Revised SCC Constitution Presented At Last Night's SCC Meeting

The dining hall, Spring Weekend entertainment, and the revised SCC constitution were the topics of interest discussed at last night's SCC meeting.

The food service committee reported that the dining hall is currently in financial difficulty due to rising food prices. The possibility exists that ARA food service may have to discontinue service to the college due to the necessity of raising their bid price for next year.

Fred Naylor, Social Committee Chairman, announced that Livingston Taylor will be featured in the Spring Weekend concert. Also, a concert to be given by the Canadian group "Jason" will be held Thursday, March 29. Proceeds for the concert will go to the United Fund.

The Executive Committee announced that the canoes will be made available beginning this weekend. Also, the ride board is now hanging in the Bentley Hall north stairwell. This board designates locations by number and provides ride offered, ride wanted cards for student convenience.

The possibility of building shelters around the bike racks which now remain outside the dormitories was discussed. It was felt that these could be funded by the Women's Dorm Council, but no action was taken upon it at the meeting.

Under old business, Doug Dows, SCC President reported on the commuter mailbox situation. He stated that there are 350 unused mailboxes in the Administration Building that would be obtained for this purpose. A motion which states that the SCC obtain these mailboxes for placement in the PUB was then passed by the senators. These mailboxes would be used to hold any inter campus mail for commuting students. Problems such as the limited number of the mailboxes available will be discussed in future meetings.

George Bower, chairman of the People for Collegiate Unity, opened the new business by stating the purpose of the PCU. This group, according to Bower, functions not only as an informational service to students, but to further student interests and and ideals for the betterment of the college and community and concentrate their efforts on problems that need attention. The PCU constitution was then accepted by the senators.

The revised SCC constitution was presented for the approval of the senate by Pat Dunmire, Chairman of the Constitutional Revision Committee. This constitution is a standardized, reorganized, and streamlined version of the old constitution and contains several major changes.

One change is directed toward Executive Committee elections. The revised constitution states that if less than 33% of the student body votes in an Executive Committee election, and it is proved that the Election Committee has adequately publicized the election two weeks in advance, the election will have to be run again. This provision was added in attempt to hold down student apathy.

For purposes of deciding senate representation, the revised constitution groups students into two categories: dorm dwelling and off-campus. This groups those living in fraternity houses, who now have their own representative, with the off-campus students. It was pointed out that if any groups wish to exercise their influence on the SCC, it is up to their own initiatives.

This revised constitution will be posted for 28 days on campus bulletin boards prior to ratification of the senate. At the end of this period, the senate will hold an open meeting of LHS students for further revisions. The final revised copy will be posted for five days. It will then be voted upon by the student body and a two-thirds majority will be necessary for ratification.

Dave Drabot, Sec Parliamentarian, was appointed to investigate a committee on committees on further matter of new business. Aiding him will be George Bower and Ron Palmer.

Due to the recent incidents at dances which have jeopardized student safety, a dance policy committee has been formed.

This committee, consisting of Mr. Arsenault, Mr. Nagy, Mr. Nelson, and interested students, has been investigating current dance policy and possible safety precautions. Recommendations based on their investigations were presented to the senators and will be voted upon at the next meeting.

Renaissance Film To Be Shown

"Protest and Communication" is the sixth film in Sir Kenneth Clark's CIVILIZATION series which will be shown in full color on Sunday afternoon, March 25, at 3 in Ulmer Planetarium.

This magnificent film deals with the later Renaissance in northern Europe, France and England. It shows the work of Jan van Eyck, Riemenschneider, Durer, Pieter Bruegel the Elder, Holbein, and others, and deals with one of the world's greatest periods of literature, that of Elizabethan England.

The film is one of a series which the Division of Humanities is showing by special arrangement with the National Gallery of Art.

As in the past this showing will be made even more interesting by a special introduction and discussion led by Mr. Richard Parker, associate professor of English, who is a specialist in Renaissance literature.

The showing is free to all members of the community and college.

rs*letters*letters*letters*letters*letters*le Questionnaire Considered Questionable

To the Editor:
Are the students aware of what has been happening on this campus during the past week? Are they concerned about campus matters?

If one considered the voter turnout in the recent calendar revision proposal, he would probably think not. But is this the case?

In the March 13th edition of the Eagle Eye, a questionnaire was printed concerning the calendar change. The editor's note stated, "It is, therefore, essential that this ballot be filled in and placed in the box in either Bentley or the PUB. Failure to do so will be considered a negative vote."

What is meant by "negative vote?" If this phrase means opposition to the proposed calendar change, then the students of Lock Haven have been mislead. Students in favor of the present calendar-not wanting a revision-may have felt it unnecessary to vote after reading the editor's note.

Let us examine the facts. Only 614 students voted in the recent poll. Of that 614, 18.2% or approximately 111 students opposed the revision, leaving 503 students to determine next year's schedule. A schedule which includes four Saturday classes, one in September and three in October.

If the tallying procedure had been done correctly and considered the "non-votes" as being "negative votes," then the calendar change would not have been passed. Someone made a gross error. The "negative vote" was not included in the complete tally, nor was it specifically defined by the EE editor.

Another problem centers on the voting procedures. A student had the opportunity to vote on the issue three different times: two different ballots appeared in the EE while another questionnaire was circulated in the cafeteria. This does not seem to be quite fair. A little mathematics would show that possibly 167 students, each voting three times, could have easily stuffed the ballot boxes with their "favorable" votes. Only 167 students deciding a policy for 2250? Absurd!

In fact the entire voting procedure was absurd. Again consider...the opportunity for ballot box stuffing... Saturday classes...the "negative vote" misunderstanding...and the lack of communication.

This situation should be remedied, and it is up to the student body of this campus to do something. One possibility would be to conduct another voting campaign. This time, however, conduct it in an organized and democratic fashion, without resorting to ballot box stuffing. After all, this is a matter of great importance.

A Concerned Student.

Students Support Redpath

Dear Sir:
We, the undersigned, would like to convey our feelings concerning an action recently taken by the administration of Lock Haven State College. The action which the administration deemed necessary is the abolition of an instructors' position in the Humanities Department.

At present there are four instructors teaching philosophy. There is an average of approximately thirty five students in the basic classes required of each student seeking a B.A. or B.S. degree. We feel that such a profoundly important art should be presented ideally intimately, at least comfortably. This is not possible at the present state of affairs. To reduce the staff to three would compound an already bad situation. It is conceivable that the remaining three professors would be spending all their time fulfilling the students' required three hours credit in the basic Problems of Philosophy course. To further restrict this small but capable staff would, we feel harm both the students and the college itself. Certainly those of us who are majors in the art would have to seek our education elsewhere in order to realize a satisfactory combination of philosophy courses.

Professor Peter Redpath is a valuable and necessary part of the presentation of philosophy at LHS. He compliments the other three professors with his Thomistic approach and his capable presentations. He is, without question, a valuable asset and a credit to the college. Those of us who have had the opportunity to have been instructed by Professor Redpath admire his imagination and ability in presenting his art.

By sharing our feelings, we sincerely hope that the administration will reconsider their decision.

Sincerely,
(petition of approximately 60 names)

To really appreciate a Clubman Sportcoat, you've got to try it on.

How does it feel?

Whether it's a shapely polyester knit, breezy cotton, or a soft and supple woven blend, the feeling is rich.

And the look is right. In subtle patterns and bold. In sportcoats built to fit as though they were tailored just for you. Like this one, with the deep side vents so popular now.

People Make a Place

by Paul Hembrook (Buff)

The current question going around now is not "When will Gross Hall be done" or "When is Bentley ever going to have food". No, these are trivial things. The big question now is "The Haven, love it or leave it?".

In recent days I have been hit with the problem of not returning to the Haven, and there are many reasons. In this article I would like to present to you the reasons for the decision I made. I feel these facts will aid you in making your decision.

I have decided to stay at the Haven. For those of you who know me, this may be a good reason for you to leave. To decide you have to heavily look at the college environment, in contrast to most people looking at the education.

If you are bored when you're supposed to be having fun, think of what it's like when you have to work. The answer to the problem is simple: it is very dependent on the people you're with. Go to your prospective college, see what the students are like. I did. They don't even compare to the Haven. Sure, they have dances, concerts etc., but they don't have people like the Haven.

The people are my main reason for staying here. After meeting someone twice at the Haven, you have no fears to ever call on that person if you need someone to listen to your problems. There are people here who will help you with your work, but not do it for you. But most important, the people are there when you need them; and when you're at the Haven, and problems arise, you need them. So think it over: can you adjust to another college?; can you find people there?; can you become a part of the college?; are there people there with the same problems as you; will they understand you?; will you fit in there?

THINK.....

Spotlight: Lacotta Stresses Teamwork for Goals

by Ray Oberheim

ounding-out this, his fourth year on the Eagle's mound staff, will be south-paw, number two, Bob Lacotta.

Robert, the lean and witty Lewisburg resident, enters his final season of duty with a more determined and optimistic attitude than before.

"I've had fun playing here in the past, but in this, my final year, I'm more concerned with achieving team goals through hard work and determination than to just have fun.....of course, a little fun here and there never hurt anyone!" he revealed.

Bob has certainly come a long way since the days when he lacked the ability to play in the little league.

As he himself tells the story, "We had one little league team of about 20 kids to represent our town and by the time I was good enough to play for them, I was 13 and too old. So, from age 8 to 12 I had to content myself with just playing in pick-up games."

Since then, however, Bob has indeed made great progress for one who's never played little league baseball.

"Last year, I won a combined 18 games over the school and summer baseball seasons. I missed out on winning 20 when only eight guys showed-up for a Labor Day double-header in which I was to pitch both games. This year, my personal goal is to go all the way and get 20!" he remarked candidly.

Bob, whose baseball hero is Sparky Lyle because, as he puts it, "He's got couth," cites the Yankee as his favorite team. He tallies his greatest thrill this way: "My first visit to Yankee Stadium when I was 11. The 'Bombers' destroyed Detroit and Maris homered."

Sadly, he tells of his biggest disappointment, losing my first college game to Mansfield and having the team go

0-8 against them. I know their great second baseman, Joe DeSanto from summer ball and, boy, do I wanna beat those SOB's."

Bob then talked proudly about the chances of this year's team beating the Mounties:

"Our pitching, the area I'm most familiar with, this year, has greater quality, experience, and quantity than any of the previous three I've been on. We should have a great shot at winning the conference beating Mansfield."

With those encouraging remarks from the usually restrained and noncommitting Lacotta, it should be obvious to all, by now, that the Eagles must really have something.

Shipman, Crowell Win Titles In Navy Plebe Tournament

Freshman Ben Shipman, 126, and sophomore, Dave Crowell, 150, won the championships at the 20th annual U.S. Naval Academy Plebe Tournament held last Friday and Saturday. Freshman, Dennis Rodkey, 126 placed second. Both wrestlers won four matches on the way to the finals.

Shipman decisioned Bob LeFever, Navy 6-1 and Rodkey decisioned Bob Abbott, Navy, 11-2 in the semi-finals. Shipman then decisioned his teammate 2-0 to take the title.

Crowell won handily over Mike Suter, Navy, by a convincing 11-2 decision in the finals.

Also winning matches for the Bald-Eagles but failing to place were freshman, John Brodmerkel, 134; George McInerney, 134; and sophomore, Glenn Hevner, 142.

The tournament is the final competition each year for the Bald Eagle freshman and J.V. wrestlers. The J.V. grapplers finished their season with an outstanding 7-1 record losing only to undefeated Clarion J.V.'s. Coach Dr. Ken Cox, has high hope next season for many of the J.V. wrestlers.
