Workshop explores concepts behind Community Education

"Community Education in 1975 is not what it was in 1970, and it was not in 1970 what it was in the 60's," according to Dr. Jack Minzey, main speaker at yesterday's Community Education Workshop here. Jointly sponsored by the Department of Public Education and American Association of University Women, the Workshop included educators, community members, and students from Lock Haven and surrounding areas who gathered to learn more about the growing idea of community education.

Participants gathered at 9:30 a.m. in Sloan theater to be welcomed by college President Dr. Francis Hamblin. Superintendent of

Shapp sworn in for second term

In near sub zero weather yesterday, Governor Milton J. Shapp became the first Pennsylvania governor in 100 years constitutionally permitted to succeed himself. Shapp was sworn in at noon on the front steps of the Capitol. Shapp's ceremony was preceded by the Inauguration of Lieutenant Governor Ernest P. Kline at 11 a.m. in the chambers of the Senate.

The traditional Inauguration Parade took place immediately after Governor Shapp's "swearing in" ceremonies. This year's parade was the largest in the history of the commonwealth, though it was on a "slimmed" schedule due to the energy crisis.

Shapp's oath was administered by Chief Justice Benjamin R. Jones of the State Supreme Court.

Keystone Central School District, Dr. Richard Hoffman, introduced Dr. Minzey and his staff member Mr. Michael Ciavarella, who later conducted workshop discussions.

Dr. Minzey presented a picture of community education from a historical perspective, citing Frank Manley and Charles Stewart Mott as the two men who pioneered ideas in the 1930's concerning making better use of school buildings by opening them up beyond usual hours. The Mott Foundation for Community Education has played an important role in spreading the idea of community ed. throughout the United States.

"Basically, the philosophy of why school exists" is Dr. Minzey's description to today's concept of community Education, compared to an "add-on" program brought in as something extra. Speaking on the changing role of public schools, he called community education "the umbrella" which envelops six components: a K-12 program, maximum use of facilities, programs for youth, adults, delivery of community services, and community involvement.

Dr. Minzey concluded his speech by presenting community education as the unit of a creative society - a unit that will allow communities to profit from what they have.

Workshop participants then divided into three groups to discuss in detail and in a more informal manner the ideas presented by Dr. Minzey. They then proceeded to lunch.

Afternoon activities included consultation with resource people and the showing of two films, "To Touch a Child" and "A Sense of Community." A slide tape on "Community School Advisory Councils" concluded the workshop.

Smalley assumes new position, moves from Smith to Sullivan

By JOHN JAROCKI
Staff Reporter

How does a person go about changing his title from Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, to Assistant to the Academic Vice President? In the case of Mr. James Smalley, he received a promotion.

As Mr. Smalley describes it, "it's an exciting position." He will be working with Dr. Robinson, Mr. Eischied, and Mr. Zakem, regarding academic matters concerning the college community.

In his new position, Mr. Smalley will be responsible for registration procedures, preparing the master class schedule and examination schedule, and the maintaining of official student records and transcripts.

He will also be responsible for statistical reports related to academic affairs, room assignments for classes, and coordination between the Office of Academic Affairs and the computer center.

In his old job, Mr. Smalley was concerned with students in regards to housing, dormitory life, and discipline.

WEATHER
There is a 50% chance of precipitation today and tonight with temperatures reaching to the low 30's this afternoon. Temperatures are expected to dip into the low teens tonight and will be in the 20's on Thursday.

Glennon sets immunization schedule

In view of the fact that flu is prevalent in some parts of the United States, Glennon Infirmary has set a schedule for influenza immunization here on campus.

The Infirmary encourages students and faculty to take advantage of the approximately 110 injections left. Between 4 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. any day of the week students may be immunized at no charge. Faculty and staff may take advantage of this service for a $1.00 fee.

But now the other side of the picture will come into focus when his main concern is the student in the classroom.

As in the case with any new job, there are many new and unusual problems encountered. When asked what he considered the hardest part of his new position to be, Mr. Smalley stated, "every job has a language all it's own. I guess actually, the hardest part will be learning this language, the details, and the procedures that go along with the job."

Dows blasts student apathy

Open Letter to Lock Haven Students:

State college students: READ THIS! I won't start by labeling you apathetic, because then you would probably stop reading this letter. Is it still just as popular to remain ignorant and apathetic now as it was a few years back? if it's still cool, then stay cool, real cool 'cause your little cube is just about to melt. All you have to do is keep your mouth filled with the proverbial garbage a la ARA. OR you can play the "Pretend" game. That's the one where you pretend the Board of State Colleges and University Directors (SCUD) didn't raise room and board. Unfortunately, that games only good until you get your bill for next semester with the increase included! Don't be saddened though, there's still another game you can play. It's called "Up The Tuition" game. The stakes are higher in this one because you're playing with the big, bad State Board of Education. Their going to try to raise the tuition and you're going says Mary Kopp, newly appointed student member on the LHSC Board of Trustees. Kopp was appointed to the board by Governor Shapp to replace George Bower, the former student member of the board. Bower resigned because of his graduation.

Upon Bower's resignation, Secretary of Education John Pittenger informed the S.C.C. of the vacancy on the board and asked that names of three but no more than five candidates be submitted for the position. The S.C.C. submitted four names to Pittenger. After applications had been submitted and each candidate interviewed by Pittenger and three other officials Kopp was chosen to fill the position.

Fortunately, you'll only be there for 4 years and you're half-way done already. So why should you care? What difference does it make to you what tomorrow's student has to pay? The fact the public higher education in Pennsylvania is becoming a scarcity known only

Innocent until proven guilty?

To the Editor:

I really don't remember when my life of crime began. Maybe it was the first time I forgot to ask the teacher if I could sharpen my pencil—I just can't remember. However, here I am on a college campus. What am I doing here? Well, trying to get an education I guess!

It was Friday, January 17, 1975 when it all happened. I asked for the return of my stamped I.D.; I was told to go to the office. From here I was told to see a certain Mr. N.

After waiting ten minutes to see him, I entered his office. I related to him the fact that I had been told to see him concerning my I.D. With no further adue he was used to screen the candidates: 1. Candidates should have demonstrated concern for the welfare of both students and the college as a whole. 2. Candidates should understand the responsibility of a trustee and the obligation to strengthen the long range health and vitality of the college. 3. Candidates should be residents of Pennsylvania. 4. Candidates should be able and willing to serve at least one year prior to graduation.

"If nothing else, I can bring out the students viewpoints," stated Kopp, who is an S.C.C. Senator from Woolridge. She has served as election committee chairman, chairman of the Homecoming Queen committee, secretary-treasurer of the Newman Club, and chairman of the Forum. She is also publicity chairman for the Delta Zeta sorority and worked as a varitypist for the Eagle Eye.

Cagers hit by tough breaks

By RICH HEUER
Staff Reporter

Tough breaks, the loss of a starter, and an explosive second half charge by Mansfield State marked the downfall for the Lock Haven State basketball team Monday night.

Mansfield controlled the opening tipoff but missed their first shot. As the Eagles brought the ball down court, starter Frank Norris collided with another player resulting in a severe knee injury that could keep him out for the rest of the season. This could be a great loss to the team.

Center Mike Bergeron gave the Eagles their first lead since the opening minutes of the game 25-23 after hitting a short jump shot. The Eagles, on offense, were able to drive the lane or hit from outside, played good defense forcing Mansfield to turnover the ball, and held their lead at

Haven matmen seek revenge this weekend

The Lock Haven State wrestling team will be seeking revenge when it travels to East Stroudsburg State this Saturday for a varsity and junior meet with the Warrior grapplers.

Last season in the LHSC Thomas Fieldhouse the matmen of Coach Clyde Witman surprised the Bald Eagles of Coach Dr. Ken Cox with a 29-20 victory.

This was only the third East Stroud win the 32 meet series that started in 1939. The 1970 match ended in a 16-16 deadlock.

The young Lock Haven wrestlers, now 4-3 on the season, suffered two losses last week to powerful and unbeaten opponents. On Thursday the University of North Carolina (4-0) topped the Eagles, 24-13 and then Saturday before an overflow cheering crowd in Thomas Fieldhouse the East's third ranked team, Slippery Rock State had to earn a hard fought 20-14 win.

It was the seventh straight win for Coach Fred Powell's mighty Rockets.

half-time 35-32.

Mansfield dominated the second half. With their height advantage they started to work on the Eagles defense and controlled the boards both offensively and defensively, outscoring the Eagles 33-19.

The Eagles pulled to within six, 56-50 after Joe Sain hit two free throws late in the final period. Mansfield then scored seven straight points, insuring them of the 63-50 win with just two min-

Fast break is the name of the game

By MIKE CRONE
Staff Reporter

Consider ... what is the most exciting aspect of college basketball? The answers to this question may be diversified, however, the answer many fans come up with is the fast break.

The name of the game is putting the ball through the hoop more often than your opponent. The fast break is a successful way, more often than not, of getting two points with little or no opposition. A crowd thrills to the sight of two or three players running down the court at break - neck speed with perhaps only a defender or two between them and the basket.

Commentary

Practically every successful college team uses the fast break. Granted, defense has its place, but what good is it if your opponent is scoring more often than you? (cont. on page 4) told me that I had committed a misdemeanor and that forging an I.D. was a crime that could not be waived without severe penalty.

Trying to calm myself, I asked him if I could explain. His actions were ones that could have been interpreted as "go ahead but I but I won't believe you anyhow". I proceeded to explain that after turning my I.D. in as usual after break, I had gotten it validated. The secretary, seeing that the plastic cover was badly worn, replaced it with a new cover, thus removing the blue marker needed for entry to the cafeteria. After inquiring what to do, I simply turned it in again to get restamped.

Mr. N. only repeated what he had said before. I was guilty as far as he was concerned! When I asked him to produce the two I.D.'s he could not do it.

"Come back this afternoon," he said.

I was very upset to say the least. One thing I did know - I didn't do it and I didn't like being judged before it could be proven.

After an anxious four hours of waiting, I made my way to Mr. N. office. He was in the secretary's office which was almost packed with students. Weaving my way through the crowd, I asked if the I.D.'s had been received yet.

His secretary said, "Yes".

He said, "No".

I called him on his "Mistake". The secretary looked through the I.D.'s in the envelope. When she came to mine I said, "There's mine". She handed it to Mr. N. He told her to look again to see if there was a duplicate. There was none.

"This can't be," he yelled, "look again".

Nothing! Not even one similar to mine.

Then he handed me my I.D. and in his gruff voice said, "The cafeteria made a mistake".

That was it! No apology for being nailed to the cross before any proof was seen!

I have been an honest and trusting person for my entire life. Oh, I'm not an angel, I have been "naughty" now and then but never have I been unjustly accused of anything and not been at least shown the courtesy of an apology.

Forgiveness does not come easily for this crime that was committed against me. Maybe with time and patience I can learn to accept the fact that mistakes do happen but it will take me a very long time before I can forgive a man who considered me a criminal, a forger, and a liar before he had the facts between his cold, grimy fingers.

Respectfully,
Mary J. Baney

fense doesn't put enough points on the board? It has been said by many learned basketball people, that the best defense is a good offense. Too many close games are lost by conservative teams.

Merely showing the other team a fast break will keep them on their toes. If a team knows you won't fast break they can throw caution to the wind. They can send all five men to the offensive board and not worry about being caught in a break. Why worry about something that you don't even have to think about? It's almost like studying for a urine test.

By the way, anybody seen a fast break around here lately?

to the rich doesn't phase you in the least bit. Well, if you're of a mind to just look out for your own skin, then you better start running to save that too.

Don't worry, there's plenty of good, clean All-American logic behind all these increases. The plan to raise tuition is as concrete as the building in which the decision was made. You see the independent colleges in the state are in financial trouble. To bail them out, the Carnegie Commission recommended that tuition in public institutions be raised until students start dropping out of the public sector.

The magic of their (the State Board's) logic continues. To help the state colleges they propose an increase in the appropriation to PHEAA, as well as changes in the limitations on the grants. The optimum family income would be increased to $25,000. How many state college students do you know that the family income is $25,000? The maximum grant would be increased to $2,000. The fallacy in this is a little bit harder to understand. Currently, the maximum grant is $1,200 or one-third of your educational cost, which ever is less. This means that the maximum grant that most state college students can receive is around $850, never $1,200. Who do you think is going to get the $1,500, $1,800 and $2,000 grants next year? Certainly not any state college students. Isn't it nice how the State Board is going to offset the increase in our tuition by helping the private school students!

Just think, if every state college student contributed to the cause, the $80,000 could pay for a full-time student voice in Harrisburg. A weekly newspaper could tell students just things that students want and need to hear. Does all this sound impossible? It's only as impossible as you make it. Maybe I can convince even those selfish students to part with the Almighty dollar. If you spend one dollar today it may save you fifty dollars next September.

Sincerely,
Doug Dows
