Smalley expects further changes in registration system

By John P Elder
Co-News Editor

Change seems to be a popular word for LHU academic affairs as the University debuted its new computerized registration system and, according to Associate Dean of Academic Affairs James Smalley, the system will continue to change.

"We'll do more than tinker with it (the system)," said Smalley. "Obviously, the system is not perfect, and I expect some substantial changes."

Smalley acknowledged that many problems were created by the new system, but also pointed out that improperly filled out schedule forms were a major problem.

"Apparently, there were rumors that if a student did not fill out alternate course selections, he/she would be more apt to get their first choice. This just was not true," said Smalley.

Another problem mentioned by Smalley was that many students were improperly advised during scheduling.

"Some advisors were letting freshmen and sophomore students schedule upper-level courses that are traditionally taken by upper-classmen," said Smalley. "This created some problems and many of the under-classmen had to be taken out."

In response to student concerns that the system was unsuccessful in fulfilling students' needs, Smalley cited statistics revealing the system's performance.

According to Smalley, 85.5% of seniors and juniors received a full schedule. That number dropped to 75.5% for sophomores, and about 60% of the freshmen received a full schedule. A schedule was considered full if it contained 15 or more credits.

Smalley noted that the performance of the new system will be analyzed by an ad hoc committee, formed by Dr. Woodbury, before changes will be made. The committee, composed of faculty and students, is scheduled to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the new system today.

Despite the fact that future changes will be based on the committee's findings, Smalley is confident that the current registration process will evolve into an online computer system.

"I think that just about everyone (in administration) agrees that we should go to an online system from which students would immediately know their schedules," said Smalley.

Although Smalley has received numerous complaints about the system, he said he would like to hear more in order to correct any problems.

"We've put a lot of work into this new system," said Smalley. "We want to know about any problems. We're interested in what the students and faculty think (about the system)."

McNamara's resignation forthcoming?

By Jeffrey Hilty
Co-News Editor

"I can tell you this, whatever is to happen will happen within a week," said SCC President Kevin McNamara in response to questions concerning whether or not he will study in Poland this semester.

According to the University's International Education Office, McNamara is listed as one of the students who has paid his plane fare and will be attending the Marie Curie Sklodowska University in Lublin, Poland this spring.

In response to direct questions concerning this fact and whether or not McNamara was registered at LHU for courses this semester he said, "At this time, I can't make a public statement."

He said that in the event the president and vice president would resign, then the PUB administrator would be the executive committee member who would become president.

McNamara added that notification of any such decision would be forthcoming "when I inform my staff and the student senate who should have the first right, before anybody else, to know whatever my plans are."

Scholars receive recognition from state

Six University students who take part in the Black Scholars Program were among those selected as PA Board of Governors scholars for the 1987-88 academic year.

The students are Diana Rash, a sophomore speech communications major, Jasmine Pond, a sophomore biology major, and Herbert Monroe, a sophomore psychology major.

Also named were Truman Green, a freshman management science major, Dwayne Bryant, a freshman management science major, and Allison Banks, a freshman with an undeclared major.

Each student was selected on the basis of his or her high school and college grades, a 400 word essay, and college board scores.

To earn the PA Board of Governors scholarship, students must have at least a 3.0 grade point average (GPA).

Richard S. West, Coordinator of Human Relations and Minority Affairs at LHU, said that the Black Scholars Program was started at LHU in order to add more of a "sense of purpose" to scholars' lives.

The GPA for the Black Scholars Program begins at 2.5, but to remain in the program, a student's GPA must go up each year, said West.

According to West, the scholars are further encouraged to accept leadership roles in various campus activities and advance their studies to the graduate level.

"I hope to go to law school but if I don't make it I would like to get my masters," said Rash. She is also active member in the Kappa Sweethearts, the Gospel Choir, and the Black Cultural Society.

"There is the incentive because I have to keep increasing my GPA," said Herbert Monroe. He is a member of the LHU Wrestling team and the Black Cultural Society.

From the Editors' desk...

After surviving the Drop/Add session Monday, the Eagle Eye staff pulled together to put out the first issue of the spring semester. We hope everyone had an enjoyable and relaxing break.

The staff has several goals and changes in mind for the Eagle Eye this semester that we hope to achieve. We hope to continue, and even to improve upon, covering the city news that pertains to this campus. For example, we would like to report on city council decisions that may affect students. Also, the news department is planning to have reporters cover areas such as minority affairs, academics, and the SCC on a regular basis. We want to encourage and gain student involvement with the paper as well.

Since the Eagle Eye is a paper for the college community, we encourage student involvement. This semester we are still in need of a staff artist, a copy editor, and an advertising sales assistant. Of course, we always need news, sports, and feature reporters as well.

If you do not wish to become involved this way, we would still appreciate your participation through your letters to the editor and comments.

Well, here we go! The staff hopes you have a good semester. Consider involvement with the Eagle Eye as something that could make the paper even better, but keep us posted on your ideas about what you would like to see in the paper and about any ways in which you think we could improve!

Bald Eagle matmen demolish hapless Morgan State 40-0

By Mike Leavy
Co-Sports Editor

Head Coach Neil Turner and his men gave returning students a welcome back gift as they crushed Morgan State 40-0 at the Field House on Tuesday.

Turner also registered his 200th career head coaching victory over Ohio State University in the quad meet at Northwestern.

Herb Monroe took over the duties at 118 pounds for Craig Corbin as Corbin moved up a weight class to cover for Jeff Husick who was up at 134 pounds.

Monroe responded to the call by decisioning Neal Richards 3-0.

Corbin looked right at home at 126 pounds as he won by a technical fall over Leroy Jackson 24-5. Corbin upped his record to 24-5 on the season.

Husick also looked good registering a 10-1 major decision over Charles Myles.

Gary Chaddock made it 15-0 on the night as he decisioned Albert Woody, 7-1.

Thane Turner had the only pin on the night as Greg Mincey helped Turner notch his 19th victory against 10 losses this season.

John Barrett kept the slaughter going as he won a decision over Chauncy Wynn, 5-4 at the 158 pound class.

Mike Mazza was in for the resting Jody Karam and did the job with a technical fall over Abbas Savur 16-0.

Brad Lloyd got win number 20 against no losses as he also had a technical fall defeating George Wynn 16-0.

Bill Freeman and freshman Chris Crissman mopped things up with each grabbing decisions.

Even though the match was one sided, Turner felt that it was still interesting.

"It wasn't a tough match for us, but our people wrestled well," said Turner.

There was no rest for the matmen over break as they headed to Evanston, Illinois on December 29th to compete in the Midlands Wrestling Championships.

The Haven finished sixth with 44.50 points without the services of Karam and Lloyd. Corbin and Barrett made it to the quarterfinals before being eliminated.

Turner, Mazza and Joe Pecaitis lost in the second round of the tournament.

Mike Lingenfelter, Herb Monroe and Chaddock were eliminated in the first round.

After a few days of New Year's cheer, the Bald Eagles crushed all competition to earn first place in a quad meet at Northwestern University.

They started off by trouncing Marquette University 50-6. Corbin and Lloyd registered pins in the contest and major decisions were registered by Turner and Barrett.

Marquette got its only six points by default when Mike Lingenfelter suffered a knee injury during his match.

Coach Turner expects Lingenfelter to be out for the season.

Ohio State proved to be the toughest competition as the Haven disposed of them 21-14.

Craig Corbin was the high scorer in the match registering a major decision over Dave Range.

Herb Monroe filled in for the injured Lingenfelter at 134. The 118 pounder was pinned in the first round by Brad Gintert.

In the final match of the day, Northwestern University was crunched 27-9.

Chaddock led the way with a 10-2 major decision over Ken Thompson.

Injuries plagued the grappler's performance at the Virginia Duals as they were edged out by the Huskies of Bloomsburg University 20-19 and were defeated by North Carolina State in the second consolation round.

The Bald Eagles registered one victory over Indiana 20-17 in the first round of consolation matches.

The Huskies took an early lead in the lower weights before Karam, Lloyd and Freeman got things rolling.

Karam decisioned Tim Holter 13-7 to check the Haven in at 10-17.

Brad Lloyd pinned Craig Katynski to put the Haven within one point at 16-17.

Lock Haven was on top after Bill Freeman decisioned Scott Brown 4-1 to make it 19-17.

Ron Ippolite's won it for Bloom as the veteran beat Joe Pecaitis 7-2 to make it 19-20.

Turner had a major decision in the first consolation match against Indiana as he beat Casey Graham 10-1.

North Carolina proved to be too much for the tired and injured Haven as they won the second consolation match 25-15.

The two losses at Virginia were the first two for LHU in dual meets lowering their record to 7-2.

Victory number eight came easy for the matmen as they returned home to beat Slippery Rock University 28-16 last Friday.

Turner was honored for his 200th win in a pregame ceremony where he thanked those who helped him gain all of those victories.

"I was trying to remember everybody and then as I was reflecting on it, I thought one of the most important people you forgot were your assistants," Turner said. "Of course most notably now, Coach Tom Justice, who wasn't here tonight because he was recruiting and then scouting Lehigh and Pittsburgh."

The lead was taken early as Corbin and Husick registered technical falls. Co-Captains Karam and Lloyd helped wrap things up with major decisions over their opponents.

Turner had mixed feelings about the winter break results.

"I was disappointed at Virginia," said Turner. "But you have to remember that our losses there were due to the absences of certain individuals for one reason or another."

After all the battles that have been fought, the Haven was awarded with the number one ranking in the eastern division of the Eastern Wrestling league and number ten in the nation by the Amateur Wrestling News.

The Coach's Poll has LHU ranked 12th nationally but both polls were taken before the victories this week.

The AWM has also ranked Lloyd third in the nation.

The matmen travel to Pittsburgh on Saturday to take on the Panthers at 7:30 p.m. They return to host Bloomsburg on February 10th.

Frank Scarfo's Lady Eagle basketball team took a couple of weeks of momentum into Wednesday's game with Clarion, but it was not enough as the Lady Golden Eagles edged Lock Haven 83-80.

The loss drops the Lady Eagles record to 6-8 overall and 0-1 in the PC West.

Clarion continually pushed the ball up the floor in the first half, shooting 69 percent from the field and took a 48-35 lead into the locker room.

"The first half was our worst defensive effort of the year," said Scarfo. "That's all we talked about at halftime. We said if our defense gets up to normal, we can get back in the ballgame."

The Lady Eagles cut the lead to one at 79-78 with 2:15 left in the game. Clarion extended the lead to three and with seconds left, a three-point shot by Linda Ordiway was off the mark.

Maryellen Jaskuta finished the game with 20 points and Cindy Richards added 13, including three three-pointers.

Clarion was led by Kim Beanner's 17 points, while Cheryl Bansek and Tammy Holman added 14 and 13 points respectively.

The next game for the Lady Eagles is this Saturday as they host Slippery Rock. The game is scheduled to start at 6 p.m.

Junior guard Tony Bacon also hit double digits as he had 12 points, five rebounds and six assists.
