

'Somebody' Open To Everyone

"No Place to be Somebody," the 1970 Pulitzer Prize-winning play by Charles Gordone, will be performed by the Roundabout Theatre on Monday, February 5, at 8:15 p.m. in Price Auditorium.

The play is open to the public, with admission charged. Tickets are available at the PUB and at the door.

Described as a comedy-drama, "No Place to be Somebody" has received wide acclaim in New York, Los Angeles, Detroit, and other major cities. The author, Charles Gordone, is an actor as well as a playwright.

Gordone, the first Black playwright to win the Pulitzer Prize, was in the original production of "The Blacks." He won an award for Best Actor of the Year off-Broadway in the all-Black production of "Of Mice and Men."

He was associate producer of the film "Nothing But a Man" and casting director for another feature film, "Black Like Me."

Gordone is co-founder and chairman, with Godfrey Cambridge, of the Committee for the Employment of Negro Performers.

Theatre Opportunity Offered In England

A four-week Elizabethan theatre workshop at St. George's Theatre in London, England is scheduled for July 14 to August 11, 1973. The course is being sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh's Department of Speech and Theatre Arts and the University Center for International Studies.

The program, entitled the Tyrone Guthrie Lectures and Theatre Workshop, is being run in conjunction with St. George's Theatre and the City University, London, England. Undergraduate and graduate students from American or Canadian colleges or universities are eligible to participate.

Lectures and workshop sessions will be based on the teachings of the late Sir Tyrone Guthrie, who was instrumental in spreading the principle of English classical theatre and the production of Shakespeare throughout the world, was dedicated to preserving acting as an art and serious profession.

The lectures and workshop will include academic study, practical theatre application, visits to major English classical theatre companies, and tours of museums and art galleries. The course will cover the study of historical background, social conditions, political structure and the intellectual and spiritual influences of the Renaissance on Shakespeare and other English poets and dramatists. Well-known theatre experts will lecture on subjects ranging from the theatre as an art form, the actor's task in interpreting the text, and changing shapes of theatre and drama, to the use of visuals, scenery, and costumes and comparative techniques of modern and classical delivery.

Cost, which includes tuition, room and board, and theatre tickets, is approximately $600. A deposit of $100 is required upon application. Deadline for applications is March 21, 1973.

For further information, write to Deborah Hornbake, Study Abroad Office, University of Pittsburgh, University Center for International Studies, Mervis Hall, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15213, or call (412) 621-3500, extension 6500.

Arts Festival Brings Weekend Of Events

A presentation of Black poetry and jazz, an exhibit and lecture by two artists, and a movie about Martin Luther King will be offered this weekend at Lock Haven State College as part of the Black Arts Festival.

On Saturday at 2 p.m., Cynthia Griffin and Faye Lewis return to the Lock Haven campus for a presentation of "Black Poetry and Jazz," using a Readers Theatre approach. The absence of props is intended to help the listener focus on the readings themselves.

On Sunday at 2 p.m., Mr. James McDowall and Dr. Walter Simon will hold an exhibit of their works and discuss "Contrast in Black Art Forms" in Bentley Hall lounge, open to the public without charge.

Mr. McDowall is a commercial artist in Washington, D.C. who has done magazine illustrations in addition to posters and advertisements. His paintings have been exhibited in Maryland and Washington, D.C.

Dr. Walter Simon, art professor at Bloomsburg State College, exhibited a selection of his paintings at last year's Black Arts Festival in Lock Haven. His work has been recognized in the magazines "Negro Art," and "Ebony."

On Sunday night at 7:30 pm, the film "King: Montgomery to Memphis" will be shown free of charge in Price Auditorium. The movie depicts the major events in the life of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., using film of actual events taken by friends and news photographers.

Communication Vibrations Needed

The students of Lock Haven are in dire need of a radio station on campus.

Most students would agree that there are only three radio stations of much interest to us in the area. They are the Lock Haven, Williamsport, and State College stations. We think that perhaps the Lock Haven station is a bit sub-par and at times it is difficult for students to bring in the State College station. That leaves the Williamsport station, which is fairly good at times but has many programs of no interest to students.

A radio station here would seemingly be ideal for everyone on campus. It would provide a form of campus communication for students and faculty alike. When was the last time you missed a meeting because you failed to see a bulletin hanging in some corner on campus? All of us could experience good music continuously because the station would be directed by students for students.

The disc jockeys would be students. They could be volunteers or perhaps a form of expansion for the work-study program. Money to get us started would probably have to come from our own Student Co-op Council. To prevent our activity fees from skyrocketing we would probably have to cut out one big name concert or another less important activity.

A few of us feel that the sacrifice of such an activity would be well worth the end result. Is there any reason such a program could not be set up?

Cagers Drop Tough One to CSC

On Wednesday night, the LHS basketball team under the leadership of new head coach Dick Taylor, traveled to Clarion to face one of the powerhouses of the Pennsylvania Conference. Going into the game, the Clarion State College "Golden Eagles" were undefeated in conference play and had only two overall losses. Leading Clarion's nationally ranked offensive machine was Joe Sebestyen, who is personally ranked in field goal percentage.

The Bald Eagles however, were coming off a thrilling, last second upset win over a strong Wilkes College team and upset number two was in their minds.

The heavily favored Clarion found the defensive minded Bald Eagles a little tougher than they probably expected. LHS held a slim four point lead in the first half and Clarion raced to a ten point margin in the second. (Clarion defeated LHS here at the Haven back in December by 62-52). The Bald Eagles just would not die though. With 34 seconds left and the score 65-61, the Bald Eagles were still in it. However, a missed shot and a foul all but ended the hopes for another upset. The final score of the game had Clarion on top of the Haven by 68-63.

The game was won for Clarion at the foul line. The Clarion team went to the line 33 times making 22 of them. This is very unusual for this season because of the new rule that limits shooting fouls. The fouls also hurt LHS in another way. Before the game was over, four of the Bald Eagle starters were on the bench with five personals.

For Clarion, Joe Sebestyen led the scoring with 23 points. For LHS, Russ Paulin had one of the best games of his career, going 8 for 12 from the field for 16 points and snatching 13 rebounds. Gary Knepp also played a fine game going 4 for 5 from the field and scoring 14 points. Rick Miller who has been outstanding recently (and has won a starting berth) chipped in with 11 points. Harold McKenzie, the Bald Eagles leading rebounder and defensive ace saw only limited action because of a knee injury.

The Bald Eagles now 4-11, face Edinboro State College on Monday night in Thomas Field House. The clash with Edinboro always means excitement.
