McGruff safe houses are haven for children in trouble

By Scott David Bloom
Staff Reporter

What's a kid to do if an older boy bullies him on the way to school, if she's scared of an unleashed dog, if he sees an accident, or if a stranger follows her in a car? One answer is to look around and ask for help from a McGruff House.

A McGruff House is a temporary haven for children who find themselves in emergency or frightening situations such as being bullied, followed or hurt while walking in a neighborhood.

Children in the Keystone Central School District will now be able to turn to a McGruff home whenever they encounter trouble.

Individuals will volunteer their homes as McGruff houses and agree to make emergency phone calls for children in trouble, as well as watch out for neighborhood children when they go to and from school.

A McGruff house is not to be used as a medical aid station, a restaurant or a public restroom.

The program is being sponsored by Lock Haven University Police, Lock Haven City Police, Pine Creek Township Police and Keystone Central P.T.O. Cares Organization.

What makes McGruff houses different from other block parent programs?

First there's McGruff, the trench-coated spokesman for crime prevention. The houses will display a McGruff symbol, since 99% of children recognize McGruff because they have seen him on television or he has visited their school.

One in five U.S. families moves yearly and using a symbol recognized nationwide makes sense. There is a McGruff House program in at least one community in almost every state. The state of Washington legislated McGruff as the state standard for block parent homes.

The McGruff House program also has built-in safeguards against abuses. While no system is foolproof, the McGruff house program provides every possible precaution to insure the safety of children. Adults who volunteer their houses agree to a Law Enforcement records check.

McGruff House signs are numbered and released from the national inventory only on written approval from Law Enforcement.

The national office maintains a registry of signs issued to local groups, who in turn keep records of signs issued to approved applicants. Written guidelines are provided with training suggestions and an educational program.

Campus Law Enforcement hopes that students with homes off campus will be eager to participate in such a worthwhile program.

Training and information sessions are being held for volunteers, parents and students beginning this month.

If you are interested in making your house a McGruff House contact Lt. Dennis Greninger at the Campus Law Enforcement Office, phone #2078.

Virginia chapter of KAPSI accepts first white male member

By Julie Saxton
Staff Reporter

The predominantly black fraternity at LHU, Kappa Alpha Psi, has other chapters around the nation who have accepted white pledges.

Mark Eisenhour, a student at Virginia Polytechnic, recently became the first white male to join his school's chapter of KAPSI.

The brothers of LHU's KAPSI reacted favorably to a white pledge in the fraternity.

Sterling White of Kappa Alpha Psi said "It doesn't matter what race, creed, or color one is as long as he has the credentials to pledge."

By credentials, White said he meant having good grades, a positive attitude, and a great desire to be a brother.

Richard Nurse, another Kappa Alpha Psi brother at LHU said that white males can pledge here if they want.

"KAPSI is not a black fraternity; we are predominantly black, just as other fraternities are predominantly white."

Carlos Gilbert, also a KAPSI brother, commented that the reason Kappa Alpha Psi has stayed mostly black is because all of the founding fathers were black.

Gilbert added, "Kappa Alpha Psi's founding fathers had envisioned an organization that could unite black students on college campuses."

Miss Pennsylvania USA pageant now accepting applications

By Tracy Bailets
Staff Reporter

The annual Miss Pennsylvania U.S.A. Pageant is to be staged this year for the fifth time in Monroe, Pennsylvania.

Applications are now being accepted from all over the PA for the three day event that will be presented in the Grand Ballroom of the High Rise Howard Johnsons hotel on March 10, 11, and 12, 1989.

The Miss Pennsylvania USA Pageant is an official Miss USA-Miss Universe contest. Miss USA is part of the family of the gulf and Western Corporation.

Performing talent is not required. All judging is on the basis of poise, personality and beauty of face and figure.

The Miss Pennsylvania USA will receive a 14-day trip to the site of the Miss USA Pageant. Nationally televised on CBS TV in February of 1990, competing for over $250,000 in cash and prizes.

The new State winner will receive over $2000 in cash, among any other prizes.

The winner will be crowned by the current Miss Teen USA, Denise Epps of Lansdale, who will be present for the event at the High Rise Howard Johnsons Hotel.

Entrants who qualify must be at least 17 years of age and under 25 years of age by February 1, 1990, never married and at least a six-month resident of Pennsylvania, thus dorm students are eligible.

If you are interested in competing for this prestigious title, write to:

Miss Pennsylvania USA

by December 24th. Letters must include a recent snapshot, a brief biography, and phone number.

SSHE Historians hear presentation by Hauser

By Fabian Filohoski
Staff Reporter

Dr. Walter Hauser, professor of History from the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, was on campus last Friday to address members of the State System of Higher Education (SSHE) Historians. The presentation, entitled "History and Politics as Human Experience," was held in Ulmer Planetarium.

This was the 2nd annual meeting of the SSHE Historians. The group is comprised of 142 historians from the 14 state-owned universities.

The presentation dealt with the role that historians play in the state education system. The thesis of Hauser's speech was based on a book written by Allan Bloom entitled Closing of the American Mind.

According to Bloom's book, Americans put too much emphasis on openness in non-western culture. Bloom believes we should be taught more about our own culture.

Hauser stated in his presentation that it does not have to be an "either or" situation. Hauser thinks that by studying Indian peasant politics we can understand our own Democratic political system much easier.

Hauser has devoted most of his professional career to studying the history of social and political change in 20th century India.

Dr. Charles R. Kent, Associate Professor of History, Political Science, Economics, and Management Science at LHU, said "the organization (SSHE Historians) has three purposes for having these annual lectures. The foremost is to keep the historians informed on accurate and current matters."

"The second is to develop a data base between all of the 142 historians in the organization, and the third is to provide a professionally developed workshop between all the historians," added Kent.

The SCC sponsored Dan Ruskin, a political satirist to entertain LHU in Sloan Auditorium last night.

Ruskin, from the Washington D.C. area, referred to LHU as a "suitcase college" and said that "LHU stands for Luggage Handlers United."

Letter to the Editor...

RHA could have done better with "Family Feud"

Dear Editor:

We would like to publicly announce our intense dissatisfaction with the organization and execution of the RHA sponsored Family Feud on November 20.

The organization of the event left much to be desired. The room was not set up beforehand. The rules were given in a haphazard manner. At first, the players thought that the questions were taken from LHU students but after two questions we were informed that the questions were taken from the home version of the game. The first players didn't know how to "buzz in" to give their answers.

Several players had previously been exposed to questions that were asked during the game because their hall used this version also. Our team was not familiar with the questions.

Although we won our round, we were eliminated from the finals on the basis of points. We argued that we legitimately won and suggested a round robin or some other alternative. Some players did agree to this but the general attitude was that of hostility. We feel that since we took the time to participate, we should have been given a fair chance in the finals.

Men's b-ball winner over Baptist Bible

By Herb Samuels
Sports Reporter

Defense was the key on Saturday night as the Bald Eagle basketball team opened their season with a convincing 92-54 win over Baptist Bible College.

The Eagles dominated from the opening tip-off as they chanted in every huddle the word for the season, defense.

"We forced them to pass and shoot the ball from certain points on the floor," said Head Coach Dave Blank after his first career victory. "We forced them to shoot bad shots."

Baptist Bible was held to only 35.8 percent shooting from the floor. Out of that they only made 8 of 29 in the second half.

The Eagles offense took a little time to get in gear, but once they found a groove they flew. "It took us about ten minutes to get going," Blank said. "Once we got running we were all right."

The Eagles started the second half leading by 12 when forward John Jekot hit a three point shot (he finished 6 for 9 from that range). Then on a break, guard Tony Bacon dished one of his game high 13 assists to center-forward Dean Kriebal for a two-hand tomahawk slam.

The team then went on a 30-5 point run that put them ahead 78-37 at the 9:23 mark. "We got out to a good start. We played very tough defense better than I thought," Kriebal said.

Four Eagle players reached double figures in the game. Kriebal and Jekot finished with 20 points each while guards Tim Glass and Bacon scored 11 and 10 points respectively.

The leader in rebounding was the 5-foot-7 inch Glass. "I just used my quickness and position to get the ball," Glass said. "The coach moved me to the shooting guard position to help with rebounds."

Kriebal finished with eight rebounds while forward Carl Brown grabbed six.

In addition to the game, former Eagle Eric Hearn was honored at halftime for his service to the team. In his four years he became the first Bald Eagle under 6 feet to score 1,000 points.

This weekend the Bald Eagles will get a true test as they enter the Gannon tournament on Saturday and Sunday at Gannon University.

Wrestlers finish third in tournament

By Terry Day
Co-Sports Editor

Wrestlers Craig Corbin and Brad Lloyd successfully defended their titles in the Navy Tournament held this past weekend at Annapolis.

The Bald Eagle wrestling team finished third overall in the Tournament behind host Navy and North Carolina State respectively.

At 118 pound weight class, Corbin kept his title when he defeated Navy's Keith Sanford by a technical fall, 20-5.

Lloyd won the 177 pound weight class by a 4-0 decision against Morgan State's Paul Green. This marks the third time Lloyd has won at the tournament.

At heavyweight, freshman Todd Goodwin went to the finals but was pinned by North Carolina State's Brian Jackson at 2:36. Goodwin came away with second place overall.

Thane Turner and Jeff Karam finished third at 150 and 167-pound weight class, respectively.

Jeff Husick, 134 pounds, Anthony Melfi

142 pounds, and John Barrett, 158 pounds were fifth in their weight class.

"Basically, we were up and down. It gives us an idea where we are going," Head Coach Neil Turner said.

"In some spots, we know where we are going and in others we need to work at," Turner added.

The wrestling team has the dubious honor of hosting some of the best teams in the nation in the Mat-Town Tournament this Saturday.

Swimmers sink Mansfield, 112-33

By Terry Day
Co-Sports Editor

The Lady Eagle swimming team won decisively over Mansfield 112-33 last Friday at Zimmerli Pool.

Kelli Lintelman lead the way as she won the 100 and 200 backstroke and was part of the winning 200 medley and 200 freestyle relay teams.

Women's b-ball win Lady Eagle Classic Tournament

By Merritt La Porta
Co-Sports Editor

The Lady Eagle basketball team opened their season in style by capturing the Lady Eagle Classic this past weekend.

The opening rounds were held Friday night and following a Kutztown University 75-63 victory over Mercy College, the Lady Eagles took the court to face Dowling College.

The Lady Eagles outplayed Dowling from the opening tip-off. Junior Kris Wiberg began the LHU scoring attack with a quick bucket and the Lady Eagles jumped out to a 3-0 lead early in the game.

Sharp passing on offense and tight blocking on defense by LHU kept Dowling in disarray throughout the first half. They managed to shoot only 28 percent from the floor through the first fifteen minutes of the game.

The quick pace of play by LHU was too much for Dowling and at halftime the Lady Eagles had a commanding 35-19 lead.

The second half mirrored the first with the Lady Eagles continuing their barrage at the basket and expanding their lead to forty, 67-27, with ten minutes left in the game.

When the final buzzer sounded the Lady Eagles had cruised to an easy 93-41 victory and advanced to the championship round against Kutztown.

Wiberg led the team with 16 points and senior co-captain Cindy Richards added 12 to help seal the win.

Ann Marie Hughes finished with 16 to lead Dowling in the losing cause.

Saturday afternoon Mercy took on Dowling in the consolation game and won easily, 82-34 to capture third place in the tournament.

Ellen Moorehead of Dowling and Jean Gutierrez of Mercy each led their respective teams with 14 points each.

Then it was time for the match-up between Kutztown and LHU.

The game began like the game against Dowling with the Lady Eagles jumping out to a quick 8-2 lead with only three minutes gone from the clock.

Like Dowling, the Bears of Kutztown had their problems sinking shots and managed only 35 percent from the floor compared to LHU's 60 percent.

It looked as though Kutztown lacked the offensive power to match the Lady Eagles and the halftime score echoed the thought with a 36-26 LHU lead.

In the second half however, a different Kutztown team emerged from the locker room.

The Bears came out flying and quickly cut the Lady Eagle lead to three, 49-46, with nine minutes remaining to play.

"I think we lost a little of our intensity," said tournament MVP Maryellen Jaskuta. "Coach Scarfo told us at halftime that we still had 20 minutes of the game to play and now we know where we have to work harder."

Kutztown kept closing the scoring gap but couldn't muster enough offense to catch LHU.

Late in the game a steal by Jaskuta set up a head-spinning break away with Richards, who sank the two-pointer and drew the foul.

Richards hit the foul shots and the Lady Eagles never looked back en route to a 69-65 victory.

Sophomore Amy Barger led LHU with 16 points in the championship game and earned herself a spot on the All-Tournament Team along with Richards.

"Overall I thought we looked good," said Jaskuta. "However there's always room for improvement."

"We looked a little weak in some areas of our game, but overall we looked okay," she added.

"We didn't know what to expect from Dowling so we weren't expecting such a lopsided victory."

"It was a good weekend and I think it was important that everyone got a chance to get their feet wet," she said.

The team heads to Fort Wayne, Indiana to compete in a weekend tournament after the holiday.

In the distance events, Kerry Fitzpatrick won both 1,000 and 500.

The sprints saw Mansfield's Martha Laskey win both the 50 and 100 freestyle. LHU's Kristin McCluskey came in second in both events.

Kristin Jensen won the 200 freestyle. Teammate Kathy Rozelle finished second.

Tracy Campbell, a member of the 200 medley relay, was the first to touch the wall in the 200 breaststroke. Campbell also finished second in the 200 individual medley which was won by Mountaineers' Karyn Adamson.

Marianne Maetozo won the 100 breaststroke for the Lady Eagles.

In the butterfly, Mansfield's Carol Carney won the 100 and Lady Eagle Theresa Shambaugh, a member of the 200 freestyle relay, won the 200.

Deb Hovies was a member of the 200 medley and freestyle relay teams. Beth Kime was a part of the 200 freestyle team.

Kathy Kalcmba was the anchor in the 200 medley relay.

The divers did well as Renae Weaver won the one meter diver and Kristina Chapman won the one meter optionals.

"Times were consistent and some were better than last year. Our depth paid off," Head Coach Carolyn Ludwig.

According to team captain Fitzpatrick, the fans were what kept the team going.

The swimming team hosts East Stroudsburg on December 1.
