Gentlemen:-

We have your favor of the 3rd. contents noted. Regarding the party whose credit you ask about would say, at the present time they only owe us a few hundred dollars, and while their personal statement as well as the agency reports, show them to have large means, still we would say in the strictest confidence we do not care to take them on ourselves for any amount of credit. They now owe us perhaps $1000. and we have no doubt it will be paid, but as it is our intention to adopt a very conservative course, and as we feel sure the party in question must be a good deal extended, we do not think it policy to give them any regular line of credit.

We say this much rather reluctantly, as we do not desire in any way to injure them, and because we know they can buy all the goods they want, especially from one New York house Mess. H. B. C. & Co

Kindly requesting you to hold this strictly confidential we are,

Yours truly, John H. Pray, Sons & Co.

H. Altman & Co Perla

Formerly at 1011 Market St in partnership with E. E. Bright considered the firm rather loose in their manner of conducting business usually in four month notes. Feb 1887 the firm was dissolved Altman taking a store at 125 Arch St. At the time of the dissolution it appeared that the firm was in a bad way & really was not solvent he had then about $3000 in the firm.

H. Altman commenced business at 125 Arch St opening his store on March. He claimed to have received $2000 from his wife. At first he discounted all our bills, but finally relapsed into his old method of paying by note.

In the summer of 87 he started a small hand-loom shop for the purpose of making cheap cottons for his exhibitor trade. Ran it for about 6 months & then got out of the business claiming not to have lost any money, but we believe that he must have lost some.

Started a store in Norristown shortly after his factory putting a young man in charge. After running it for probably 5 or 6 mos - he gave it up bringing all his stock down to 125 Arch St. This gave him a great deal of stock, but no ready cash with which to meet maturing paper. Jan 14 I loaned him $200 with to help pay note & on Feb 15 $500 for the same purpose. We believe that he made no money at Norristown.

at stock taking Jan-1888 he claimed to have made money since he started & was well satisfied.

NARROW ESCAPE
Clothes of Harry Magee Torn By Lion
In Cage

Harry L. Magee had a narrow escape Monday from injury when he was pawed by one of the lions being housed at the fair grounds throughout the winter.

He was looking at one of the lions and talking to Mr. Smith, their owner, when he got too near the cage, and another lion, striking from behind, caught his back and tore his coat, vest and shirt, but fortunately, he escaped all injury.

DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

The 59 employees of the Leader Store were guests last night of the store owners, Samuel J. Johnson, Harry L. Magee, Willie Law and John Knies, at a delightful turkey banquet at Hotel Magee. Mr. Knies presided as toastmaster, and Mr. Law made the principal address, speaking on merchandizing and co-operation.

Harry S. Barton led the spirited singing during the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Barton being guests. Following the dinner the employees enjoyed a theatre party at the Victoria.

Attending the affair were: L. Miller, A. T. Giron, Donald Knorr, John Oman, Fred Sharretts, G. L. Gearing-er, H. M. Kirkendall, Clark Parker, Bruce Oman, Mrs. H. S. Mr. James Magee, Millionaire, Bloated-Bondholder, Ex-Burgess, Baseball Fan, Lover of Crabs and Lobsters, Bloomsburg, Penna.

Dear Sir:-

I take great pleasure in sending you, herewith, the Bradstreet reports on yourself and your numerous industries. I have read these reports with a great deal of interest and have come to the conclusion that you have been charging us too high a price for carpets. You have been making entirely too much money and if you don't reduce our prices, we are going to report you to the government as a high-way robber.

The present Democratic Administration would certainly never allow you to accumulate such wealth if they new the inside of your affairs. We certainly have a club in our hands now to hold over your head when we talk prices and contracts in the future.

I succeeded in getting these reports from Bradstreet through our bank here and they have asked me to keep them very confidential and to return them, which I have promised to do within a few days. They seem to think they will have to have these to keep on file, so read them over carefully and make copies of them if you so desire, and then return same to me so I can keep my promise with the bank.

With kindest personal regards, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

The people now their offerings bring
Library, our library
With friendship, loyalty and cheer
Our people gave to you most dear
And now we shout that all may hear
Library, our library

So louder now our song we'll swell
Library, our library
And make it ring o'er hill and dell
Library, our library
Back to our jobs, desk, bench and loom
Clear out our path and give us room
For we have learned to shout for Bloom

I am returning to you herewith a letter which you sent out without putting any address on it. Hence my getting it. Now, Old Man, you are not going to get a motor cycle, because you haven't got money enuff, and your dad is not going to put it up for you. Another thing, I don't like you to be making arrangements of this sort without you consulting me. I have tried to be a chum to my boys, and anything within reason that I can get for them and that is good for them, I will try and make the arrangement. But if there is anything necessary, come to me, and we'll talk it over. *

And, lastly, you are not to touch the car in the garage at any time, without my express consent. I lay this command on you without any reservation whatever. Under no circumstance must you start the car, nor permit any of your boys to do it. Disobedience of this order will simply mean I will lock up the garage, and keep you out of it altogether. If you and your boys were to start that car and it get beyond your control, I would probably not only have a smashed up car, but probably a couple smashed up boys. Both of which contingencies, I would very much dislike. It is going to take all of your dad's spending money for sometime to come to pay for that car, out of which the whole family is going to have pleasure. But I am not going to let you run it with what little knowledge you have gained by being on the Mill truck. So distinctly understand that that car is my private property and must not be touched by you or your boys.

I will trust you in the garage until you give me cause to change my confidence in you. Don't monkey with it in any way or try experiments with it. Fifteen hundred dollars is not paid up every day. Your loving Dad.

or Munson who is market commissioner. Four truckers who take part in the market were also at the meeting. Officer Munson brought up the matter of cars being parked in the market space and Council asked that he do the best he could to prevent this during the remainder of the market season. On the motion of Magee it was voted to reimburse Officer Munson for his services as market commissioner.

A communication from the Gamewell Company saying that they would give the town a fire alarm box to be placed near the hospital was received. Council gave the company a vote of thanks and decided after consulting fire chief Henrie that the alarm should be box number 45. The secretary was instructed to notify them to that effect.

Mr. Magee said that each year a certain amount of hose should be purchased so that there would always be a supply on hand to replace that which wore out. The fire chief was instructed to make a report on the hose that the town had at present and to also state when the hose was purchased.

The secretary was instructed to write to H. C. Kersteen, contractor on a sewer job completed here some time ago, and state that Council requests him to pay a bill for $8.30 which the company owes the Bloomsburg Hospital.

A light will be placed near the Caswell Worsted Mill if one is needed. The secretary was ordered to write Creasy and Wells asking them to improve the pavement on Iron street in front of their property which is tented by the store of W. I. Terwilliger.

Apartment House, Twenty Dwellings and Ice House Burned

GENERAL ALARM SOUNDED

Outbreak on Emery and Sanguinet Streets Threatened Sulpician Library

Sixty-one families were driven from their homes when an apartment house, twenty dwelling houses, an ice house and a stable were destroyed by fire on Emery and Sanguinet streets last night. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined, but it necessitated the sounding of a general alarm, bringing out all of Montreal's fire-fighting forces, at intervals after 11.05 o'clock last night. Reports were current that some persons had been caught in their homes by the flames, but early this morning the firemen had not been able to get into the ruins to verify this. No firemen or spectators were reported injured during the progress of the fire.

WATER PRESSURE BEFORE COUNCIL HERE LAST NIGHT

President Water Co. Offers Inspection Jointly with Fire Dept.

WILL BE ACCEPTED

Considerable Routine Business Transacted at Monthly Meeting

The water situation in regard to fire protection was discussed at the regular meeting of council last evening when much routine work was transacted.

Paul E. Wirt, of the water company, and W. H. Henrie, Jr., fire chief, were present at the meeting. Mr. Wirt said that a test had been made of the plugs and much pressure had been found. He said the company would be glad to have the fire department come to them and that a test of the plugs would be made jointly at any time convenient to the fire chief. The company and department will co-operate to remedy any existing difficulties.

Dr. Welliver said county commissioner Hower has told him the comfort station was partly completed and could be opened. Council expressed the opinion that they would not authorize the opening of the comfort station until it was finished.

Engineer McCachran reported that he had been in touch with the department of health concerning the Iron street sewer and that an engineer of the department would be here Wednesday and go over the situation with him.

William Eunson asked Council to extend the sewer line from the corner of Third and Spruce streets to the corner of Second and Spruce streets so that people building properties in that section could connect with the sewer. He said it would mean an extension of about 480 feet. Engineer McCachran estimated the cost at about $900. Council explained that it was doing about all of the sewer extension work at the present time that it possibly could and that there were several extensions to be made in parts of the town where residents had been asking for the extension for some time before the extension asked for by Mr. Eunson could be considered.

The curb market in Bloomsburg on Saturday morning will be held until 10 o'clock instead of 9 o'clock it was decided by Council. The request that or Munson who is market commissioner. Four truckers who take part in the market were also at the meeting. Officer Munson brought up the matter of cars being parked in the market space and Council asked that he do the best he could to prevent this during the remainder of the market season. On the motion of Magee it was voted to imburse Officer Munson for his services as market commissioner.

A communication from the Game-well Company saying that they would place the town a fire alarm box to be placed near the hospital was received. Council gave the company a vote of thanks and decided after consulting fire chief Henrie that the alarm should be box number 45. The secretary was instructed to notify them to that effect.

Mr. Magee said that each year a certain amount of hose should be purchased so that there would always be a supply on hand to replace that which wore out. The fire chief was instructed to make a report on the hose that the town had at present and to also state when the hose was purchased.

The secretary was instructed to write to H. C. Kersteen, contractor on a sewer job completed here some time ago, and state that Council requests him to pay a bill for $8.30 which the company owes the Bloomsburg Hospital.

A light will be placed near the Caswell Worsted Mill if one is needed. The secretary was ordered to write Creasy and Wells asking them to improve the pavement on Iron street in front of their property which is tenanted by the store of W. I. Terwilliger.

Outbreak on Emery and Sanguinet Streets Threatened Sulpician Library

Sixty-one families were driven from their homes when an apartment house, twenty dwelling houses, an ice house and a stable were destroyed by fire on Emery and Sanguinet streets last night. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined, but necessitated the sounding of a general alarm, bringing out all of Montreal's fire-fighting forces, at intervals after 11:05 o'clock last night. Reports were current that some persons had been caught in their homes by the flames, but early this morning the firemen had not been able to get into the ruins to verify this. No firemen or spectators were reported injured during the progress of the fire.

A College Where Old-Fashioned Virtues Reign

Youth of Taylor Respond to the Call for Old American Standards in Conduct and Education

By JOHN PAUL
PRESIDENT OF TAYLOR UNIVERSITY

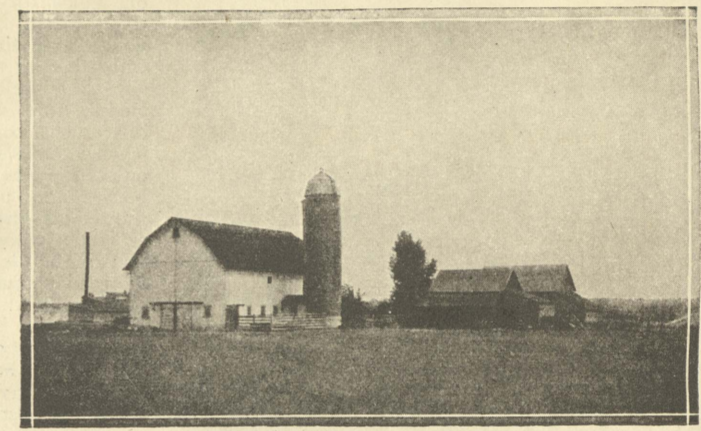

Interior view of the greenhouse.

A typical scene on the pasture lands.

This is the story of a small American college, seventy-two years old, which is attempting, with apparent success, to conduct a school where the old-fashioned virtues reign. For example, there is no smoking there. The co-ed's perfumed cigaret is not a problem. President Paul's discussion of these matters and "academic liberty" is interesting.

OLD things that keep savory without becoming rancid are prized, especially in this age when many things are so fresh. A certain class of conservative Americans from all sections have been finding their way for three-quarters of a century to the school now known as Taylor University, which is situated about a hundred miles northeast of the present American center of population. As if to symbolize its simple, industrious student life, Taylor has the modest Hoosier town of Upland, Indiana, for its post office.

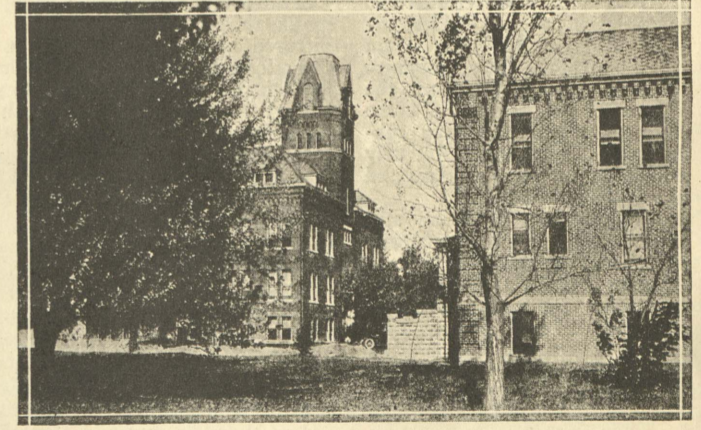

Student care is responsible for these well-kept farm buildings.

Work — honest, thorough, diligent work—in farm, greenhouse or school plant, is the watchword at Taylor, and is built into the fiber of generations of students who are serving humanity and gaining a reputation for getting results. Recently one went to Harvard with his Bachelor of Arts degree from Taylor. At first he was an object of distrust for the obvious reason that there is a difference between Taylor and Harvard. He wanted to capitalize a bachelor's degree from Taylor toward a master's degree in Harvard. He was sent to the classes for a tryout, with the following results: Distinction in all subjects; elected to a research fraternity in the department of education; given a scholarship based on rank; approved for half-time position on state pay as one of Harvard's agents in the "psychological research department" to visit the charitable institutions of Massachusetts, a thing for which a Taylor man has a rare fitness, for he is very human, a student of human nature, and pretty well acquainted with the unvenereed article. The outcome was that Harvard authorities, instead of questioning his right to enter for a master's degree allowed him to proceed as a candidate for Doctor of Philosophy, without extra requirements. He belongs to a type. The moral—pardon a superfluous explanation—is that students where labor is honored, where an independent spirit of democratic Christianity is fostered and the modern vices are taboo, will take rank above the average level—all other things being equal.

field sufficiently fenced so that they can reap a harvest without being molested by the crows or the cows. A lover of academic freedom would be delighted to see how perfectly free are Taylor's professors. They come because the school is the element in which they preferred to labor, and a man in his element is free. Sectarian doctrines are not a test of membership in the Taylor student body. One can belong to any church on earth or no church and, if a gentleman or lady, there will be a welcome at Taylor. An earnest, altruistic spirit of evangelism pervades the school, but no one ever gets after a student with a funnel to serve him with salvation. Taylor holds a brief for principles rather than people. Men come and go; but it is felt that in the interest of coming generations the school must go on forever. The art of balancing the old and the new is one of the essential elements in the law of progress. Luke McLuke says that any cook can boil an egg too hard or too soft, but it takes a trained cook to boil it just right. We have found a mentalist who play up the notions of the Middle Ages as essential to salvation and modernists who put everything under suspicion which has belonged to previous generations. Taylor tries to split its difference and keep in the road. It is not so much the mission of modern leadership to blaze new trails as it is to find true trails. Taylor's slogan for the old-fashioned Bible, the old-fashioned church and the old-fashioned home, intelligently defined, has proved to be very wholesome. It does not seem at all archaic or quaint when put into operation under the glare of electric lights and the echo of radio. Students of modern problems sometimes come for miles to see the result of trying to conduct a co-educational college without tobacco, dancing, and the kindred supposed concomitants of a modern college. Some are skeptical about the possibility. A W. C. T. U. national official recently wrote to inquire what measures and influences were invoked to prevent or reduce the evil of smoking among the girls! We could only reply that we had no tobacco in any form throughout the institution.

It is not the function of this article to outline a program or advance theories on how the various modern abuses are to be reduced or excluded from the colleges. Our policy could not apply universally to state and church schools. If it were brought about by artificial or arbitrary rulings a large fraction of American youth would be excluded from privileges of higher education. This would be impractical, for the thinking of the times tends to confirm the youth and even their parents in theories adverse to the "old-fashioned," and it is necessary to deal cautiously on questions of right and wrong that seem to be two-sided. No youth could be expelled from Taylor for the use of tobacco, because it is not an expulsion offense in the college world. Moreover, the logic of such an act might insinuate offensively against the youth's father or even his pastor. He can and is required to withdraw, with whatever grades he may have earned, on the ground that we have a right to conduct a school of students whose brains are free from the influence of nicotine. If we were to speak for the college world as a whole and were optimistic enough to believe that a reform was desired on these moral and near-moral questions among students we should have to suggest that there be a strenuous propaganda of preaching and teaching, tempered to student psychology, and calculated to create a new viewpoint.

The youth of America have many redeeming traits. If they are often guilty of wrong practices it is because they are the inheritors of wrong views which to a large extent has been passed on to them from their seniors. Growth of the Magee Carpet Co.

Located Many Miles From the Nearest Carpet Manufacturing Center—Employs Prosperous and Contented—No Place for Labor Agitation

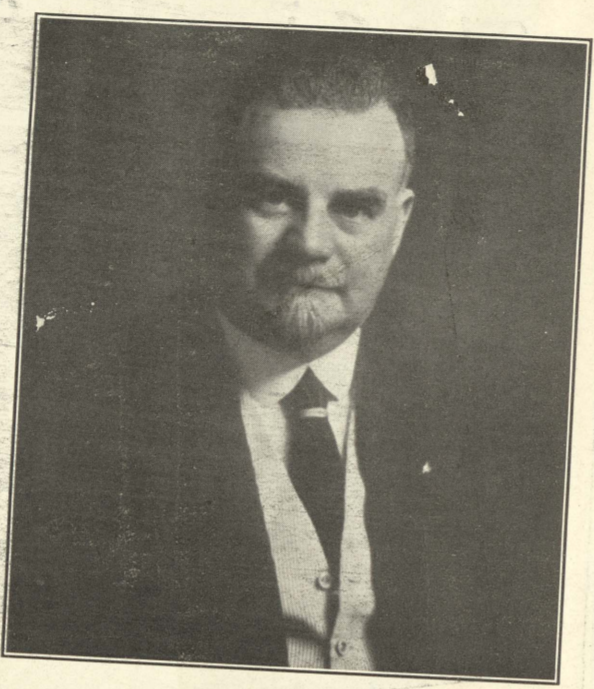

WHEN the late James Magee founded the Bloomsburg Carpet Company at Bloomsburg, Pa., in 1891, with a working force of twenty-five persons, he little dreamt that before his death, which occurred four years ago, his mill would be counted among the big floor-covering manufacturing concerns of the United States.

There were no weavers or other experienced carpet mill hands in Bloomsburg at the time and Mr. Magee located his mill 165 miles away from Philadelphia, which was the nearest center of carpet manufacturing. The weavers and experienced operators, whom he took with him to Bloomsburg, were few in number and, like men of their class, they soon became tired of the small-town idea and within a few months only a few remained of the original twenty-five. As the plant grew Mr. Magee hit upon the idea of breaking in apprentices by teaching the natives in and around Bloomsburg the art of carpet making. This plan proved so successful that as the mill grew itinerant carpet mill workers gave Bloomsburg a wide berth as the word had gone out among weavers and printers that unless you were a native the "pickings were poor" in Bloomsburg. When the Bloomsburg Carpet Company was reorganized in 1901 and the name changed to the Magee Carpet Company the same ruling applied to the new organization, and enough apprentices were kept at work each year to take care of the growing Magee mill.

When James Magee died he was succeeded by Willie Law as president and manager. Mr. Law became associated with the Magee mill in 1897 as superintendent of the printing department and watched it grow from a very small plant to one which covers ten acres of floor space, employing 1,150 persons and operating 275 looms. Eighty thousand pounds of yarn are used a week, 40,000 pounds of which are spun in the mill. Only once in its history has the Magee mill had any labor trouble. During 1919 agitators from Philadelphia made a desperate effort to organize it as a closed union shop. The effort was foiled, as only seventy-five men left their work and these men never returned.

The Magee mill is an up-to-date structure in every sense, with modern facilities for dyeing, printing, weaving and setting, particular attention having been given to the flooding of every department with natural light and facilities for plenty of fresh air.

As an executive who can keep more than 1,150 employees happy and contented in their work, Mr. Law is a past master, showing always that he appreciates the efforts of the men and women who toil with their hands as well as the efforts of those who are managers of the various departments and in the general offices. This, no doubt, is due to the fact that he, himself, started at the bottom and worked his way to the top. Succeeding the late James Magee as head of this establishment did not necessitate Mr. Law's buying a larger hat. He did not lose his head and swell up over his own importance. This fact was made evident to the writer during a two-hour trip through the mill, when Mr. Law spoke to everyone he met, calling him either by his first or last name. I saw there a man who believes in the human element in business and who does not sacrifice any dignity or self-respect in its application.

The automobiles shown in the photograph of the Magee mill on the opposite page belong to the mill hands. These automobiles, which are also parked at the rear of the mill in large numbers, give mute testimony to the "live and let live" policy of the Magee Carpet Company. A very large percentage of the workers own their own homes and are considered substantial citizens of the community in which they live.

This is the story of a small American college, seventy-two years old, which is attempting, with apparent success, to conduct a school where the old-fashioned virtues reign. For example, there is no smoking there. The co-ed's perfumed cigaret is not a problem. President Paul's discussion of these matters and "academic liberty" is interesting.

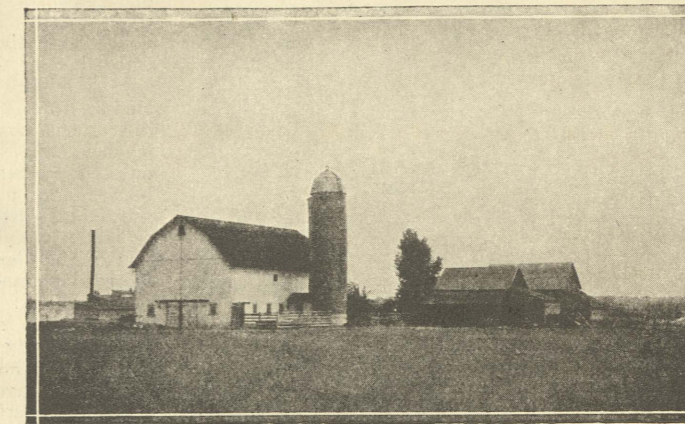

A typical scene on the pasture lands.

OLD things that keep savory without becoming rancid are prized, especially in this age when many things are so fresh. A certain class of conservative Americans from all sections have been finding their way for three-quarters of a century to the school now known as Taylor University, which is situated about a hundred miles northeast of the present American center of population. As if to symbolize its simple, industrious student life, Taylor has the modest Hoosier town of Upland, Indiana, for its post office.

Work — honest, thorough, diligent work — in farm, greenhouse or school plant, is the watchword at Taylor, and is built into the fiber of generations of students who are serving humanity and gaining a reputation for getting results. Recently one went to Harvard with his Bachelor of Arts degree from Taylor. At first he was an object of distrust for the obvious reason that there is a difference between Taylor and Harvard. He wanted to capitalize a bachelor's degree from Taylor toward a master's degree in Harvard. He was sent to the classes for a tryout, with the following results: Distinction in all subjects; elected to a research fraternity in the department of education; given a scholarship based on rank; approved for half-time position on state pay as one of Harvard's agents in the "psychological research department" to visit the charitable institutions of Massachusetts, a thing for which a Taylor man has a rare fitness, for he is very human, a student of human nature, and pretty well acquainted with the unvenereed article. The outcome was that Harvard authorities, instead of questioning his right to enter for a master's degree allowed him to proceed as a candidate for Doctor of Philosophy, without extra requirements. He belongs to a type. The moral — pardon a superfluous explanation — is that students where labor is honored, where an independent spirit of democratic Christianity is fostered and the modern vices are taboo, will take rank above the average level — all other things being equal.

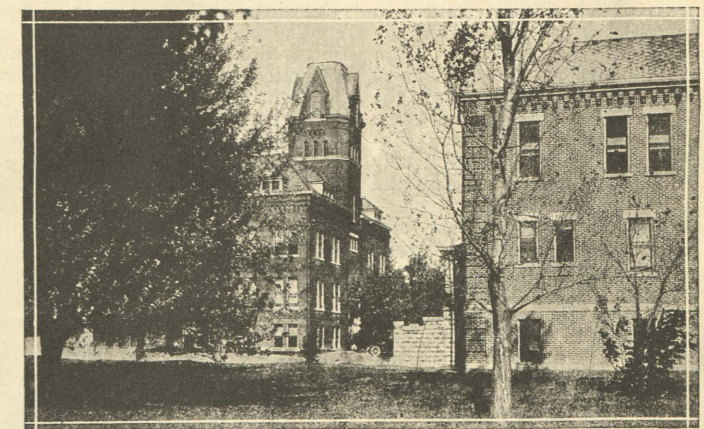

The Association of American Colleges, to which Taylor belongs, is a kind of sizing machine for college policies. Occasionally the school gets an inference that it violates the American standard of open-mindedness in seeming to require its faculty to avoid certain views in religion and economics. For instance, German destructive Biblical criticism and Russian philosophy of communism are equally alien to the ideals of Taylor. Not because they are feared, but because they field sufficiently fenced so that they can reap a harvest without being molested by the crows or the cows. A lover of academic freedom would be delighted to see how perfectly free are Taylor's professors. They come because the school is the element in which they preferred to labor, and a man in his element is free. Secularian doctrines are not a test of membership in the Taylor student body. One can belong to any church on earth or no church and, if a gentleman or lady, there will be a welcome at Taylor. An earnest, altruistic spirit of evangelism pervades the school, but no one ever gets after a student with a funnel to serve him with salvation. Taylor holds a brief for principles rather than people. Men come and go; but it is felt that in the interest of coming generations the school must go on forever. The art of balancing the old and the new is one of the essential elements in the law of progress. Luke McLuke says that any cook can boil an egg too hard or too soft, but it takes a trained cook to boil it just right. We have found a few materialists who play up the notions of the Middle Ages as essential to salvation and modernists who put everything under suspicion which has belonged to previous generations. mission of modern leadership to blaze new trails as it is to find true trails. Taylor's slogan for the old-fashioned Bible, the old-fashioned church and the old-fashioned home, intelligently defined, has proved to be very wholesome. It does not seem at all archaic or quaint when put into operation under the glare of electric lights and the echo of radio. Students of modern problems sometimes come for miles to see the result of trying to conduct a co-educational college without tobacco, dancing, and the kindred supposed concomitants of a modern college. Some are skeptical about the possibility. A W. C. T. U. national official recently wrote to inquire what measures and influences were invoked to prevent or reduce the evil of smoking among the girls! or Munson who is market commissioner. Four truckers who take part in the market were also at the meeting. Officer Munson brought up the matter of cars being parked in the market space and Council asked that he do the best he could to prevent this during the remainder of the market season. On the motion of Magee it was voted to reimburse Officer Munson for his services as market commissioner.

A communication from the Game-well Company saying that they would give the town a fire alarm box to be placed near the hospital was received. Council gave the company a vote of thanks and decided after consulting fire chief Henrie that the alarm should be box number 45. The secretary was instructed to notify them to that effect.

Mr. Magee said that each year a certain amount of hose should be purchased so that there would always be a supply on hand to replace that which wore out. The fire chief was instructed to make a report on the hose that the town had at present and to also state when the hose was purchased.

The secretary was instructed to write to H. C. Kersteen, contractor on a sewer job completed here some time ago, and state that Council requests him to pay a bill for $8.30 which the company owes the Bloomsburg Hospital.

A light will be placed near the Caswell Worsted Mill if one is needed. The secretary was ordered to write Creasy and Wells asking them to improve the pavement on Iron street in front of their property which is tenanted by the store of W. I. Terwilliger.

Considerable Routine Business Transacted at Monthly Meeting

The water situation in regard to fire protection was discussed at the regular meeting of council last evening when much routine work was transacted.

Paul E. Wirt, of the water company, and W. H. Henrie, Jr., fire chief, were present at the meeting. Mr. Wirt said that a test had been made of the plugs and much pressure had been found. He said the company would be glad to have the fire department come to them and that a test of the plugs would be made jointly at any time convenient to the fire chief. The company and department will co-operate to remedy any existing difficulties.

Dr. Welliver said county commissioner Hower has told him the corner station was partly completed and could be opened. Council expressed the opinion that they would not authorize the opening of the corner station until it was finished.

Engineer McCachran reported that he had been in touch with the department of health concerning the Iron street sewer and that an engineer of the department would be here Wednesday and go over the situation with him.

William Eunson asked Council to extend the sewer line from the corner of Third and Spruce streets to the corner of Second and Spruce streets so that people building properties in that section could connect with the sewer. He said it would mean an extension of about 480 feet. Engineer McCachran estimated the cost at about $900. Council explained that it was doing about all of the sewer extension work at the present time that it possibly could and that there were several extensions to be made in parts of the town where residents had been asking for the extension for some time before the extension asked for by Mr. Eunson could be considered.

The curb market in Bloomsburg on Saturday morning will be held until 10 o'clock instead of 9 o'clock it was decided by Council. The request that

Sixty-one families were driven from their homes when an apartment house, twenty dwelling houses, an ice house and a stable were destroyed by fire on Emery and Sanguinet streets last night. The cause of the fire has not yet been determined, but it necessitated the sounding of a general alarm, bringing out all of Montreal's fire-fighting forces, at intervals after 11.05 o'clock last night. Reports were current that some persons had been caught in their homes by the flames, but early this morning the firemen had not been able to get into the ruins to verify this. No firemen or spectators were reported injured during the progress of the fire.

REV. G. W. HENSON TO RETIRE FROM ACTIVE MINISTRY

Methodist District Superintendent for Nine Years Will Not Seek Pulpit at Annual Conference

THE REV. DR. G. W. HENSON

The Rev. Dr. George W. Henson, who has been a district superintendent of the Philadelphia Methodist Conference for the last nine years, will retire from active ministerial work at the close of the annual conference, which begins its sessions next week in Haws Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Norristown.

Doctor Henson and three other district superintendents were slated to return to the pastorate owing to the six-year limit placed on superintendents by the general conference. His decision to retire will relieve Bishop Frederick D. Leece of a knotty problem.

Bishop Leece will have a big job on his hands to adjust the appointments of upward of 350 Methodist preachers at the 1924 annual session of the Philadelphia conference. During the last few weeks it has become apparent that a large number of churches will be involved in the process of sending pastors, and picking their successors. The Methodist ministers, who are masters of church strategy, realize that this "is a good year to move," and an unusually large number of them have decided to pull up stakes. Since large churches are being disturbed to select four new district superintendents, they have decided that this is a good year to get a promotion.

Bishop Berry will not go near the conference church all week. In fact, he will be out of town for the next three weeks. Early next week he goes to Binghamton, N. Y., to keep several engagements in the Wyoming conference, and from there he will go Newark, Del., to conduct the Delaware conference.

For the last year the wisecracks of Philadelphia conference have been speculating on what Bishop Berry "will do about Doctor Henson." The Hensons have a beautiful home at Oak Lane—Mrs Henson is the daughter of the late Francis Magee, the carpet manufacturer—and Methodists were certain that Doctor and Mrs Henson would not care to live in a Methodist parsonage, changing their dwelling place every few years, as is the lot of the average Methodist preacher. Many predicted that Doctor Henson would be sent to Oak Lane Church, which is near the Henson home, and that Dr. John Watchorn, pastor at Oak Lane, would be made a district superintendent. That theory has been exploded.

INTEREST INCREASES

With $5,187 paid in yesterday on account of hospital subscriptions by 37 subscribers there was again given definite evidence of the fact that this project is close to the hearts of all who subscribed, and that they are determined to see that the hospital authorities are not embarrassed for lack of funds as the building project goes forward.
The payments yesterday were the largest for several weeks, and reflect the increased interest in payments

A MATTER OF PRIDE

Bloomburg residents generally may well take pride in the showing of beautiful Axminster rugs on display in one of the display windows of the Leader Store because they are the product of a local industry and because they promise to take an increasingly prominent part in the output of The Magee Carpet Company. Although this department has been in operation only a few months, it has already created a considerable demand for its product.

The announcement that Harry L. Magee proposes to further beautify the James Magee Memorial Park opposite his holdings on West Main street and then present the development to the Town for public park purposes, is a fine piece of public spirited work.

In its development he has taken an unsightly piece of land and made of a thing of beauty—that which will be even more beautiful when it is completed.

 In its development he has taken an unsightly piece of land and made of it a thing of beauty—that which will be even more beautiful when it is completed.
 Beautiful developments always add to a town and lead to other improvements of the same type.
 The restrictions placed about the gift are such as would govern any gift for their only aim there for the purpose of preventing neglect.
 We haven't any doubt but that the Town will welcome this gift in the same fine spirit in which it is offered, and gladly accept it as part of Bloomsburg's park system.

His home is outlined in beautifully colored lights, and the chimney atop the house is outlined in red lights.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR FOUR STORY SPINNING MILL OF CARPET CO.

CREEK CAME UP RAPIDLY DURING THE MORNING

The highest water in Fishing Creek since 1924 was the report of Harry L. Magee last evening on the water conditions in the creek, which he has kept for years.

The creek rose so rapidly yesterday morning that it covered the road on the Hemlock township side below his home, and the road was inundated for hours.

At 6:45 o'clock yesterday morning the creek gauge showed 99 inches of water. At 7:30 o'clock it reached 102½ inches; 105 inches at 8:15; 108½ inches at 8:55 o'clock. At 9:45 o'clock it registered 112½ inches and at 10:23 had reached its maximum height of 118½ inches. It held around 113 inches up until noon, and then began to rapidly fall. At 1 o'clock it had fallen to 109 inches, at 5 o'clock it was down to 90½ inches and at 8:30 o'clock to 75 inches.

DAMAGE TO HOME

Roof Was Off Home Harry Magee During Heavy Storm

Harry L. Magee suffered heavily as the result of Thursday's storm, which caught him with part of his roof off while building a sleeping porch at the rear of his home.

The high wind tore off the tarpaulin which was used as a temporary covering, and the water poured into his dressing room, carrying down the plaster and going on down into the dining room.

The loss on furniture and floor coverings is placed around $400, and, in addition, a new roof will be required. The full extent of the loss cannot yet be determined.

Daughter Born

A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Groner, of West Fourth street. Mrs. Groner was formerly Miss Hannah Law, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Law.

ELKS GIVE CUP

To Successful Boy Scout Team in Swimming Meet in Magee Pool

Boy Scouts of Columbia county will be at Harry L. Magee's swimming pool, West Main street, Saturday for the Council meet. Mr. Magee, who has kindly given the use of the pool to Scouts many times, has donated its use for the meet. The Bloomsburg Lodge of Elks are donors of the silver loving cup which goes temporarily to the winning team. Troop No. 7, First Presbyterian Church, of town, are the present holders of the cup, and they will endeavor to retain the trophy.

Events on the program, which each troop limits to a lone entry except in the relay, follow: Underwater swim, plunge for distance, 40 yard dash, 60 yard dash, fancy diving, three dives, and relay race.

Placing Light Standards.

Foundations are being erected for the light standards which Harry L. Magee will place on the Magee memorial park on West Main street.

SWIMMING SCHEDULE

Scouts May Use Magee Pool Several Nights Next Week

The following is the schedule for the use of Harry Magee's pool by the Boy Scouts: April 1, 2, non-swimmers-learners' night; April 3, Stillwater and Sugarloaf; April 4, Test-passing, first class swimming merit badge; April 5, life saving.

Any Scouts wishing to learn to swim or pass their tests for merit badges in swimming and life saving shall report at the pool on the scheduled nights.

On Saturday afternoon, May 4th., will be held at Harry Magee's swimming pool, a swimming meet for the Commonwealth.

Dresser Company to Erect Mill
Adjacent to Present
Power House

The contract was awarded yesterday by The Magee Carpet Company to the Dresser Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, for the erection of a four-story spinning mill, which, when completed, will furnish employment for an additional hundred persons by the company.

The new building will double the present output in the spinning of yarns, giving the plant about 80 per cent. of its requirements in this department.

The expenditure will run considerably over a half million dollars in building, equipment and fixtures.

The building will be located adjacent to their present power house. It will be 103 feet wide and 268 feet long, four stories in height, of reinforced concrete flat slab construction. The walls of the building will be of brick, with cement window sills and salt glazed terra cotta coping for parapet walls.

The windows will be of rolled steel sash with pivoted ventilating sections. There will be two sawtooth skylights on the roof with steel sash, the upper half of which will be pivoted for opening and closing by means of mechanical operators.

The finished floor surface in the first story will be cement. In the second, third and fourth stories maple flooring laid diagonally on 2-inch plank with yellow pine sleepers and concrete underneath will be used. Waterproofing for the roof will be of tarred felt and slag.

The usual plumbing, heating, electrical and sprinkler equipment will be installed, as well as an electric freight elevator.

The drawings and specifications were prepared by the Ballinger Company.

Bids were also taken yesterday on a new two-story building for the James Magee Webbing Co., which was planned to be 75 feet wide and 200 feet long, and of reinforced concrete flat-slab construction to the second floor. The contract for this building was not awarded, but was held up temporarily for revision in bids.

SWIM MEET

Schedule of Events For Meet at the Magee Pool Arranged

The schedule of events for the Scout swim meet to be held in the pool of Harry L. Magee on May fourth was agreed upon last night at a meeting of Bloomsburg scoutmasters. The events scheduled are: Underwater swim, plunge for distance, fancy diving, relay race, 40 yard dash and 60 yard dash.

The scoutmasters also discussed the council jamboree which will be at Columbia Park, the camping season and arrangements for a scout leaders' hike. Yucca patrol books were distributed.

PRETTY EFFECT

Residence of Harry L. Magee Attractively Lighted

The Christmas illumination at the home of Harry L. Magee was turned on last evening for the first, and those who have seen it consider it the most attractive he has yet worked out.

In the rear of his lawn, an elevated piece carries the word "Greetings" in Christmas colors, and from that word artistic scrolls in red lights extend to either end of his lawn.

The spruce trees on his lawn are not outlined in lights this year, but a spot light plays on each in making an unique effect.

His home is outlined in beautifully colored lights, and the chimney atop the house is outlined in red lights.

The effect is one well worth going far to see.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.,

JAMES MAGEE II DIED VERYSUDDENLY TODAY FROM A HEMORRHAGE

Stricken with Hemorrhage and Passed Away Within Twenty Minutes After He Was Stricken.—Death Town Loss

James Magee II, Bloomsburg's leading business man, died suddenly at 2:30 o'clock this morning, at his home, corner First and West street. Only the day before he had returned from the first vacation he had taken in ten years, and this was of five weeks' duration. At the outset of his vacation he went to Philadelphia, and from there to New York and then to the company's office.

JAMES MAGEE II.

Then he made his first visit to the company's Portland, Oregon, office, where business was forgotten and he gave himself over to a pleasure trip that included Yellowstone Park, San Francisco and other Western cities. While at Portland, Oregon, he suffered what was diagnosed as ptomaine poisoning but which he believed to have been acute indigestion. He was in Chicago on his way home last Friday, when he was taken very sick at the Chicago office. Mr. Magee insisted upon leaving at once for home, but the doctor insisted that he undergo medical treatment there, and he was taken to the office of the company's Chicago manager, where he soon showed an improvement. He reached Sunbury Sunday morning, and was met there by Mrs. Magee, their son Harry and Miss Kelly, and arrived home at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning. In the afternoon he was at the mill in conference with Willie Law, A. F. McCollum, Jasper Byrem and S. J. Johnston, and after speaking of his trip, remarked that he would be on the job as usual in the morning, even though he had the illness on the trip. He retired at six o'clock last evening, and complained of a headache. At eight o'clock he managed to get asleep. It was 2:30 o'clock this morning that Mrs. Magee heard a noise and arising, found Mr. Magee lying unconscious on the floor in the hall leading to the bath room. Dr. R. E. Miller was hastily called, but he died about 2:45 o'clock, just about the time the physician arrived. A hemorrhage of the brain was the cause of his death.

The Magee Carpet Works, the largest of the kind in the country and employing almost 1,000 people, stands as a monument to his rare business ability. From a small beginning, less than thirty years ago, he has developed the plant until today it is probably ten times the size it was when the plant was first opened. It is essentially his own plant for to it he gave practically his life. An indefatigable worker, he was always the first on the job and the last to leave. His vacations were rare, and it was from one of these that he had just returned when he was stricken.

With the industrial development of the town his name has been associated for years, while in recent years with the mill reaching the position where he could devote some of his energies elsewhere, he has figured even more in the town's development. As an illustration of this statement stand the Hotel Magee, which even now he is just completing, although it has been open for several months, and the new Leader Store, to be opened within a few weeks in its Main street location upon the completion of the new store room, unquestionably one of the finest in Central Pennsylvania.

Mr. Magee served the Town both as councilman and as president of Council, and it was during his tenure of office that the happy arrangement was reached whereby the Town assisted in the financing of the Public Library, with that assistance contingent upon the efforts of the Library Board themselves, and with the amount to be given in no wise to exceed that raised by the Library Board.

Mr. Magee was born in Philadelphia, December 24, 1862. A graduate of Cornell University, he learned the carpet business with his father, now deceased, and then a member of the firm of Ivins, Deitz & Magee. After a short newspaper career during which he was a reporter on the Public Ledger and on a Denver paper, Mr. Magee went into the carpet making business for himself in 1884 at Philadelphia, three years before his marriage.

He came to Bloomsburg in March, 1890, building the Carpet Mill, and in 1891 he moved here. In 1892 he opened the Leader Store. Practically his entire life since has been devoted to making a success of the mill and in its sphere it is recognized the leading mill of the country.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Stanley and Harry, and his mother, his brother, Harry, two sisters, Mrs. John Steffan and wife of Rev. George Henson Philadelphia.

Funeral arrangements have yet been made, but following the expressed wish of Mr. Magee Carpet Mill will not be closed during the period between his death and funeral.

S. O. S. CALL SENT BY NEWLYWEDS

Got to Elkton O. K., But Struck Trouble on Their Way Back Home

Stranded at Lehighton while on their way home from Elkton, Md., where on Saturday they were married, Mr. and Mrs. William Deiterick, the latter, formerly Miss Beatrice Shew, of Light Street, yesterday sent an "S. O. S." call for assistance in order that they might reach home and secure the forgiveness of their mothers—for it was a case of elopement.

Last Friday noon Deiterick, who is the son of Mrs. George Deiterick, of Fifth street, and with several years to live before he reaches his majority, went to Light Street, where by previous arrangements he met Miss Shew, the latter having their auto. Without so much as telling their most intimate friends their destination, they went to Elkton, where they secured a marriage license and were at once wedded.

So far the sailing had been beautiful but on their way home when Lehighton was reached there was a mishap as the auto, which necessitated a number of repairs and a wait of a day or two. Then the S. O. S. call was sent and the mothers—for both man, of their fathers are dead—then received for the first time the information that their children were married.

The beautiful ring ceremony. The bride is one of Millville's most highly esteemed young ladies and the groom one of the town's best known young men. The wedding party consisted of Alice Hartman, of Catawissa; Helen L. Ely, of Millville; Miss Susan Hoffman, of town; Arthur A. Ohl and Harry L. Magee, of town.

Following the ceremony, members of the party were entertained at a wedding breakfast at Hotel Magee by Harry L. Magee.

The couple left on the 7:24 train for Philadelphia and on their return will reside in town.

K. Gearing: "When Harry proposed to you did he get down on his knees?"
Helen L. "I should say not."
K. G. "Why didn't he?"
Helen: "Well—Er — Probably because they were occupied at the time."

When the lights are out, its no sign that there is no one home.

Man is what woman marries. Man smokes, drinks and swears. But they don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they would. They are more logical than women also more zoological. Men and women both sprang from monkeys, but women sprang further than men.

Edna: "I'll bet you $5. I won't marry."
Snyder: "I'll take you."
Edna: (rapturously) "Will you really? Then I won't bet after all."

Ches Nick: "After all fools make life amusing. When all the fools are dead I don't want to live."

Wayne: Don't worry, you won't be."

One day Hartman went into a clothing store and asked for collars. The clerk asked the size.

"Nineteen," answered Cliff.
"You'll get those three doors below," said the clerk.

Hartman went out and found himself in front of a harness store.

WAR NEWS. WAR NEWS.

Peggie will storm White's next Sunday night.

The Infantry, Joel and Bidleman, will parade Main Street.

Hartman will shoot (pool) at the enemy from Caswells.

Pursel will conduct a gas attack against Gerhart.

Magee will penetrate into No Man's Land.

Cohen will occupy the enemy's trenches on Fifth Street.

Snyder's Company is laid up at the hospital.

Stecker will bombard Hutchisons.

Roy Nick—Lord only knows.

Pursel was combing his hair and it started to 'crackle.' Frank asked Prof. Martone the cause, and was told it was due to electricity. 'Isn't that funny' I have electricity in my hair and Stecker has gas on his stomach.

We wonder why Hunk Joel wants to go to Catawissa.

Where did Aut get that black eye? 'Fess up.

Where does Peggy go every Sunday night?

How far is it to Light Street, Magee?

Where is 3 points, Roy?

Who lent Pursel the 25c. to get a hair cut?

'What made Hartman sick?'

A stag party will be held at Cohen's next Thursday. Bring your Bibles and Hymn Books. THANKS.

FRED HOLMES HAD FINGER SHOT OFF IN BATTLE
A letter from Fred Holmes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Holmes, contains the information that the family can now be proud of a boy with a wound stripe—he had evidently not heard of the injuries to his brother Lieutenant Olmstead Holmes, when he wrote. He was fighting in a cleared space, he wrote, when a shell exploded about a hundred feet from him. He paid no attention to it because they had previously exploded within five feet of him. But he felt a snap on his hand, and looked down to find it mangled. He started for a dressing station and fainted on the way. Finally, he reached a Paris hospital, where the hand was put under an X-ray, and now "you have a nine-fingered boy." And he's as proud as a peacock of it, is "Captain Kidd."
