Tuition decrease planned for next semester

By Lisa Newmiller
Staff Reporter

There will be a $52 decrease in tuition next semester for students at Lock Haven and the 13 other state universities.

The decrease totals $26 for each semester of the 1988-1989 year. Scott K. Shewell, Director of Public Relations for the State System of Higher Education said, "It's easier to decrease the entire amount from the spring semester than to reimburse each student."

Tuition for next semester will now be $1,013 for full-time undergraduate and graduate Pennsylvania residents.

The decrease was made possible by a bill signed into law last week by Governor Robert Casey. It gives supplemental funds to the State System of Higher Education.

These supplemental funds provide an additional $4.43 million to educational and general appropriations for the State System.

According to Shewell, the source of the extra funds are the state tax dollars.

Appropriations for higher education will now total $311,594,000 for the fiscal year 1988-1989. It is a 5.5 percent increase over the 1987-1988 appropriations.

Originally, the State System received appropriations totaling $307,164,000.

However, the Board of Governors raised tuition $150 in July to $1,065 per semester. The board stipulated that any additional funds would be used to reduce tuition for the spring semester of 1989.

"There was no single force behind the decrease," said Shewell.

"It was the result of careful consideration of the Legislature considering students needs."

"The board is extremely pleased with the consideration given to our appropriation needs by the Legislature," Board chair F. Eugene Dixon, Jr. said. "The additional funds allow the State System to maintain its mission of providing a quality education to the citizens of Pennsylvania at an affordable cost."

A supplemental budget has also been passed. It allocates money to the individual state institutions for improvement projects.

The State Systems total appropriations for the 1988-1989 fiscal year are a 7.5 percent increase over 1987-1988.

Native American program to discuss modern concerns

By Emilee Groce
News Editor

A presentation on "Modern Perspectives on Native American Issues" is scheduled for October 24.

Richard Kaiser, an American Indian, will address an audience of anyone who wishes to attend. The program will be at 2:10 p.m. in the Hall of Flags in Robinson Hall.

The presentation will bring up the problems and concerns of the Indians in these modern times.

"Many people tend to look at Indians in a stereotyped manner; the cowboys and Indians way," said Judy Brink, assistant professor of anthropology and social work.

"This brings up the very modern problems the Indians have."

"Unlike many other ethnic groups," Brink said, "the Indians don't want to assimilate. They want to maintain their individual culture and heritage."

Richard Kaiser, the speaker, is the president of the American Indian Association at Penn State University.

Kaiser is an American Indian and a graduate student in Education at PSU.

According to Brink, the American Indian Association acts as a clearing house for all Indians. It gives them a cultural center to make it possible to get information to non-Indians.

Brink added that the center also acts as a support group.

LHU offers police training course

Matthew Costantino
Staff Reporter

A 520-hour basic police officer training course will be offered to students at Lock Haven University.

Classes for the $1,500 course will start at the beginning of the spring semester. The course is in response to the Act 120 requirement mandating that police personnel have advanced training. Individuals interested in preparing themselves for a law enforcement of criminal justice career can also sign up.

Lt. Dennis Grenninger of Lock Haven University Division of Law Enforcement and safety took the course himself in 1978 at Shippensburg University.

Grenninger commented, "Even though only local and area policemen have signed up for the course so far, I would be very interested in having college students sign up."

The course, although offered on campus, carries no college credits, it would be taken in addition to a regular course load.

Requirements for enrolling in the course include a physical and psychological examination, a background investigation, and an interview with the director of the Criminal Justice Training Center. The Center is located at Indiana University of Pennsylvania (IUP).

For more information on the course, contact Lt. Grenninger at Lock Haven University Law Enforcement, (717) 893-2278, or the Criminal Justice Training Center at (412) 357-4054.

Facing the issues...

Students to debate with Hoberman

By John P. Elder
Editor-in-Chief

Professor Al Hoberman will answer student questions about political views this Monday night in Ulmer Planetarium.

Hoberman will debate issues with a panel of selected students as part of a political program sponsored by the Student Cooperative Council (SCC).

Hoberman, a local candidate for state representative, was originally invited to participate in a debate with opponent Russ Letterman. However, after two refusals from Letterman, students were selected to conduct a debate.

Panel members are Kevin McNamara, Paul Knappenberger, Rick Busko, and John Fluharty. Student Mabelle Grace will be acting as moderator.

The debate is slated for 8 p.m. and all students are encouraged to attend.

Dear Editor:

This letter concerns Stephanie Egelston and Dan Potts. Steph, why do you feel that you worked harder than most of the other candidates? Did you make more signs? Did you ask more people to vote for you? What gives you the right say that, when you have absolutely no idea how hard the other candidates worked?

If you represented the "independents," and they aren't a group, then what did you represent? The entire free world?

The definition of a group is "a number of individuals considered together because of certain similarities." If the fact that you all wear the same sweatshirts with the same letters isn't similar, then I don't know what is.

The only difference between your "group" and Greek organizations is that they have to work for their letters, they just can't buy them. Greek organizations also have rules, but I have never heard one that told me who I could or could not "hang out with."

Kristina E. Straley

Dear Editor,

I would like to address the issue brought about in Emilee Groce's Tuesday, Oct. 18 article on the GDI's Homecoming King and Queen victory.

First of all, Emilee, if your article was intended to inform the people of LHU of our new King and Queen, why did it result in a GDI vs. Greek altercation? Your article did not capture the essence of their victory: it simply provoked unnecessary retaliation between Greeks and non-Greeks.

Second, anyone who believes that the LHU Greeks hold a hostile attitude toward GDI is under a terrible misconception. This ignorance needs to be eliminated. Remember, you have to be a GDI before you become Greek. We were not born with letters on our chests. We actively recruit GDI's each semester to become members of our organizations.

Third, and most importantly, I know of no Greek organization on this campus or anywhere that tells its members who they can and can not associate with. That would be absurd! We actually encourage our members to play an active role in all worthwhile school and community activities. We value strongly personal interaction outside of our respective organizations. Greeks are in no way restricted to whom they may hang around with.

I don't want this letter to sound like a personal pop shot at Dan and Steph because of the fact that I was in the Homecoming Court myself. They are both good people and truly deserved to win. I just want to clarify the fact that there are no adverse feelings among the Greeks toward non-Greeks. In fact, our feelings are quite opposite. It is the goal of each Greek organization to be as popular as possible with GDI's. As I have already stated, you are the people we draw from.

Sincerely,

Thomas J. Seelig
Interfraternity Council President

Dear Editor,

This is in response to the Homecoming article in Tuesday, October 18, 1988 edition of the Eagle Eye. While we do like Stephanie Egleston and Don Potts and congratulate them for winning, we feel obligated to comment on some things they were quoted as saying.

Our first comment is in reference to the numerous referrals of "Greek Opposition." On behalf of ourselves and our entire sorority, (Sigma Kappa) we can honestly say that we wished Steph and Dan nothing but luck and felt they had just as much right to win as anyone else; but not more of a right because they had to "work harder." Everyone involved in the campaign had to work very hard. We also know that some of Steph's roommates are members of a different Greek organization and that they also supported Steph, and encouraged her 100%.

Another issue that has to be addressed is the comment, "The reason we are independent is because we like to be able to hang around with whoever we want. No one has any right to who we can or can't hang out with." In our personal experiences, no one has ever told us who we can or cannot "hang out with." We still have many, many friends who are not members of a Greek organization or any organization for that matter, and we hang out with them whenever we'd like.

That comment is an assumption derived from misinformation gathered from people looking from the outside into things they don't understand. We would never publicly - or privately - slander what the GDI's believe in, and we do not appreciate it being done to us.

Although we are affiliated with a Greek organization, we still judge people by who they are as a person, not what they are - GDI, Greek or otherwise.

Dear Editor:

It's time someone says something about the length of the fall semester. I've put up with it for five years now, thankfully, it's my last. This year we go 57 straight school days and 80 total days without a single day off (weekends don't count).

Most schools have a "Fall Break" or something of the like this time of year. College students need more than a weekend off every five days!

Look at the spring semester - we have spring break in March and Easter break three or four weeks later. In 1984 and 1985, spring break was always over Easter and we had to come back to school Easter Sunday. People finally complained enough to have it changed.

Maybe the fall semester can get changed too! Yes, maybe you'll have to start before Labor Day, but so what; you'll get that day off too.

Michael Boyer

News Editor's Note:

To Thomas Seelig: as the news editor, I handle only the news. I do not bias my stories, rather I base my articles on the information I am given. I apologize for the angle of my stories offending anyone, but I am not the one who spoke the quotes. Who are you to tell me how to write? I also apologize to Dan and Steph.

Army-bound Mazza does it all

By Suzanne Bryla
Staff Reporter

Mike Mazza plans to be in active duty with the Army next year at this time, but for now he is actively involved in LHU.

Mike is last year's "Most Inspirational" wrestler. This year, his fifth year in wrestling, Mike is student coaching.

Mike remembers the support he got from his Lambda Chi fraternity brothers. "The fraternity always came to the wrestling matches and cheered for the team," he said.

Mike has been a brother of Lambda Chi since the Spring of 1986. This is his second semester as president of the fraternity.

Since Mike became president, Lambda Chi has won Greek Olympics for the fourth consecutive year. They also won Intramural Sports last year.

Lambda Chi also does various services such as a canned food drives.

Sloan features works of nationally known artist

By Emilee Groce

The currently featured artist at the John Sloan Fine Arts Center is Nancy H. Strailey, a nationally known painter and printmaker.

The exhibit opened last Monday with a reception at the gallery. It was open to the public and free refreshments were served. Strailey's works will be on display until November 10.

The exhibit is open all day and contains Strailey's paintings, prints, and pieces from her collection of authentic carousel horses.

In recent years, Strailey has gained national attention, as some of her works are on display in many major corporate offices such as Mutual Life Insurance Company, Detroit National Bank, General Motors, and Coca-Cola.

Her works have been displayed in some of the most highly-respected shows in the nation.

Strailey studied art at Penn State University and the Moore College of Art in Philadelphia. Her work has been

Police beat Bicycle and clothes stolen; car vandalized

By Scott David Bloom
Staff Reporter

Law enforcement is happy to report a slow week as far as incidents reported on campus. Lt. Dennis Grenninger told the Eagle Eye that no alcohol-related arrests were made during the Homecoming festivities.

"There were no real problems except for a few students over the age of 21 who brought alcoholic beverages to the football stadium," said Grenninger.

The students were asked to either dump the alcohol or leave.

According to Grenninger, they all complied quietly and no arrests were made.

On Oct. 11th, Law Enforcement officers recieved a report concerning vandalism to a student's car. The vehicle was parked in front of McEntire hall. It appears as if someone used a key to make a horizontal scratch on the front door and a verticle scratch along the back door. Estimated damage is $200.

On Oct. 12th, a student reported his laundry stolen from the High Hall laundry room. He claimed to have put the clothes (military slacks, shirts, socks, etc.) into the dryer at 1 p.m.

When he went to retrieve them at 4 p.m., they were missing. No approximate value was given.

A student reported a bicycle stolen on Oct. 12th. It was a 28 inch Limited Edition Suntour Kabuki 12 speed with a black frame, seat and grips.

Grenninger said the bicycle was locked up in front of Smith hall. Someone cut through the metal cable that had been securing the bike. The approximate value of the bike is $200.

If anyone has any information regarding its whereabouts, they are urged to contact the Law Enforcement office immediately.

Law Enforcement is also investigating the theft of an AESP Inc. computer switchbox reported stolen from an office in Zimmerli on Oct. 13th. No value was available at this time.

On October 16th, Law Enforcement officers responded to a call regarding the theft of the Smith Hall Director's parking sign.

The sign was found bent and badly damaged. It had been thrown down the embankment behind Smith and Woolridge Halls, where it was found.

Alpha Sigma Phi speaks Tune talk...

By Biff Miller
Co-Features Editor

On November 21, 1987, the Delta Nu chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi received their charter and since then has earned a respectable reputation.

Just last year, the fraternity claimed the Service Award which is presented to only one chapter in the entire country. The Service Award is given to the chapter exhibiting the most service to the community, college, and public.

Alpha Sigma Phi feels that community service is essential in promoting the image of fraternities.

"If each one of our brother's changes one person's perception of fraternities here in Lock Haven, then we've done our job," said President, Angelo Petrillo.

And it was the little jobs the fraternity did, (raking leaves and shoveling driveways among others) that earned them the award.

Many students get the impression that because members of a fraternity do not all live in one house, the idea of brotherhood is lessened.

Although Alpha Sigma Phi rents two houses, the Manor and the Half-way house (nicknames for the houses), they feel the closeness of brotherhood is not affected.

"They'll (the brothers) always be there for you whenever you need them," said Brian Catherman, head of Brotherhood Development.

In the future, however, the fraternity is looking forward to buying a house and expanding the organization even more.

Alpha Sigma Phi likes to see pledges showing the qualities of a leader.

Pledge Educator Tony Driebelbies, "We want someone who has good leadership potential so we can train them to take over someday."

Why pledge Alpha Sigma Phi anyways? "Because," said Treasurer Jim Milham, "it was the only fraternity on campus that I could give input and see its reflection in 20 years."

And current pledge Bob Fritz adds, "They're respectable. Someone you'd look up to."

Another outstanding fact about Alpha Sigma Phi is that last semester, they had the highest GPA out of all the Fraternities on campus. Again, they demonstrate how they earn respect, this time through the college.

With all the talk around campus lately about going Greek or remaining independent, Alpha Sigma Phi wants students to realize that fraternities do not categorize an individual.

In the words of Sophomore, Mike "Mecca" Metzgar, "I am as much of an individual as they come."

If you're interested in seeing what Alpha Sigma Phi is all about, come down to "the Manor", located at 602 Bellefonte Ave, on Friday night where they will be hosting a non-alcoholic party.

U2's new smash album

By Edward J. Connor
Music Columnist

Rattle and Hum--U2

In concert, there is U2 and there is Bruce Springsteen; and then there is everybody else. However, comparing Rattle and Hum with Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band Live/1975-85 would be comparing apples with oranges.

Rattle and Hum is not a live album, and is far from all-encompassing, the way the Springsteen set was, but is more of a compilation of live cuts and new studio releases. The record is in essence the soundtrack to the upcoming documentary of the same name.

The biggest question is whether U2 can live up to its own standards and hype surrounding the release. The answer is, well, yes and no.

This album is so good in parts that the rest pales by comparison. Especially on the live tracks, Rattle and Hum has U2 at its best.

Bono's vocals have not lost any of their intensity, and the musicianship of The Edge, Adam Clayton, and Larry Mullen, Jr. is flawless. And the best of the studio cuts, "God Part II," "Desire," the first single, and "When Love Comes to Town," featuring B.B. King in a vocal duet with Bono, stands up to anything the band has previously done.

Unfortunately, most of the rest of the album is sub-par. The problems start when the band tries to become a little too social conscious for its own good.

Bono writes in "God Part II"- "I don't believe that rock 'n roll/can really change the world," and then goes out and tries to do just that.

As U2 tries to look at the world through Dylan-colored glasses, they seem to address issues such as Apartheid as more like something required of them than something they believe in. Which is not to say that they do not support their causes, but at times Bono seems emotionally drained.

Also, their tribute to Billie Holiday, "Angel of Harlem," is far less inspired than, say, the one to Martin Luther King, Jr., "Pride (In the Name of Love)." And "All I Want is You" is little more than a pale imitation of "With or Without You."

But when the album succeeds, it really takes off. The live versions of "I Still Haven't Found What I'm Looking For," "Pride," and "Bullet the Blue Sky" stack up to anything on the Bruce set.

Despite its drawbacks, Rattle and Hum is a great addition to any collection and, of course, it is a must for fans. Few do it better than U2, and this record proves it.

Student Starguide**

For the week of 10/21-10/28

Aquarius(Jan.20-Feb.18)

Unselfish and giving as you are, you have the ability to give great advice and make many friends. However, don't let your goodness and tolerance blind you to unworthy and self-interested others this week. Do not take advice over your own intuition and judgement.

Pisces(Feb.19-Mar.20)

Making sacrifices and involving yourself completely in what you believe to be important is what you do best. Stop being so nervous and inattentive though. This week, settle down and build up your self-esteem; there's someone special out there who thinks you're special too.

Aries(Mar.21-April 21)

Always ready for action, you need to think before acting this week. You are very idealistic but don't let that turn into a lack of balance. Your ability to get ahead shines this week so be daring when it comes to romance.

Taurus(April 21-May 21)

Very warm and friendly yet strong and earthy, you always know exactly what you want, Taurus. Don't be so influenced by what others say and think. Your loyalty pays off, and taking things personally just isn't your style this week.

Gemini(May 21-June 21)

You tend to go up and down like the temperature on a thermometer; confined is definitely not your place of choice. Your attentions are scattered this week and after losing affection for your sweetheart temporarily, it returns. Get some sleep.

Cancer(June 21-July 23)

Your desire to explore, take risks in love, and move on is inescapable but true happiness is where you feel most at home. Very sensitive, loyal, and romantic, true love is not too far behind. This week, overcome your fear of ridicule and rejection and you'll find great success.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23)

Don't look for love, it is cosmically attracted to you. Your power of positive thinking and responsible qualities radiate this week. Turning heads is what you do best.

Virgo (Aug 23-Sept. 22)

After analyzing and categorizing everything, try loosening up a little. Practical and concrete, you'll get all your tasks done this week.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

This week you need a special someone for true fulfillment and happiness. Since you are sympathetic and kind, finding the warmth from friends is easy this week. Stay strong and endure any rough waters that come along.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Being so energetic Scorpio, this week may prove to be a very productive one if you just think clearly. You need to take action now and mend a broken relationship that you still care about. Be as self-confident as you appear but remember to remain as sensitive as you always are.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 22)

Your bright and cheery attitude never fails and your courage is admirable. Don't be so easily humiliated this week, you are to be proud of yourself. Your greatest luck in life comes from trusting yourself.

Capricorn(Dec. 23-Jan. 19)

Your ambition is stronger now than ever before. Sailing ahead is what you must concentrate on this week. You have much trust and faith put into you, don't quit. Thoughts of past love affairs linger but should be put behind you where they belong.

Send your ?'s to the Features Editors at the bottom of the PUB and we'll give it to OSCAR, then you can see your answer in next week's issue of Eagle Eye.

Dear Oscar,

I was at a party Friday night. My boyfriend was there also, but had left for a little while to go talk to some friends. I got tired of waiting for him so I decided to go find out what was up. I was shocked to find him and my best friend standing in the corner kissing. I left very angry and very hurt. I can't face either one of them now. What should I do?

HUMILIATED

Dear Humiliated,

There are plenty of reasons why you should feel hurt and angry, but don't let these feelings continue. Confronting both your friend and boyfriend at the same time is what you must do. Start off by asking them how they feel about each other and about what they did to you, then base your next move on their sincerity.

OSCAR

Dear Oscar,

No matter what time I go to bed or what time I set my alarm for, I can't get up for my 8 o'clock classes anymore. Can you help?

SLEEPYHEAD

Dear Sleepyhead,
Try opening your window a little and raising your blind before falling asleep. Maybe some crisp morning air and a little sunshine will help you make it to class.

OSCAR

Dear Oscar,

Weekends are so boring! Everyone goes home because it's so beat and then I know it'll be another boring weekend because no one is around. Where's this "incredible college social life" anyways?

SEARCHING

Dear Searching,

Stop looking and start planning. Take some initiative and have your own party with all of your friends. Find a spot, whether it be at a friend's house or on a mountaintop. A little creativity could lead to a great time and maybe even a bunch of new friends.

OSCAR

Dear OSCAR,

My ex-girlfriend plays with my head. One minute I'm a loser, the next minute, She can't keep her eyes off me. I still really like her but I can't figure her out.

BOGGLED

Dear Boggled,

Old flames flicker brighter some days than others. You should approach her and start a conversation on a better day and see if she warms up to you again. Decide whether or not she's interested or not, and take it from there.

Poetry auditions scheduled

By Joe Garrison
Staff Reporter

The LHU Players are sponsoring an evening of poetry reading this semester for those who are interested in reading or listening to their favorite verses. Students and faculty wishing to read either classic or original work are asked to audition their compositions on October 24 in Sloane 321, The Countdown Theatre. The audition will allow the University Players Executive Board to get a feel for the variety of what can be presented and how the works might be arranged for performance on the night of November 4 at 7 p.m. in Sloane 321.

There is no set theme for the evening, but the material will probably be grouped in different poems, according to Producer/Director Debbie Markowitz. "The evening will serve as an outlet for the love of poetry some people have, as well as create an audience for the young poets on campus," Markowitz said. In conjunction with the evening, Dr. Gary of the Speech and Theatre department will hold a master class on proper pronunciation and diction on October 27 at 5 p.m. in The Countdown Theatre.

Field hockey blanked by West Chester, 1-0

By Merritt La Porta
Co-Sports Editor

The Lady Eagles field hockey team suffered a heartbreaker on Tuesday, falling to West Chester 1-0.

It was the team's sixth one-goal loss of the season and drops their record to 7-9-1.

"West Chester is a very talented team," said Head Coach Sharon Taylor. "They got off to a slow start, but they've won their last six out of eight."

The Lady Eagles couldn't seem to generate any kind of offense throughout the game and West Chester took advantage of the opportunity.

The Lady Rams took shot after shot on the LHU net, and only good saves by junior goalkeeper Stacey Giorgio kept West Chester from getting on the scoreboard in the first half.

In the second half, the 13th ranked Lady Rams finally put one past Giorgio when Beth Barrell scored at 15:06.

Later in the half LHU had a chance to tie

"We were right with them throughout the game...It would have been nice to have won this (one)."

-Sharon Taylor

it up on a penalty stroke, but West Chester goalie Shelley Stevens made a save off the stick of leading goal scorer Missy Carman.

"We were right with them throughout the game," said Taylor. "Even after they scored we were playing well."

"I told the girls (after the loss) 'Look, after that many one-goal losses, it becomes more than just skills, it comes down to desire,'" she said.

"We have to be able to win those one-goal games," a frustrated Taylor stated. "If we were getting blown out four or five to nothing it would be a different story."

"It would have been nice to have won this game," she said.

The Lady Eagles try to bounce back from this loss when they host Ball State today at 3 p.m.

Hawkey shines bright...

Soccer team blasts IUP, 4-1

By Kevin Dickie
Sports Reporter

The LHU booters traveled to Indiana University of Pa. on Tuesday and recorded a 4-1 victory under some very difficult conditions.

Not only was the game played on a field usually used for football, it was also extremely windy making it hard to control the ball.

LHU adjusted well to the awkward conditions and opened the scoring after only 4:51, when Craig Shale scored his first goal of the season.

The booters have created a lot of chances from corner kicks and that was the case here. A Shawn Hawkey corner was re-directed into the net by Shale, a sophomore from England.

The Shale opener had begun what was going to be a scoring monopoly on the day by the English players, as Shawn Hawkey, Andrew Monteith, and Gary Ross all found the net in the second half.

Throughout the first half, LHU had squandered chance after chance as they seemed to find it hard to play with the wind behind them.

As the second half progressed it became apparent that playing into the wind was more suited to the Eagles style of play.

Twelve minutes into the second half

Shawn Hawkey ran onto an excellent pass by Brian Williamson, to lob the ball over IUP keeper Brian Connell from the edge of the 18 yard box.

Just over a minute later Andrew Monteith had made it 3-0 for LHU.

Recording his 6th assist of the season, Tibi Kobolak beat two defenders on the left side of the area before squaring the ball to "Monty" who made no mistake in placing it past Connell.

At this point it seemed that the Bald Eagles were destined to set a new school shutout record, but IUP's Marcel Verbas scored to deny them this honor.

LHU saved their best goal to last when Gary Ross scored in the 84th minute.

Connecting on a cross ball on the right side of the area, Hawkey headed back across the 18 yard line where Ross turned to strike a tremendous left foot shot which gave Connell no chance.

Head Coach Lenny Long was pleased with the way the team played.

"The condition of the field took away any skill, and I was pleased we came out of it with a 4-1 victory," he said.

The Bald Eagles are now 10-4-1, having won 8 of their last 9 games.

They play Slippery Rock on Saturday, where, with their present form, there will be possibilities of victory accompanied with a new shutout record.

Words of wisdom from coach Kurt Smith

By Terry Day
Co-Sports Editor

Men's cross country Head Coach Kurt Smith is in his fourth year of coaching a sport with very strict rules.

"The sport itself is a stringent one in that you have to be very discipline to be a distance runner," he said.

Discipline and dedication are the main qualities for being a cross country runner because it is not something you do on a every other day basis.

Said Smith, "It is something that becomes a lifestyle."

Smith said his influence in coaching comes from his cross country coach.

"I like to see athletes develop as a human being, both mature-wise and discipline-wise," he said.

Smith feels that academics are very important to athletes. Most meets are on Saturdays so the athletes don't miss classes.

"I always stress that their studies come first and can never really get in the way of the program," he said.

As far as the team's goals, "everyone likes to see their program improve," he said.

So far this season the men have a 1-5 record going into Saturday's match-up with Slippery Rock.

"The finances are not there for cross country to go and recruit, but once in awhile you come up with a Peter Fleming and Mark Anway," added Smith.

Fleming and Anway were cross country All-Americans for LHU.

Smith would like his athletes to remember him as a "person that cared a lot more about them than just what they did on the cross country course."

Men's cross country wins first; women still undefeated

By Terry Day
Co-Sports Editor

The men's cross country team won their first meet of the season by a forfeit against Baptist Bible College, Tuesday.

"A victory is a victory. It was too bad that they were bummed up," said Head Coach Kurt Smith.

The Eagle's runners were awarded the victory due to the fact BBC had only three runners competing. A team needs five runners to score points.

Despite the lack of BBC participants, LHU did score 25 points.

Baptist Bible's Frank John was the overall winner with his time of 27:50.

Kevin Wheeler, LHU's first runner and third overall to cross the line, finished with a time of 29:31.

The LHU runners to follow Wheeler were Tim Haring, 29:39, 4th; Marc Phillips, 29:51, 5th; Brad Reese, 30:29, 6th; Jamie Shea, 31:27, 7th; and Steve Pecesky, 32:27, 8th, and Jeremy Trout, 34:37, 10th.

"The kids worked hard and it was a well deserved victory," Smith said.

As the men won their first, the women's cross country team defeated BBC 15-45 to remain undefeated with their record of 5-0-1.

Lori Lingenfelter led the LHU lady runners and the rest of the field with her time of 19:08.

The rest of the Lady Eagles followed

Lingenfelter as they swept the first six spots from BBC.

Stacie Hebert, 20:21, 2nd; Jill Baumgartner, 21:20, 3rd; Julie Grasser, 21:46, 4th; Pam Sheppard, 22:26, 5th; and Joanne Pautz, 23:15, 6th crossed before BBC first runner Dawn Haub, 24:54, 7th.

"The times dropped because they wasn't enough time to recover from the meet on Saturday," Head Coach Leroy Straley said.

Straley added you need to run to improve but you also need time to recover.

At last Saturday's Homecoming meet, Lingenfelter led the team to a 15-34 win over Lycoming College, as her time of 19:10 tied the course record.

Hebert (20:02), Baumgartner (20:42), Pautz (21:13), and Grasser (21:13) finished before Lycoming's Lisa Rotunda, 22:15.

Other LHU finishers included Pam Sheppard (22:52) and Karen Cole (24:31).

Meanwhile the men's team lost a close one to Lycoming, 27-28.

Lycoming was led by Dave Harvey with his time of 28:40.

Haring was the first LHU runner to cross the line with a time of 29:13.

Other LHU scorers were Reese (29:37), Phillips (30:02), Shea (31:01) and Wheeler (31:03). Pecesky, (32:44), Jim Callipare (33:16), Trout (33:43), Rick Merrifield (33:45), and Bryan Prusinski (34:51).

The cross country team will travel to Slippery Rock this Saturday at noon.

Bibb attributes success to coaching staff

By Herb Samuels
Sports Reporter

Among the personalities of the Lock Haven football team, junior inside linebacker Jim Bibbs is one of them that stands out.

Bibbs was recruited as a tailback but was moved a year ago to inside linebacker where he led the team in tackles with 92.

"The move inside was difficult," said Bibbs who was also a standout defensive end in high school. "Rod Govern (Senior linebacker) and Greg James (graduate) helped smooth a lot of things for me."

Bibbs played high school football at Morristown High School, Morristown, NJ. There he stood out as a defensive wonder as a basketball player, and he was also president of the Student Government Organization.

He also helped coach youngsters and did volunteer work for the local neighborhood house.

Now Bibbs and his teammates take on the responsibility of learning how to win. That is one of the differences between the days before and after coach Tom Jones arrived.

"Before we went out and just played hard, it didn't matter if we won or lost. Now, we not only have to play hard, but also win," said Bibbs.

That was definitely noticeable after their best effort (Slippery Rock) ended in a tie. There was no celebration and no grins. Both Bibbs and Jones agreed it was "a great effort, but not a W."

Bibbs attributes a lot of respect and praise to the coaching staff. "This year, this is the best coaching staff I've ever played under," Bibbs said. "They showed us weaknesses in our defense that we weren't aware of."

He also attributes success to new inside linebacker coach Shap Boyd.

"Coach Boyd has helped me tremendously with my reads," Bibbs said, "I wasn't as keyed in as I was before."

The fault that Jones finds with Bibbs is an occasional lack of intensity. This week against Clarion, Bibbs is the least of his problems.

"There are two things I hate and that is Clarion and IUP," said Bibbs who has been accused by friend and foe as being too intense. "I was ready for them last Monday."

As for the future of the Journalism/Public Relations major, he would like the typical part of the American Dream.

"I would like a wife, kids and a house somewhere," Bibbs said. "But I also want to continue with football for as long as I can. I would love to coach. The things you can pick up in sports that you can't get anywhere else; I would love to pass that on."

Tennis team wins two

By Merritt La Porta
Co-Sports Editor

The Lady Eagles tennis team (5-4) swept both the singles and doubles competition on their way to crushing Mansfield 9-0 Wednesday afternoon.

"All of the girls played very well," said Head Coach Tag Helt. "I think the girls were up for this match."

Number one seed senior Lisa Stopper defeated her opponent 6-3, 6-1 while Rebecca Chase stopped her opponent 6-3, 6-3.

Freshman Kenna Werkiser was victorious 6-2, 6-2 and Jen Jacobs won nine straight points on her way to an easy 6-0, 6-0 win.

Junior Peggy Buckmaster scored a 6-3, 6-1 victory while Becky Boyce won by default.

In the doubles matches, Chase and Werkiser won by default, Boyce and Stopper won 6-0, 6-1; and Jacobs and Buckmaster won 6-1, 6-1 to complete the sweep.

"The girls knew we'd be going to the State Conferences this weekend, so I think they were ready for this match," said Helt.

Last Saturday the team faced conference rival East Stroudsburg for Homecoming and came away with a 6-3 victory.

Stopper had no problems disposing of her opponent, 6-2, 6-3, but Rebecca Chase had some problems and fell 4-6, 5-7.

Werkiser won easily 6-0, 6-1 and Jacobs took her match 6-1, 6-2.

Buckmaster stopped her opponent 6-2, 6-4, but Becky Boyce put up a fight before falling in three sets 6-4, 4-6, 5-7.

"Becky played a very good, very exciting match, but unfortunately she ended up on the losing end," said Helt.

The Lady Eagles took two of the three doubles matches with Chase and Werkiser falling 6-2, 1-6, 4-6; Stopper and Boyce winning 6-4, 6-2; and Jacobs and Boyce winning 6-2, 2-6, 6-1.
