Gridders' "Imposible Dream" - Comes True

Lock Haven— The Lock Haven State College football team's "Impossible Dream" for the 1979 season is now a reality.

When the amazing Bald Eagle gridders of head coach Jack Fisher won the 20th annual Pennsylvania Conference championship last Saturday by blasting Cheyney State, 48-14, after leading at halftime 41-0, a three part goal by Coach Fisher at the first team meeting last August had come true.

The second year head mentor had told the team they should have three goals for 1979. First, a winning season; second, a Pennsylvania conference Western Division title, and third, a conference championship. All three have now been accomplished. Lock Haven final overall record of 9-2 is the best in 22 years at LHSC. The 1957 Eagle gridders of Coach Hubert Jack, who even though retired since 1969 still assists on a volunteer basis, produced the schools only undefeated and untied record of 8-0.

The fantastic Lock Haven turn around especially in the conference Western Division where the Eagles went from last place (0-5-1) a year ago to champion (6-0) this season has to be the top story in the nation this season in small college football ranks. Also Lock Haven a small NCAA Division III school beat six tough Division III teams to win the West Division. Overall Lock Haven was 1-8-1 last

Senior quarterback Dan Spittal (South Fork) finished a brilliant three year starting career at Lock Haven going 13 for 18 in the airlanes for 174 yards and on TD pass plus scoring two touchdowns on runs of two and 16 yards. For this outstanding performance he was selected Offensive Player of the Week by the ECAC for Dicision III schools in the East.

His career total offense yardage of 4,310 set a new LHSC all time record and Spittal passing yards of 4,022 is second best at Lock Haven.

Junior tailback Joe Speese (Medford, N.J.) the Eagles All-American prospect gained 109 yards in the championship contest and scored three touchdowns.

On the season super runner Speese gained 1,321 yards and scored 16 touchdowns both new all time Lock Haven season records. He also caought 11 passes for 104 yards and passed for a TD on a halfback option play.

Top receivers for LHSC were sophomore wide receiver Bob Lynn, graduate of Milton Hershey High School with 44 receptions for 786 yards, and the Eagles fine junior tight end Bill Sementelli (Beech Creek) in with 36 catches and 524 yards.

On defense the Eagles great senior linebackers Steve Orsini (Rockville, Md.) and Steve Mayes (Lock Haven) led in tackles with 121 and 108.

Dave Zielinshie (Shamokin) and junior Scott Reiner (Clarks Summit) each had six pass interceptions on the year.

Senior defensive end Jim Dressler, a four year letterman from Shamokin also completed an outstanding careeer with season tackle total of 77. Against Cheyney had made two of the best sacks ever made by a defensive end at LHSC according to Coach Fisher.

WLHS, 90.3 FM, On The Air

By Brian Hunt

If you haven't noticed already, WLHS, 90.3 FM, the campus station, is now on the air. Lines were put up over the summer to the Pub and also the Bentley thus the station can be heard anywhere on campus.

Although the programming is mostly rock and roll, there are jazz and folk shows also, We hope to build a better balance next semester.

We are working on getting more albums, however a lack of funds, makes this a slow' and frustrating process.

If you have any complaints, suggestions, or would like to help out, please call ext. 2212 during broadcasting hours. Although there may not be air-time available now, next semester will have another schedule.

In two years the new Communications building is scheduled to be completed, with new station being housed there. It will broadcast over cable, but, in the meantime, reception is limited to the campus.

To receive WLHS, you must hook up the TV cable coming into your room to the antenna terminals on the back of your FM receiver, then turn the dial to 90.3.

Though our concentration will be mostly music, we will soon resume Haven Happenings, new and sports. Other features such as concert information, drama and commentaries will also be forthcoming.

Students May Be Eligible For Assistance

By MIKE GLANTZ

Lock Haven State College students may be eligible for public assistance even if they live in dorms or fraternity houses and receive money regularly from home, according to officials of the Clinton County Board of Assistance. This assistance could be in the form of food stamps, money, medical payments, and family planning.

To be eligible for assistance a student might first be required to register at the State Bureau of Employment Security in Clinton County. It is located in the Haven on Jay Street.

Food stamps would probably be the type of assistance most students are eligible for, because a student's parents' income doesn't matter unless the student is listed as a dependent on their parents' income-tax return. Even if he or she is a dependent, the student could still be eligible, according to officials at the Board of Assistance.

Monetary assistance is available if a student needs cash. The Dept. of Welfare has calculated that a single person needs $158.00 every month. Even if a student has a grant that covers tuition, room, and board, he or she could be eligible for all or part of the monetary assistance available, say officials. A student receiving money from home regularly would have that amount subtracted from whatever he or she is eligible for.

Savings accounts do count against eligibility for monetary assistance. A person isn't allowed to have more than $250.00 in liquid assets.

A medical card is available if a student wants some insurance type of assistance. Eligibility for medical coverage isn't determined by parents' income, but a student's income may determine the type of coverage received.

Officials state that family planning is available for students who might want pregnancy checks, birth control, treatment for V.D., etc. The family planning clinic is located in the Lock Haven Hospital, but this service is not totally free. A spokeswoman at the hospital said, "You pay according to your income." Clinton County's Board of

Pottery Facilities Available To Students Willing To Sacrifice Additional Time

By BETH OWEN

It's right here on campus. It has shelves lined with everything from dinnerware to a miniature castle. It has multitudes of platters, coffee mugs, teapots, vases, goblets, bowls, and even a sculpted head of a man. It's-Raub 209 and it's Lock Haven State's pottery room.

As she practiced her skill at the potter's wheel, Debbie Bennick, a Pottery II student said, "It takes a long time to get started in pottery. Many students get discouraged because they can't find the time to practice." Any student can take a Pottery course, but Bennick warned, "Take it only if you have a lot of time to spend."

"Take it only if you have a lot of time to spend."

Mr. L. C. Rumbalski, Assistant Professor of Art, teaches all the Pottery classes which meet every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings from 8:00-10:00. Besides class time, students must practice in the pottery room on their own time. Failure to do this may mean a failure for the course. Pottery courses are not easy.

In Pottery I, students must make such things as a bowl eight inches in diameter, a cylinder eight inches tall, and a lidded pot. In all other Pottery courses, students may make whatever they want. The big thing about Pottery classes is that students may keep what they make at no cost.

Everything is done to a lump of clay that transforms it into a piece of pottery is done in the pottery room. The clay is mixed, molded, glazed, and fired there. The room has three kilns to fire the pottery, or bake it to hardness. Also, all glazes are prepared in the room.

Making pottery might look easy, but it is not. Bennick said, "There are a lot of places you can go wrong."

Air bubbles in the clay can scar the pottery. Tooling, or shaping the bottom of a piece of pottery, is a delicate process; one slip could ruin the piece. Pottery can warp in the kiln. Also, the glaze color can vary during firing. Bennick said, 'You never know what it's (the pottery) going to look like."

Despite all the difficulties Pottery students may have, many students like it and work long and hard on their projects. This can be proved just by looking at some of the great artwork the students have in the pottery room.

Area Kiwanis Clubs Help LHSC To Organize Circle K Charter

By CAROLE JOHNSON

With help from Lock Haven and Mill Hall Kiwanis Clubs and Penn State's Chapter of Circle K, Lock Haven students recently applied for a Circle K charter.

Circle K is sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club. Executive officers include president Kathy Hayfield-Frye, vice-president Tony DelGrippo, Secretary Darlene Lehr, treasurer Theresa Mason, and faculty advisor John Chase. Current membership of the club has grown to thirty-five students.

The purpose of Circle K is to help others and be of service in society. The Club's motto is "We Build" meaning that the members genuinely practice constructive involvement in the community and on campus.

One of the planned winter activities is assisting the Lock Haven's Chapter of Kiwanis with their annual ringing of the Salvation Army bell on December 15. Another activity is spending an afternoon with mentally retarded children.

The Circle K is seeking a larger membership from all areas of the college. Meetings are held every Tuesday evening at 8:00pm in Raub 305.

By Jonathan Bravard

November 10th, at 7:30 pm, in the Bald Eagle Nittany Auditorium, nine young women began an odyssey which led only one of them to the title of Miss Clinton County.

Among the group of nine young women are five girls from Lock Haven State College. Christine Marie Gillott, 26, a senior, was sponsored by Bill MacIntyre Cheverolet. She is a member of the SCC Senate, and a sister of Tri Sigma Sorority. Miss Gillott is majoring in social work and after college hopes to be a juvenile counselor or work helping handicapped adults. For the talent portion of her program, she sang a moving version of Lionel Bart's "As Long As He Needs Me."

Haven Homes sponsored Diane Kay Masden, 18,a sophomore majoring in Special Education. After college Miss Masden would like to be a Special Education teacher. She is a majorette and a member of the Council for Exceptional Children. For the talent portion of her program Miss Masden sang and did sign language to "You Light Up My Life" by Debby Boone.

Carrie Ann Johnson, 19, was sponsored by Wood Chips, Inc. Miss Johnson, a sophomore, majoring in Elementary Education/Library Sciences, would like to teach after graduation. She is a J.V. Cheerleader and a member of Youth Fellowship. Miss Johnson sang and danced to a medley of songs "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," "Rock Around the Clock" and

A reading of recently published issues of the Lock Haven State College Bulletin reveals that an increasingly large er of students are m ing classes because of field trips and conferences which take them away from campus, sometimes for as much as a week. These activities, though academically suppor-table, are encrbaching upon in other disciplines. It seems advisable that some limit be established for all activities, academic and athletic, so that students are not placed in academic jeopardy. To that end, the academic deans have agreed to review all such planned activities with department chairmen and to establish guidelines which will set limits to co- and extracurricular activities in the future. Use of weekends and nonclass days will be encouraged.

The publication of names or students in the Bulletin serves only to inform faculty that the students will miss class for a college sponsored activity. Students are still obligated to discuss the anticipated absence with their instructors in order to arrange to make up the work or to determine if an examination will be missed. The appearance of their names in the Bulletin does not provide an automatic excuse and lice to be free of responsibility for missed classes.

The only way students can plan ahead for anticipated absences due to a course activity is to have the event shed early enough in the Bulletin so that instructors can confirm such an event is being scheduled. Therefore, effective immediately, notices of students who will be absent from classes must be published in the Bulletin at least two weeks prior to the absence. All notices are to be approved by the Dean of the chool and forwarded to the Academic Affairs Office before publication.

When I asked Miss Tyson why she was in the Pageant, she replied that she thought "it would be good experience to get out in the community." For her talent portion of the pageant, Miss Tyson performed a piano comedy skit ot the music of "The Entertainer," doing impressions of Laurau Bacall, Marlauice Dietrich and Judy Garland singing "Over the Rain Bow."

rally and a seminars, a press conference to attract public attention. As stated, they had great enthusiasm but had very little guidance and even less understanding of political and social realities.

Realities in Pennsylvania Higher Education (as everywhere) are based on choices: In a time of rising costs, either the quality of education must deteriorate or institutions must receive increased funding. Now since no one is in favor of decreasing the quality of education, we must make another choice. Either we provide additional financing by increasing tuition or we attempt to obtain an increase from Harrisburg. Clearly the students don't want to pay larger tui-tion bills. This is understandable and one can sympathize with the position. No one wishes to have to pay more for any commodity or service he desires and has been obtaining at a lower cost. Assuming tuition is not increased, we should examine the alternative-obtaining an increase from the State Treasury. Now it's not often stated out loud but the State Government doesn't have any money of its own. It's not even able to go into debt. The only source of State money is that which comes from the people who are taxed to provide every State dollar. Thus those who insist that the State should increase its subsidy to its colleges are really saying that the taxpayers (many of whom have less money than the average student or his parents) should show that Indiana University of Pennsylvania receives 54 percent of its budget from taxes and all other State owned colleges receive a larger percentage. Thus the taxpayers who are already paying a large portion for the education of students at the State owned institutions are supposed to pay an even larger share. CAS is, in effect, demanding that the taxpayers, many of whom are poorer than the students or their parents, should sacrifice in the students' behalf. Now a case may be made that it is to the distinct advantage of all of society-even that part which includes those who are poor-to sacrifice in order to educate its youth. This case should be made, howeverand this is a very important reality-to the taxpayer. The average citizen already feels that government doesn't serve him. He believes the special interests, pressure groups and specially funded organizations have too much influence. If CAS in combination with state employees unions manage to influence an increase in funding for State institutions, one result will be to further the alienationof citizen from government. This could eventually lead to a "proposition 13" or worse-a meat axe approach to tax cutting. Future students would then be a lot worse off than if CAS have never ex-

To the Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the SCC for sponosoring the roller skating party last Thursday night, Nov. 15. Everybody (who knew about it) got together and had a great time. I'm sure those who went also join me in saying that if felt great enjoying the same sport which everyone could participate in. The football players were no better than the choir girls and vice versa. For the short year and a half that I have been here I can finally say that the chance to enjoy the "priveleges" my $46 activity fee bought me. Academic priveleges such as the use of the library, etc. do not really seem like priveleges to me. Who enjoys living in the library? What kind of an activity is that? Perhaps before I leave after this semester SCC could get another skating party together. Those I spoke to are all for it. Once again, I thank the SCC for giving us the chance of ' ting our money's worth.!"

Dear Editor,

Last week North Hall's manager, Doreen Hodgken informed one of counselors Bobi Hegarty that her job as a counselor had been terminated therefore giving her four days to move out of the dormitory. The ground reasons were that Bobi ws too independent and she didn't work well under supervision.

Bobi shows rare quality as a true friend and a qualified counselor in the sense of confidentiality, the want to listen, and her ability to get along with others. Everthough Bobi is extremely active in campus activities and organizations, Bobi gave the girls on her floor and others a great deal of her time. She was always willing to listen to any problems or questions they may have had day or night.

I feel Ms. Hodgken's reasons for terminating Bobi's job were irrelevant. How can a person be too independent when her job requires her to exercise confidentiality? Also Bobi maintains an excellent reputation for working under supervision as she did while she worked as a store manager for the Theater department.

I hope in the future when other counselor's jobs are being reconsidered, their reasons will be more valid than the reasons Ms. Hodgken gave Bobi. I also regret the loss that the third floor must feel in losing a terrific counselor and friend.

Sincerely, Carole Johnson

In my estimation, CAS would do a much greater service and quite likely further its goals by working toward better relations between the State institutions and the average citizen. They could sponsor projects to enhance 'town-gown'' relations, help police the rowdies (a small percentage, I'm sure) among student bodies, cease making inflated claims about successes (this damages credibility) and when someone who is obviously sincere opposes them, try to understand his position. Attacking him will only force him to expose their norance.

Sincerely yours, Gary L. Buckwalter Chairman, Department of Physics Indiana Univ. of Pa.

Sigma Kappa's Celebrate 'Hello Week'

By CHRIS KNICKER-

Throughout the past month the Sigma Kappas have been busy celebrating some very weird holidays.

To end October and start November there was Trick or Treat Week when all the sisters finally took off their masks. Following that week was Punsters Week where students composed puns and had them registered with Punsters Unlimited of the Lake Superior State College Unicorn Hunters Club.

Last week was Dunce Week in remembrance of Duns Scotus, a medieval scholastic whose concern with picayune technicalities brought the word 'Dunce' into the language.

This week is HELLO WEEK. If you're into the celebration you should say hello to ten people you don't know each day.

Start getting ready for the time when Sigma Kappa presents its salute to Mickey Mouse's 50th Birthday.

The Bald Eagles led in corner kicks by a 9-3 spread. Bobby registered 10 saves, while Chris Daubenmire came up with 12 blocked shots in the Babson goal. LHSC was charged with 43 fouls during the game, which seemed to get away from the mitted 25 fouls.

SOMETHING TO BOOT: With the setback, the Bald Eagles' record went to 16-3 on the season. Although they weren't in the championship game, the Bald Eagles are still proud bunch, making the final four. There are 225 NCAA Division III soccerplaying schools.

Lock Haven went cold from the field and Scranton slowly closed the gap and took the lead at 51-50 with five minutes to play. The lead changed hands everal times in the hectic final moments of action with the Royals going up by three 58-55 with 18 seconds left.

Lock Haven added a field goal to move within one at 10 second mark but a couple of foul shot opportunities were missed and Scranton had a hard earned opening win.

Despite the heart breaking loss second-year head coach Brad Black felt his team played well especially for an away opener, "it was a good overall team effort,"he scoring by junior guard Ken Richter and sophomore Doug LeGette each with 12 points. Senior guard Don Riles chipped in with 11 points. Sophomore forward Bob Horodyski and LeGette topped the LHSC rebounders with nine.

For the winners All-American Johnson, a 6 foot 5, 205 pound leaper, had 21 points. Also in double figures for the Royals was junior Tom Mineo with 14.

Now the Eagles will host neighboring Lycoming College in Thomas Fieldhouse on Wednesday at 8 p.m. with a junior varsity clash at 6:15. Last year the Warriors top-ped LHSC at Williamsport by 77-64 score.

Athletes In Action Hold Clinic At LHSC

By BOB BAKER

The Athletes in Action basketball team stopped at Lock Haven last week and held a short practice session for the enjoyment of many interested basketball fans.

Athletes in Action is the athletic ministry of Campus Crusade for Christ International, and interdenomina-tional Christain movement.

Their purpose is to use the platform that athletics pro-vides to communicate their message.

Athletes in Action with a 9-0 record is currently ranked third in the world rankings behind the number one team Indiana University and number two the Russian International team.

Their practice session directed by Coach Jim Poteet consisted mainly of showing different ballhandling and fastbreak drills they use to keep in tune between games. During the practice Poteet explained the AIA is based in Anaheim, California and plays all over the United States and thoughout the world. He stated that on December 24, they would be playing the Russian team in Madrid, Spain.

After the practice session players Derrick Jackson and Brad Hoffman gave a short talk on their careers with AIA and how much this team meant in their lives. The entire team then remained available to talk to fans about basketball and any other areas of interest.

All those interested in trying out for the LHSC Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleading Squads are required to attend a meeting tomorrow, Nov. 28 at 4 p.m. in Zimmerli Lobby. Tryouts will be held Dec. 4.
