Marshall clarifies impact of proposed Reagan budget cuts

Vice-President of Administration George Marshall indicates that the impact of the Reagan Administration budget proposals for student financial aid "is not a happy prospect for higher education."

Professor to speak on nuclear war

Dr. Francis Perna, of Political Science, will be giving a lecture/presentation entitled, "Nuclear Warfare for Beginners," Thursday. The presentation will take place at 7:00 p.m. in the Community Room of the Annie Hallenbake Ross Library, Lock Haven.

According to Perna, his program will "provide an overview of the past 40 years of nuclear weapons systems development, as well as 40 years of evolution in strategic nuclear doctrine." On the itinerary for discussion and examination also is President Reagan's current Strategic Defense Initiative, the controversial Star Wars program.

While Perna has lectured on the topic many times in the past, he has added a slide show, featuring slides from the National Archives in Washington, D.C. Some of these slides represent early nuclear weapons testing in the Pacific, and a visual representation of evolution in the field. All of the slides are from Perna's personal collection.

Perna explains the title of his presentation as referring to the introduction his program provides in the most elementary and historical aspects of nuclear weapons development. He maintains that the average citizen really knows precious little about the facts behind the weapons.

Perna himself has been involved in an "educational outreach" program concerning nuclear weapons for about two years. His programs are designed to inform, he says, and not to persuade audiences to one way of thinking or another.

There will be a reception following the presentation, sponsored by Citizens for Peaceful Solutions, a non-profit, non-partisan organization in Lock Haven.

The presentation and reception are both open to the general public free of charge, and all are invited to attend.

The impact of the Reagan Administration Budget proposals for student financial aid "is not a happy prospect for higher education," according to George Marshall, vice-president for administration.

Reagan has asked Congress to deny federally funded guaranteed loans to all college students whose families' income is $32,500 and over.

A recent analysis of the impact on the Pennsylvania state-owned universities was prepared by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA). The impact on students would total a loss more than $30 million a year.

On a local level, Lock Haven University (LHU) students will be affected in various areas.

For students whose families' incomes exceed $32,500, 239 of the 1,188 will lose a total of $392,137 in the 1985-86 school year.

The remaining students whose families' incomes are below $32,500 will face both reduced and eliminated loans.

Three hundred and sixteen students' loans will be reduced $209,505 overall. Ninety-two students' loans will be eliminated all together.

Dr. William Irwin, director of student financial aid, said the budget proposals won't affect the coming 1985-86 school year to the extent it will in following years.

The proposals, if passed, will affect loans that have been applied for after October 1, 1985.

"Any loans processed before October 1 will not be affected, but after that date, the loan will be," Irwin said.

He added, "It will be in the students' best interest to apply for loans as early as possible."

Irwin said that Reagan's proposal, that no student could receive more than $4,000 in federal aid, would not effect very many LHU students.

Pell Grants, federal stipends of up to $1,900 a year given to students from families with incomes of $25,000 or less, will be restricted. One hundred and twenty-two Pell Grant awards will be eliminated. This will mean a financial loss of $96,544 to LHU students.

Marshall said the long term effects of the cuts could cause an enrollment decrease, increase, or it would simply remain the same.

"It's almost impossible to estimate. Our enrollment will probably increase, if the private schools' enrollment drops," Marshall said.

Irwin encouraged students and their families to write to their Congress representatives, voicing their concerns about the budget proposals.

One-act play is staged for Sloan

By Andrew Ashenfelter

One night Mr. and Mrs. Smith are visited by Mr. and Mrs. Martin. Sounds like a simple domestic scene? At most times it would be, but in the hands of playwright Eugene Ionesco, who has a flair for giving his characters inane and bizarre dialogue, a domestic scene becomes something more. The result in this case is The Bald Soprano, a one-act play being performed March 11-13 at 8 p.m. in Sloan 321.

One of the most bizarre figures in the play is the Fire Chief (Edison Culver) who suddenly drops in on the Smiths with a fire hose in tow. It seems he's a rather shy fireman who likes to tell stories and is extremely upset that there are so few "really important fires" left for him to put out.

Every so often Mary, the maid (Chris Schooner) pops on stage to give us an unnerving statement like "I'm really Sherlock Holmes," which adds to the general air of absurdity. It is no surprise when Mary and the Fire Chief turn out to be long lost lovers.

Interaction between the characters and their clashing methods of meaningless conversation provides the main comedy of the play. Particularly humorous is the jumbled logic of Mrs. Smith (Amy Ludewig) and the bewilderment of Mr. and Mrs. Martin (Tom O'Neil, Lisa Ireland) who can't seem to remember they're married.

In the script of Ionesco's play the dialogue gradually builds into a crescendo of cliches and pointless amenities until the conversation is no longer even intelligible. In this aspect, this production of The Bald Soprano is slightly flawed. The tempo of the actors' verbal exchanges is far too slow and this works against Ionesco's style.

Also appearing in the play is Chip Miller as Mr. Smith. The play is directed by Chris Fischer.

Administrator agitates problem

Distribution problem solved

This editorial has a dual purpose. Its first purpose is to make a formal apology. Its second purpose is to make a personal criticism. The apology and criticism deal with the same subject, but it is easier to discuss each one at a time with the apology leading to the criticism.

I would like to apologize for the distribution problems associated with the Eagle Eye last week. We usually come out with a four page edition on Tuesday, but you didn't see a paper until Wednesday. We usually come out with an eight page edition on Friday, but with the exception of those of you who frequented Bentley dining hall for dinner on Friday, you didn't see a paper until yesterday.

I must have been approached by about thirty people as to the whereabouts of the newspaper on the days it was supposed to come out. I explained to everyone about our delivery problems which should be ironed out by this week. It was a poor excuse, but it was the only one I had to offer.

I didn't mind the questions as to the whereabouts of the Eagle Eye by the students on this campus because they, after all, had a right to know. What I did mind was the verbal attack that I got nailed with on Friday afternoon by PUB administrator Kevin McNamara.

Unlike the rest of the students who politely asked me as to the whereabouts of the newspaper, Mr. McNamara had the nerve to bombard me with a personal attack. In reference to Wednesday's paper, Mr. McNamara said, "Getting the Eagle Eye out a day late makes the SCC look bad." In reference to Friday's paper, Mr. McNamara said, "There must be a time policy in regards to the Eagle Eye's distribution."

Unfortunately, Mr. McNamara is dead wrong in his two statements which are mentioned above. Getting the Eagle Eye out a day late does not make the SCC look bad. Getting the Eagle Eye out a day late makes me look bad. Also, there has never been a policy drawn up which states that the Eagle Eye must be out by a certain time, say noon, on distribution days. It clearly states in the masthead, page 2, that the Eagle Eye is a bi-weekly newspaper. It does not state anything about it being a morning or early afternoon tabloid.

Once again, I apologize for the distribution problems of last week. We have hired a delivery person who hopefully can be counted on for the rest of the semester, barring any automotive problems.

As for McNamara, I would suggest that he reserve his quick and inappropriate tongue for his PUB administration duties. Perhaps he can address my question as to why the PUB, the student union building, is locked to students on weekends?

Mr. McNamara, a freshman, obviously has many things to learn. I have four suggestions for Mr. McNamara. First, realize that people are mistake-prone. We had delivery problems last week and I apologized for it. Second, realize that you obviously need to take a communications course as evidenced by your uncalled-for personal attack. Third, keep your nose in PUB administration matters where it belongs because there are as many, if not more, problems in your area of jurisdiction. Fourth, keep your nose out of Eagle Eye matters where it doesn't belong, if you're going to aggravate instead of question a problem. The consequences of your next immature outburst will be far more severe than just an editorial.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Bentley food has always been a horrific example of institutional cooking at its worst. However, it is somehow becoming even worse.

Students have complained that the 'alternate meal plan' does not exist because at most meals, the identical servings exist in all three lines.

Friends have also expressed their disgust with Bentley, saying they were sick of seeing the same food in every line. They also said it is unfair to make us pay for Bentley if we want to live on-campus.

Also, there are frequent problems with cleanliness. Freshman Kurt Schwalbe discovered a flying ant dead in a spoonful of mashed potatoes which was halfway into his mouth. We went back to show it to the manager, who said this would never happen again. While I haven't seen another flying ant, it is impossible to know if Bentley is not just grinding the bugs up more thoroughly.

The grim truth about the dessert selection in Bentley Hall moves me to add my grievance. I once became rather sick after eating some of the soggy cardboard served as cake here. For a fact, I have seen the same cake often held over three days in plastic wrappings when not finished by students/victims/casualties. (The sign 'Sweet Things' above the cake table should perhaps be changed to read 'Dead Things').

Next I come to meat, if I can call it that. I go from one line to another, hoping to find some real meat, but finding the same garbage in every line. Since early last semester, I have eaten nearly nothing but Captain Crunch and Cheerios for breakfast, lunch and dinner every day, getting very little protein. In this way Bentley Hall has put me in touch with my own mortality, because I'm in much worse shape than before leaving home for school.

Bentley is a complete robbery for the money paid. Things have got to be changed right now, because all my protein is coming from Fratburgers.

Lady Eagles capture ESAC crown over Navy

By Karen Merlie

It's icing on the cake! The Lady Eagles, state champs, won the ESAC Tournament this weekend to end their season with an impressive 21-8 record. It's the first time in history the women's team had more than 20 wins.

In first round action, Lock Haven defeated District of Columbia, 79-71, and Navy defeated the University of Maryland-Baltimore County (UMBC).

The Lady Eagles led the whole way in the opening contest. At the half the Lady Eagles were up by eight, 37-29.

Senior co-captain Sue Kuhn had an outstanding night from the field, hitting for 22 points. She also contributed nicely in the rebounding department.

Teammates Tina Martin and Donna Sergi pumped in 16 and 14 points, respectively.

Helen Woltman led all rebounders with 15 on the night, followed by Kuhn and Sergi.

For the ladies from District of Columbia, Diane Bushrod and Tracy Wolton were in double figures.

Two weeks ago, Lock Haven had crushed D. of C. by 30 points. This week it was Lock Haven out on top once again despite facing a better D. of C. team.

In the final, Lock Haven met up with a tough team from the Naval Academy.

Navy jumped out to a quick 8-2 lead, but the Lady Eagles, behind Helen Woltman's 9 points, pulled ahead 11-8.

Getting 14 points from Woltman, Lock Haven was out ahead at halftime 36-27. It was 34-27, with three second left in the half when Lori Young hit a jumper at the buzzer.

Donna Sergi brought the Lady Eagles out firing with two in a row from the field to lift their lead to 13.

Getting great play from Woltman, Sergi, Martin and Shannon Kelly, L.H. had their biggest lead at the 15:00 mark, 50-35.

Navy started to pull closer and at the 10:00 mark they pulled within 10.

After taking a rest, Woltman, doing it at both ends of the court, put the Lady Eagles up by 11 for a short time.

At the six minute mark, Gretchen Quaseberth hit key shots to bring Navy within six.

With 1:00 to play, Navy was only down by one, 70-69.

With 0:40 on the clock, Martin drove down the lane and hit a crucial shot. Navy answered back with 0:24 remaining.

But, that would be the end for Navy. At 0:14, Martin was fouled and hit two foul shots to win it for the Lady Eagles, 74-71.

Helen Woltman led all scorers with 24, followed by Martin's 16, and Sergi's 14 for L.H.

Quaseberth led Navy with 18, followed by teammates Christi Simpson and Shelley Laurilla, with 17 and 14 points each.

Woltman dominated the boards by pulling down 15 rebounds.

Woltman ended this season with 999 total career points. Helen is not sure whether she'll be playing next season. She is having knee surgery over the spring break.

Sue Kuhn ended her career at Lock Haven with seven points, five rebounds, and four assists.

The Lady Eagles finish their 1984-85 season as the Western Division Champs, PSAC state champs, and as a climax, the ESAC champs!

Senior wrestler Kreamer concludes career at NCAA's

By Dave Walters

The statement, "things get better with age" holds true in regards to senior NCAA wrestling tournament qualifier Tommy Kreamer.

As a freshman, the 142 lb. Kreamer, red shirted and had an 0-2 slate. In his first actual wrestling year he raised his record to 4-4.

Kreamer became a varsity man during his sophomore year, and registered a couple impressive performances in tournament action. He finished fourth at both the Navy and PSAC tournaments.

During his junior season Kreamer, a Harrisburg native, blossomed as a wrestler and proved that he is an above average grappler by capturing the 142 lb. title at the PSAC championships by outscoring his opponents 46-12. His record for the season improved from 12-18-2 his sophomore year to 19-10 as a junior.

This year he was a co-captain, and he has achieved more than most collegiate wrestlers would ever dream of. He has earned a chance to wrestle at the NCAA Division I championships. He has a 26-12 record this year which boosts his career total to 61-46-2.

He was a second place finisher at the Missouri Open where he scored three technical falls. At the Lehigh Tourney Kreamer came away with a third place finish.

He's an underdog going into the prestigious tournament as he was in the EWL tournament. Kreamer said, "I'm not expected to place out there, but if I win a few matches and place as an underdog I'll be happy. There isn't any pressure because I have nothing to lose."

According to Kreamer, he has learned more from the wrestling program here than wrestling. He learned self-discipline, togetherness, and how to take criticism.

"After high school I had to be self-disciplined. I've learned that if you want something bad enough, and are willing to work for it you can get it," said Kreamer.

"All the guys on the team have gone through the same things together, and through the years we've all become like brothers," said Kreamer.

Kreamer said, "The coaches here are really great.

They chew you out sometimes, but in the long run it's worth it. Coach McCready is a great technician, and coach Turner gets the guys ready mentally and psychologically. He makes sure everything is ready as far as trips, meals, and accommodations are concerned."

As a senior computer science major, Kreamer is looking to get a good paying job and possibly do some wrestling officiating after he graduates.

During his three years as a wrestler at Central Dauphin High School, he posted a 55-9-2 record, was a state qualifier, sectional champ, and a Big 12 nominee.

Tommy's presence will be missed in the wrestling room but won't be forgotten because he is representing you at the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championships. Good luck Tom

Top ranked Greber lone victor for Haven boxers

Steve Greber, 147 lbs., won an impressive unanimous decision over Manny Silva of Central Connecticut State University in the featured bout of the evening on Saturday night in the Ball-Room at Central Connecticut. Greber, a 1984 "All-American", upped his season record to 4-1 and boxed for the first time in the 147 pound division. The junior southpaw has boxed at 156 pounds in the past and is expected to be ranked number one in the nation at 147 pounds. The only two losses in his past nine bouts have been to 156 pound national champion, Greg Christmas of the US Air Force Academy. Greber used better boxing technique to defeat the rugged Silva and won all three rounds, according to Coach Ken Cooper.

Four other 'Haven' boxers were defeated at Central Connecticut. Junior, Marcello Cancelli, 132, lost a RSC in the 3rd round to 1984 NCBA, 125 runner-up, John Callas, a senior from Central Connecticut. This was Cancelli's first 'open' collegiate bout. Martin Brewer, a freshman 139 pounder, was also defeated by 1984 132 pound NCBA champ Kevin Counter of Central Connecticut. Both Cancelli and Brewer gained much needed ring experience against their more experienced opponents. Freshman Renny Dowdell 190, was forced to default in the 3rd round to undefeated Jay Bonatavich of Central Connecticut after aggravating a minor knee injury. Lock Haven's fifth entry, junior Brett Stevens, boxed his best match of the season and looked much improved in losing a split decision (2-1) to Central Connecticut's veteran Steve Brace. "All in all, I was very pleased with our younger boxers' performance and am confident we will be ready for the ECBA Qualifier in two weeks," concluded Cooper.

According to Dr. Ken Cox, the 'Haven' will have an excellent chance to have three ECBA champions in All-Americans Tim Frymyer, 112; Steve Greber, 147; and last years ECBA-runner-up, John Morrin at either 156 or 165 pounds. The 'Haven' has qualified eight boxers in the 'open' division of the ECBA's and will have two entries in the 'novice' division. Boxers from 10 schools have qualified one or more boxers for the Eastern Collegiate Boxing Association (ECBA) North-East Regional Championships to be hosted again at Lock Haven University on March 22nd and 23rd. Top teams will be Army, Central Connecticut, Penn State, and host Lock Haven. The champions in each of the 12 weight classes will advance to the National (NCBA) Championships at Atlantic City on April 12-13th. Last April, Lock Haven finished third in the race for the team title with Frymyer, 112, and Greber, 156, earning silver medals and graduated Dave Washington, 119, becoming LHU's first gold medalist at the University of California, Berkeley.

ROTARACT is sponsoring a mini-series of career-related seminars which will be of great interest and value to students in all academic majors.

The series will begin with Mr. Werkheiser, superintendent of the Keystone Central School District, who will speak to students about the education system in Pennsylvania and the possible opportunities it has to offer college graduates. Werkheiser will visit to Lock Haven's campus on Thursday, March 14 at 1:00 in the lower level of the PUB.

The next guest speaker, Rodney Baily, is in charge of employee relations at Woolrich. Baily will discuss his work experience at Woolrich, as well as "interview etiquette" and career opportunities in this field and fields similar to this. Baily will speak to the campus on Thursday, March 21 at 1:00 and will speak in the lower level of the PUB. Students from all academic majors will benefit from his visit because it is a group in which we will all belong. A more complete schedule of speakers will be available in the near future.
