

SCUD Board 'Reluctant' in Tuition Hike

By BARB KAUFFMAN

"Much reluctance" was the sentiment expressed by the SCUD Board who made their decision to increase the current tuition by $75 in the coming semester at their meeting on January 13 in Harrisburg. The decision was reached after statements by the floor and a vote of 5 to 3 in favor of the increase by the directors. Two of the voting members of this committee voted via telephone.

The main controversy surrounding this legislation is the current trend in tuition increase (32 percent over the past two years - $300) with cutbacks in financial aid available to college students.

According to SCUD Chairwoman Roberta Marsh, "I anticipate that some students will be unable to return to school." This figure comes to roughly 2 percent of the students (1500) currently enrolled in state colleges and universities. The most recent of the tuition increases is the $75 increase, which will produce more financial burdens on the students.

This legislation was defended from the viewpoint of loyalty to the state institutions of higher education and "tough times" for the Department of Higher Education budget, according to Marsh. She stated, along with the approval of some of the other members present, that a $75 tuition hike was the only feasible alternative. The need for this increase was also explained by board member Honr. Harry Seyler as "uneven progress, legislature is not progressing at the same rate as students and colleges are asking for."

The period designated for open discussion of the issue began with a statement made by a single parent, who simply state that the new increase would make it close to impossible for her to keep her son in Mansfield State College at her current economic status. This set the pace for the discussion that followed. An overwhelming strain on students financially, and the distinct possibility that some of the students present would not be able to continue their college educations if the legislations would be approved kept with this complaint, and became the recurring theme of most of the speakers present. Dr. Terry Madonna, president of ABSCUF, built on this thought. According to Madonna, the rate hike is "unwarranted" attributes the necessity of this extra fee to mismanagement by the Department of Education. He also stated that there has been sufficient time to collect the money without the last minute measure proposed. Madonna supported the fact that the extra $75 will be hard to come by for many students, "Pennsylvania already has one of the highest tuition rates in the nation for public higher education..." stated Madonna.

There is another controversy surrounding this issue which was present before the meeting ever began. CAS Executive Director Joyce Cheeppodum explains that, "What is of real concern to the students is that the proposed increase is being handled in secret and out of the realm of public input and scrutiny by the Pennsylvania Department of Higher Education and SCUD Board... and we (the CAS) were excluded from the discussions on the proposal. Cheeppodum is referring to the fact that the students were only given a six day advance invitation to the SCUD meeting, which is against the SCUD rule stating that a 10 day invitational period is required in order to hold a meeting. This statement also refers back to the meeting slated for January 6, which was cancelled due to lack of quorum, or necessary representation. A closed workshop was held following this, from which students and faculty representatives were refused admittance.

The opinions of the students present were overridden by the 5 to 3 vote and the rate increase is now effective.

Despite the negative results observed, the CAS is planning to continue to protest the mid-year increase. According to CAS Vice-President, Craig Livingstone, "We believe that combined strategy will alert the citizens of this state about the alarming attacks to public higher education."

CAS Challenges SCUD Decision

By BARB KAUFFMAN

The Commonwealth Association of Students (CAS) is planning to file a class action suit against the State College and University Board of Directors (SCUD) on the grounds of quorum violation, a sunshine law violation, a question of retroactive fees and a contractual violation.

The quorum, or mandatory attendance policy, was violated when the attendance by SCUD Board members was reached by telephone. The two members needed to establish quorum did not attend the meeting, but listened to the entire meeting and cast their votes via telephones in the meeting room. This action is in violation of the rules of quorum.

The Sunshine Law states that meetings must be advertised in the newspaper 10 days in advance of the meeting. This was violated when the SCUD Board announced the meeting only 6 days in advance.

The question of retroactive fees revolves around the fact that the payers of the $75 increase are not receiving the benefits of this fee.

The violation of the contract occurred with the "fees subject to change" disclaimer attached to the billing forms. This is illegal in that the students are planning to pay their tuition bill in consideration of the state to educate them for a set amount of money. According to Eric Stonecipher, CAS Campus Organizer, "This would be like buying a car, and then having the car dealer come back after you have bought the car and say that you owe him more money."

In the court case, a plaintiff from each of the state colleges will be appearing in favor of the class action suit. The representative from Lock Haven will be Carrie Smythe.

Action against the SCUD Board hearing has also taken place on the legislative level. There is a bill that has been introduced to the House and Senate recently that would provide an emergency appropriation of $5.5 million which would deem the $75 tuition increase unnecessary. "Success of this bill depends greatly on non-payment of the increase. If the students don't pay the increase, it would almost force the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to pay," states Stonecipher.

Reynolds' Job in Jeopardy

By HOLLY WILLIAMS

Howard Reynolds remains as PUB director after the SCC senate decided to postpone until February 3 a vote on a motion that would terminate his contract.

The recommendation to terminate Reynold's contract came from a SCC review committee who organized last semester to investigate Reynold's contract and job description.

The decision to postpone the vote came after some senators were disturbed about the way in which Reynolds was allowed to respond to the grievances brought against him and also the lack of time he had to prepare his defense.

Reynolds said that he received a memo from SCC President Lou Alberse at 10:00 Wednesday morning which stated that his contract and grievances against him were to be discussed that night. Alberse said that the list of grievances could not be made available at the time the memo was sent, and the first time that Reynolds had heard them was at the senate meeting. Alberse said that Reynolds will be given a copy of the grievances against him for preparation of his defense.

During the week that Reynolds has to prepare his defense, Alberse said that Reynolds will carry out all of his duties, with the exception of hiring and firing, because of a freeze imposed upon him until February 4 by the senate.

The SCC grievances against Reynolds include disagreements in the interpretation of hiring policies, the amount of authority that Reynolds should have, what monies he is responsible for, and his advisory responsibilities.

PUB Administrator Karen Culligan urged the senate to become more involved in the affairs of the SCC, instead of turning matters over to advisors. "We're set up as a student government, and if we really want it to be a student government we have to be involved," said Culligan.

Alberse feels that the SCC has a strong case against Reynolds. "We're very strong. On tape we had admissions that there were violations," said Alberse.

Reynolds said that he could not comment because it would violate his contract which states that he cannot discuss SCC business with anyone other than the SCC president, vice-president or senate, without permission.

In another matter, the executive board in their January 22 meeting gave permission for the hiring of a part-time employee in the snack bar. The new employee will allow the snack bar to keep longer hours.

Senator Lisa Fisher gave a report on the results of the Fight the Hike committee's efforts to have the $80 room and board hike decreased. She said that the request was turned down, but said, "It's not over yet."

Christopher Theodore was appointed Social Committee Chairman. Alberse said that Theodore completed a leadership training class with the executive board, and worked closely with PUB Administrator Karen Culligan in planning the movie schedule for this semester.

Editorially Speaking

It's called paying through the nose to put it quite simply. That's what students at Lock Haven and our 13 sister schools in the Pennsylvania State College System are doing. We are being forced to pay an additional $75 dollars in tuition this semester, coupled with the $150 increase for last fall, and an additional $80 dollar increase in room and board which was passed by the trustees in a special meeting of the trustees two days before Christmas. Ho, ho, ho. In addition, if you happen to have a job on campus, don't worry about your hours. By the end of the semester you probably will be laid off because there isn't enough money to go around.

It doesn't paint a very pretty picture does it? What it could mean, and probably will, is that students won't be able to afford to go to school next year (if they could afford to do so this semester), which means that even more far reaching cuts could be imminent. Those more far reaching cuts could mean slashing funds for programs considered less important than others, retrenchment of teachers, or elimination of low enrollment programs. It doesn't mean that it will, but those are just a few of the possibilities.

Well, what can I do, you might be asking yourself. Not much as an individual, probably, but as a united group, there is an alternative. That's what the Commonwealth Association of Students is for, and they are fighting for our rights, not to mention our checking accounts. In addition, a statewide Student Solidarity Day is planned for Thursday, February 11, to build a coalition of students, parents, faculty, and others, to oppose the increase. The groups, to be known as Higher Education Advocacy Teams (HEAT), will attempt to put a little "heat" on the officials responsible for the increase. CAS has been working in Bentley Lobby all week, and it would be well worth your time (and money) to stop and check it out if you already haven't done so.

CAS is also advocating that students do not pay the $75 increase until March 1. CAS plans to file a class action suit to have the increase voided because of alleged illegalities in the manner in which the increase was passed. Another reason that you may want to consider the action is that a bill was introduced this week in the state house and senate that would give an emergency appropriation of $5.5 million to the state schools, which if passed, would cover the $75 increase.

The time to act is now. Let's be prepared.

CAS, Commonwealth Association of Students, is an organization set up to benefit you the student. CAS originated on the Lock Haven campus in 1973. This statewide association consists of 14 chapters, one at each of the 14 state colleges and universities of Pennsylvania. The purpose of CAS is to promote low-cost high-quality public higher education within the commonwealth for all citizens. CAS works in conjunction with the legislators and senators of PA to see that our best interests are being considered.

Each one of you is a member of CAS. The $1 refundable fee that you pay as part of your activity fee is your membership.

CAS is here for the student and we are interested in your concerns.

CAS is planning a statewide student activist week from Feb. 1-5. During this week, we will present a variety of activities to get the students informed and show them how they can get something accomplished. This week will culminate with a rally on Thursday February 4th at each of the 14 state colleges and universities. The recent $75 increase in tuition has become an important issue directly affecting every student on this campus. CAS is here to inform the students on all the issues that directly affect them. We can be heard in Harrisburg, if students on this campus would tell us what bothers them and help us to get something done about those concerns. Our office is located in the lower level of the PUB near the Eagle Eye office.

Dear Editor,

The first SCC Senate meeting of 1982 was held Wednesday night, and I believe it was a good indication of what is to come. There was a typical agenda, except that under new business there was discussion about terminating the employment contract of PUB Director, Howard T. Reynolds. The discussion took place after a Director Review Committee gave its report and recommended that Reynolds be dismissed.

The only problem with the meeting was that the Senate was unwilling to take the proverbial bull by the horns, opting to shoot it instead. After President Lou Alberse cited the list of constitutional and contractual infractions concerning Mr. Reynolds, the Senate discussed the matter and firmly decided to postpone voting on the issue until the next meeting. They did this in spite of the facts presented to them.

My gripe is this. If the violations committed by Mr. Reynolds are factual (and they certainly appear to be), what will the Senate prove by waiting a week to vote on his dismissal. The argument put forth by several senators is that Reynolds should be given a chance to defend his actions. He was given a chance by Alberse to defend his actions immediately or to wait until the next meeting after securing legal counsel, after he had heard the alleged violations. Reynolds chose the former and proceeded to admit to the violations.

The logical decision would seem to be prompt dismissal. If you or I worked for a company and grossly violated that company's policies or contracts, we would soon find ourselves at the unemployment office answering unpleasant questions. If we were really innocent of the violations, we would have to go to court to prove it. So, why is the Senate balking at fulfilling its role as an employer. The Director Review Committee was made up of current senators and recent executive committee members. Doesn't the Senate believe the findings of its own committee? Or is it possible that some senators have swallowed a fish(y) story, hook, line, and sinker?

In closing, I believe that the SCC Senate is a group of intelligent, well-meaning students or they wouldn't be there. However, I also think that they need to listen to and follow the leadership of an executive committee that is truly dedicated to the students' best interests.

Sincerely,

Ken Dugan

Danish Gymnastic Instructors to Visit LHSC

LOCK HAVEN - Two experts in gymnastics from the Danish Institute of Physical Education in Copenhagen will present classes, seminars, and public lectures at Lock Haven State College from Monday, Feb. 1, through Saturday, Feb. 6.

Community groups interested in hosting them or having them speak should contact Dr. Mathew Maetozo at the college, 893-2104.

Mr. and Mrs. Erik Pedersen, both professors of physical education, are currently on sabbatical leave to study physical education and dance in the United States. Having spent the fall months in the Western U.S.A., they will be visiting colleges and public schools in Pennsylvania during January and February, and will be in Canada during March.

Two of the programs being conducted at Lock Haven State by the Pedersens will be open to the public at no charge.

On Tuesday, Feb. 2, they will conduct a seminar on Danish physical education, recreation, and sports at 1 p.m. in the Hall of Flags of the new Research Learning Center. On Thursday, Feb. 4, they will give a demonstration of rhythmical gymnastics, using students and faculty, at 7 p.m. in Zimmerli Gym number one.

Both Lotte and Erik Pedersen are graduates of the six-year degree program in physical education at the University of Copenhagen, and both have competed in Olympic gymnastics. Lotte Pedersen has represented Denmark in gymnastics at the World Championships.

They are also experts in rhythmical gymnastics, a sport popular in Europe, which involves the use of implements such as hoops, wands, and balls, plus dance movements performed to music.

The Pedersens have been teaching at the Danish Institute of Physical Education for the past 12 years, specializing in Olympic gymnastics, rhythmical gymnastics, plus conducting studies in and teaching stretching, flexibility, dance movement, and sports activities.

On Wednesday, they will present a class on the physical education school program in Denmark, and conduct classes in conditioning, tumbling, and modern dance. On Friday, they will meet with other classes studying dance and gymnastics.

Their visit with schools and colleges in Pennsylvania has been coordinated and sponsored by the International Center for Physical Education and Sport in the School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at Lock Haven State College, in cooperation with the college's Office of International Education.

Energy Plan Initiated

By BRIAN SANSONI

An energy plan that will eventually enable students to receive a refund is planned to get underway this semester, according to Vice-President of Administration, George Marshall. The plan, devised by students Mike Pipe and Pam Feeney, was approved by the Board of Trustees at a special meeting last month.

Marshall said that any savings from the conservation program can go back to the students.

In regard to the $80 room and board hike, Marshall said that the increase was necessary to meet rising energy costs. Student Trustee John Stemler said that the trustees "flatly refused" to lower the room and board hike. Stemler added that there is "nothing more we can do" with the $80 matter.

Marshall, in regard to the proposed $75 raise in tuition, said that the college had nothing to do with that decision. He said that the State Secretary of Education, on the advice of the State College Board of Directors, decided to raise the tuition to help pay teacher salaries in accordance with a recent State Supreme Court ruling.

Marshall said that the back pay raise problem should be taken care of by the lawmakers since it was an action by them that led to the court case involving teachers' salaries. "The problem started in the legislature," Marshall said, "so the legislature is responsible to solve the problem."

Bald Eagle Matmen Shock Bloomsburg, 22-19

By KEVIN CAMPBELL

The matmen of Lock Haven State boosted its dual meet record to 10-1 with a 22-19 victory over Bloomsburg State before a near-capacity crowd of 1700 screaming fans. The Huskies, who had been ranked as high as seventeenth in the nation this year, could manage to win just two bouts the entire evening, but picked up two default victories to close the final margin of victory to three points.

Ken Whitsel brought the crowd to its feet early by pinning Todd Cummings at 118 pounds. Whitsel's pin, the only fall of the match, came with 1:57 remaining in the first period. Mike Millward put the Eagles ahead 9-0 with a 4-3 victory over Bloomsburg's Troy Dagle.

Wade Potter was victorious for Lock Haven at 142 pounds, winning by a count of 7-2. Ken Parsley followed with a 13-3 triumph to increase the eagle lead to 16-4.

Doug Buckwalter, Lock Haven's most consistent wrestler this season, was triumphant by a count of 6-3. Steve Williams then sealed the victory at 177 pounds with an 8-3 win.

Had it not been for two Lock Haven defaults in the final bouts of the evening the margin of victory for the Eagles would have been considerably greater. Bob Deponte, wrestling at 190 pounds, had to leave the mat with a closed eye. In the heavyweight match, Rick Peterson was carried into the locker room with a sprained ankle. According to coach Neil Turner, Deponte will return to action this weekend while Peterson will be out of action for two weeks.

The Eagles will travel to West Virginia on Saturday where they will take on the Mountaineers before wrestling against the Pitt Panthers on Sunday. The Lock Haven grapplers will not be at home again until February 20, when they will host Penn State.

Women Cagers Top IUP; Up Mark to 10-3

By MARTIN PFLIEGER
Sports Editor

The Lock Haven State Womens' Basketball Team boosted its Pennsylvania Western Conference record to 6-2 Tuesday night after dumping Indiana University of Pennsylvania 64-52 in Thomas Field House.

The Lady Eagles are 11-3 overall and have not been denied victory in six home games this season. Theresa Derksen led the Haven attack with 17 points followed by Sue Kuhn with 14. Donna Lawyer came off the bench to pour in 10, most coming from long range.

The Lady Eagles got off to a slow start in the opening 20 minutes but managed a 30-26 edge going into the locker room at halftime.

In the second half Lock Haven sustained their lead until the 7:40 mark when IUP went ahead 50-49. The Lady Eagles then outscored Indiana 15-2 to ice the victory.

Jeanne Serino's jumper with 6:18 remaining gave Lock Haven the lead for keeps at 51-50. Derksen pumped in seven of her 13 second half points in the final three minutes of the contest, while Kuhn added a pair of buckets to aid in the pullaway.

The Bald Eagles played well despite missing Derksen and center Helen Woltman, who sat much of the first half after picking up three fouls.

Poor foul shooting proved to be a thorn in the side of the Lady Braves, as they shot only 14 percent for the game, managing only two of 14 attempts from the charity stripe. Lock Haven also suffered from the free throw line, canning six of 16 attempts.

"The girls deserve a lot of credit," said first year coach Fred Riley. "They dug in and played very tough basketball. We beat a very good Indiana team last night. They got out on the fast break very well, but we made the adjustment to stop it."

"We're in a good position in the conference but we still have some tough games ahead of us. The girls have what it takes to win the big games and I'm very proud of them."

Riley also had praises for Lisa Maneval and Lawyer, who came off the bench to fill in at center and small forward respectively. Maneval took the pivot spot for Woltman after she picked up her third personal, while Lawyer played effectively while Riley rested Sandy Miller.

Although the women remain unbeaten on the Thomas Field House hardwoods, Coach Riley would like to see more support from the studnets. "We'd really like to see the sixth man (the crowd) start becoming more of a force."

The Lady Eagles are at home on Saturday, taking on Millersville State in a 3:00 PM start.

The hard luck Bald Eagle basketball team dropped another close decision last night to Western Division foe California St., 60-56 at the Vulcan's home court. The loss dropped LHSC's record to 5-11 overall and 0-4 in western division action.

Last night's game exemplified how the way things have been going for the Bald Eagle quintet lately. Three of their four Western Division losses have been decided by four points or less.

Last night the Bald Eagles were once again engaged in a close contest. The Vulcans led 27-24 at halftime, and the hosts led by as many as seven, 41-34 with 10:15 remaining in the game. The Bald Eagles' Mike Green tied the game up at 43-all at the 7:37 mark. LHSC then held a six-point lead, 52-46 with 5:14 to go.

The Vulcans then came storming back, and as in most of their losses this year, the Bald Eagles were once again on the short side of a close game when the final buzzer sounded.

Terry Gilman led the Bald Eagle scoring attack with 16 points. Bob Horodyski followed with 12 points. All-Conference forward Doug LeGette was held to only seven points.

Head coach Brad Black still feels that his team can come back and have a respectable season. "Things haven't been going our way lately, but these guys have a lot of experience," he said. "I'm still confident that we can come back and win some games."

Black also noted that the Bald Eagles have played the bulk of their games on the road, and he is looking forward to playing in the friendly confines of the Thomas Field House. "Three of our division losses were on the road," he said. I think things will start going our way when we play a few games in a row at home."

The team's main goal at this moment is to finish at least fourth in the very competitive Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference Western Division. If the Bald Eagles can accomplish this, they'll be able to participate in the PSAC Championship tournament. "We can still finish fourth in the division, but we can't afford to lose more than one game," said Black.

Indiana is undefeated in Western Division action and Slippery Rock has only one loss. Edinboro, who defeated LHSC by one point, has two losses, while Clarion has lost three times. Clarion is holding on to the fourth and final play-off spot, and the Golden Eagles are the team that LHSC will be watching very closely.

Clarion defeated the Bald Eagles 85-81 earlier this season at Clarion. Lock Haven will get a chance to avenge that loss this Wednesday when they will host the Golden Eagles at the Thomas Field House. The Bald Eagles will return to action tomorrow night when they will travel to Mansfield. The team then hosts a very tough Bloomsburg squad this Monday.
