

Students protest stalled negotations

Nick Malawskey News Editor

They came from all corners of the state. They came carrying signs bearing messages for Chancellor Judy Hample and the other members of the State System of Higher Education. They came to Harrisburg to make their viewpoint heard. They came by the busload, they came mad.

Chanting "Judy!" and "Come out and milk us Judy!" close to 500 students converged on the Dickson Center in Harrisburg, where a meeting of the Board of Governors had been convened to discuss the APSCUF negotiations. Demanding to speak to Hample, the mob became enraged when neither the chancellor nor any other representative from the State System of Higher Education emerged to talk with them.

Shouted A.J. Khandhar a senior pre med major at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, "You can't ignore us forever!"

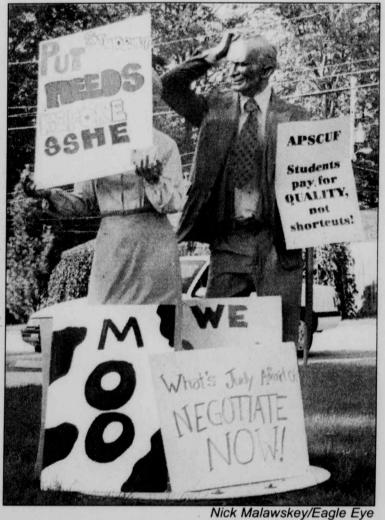

After nearly an hour of standing in front of the Dixon Center listening to speeches made by students and faculty members, the protestors gained entrance to the main building and swarmed into the foyer of the building.

However, despite allowing members of the professional media to gain access to the chancellor, a number of securi-

Once again, the fountain on Ivy Lane between Russell Hall and Stevenson Library was filled with bubbles. For at least the second time this semester, someone or some group of people filled the fountain with what appears to be detergent. As of Thursday afternoon, the fountain was being drained.

Jess Leshin News Reporter

Right about now, students are wishing for the sun to come back out and the weather to warm up again, but this year's homecoming coart is feeling the heat... the Tropical Paradise heat that is! Homecoming 2003 has been a blur of chalked side walks, spray-painted sheets and homemade T-shirts. Under the careful direction of Tom Donovan, this year's Homecoming, dubbed "Tropical Paradise" has had students and candidates participating in a slew of events all week long.

The five finalists, Kristy Baynes, Nick Slatterback, Tasha Stern, Chad Walsh, Lauren Youtz, Frank McMaster, Jenn Simon, Carl Wertz, Katie Wichser and Pat Grubbs, have been busy these past two weeks working on their campaigning. This year's court has come from all over the university, from sorority sisters to athletes to those who are student ambassadors and students involved in the University.

This year's court has taken part in eating whipped cream lecting money for their charity. Much of the court has agreed that this has been an awesome experience and one that they would never have had if they hadn't participated in this year's Homecoming. Chad Walsh said, "Thanks to the rest of the court and to the best running mate in the world, Tasha, it would not have been the same if it had been with anyone else, thanks also to everyone who helped, you know who you are, and to everyone else, it's been great!" Frank McMaster agreed, "Running for Homecoming has been the most absolute fun thing I have ever done! Thanks to my housemates and my girlfriend for putting up with me."

Luren Youtz and Kristy Baynes both agreed that their sororities, Zeta Tau Alpha and Sigma Kappa played a big part in getting them to the court, Youtz said, "Thanks to my sisters and the rest of the court for making this a great experience and thanks to Frank for running around in spandex and Tom Donovan and all the university students." Baynes agreed with Youtz, "Thanks to all of my Sigma Kappa sisters and my friends for helping and the rest of the court for making it a great experience, and good luck and best wishes to everyone!"

On Friday, this year's tired and frenzied candidates will be able to sit back and enjoy all that they have worked hard for over the past two weeks, it will be a time for most of the candidates to sit back, relax and take a breather as they ride down main street in Lock Haven for the annual Homecoming parade.

This parade is the culmination of weeks of hard work and campaigning. The fallowing day, Saturday will be filled with -, nervous jitters and stomachs full of butterflies, not only in the stomachs of the LHU football players but of those in the court. Pat Grubbs put the entire two weeks into perspective, "Thanks to everyone on the court, there is not a person or couple who does not deserve this title, we have all done our best and worked incredibly hard to get here, best of luck to all of Homecoming 2003's court."

Hovan receives ROTC scholarship

By Eric Hatch

ROTC Brief

Cadet Mindy Hovan just received a two-year Guaranteed Reserve Forces Duty (GRFD) Scholarship through the ROTC program at Lock Haven University of Pennsylvania. Hovan is a student at Mansfield University, majoring in Medical Technology. She is a native of Rome, Pa. and a Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP) cadet in the Army Reserves, serving with the 317th Medical Company in Scranton, Pa.

Having originally enlisted in the Reserves as a Transportation Management Coordinator, Hovan would like to use the knowledge she has learned in her major to make a career in the Army Reserves as a Medical Service Corp officer.

Hovan is unique, in that she is the first ROTC cadet from Mansfield ever to attend college at Mansfield while commuting to Lock Haven once a week to take her Military Science Classes. "It's something I've always wanted to do, so I looked into doing ROTC with LHU because the program wasn't offered at Mansfield," she said. Because she is only able to make it to class once a week, her Military Science Instructor, Sergeant First Class Gary Johnson, works with her one on one to bring her up to speed on what her classmates are learning that week. In addition to classes, she also attends the leadership labs held once a month on Saturday, and the Field Training Exercises

(FTS) held each semester by the ROTC battalion.

Hovan said that she has enjoyed her ROTC experience thus far, and would definitely like to make a part-time career of the military, serving in the Army Reserves. She plans to put in 20 years of service, and hopefully retire as a Lieutenant Colonel. She also plans to pursue her civilian career as a lab technician, so that she can eventually become a Hospital Manager. She would eventually like to continue her education and pursue a doctorate in biological chemistry.

For an hour and a half. Dylan and his band played classic '60s tunes such as "Watchtower," "Man in a Long Black Coat," and "The Times, They are a Changin'." Clad in black, Dylan sang every song without backup vocals and switched from acoustic to electric guitar between sets.

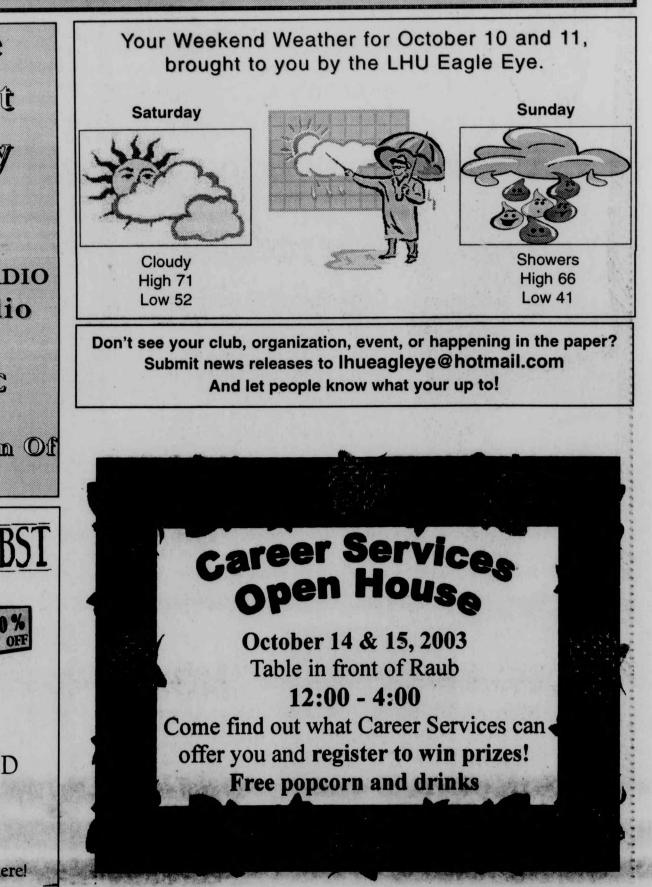

The audience got pumped up when Dylan played his harmonica.

Despite Dylan's "personal" style, he looked into the audience and smiled a few times when hearing the mob yelling, "Bob! Bob! Bob!" for an encore.

'Cutting education a step in the wrong direction' says students at strike

Students were, however, able to watch and listen to the proceedings via a live television and audio feed which was sent to speakers set up outsideof the building and a video projector in another building located on the Dixon Center grounds.

After nearly three hours of protesting and screaming, two of the student protest leaders were allowed to enter the conference and address the Board Of Governors. AJ Khandhar and Jesse Phillips asked the assembled system leaders to consider the future of higher education in Pennsylvania when deciding how to reach a compromise with the faculty.

Following Phillips and Khandhar's address, the students dispersed for the long bus rides home. However, they left vowing to return if the Chancellor and the other members of the State System did not seek a compromise in the negotiations.

Making memories means getting involved

Second time around

Gabriel Kotter Staff Reporter

I was outside my three bedroom mortgage the other evening, enjoying one of the last warm evenings of the season with my family, when we got a visitor. A woman who lives down the street stopped by with her young daughter.

They parked their stroller in our yard and we had a nice talk about the weather, what was going on in each other's lives, how our children are growing ... you know the usual chitchat among friends who now have kids to keep them busy and the conversation going.

The woman was also a close friend of mine in college. We attended Lock Haven University together back in the late 1980s. We were in theater together, and were members of Alpha Psi Omega, the National Honorary Theater Fraternity. She was a year ahead of me in school, and she thought enough of me to choose me as her "little". Anyone in a Fraternity or Sorority will tell you that is a special bond, and I was fortunate enough to have her as a "Big" and in return I was blessed with my own "little" a year later. Call it the Fraternity Circle of Life.

Anyway, she was dying to know how I was doing in my classes, and how things had changed since we were both there thirteen or so years ago.

I told her other than the fact there was still a George Bush in the White House, pretty much everything I remember about college life is now different as a nontraditional student.

She asked me if that was good or bad, and I had no idea what to tell her. It's just different...because I am different.

She seemed to accept that answer, but still pressed on. She asked me, "If your time in college is so different, is there anything that you miss?"

That was easy... I told her the biggest difference between now and then were "you guys", my friends. Every time I turn a corner, I half expect one of my buddies to crash into me with full head of steam, rushing off to some class, rehearsal, or meeting. THAT'S what is different sad to say, my friends did not return to school with me.

She seemed flattered that she and the rest of the gang were missed, but I told her to stop and think about all the good times we had, all the friends that we made, and all the tears we shed when things did not go as hoped or planned. Our friends were there in good times and in bad.

After our visit was over, I wondered if she ever took the time to think about the good old days...because some people never do look back as they move ahead. There is nothing wrong with that, but I really don't see the problem with now and then, resurrecting a ghost or two from semesters gone by.

I remember a little about what I learned in class, I remember a little about what I did in the residence halls, and I remember a little about all the work I put in to earning my first degree.

But I can tell you I remember a LOT about the people I met and the friends I made along the way. And that goes for my neighbors, my professors, my classmates, and the students who shared my extra-curricular interests.

I can't imagine getting through four (or five or six) years of college without my friends, and I can't imagine going through four (or five or six) years of school without getting involved in some club, sport, or Greek organization.

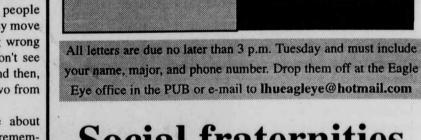

That is where you make your friends.

That is where you make your memories.

So the next time you walk by some sort of poster or announcement about this club or that organization, why not check them out?

It's fine to make friends in the residence halls, or at offcampus parties. I did my share of that, too. But if you want to meet people who will visit your house thirteen years later, get involved in some activity outside the classroom while here at The Haven. You'll be glad you did.

Social fraternities are not simply a waste of time the Your Opinion section two weeks ago, about Fraternities and Sororities. I, as well as many other Greeks, took high offense to one of the responses. Dan Riggs was quoted as saying, "Honors Fraternities are respectable, but the rest are just a waste of time."

A waste of time? My fraternity does over 25-30 hours of community service per semester on average. Some members do well over 50. Is this a waste of time?

Ask the children who benefited from the $2000 we raised for unfortunate children to have Christmas presents on December 25. Do they think it is a waste of time?

Ask the patients in the hospitals that receive blood transplants using the blood collected by "non" honors fraternities during blood drives run by Greek Members. A waste of time?

What about the money we donated last year for Breast Cancer research? Another waste of time?

I could go on and on...but I don't want to waste your time.

I don't know what constitutes a waste of time, but as far as I am concerned I don't believe helping others is a waste of time. Evil emails from unpleasant professors But thankfully, they are not from LHU

Heather Frank News Editor

For those of you who don't know, someone very close to me attends school at the University of Delaware.

Don't worry. That's not the point of my little rant that's about to explode.

For several days in a row, I had been hearing about this terrible history professor he has this semester. To be honest, I didn't really think much of it at first. I thought that this was just your typical professor pushing his students to be hard workers so they would excel in his class.

However, as the days passed and his complaints about him became more passionate, I realized that he has a really big problem on his hands.

He sent me an email containing a letter that the professor had written to his students, and I was completely shocked by what it had to say.

"Some of you may now feel that I am a pain in the bottom: in some cases, believe me, the feeling is entirely mutual.

"For those of you who choose to ignore my suggestion that you check on the course calendar (thanks for the respect), there is NO quiz this week. For those of you already griping that chapters 6-7 (which the next quiz covers) are not to be read till next week--uhh, the quiz is next

"For the 82nd time, NO the faulty quiz (chapters 3 & 4) does not count.

those who choose to ignore them, I have no problem whatsoever with that--just be willing to accept the consequences without whining to me or offering any of the conventional or improbable stories trying to "Instructions, calendars, quizzes, emails--what's so difficult?? I know I know, it's almost like being in college or somethun', huh."

Woah.

In the year and some weeks that I've been here, I've had my fair share of professors who, quite honestly, scared the crap out of me during the first few days of class. It's never been a situation that time couldn't heal though.

Granted, I've seen people cry about things professors have said and I've heard them badmouthing professors after class, but to be honest, I don't think these professors have ever actually been intentionally insensitive.

As weeks pass and the semesters seem to drag on and on, I start to realize that this 20 page paper due tomorrow is really for my benefit. At 2 a.m., as I'm finally starting the paper that's due tomorrow at 8, that professor's not sleeping soundly with a smile on his face dreaming of the all the terrible things he can write all over that hard work of mine in red ink.

Nope. In fact, he's probably not even looking forward to grading 200 plus papers that say the exact same things over and over again.

But that's not to say that the faculty isn't dedicated to their work.

There've been many nights and many Saturdays that upon wondering around campus, I've realized that some of our professors are hard at work grading papers in their offices or meeting with students. I think it takes a very dedicated person to do this and for that, I commend our professors.

When I read the email from the professor at the University of Delaware, I was completely blown away. If I were to have received that in my email, I would have taken it to the dean and asked if that's really someone who should be employed by a respectable state school.

You have no idea how much I appreciate the emails that my professors send out. Class objectives, internship opportunities, information about what's going on around campus - I really appreciate all of that. But don't be surprised if I get a little angry upon finding something nasty in my email.

Honestly, I doubt, I would ever find something that rude. Maybe one questioning my attendance or a poor effort on a paper, but that's to be expected. Professors who send out emails like that are simply looking out for your wellbeing.

Regardless, I want to once again commend the faculty for respecting our students and not making us feel like we're back in kindergarten again.

"I want to once again commend [the LHU] faculty for respecting our students and not making us feel like we're back in kindergarten again."

And fellow students, if I'm wrong on this, feel free to correct me

All in all, it makes me very proud of this university that I can honestly say I have never felt belittled to this extent by a professor.

The following article was contributed by two students from Lock Haven who are spending the semester doing a special internship in Harrisburg. It shares their views and experiences from their positions during their time there.

Tired of looking for the right internship that will help you get the experience you need before entering the real world? Well, we have the perfect answer for you. How does this sound? Fifteen credits, a paycheck every two weeks, nice friendly co-workers, interesting assignments, away from Lock Haven for a semester... sounds too good to be true? But wait, the best part is yet to come. It's in the Capitol of Pennsylvania! That's right, you get to spend a wonderful semester in Harrisburg working for basically any office you want. The State System of Higher Education has a special program with the State government to send one student from each state university to Harrisburg each semester to experience a wonderful internship full of fun, excitement, and some serious learning. We have been lucky enough to be chosen to represent Lock Haven in the Fall 2003 semester. (It doesn't happen too often that two students are chosen from the same campus, but because we have so many great students like you on campus, sometimes it's hard to choose just one). If you think that The Harrisburg Internship Semester (T.H.I.S.) is only for Political Science majors as many people do, you couldn't be more mistaken. We have had interest from different departments, including Education, Social Work, Criminal Justice, Recreation Management, Political Science, and others. So there is nothing stopping you from becoming the next T.H.I.S. intern proudly representing Lock Haven.

ranging from supporting a bill on expanding the PACE program to explaining that putting a red light in a intersection takes more than just a phone call from the Senator.

Every day there is something new and exciting going on in the office. Even if you are just talking to people, you get a lot of information about things that would probably not be discussed in a class. It makes you feel like you are a part of the "inner circle" of policymakers. The best part of the program is that you are considered to be one of the regular staff members, and are not looked at as "just an intern". Just by being here for a short time, I have learned that there is a lot more to the legislative process than we read about in the textbooks. The internship has also helped me to act independently, gain confidence in myself and prepare me to get my dream job in the real world. I have had a lot of opportunities to express myself through different projects, but my personal touch on things that were being doing by others, and in general just enjoy being part of something so important."

Being a part of the program you get a true understanding of how our government is run. Every day you learn something new. Through the program you met a lot of people and are able to make connections for the future. Some of the T.H.I.S. graduates have been offered jobs and are currently working as full-time government employees. This internship prepares

I do a lot of everyday tasks, such as answering the phone, faxing papers, making copies and distributing them; but I also do a lot of other things that are more exciting. For example, I go to the senate sessions and committee meetings with Senator Logan; I write letters to concerned constituents about issues Stephanie Ruggieri:

My office deals with consumers who have complaints about a certain business or company. Each day it is my job to go through the complaints and make sure they are filed to the right district. Other tasks I am involved in include writing response letters to consumers, doing research for the attorney's in my office, writing bill analysis on legislation specific to my department, and helping out in whatever way possible.

Each day I go to work looking forward to whatever is ahead of me. By being a T.H.I.S. intern, I have learned many things about myself and about my capabilities. You do things in this program that you never thought you would be doing. So far it has been a growth experience for me. I have met a lot of great people and know that I will meet plenty more in the future.

you for the future. You learn what it is like to have a "real job" and the responsibilities that come along with it. It helps you to grow as a person and learn to have more confidence in yourself and your work."

Working full time is not the only thing involved in T.H.I.S. We also have to write a research paper related to our job, do a bill analysis and some other shorter assignments, but it's never more than what we do on campus during one semester. There is always time to relax and have fun. Apart from a wonderful work experience, you get to live in a great city full of fun things to do. There is never a boring moment in either one of our residencies. We always find something fun to do, be it cooking together, going out or just watching a movie.

So what's between you and this great opportunity? You only need an application, your resume and a writing sample. You do all that and you're on your way to becoming the next T.H.I.S. intern!

The T.H.I.S. program has given us the confidence to go for the things we want to achieve in life, and it can do the same for you; so don't waste any time. Contact Mr. M c Q u a i d (kmcquaid@lhup.edu) in the Political Science Department and get an application form! Members of the Homecoming Court are mezmerized by the hypnotists' performance.

Students howled with laughter as "Billy the Trick Seal" performed in the Price Auditorium Thursday night. No, the circus hasn't come to town. This was one of the hilarious escapades students performed while hypnotized by Dale K.

Dale originally got into

After hypnotizing more than 50,000 people, Dale told the audience what to expect. He warned the potential volunteers that they may

You also shouldn't go under hypnosis if you have any physical conditions or if you're pregnant because it is very physical and fast-paced. The good aspect of being hypnotized is that the following morning, you will feel like you got an extra eight hours of sleep.

Katrina Brown/The Eagle Eye

Dale admits that at first he was skeptical if hypnosis really works. But after studying it, he realized that the volunteers are not mindless zombies who are totally under his control. All he does is take away their inhibitions and make them more susceptible to do things that moments were two males they wouldn't normally do. For instance, when they thought they were seeing Dale naked, they were only imagining it.

Under hypnosis, the volunteers rode "Uncle Bob's Hot Air Balloon Adventure," after the people who are enthusiastic. When you have afraid of heights received tranquilizers. They also milked cows in Wisconsin, as well as getting milked

What better way for the student body to get acquainted with the Homecoming candidates then by having them compete in a pie eating contest. The candidates were paired off and the ladies commenced the game by smashing their faces into the whipped cream. Once they finished this tasty treat, they took the chocolate piece of candy at the bottom and passed it on to their teammate, by mouth, and the guys then ate the chocolate and proceeded to their own pie. There was a tie between team Walsh and Stern and team Slotterback and Baynes that would be settled later.

Crowd pleaser Beth Baker belts out a tune to entertain an overenthusiatic crowd at Tuesday night's Coffeehouse.

Edward Savoy Staff Reporter

Eclectic, eccentric, and irreverent would seem to be the finest adjectives to describe Tuesday night's Coffeehouse. Any and all spectators that filed through the PUB's lobby between 7 and 9 p.m. were able to draw out of a musical melting pot of about every spice and taste imaginable. Nobody who attended left disappointed, but some may have left mighty bewildered.

Coffeehouse The began with a short set of cover songs written by artists that ranged from Oasis to the Barenaked Ladies to the one hit wonder band Semisonic. Next, the stage was turned over to last semester's "McEntire Idol" Beth Baker who performed a set of songs that utilized nearly every cliché that singer-songwriters have in their arsenal, but who sang with a definite conviction and to the tune of melodies that seemed derived largely from the best of folk music. She closed her portion of the program with a most unexpected, but most welcome cover of the relatively obscure Janis Joplin song "Mercedes Benz"

At that point, the Coffeehouse was turned into an open mic night with performances ranging from the Alanis Morrisette-like songs of Janine Turner, a soulful rendition of "Amazing Grace" by Seven Phillips, and a version of "The Star Spangled Banner" by a majority of the Homecoming court. The surreal highlight of the evening however had to be the "improvisational folk" music done by Sunshine and the Bermuda Triangle, a band whose members were Cody

McDonald and Sam Comstock. The performance was close to a mix between the sensibilities of Weird Al Yankovic and the popular TV show "Whose Line is it Anyway?" Nothing else in the evening could quite match Sunshine and the Bermuda Triangle singing about the perils of wearing socks and sandals together to the tune of Pink Floyd's "Wish You Were Here"

The evening ended with Beth Baker retaking the stage to engage in her own version of "Wish You Were Here", bringing the evening full circle before embarking on a loose improvisation of her own. With the sounds of a stream of consciousness rant about boogers (among other topics) in everyone's ears, the evening reached its conclusion.

Movie Review: Out of Time

F AROUND THE

Edward Savoy Staff Reporter

I had the first lines of my movie review written about five minutes before the movie began. Walking into a theatre that had a grand total of 12 people (including myself) in it and expecting another one of those formulaic "innocent man" thriller's that Hollywood does so badly, I fully intended this review to start with the lines "The theatre was so quiet, you could hear a cliché drop and, with this film, you heard them drop like atomic bombs" Unfortunately for me and fortunately for the film "Out of Time", this film did not give me occasion to use such a scathing criticism. Instead, "Out of Time" is a thriller that Alfred Hitchcock might very well have grudgingly admired. After all, Hitchcock specialized in tales of humanly flawed, but decent and innocent men like police chief Matthias Lee Whitlock (Denzel Washington), caught in situations that are beyond their control, but are nonetheless largely of their own making." Whitlock, in the course of money, the film, is ensnared by adulterous lust and misguided compassion (for Sanaa Lathan's character Ann Merai) which ultimately result in a crime that he didn't commit, but a crime that to occur to anybody until any person with an IQ over 10 would logically conclude that he had committed. The rhyming adage written by Sir Walter Scott, "What a tangled web we weave/When first we practice to deceive" might very well have been written for the situations that Washington's character consistently finds himself in. suffice to make it a un-However, that same adage suspenseful, un-intercould be used to describe the esting movie. Also, some of the film's premises stretch the bounds of logic slightly. For instance, how it doesn't seem very late in the film that Washington's character just maybe, just might, be engaging in a cover-up. Sometimes I think they should give IQ tests to movie characters before allowing them to appear on-screen.

LOCK HAVEN - The Bald Eagle gridders (2-3) open up PSAC Western Division action this weekend, hosting California (Pa.) University (3-2, 1-0 PSAC West) at 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 11

It is also Lock Haven's annual Homecoming game. Special pregame activities include a jerseyretirement ceremony to honor former Bald Eagle running back George Dintiman (1955-57).

The game can be heard locally on WBPZ-1230 AM and online at www.nsnsports.com

The California Vulcans own an 18-13-1 series advantage against the Bald Eagles. Lock Haven is 5-6 since 1981 in games played in Hubert Jack Stadium against the Vulcans, but has won the past three encounters on the home turf

The Haven offense was all but shut down and the Bald Eagle defense was on the field for almost 36 minutes as California put up the 34-19 victory over LHU at Adamson Stadium last season

The loss put LHU at 3-3 overall and improved the California ledger to 5-1 on the year.

California pounded away at the LHU defense for a total of 477 yards, while The Haven offense was held to its lowest production of the season, posting only 92 yards total.

LHU managed one offensive touchdown but its lifeline was prolonged by a pair of scores by the defense including a fumble return for score by Jon Nalewak and an interception return into the endzone by Ngoyi Mukusa. Maurice Walker scored on a 14yard rush to log The Haven's initial points in the first quarter.

California's Wesley Clemons posted 173 yards rushing and crossed into the endzone for a game-high three touchdowns. Garvin Graves pulled in a touchdown pass from quarterback Dustin Strayer. Two Cal kickers, Gary Amos and Mike Dalicandro, both split the uprights for a pair of field goals to round out Cal scor- in another two touchdowns ing

The Lock Haven offense produced its best outing of the season last Saturday at Cheyney University, posting a total of 512 yards and 42 points.

The Bald Eagles scored twice via the rush, three times through the air and another three times on field goals, going 7-for-9 in redzone scoring opportunities.

Earning his first collegiate start, red-shirt freshman Brian Camberg capitalized to throw for 195 yards and three touchdowns. Camberg has completed 19-of-39 passes with no interceptions for 280 yards and four touchdowns on the season. Backing him up is senior Tim Storino (5-17, 67 yds).

Receiver Rafael Smith reeled against the Wolves to bring his season total to four. Smith has caught 12 passes for 190 yards, scoring on plays of 16 and 28 yards last weekend.

Marcus Burkley came down with six catches against Cheyney for 88 yards, bringing his season average to 46.8 yards a game.

Starting tight end Jason Walther has five catches for 63 yards and recorded his first collegiate touchdown versus the Wolves with an 18-yard reception from Camberg.

Given the touted California (Pa.) rush defense, Camberg and Storino are fortunate to have senior receivers Adam Angelici and Scott Anderson along with sophomore wide out Danson Mwaura in their offensive arsenal.

The ground game is securely in the hands of junior tailback Maurice Walker and sophomore Chelstan Anderson.

Walker had 84 yards in the first half against Cheyney, finishing with 88 total on 16 carries. On the season, Walker now averages 68.6 yards with two touchdowns.

Anderson worked primarily in the second half, gaining 77 yards including a 31-yard touchdown run as time expired.

On the year, he averages 45.0 yards per game and has tallied three scores. Halfbacks Josh Stadulis (6.2 ypg) and Travis Diehl (4.0 ypg) have both also contributed to the offensive output.

The Bald Eagles have maintained consistency in the trenches, fronting center Jason Scott, guards Eric Scaife and Steve Szoboscan and tackles Kevin Scheidler and Bill Cook

Lock Haven defenders hope their big performance versus the Wolves carries over to this weekend after holding Cheyney to only 56 yards rushing and 224 passing.

The LHU defense blocked two field goal attempts and caused five turnovers versus the Cheyney Wolves -- four interceptions and a fumble recovered by the Bald Eagles.

Of the five turnovers, four set up Haven touchdowns.

Playing at strong safety, Rob Carey (23 TT, 1 INT) led the way with eight tackles, a forced fumble, interception and blocked kick.

Free safety Will Jones posted four tackles and an interception against Cheyney, upping his season total to 18 total stops.

Taking over at cornerback is sophomore Matt Shealy.

Shealy had three tackles, an interception and two addition pass break-ups versus the Wolves.

After posting six tackles and a break-up last weekend, sophomore Ngoyi Mukusa (23 TT) joins. Shealy at the right corner slot.

A strong linebacker unit is manned by seniors Derrik Metz and Dan Wissinger.

Metz leads LHU and is among PSAC leaders with 38 total stops and is also the Haven's front-runner in tackles for loss (5.5) and interceptions (2).

Wissinger has collected 28 stops, including a pair behind the line of scrimmage. Junior Charles Cannon (22 TT, 4 TFL) joins Metz and Wissinger on the starting unit.

Up on the line, the Bald Eagles start junior tackles Jarrod Hendricks (Rockton/DuBois Area) (8 TT, 1 TFL) and Jason Kasheta (2 TT).

Junior Dustin Shaffer (10 TT, 2 TFL, 1 FR) and senior Devin O'Rourke (11 TT, 1 TFL) take over at both defensive end spots.

The Haven return team needs no introduction -- seniors Carey (21.3 ypr) and Burkley (18.5 ypr) share duties with Rafael Smith (17 ypr) in kickoff returns while Carey (5.0 ypr) handles punt returns.

Dan Hagerman made a season-high of three field goals versus Cheyney, logging distances of 22, 22 and 18-yards.

He is 6-for-10 on field goal attempts and 6-for-6 on point after kicks.

Women's soccer ends three-game losing streak

Mann Cannon Staff Reporter

The women's soccer team split two games this week to set their record at (4-8-1).

The Haven won Wednesday in a great game played by their defense.

The Bald Eagles completely shutdown Shippensburg's offense, only allowing them three shots on goal.

Lock Haven captured their second conference win and brings their record to (4-8-1, 2-3-1).

They scored the game's only goal on a kick by Holly Homsher, which sailed too far Kimberly where past, Thompson headed the ball into the back corner for the onegoal lead.

This goal also turned out to decide the game because of great defense from the team.

The defense was lead by Freshman Diane Wall who had 3 saves.

On Saturday afternoon, the Lock Haven hosted C.W Post (5-6) for a very exciting contest.

The Haven found themselves in the lead, in the first out of this 2-1 deficit and the half of action.

A goal by Danielle Smith and the assist by Brooke Rangi gave them the advantage.

The goal came off of a high free kick from Rangi that was converted to a goal .

C.W. Post would not take long to respond, after a scuffle in front of the Bald Eagles goal C.W. Post finally capitialized

They kicked the ball past the Bald Eagles goalkeeper for the 1-1 tie in the 30th minute of the game.

In the 49th minute C.W Post would score another goal to put themselves ahead for good.

The Haven could not fight game finished with that score.

The Bald Eagles have another tough conference game coming up on Saturday against East Stroudsburg University at 12 p.m.

LOCK HAVEN - The volleyball team improves to 18-2 overall and remains undefeated, 5-0, in conference play after a 3-0 win on the road at California University this evening.

The Bald Eagles won game one by the two-point minimum, 32-30, were strong in game two, 30-23, and ended with a come-from-behind, 31-29, victory for game three and the match.

Pacing the Haven in the trio of close games was freshman middle Cherry Li, who recorded 13 kills, seven digs and two blocks.

Kristi Kauffman was key in the defensive effort with a game-high 22 digs along with eight kills to speed up the offensive attack.

Other key contributors included Lillian Bortoto with Allison Furry handled the setting duties, tallying 39 help generate the offense.

The team captured a win in its opening match of the LHU Classic, taking Mercy College improves its overall record to 15-1 with the win.

The Haven emerged victorious in what played out to be an extremely close match-up in all three games.

35-point second half boosted the Bald Eagle gridders (2-3) past Cheyney University (2-3), 42-7, on Saturday afternoon at O'Shields-Stevenson Stadium in Cheyney, Pa.

The win ensured the safety of Lock Haven's unblemished record against the Wolves for another year, making it the 13th straight time the Bald Eagles have pocketed the win

The Bald Eagles posted a season-best 302 yards rushing along with 210 yards through the air to outweigh the offensive production of the Wolves, 512-277.

Defensively, LHU allowed only 56 yards on the ground, blocked two kicks and the pass defense came up big with four interceptions, three which led to touchdowns.

On their fourth possession, LHU received the ball at the home 29 yard line and made good on the field position on the third play from scrimmage with a 16vard connection from Brian Camberg to Rafael Smith.

The Danny Hagerman kick was good to give the Cheyney's first scoring opportunity came in the second quarter as they set up for the 43-yard field goal attempt, but Lock Rob Haven's Carey blocked the kick and LHU regained the ball. Hagerman would attempt a 31-yard field goal on the following drive but missed to the left.

Bouncing back on offense, the Wolves assembled an 80-yard push down the field capped off with a pass from Errieck Stewart to Ed Giddings from 15 yards to tie up the game at 7-7 before the close of the first half.

The Bald Eagles took their opening drive and came out with a 22-yard field goal by Hagerman just over four minutes into the quarter.

Lock Haven's next possession was halted at the Cheyney 22-yard line, but on the Wolves' first attempt from scrimmage, LHU's Will Jones picked off Stewart's pass.

A penalty moved the ball back another 10 yards but four plays later an 18yard Camberg pass ended up in the hands of tight end Jason Walther in the endzone for his first touchkick for the 36-7 advandown of the season and the 17-7 Lock Haven lead.

Rafael Smith and Camberg paired up for Smith's second score of the game late in the third quarter, Smith carting a 28-yard reception into the endzone to bring Lock Haven to a 23-7 advantage. Hagerman split the uprights for two of his three field goals in the fourth quarter, hitting a 22-yarder with 12:16 on the clock and an 18-yard kick with 4:01 remaining.

Following Hagerman's 22-yard field goal, Rob Carey ended the ensuing Cheyney drive with his first interception of the season and returned it 17 yards into CU territory to set up another Haven score.

Red-shirt freshman running back Derek Marshall took the handoff on three of LHU's four plays and completed the drive with an eight yard dash into paydirt for his first collegiate touchdown and the 33-7 lead at the 9:01 mark.

Marshall picked up 19 yards on three successive carries in LHU's next possession before the Haven turned to Hagerman again;

the freshman making good this time on the 18-yard

As time faded, the Haven found itself in a third down-and-one situation from the 31-yard line.

This time back-up quarterback Tim Storino handed off to Chelstan Anderson who powered his way through the maze of defenders and broke into the endzone on a 31-yard run to bring the final score to 42-7 after the extra point kick was not attempted.

Maurice Walker and Anderson combined for 164 yards rushing, Walker posting 87 on 16 carries and Anderson recording 77 and the touchdown on 11 attempts.

Brian Camberg stepped into his first collegiate start to throw for 195 yards on 14-of-33 passing with three touchdowns, connecting with receiving leaders Marcus Burkley (6 catches, 88 yds) and Rafael Smith (3 catches, 61 yds, 2 TDs). Rob Carey was the defensive leader with eight stops, including six solos, a forced fumble and an interception.

Ngoyi Mukusa added six stops.

The Bald Eagles will be back in action Saturday against California at 2 p.m. for the Homecoming game.
