MAT/GRE: grad. school requirements ?

by Jan Albright

College boards may have been the last big tests many undergraduate students ever expected to take. They are viewed as a last obstacle to surmount before starting college and working toward a career.

Well, guess again, because students applying to graduate schools often find requests for GRE or MAT scores, or both. Confused already?

The GRE is the Graduate Record Examination administered by the Educational Testing Service based in Princeton, N.J. This two-part test is made up of a basic aptitude test and a number of advanced tests given in 19 different subject areas.

Many graduate schools of arts and sciences, in-

by Carol Segars

Special Olympics return to LHS, thanks to members of the Council for Exceptional Children.

This year's Central Pennsylvania meet is scheduled for May 11. Special Clinton County games are set to take place in April.

A number of CEC members have volunteered to visit area schools in order to help exceptional children prepare for the Olympics. Volunteers will train and encourage participation in the games.

Dr. Edward Norris and Mr. Hank Goodwin, coordinators of Pennsylvania Special Olympics, will conduct a 4 hour workshop on Feb. 16 for CEC members or interested persons. At this time college participants will be familiarized with rules and training procedures for the mentally retarded.

cluding colleges of education, require that the GRE be taken by prospective candidates. Test fees are $10 for the aptitude test and an additional $10 for any advanced test taken.

The two remaining dates students have time to register for this year are April 27 and June 15. To take the test April 27, students' registration forms must be received by April 2 to bypass paying a penalty fee of $3.50. The closing date for guaranteed registration is April 9. Corresponding dates for the June 15 testing are May 21 for the last day of registration without penalty, and May 28 as the closing date. Recently given on campus, the GRE will be given at Lock Haven again January 18, 1975.

A competitor of the GRE is the MAT, or Miller Analogies Test. A high-level mental ability test, the MAT requires the solution of a series of intellectual problems stated mostly in the form of verbal analogies.

Students should be aware that, since many schools require the test, there is a center here on campus to administer the MAT. Dr. Crews of Counseling and Testing welcomes the opportunity to provide this service. It is helpful to the student who can then receive his scores in a short period of time.

Cost of the MAT is four dollars. Students are requested to pay at the bookstore and then bring the receipt to Dr. Crews at the time they have arranged for the testing. Dr. Crews reports that about 15 to 20 students take this test every year.

All testing bulletins and applications can be picked up at the Office of Career Services in Bentley Hall. This office is under the direction of Mr. Larson, who offers free career service to all students. Dr. Crews can be contacted at his office in Himes 107.

Continuing Education picking up

by Doris Checkanek

Enrolled in several courses at LHS are students of an older age bracket than the rest of the student body. Curious as to their identity?

They are part time students who are enrolled in the Continuing Education Program here on campus. Dr. Marcus Konick, director of academic services, is in charge of the program. Continuing Education is a relatively new idea having started on this campus last summer.

Right now there are 43 students enrolled in the program. This is four times the registration of last semester. Some students are housewives, industry workers, para-professionals, and retired workers.

The program was developed to serve the community. Noncredit courses were formed to meet certain demands. A minimum of 20 interested students is necessary for consideration of a new course, which then becomes open to all students.

Any high school graduate is eligible for enrollment in the 67 courses being offered. Enrollment can be for as few as one to three semester hours or as many as 18. The

by Doug Storer

The Indiana University of Pennsylvania Wind Ensemble will be appearing in Price Auditorium tonight at 8 PM.

The Ensemble, directed by Daniel DiCicco, is currently on a tour of central Pennsylvania. They will be performing here in a concert sponsored by the Bald Eagle Nittany High School Band.

Glenn Hostermann, band director at BEN, describes the ensemble as "an elite concert band." A concert band usually has only one man per part, explains Mr. Hostermann. The Wind Ensemble, however, contains nearly 60 musicians. Regular band instrumentation will be used.

cost is $31.00 per semester hour. Classes are conveniently scheduled not only throughout the day but also during the evening.

The program provides not only an opportunity for advancement and preparation in a career but is open to those who just want to take a course for personal satisfaction. Dr. Konick feels that the program is helping to bring "experience and cultural background into the classroom" and also the "recognition that education is not just for the youth but a continuing process."

Birth of A Nation - birth of an art

D. W. Griffith didn't invent film - he just transformed it into an art form. It was under his sponsorship that film became the most important mass art form that the world has ever known.

One of Griffith's most successful films, The Birth of a Nation, will be shown tonight at 7:30 p.m. in R 408. A second showing will be presented tomorrow night at 8 in Ulmer Planetarium.

As prodigious as Griffith sounds, his beginnings were somewhat less than grandiose. He began his film career in 1907 as an actor in a film titled Rescued From An Eagle's Nest. The bird that Griffith wrestled was really a stuffed turkey - and so was the film.

Griffith had no great love for the flickers - he just liked to eat. His ambition was to be a playwright, but failure forced him to become an actor for the Biograph Company.

Griffith received five dollars a day for riding a horse in the "Wilds" of New Jersey for one-reel Westerns. In order to increase his income, he began writing scenarios for $15 apiece. He was so ashamed of that fact that he went under the nom-de-plume of "Lawrence" Griffith.

A SUCCESSFUL DIRECTOR

Through hard work and initiative, Griffith was given the chance to direct a film. It was called The Adventures of Dolly. His cameraman for the film was G. W. "Billy" Bitzer. They spent the next 16 years making film history.

Dolly was an immediate success and Griffith spent all his time at Biograph writing and directing these one reelers. Griffith was such a success that audiences rushed to see a "Griffith" picture. With his success, Griffith felt proud enough to change his name from "Lawrence" back to David Wark Griffith.

PIONEER IN CAMERA TECHNIQUES

It was while Griffith was "grinding out some more sausages" at Biograph, that he and Bitzer developed most, if not all, camera techniques of film. Rival cameramen would bribe actors to see what new device was mounted on Bitzer's camera.

Bitzer and Griffith developed the cameo shot, the fade out and various other shots. Even today, nothing truly new has been developed - people are just rediscovering Griffith.

Griffith was the first to acknowledge that the camera was an integral part of the film. No longer was a movie just a stage play with a lens memorizing it.

Griffith left Biograph and in the summer of 1914, he began on a film that was adopted from the Reverend Thomas Dixon's novel, The Clansman.

MOST AMBITIOUS PROJECT

It took three months to edit and cost the then staggering sum of $100,000 to produce. That was more than twice as much as any film had cost

Dear Editor...

Dear Editor:

Having just returned from a visit to another Pennsylvania state college, where I learned that its Student Cooperative Council is now even granting monies to be used for athletic scholarships, I was informed by our Alumni Director, Mr. James Resser, that our SCC has refused on numerous occasions, to even grant him some complimentary tickets so that the executive committee and members of our own active and loyal Clinton County Alumni Association Chapter might attend an athletic contest after one of its campus meetings. I can honestly say, however, that I wasn't surprised to hear of these numerous refusals by our SCC, as I have witnessed many instances such as this one during the five years that I have been at Lock Haven State.

This SCC policy of denying our own Alumni Director a few complimentary tickets once in a while (and the same could be said for coaches with prospective student-athletes on campus) so that he could take our local alumni association officers to a "Bald Eagle" athletic event would have to rank, in my opinion, right before.

The Clansman was first shown publicly on Feb. 8, 1915 in Clune's Auditorium in Los Angeles. While tickets cost an unheard of price of $2 apiece the film was an outstanding success. Audiences were swept with emotion and author Thomas said that the film should be called The Birth of a Nation.

The Birth of a Nation opened on March 3, 1915, at the Liberty Theater in New York. The film was such a success that it grossed over $18,000,000 in the space of a few years. It was later re-edited and a dubbed soundtrack added. Variety estimates its profits to be in excess of $50,000,000 at this point in time.

A Birth of a Nation, has been called the world's first great film. Indeed it is in terms technique. Even by today's technical standards, it holds up as a masterwork.

The story, on the other hand, aside from being a bit corny, is racist. But then, a movie adapted from a racist novel could hardly be very different.

Despite the racist and the corn, The Birth of a Nation is a landmark film that should be seen.

The Tuesday showing will be preceded by 30 minute film about poets Allen Ginsberg and Lawrence Ferlinghetti.

side the SCC's other asinine policy of requiring faculty and administrative personnel of our own college to purchase activity tickets. All these two policies have done is to further discourage, rather than encourage, these groups of individuals from supporting campus activities. It seems to me that we can hardly afford to do this on a small campus such as ours where total support of programs is necessary in order to make them successful.

Thus, I find it hard to understand why our SCC continually refuses to recognize the tireless efforts of those individuals and organizations that do so much for Lock Haven State College. Are a few lousy complimentary tickets for an infrequent athletic event too much to give as a token of appreciation for the outstanding work which our own local alumni association does for this college? I think not. It's no wonder, what with instances such as this one occurring constantly, that we can't get our alumni to support our college in the efforts of its alumni, recently raised $33 million dollars over the past decade and have already launched another ambitious campaign to raise $69 million dollars over the next decade. Believe me, money such as this is not able to be raised by an institution which makes its alumni feel like "outsiders", as we do at Lock Haven State in many instances.

I would hope, therefore, that our SCC will take it upon themselves to abandon these two forementioned "backward" policies which they have instituted. Both policies have been very damaging to the institution in the areas of faculty-student and alumni-student affairs. I would especially hope that our SCC will endeavor to assist our Alumni Office in any way possible in order to help build the alumni support at this college which is so sadly lacking.

I hope each and every student will stop to realize that it won't be too long before he too becomes an alumnus of Lock Haven State College. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Rockets blast Eagles, 89-69

By Ed Bowman

Unable to contain the running game of Slippery Rock, the LHS Bald Eagles suffered an 89-69 defeat Saturday night.

The Eagles, using good defense and working for the good shot, had a 32-28 lead with two minutes left in the half. But LHS lost their composure, enabling the Rockets to score 7 straight points for a 35-32 halftime lead.

Leading the way for the Haven in the first half were Warren Goodling with 10 points, Mike Bergeron with 6 and Gary Knepp with 5. Bergeron led in the rebounding department with seven.

Slippery Rock scored the first four points of the second half to open a 39-32 lead and LHS was unable to get closer than five points the rest of the contest.

Almost the entire offense in the second half was Warren Goodling with 15 points. He hit an amazing ten of fourteen attempts for the game and wound up with 25 points. He was LHS' top scorer and took game honors also. Mike Bergeron with 10 Gary Knepp, 9; and John Miller with 7 were the other leading Eagle scorers, while leading rebounder was Mike Bergeron with 10 caroms.

For Slippery Rock Danny Kepka was high man with 18 points with Owen Long 16, Greg Munson 14; and John Thiebavel 12 the other Rocket scoring leaders.

Their leading rebounders were Peyton Tomblin with 12 and Danny Kepka with 11.

The JV's lost by a score of 59-46 with John Hoffman leading the Eagles with 13 pts. and 5 rebounds. Chuck Smidansky led with 7 rebounds.

Coach Taylor commented, "They pressured us into losing our poise a few times which enabled them to run. They were too quick and physical for us. They kept our guards well tied up and didn't give us many good shots."

The Varsity is now 5-7 and the JV's 3-3.

Swimmers shine in Sat. meet

In their best showing of the year, the men's swimming team extended their record to 4-1 with a 68-45 verdict over Binghamton University Saturday afternoon. Nearly every Eagle swimmer hit his best or second best time in his event, led by the efforts of Joe Barnes and Dave Woods, who relowered their own records in the 1000 and 200 yd. freestyle respectively.

Senior captain Jack Weaver kept his unbeaten streak alive through five meets, winning the 200 yd. breaststroke and the 400 yd. free relay. Weaver, who leads all LHS swimmers with 62 points, has helped the Eagles off to their best start in 8 years.

LHS to take the plunge against tough Vulcans

This Wednesday afternoon, Coach Harold Hacker's Bald Eagle Swimmers are on the road as they travel to meet the Vulcans of California State, California, a Pennsylvania State Conference opponent, has a tough team on hand and again should challenge for conference meet honors. The Vulcans, coached by Terry Scott, are led by veterans Hobart King, a distance man, backstrokers Gus Brickner and Tom Good, butterflyer Joe Suhan, and breastroker John Jeffries. Sprinters Jeff Borgoyne and Mike Jacobs balance out the California team. This will be the sixth meeting between the two squads, with California holding a 5-0 record against the Eagles.

already shattered the 1000 free mark, and Woods has lowered both the 200 and 500 free records. Al Rice has rebroken his own 1 meter varsity record, also setting a new pool record in that event. Jack Weaver is close to new records in the 200 IM and 200 breaststroke, and backstroker Mike Farren is on the heels of the elusive 2:24.8, set in 1964. Woods has a good chance of eliminating Kevin Hammer's 100 free record of :52.0.

Hacker also believes that Burns, Zuber, Woods, and Weaver will better the antiquated freestyle relay record of 3:36.1, set in 1965 by Don Faulkner, Gary Schaeffer, Riley Eaton, and Steve Rooney.

This season Bald Eagle swimmers have broken four school records, and most of the present varsity records are in danger of falling. This year's medley relay is close to breaking the record of 4:08 set in 1970. Farren, Weaver, Steve Werner, and Zuber have hit a 4:12.2, and Coach Hacker thinks that record will be broken at the conference meet. Barnes has
