns. They were: February 5th, James Rauch; April 5th, Charles Welliver; May 12th, the lowest being $300 and the highest being $1502. The same company has also paid 3 permanent disability policies, $704, $52, $1439 or a total of $2995. Again the above figures stand as a testimony to the memory of James Magee, the founder of this company, when he had the vision of putting this group insurance into effect.

"Now, we come to the Employees Savings Account. I don't understand why more of you are not taking advantage of this. Understand, this is no loss of 2 per cent; we deposit the money in the Bank at 3 per cent, and the company adds 2 per cent. You might ask why we do it because we know that a man or woman who saves a part of his or her earnings makes a better and more reliable employee. Out of 1200 employees, only about 135 are taking advantage of this savings fund. The deposits to date amount to $50,440. There have been several thousand dollars withdrawn for the purpose of purchasing homes—during the past year twelve have over $1,000 saved and 3 have over $2,000 saved. These are drawing respectively $50 and $100 a year interest, so you see their money is working night and day for them.

"Better still than savings fund, is the Building and Loan Assn. This pays 6 per cent compounded annually. For instance, you pay $5 per month for 11 years, paying in about $665 and you draw out $1,000. Your money is absolutely safe and if necessary can be withdrawn plus 6 per cent interest. Out of 1200 employees about 140 are taking advantage of one of the greatest saving and home building propositions in the world. The value today of the 1579 shares of stock owned by 140 shareholders is $73,152.00, all invested and as safe as the fact that water runs down hill. If these shares are continued to maturity, they will amount to $282,500. The present withdrawal value of a good many of the shares is $1,000, $2,000, $3,000, $4,000 and $5,000. And you might be sure they know the benefit derived from Building & Loan Stock, and there are hundreds of thousands doing the same thing throughout Pennsylvania alone. It is the surest and safest saving proposition known to man. You could readily save $5 a month and never miss it, if you didn't get it in your pay envelope. This doesn't benefit the company in any way, except as stated in the case of Savings Accounts, and that is, making better employees.

"There is one activity in The Magee Carpet Co. that is very gratifying and that is that 428 of you have taken out a Budget Insurance, totaling $588,000. This shows your good foresight and good judgment. I am very glad to say there has only been one claim made on this insurance, that of Harley Steinruck. He was paid $90 disability before he died, and his beneficiary received $1,096.71. All he paid in premiums prior to death was $24.08. Any number of you are already receiving dividends and I hope you will continue your insurance or increase the amount.

"I was very much interested in going over the personal record of company employment with the Magee Carpet Company and found that 3 men have worked for the company 35 years or more; 11, 30 to 35 years; 18, 25 to 30 years; 37, 20 to 25 years; 46, 15 to 20 years; 67, 10 to 15 years; 381, 5 to 10 years; 119, 4 to 5 years; 123, 3 to 4 years; 158, 2 to 3 years; 92, 1 to 2 years; 158 have come in the last year. This is a wonderful record and I hope it will improve as the years go by. Of all the labor turnover reports we get, ours is the lowest, and most favorable. "A good many of you remember the labor agitator Breen, who was in Bloomsburg during the Fall of 1919, and who tried every possible way to organize and affiliate the Magee Carpet Company with the Philadelphia Tapestry Weaver's Union. You know some of us worked night and day to prevent this, knowing from experience that it was not good for either The Magee Carpet Company or the town of Bloomsburg. Some of you remember the day when, as a final climax, they distributed hand bills declaring a strike. About half past eleven, if you remember, I spoke in the Printing Department, Setting Department and Weaving Department, appealing to your loyalty to stand by the firm. I told you that if you stood by us at that time, we would try and take care of your interests in the future. I think I can say without fear of contradiction that we have done our part. The men who left us were discharged. A good many of them went down to Gay's and helped put them out of business, and if they had succeeded in organizing you, we would very likely be either out of the business or running like Sanford's, who were organized at the same time.

"I was telling a party several weeks ago that it was reported Smith was passing up on their bonus and had also reduced wages and salaries 10 per cent. He said 'This will give you a good excuse to pass up your bonus now.' I told him we weren't looking for an excuse to pass up your bonus now. I when the time came to pass it up, but that I had enough faith in our organization to know, if we came before them with facts, showing that we could not possibly continue the bonus, it would be accepted in the spirit it was given. I am glad to report the unanimous action of the Executive Committee to pay the regular 7 per cent dividend on your earnings from January 1st, 1927 to December 13th inclusive, payable Thursday afternoon, December 22nd.

"We trust that you will have a very Happy Christmas and that we may continue to work together during the year to come with the same harmony, and the thought to do all we can to maintain and build up the success which you have had a part in building during the past years."

PAUL BARGER IS NAMED PRESIDENT OF ROTARY CLUB

Election of Officers Marked Fine Meeting at Episcopal Parish House

HAD TALK ON SERVICE

E. S. Stackhouse Tells of Different Measure Today of a Man's Worth

Election of officers for the coming year, appointment of a committee to take up a flood relief subscription among the members, and an address on "Service" by E. S. Stackhouse marked last night's meeting of the Bloomsburg Rotary Club in the parish of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

The officers elected were: President, Paul Barger; vice president, R. S. Hemingway; secretary, Harry J. Achenbach; treasurer, George L. Low; sergeant at arms, George J. Wiedemann, and board of governors, C. T. Vander-slice, A. E. Nakdrett and Frank S. Hutchison.

A. W. Dwy, Jr., was appointed to handle the flood relief subscription of Rotary members. Four guests were present at the meeting.

Declaring that men are being judged by different standards than in the past, Mr. Stackhouse said in part:

"The country was started a few years ago when Edward Bok, the great editor and citizen, announced that he was retiring from business to devote his entire energies in service to society. History is full of splendid examples of men and women sacrificing money, time and effort in the service of others, but it was unheard of that a man in the prime of his years and energies should deliberately lay down the duties of a splendid and useful career to take up a life of service for others. Although probably only a small part of Mr. Bok's activities have been made public, we have all been astonished at the big things of which he has been the leader and inspiration in putting across in his own city and throughout the country. May I take Mr. Bok as a leader and an example for emulation in spirit. The Tacoma Ledger said of it: 'Edward W. Bok is renewing his youth by new service for his fellow men', while Mr. Bok said of it himself, 'There are subtle factors in life which are tremendously satisfying. The feeling of service from one human to another must be experienced before it can be understood. The chief gain is an inestimable sense of freedom and a consciousness of service.'

"Service in its truest sense belongs to that indefinable quality in man which distinguishes him from the rest of the earth's creatures. In practice it

Since the population is scattered widely throughout the township, each individual church can not be supporting, and since several outlying points are not being served through Church Consolidation has been thought of by some.

Conditions being such as they are, it has been suggested that the Consolidated School, with its large auditorium and several rooms, serve as a place for a graded Sunday School. Transportation of children from all points of the township to the Sunday School has been discussed and largely solved by several men who have offered their services in transporting these children. It is thought that through this consolidation more people in the township can be served; greater interest can be aroused, and greater good done.

Therefore, on Friday night there was a meeting in the Consolidated School to discuss this question of church consolidation. All church members were present and express views on both sides. This meeting is being held at the Consolidated School, which is being prepared for the consolidation of the church.

After supper, short addresses were made by C. M. Hausman, president of the church, and H. J. Traub, secretary of the church. The meeting was held at the Consolidated School, which is being prepared for the consolidation of the church.

MISS HANNAH LAW BECOMES BRIDE SHELDON GRONER

Nuptials Solemnized in First Methodist Church Last Evening

BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Ceremony Was Followed By a Wedding Dinner at the Magee

In a brilliant wedding in the First Methodist church at 6:30 o'clock last evening, Miss Hannah Wolfenden Law, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Law, of Bloomsburg, became the bride of Stephen Sheldon Groner, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Groner, of Syracuse, New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Edward R. Heckman, of Clearfield, Pa., and the Rev. Dr. Edwin A. Elves, pastor of the church, in the presence of several hundred invited guests and an audience that filled the large church auditorium.

It was amid a beautiful setting that the ceremony was performed, for the pulpit had been backed with palms, soyabadium ferns and aspidgerus, mingled with which were baskets of various floral effect in which chrysanthemums, gladiolus, lilies, tritomas, budlia, monobretia and larkspur were charmingly used. Orchid, coral and green went to make the color scheme and this was most happily carried out in the gowns and the decorative scheme.

Preceding the approach of the bride party, Mrs. Fred Holmes gave an organ recital, and then broke into the haunting notes of Lohengrin's Wedding March as the bride party entered the auditorium through the Third street entrance. The bride's attendants and the bride, on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, proceeded to the center aisle, as the ushers approached the altar from the western aisle. The groom and his best man, Mr. James G. Law, brother of the bride, entered from the Sunday school room, and awaited the bride at the altar.

During the ceremony the soft notes of "I Love You Truly" mingled with the words of the officiating clergyman. The bride's attendants were Mrs. P. Foster Minister, of Philadelphia, matron of honor; Miss Laura E. Crick, of Bloomsburg, maid of honor; Miss Marion Phillips, Miss Elizabeth Wigfall and Mrs. Harry L. Magee, of Bloomsburg, and Mrs. Raymond C. Groner, of Albany, N. Y., maids of honor, and Susan D. Dwyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dwyer, Jr., and Mrs. Harry Magee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Magee, flower girls. The ushers were: William B. Crane, of Kingston; Clyde Davis, 2nd, of St. Petersburg; R. C. Groner, of Albany, New York; Harry L. Magee, of Bloomsburg; and P. Foster Minister, of Philadelphia. They as well as the groom and his best man, are Phi Gamma Delta fraternity men.

The bride's gown was an exquisite creation of white satin trimmed with imported silver lace. It was made in period style, with tight bodice and full skirt. Her veil was of tulle and Duchesse lace, and was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, white orchids and maidenhair fern. Her ornaments were a string of pearls, and a platinum bracelet, studded with diamonds and emeralds, the gift of the groom.

The gowns of the bride's attendants were likewise in period style. The matron of honor wore coral pussy willow taffeta; the gown of the maid of honor was Nile green, pussy willow taffeta; and those of the bridesmaids were orchid pussy willow taffeta. All wore silver slippers and hose to match the dresses.

The little flower girls made charming pictures in their white pussy willow taffeta. They carried Princess baskets filled with Columbia and Rosalinda roses and delphinium. Pompom bows of tri-colored ribbon, carrying the colors of the wedding, topped the handles.

The bridesmaids' bouquets were of Columbia roses, delphinium and pink larkspur; that of the maid of honor was of Columbia and Rosalinda roses with delphinium. Contrasting ties of ribbon were used to combine with the attendants' gown.

Mrs. Law, the bride's mother, wore a stunning gown of black shadow velvet and gold brocade. Her corsage was of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Groner, mother of the groom, wore a beautiful gown of black chiffon over roses, and with it a corsage of roses.

Before the crashing notes of Mendelssohn's Reformation brought the ceremony to an end, the invited guests went forward to extend their congratulations.

MISS RICHARDS ENGAGEMENT OF

Announced To Stanley Kleckner, of Easton, At Luncheon At the Magee

NOVEL ANNOUNCEMENT

The engagement of Miss Margaret A. Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Richards, of West street, one of Bloomsburg's most popular girls, to H. Stanley Kleckner, of Easton, was told Saturday at a luncheon followed by cards at the Hotel Magee at which Miss Richards was hostess to a number of friends.

The announcement came as a complete surprise, even invitations being completely veiled as to who was giving the party, and was told in a most unique manner.

The table setting depicted a miniature circus. Place cards were red, yellow, blue and green. Ribbons from the clowns led to balloons which were held by a doll, dressed as an Italian vander. The doll was in the center piece of spruce.

Balloons, when burst by the guests, disclosed a card on which was the verse:

"There's something in the air:
It's making some one plan.
It's about the engagement of Margaret and Stan."

Miss Richards is a graduate of the Hazleton High School and now holds position as private secretary to Harry L. Magee. She is one of Bloomsburg's most esteemed young women. Mr. Kleckner is a graduate of Allentown preparatory school and Muhlenberg college and is employed as an engineer by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company.

Attending the luncheon were: Mrs. Charles Hollenbach, of Shamokin; Miss Ira Ely, Miss Mary Undeck, Hazleton; Miss Madeline Mitchell, Berwick; Miss Glene Waters, of Catawissa; Miss Rachel Kressler, Mrs. Robert C. Mey, Miss Anna Wendel, Miss Gerude Andrews, Miss Mildred Reipke, Mrs. Philip C. Wedded To Philadelphia Man In Saturday Afternoon Ceremony

In a beautiful church wedding, Miss Helen Vannatta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Vannatta, of Light Street Road, became the bride of William H. Grotzinger, Jr., of Philadelphia, at four o'clock Saturday afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Helstand, rector of the church.

Within the chancel of the church gladiolus were used in a beautiful decoration while the ends of the pews, for the full length of the centre aisles of the church, were beautifully decorated with brown-eyed Susans and hydrangeas.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The maid of honor was Miss Winifred Hutchinson, of town, and the best man was John Stormfelt, of Ridley Park.

The bride made a charming picture in a bridal gown of grosgrain. Her bridal veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bridal bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor's gown was of green georgette with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of roses, larkspur and sweet peas.

A large number of friends and relatives witnessed the impressive ceremony.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Harry R. Stees, the church organist.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, following which the bride and groom left by automobile on a wedding tour through the New England states. Upon their return they will reside at Beechwood Park, near Philadelphia.

The gifts to the bride were of exceptional number and beauty.

The bride is one of Bloomsburg's most highly esteemed young ladies. She is a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School and of Drexel Institute, and for several years has been engaged as a teacher in the Philadelphia schools. The groom is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and is associated with his father in the real estate business.

HARRY MAGEE GETS TITLE TO WALLER HOMESTEAD BLOCK

Deal Concluded Yesterday For Purchase of Square as a Home Site

NOT TO BUILD AT PRESENT

Many Changes In That Part of Town Since Rev. D. J. Waller Acquired Property

The deal was consummated yesterday whereby Harry L. Magee acquired title to the Waller homestead, which occupies the square from Fifth to Sixth street and from Market to Jefferson. The purchase was made for the purpose of providing him with a home site. At the present time he proposes tearing down the residence on the lot, and enclosing the entire lot with a fence.

The square upon which the homestead stands is part of a farm purchased at the outbreak of the Civil War by Rev. D. J. Waller from William Sloan, whose residence and carriage making shops were on the site of the Elks' club. Generally speaking, it extended from the west of East street to that of West street, and from Brugler's alley to Post Noble and the canal.

No buildings of any kind were upon it excepting a farm barn and hay shed. At that time Market street extended only from First or Rock street to Third street, and was blocked at that point by a double brick home belonging to Mrs. Mattie Wells, which faced toward Main street.

Between her property and the present M. E. church a road, 33 feet wide, began, extending to the river, and diverging from the present west side of Market street to the extent that it included the ground now covered by the front porch of the homestead. Snyder's run meandered between Fourth street and Brugler's alley across what is now Market street, in low ground. A hill several feet higher than the present level of ground now in front of the homestead lay across Market street. This was cut through to the present level of the street, much of the earth was deposited in the low ground spoken of and much used to make the approaches to a bridge over the D. L. & W. railroad. A wooden sidewalk was built over the low ground at a considerable elevation. It then passed through the cut spoken of.

After the hill was cut down, the low ground filled up and the bridge had been built over the railroad, all in line with Market street above Third, and extending to the same, was offered to the town as extension of Market street, provided that the street should be extended from Third street to Brugler's alley.

After much negotiation, some litigation and bitterness and a lapse of time, the project was completed.

In the purchase of the farm it was stipulated that the part east of the Post Noble road should be taken at once, with an option to take the part west of that road, at the same price per acre, within two years. The paper money issued by the United States had not become legal tender by action of the Supreme Court, when the option was to be exercised. Gold was therefore brought in a teapot from Philadelphia. When it was seen that legal tender would be made, the greenbacks were accepted and the coin was returned to the city.

The plans of the homestead were those of the purchaser drawn under his direction, by John Starnes, the leading builder in town, who also had charge of construction. No "elevation" plan was made. The stone for the cellar walls was quarried on the west side of Fishing Creek, opposite the water-works; that for the water table was from a quarry along the river just above the Danville State Hospital. The brick were made on the farm. The lumber was all of Columbia county timber. The doors and window sash were hand made.

The men digging the cellar left their picks to join the local forces raised to help in driving Lee from Pennsylvania at the time of the battle of Gettysburg.

There were no labor unions at that time. One noon time, Mr. Waller, happening to be present and seeing a timber being cut out of place, requested Daniel Ingild, who with the other men was waiting for the one o'clock whistle to roll the stick out of the way. Daniel very deliberately inquired: "Mr. Waller, did you ever take flax into the pulpit and hatchet it while the folks was a singin'?"

It was necessary to vacate the residence upon Market street April 1, 1864. The family therefore moved on that date, a raw, snowy day, although but one door had been hung, that of the back dining room opening on to the back porch. Much was unloaded through the windows. The family was brought to a keen appreciation of each room as it was made ready for use.

Trees on the Homestead.

There were but three trees on the homestead lot at the time of the purchase from Wm. Sloan. They stood together in a low spot near the Sixth street line and a hundred and fifty feet west of Market. Two were maples and the other a gum having branches on all sides hanging to the ground, producing an umbrella effect underneath. In 1863 Charles Downing, a native lover of Newburg, New York, desiring an account of the Creveling grape, native to the vicinity of Bloomsburg, upon receipt of the desired information from the Rev. Dr. D. J. Waller, inquired of him how he could return the favor. Being informed by Mr. Waller that he was building a residence in a field without a shrub or a tree, Mr. Downing sent by express a tapering bundle about five feet long and twelve inches in diameter at the base. There were in it among others, the two maples on the south side of the house, the horse chestnut at the north east corner, the lindens directly in front of the house, the magnolia a little to the south of front, two varieties of oak now gone, the larch or tamarac to the west of the driveway at the entrance and a box alder or ash leaf maple. This last at the point of the oval in the driveway, grew large in girth and rotted away like a weeping willow. One of the seeds sprouted and grew into the symmetrical tree now in the middle of the lawn. The maple on the terrace opposite the house of Dr. Hess, along the Market street front, probably the most beautiful tree in town, was also in the bundle from Mr. Downing. The horse chestnut to the south of it grew from a horse chestnut carried in his pocket by L. E. Waller, Esq., from Versailles, France. The white oak on the south side of the house was transplanted from the vicinity of Arbutus park, prior to 1832 by Miss Laura P. Waller and Henry Pettit one of the designers of the main exhibition building at the centennial in Philadelphia in 1876. The orchard was planted at about the same time as the trees from Mr. Downing. The butternut and black walnuts grew from nuts picked up. The English walnuts are from nuts that grew on the fine tree of Judge L. B. Rupert, corner of Third and Centre streets.

Homestead property extending from Fifth to Sixth streets on Market and from Fifth to Sixth on Jefferson street, will pass into the hands of Harry L. Magee, who eventually will erect a beautiful home on the lot which has long been considered Bloomsburg's finest lot and one which, with its beautiful trees, offers exceptional possibilities for development.
