

Dr. Van Houten Named Edinboro's President

Student Body Welcomes Professor In New Position

Appointed by the unanimous vote of the college board of trustees at their last meeting before vacation, Dr. L. H. Van Houten, formerly acting president, became the permanent president of the school. The action of the board has received the official approval of the governor of the state.

The appointment came to Dr. Van Houten after twenty years of active service at Edinboro College. He came to Edinboro in 1921 and served in the capacity of psychology and education until his succession of ex-president Carmon Ross last August 15.

In an informal speech at last Wednesday's assembly program, Dr. Van Houten received an enthusiastic response from the student body. Speaking with frankness and sincerity, he stated that the work for teaching was still the most important work of the school, and at no time did he wish in his new position to be considered as being "over" anyone else.

"It is my desire," he said, "to continue seeing the spirit of good, kindly fellowship which I found as a member of the regular teaching faculty."

Coach "Sox" Harrison wishes to clarify that Frank Soscia a star of the Edinboro basketball squad, is leaving to play professional ball. Soscia, a senior, will continue playing the remainder of the current season.

Training School Opened

$250,000 Building Has All Modern Equipment

With the presentation of the keys of the building to Mr. Harry Cooper, president of the School Board, and Principal C. W. Ellenberger, Dr. Van Houten, president of the College, formally opened Edinboro's new $250,000 training school building on Thursday, January 2.

The new building, on the north end of the campus facing East Normal street, is modern in every detail and ranks among the finest school plants in this part of the state.

Built under the Pennsylvania State Authority as a part of the extensive building program which has brought to Edinboro three other up-to-date structures, its facilities will enable the college to carry on with greater effectiveness its program of training teachers.

Both elementary and secondary grades of the Edinboro Public schools are now housed in this structure, with the elementary school occupying the first floor and the high school using the second floor.

The entire building is in full operation with the exception of the science and vocational departments which are still found in their old locations in Loveland Hall and in the old school building. With the arrival of laboratory equipment in the immediate future, it is expected to bring the complete school system under one roof.

Accommodations are excellent and provisions have been made for rooms and offices for the various departments and leading student activities. The school gymnasium is complete with dressing and shower rooms, and

United States Leads The World In New Research

In his assembly speech last Wednesday, Dr. John C. Johnson of the Edinboro Science department, told students and faculty of the proceedings of the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science which he attended in Philadelphia over the holidays.

"It is in those countries of the world," he said, "where freedom, democracy, and Christianity flourish that science has the best opportunity for advancement."

He stated that the United States is now producing 30 per cent of all the world's new research with Germany, the nearest competitor, producing but 18 per cent. "The combined efforts of no two countries of the world approach the United States in the quantity and quality of scientific output," he continued.

He pointed out the benefits gained from attending the meetings of this organization which is one of the outstanding associations for the advancement of original research in the world. "Such meetings are inspirational as well as informational," he said. "Through the contacts made with the great men of science faith is restored and love is kindled and these two things are often more important than science itself."

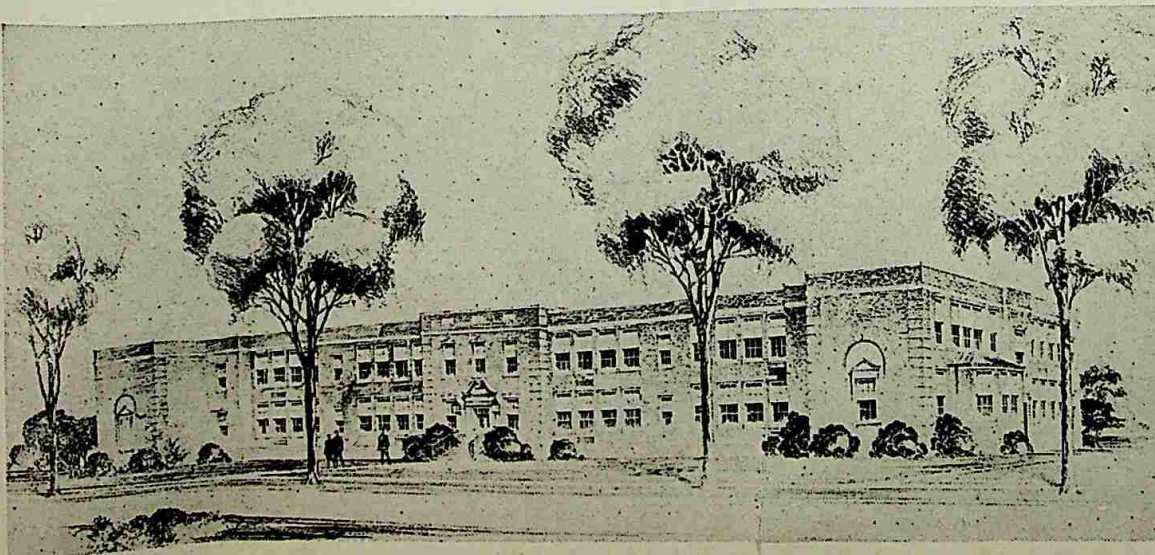

"I was impressed by the honesty and integrity of the men," the speaker added. "It is glorious to meet the personalities of science. The contacts you make with the leading men of your field gives you an inspirational lift that lasts."

At the conclusion of his speech he complimented the students of Edinboro for possessing to a marked degree the qualities of decency and honesty which he found in his relations with the best of American scientists.

Representative To Meet Seniors Next Monday

Hoyt S. Armstrong, representative from the Interstate Teacher's Agency of Rochester, New York, will meet seniors and three-year students Monday morning, January 27, in Normal Auditorium at 9:30 a. m., for interviews and possible placement.

Have you noticed the new song books on campus? Attractively bound in the college colors, red and white, they are available for use by any of the college organizations.

Editorials

That Dr. Van Houten had been appointed permanent president of the college after serving for four months as acting president, came as exceptionally good news to the student body and faculty. Winning the unanimous vote of the college board of trustees at its meeting before the holidays, he assumes the office with the enthusiastic support of all connected with the school.

It is fortunate for Edinboro to have Dr. Van Houten as its new president, for no other man is so well qualified to take over the work of administering the duties of the office.

Faculty and students alike are glad that a man with such a thorough understanding of the school's problems has been chosen by the board of trustees. In his twenty years of experience on the teaching staff he has gained a background for the work which no other candidate coming from the outside could possibly possess.

Dr. Van Houten knows better than anyone else the objectives of the State Teachers College and its connection with the State Department, and particularly, the individual situation of Edinboro in that system.

Before coming to Edinboro, the new president served as captain of the psychological service of the United States Army from 1918 to 1920. In 1920 he was field secretary of the

You may grumble as much as you like about Edinboro, that's your privilege. But did you ever think over just what E.S.T.C. has to offer you—if you only have the ambition to take advantage of it? To help you visualize the opportunities presented we publish now the courses and extracurricular activities available to students who wish to get the most from college life.

Courses offered this semester: in the field of English: English II, American Literature, Advanced Composition, Modern Drama, and Shakespeare Social studies: American Government, Sociology, History of Civilization, Early European History I, U.S. History II, Geography: Principals of Geography, Geography of Europe, Geography of U. S., and Canada Mathematics: College Algebra, Calculus II, Statistics, Analytic Geometry; Science: Biological science, Botany, Zoology, Descriptive Astronomy, Quantitative Analysis; Speech: Interpretive Reading, Phonetics, Play-production, Choral reading; Educa-

United States Chamber of Commerce, and in the following year taught in the University of Wyoming before taking over his position as professor at Edinboro. He is also a member of the American Legion.

His past experience as a teacher gives him a complete and understanding knowledge of the teaching personnel. He knows the clientele and the area which Edinboro serves, and his extensive work in the classroom has given him a familiarity with the individual problems of the student body.

Concerning his personal qualifications, Dr. Van Houten is, above all, human and fair at all times, and his informality and directness encourage students to bring their problems to him for solution. One of his finest personal traits is a saving sense of humor, which we feel is a prime requirement.

With such a background and with such whole-hearted support from the school we do not hesitate to predict for the new president great successes during his administration. Among other things we further venture to predict that within a short time, under his leadership, Ed'nboro will grow and expand with its enrollment increasing to a point where it was five years ago when upwards of 450 students were in attendance.

Now that your intellectual side has been taken care of, let's take a look from the social angle. Besides the Student Council and the class organizations, there are 23 clubs and social groups on campus. Student Body Elects Convention Delegates

At general election in assembly, Jan., 16, the following were selected as delegates from Edinboro State Teachers College to attend the convention of Eastern States Association of Teachers' Colleges, on April 3, 4, and 5 Robert Ulrich, William Bohn Jean Baldwin and Kathleen McCray. A list of possible delegates was submitted to the student body by the student council and from those names they were asked to elect two boys and two girls.

In an endeavor to give the student body a greater part in the selection of delegates, the procedure was varied somewhat from that of last year. Each organization on campus, with the exception of the sorority and fraternities, chose one of their members and sent his name to the council for consideration. The resulting list together with names suggested by the council members formed the nucleus from which the final list of candidates was drawn.

These were: William Bohn, Robert McKinney, Robert Ulrich, and Stuart Ackelson; Kathleen McCray, Betty Klapthor, Jean Baldwin, and Patricia Masterson.

James brown, president of the council, explained briefly to the assembly the purpose of the convention and the advisability of Edinboro being represented there. Results of the election were tabulated by Justina Baron, Dean Bailey, Laura Maxwell, Jack Mensinger, Philis Myers, and David Heath.

NEW COMUTERS ROOM

Under the helpful and interested guidance of Dr. Van Houten the rise in commuter stock is rapidly gaining speed. A new room is being set aside for the convenience of those students who drive to and from classes. The proposed new location is the vacated third and fourth grade room, a large room well suited for recreation and study.

A list of recommendations regarding the furnishing of the room has been sent to the President for approval. The change will take place as soon as the room is cleaned and furnished. Up to the present time the commuters have used one of the old laboratory rooms in the basement of Normal for a gathering place.

Well, there it is, and we feel that if there is any student who doesn't take advantage of the varied program offered to him is certainly not securing a well rounded education.

Potpourri

The whole trend of fashion seems to have turned to the South American way. Since they can no longer ignore this pan-American mania, designers are having a Pagan fashion fiesta. They've flung gleams of flagrant, vibrant colors against the shifting backdrop of America-on-the-move....and America loves it!!

A good many of these clothes are detailed, with a great deal of dash, for those of our friends who are going south and need combinations of clothes that they can use before and after traveling.

We, unfortunately, do not experience this same need because, shall we say, our studies keep us here? However, it's hard to find a wardrobe that doesn't need a shot-in-the-arm about this time of year....and an economical shot at that. That's why you should welcome these flashing, gay, frocks of clean-gleaming rayon silk that are fresh, imaginative and fitting right now, and are going to prove to be a cornerstone of your wardrobe far into the spring and summer.

Have you noticed the dignity and impudence in the hats that are being shown in the forerunners-of-spring shows? You'll not find it hard to be bewitching when you see how they're all fairly bursting with posies....for what Male Defense can hold out long against a face under a flower hat?

Chalk up one more for the wide-eyed, innocent type while you're at it....they're going to be the ones to shine in another style....a hat giving a candid-brow effect that, believe me, it drastically becoming.

Hats off to American designers who say, "Hat's on....for femininity!!"

WRESTLING MATCH FRIDAY

The Wrestling team has its first meet of the season with Findlay College next Friday, January 24. Felice and Bemis, of the last year's team, have with them this year: Bloch, Granahan, Cavanaugh, Johnson, Manning and Halawach.

Another Edinboro graduate makes good. Joe Zahniser writes home from the Boeing Air School of Alameda, California, of six A's and two B's received at the end of the first semester in chiefly technical courses.

Canterbury Club

The first Sunday in Epiphany was observed by the Episcopalian group on Campus at a Holy Communion service held at 7:30, January 12, at the home of Miss Frances Whitney, officiated. A number of beautiful The Right Reverend Bishop Ward gifts were consecrated for use in the newly formed church group: One pair of five branched candelabra and Eucharistic candles for the altar, cruets and breadbox for the communion service. The club is indebted to members of the club and to Saint Peters Church at Waterford for these gifts. As in previous services the Rev. Mr. Robert Statler of North Girard was in charge.

MUSIC SUPERVISORS MEET HERE THURSDAY

Dr. Rosenberry, the State Supervisor of Music of Pennsylvania, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the music supervisors of North-western Pennsylvania Thursday evening, January 23. At this meeting, to be held on the Edinboro Campus plans are to be made to form a chapter of the "In and About Club", which is a branch of the National Organization of Music Teachers.

Dr. L. H. Van Houten, President of the college, will also address the group of music teachers, and the A Capella Choir plans to sing during the program.

He credits Edinboro with having given valuable foundation education.

HAISTON AND VINCENT RETURN FROM KANE SKI MEET WITH AWARDS SUNDAY

Edinboro-L. T. C.

Winning their third game in as many starts, Edinboro's Red Raiders remained in the list of undefeated basketball teams. The third victim in this year's season was Lawrence Tech from Michigan. Lawrence Tech, which has lost three games in the last three nights, suffered a 46-44 setback at the hands of a hard playing Edinboro five. On the 6th, the Michigan combine met Long Island University in Madison Square Garden. The L. I. U., team, one of the outstanding teams in the country, could only gain a lead of five points throughout the game, finally winning, 52-47. Lawrence Tech led until the final two minutes, when L. I. U. sunk long shots in a row while holding the other squad scoreless.

Lawrence Tech had a team of tall players, but their height was of no avail. The Red Raiders matched the visitors in field goals, but pulled ahead on shots from the foul line. The visitors from Detroit only made eight out of fifteen tries, while Edinboro sunk ten out of fourteen attempts. As the score indicate, there was shooting all the time, each team playing at high speed. There was never a large gap between the two teams' scores, and the lead see-sawed back and forth. At the end of the first quarter, the score was tied 12 all. During the second quarter however Edinboro outscored the visiting quintet, and the Red Raiders were ahead by four points at the half. In the third quarter, Tech managed to score one more point than the Raiders so that as the game drew to a close the score was very close. Three of Edinboro's starting lineup were put out of the game during the fourth quarter by way of personal fouls, but the reserve who took their places held the visitors down. Indirectly res-

In the W.A.A. spotlight for the moment, is the Ski Club, four members of which competed in the Allegheny Forest Ski Championship Meet at Kane last Sunday.

Entered in the meet in the Niagara Frontier Ski Council, Class C and D events, were Betsy Vincent, Westchester; Ellen Haiston Potstown; Doris Heintz, Erie; and Dick Rockwell, Kane. Betsy Vincent and Ellen Haiston returned to Edinboro each the proud possessor of four trophies for placing respectively third and fourth in the downhill events and slalom.

Doris Heintz, who made the fastest time on the first run of the slalom, lost her lead when her ski came off on the second run.

The Ski Club is the only group from a state teachers college to be invited to send representatives to the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Meet at Skidmore College in the Adirondacks. They have also received an invitation to send four members to a winter sports meet at Penn State on February 1 and 2.

The coaching and arrangement for this year's skiing activities are under the direction of Miss Nettie Mai Ruttle, women's athletic director.

Don't forget the Slippery. Rock Game Saturday, February 1.

Thiel Gives Edinboro First Loss 50-49

In one of the fastest-moving and most exciting games seen thus far, the Edinboro lads dropped their first game in an overtime period, with a final tally of 50-49.

The game played at Greenville last Friday, was the second match of the season between the two schools, with Edinboro winning the first one by a 53-42 score.

With the score standing 41-41 at the end of the fourth quarter, Frank Sosia completed a long shot from the very center of the gym, but the referee said "NO".

Since there was a horn rather than a gun to indicate the end of the game, it was difficult to judge who was right with the tenseness of the situation and the roaring of the crowd.

In the ensuing overtime period, Volitich came back with two long ones, Andy Walsh and Soscia shot a foul apiece, and Vic Fuller sank an angle to bring the Edinboro tally to 49. In the meantime, Wallace, McNamee, and McLimons, of Thiel, brought the score up to 48 for the home team. In the last one-half minute of play, Wallace, of Thiel, came out of the tussle under the Thiel basket with the ball and shot the winning ball for the Greenvillers.

This time, Andy Walsh, Bill Bohn, and Vic Fuller all saw plenty of action and did a splendid job.

"Nick" Volitich, of Aliquippa, was high man, with a total of 21 points, and Frank Soscia was second with 15. Some of the finest passing of the game was performed by Steve Crunick who whipped some fast ones at the right time for tallies by the others. Points were as follows:

Edinboro
Crunick	2 0 4
Casoli	0 0 0
Abahazi	0 2 2
Volitich	9 3 21
Soscia	5 5 15
Walsh	2 1 5

Crash—Bang—Tinkle, tinkle....another record ruined, a blitzkrieg descended, and exams slid in about as subtly as an avalanche....more people in the library those evenings and less in the dorm, and come to think of it, just what is the attraction in that place, you girls of the "Y", or shouldn't we ask?.....

What with Baldwin, Haiston, and Krivonak hot-footing it on second practically every nite, and then there was that little incident of Tico's dummy—(into which we will not delve too deeply,—if you want to know more, we refer you to Mary Anderson, the instigator of the whole set-up)....Glad to see Doris M. back on first—the infirmary isn't the most interesting place to spend one's time. But then Edna Mitchell couldn't find life too dull, considering all those unusually helpful males in her vicinity.....

Elaine Highfield is a lot happier now, too....and we might include another in that lineup—Westminster is a wonderful place, isn't it Crafton?

What we'd really like to know is what the Russians are going to do—could Helen D. shed any light on the situation, or should we ask Butch E.?

The little number that sleeps across the room from me—well, I even threaten to tell all, but as most people know, that Kay G. Rodgers Doves—Rob't F. Astaire McKinney team is old stuff, there's really no need to any further—All right, so we do look like a bunch of Communists—so what?—RED is THE color this year, and we love it—

Also notice, Peg Davis finally gave Walbridge a break the other night—lucky fellow!....George and his piano are still pretty much of a box office hit every evening, but (strangely) it's always the same group—only those musically inclined (or otherwise), mayhap?

What with all the changes and exchanges taking place within that group known as the "Lonely Hearts", that name has become a definite misfit, or has it?—that is in view of the high stepping ways of those gals now-a-days.

Something tells us we've a lot to work on when we begin our personality in the Ravin's this week....that brown-eyed, brown-ette from Sharon—the sophomore with a smile and spunk that's bound to take her places....she's floating with the clouds these days, with a record of "The Java Jive" in one hand, and a mail special from Youngstown in the other....gets along well with riding horses—in fact, she walked off with one of the horse shows last year....We could go on through the night telling you all about Doris Mayers, but you know her, and you also know these are only a few points we've made that hardly complete the description. She's one of the girls we know who has sense, looks, and a sweet disposition all in one breath....so here's to our Mayers!

Kappa Komment

To our newly-elected president, Dr. Van Houten, we, the Kappa Delta Phi fraternity, offer our sincerest congratulations. With his knowledge of the students and their wants and the conditions on campus....it is definitely agreed that no better man could hold the college presidency than Dr. Van Houten.

It won't be long until the Kappa Deltas are celebrating their third anniversary as a national fraternity. These have been very successful years and the future holds many more. It was back in 1926 when the need of fraternal brotherhood was a necessity that Beta Xi was founded. This fraternity flourished and was indeed successful. In 1938, a national unity was urged....it was then that Beta Xi became Theta chapter of Kappa Delta Phi, and the first national fraternity on Edinboro's campus.

Since then the activities of the fraternities have increased, and membership in such an organization is, indeed, an honor. Stressed, above all, is a national educational social brotherhood which will soon take many of the members to Boston to attend the National Convention.

To our brother Will Rodgers, we extend our deepest sympathies.

CALLED TO SERVICE

Corporal Ray Graves, who now plays second chair solo clarinet in the Band of the 112th Infantry (Rifle), National Guard, has been called for one year of active service, and so will not be able to return to school until conclusion of his year's training. He will be inducted into the United States Army on February 17, 1941, and expects to leave for encampment at Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania, on February 27.

While at Edinboro, Ray has become Historian of the Phi Sigma Pi fraternity, a member of Reeder Hall, a frequent visitor of Haven Hall, and of late a regular caller at McConnell's an off-campus house for girls.

Our most sincere wishes of good luck and success will go with Ray as he leaves for camp.

TRAINING SCHOOL OPENS

is conveniently located on the first floor of the building.

Among the other features of the building are the individual hall lockers for all students of the secondary school. A special recreation room is also used as a lunch room and waiting room for those students who must come early because of distance. Here they are comfortably located until classes begin in the morning.

Library facilities, a music room, press room, large art room, good lighting, and an up-to-date ventilating system add to the completeness of the plant. Beautifully and soundly designed, this demonstration school building answers every modern educational need.

Reeder's Digest

Reeder Hall, tonight, is rather reminiscent of examinations. It seems one hush and lull in all activities is due to recuperation from the finals. Well, fellows, may you all be successful and I hope you survive the ordeal. Joe Norder has moved to the second floor—his roomie is Ray Gallagher.

Nev Weller has acquired two beautiful English polo mallets. We'll sure be glad to see you using them soon, Nev—you can't keep a good horse-man down—right?

Norm Dilley is minus a few things—will someone give him back that part of his pencil-sharpener.

Graves leaves in February to answer his country's call. Have a good time, Ray. Learn to take orders and don't get flat-footed.

Fiorelli, poor kid, has strep infection of the ear. That's why he has not been seen since the Christmas holidays.

Off-Campus News

The boys at Warner's were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warner recently. We understand the dinner was delicious—see Otis White for verification. I wonder if the owners of the other off-campus houses read this. Master Johnson, of Klingensmith's wants QUIET, but definitely—you should have heard him, it was really funny. Abahazi and DeSimone are roomies now—Nick's been wondering what size shirt Elmer wears. If you have heard a strange noise coming from Warner's don't be alarmed. It's Ponzis and Bemis' knees playing "knock-knock"—student teaching coming up. We are very happy about the election of Edinboro's representatives to the convention of the Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers. "E" Club Preparing for Annual Minstrel Show

The "E" club, with an all star cast of thirty persons, will present the second annual Original "E" club Minstrel on Wednesday evening, February 19, at 8 P. M. in the College auditorium.

Cast in the part of "interlocuter" is Bob Ulrich. Roy Christensen, whose "Old Man River" of last year's show is still well remembered in Haven Hall, will be featured as soloist of the show. The Lardy Brothers Quintet—all 847 pounds of them—will perform in their usual fine style. The performance will again be directed this year by "E" club members Bob Olson and Nick Volitich aided by Bill Bohn, president of the "E" club. Varsity football and basketball men will make the remainder of the cast.

The purpose of the entertainment is to provide funds for the purchase of sweaters for the Varsity "E" letter winners of the past sports year and to present senior athletes with the usual award, a miniature gold football or basketball according to his sport or sports.

Phi Sigma Pi

As the season for pledging draws near Phi Sigma Pi, realizing the honor they bestow upon a person pledged, are carefully weighing in the balance the prospective fraternity members. Quality then takes precedence over quantity.

William Pieffer, senior in the fraternity, has received an appointment to West Point. Phi Sigma Pi wishes you success, Bill, in your entrance examinations in March.

Brother Raymond Graves leaves in February to start his year of selective service in the Army. He is a member of the National Guard.

Good luck, Ray.
