

SCC Executive Board Speaks on Environmental Symposium

We are in the midst of an environmental crisis that could be terminal within the century, and we haven't as individuals, and institution, or a nation directed ourselves toward understanding it or attempting to find a solution. This is the major problem confronting us today. And the tragedy is that most of us don't know this ecological crisis exists.

Some of us are aware of water pollution, or air pollution, or population pollution, or thermal pollution, and we might know why they exist individually. But we don't understand how inter-related they are or how they exist as a total problem. If we do understand this, we are knowingly setting up the world for mass if not total genocide. If we continue to allow the problem, we are indeed a sick society and should be destroyed as you would a mad dog.

A source to our problem might be the manner we accumulate and disseminate knowledge. If we look at the Renaissance when men wanted to know as much as he could about his environment and look at ourselves within our disciplines we might find a key. At the end of the Renaissance, the arts and sciences began to divide, and more knowledge within each discipline brought more splits within that discipline. It is understood that without this discipline thinking (not to be confused with disciplined thinking) we couldn't have acquired the vast amount of knowledge we have today. However, a major by-product of this process is the discipline man. This individual doesn't understand what happens outside his discipline area or knowledge base whether he is a professor, corporate executive, congressman, truck driver, or president. Then, with this limited view of the total world that most of us have, we can't expect to understand the total problem. If we can't understand the problem, then the solution is certainly beyond us with our present thought process.

This thought process, or basis of education, is being attacked by many students today. This attack takes many forms but most center around a request for a more relevant education, one in which they might concern themselves primarily with this existing problem and its solution. This institution as almost all others, be they educational, business, or governmental, is incapable of finding solutions as they exist because of this discipline framework. We must then search with all our energies for a way to make this school relevant to 1970. Relevance to the total world and the total world problem is what is needed.

We the S.C.C. executive board

don't have a solution to this predicament. We do have a plan, however, to focus the attention of the members of our society, L.H.S.C. The plan is a simple one: to have town meetings where all present can be heard, where the discussion would focus on where we are and why and what the problems are. When we get as a society reasonably aware of the problems on a total basis then, and only then can we discuss directions toward solution.

Finally, in short, all of us on this board and probably all of us at this institution are products of this system. To understand the problems that exist because of the system, we must get outside it and look at ourselves and our system in a new way. We feel this must be done now if we are to continue to exist as a species in the future.

Debaters Place 9th

The LHS novice debaters under the supervision of Mrs. Hazel Ferguson placed ninth in team standings with a 5-5 at the 24th annual Vermont Invitational Tournament. The tournament was held on November 21st and 22nd at the University of Vermont in Burlington.

Debating the national topic: Resolved that the federal government should grant annually a specific percentage of the federal income tax to the states. The affirmative team of Ed Flanagan and Jim Lebda accumulated a 3 win - 2 loss record defeating New Hampshire A, the College Militaire Royal of Canada, and Union College, and losing to the University of Massachusetts and Dartmouth B.

The negative team consisting of Gordy Klingman and Chip Devenger finished with a 2 win - 3 loss record defeating New York University A and St. Lawrence College and losing to Brockport College, the University of Vermont A, and Fittenburg State.

The objective of this tournament was to increase knowledge of the debate topic and to perfect debating technique and style.

Four Get Awards

Parking Committee No Longer Will Be Paid

The parking committee, the only SCC committee which receives a fee, will no longer receive payment for its services. The board of directors at Wednesday night's SCC meeting decided that it is inequitable to pay one committee and not others.

Patty Felix, co-chairman of the social committee, announced that the New Colony Six will appear in concert December 7 at 7 and 9 pm. On December 14 the choir will present its Christmas concert in Price Auditorium, and on December 16, Julian Bond will speak on "The New Coalition."

Ron Smith, chairman of STOP (Student Organization for Peace), announced that Dr. Wesley Bagby, professor of history at West Virginia University, will speak on "Why We Should Get Out of Vietnam" and Dr. and Mrs. James Dayananda will speak on "What Asians Say About the War in Asia."

Suggestions were also made for a student directory, a union board, a cultural affairs committee, and a committee to investigate how LHS can become a member of Who's Who.

The sailing club requested $1000 for two sunfish sail boats, and STOP requested $300 for monthly programs.

The executive board issued a statement for the symposium on environmental conditions, (see related article on this page) and plans for the community festival are in progress.

'Lock Haven Rev.' Published Yearly

The Lock Haven Review is a learned journal, published annually at Lock Haven State College, and distributed to various college and university libraries. The journal, which was founded in 1959, is presently edited by Jack Silberg, associate professor of English. He assumed his position in 1964.

Research articles in the field of the humanities and social sciences comprise, in most part, the whole of the journal. Among those authors whose articles are published in the Lock Haven Review are scholars from not only Lock Haven State, but also from numerous other colleges and universities throughout the country.

Because the Review is indexed by several standard bibliographies, its articles receive wide notice and circulation. Silberg receives inquiries concerning Review articles from all over the country and occasionally from European scholars.

The policy of the Review is that of publishing works restricted to research articles and critical essays. There is some indication that the policy will be changed in the future. Creative works, such as original poems and short stories, may, in the future, be published also. Changes in the policy of the journal and the selection of a new editor are now being discussed.

Members of the editorial board of the journal are: Janice M. Bosworth, Robert H. Johnston, Charles R. Kent, Russell C. Nelson, Lee Van Horn, Franklin H. Vaughn, Hugh Williamson and Raymond E. Whitney.

Still Time to Get Tickets for 'New Colony Six' Concerts

There's still time to pick up tickets for Sunday's Christmas concert featuring the New Colony Six, a Chicago based recording group. The group will present two performances, one at 7 pm and one at 9 pm in Price Auditorium. The concert is sponsored by the social committee of the Student Cooperative Council. Tickets are free to students presenting their ID cards at the reception desk in the PUB. Staff, faculty, and guest tickets will be sold at $1.50 each. Tickets sold at the door will be priced at $1.60.

The New Colony Six, currently engaged in a nationwide concert tour, have produced several hit songs and have appeared on various television shows. Despite the fact that the New Colony Six is a relatively new group, their "outstanding performances" have won them several awards, and they have been rated one of the top ten recording groups in the nation by other top performers.

Grapplers Travel to Lehigh for Showdown

A showdown between two of the East's wrestling powers will take place tomorrow night in Grace Hall.

Coach Gray Simons sends his Bald Eagle grapplers onto the mats against perennial powerful Lehigh tomorrow night at 7:30 pm.

The match marks the first time the two national powers will face each other in a dual meet.

Top Teams in East

LHS finished second in the East last season right in front of Lehigh and this match should prove who is the number two team behind Navy.

Lehigh will have two freshmen in their starting lineup and will be without three lettermen in the opener.

Lehigh Coach Gerry Leeman is understandably concerned about his teams debut tomorrow night.

"We'll be alot tougher in a few weeks," Leeman says.

"Right now we are trying to keep a stiff practice schedule despite a variety of sprains, bruises and even some illness."

"You take 'em as they come, though, in this game, and Lock Haven comes here Saturday. No one has to tell us they'll be sky-high. They have an excellent coach in Gray Simons and formidable personnel right through their lineup."

The Eagles will have eight returning lettermen in their starting lineup with letterman Willy Vokes sitting out the match because of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

LHS will be led by its "tremendous three" (Don Fay, Shane Foley and Larry Rippey) while the Engineers top wrestlers are co-captain Jack Bentz and Dave Waters.

Bentz And Waters

Bentz, a two-time EIWA (Eastern Intercollegiat Wrestling Association) champ at 167, has an 18-1 dual meet mark over two varsity seasons. He will co-captain the Engineers along with Rich Meyer who lost his final trial bout to Waters at 126 lbs.

Waters was on the sophomore All-American team last winter following impressive performances in the EIWA and NCAA tournaments. He finished fourth at the NCAA tourney.

LHS's 'Tremendous Three'

Both Fay and Foley finished third in the NAIA tournament last year for the Eagles while Rippey had to default because of an injury. Rippey was considered as one of the top sophomores in the nation last year.

The match has been rated "even" by Lehigh's assistant coach Mike Caruso with the Eagles having their strength in the lower weights while the Engineers have their strength in the upper weights.

Both Simons and Caruso agree that a lot of the key matches will be in the lower weights.

Simons stated, "If we don't win our share down there (the lower weights), they're going to be tough to beat. We have to do real well in the first four or five weights."

Caruso added, "If we win two out of the first four matches we'll be all right, but if they (LHS) win three or up we're in for trouble."

According to Caruso the key bout of the meet will be at 126 lbs. which pits Waters against Foley. "Right now I think Waters is the best wrestler on the team," stated Caruso.

Match Rated Even

When questioned about a favorite for the meet Coach Simons said, "It's hard to judge. I think it will be real close. It's a tough meet to open with."

On the same question Caruso added, "Any other year I would have to favor Lehigh, but this year I would have to rate it even because of Lock Haven's strength in the lower weights.

It is hard to say who would be favored because it is the opener for both teams."

Caruso also added, "I think that it is a match that will make or break both teams' season, especially Lehigh's."

The following is a tentative starting lineup for both squads. 118-Don Fay (LHS) vs Randy Biggs

126-Shane Foley (LHS) vs Dave Waters

134-Larry Rippey (LHS) vs David Icenhower

142-Paul Brodmerkel (LHS) vs Jay Leeman

150-Craig Sholl (LHS) vs Herb Campbell

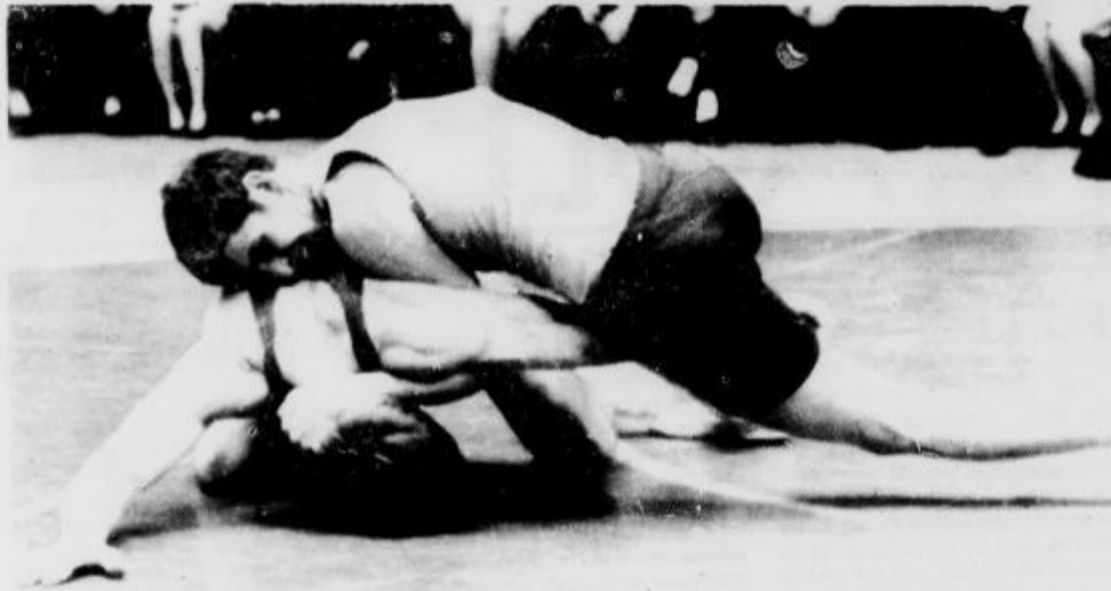

158-Gene Taxis or Mark Kuntz (LHS) vs Greg Karabin

167-Bill Rhodes (LHS) vs Steve Shields

177-Jim Batesky or John Conneley (LHS) vs Jack Bentz

190-Hank Hawkins (LHS) vs Al Nicusanti

Hwt-Scott Brooks (LHS) vs Gary Leinberger

One of LHS's top three grapplers, Larry Rippey, during last season's action. Rippey was one of the nation's top sophomores last year. LHS travels to Lehigh University tomorrow evening for the opening meet of the 1969-70 wrestling season.

Landis Named to U.S. Field Hockey Squad

Bertie Landis, center forward for the Lock Haven field hockey team, was named to the United States field hockey squad as a result of her play during the National tournament, held in Ann Arbor, Michigan during the Thanksgiving vacation.

Miss Landis culminated a fine season by being named to the Central Penn I team, the Mid-East I team, and the U.S. squad for the second consecutive year.

Six other Eaglets competed in the National tournament, which is an honor in itself but were not named to the U.S. squad. Playing their final collegiate games were Margo DeGrange, a Mid-East I team member, Dottie Chekay, also on Mid-East I, Linda Barton, and Diane James, both members of Mid-East III. Diane Webster, a member of Mid-East I, and a U.S. squad member last year, and Karen Shifflet, a Mid-East II member also competed and will be back next year to lead the Eaglets.

Commenting on the tournament, Coach Dr. Charlotte Smith said: "It was good experience for the girls, they had the best competition available. Only through playing high level teams will they be able to improve."

Dr. Smith added that a girl is selected to the U.S. squad if the selection committee feels she is a promising player on the way up and they want to give her the best possible competition.

This summer the U.S. squad will probably play against teams from other countries that are touring the United States.

LHS Mentioned In National Mag.

Lock Haven State College has been mentioned in this week's issue of Sports Illustrated. The Bald Eagle football team was mentioned in SCORECARD in reference to their season finale with Waynesburg. The magazine stated:

"The penalized quarterback was John Huntey of Waynesburg College in Pennsylvania. Waynesburg College was leading Lock Haven State College 14-3 in the rain with two minutes remaining and Huntey needed a good grip on the ball. He had just muddied his hands and also the towel at his waist in diving for a loose ball. His eyes lit upon the only clean places on the field--the officials' uniforms. Casually, without asking, Huntey availed himself of the trousers of a startled field judge. In a twinkling the affronted dignitary paced off 15 yards against Waynesburg for unsportsman like conduct."

Cagers Open Season With Edinboro State

The LHS cagers of new head coach James Christopher open their 1969-70 season Saturday night against Edinboro State. The "new look" Eagles will be trying to start the season off on the right foot with a win over strong Edinboro.

The probable starting line-up will be John Marlak and Ed Wright at the guards; Sammy Vaughn and Cliff Billit at forwards; and Ziggy Tauginas at center. However, Christopher stated, "We'll probably have a set five to start the game, but with a running system if we are to have any success it will have to be from our bench and everyone will be seeing action."

The Bald Eagles have won four of five pre-season games and have looked good at times. "We are making a lot of mistakes but that is to be expected with a new coach and a new system."

Christopher, a former coach at Edinboro, would like nothing better than a victory over his former school.

The team will be weakened somewhat by injuries. Randy Lindsey is still bothered by an early knee injury, he will see some action according to Christopher. Co-captain Bruce Parkhill will see limited action because of an ankle injury.

"It's going to be difficult for us to have a winning season. Anything can happen and that's what makes sports so great," Christopher concluded.

The SCC Movie Cat Ballou will be shown in Price Auditorium, Sunday Dec. 14, 2:00 pm instead of 7:30 pm as scheduled on the calendar.
