LHS placement officer plans skills seminars

By KAIL BRENNEMAN
Staff Reporter

Last Wednesday night Mr. Herbert Larsen Director of Placement held the third in a series of five seminars designed to help seniors find employment after graduation.

"The main purpose behind these seminars," states Larsen, "is to give students a self-awareness of themselves in relation to career and job objectives." On a more useful level, the seminars hope to provide skills in writing letters of inquiry, filling out applications, developing a resume and learning interview techniques. The program is almost completely self-instructional and was developed by Dr. Howard Figler of the Dickinson College Placement Center.

If you can not attend the meetings but would still like to have the materials, they can be obtained by scheduling an appointment with Mr. Larsen in the Career Development Center. There, they have a wealth of informational materials for the benefit of students looking form employment.

NRC is accepting grant applications

The National Research Council is now accepting applications for the National Science Foundation's program of Graduate Fellowships.

To be eligible for a fellowship a student must be either a senior at an undergraduate school or freshman graduate student this fall. Applicants must be United States Citizens and they will be judged solely on the basis of ability.

In order to determine that ability, students interested in a fellowship must take the Graduate Record Examina-

SCC "unelection" slated for Monday

Uncontested in Monday's SCC Executive Committee Election is the Progressive Slate. One of the main objectives of the slate is to increase the social Committee's budget by eleven thousand dollars. According to Paul Benkert, the presidential candidate, the end results will hopefully be a better social atmosphere on campus.

Running with Benkert are: Tim Olnick, first vice president; Jim Brungard, second vice president; Joe Harper, Treasurer; Sue Daum, Recording secretary; and Mary Walsh, Corresponding Secretary.

The first vice presidents' job is to assist the president in carrying out his duties and to be prepared to take over the President's job in case of the President's absence at meetings or if he had to resign.

Brungard, the candidate for second vice president, if elected will have to oversee the business and of the Eagle Wing and the bookstore. Brungard has experience working in both areas. He is presently an SCC Senator.

In charge of the SCC Budget is the Treasurer. Joe Harper is the present SCC Treasurer

Work-center in Akeley School offers advice

Education majors now have a place they can go to attain materials and work on projects, get ideas for lesson plans, see resource books and films, and receive advice.

The Student Work Center, located in Akeley 203-205, is there to 'cater to the student', says Mr. Leroy Straley, Principal of Akeley School.

The idea of the center, which officially opened October 4, 1976 was originated by the Department of Experimental Education. The Work Center receives financial support from the School of

The Lock Haven State varsity Eaglette hockey squad has recently been seeded third in the Regionals Tournament to be staged at Glassboro State College on November 11-13. Seeded in the first and second positions are West Chester State and Ursinus. Details of the tournament will be featured in Wednesday's Eagle Eye.

Commentary: Benkert shirks campaign duties

By JULIE BRENNAN
Staff Reporter

The time for electing student leaders is once again upon us. On Monday, November 8, students will cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice. The ironic thing is, that there IS no choice. The Progressive Slate is the lone slate running for the offices of the SCC Executive Board.

Because they have no opposition, the Progressive Slate seems to feel that there is no need to campaign. There are no signs, posters, or pamphlets being circulated around campus. This is too bad because while Paul Benkert, President of the Progressive Slate, thinks the students, "should know about the election," he doesn't think it is important enough to do any publicizing.

The six-person slate, headed by Benkert consists of: Tim Olnick for first vice president, Jim Brungard for second vice president, Joe Harper for Treasurer, Sue Daum for Recording Secretary, and Mary Walsh for Corresponding Secretary.

Each officer on the Executive Board receives a yearly salary, the President getting $900.00 per year, the first and second vice presidents $750.00, Treasurer $675.00, Recording and Corresponding Secretaries $400.00 per year.

Wednesday night was the first time the slate met to discuss its views and goals. It was at this meeting that the slate changed its name from the Social Slate to the Progressive Slate, their reasoning — because it sounded better. The meeting lasted no longer than fifteen minutes and consisted of Benkert telling the members of his slate what his expectations of them were, and what some of his goals were, once they were elected.

One of Benkert's main goals is to increase the Social Committee's budget from this year's nineteen-thousand to thirty-thousand for next year. Benkert stated that, "this increase would make for more weekend activities, thus building up the social atmosphere on campus."

When Harper, Treasurer this year, and candidate for Treasurer again on the Progressive Slate, was confronted and asked how it would be possible for the budget to be increased by such a large amount, he stated, "One way of increasing the budget is to lower the 'estimated income,' 'So that more earned money could be reused to create more activities.'" Harper also stated that, "at present, the estimated income is high and holds back earned money that could be reused for additional activities."

Olnick's job of first vice president, would be to fill in as the number one man if something would happen to the president. He would preside over any meetings in the president's absence, also serving on all committees so he would be aware of what is happening. His job is also to see that more people become involved with student activities. When asked if he thought he would have time to do a good job as first vice president, since he is in just about everything such as: Editor-In-Chief of the Crucible, Sports Editor of the Eagle Eye, and President of the Biology Club, and a dorm

The SCC and You

By LORIN MOCK

After an extremely heavy turnout in our national election on Tuesday, it may seem premature to discuss another election. Monday though, you will be asked to make another important decision. Maybe this is not as important as the National Presidential Election but it will have an impact on your life at LHSC over the next year. You will be asked to choose a new SCC Executive Committee including your new Student Body President.

This is not an election to be taken lightly. Your decision and who you put in office will run the SCC for next year. You are picking someone to control your 40 dollar a semester activity fee for next year.

In a time when apathy is supposed to be running rampant, it was reassuring to see a large student turnout for our national election. We must not let that enthusiasm die. Any executive committee that is elected by a large student turnout will certainly be more enthusiastic about their newfound role than one which is elected where the majority of students don't care enough about the election vote.

It may be said that there is no interest in the campaign since only one slate is running. While the statement that only one slate is running is true, I find the rest more of a cop out than a valid excuse not to vote. What is wrong with your right to write in votes? If you feel dissatisfied with the slate on the ballot then write in who you feel will do the best job. If you feel the slate running for election will do the best job, cast your vote for them. As you see I am not concerned with who you vote for but rather that you cast your right to vote.

We as students need a viable Student Government to stand up for us against the Administration, the Faculty, the Politicians in Harrisburg who run our college system. Let's keep our student voice viable for us, so we may continue to move ahead. For if we don't continue to move on and do battle with the forces that would hold us back we will eventually be devoured by them. By your vote, for whoever you feel can do the best job, we can legitimize our government and help continue the fight.

I believe our situation at Lock Haven can be likened to an editorial I recently read in the New York Times. It said "If we as Americans don't care enough about our own democracy to participate in it we deserve to lose it - and lose it we will." I believe this sums it up far better than I can. So please let's help ourselves and remember to vote on Monday.

Letter*Letter*Letter*Letter*Letter

To the Editor:

This is in reply to a letter written by Chris Flynn in the November 1 issue of the Eagle Eye titled "Races Should Stay Together".

First of all, just what were the words of Howard Seeley? And in what ways are the Black Students of this campus separating themselves? Surely you aren't referring to the article written a week ago, and if so, what in that article gave you that notion? The Black Cultural Society is a club just like any other on this campus with the only difference being that our aims are, as said before, "to inform members and the campus of the art and history background of Blacks in America" and "to help dissolve dissention and Racism on campus." Whether you personally have or have not experienced dissention and racism is not the question, because if you have not, surely others have. But, getting right to the point, I and others on this campus Black and White just don't see the point you are trying to get across. If the BCS is what you have grievances about, I think you are definitely missing the point of it. The BCS has been a functioning organization for awhile but I think that now, more than ever before it is being recognized as an official campus organization, thanks to those who want to work to make it something.

And, yes, it's purposes are to promote activities that Blacks and others can participate in but it is in no way a form to separate ourselves, being that it is open to all

Lady Lions shred Eaglette defense

By MARY FEUSNER
Women's Sports Editor

The Lady Lions of Penn State ventured into Eaglette territory on Tuesday and defeated the varsity 2-0 and played to a 0-0 deadlock in the junior varsity game.

On a spongy Lawrence Field Lock Haven outplayed Penn State as is indicated by the 37-9 shots on goal and penetration time of 10:35 compared to 6:22. The offense could move the ball into the circle but could not get their sticks on it at the opportune times. Cathy Ogle found the PSU goalie off guard at 1:00 to begin all scoring, but at 2:45 Garwood of PSU shot for goal on a cross from the left. PSU's Morett took advantage of some confusion in the Lock Haven defense. Her goal came at 27:00 from the right side.

No goals were scored in the second half action.

Graham, Keller and Gobrecht had exceptional games for Lock Haven as did Larson and Morett for Penn State.

Despite repeated pressure by the offenses of both squads, the junior varsity contest ended in 0-0. Lock Haven collected 15 shots on goal compared to PSU's 13. The Lock Haven attack was initiated by the play of Giest, Shelley and Weber.

West Chester, the defending national champs of women's field hockey, came to Lock Haven Thursday afternoon to play one of the muddiest games in the history of women's field hockey. From the opening bully to the final whistle, players on both squads found the footing undesirable.

The teams battled to a 1-1 tie, all goals scored in the first half.

Keller tallied the first goal at 16:30. Her shot followed a shot by teammate Rudy and a clear by the WC goalie. Four minutes later, Stauffer scored the West Chester goal.

The final penetration times revealed a margin of 13

PRO BALL

by Steve Heverly

Back to back weeks of 11-3 ups my record 62-35 as I head into the 9th week of NFL action. The big game this week is in Chicago where the Bears tangle with the Oakland Raiders.

Oakland 17 Chicago 10

The Raiders, a known power, are facing a tough schedule for once while the Bears are a year away. When Avellini gets rid of rookie mistakes the Bears will win the division. It won't happen till at least next year. The Raiders tougher schedule should help them in playoffs.

St. Louis 21 Philadelphia 10

Tempers flared last time these two met and the Eagles looking forward to this game. The Eagles tempers will only make Cardinals more intense.

Atlanta 23 Seattle 14

Atlanta achieved their second victory last week and the Seattle hawks don't have the team the Saints do.

Baltimore 24 San Diego 17

Baltimore looks like the class of the AFC right now, and barring any injuries, are the team to beat. San Diego has sunk back into mediocrity after their hot start.

New England 28 Buffalo 17

New England has to get back on the winning track after losing to Miami last week. Another loss and their even with both Miami and Pittsburgh and their chances for a wild-card wouldn't be very good. Buffalo is competing with the Jets for last place in the East.

Cleveland 24 Houston 17

Houston's still hurting from Monday nights' game so Cleveland slips into the Astrodome and steals a win.

Minnesota 24 Detroit 20

The Lions are coming on and should give Minnesota another good game. Bloomington Minnesota about this time of year becomes a place that you wouldn't want to visit.

Miami 21 NY Jets 14

Miami realizes they can't afford to lose any more games if they are to get in the playoffs. Jets shouldn't be a roadblock.

Green Bay 25 New Orleans 20

Green Bay looked bad in Detroit last week. Will rebound at home against a team that lost alot of confidence losing a 14-0 lead to the Falcons last week.

Dallas 20 NY Giants 7

Dallas shouldn't even break a sweat as they up the Giants record to 0-9.

Pittsburgh 28 Kansas City 10

That rumble you hear in the central division is the defending champions starting to put it back together. The Steelers are the most feared 4-4 team in football.

Denver 17 Tampa Bay 0

Denver's defense is one of the stronger in the conference. Their offence is one of the worst. Tampa Bay and the Giants continue to chase Tony Dorsett.

San Francisco 21 Washington 10

The 49ers loss last week put them in second place for the first time this year. Washington is finally over-the-hill as Dallas proved last week. At the end of the year look for some old men leaving, possibly taking George Allen with them.

Cincinnati 17 Los Angeles 16

Best Monday night game of the year. At this point in the season this is "the game" for both teams. Whoever wins this game would win their division while the loser would be on shaky ground. Cincinnati will win with defence.

And if you are just talking about Black Students participation on campus, I think you should go back and look again, Black Student participation has grown immensely since just a year ago, I'm sure many have noticed. Black students this year have participated in almost all areas of sports and intramural activities, let alone other activities such as the Marching Band, Residence Hall Employees, the College Choirs, Committees Concerning the SCC, the College Players, etc. Surely, this isn't what you mean by separating ourselves. And as for the social activities on campus sponsored by the BCS there have been many in the past, and there will be many more in the near future which are open to all students on campus, but

Sue Daum's job of Recording Secretary is to take the minutes of all meetings and

As Corresponding Secretary, Mary Walsh's job, as stated by Benkert, will be to: "get all of the minutes out to the Senators, and to send out copies of minutes to other schools."

Last years election was such a contest compared to this year's. It seems that the SCC isn't very responsive towards the students. A few signs saying, "VOTE SCC OFFICER ELECTION, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 8" is not enough.

Someone should let the students know who these people are that are running for SCC offices, what their viewpoints are, and what their plans for office are — if elected. The Progressive Slate are not the "someones" who are going to run around campus doing this job. They aren't even organized enough between themselves to do any type of campaigning. If these people want so much to correct student apathy — they should get off asses and start working on it!!!
