Hedda Gabler Show Replaced

"Under Milk Wood" by Dylan Thomas will be the opening program Saturday of the 1961-62 Penn State University Artists' Series instead of the previously scheduled "Hedda Gabler" by Ibsen.

Jose Quintero and Theodore Mann are the producers of the play which is currently playing off-Broadway in New York.

This change in the Series was necessary because Hedda Gabler has cancelled its entire tour.

Michael MacLammar will give two performances in "The Importance of Being Oscar" in the second Artists' Series presentation on Oct. 13-14. The American Ballet Theatre will follow on Oct. 29.

Prof to Write Book Introduction

Dr. Paul Klens of the Science Department has been invited to write the introduction to the annual publication of the Society for Industrial Microbiology, "Developments in Industrial Microbiology." This is a volume devoted to publication of papers presented at the annual meeting of the society.

Klens also took part in a three-day botanical foray sponsored by the Eastern Section of the Botanical Society last summer. The trips covered parts of Central New York, including Syracuse University.

Johnson Discusses Indian Folk Lore

Robert H. Johnson, Chairman of the Art Department, discussed and exhibited Indian archeological findings before a combined assembly of the ninth grade Pennsylvania History classes at the Lock Haven Junior High Organizations and classes wishing to participate in the Homecoming Weekend are asked to contact Michael Sharbaugh or Virginia Drake from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6, in the Eagle Wing. All decisions must be made by this date.

The Homecoming committee offers the following suggestions to those groups who plan to participate in the weekend activities:

1. Any organization accepting funds from SCC to participate in the Homecoming Weekend decorations must produce these decorations regardless of weather or non-cooperation from the organization.

2. Any organization not producing any decorations must return to the SCC the amount of funds in full allotted to that organization within a week following the Homecoming weekend.

3. Any organization allotted funds must submit an itemized list of all expenses to the SCC within a week following the Homecoming Weekend. If all funds are not used, the remainder must be returned with the itemized list.

4. Any organization except the freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors may use the funds to produce either a float or a campus decoration.

5. If inclement weather prevails and the parade is cancelled, the floats must be displayed on campus.

6. After the parade, all floats will be displayed on campus.

7. Each organization will be held responsible for cleaning its area of all decorations before dusk Sunday of Homecoming Weekend.

8. Any organization not complying with the rules will be eliminated from the Homecoming Weekend decoration budget next year.

School. Mr. Johnson appeared before the assembly at the request of Robert Smay, a student teacher from Lock Haven State College.

Teachers Needed In Most Areas

Scholarships Are Available For Students

Many students are not aware of the scholarships and loans that are available to them for financial aid in college. One such organization is the College Scholarship Service. This organization is an activity of the College Entrance Examination Board and is a cooperative council of participating colleges for handling the applications submitted by parents for financial aid to students.

The colleges that participate in the plan advocate that scholarships should be awarded on the basis of ability and promise but that the amount of the awards should vary according to the financial needs of the students. The questions that appear on the application are designed to bring out the information needed by the colleges to determine clearly the family financial picture and then the scholarships are awarded by the particular college in which the student is interested, not by the council, because each college has its own standards for measuring and rewarding aid.

Some of the area colleges that participate in this program are Pennsylvania State University, Franklin and

Placement Records Show More Elementary Job Opportunities

If you are in the elementary curriculum, you have a slightly better chance of securing a position than if you are in the other curricula.

According to the annual report just released from the Placement Office, of the 2357 calls received in 1961, 1081 were for the elementary teachers, 1028 for secondary teachers, 194 for women teachers in health education, and 54 for men in health education.

LHSC Graduates Accept Positions In Nine States

Last year Lock Haven State College graduated a total of 178 students in the three curriculums.

There were 70 graduates in the secondary curriculum, 43 of whom are teaching in the state of Pennsylvania. Eighteen are teaching in other states: 11 in New York, 4 in Maryland, 2 in New Jersey, and one in Georgia. Four students are in graduate schools, one in the Peace Corps, and one in the Armed Services. Three were not placed.

In the health education curriculum, 43 of the 55 graduates are teaching in Pennsylvania. There are three teaching in other states: one each in Maryland, New York, and Connecticut. Four are in graduate school and five were not placed.

Marshall College, Lycoming College and Lehigh University; and students may obtain further information about this program from the EAGLE-EYE office.

In the secondary curriculum, the greatest demand was for English teachers—354, particularly teachers with the ability to work with superior high school groups. The next highest demand was in the field of mathematics—145. This shows an increase of 52 from last year in this area. In the social science field, there were 82 calls. There were 47 calls for French majors and 40 for Spanish majors; however, the college this year had no majors in these two languages.

Demand for teachers of girls' physical education rose but there was a decrease in the call for men in physical education. In the calls for men in physical education, superintendents of schools were interested in health education majors who also had an academic minor.

It is also interesting to note that there were 148 calls for teachers of special education (mentally retarded children). At the present time, however, Lock Haven does not certify teachers in this field.

Salaries of the teachers placed this year ranged from $3700 to $5500.

Civil Service Tests for College Students To Begin This Month

Applications are now being accepted for the 1962 Federal Service Entrance Examination the United States Civil Service Commission has announced. This examination, open to college juniors, seniors, and graduate students regardless of major study, as well as to persons who have had equivalent experience, offers the opportunity to begin a career in the Federal Service in one of some 60 different occupational fields. A written test is required.

The positions to be filled from the FSEE are in various Federal agencies and are located in Washington, D. C., and throughout the United States. Depending on the qualifications of the candidate, starting salaries will be $4,345 or $5,355 a year. Management Internships with starting salaries of $5,355 or $6,435 a year, will also be filled from this examination.

Applicants who applied by Sept. 28, 1961, will be scheduled for the written test to be held on Oct. 14. Six additional tests have been scheduled during the year.

The dates are: Nov. 18, 1961; Jan. 13, Feb. 10, March 17, April 14, and May 12, 1962.

Details concerning the requirements, further information about the positions to be filled, and instructions on how to apply are given in civil service announcement No. 265. These announcements and application cards may be obtained from many post offices throughout the country, college placement offices, civil service regional office, or from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Lock Haven Serves As Research Center

Under the new program begun by the General Council of the State Department of Public Instruction, Lock Haven State College is serving as the resource center for studies of the history of transportation in Pennsylvania and the history of the Susquehannock Indians. This assignment supplements the designation last spring of Lock Haven as a center for the acquisition of materials relevant to the history and culture of Greece, Turkey and Pakistan.

The other state colleges are also included in the program, and their respective libraries are to accumulate research materials, bibliographies, books, exhibits and other materials in their assigned specific areas. These materials will supplement the museum resources already available in the Pennsylvania State Library.

THEN WHAT?

So We Say

Are You Doing Your Part?

The importance of our nation's educational systems is recognized by all. Every political organization, church group, and Boy Scout troop knows that we are lacking. What do we lack? What can we do about it?

Lock Haven students lick their chops in glee as local boards of education howl for more help. While appreciating the quantity of calls, many of these same people fail to accept the fact that certain standards of quality may be expected from them.

This is the group which has nourished, and even cherished the herd instinct. Ignorance is glamorized. Idleness is idolized. Knowledge is to be carefully hidden so that the individual will not be considered a freak by his peers.

While such attitudes are not the unique possessions of Lock Haven State College, they are all the more deplorable for the role which our students are to assume in society.

This college is not a factory with endless gears feeding endless conveyor belts with dense, rectangular boxes which can be identified only by label—"One Teacher, I. Q. 110".

The small hard core of people who are assuming the responsibilities of leadership both scholastically and extra-curricularly, are enough to keep the school going. They are not enough to raise our star of hope. Hope for a better educated, more prosperous America rests on all of our shoulders. Are you doing your part?

Activities: Where? When?

The extra-curricular activities have a very definite place in the life of college students and faculty. They present the opportunity of taking part in areas of special interest to individuals and the opportunity for social gatherings. They also provide for views outside the campus by way of speakers and special programs.

Many opinions are expressed concerning when these activity clubs should meet: during the school day or in the evenings. If the clubs met during the day this would require a special class period for nothing but activities arranged in such a manner as to prevent overlapping for those students in several activities. These daytime meetings would make it more convenient for student attendance, both dorm and day students. Daytime meetings also would not take away time that would be used for studying in the evening. However, the class day would have to be lengthened to provide time for meetings.

Some views in favor of evening meetings are that there would be more time for a speaker and the program—longer than that of a class period during the day. The meetings in the evening would give a chance for dressing up and creating a better social atmosphere.

The activity periods should

WEEKEND EXODUS

Editor:

At 4:15 Friday afternoon we are walking up Senior Walk. Our little eyes survey the campus and note the football players running to practice. We also note another very familiar sight. Students are scurrying here and there with stuffed suitcases ready for another big weekend at home. One thing we do not see is students standing around the walks and just enjoying college life. No, students are much more interested in visiting their mommies and daddies than becoming a part of college life. But wait a minute—Are students really interested in going home or is there really nothing on campus to interest the students?

Unfortunately, our answer must be that the old Alma Mater is really dead on weekends. We know the Hob Nobs are held to brighten up our lives. These lively, little dances are quite the thing to entertain us. Each weekend we can trot ourselves over to Roger's Gym, walk in the same door, pay the same price, sit in the same seat, listen to the same records being played on the same record player, and leave, by the very same door. We recognize the fact that these dances could be major attractions but not until some organization breaks the ties of conformity. For example, the Class of 1964 had a "Las Vegas Night" last year. It was one of the most successful dances of the year. Yet, that was the end of the entertaining dances and the same boring trend continued. This is now the beginning of a new semester. Let's use our heads and plan an enjoyable dance for a change.

LIBRARY HOURS

Editor:

The present library hours are inadequate for the enrollment of the college; something needs to be done.

The library is only open from 7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M. in the evenings. These times correspond to the hours set by most of the clubs on campus for their meetings. A student who has to attend a club meeting and also do library work the same evening may neglect his library work (especially if his presence is required at the meeting) because of the lack of time.

The commuting students have a big problem when they must allot time for traveling. By the time a day-hop goes home, eats his evening meal, and drives back to school, it is too often 8:00 P.M. He no more than opens his reference book when the library closes its doors. The be arranged to benefit the largest number of students possible and provide an atmosphere conducive to social as well as academic enjoyment. Meeting times should be decided by the members of the activity.

hours are not long enough. Whether we like it or not, we do have many students at Lock Haven. A lot of these students travel home to use their town's library. Why? Because Stevenson Library is closed on weekends from Saturday noon until Sunday at 7:00 P.M.

This problem needs to be solved immediately or many of our students will be missing a vital part of their college education—that part which functions around the storehouse of knowledge.

Adrienne Aumiller

How often have you walked into a college classroom, sat down, and opened your notebook for a fifty-minute period of an instructor's lecture? At the end of the class period the instructor has to stop in the middle of a sentence in which only he is engrossed. By this time most of the students are either dozing in their seats or are starting to organize their books for the next class. However, the instructor seems as if he could continue the whole day although he may have the attention of only one or two studious people.

In other classes the period begins with the students repeating memorized ideas from the reading assignment. Here the instructor is satisfied with a few words in answer to his questions which have come directly from the text. Personal opinions and observations concerning the materials are not discussed. If a student should happen to ask a question of the instructor, he probably has to be satisfied with a brief and quite vague answer.

A few classes have been made more enjoyable and interesting for the students. Some instructors conduct their classes in an informal atmosphere where the student can express his ideas by using his background in the subject matter. When the student is free to talk at length, he is more likely to read outside material because he can develop an interest in the subject.

Students face these classroom situations in college, but they agree that classes are more beneficial when student-instructor conversations are prominent in the classroom.

Eagle's Nest

by
Carole Calabria

This week seems to have been an especially busy one here in the Eagle's Nest. Plans are being made for Homecoming; the Praeco staff is taking pictures; the play has been cast; and the time is ripe for all the profs to begin exhibiting their knowledge in the art of giving tests. Yes, life is really rugged on us college students!

The freshman class was called to trial last Thursday evening in what is traditionally known as Kangaroo Court. Things went along smoothly on the whole, but there are some who do not follow social etiquette. Those few who exhibited uncalled for actions should remember that when things are started in fun, they should end that way. Perhaps Tom Labant deserves an apology.

Congratulations to Gail Walden who was serenaded by KDR last week. Gail wasn't expecting it, and she turned out on the front porch in her bare feet. However cold her feet may have been, she certainly had a warm look on her face. Congratulations to you too, Dwight!!

Compliments are in store for Bill Ames who adds enjoyment to our Sunday meals by tickling ivories. Bill can really play that piano.

Where are all the talented male actors on this campus? Although many notices were up, not many fellows showed up to try out for the play. All this looks quite discouraging to Dr. Handley, the new dramatics coach. He has given up the original play, "Look Back in Anger," and has cast "Royal Gambit," which calls for a cast of one man and six women. It is the tale of Henry VIII and his many wives. Come on guys—overcome this superficial shyness and try out for the next play.

Have you seen Kathy Hess' new necklace? Summers in Atlantic City seem quite profitable for some people!

Last Sunday a group of College Players attended the Oct. 8 — Various orchestral works of Barber, Tchaikovsky, Haydn.

Oct. 15 — Gian Carlo Menotti—The Saint of Bleecker Street.

Oct. 22 — Orchestral and Chamber Works of Brahms, Haydn, Shapero, Lessard, Mendelssohn.

Oct. 29 — The Music of Beethoven; Leonore Overture No. 3; Trio in G; Egmont Overture, Symphony No. 9 in D Minor (Chora).

Catholic University of America's production of "Richard III" in Altoona. More students should try to see plays like this one when they have the chance. Midge, I promised not to say anything about your feline, so I won't.

Did anyone happen to see the California players after the game? They were making a vain attempt to ring the liberty bell. What a disappointment to discover that it was locked! A little word to our players—defeat is sometimes a stepping stone to greater victory—we'll prove it next week.

It was nice to see Ann Piccolo on campus again.

The freshmen girls have invaded the dating ranks. Jack Crowley, Jim Frontino, Ed Trembath, Bob Grossman, and Basile seem to like the new crop.

Russell Hall has been transformed into a zoological garden lately. Mr. Johnson has many of his students making gigantic paper mache animals. Has anyone seen "Herman?" He happens to be Mary Jane Clements' little fox friend.

Congratulations to the fraternity queens — Eileen Marsh, Sigma Pi, Karen Sholtis, TKE, and KDR's, who at the moment of this writing was not chosen.

Speaking of Sigma Pi, this fraternity seems to be on the move. They will start moving into their new house on West Main street sometime in January.

The new face of the college paper has met up with much approval. Of course, there are always people who criticize anything, but look at the famous people and famous projects that have overcome critics. We on the staff intend to do our very best to serve all the students on this campus. Suggestions are appreciated, as are unbiased criticisms. Turning out a paper is a job which takes effort and work. We on the staff will do our part gladly; we hope for you to read the paper the same way.

In closing, I would like to leave you with this thought in mind—a dose of adversity is often as needed as a dose of medicine. See you next week.

Bye for now,

Fraternity Row

By BILL LEWIS

The men of Tau Kappa Epsilon had a "Meet the TEKES" last weekend. Everyone was invited to come and visit the "house" and meet the brothers. The men of TKE have selected Karen Schuitz, a sophomore from Bradford, as their "TKE Sweetheart." The brothers have earnestly begun work on their float to be used in the Homecoming parade. Their theme this year is "The Statue of Liberty." Saturday night at the first home football game the brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon were seen sitting together supporting the Bald Eagles.

The men of Kappa Delta Rho are decorating the Field House for their contribution in the Homecoming calendar. The brothers of KDR are sponsoring the Homecoming dance and have begun their task of redoing the interior of the Thomas Field House. Also the men of KDR have completed two smokers in which all eligible men were invited. After our first home football game, the KDR's held an "Open House" for everyone and his date.

The men of Delta Rho Beta, now an affiliated colony pledging Sigma Pi, are planning their part for Homecoming. Mahlon Schlegel, pres. of Sigma Pi, has his boys working on a Homecoming Carnival for Friday, Oct. 13. The men of the Sigma Pi Colony have completed plans for the purchase of their beautiful new home on E. Main Street. The Sigma Pi's have selected a freshman for their fraternity sweetheart, and her name, which has a familiar sound, is Eileen Marsh from Waterford.

Bald Eagles Seek to Regain Winning Status at Clarion

by
ED TREMBATH

Lock Haven State's Bald Eagles bowed to their 1st conference defeat this season Saturday against the Vulcans of California State College, 21-7, as the visitors proved too much to handle.

A crowd of about 2,000 saw Bill Kahler haul down a 16-yard Peightal pass for the first score of the game. The reliable toe of Ken Bumgarner added the extra point, giving Coach Jack's charges an early 7-0 lead. From then on the stalwart Vulcan defense rose to all Eagle scoring threats and held the Havenites to one lone TD.

California State's first tally came in the second period when outstanding halfback Dick Lamb skirted 30 yards around end to paydirt. Teammate Joe Uhlman equalled Lamb's feat in the third period by all but 5 yards when he carried 25 yards around end for the second score, putting California ahead 14-7. With six minutes to go, Lamb added the insurance TD when he scored from the eight.

Although things don't look too good for the Eagles conference-wise, they still have a chance at the title if California loses one conference game—and if Coach Jack's team can win their remaining conference games. The squad will have to play a better brand of football if it is to stay in the running.

One thing must be said about Coach Jack's charges. They are a determined team with a tremendous amount of desire to win. Although outweighed by nearly every team they meet, they are out to give it everything they have. Let's hope we saw them in an off night. I'm sure we will be getting better results the remainder of the season.

This week the Bald Eagles travel to Clarion State.

Organizations Asked To Use Clean-Up Crew

Advisors and presidents of all campus organizations are requested to use the specially appointed clean-up crew following events in Rogers Gym or the field house. Contacts can be made at least three days in advance through the physical education office in the Special Education Building or through Ronald Fluke, chairman, 456 S. High St. (Phone: 748-7000).

Soccer Team Beats Frostburg

Bill Johnston's goal in the third quarter proved to be the margin of victory as Lock Haven State's soccer team upset Frostburg State of Maryland 1-0 on Saturday.

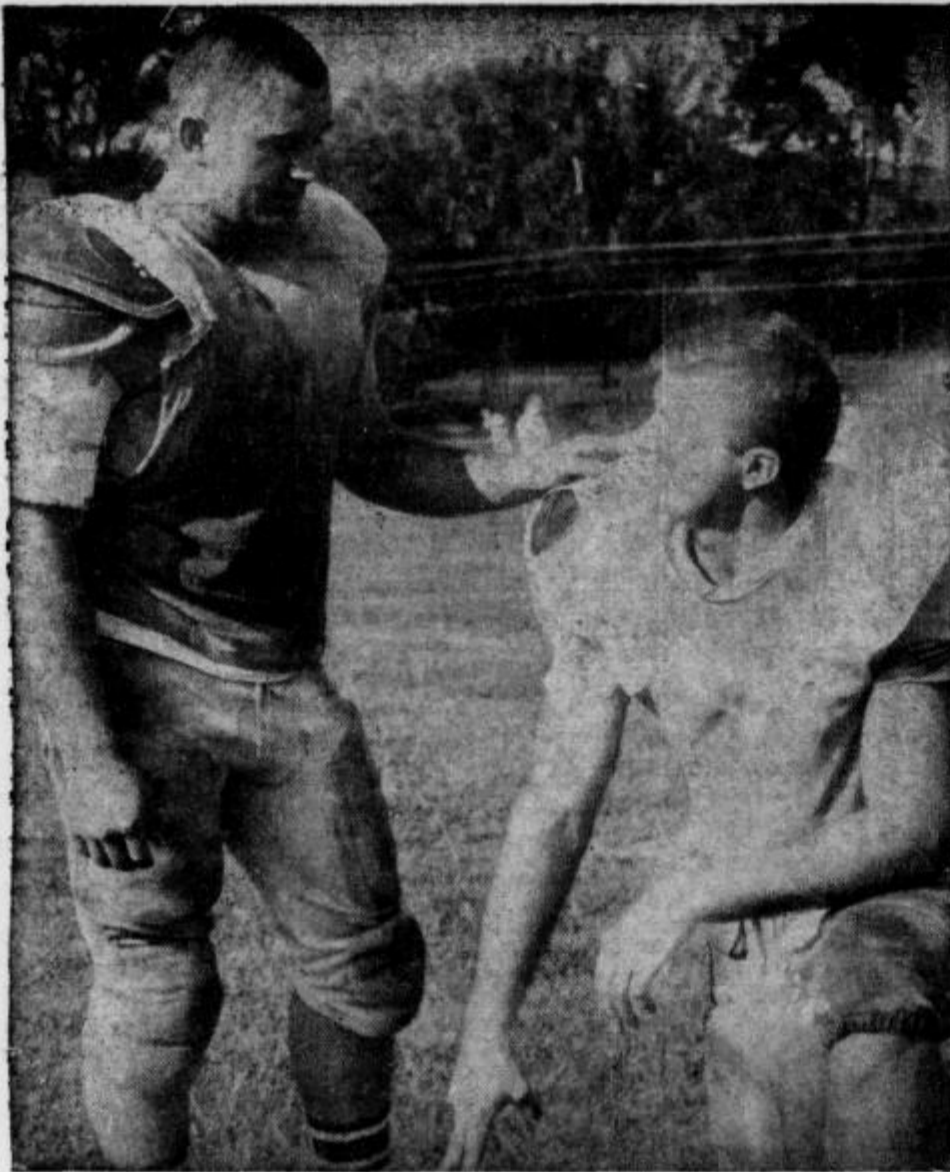

Last week, Frostburg tied the University of Pittsburgh 1-1 in their first match of the year. The Bald Eagles of Coach Dewey Morehouse are now 2-0 on the season.

The match was quite even for the first three quarters as both teams battled in the middle of the field. However Lock Haven was able to break through the Frostburg defense at the 17 minute mark of the third period.

In the final stanza Frostburg had six shots at the Bald Eagle nets, but goalie Habern Freeman was able to block the scoring attempts. Freeman had 12 saves for the match.

Lock Haven had only 6 shots at their hosts' goal but made the one needed for victory.

Jerry Roberts and John Lewis—Co-captains

Sports Profiles at LHSC

Veteran Linemen Head
1961 Bald Eagle Gridders

by
JIM LANE

A pair of veteran linemen are the co-captains of the 1961 Lock Haven State College football team.

If Coach Hub Jack's Bald Eagles are to retain their Western Section title of the State Colleges Conference, much of the success will probably be attributed to this year's co-captains, Jerry Roberts and John Lewis.

Roberts, a senior physical education major from Cresson, is starting his fourth season as a regular tackle on the Bald Eagle varsity squad. The 5-8, 180-pounder is always one of the unsung heroes of the Eagles. The stocky performer goes both ways, holding down a tackle position on offense and backing up the line on defense.

Robert's play during the 1960 season was recognized nationally as he received honorable mention on the Little All-American and All-State teams. Jerry is a member of the Varsity Club and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Lewis, a 6-0, 190-pound end, is in his third season as a regular for the Eagles. He plays the short side end on offense and handles the right end post on defense.

Lewis is quite active around the campus. He is a past president of the Student Council and has also served as vice president of the Association of Childhood Education. John is also a member of the Varsity Club and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. In fact he is Roberts' "Big Brother" in the fraternity.

Lewis, a senior in elementary education, is a graduate of Bristol High School but now calls Clearfield his home. He is married to the former Phyllis Pittman, a 1961 graduate of Lock Haven, State.

invited to participate in any of these sports.

We'd like to remind everyone that the drill team will make its debut on Oct. 14, during the half time of the football game.

There are approximately fourteen girls on the team. Nearly all of the girls have had experience in drilling.

The girls will go through a series of drills and formations following a matador theme for this game.

Along the more serious lines of thought, we have this problem of the faculty complaining about the physical education majors wearing their professional uniforms to class.

We'd like to ask the faculty to try and help solve this problem by letting their classes out on time.

In this way we're sure the problem could be worked out satisfactorily for all concerned.

The Round Up

By JOHN DINUNZIO, SPORTS EDITOR

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to all the students, as well as the faculty, over the favorable response that has been given to our new paper. Speaking for the Sports Department, we have a sincere desire to bring to you, the students, the best sports coverage that is most feasible here at the campus. This year we will have a variety of features so that all the students and their friends will find the "Eagle Eye" a must on their reading list.

In addition to what we have added thus far, we will have the football polls as predicted by Mr. Daley, Mr. Hacker and Mr. Zimmerman along with three fellow colleagues. The attraction will be published every week—So look for it and see whether your predictions are the same.

Another added attraction will be the "Player of the Week" series. This is open to all the women as well as the men to receive the honor. Lets work real hard and perhaps before you can say anti-disestablishmentarianism you will be chosen "Player of the Week".

No doubt the students at Lock Haven State can fully understand that much sacrifice, complete cooperation, and plain hard work is going to be essential if we are to delve into the bowels of knowledge to produce a paper we are truly proud of.

This weekend the football team travels to Clarion State College while the soccer team plays highly rated Rochester Institute on Saturday afternoon, 2:00 P.M. at home. This is the first home meet for the soccer team, so lets get out and support the teams and cheer them on to VICTORY.

Hockey Team Scores Victory

Hockey team scores victory

The women's hockey team scored a decisive 4-0 victory over the Dutchmen's Hockey Club in their opening tilt last week.

The game, played on McCollum field, featured two goals by Ginny Blake, and one each by Louise McHugh and Betty Gommel. The Eaglettes, coached by Dr. Charlotte Smith, face their next opponents Saturday when they travel to Dillsburg to meet the Blue Ridge Hockey Club.

Coaches, Students Make Predictions

Who will win the big college games each weekend? Harold Hacker, Steve Jacobs, and Hubert Jack, our three football coaches, will test their football knowledge against three students: Larry Truxell, Jim Lane and Terry O'Shea. Each week these six will try to pick the winners of the five big games across the country.

This week's predictions:

	Penn State vs. Boston U.	Pitt vs. Washington	U. C. L. A. vs. Ohio St.	T. C. U. vs. Arkansas	Illinc's vs. Northwestern
Hacker	Penn State	Washington	Ohio St.	T. C. U.	Illinois

IM Football Has Best Year

With 15 teams participating, this year's football intramural program has got off to its best start in many years. Tau Kappa Epsilon, last year's champion, has met some tough competition so far in its bid to regain the title. Both of TKE's teams have met one defeat in the double elimination tournament, but if each of them can get past the remaining games, the Tokes may be able to ride to the top.

Spectator interest, too, is at an all-time high. The reason could be that interest in the entire intramural program is rising on campus. But whatever the cause of the increased enthusiasm, it may help to maintain a better all-around intramural program.
