Production Nears Opening

"Philadelphia Here I Come," a play by Brian Friel, will be presented by the Lock Haven State College Players on Oct. 15, 16, and 17 at 8:00 p.m. in Price Auditorium.

The play deals with Gareth O'Donnell's last night at home in Ireland before he flies to Philadelphia to live with his aunt and uncle. Gareth's personality is presented by two separate characters, both of whom are on stage at the same time. His outward public character is played by Charley Char ette while his inward private thoughts are presented by Brian Stoppe. Only the audience hears the comments of the private character.

The play explores Gareth's reasons for leaving home. The conflicts of his life are presented seriously and realistically, but with humorous undertones.

Gareth's father, with whom he is unable to communicate, is played by Mardecai Lipshutz. Kathy, the girlfriend who married someone else, is played by Helayne MacArthur.

Others in the cast are Deb Klens, as Madge the housekeeper, Gary Mazzu and Cindy Probst as the uncle and aunt from Philadelphia, Bernie Gillot as the parish priest, Ben Aptaker as Kathy's father, Stephen Culp as the schoolteacher, and Kim Koon play Gareth's boyhood friends.

Tickets will be available at the PUB secretary's office from Tuesday October 9. There is no charge for students with validated ID cards. Non-students must pay $2.00 admission fee. Tickets will also be available at the door.

The closing date for the group insurance program for LHS students is Oct. 15, 1973. Any student who desires to subscribe to this program should contact the Office of Financial Aid, 301 Sullivan Hall, for further information and an application. IT'S A REAL DEAL.

Homecoming tickets for Peter Nero, Todd Rundgren and the Harlem Globetrotters are available in the Secretary's office in the Student Union.

Humanities Film Series Will Present Comedy

A Nous la Liberte is the first comedy in this year's Humanities Film Series. It is a fine 1932 satire of the mechanized world, and even more pertinent in this day of job-enrichment programs.

Much of the film's humor is derived from improbable combinations of film and music. The film's director, Rene Clair, has elevated the soundtrack to be an integral part of the film— not just background music. (One of today's directors who utilizes this technique is Stanley Kubrick. His later films, such as Dr. Strangelove and A Clockwork Orange, abound with the comic use of music.)

Early in the film, Clair establishes the fact that freedom is something that is only paid lip service in today's technocracy. The film begins in what appears to be a toy factory. The camera dollies back to reveal that it is actually a prison. The title theme, which concerns freedom, is sung in a slow mechanical tempo, by the inmates.

In the next sequence, one of the inmates, Louis, is being helped in an escape attempt by Emile, his cellmate. In the escape, Louis steals a bicycle. He then finds himself involved in a bicycle race, which is supposed to be fun. However, the race is portrayed as a grim and dismal chore. The cyclists are constantly taunted by a group of motorists singing the Liberty theme.

Once free, Louis begins to build his own kind of prison. It is a prison where human beings are slaves to machines ones supposed to ease the burdens of people.

Louis' first step in creating his prison is the dubious acquisition of a phonograph shop. Filled with delusions of grandeur, Louis builds himself up to be the owner of a phonograph factory strongly reminiscent of the prison he has escaped from. The workers are regimented in the same manner as the inmates were. They are also singing the same Liberty theme.

Meanwhile, back at the pen, we find Emile looking longingly at a girl he thinks is singing sweetly. With no apparent effort at all, Emile bends his bars and makes his way to the street. As he looks up at the window where the singing is coming from, the voice suddenly slows down—revealing that it is a phonograph. Emile has fallen in love with a machine!

Despite this, Emile's rapture persists. He finds employment at the same factory where the girl works— Louis' factory. There, in his lovelorn state, he manages to screw up the operation of the entire plant.

Emile is sent to Louis' office. Louis pretending not to recognize him at first, tries to buy Emile's silence. Looking hurt, Emile grabs Louis' wrist so hard, in fact, that blood begins to drop on the desk. Louis then realizes that Emile wouldn't betray him.

Later, Louis is discovered by a gang of Blackmailers. Fearing exposure, he decides to run— but not until after his new factory is dedicated.

At the dedication, Louis' virtues are extolled by no less a personage than the President of France. During another blowhard's speech, nature responds with big gusts of wind.

Attention: Students, Faculty and Staff. There will be a series of flu injections given this year. The first will be given Wednesday, Oct. 17 from 12 noon until 1 p.m. at the Glennon Infirmary. Anyone who desires the injections, please sign up at the Infirmary no later than Tuesday, Oct. 16. There will be no charge for students. The price for Faculty and Staff will be $1.00 for each injection.

Male or female room mate needed to fill three man apartment. Good location, five minutes from campus. Nice clean apartment—privacy guaranteed. (Could possibly squeeze two people in if so desired.) Any combination! Phone 748-7881 after dinner or phone ARENA during the day-7485313 and inquire about apartment.

The wind knocks over a valise filled with 1,000 franc notes— the money Louis had planned to take with him. The dignitaries suddenly lose all dignity and chase after the money in a ballet-like sequence that is set to music.

In the end, we see Louis and Emile— penniless and free at last. They walk down the road in a very Chaplinesque ending.

The entire idea for a satire on our mechanized society was so good that Chaplin ripped it off four years later in his film, Modern Times. (Chaplin steals only the very best.)

The film can be seen tonight at 7:30 in Raub 408 or on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Ulmer Planetarium.

HOME COMING PREVIEW

"Row, row, row your boat gently down the stream. Merrily, merrily, merrily, life is but a dream."

Gently and merrily won't exactly be the words to describe the canoe race scheduled for Sunday, October 21, but there will be rowing and lots of hard work when the competition starts.

LH Hits One Past Slippery Rock

by Louise Wilson

The women's varsity hockey team remained undefeated winning their contest with Slippery Rock last Friday by the impressive score of 6 goals to 1.

Lock Haven's offense attack began almost immediately when Jackie Crowell scored the first goal before 30 seconds passed on the clock. Then midway in the first half, Freshman Pat Rudy pushed the ball past the goalie to score and gave the Haven a 2-0 lead. But Slippery Rock closed the gap with seven minutes left in the half and the score stood at 2-1.

The start of the second half showed much better playing by the Haven. Midway, Kelly Cromer broke the game open scoring two goals, one being a fantastic reverse stick shot. The offensive drive continued with Pat Rudy adding another goal and her teammate "Jake" also scoring again, this time in the last 30 seconds.

JV BATTLES BUT LOSES

In the junior varsity game it seemed as though a score would never result. Both teams battled each other with Lock Haven dominating the number of shots at the goal. But Slippery Rock scored late in the second half to take a 1-0 victory.

Coach Sharon Taylor felt that the varsity team had a slow start in the first half due to not playing any games for two weeks. She was impressed with the improved play during the second half but feels more hard and sharp practicing must be done before meeting West Chester next Thursday.

Any person commuting to Williamsport the first nine weeks of spring semester, '74, please contact Sally Tome, High Hall, rm. 327.

There will be an organizational meeting of All Sociology - Anthropology majors Thurs. Oct 11, in Raub 307 at 1:00 p.m.

All students interested in participating in the exchange program with the Nottingham College of Education in September 1974 should make application now at the Office of International Education, Himes 106. Freshmen and sophomores are especially encouraged to apply.

Booters Beat Best Team Yet

by Gary Brubaker

"Now we know as a team and as individuals what it's like to be under pressure." These were the words of Eagle booter coach Karl Herrmann following Saturday's 3-1 victory over a tough and aggressive Millersville squad.

"This was a typical Millersville - LHS game," Herrmann added, "It was a quick aggressive game because Millersville has a quick aggressive team which matched our style of play."

Though able to match the Eagles' style of play Millersville was unable to match the score as the Eagle defense once again stopped numerous Millersville threats throughout the game.

Both teams came out running with neither able to score until almost 20 minutes were gone in the first half. At 19:34 into the period Bill Bush scored on a 10 yard right-footed kick from the right side. Don Copeland got the assist on the goal and LHS led 1-0.

Despite both teams playing aggressively at both ends of the field, the remainder of the first half was scoreless and Lock Haven led 1-0 at halftime.

The second half began as the first with aggressive playing and a hard running game for both teams.

At 14:21 Bill Bush scored his second goal on an assist from Dave Chambers and it looked like LHS was going to do to Millersville what they had done to everyone so far this season; destroy them in the second half.

But Millersville wasn't like anyone else LHS has faced so far and at 15:37 Mike Doerr scored on a 6 yard shot from the right corner on an assist by Greg Gichan and Millersville was ecstatic.

They had not only scored the first goal by anyone against the LHS team this year (excluding a penalty goal by St. Francis) but had broken Steve Tanner's mark of not having given up a goal on 6 games and 3 exhibition encounters this season.

For the next 20 minutes Millersville was all over the Eagle's end of the field pummeling shots at Steve Tanner. Tanner did a beautiful job of preventing Millersville from tying the contest.

The Eagles needed something to spark them back into playing their game. That spark came in the form of "Mr. Dependable" Don Copeland. At 36:23 Copeland scored on an indirect free kick from 16 yards out from the left side and the Eagles outplayed Millersville the rest of the contest. Final score LHS 3 Millersville 1.

Final statistics showed that Lock Haven blasted 24 shots at the Millersville goal with Millersville countering with 16. This has been the closest margin between LHS and another team thus far this season.

This was a contest in which both goalies kept his respective team in the game. Both Steve Tanner and the Millersville goalie made some unbelievable saves - from leaping catches to diving snags and blocks.

Coach Herrmann remarked, "This game should help us. It showed us we have some weaknesses and that we have to work on these weaknesses."

We played a good team - the best we've seen. We had to play a good game to beat them. We got a few breaks but we deserved to win it in the end."

Herrmann added, "Bob Wright kept us in the game. Whenever we let down he pulled us up again. I think Bob Weaver had an excellent game today, the best game of his career. Don Copeland played an outstanding game but then you get to expect that from a player of his calibre. Everyone did a good job today but these players deserve a special recognition for today's victory."

One main reason for the defensive prowess of the Eagles is Co-captain Bob Boles. Not used to having so much pressure on the goal as they did Saturday by Millersville, Boles played very tough under pressure.

The Eagles in their games prior to Millersville usually dominated control of the ball. Therefore Boles and the rest of the Eagle Fullbacks did not have to play quite as hard as they did against Millersville.

The Eagles will have to play equally tough this Wednesday when they face Grove City away at 2:00 p.m. If the Eagles win this encounter they will tie the all-time Eagle mark of victories in a season by an Eagle Booter team.
Grove City - Beware.
