

"I want to be a boy," says Pinocchio, a wooden puppet who came alive by the sweep of the Blue fairy's wand. Sponsored by the Association for Childhood Education the Merry Magic Players presented six performances of "Pinocchio" for the area schools. In the final scene, Pinocchio gets his wish by telling the truth, going to school, and learning to work; he becomes a boy.

Caf. Smoking On Trial Basis

Smoking is now being permitted in the main dining room of Bentley Hall on a trial basis.

Administrative policy had previously prohibited smoking because it was feared that cafeteria equipment (such as dining room floors, furniture, linens, etc.) would be abused.

LHS President Richard T. Parsons has indicated that he will withdraw the trial period in the event that there are any abuses.

Edward Eltz, cafeteria manager, has stated that the "rules have been complied with to the letter." There have been "no abuses whatsoever, except for missing ashtrays," he said.

George Hayfield, an LHS science professor, will be speaking at North Hall tonight at 8 pm. His topic will concern the future of man on this planet and the possibility of life on other planets.

The basis was brought about through the efforts of Jack Heagney, chairman of the SCC food-service committee. Heagney reported that cafeteria manager Edward Eltz did not have any objections to smoking in the cafeteria and felt it was up to the administration to decide.

The trial basis went into effect last Friday with ashtrays being provided by the Piper Aircraft Corporation.

A line is clearly visible on the Washington Monument in the Capital. Original construction was interrupted, and when it was resumed the marble was taken from a different stratum, causing the difference in color.

Illegitimacy is on the rise. Government and private agency sources say that between 1947 and 1967 the rate doubled from 12 to 24 births per 1,000 among unmarried women aged 15-44.

Soph Succumbs To Cancer After Brief Illness

Private funeral services were held Saturday for Randall George Brumbaugh, the 18-year-old Lock Haven State sophomore who died last Thursday morning following a brief illness. The student died of a form of cancer.

The secondary education (computer science) major from James Creek reportedly became ill Sept. 11. After treatment at Glennon Infirmary on campus, Brumbaugh was admitted to the Lock Haven Hospital, where he "seemed to be making a recovery," according to George F. Rhodes, LHS assistant dean of students.

X-rays taken at the hospital indicated that Brumbaugh was suffering from pneumonia, for which he was treated. The LHS student was discharged from the local hospital Oct. 10 after he appeared to have recovered.

Brumbaugh returned to classes for a brief time, but on Oct. 22, he was again taken to the college infirmary. According to his roommate in North Hall, Roger Leigey, Brumbaugh required help in walking to the infirmary.

The sophomore's parents were notified at this time, said Dean Rhodes, speaking on behalf of the infirmary staff. Rhodes pointed out that Brumbaugh was immediately taken home, where he was admitted to the James C. Blair Memorial Hospital at Huntington, near his home town.

Brumbaugh died there last Thursday morning at 2:20 am (EST), according to a Blair official.

An autopsy was requested to determine the exact cause of death; this was performed shortly after the time of death by a hospital pathologist. The cause of death is listed as cancer.

Dean Rhodes indicated that Brumbaugh's father notified the college of the youth's death.

The day after Brumbaugh's death, James Smalley, LHS assistant dean of men, issued the following statement at North Hall to combat circulating rumors that the student died of a contagious disease:

"On Thursday, Oct. 30, 1969, Randy Brumbaugh, a resident of North Hall, died. Contrary to any rumors which may be circulating the cause of death, based on the autopsy report, was due to a form of cancer. The purpose of this memorandum is for your own knowledge and clarification."

Brumbaugh's roommate, Leigey, told Eagle Eye that the youth was fond of hunting (he had lived on a small country farm). The student was also interested in football and baseball. Leigey said that Brumbaugh had started at this college as a secondary mathematics major, but switched his major when he planned to teach computer science after he graduated.

The 18-year-old had graduated from Huntington Area High School in 1968. He was a member of the Marklesburg United Methodist Church in his home community. A 10-year member of the Marklesburg 4-H Club, he had won several top honors in cattle shows at the Huntington County Fair.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Bernice Anne, who is a graduate student at the Indiana State University of Pennsylvania; a brother, Brett, still at home; and three grandparents.

Private services were held at Huntington Saturday with the Rev. Frank Crawford and the Rev. Walter D. Mehrling officiating. Burial was in Union Cemetery at Marklesburg.

The family has requested that memorial contributions be made to the Huntington County chapter of the American Cancer Society. The executive board of the Student Cooperative Council has already made a small contribution to the chapter.

Bald Eagle Grapplers Preparing for 'Tough' Opener

The Bald Eagle grapplers are in their third week of practice and according to head mentor Gray Simons there are over 30 candidates participating.

Simons, who is being assisted by former NCAA champion Ken Melchior has a good nucleus returning.

Ripsey Heads Returnees

Larry Ripsey, who was the outstanding wrestler in the Wilkes Open Tournament last year, heads the list of nine letterman returning. Ripsey was also a Coast Guard champion last year and was considered one of the top sophomores in the nation.

Also returning are Shane Foley (10-0), Don Fay (8-0), Paul Brodmerkel (8-0), Gene Taxis (9-1), Willy Vokes (3-3), Bill

Rhodes (5-3), Hank Hawkins (8-0) and Scott Brooks (5-4-1). Bill Morian and Barry Yontz letter winners in 1968 are also back again this season. Fay, Brooks and Rhodes are still participating in fall sports and won't join the squad until November 10.

Outstanding prospects seeking a varsity berth are; Craig Sholl, Jeff Knarr, John Mapes, George Sagen and Mark Koons. Mapes, Sagen and Koons were freshmen conference champions last year.

Speaking about his team Simons said, "In the first four weights all the guys were in the conference finals. All those boys should be good and solid. We have some fair freshmen with Jeff Knarr probably having the best record and we have a few boys who were freshmen conference champs last year."

"All the positions are open and they're going to have to eliminate for them," he added.

NCAA Changes

There will be a new look on the mats this year because of two new rulings by the NCAA.

For the first time every wrestler must wear a protective head gear. Previously head gear had been optional.

The other change is in the weight classes. The classes have reduced from eleven to ten. The new weights are: 118 lbs., 126 lbs., 134 lbs., 142 lbs., 150 lbs., 158 lbs., 167 lbs., 177 lbs., 190 lbs., and heavy-weight.

Tough Schedule

The grapplers will have the dubious task of opening a 13 match schedule at Lehigh University, December 6. The Engineers have always been considered one of the top teams in the nation and are probably the toughest openers in LHS history.

In addition to adding Lehigh to their schedule the Eagles will also face Ohio University, Southern Illinois and California State for the first time.

Speaking of the schedule Coach Simons said, "Lehigh is a tough one to open with. Ohio is a young team, but tough and Southern Illinois usually has a good team and is usually a powerhouse. Overall I think the schedule is a lot tougher than last year," he added.

In the Pennsylvania Conference Simons sees Clarion, East Stroudsburg, Bloomsburg, and West Chester as the top challengers to dethrone the Eagles as champions.

"They all had good freshmen teams last year," Simons said. "Clarion and us will have the most lettermen back and East Stroudsburg has quite a few."

The Eagles will have two pre-scrimmage meets one with Mansfield at home on November 24 and the other yet to be announced.

When a boyfriend demanded to know if she dyed her hair, a quick-thinking lass replied, "I don't tell off-color stories."

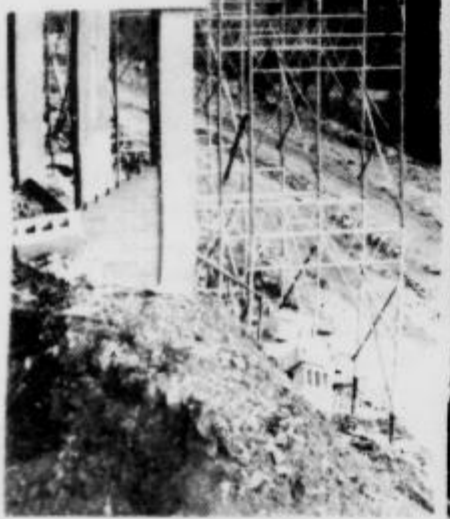

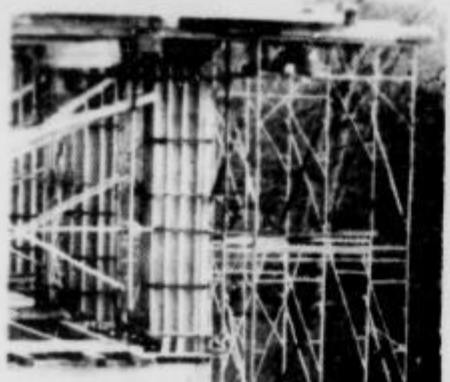

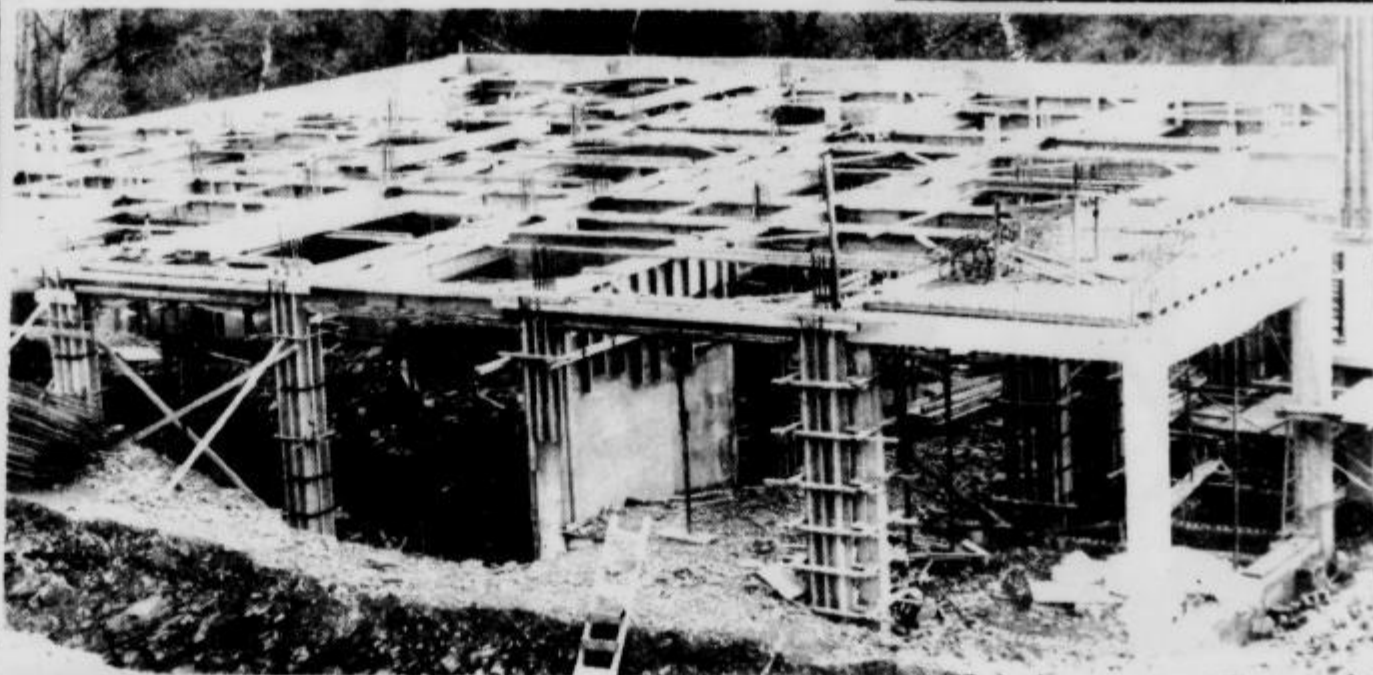

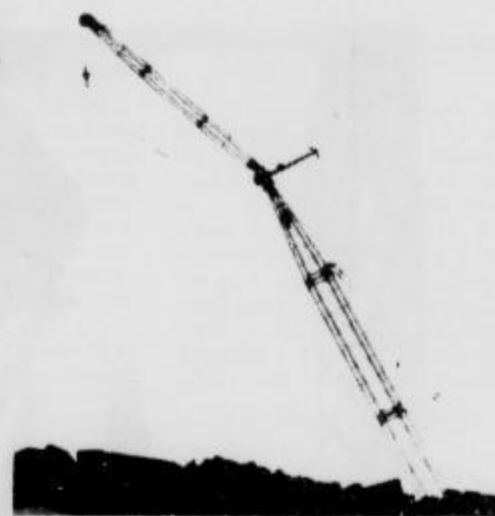

A Look to the Future

new men's dorm

Up Up and Away to the beautiful new men's dorm.

The new men's dormitory upon the hill is relatively small compared to the woman's dormitory. Housing 200 men on only four floors, this dorm will have a large rec room in the basement and a lounge on each floor. Although there are only four floors the men's dorm will have an elevator. The completion is set for July 25, 1970.

Teacher Exams to Be Given Saturday; Others Planned

The Educational Testing Service announces four dates for National Teacher Examinations. These tests are required by some colleges for all seniors preparing to teach and are used when considering an applicant for acceptance into graduate schools. School systems and state departments of education using examination results can be found in the bulletin of information for candidates.

The tests will be administered in nearly 500 locations throughout the United States on November 8, 1969, and January 31, April 4, and July 18, 1970. Late fees and registration deadlines apply to these dates. Details can be found in the bulletin. The graduate records examinations consist of an aptitude test, which covers general scholastic ability, and advanced tests which apply to 21 major fields of study.

Interested students should contact the school systems in which they wish to teach, or the specific graduate schools to which they intend to apply (or have applied) for specific advice and recommendation of dates for the examinations suggested.

The bulletin of information contains general information about the tests, and a list of test centers, in addition to the registration form. Copies are available at the college placement office, school personnel departments, or by writing to National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540.
