Library receives state funding

Diane Nixdorf
Staff Reporter

Stevenson Library will be one of 14 libraries in the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education (SSHE) to receive funds for acquisitions and automation.

Stevenson Library will receive $78,696.43 from the $1.5 million that was approved by the General Assembly and Governor Robert P. Casey for technological improvements in the state system.

The distribution of the funds is an act of the State Legislature. It was developed because the State Library and Chancellor's Office was aware of the needs in libraries.

"This is the first time there has been a line in the governor's budget for automation and augmentation," said Robert Bravard, director of library services.

The Board of Governors of SSHE determines the amount that each university will receive.

A base allocation will be made to each university by taking 50 percent of the $1.5 million and equally distributing it among the 14 schools. The remaining amount will be divided proportionally according to student enrollment in the institutions.

According to Bravard, when the money is received, it will be placed in a restricted account for library automation.

Library automation is expensive and can

Robert Bravard
Director of Library services

cost more than $200,000. "This allocation in itself is not enough," said Bravard.

The process of getting an automated system is long and time consuming, Bravard said. "It is my ambition, my goal, and my determination."

At the present time, the library staff is in the process of converting the card catalog to on-line computers and computer circulation tracking. Bravard said, the standard format that is used for bibliographical data is tedious.

"It represents an investment of both human and financial resources," said Bravard.

Stevenson Library has a contract with the Pittsburgh Regional Library Center. By the end of the year, all the holdings will be in machine readable format, Bravard said. "When that's done, we have the foundation."

The next step is to observe the different systems being used at various schools to determine which type will be the most economical for LHU.

According to Bravard, the annual maintenance cost for a system is approximately $40,000. "We would like to work cooperatively with a sister institution to decrease costs."

Selecting the hardware and software is one of the final steps in the lengthy process everything must be installed and tested for accuracy, said Bravard.

The new system will change the way students and faculty use the library, Bravard said. Cards will no longer be added to the catalog and some day the catalog will be removed.

"I want to give students and faculty as good a system as we can come up with," replied Bravard.

There are approximately 340,000 volumes in the library, and automation will make finding things much simpler, said Bravard. Students with their own computers will be able to check the library listing from their rooms.

Eventually, students and faculty will be able to check the listings in all 14 state libraries.

"All of us consider this an opportunity and are determined to make the most of it," said Bravard.

Within six years, Bravard expects Stevenson Library to have an on-line catalogue and automation system.

Administration welcomes new state budget

By Jon Huber
Staff Reporter

President Craig Dean Willis "felt it (the new budget) was quite encouraging," according to Dr. Dean G. Phelps, vice president of administrative affairs

"The budget is a real effort to concentrate on higher education, which is good for Lock Haven and her 13 sister institutions," Phelps said.

The emphasis on higher education was a tribute to the people of the central office, Dr. Phelps said. "There's a feeling of great concern there."

Phelps said any schooling above high school, such as a state or community college, can be considered higher education.

Also, Pennsylvania has traditionally been under-funded in its higher education program, but this budget shows a bit of a difference, Phelps said.

State funds usually go more to private higher education schools, he said. Also, funds that are given are usually determined by the size of the school, he added.

Spending plans for LHU come from two basic sources. Fifty-eight percent comes from state appropriation and forty-two percent comes from tuition and fees, said Phelps.

Grants have some effect but not much, said Phelps. The new budget plan is set up to hold tuition at a certain level for students, he said.

The budget LHU receives is responsible for many things but its major purpose is for paying of teachers and administrators, and keeping the campus up to its' best standard, Dr. Phelps said.

Eighth- Ranked Bald Eagle grapplers fall short against Nittany Lions

By Mike Leavy
Sports Reporter

The Bald Eagle grapplers put their best effort forward, but came up one point short against Penn State last Saturday as the Nittany Lions edged LHU 20-19 at Rec Hall.

Each match kept the 6,000 plus fans in attendance on their feet as the Haven won six of the ten matches.

Craig Corbin put a ghost to sleep as he finally defeated Ken Chertow on a 9-7 decision. Corbin had lost to the Olympic wrestler three times last year including at the NCAA championships.

Corbin struck early in the match scoring a takedown 15 seconds into the match. Chertow responded with two reversals and then Corbin closed the first period with a reversal. Chertow got another point when Corbin was also penalized for interlocking hands.

Corbin made it 6-4 in the second as he had the only score of the period via an escape.

In the third period, Corbin notched a nearfall and then Chertow escaped and took the Bald Eagle down for three points. Corbin notched the riding time to make it 9-7.

The Nittany Lions came right back at 126 pounds as national champion Jim Martin registered a major decision over Jeff Husick, 11-2.

Martin had three takedowns in the third period enroute to the victory.

Mike Lingenfelter kept the Haven in reach with an 8-8 tie against Jeff Dernlan.

Lingenfelter held off a last minute comeback as Dernlan registered two takedowns including one in the last two seconds.

Anthony Melfi upset Rob Meloy at 142 pounds with a 7-6. Melfi and Meloy were tied 2-2 going into the third period when Melfi turned on the juice with two takedowns to Meloy's one. Meloy also had an escape but it wasn't enough.

Thane Turner kept things going with a 4-3 decision over Kurt Bevilacqua at 150 pounds.

The first period was scoreless and the second only had Turner scoring an escape. Bevilacqua had an escape and a takedown to make it 3-1. Turner came right back with a reversal to make it 3-3.

The clincher for the match was a penalty point for an illegal headlock against Bevilacqua in the final seconds.

With the score 11-6 in LHU's favor, Penn State squeaked out a 2-1 victory at 158 pounds as Sean Finkbeiner had an escape and a takedown to John Barrett's one escape.

At 167 pounds, PSU kept it rolling as Jason Suter pinned Jeff Karam 1:22 into the match.

Brad Lloyd, 177 pounds, put things back the Eagle's way with a 19-1 technical fall over Dave White 6:30 into the match.

Lloyd dominated the match as White had only a one point escape in the second period.

Dave Grabenstatter filled in for the injured Larry Walker but couldn't keep up with All-American Andy Voit in the 190 bout. Voit registered a 24-9 technical fall 7:00 into the match.

Heavyweight Kenny Walker turned in an upset but it wasn't enough as he defeated Greg Haladay 4-3 to make the final 20-19.

Walker registered a last minute takedown to get the victory over Haladay who had all of its points on escapes.

Although they were defeated, head coach Neil Turner was happy with the results.

"I would have liked to have won, but it just wasn't meant to be," he said. "I'm proud of all of our young men."

The match drops LHU's record to 11-6 on the year. PSU ups its record to 19-2-1.

The next action for the Bald Eagles is this Friday at Thomas Field House as they take on Clarion. There has been a change in the starting time for this match. The LHU-Clarion match will begin at 9 p.m. instead of the 7:30 starting time listed on the schedule. The change in the starting time was made to avoid a conflict with the Lock Haven-Shikellamy high school match which is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Glass scores 15.

LHU men lose second straight

By Herb Samuels
Sports Reporter

The Lock Haven men's basketball team took their worst beating of the year last Saturday as Edinboro University handed them a 71-60 loss in Edinboro.

The Bald Eagles shot a dismal 18 percent in the first half. The Fighting Scots went into the half with a 13 point lead.

"We shot poor in the first half," said head coach Dave Blank. "We played well in the second half but it was a constant struggle back and just too far to go."

The Bald Eagles attempted to recover as their shooting touch started to come back but Edinboro had too many guns.

"They start five guys (who stand) about six-feet seven (inches) and all of them play above the rim," said coach Blank. "We missed a few lay-ups and they blocked a few too (Edinboro had nine total). That might have had us thinking of shooting too quickly. Putting us out of rhythm."

Another aspect that didn't go the Bald Eagles' way was the free throw shooting, a point in the Bald Eagles' game which had improved recently. They hit only 50 percent of their opportunities. Only forward John Jekot (hitting four of four shots) hit consistently from the line.

The Bald Eagles' leading scorer was guard

Tim Glass with 15. Center Dirk Remensnyder and guard Truman Greene were the only other Bald Eagles to score in double digits with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Remensnyder also led in rebounds with 12 and guard Tony Bacon passed out 6 assists.

The Bald Eagles improved their shooting to 31.4 percent. The coach didn't blame fatigue or the long trip for the bad shooting. "It was just a bad day. They happen you know," Blank said.

With two consecutive losses, the Bald Eagles' record falls to 7-3 in the Pennsylvania Conference Western Division (20-4 overall). They drop from first to second place one game behind the suprising Red Raiders of Shippensburg University.

The next game is against those very Red Raiders tomorrow at the Thomas Field House.

"This is a must win for us. We've won all of our home games so far. We've insured ourselves a playoff spot but we deserve better," said coach Blank.

Coach Blank also said the team will be ready mentally for the game. But the driving force that give the Bald Eagles an edge is the crowd.

A full and vocal "House of Noise" could be the difference in winning and losing. The game starts at 7:30 p.m.

Lady Eagles defeated by Lady Scots

By Merritt La Porta
Sports Reporter

Junior scoring star Maryellen Jaskuta hit for 24 points and pulled down 11 rebounds on Saturday, but it wasn't enough as the Edinboro Lady Scots escaped with an 84-78 victory over the Lady Eagles.

Jaskuta was 7 for 12 from the floor and 10 for 14 from the foul line to lead all scorers on the night.

Edinboro finished with five of its seven players in double figures. Montique Wade and Andrea Martre finished with 22 each to lead the victorious Lady Scots.

It was a close game throughout the first half with LHU holding a one point advantage at halftime, 37-36.

However, Edinboro came out looking for revenge against the Lady Eagles, remembering this season's embarrassing and only conference loss at Thomas Field House.

At one point during that game, the Lady Eagles had a 22-0 lead en route to an easy 69-55 victory.

This time Edinboro made it look easy against the Lady Eagles. The capitalized on 19 LHU turnovers and shot 85 percent from the free throw line compared to the Lady Eagles' 73 percent.

At one point in the second half, Edinboro had an eleven point lead which the Lady Eagles cut to four, but that was all they could manage.

Senior co-captain Cindy Richards finished with 12 points and nine assists.

With the loss the Lady Eagles fall to 16-8 overall, 7-3 in the conference while Edinboro climbs to 19-4 overall, 9-1 in the division.

This Wednesday is the last regular season home game for the Lady Eagles as they take on Shippensburg in a 5:30 p.m. matchup.
