More computers will become available for student use in dormitory labs

By Doug Roles
Eagle Eye Reporter

Renovations to a spare room in McEntire Hall are almost completed and is the first step of a program that will put computer labs in each of the seven residence halls.

The plan calls for each residence hall to have a lab with one IBM AT, which is a file saver, and four smaller XT's, smaller computers that have access to the AT. Each lab will also have a printer.

The lab in McEntire is the pilot of the lab program. Renovations to the room which will be the lab should be completed by the end of March.

Don Patterson, who works in the computer lab in Akeley and is in charge of the hook-up in McEntire, hopes that the lab will be available for student use by mid-April. The remaining buildings will be targeted for the fall semester as funding allows.

James H. McCormick, chancellor of the State System, plans to be at McEntire for the grand opening of the lab. McCormick started the program several months ago when he had the computer hardware in his offices replaced by updated equipment.

Over Christmas break LHU received the used equipment. McCormick said LHU could have the computers at a low cost if they would be made available for student use. McCormick suggested that the equipment might best be used if placed in the dorms where it would be readily accessible to students.

Ray Steele, Resident Director of McEntire, thinks the lab is a "great idea" and that it will give students more opportunity to work with computers.

Overall, LHU received 28 computers from the chancellor's office. Patterson said that the machines will be like "another complete lab only divided up between the seven dorms."

Patterson also says that work on a fiber optic system is scheduled to begin as soon as the weather warms. The cable will be laid underground and plans for excavation have already been made. Planners would like the system to be hooked up to Stevenson library by way of an automated card catalog.

This way the system would allow students access the library as well as to computers all over campus. Students would eventually have a computer network at their fingertips without having to leave the dorm. "It's a great plan but it will not be completed for years to come", said Patterson.

Students are also optimistic about the computer labs. Mike Way, a freshman living in McEntire, said, "The lab will be a major time saver because now we won't have to walk down the steps to the labs in Akeley every time we need to use a computer."

Recycling Committee looks to clean up waste Inspection of Residence Halls set for Sunday evening

By Michael Tanguay
Eagle Eye News Reporter

Each year our state generates more than nine million tons of household trash. That's enough to fill 20 football stadiums. Here at Lock Haven University there is a group of people trying to stop this waste, the Recycling Committee.

Recycling came to LHU because of Governor Casey's 1989 Mandate that stated that all colleges and universities in the state school system must have a recycling program for at least three items. LHU chose to recycle white paper, which had been recycled in the past, colored glass and metal containers.

Clinton County Recycling has been a big help for LHU's recycling program. They supply the university with the large recycling dumpsters and take the material away for free. Clinton County also gives the school back half of the fund produced by recycling.

This may sound like a great money-making plan but actually the university only gets back enough to continue the program. The program has been the responsibility of the already busy maintenance department.

The committee stated that the program has come a long way since its start but it still has a few problems. The two main problems of the program are compliance, the willingness of the students to recycle, and contamination, the interference of non-recyclable material in the recycle bins.

Steven Fisher, the committee's chairperson, said that these problems were evident in both High and McEntire halls. These two halls will be the subject of the committee's next important step.

The committee would like to see these halls use the program as effectively as the other resident halls on campus.

Fisher also said that the committee is presently working on short range programs with emphasis in the residence halls for now. The long range goals and the other halls on campus can be worked on after the program is set.

The committee is planning to have an inspection of the halls on Sunday evening, March 24. High and McEntire halls are going to be the focus of the inspection as will the small problems in the other halls.

If you are interested in helping the Recycling Committee contact Steven Fisher at 893-2374. Remember to recycle, because once is never enough.

SCC discusses Panhellenic funding Further talk slated for next meeting

Last night's Student Cooperative Council Executive meeting turned into a roundtable discussion after the Panhellenic organization requested funds from the SCC.

Up until now, the SCC has never funded organizations of these sorts, and now the Panhellenic group is trying to change all that.

After 20 minutes has elapsed, President Andrew Wendel tabled the matter for further discussion and a possible vote at the next meeting.

Wendel also announced that all laundry will cost 75 cents, up from the 50 cent charge assessed to on-campus students currently living in residence halls. Wendel said this is due to the increasing cost in maintaining the washers and dryers.

Willis nominated for position of presidency at Marshall University

By Andrea Vecchio
Eagle Eye News Editor

University President Craig Dean Willis, has been nominated for the position of president at Marshall University in Huntington, West Virginia.

Debbie Jackson, director of Public Relations, said she is not sure when to expect any decision, being that Willis is one of eight candidates nominated for the position. According to Jackson, a search committee at Marshall University will form in order to review all eight candidates before any decisions are to be made.

A West Virginia Newspaper, The Herald-Dispatch, reports that the position became available in August 1990, when Marshall University's president resigned to accept position of president of University of New Hampshire.

According to Jackson, Willis said, "I am flattered that I was nominated for the presidency at Marshall University. However, I am not certain at this time if I will follow through with the nomination."

Willis has been president of Lock Haven University for nine years. Before coming to this institution in 1982, he was Vice President and Academic Dean at Concord college in West Virginia.

S.C.C. prepares for the 1991-92 executive elections

Dear Editor,

The Student Cooperative Council (SCC) will be holding their executive elections Monday, April 15 to Wednesday, April 17. The entire election process is as follows: petitions will be available from Tuesday, April 2 to Tuesday, April 9, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Completed petitions must be turned in no later than 4 p.m. on Fridays, April 12. The petitions will be available in the PUB Business Office and must be returned to the same office.

Here are the times and locations of the executive elections:

Monday, April 15, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Bentley Lobby.

Tuesday, April 16, 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. in Bentley Lobby.

There will also be a ballot box in the PUB Business Office which can be utilized from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, April 15 to Wednesday, April 17.

In order to be eligible for a SCC executive position, the following requirements must be met: a 2.0 GPA or better, a full-time student (12 credits or more), at least a second semester freshman or transfer student, must be able to serve for one year term (two semesters), and have a validated student ID.

The positions which will be voted on are: president, vice-president, PUB administrator, treasurer, recording secretary and corresponding secretary.

These positions entail a great deal of time and effort, not to mention the high degree of responsibility that is required to hold one of the aforementioned positions. It is because of this reason that the current elections committee will sponsor a candidate debate approximately one week before the set election dates.

If you are interested in running for one of the said positions, the SCC Executive Committee encourages you to come down to their offices to become familiarized with exactly what is entailed in the respective position you are interested.

The SCC offices are located on the first floor in the PUB. Good luck!

Australian students invite LHU students to visit "Down Under"

Hello, Lock Haven students!

We want you to come visit us in Australia--the friendly country "Down Under." We, the 12 Australian exchange students at LHU this semester, want to invite all you Lock Haven students to come to Australia next semester. You will have the time of your life and we'll all be back in Australia next semester to make sure of it!

When you spend your semester in Australia you remain a regular LHU student--you pay the same tuition, fee, and room/board that you pay in Lock Haven. It's even OK if you are on a student loan because you can take a full regular load of LHU credits while you're in Australia. You don't have to be a genius either--all you need is a 2.5 GPA.

All that costs extra is the airplane ticket. What an incredibly good deal--a semester in Australia for only the extra cost of a plane ticket! It's the chance of a lifetime. And you won't find a safer place than Australia.

Our university in Australia is called the University of New England. You see, Australia has a "New England" too. It's a beautiful region not far from the Pacific coast of Australia and between Sydney and Brisbane.

Remember: the seasons are reversed in Australia. So when you come down to Australia for your fall semester it will be springtime in Australia. You've got to see our sunshine to believe it. Who needs all the ice and snow anyway?

You already know that Australia is a beautiful country. But we'll bet you didn't know that we have kangaroos right on campus in Australia! Bet you didn't know that Surfers' Paradise is in Australia too. So why aren't you signing-up to come? All you have to do is go to Raub Hall and tell them, "Yes, send me to Australia!"

If you've got any questions just ask us. You can spot us--we're the ones with the funny accents. (Of course, we think your accent is funny too!)

Lock Haven student have been wonderful to us. We want to return the favor.

We want to prove to you that we are really the friendly country "Down Under." Come on. What are you waiting for?

HOME COMING '91 will be here before you know it! Come to the next meeting and help make this homecoming the best yet! The meeting is Thursday, April 11, at 5:15 p.m. in the PUB Coffeehouse. Topics to be discussed: theme, nomination of king and queen, & a variety show.

Rape serves as major topic of Roundtable discussion

By Michelle Pheasant

Eagle Eye Reporter

Students, faculty and staff gathered in Smith Hall Thursday night to discuss "Special Concerns of Female Students." The topics for discussion ranged from academics to athletics, but the major concern seemed to be rape.

The first meeting of the RoundTable was quite productive for many of the attendants. The discussion was centered around rape and date rape.

A few representatives from the Date Rape Task Force attended the meeting and presented their points of view. The organization has many prospective ideas that include a campus escort service, a 24-hour hotline and a rape counseling center.

They believe that these centers will help women who have been raped, and encourage women, who are hurting because of rape, to get help.

Many of the faculty and staff are concerned about the seriousness of rape and date rape. Is it a serious problem? Many women are concerned, because it happens. Women are not aware of the resources on campus where they can go for help.

The Clinton's Women Center and the Wellness Center in Woolridge Hall are both centers that help in crisis situations. They (the crisis centers) are very concerned about these female concerns and are there to help you.

Some of the faculty members help the students by addressing certain topics like racism and sexism in the classroom. This helps the students understand what they are facing, because many perspective, as well as enrolled students, are uninformed about the rape statistics or even what they are facing in the future, or past incidents.

The majority of the rapes on campus are not reported to law enforcement. When reporting a rape the call may be anonymous and the only information that needs to be reported are the places where it occurred and what happened.

Lovette Scholarship offered by local couple

Lock Haven residents, Ralph and Gloria Lovette, recently established a scholarship in their family name in recognition of the long association between the University and the Lovette family as well as the many contributions the family has made in education and related fields.

Beginning with the original Central State Normal School, members of the Lovette family have graduated from LHU at each stage of the institution's history. Daniel Lovette was the first to graduate from what was then the Central State Normal School in 1903.

In 1943, Mary Lovette graduated from the Lock Haven Teacher's College. She was followed by James Lovette, who graduated from Lock Haven State College in 1975; and Lock Haven University graduates Patrick Lovette, class of 1984; and Fredrick Hoy, class of 1991.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to students majoring in chemistry, management science, political science or communications who have demonstrated leadership skills. It will also be available to students continuing to study in the University's graduate program.

At the request of the donors, recipients must reside in either Clinton or Cambria counties. The emphasis of the scholarship will be on the students' character and potential, not necessarily grades.

"This gift is the largest to date for a named endowed scholarship. It represents a notable addition to the University's resources and will provide significant financial assistance to the recipients," Director of the University Foundation Lynn Lytle said.

Trouble on stage...

Local theater seeks community aid for upcoming season

The Millbrook Playhouse barn theater in Mill Hall is facing a funding crisis for its 1991 season.

The Playhouse board began planning the 1991 season with a budget of operations of $100,000. Now the Pennsylvania Council of the Arts has announced it is not funding any summer programs, including Millbrook Playhouse. Last year, the Playhouse received $14,500 from the council and had applied for a higher amount this year.

Free previews of each of the shows on the main stage at Millbrook will continue to be offered to senior citizens, thanks to the continued support of the previews by the Clinton County Foundation.

However, the funding for the bus transportation to and from the previews will not be coming from the state Council on the Arts this year.

The Playhouse board is asking civic groups throughout the region to consider sponsoring the buses for one of the preview nights. The alternative will be to charge the senior citizens who use the transportation.

Interested organizations may call Mrs. Seeber at 769-7205 for the details.

Faced with the loss of a large chunk of the budget, the Playhouse board was forced to cut salaries and raise ticket prices.

Season ticket booklets will soon go on sale for $70 a regular booklet and $90 for a patron booklet. Patrons have their names listed in every playbill for the season.

Ticket prices at the box office will also be increased this season, to $9 for general admission and $6 for students and group rates.

People can also support the barn theater by contributing loose change into barn banks that will appear in local stores.

Safety strategy... Locks changed for all dorms

By Krista A. Meyer
Eagle Eye News Reporter

A decision was made by maintenance and faculty advisors, on Tuesday, March 5, to change the locks in all the dormitories over Spring Break, for the safety of the student body.

Although rumors have been circulating around campus about the master key being stolen, Head of Maintenance, Dave Proctor, wasn't positive if this was true, so all locks were changed. With new locks, Proctor feels the dormitories will be more secure and the students will feel safer.

Dr. Linda Koch, Vice-President of Student Affairs, said the students were not informed of this change because it was done so quickly and because of the concern for student safety.

Koch strongly feels that the residence halls will have better control over students and security with the new locks.

"We want to make students feel safe," said Koch.

With the help of two hall directors, and three student resident assistants, Steve Infanti, Jim McFarland, and Terry Banks, the "Best Lock Company" was able to finish the change of locks within four days.

At this time no one has a master key, but eventually Dr. Linda Koch, the Dean of Students, and Carol Latronica will each keep one in a retainer box. The master key will remain in these boxes until needed and will not be carried by either of these individuals.

Koch and Proctor feel that the locks being changed will tighten security in the dormitories and was a needed change.

Koch said, "We want to stress the safety issue. Safety should be a top priority."

Comedian Steve Shaffer brings his South Philly humor to Lock Haven University campus

By Margaret Murphy and Lori Packer
Eagle Eye Reporters

"The more you laugh, the longer you live," claimed comedian Steve Shaffer. If that's true, the life expectancies of many LHU students lengthened Wednesday night when Shaffer brought his unique brand of comedy to Price Auditorium.

Shaffer is a native of South Philadelphia, where he claims that it's a requirement to be at least half Italian. He said he survived twelve years of Catholic education, escaping the wrath of the "Ninja Nuns". He attended Penn State where he majored in "getting my dog high."

Shaffer kept his audience in hysterics as he brought out the humorous sides of such diverse topics as Catholic school fire drills, Chubby Checker, colicky babies, senile dogs, and marriage.

Shaffer has made nearly 50 television appearances on shows including: The Tonight Show, Murphy Brown, Star Search, MTV's Half-Hour Comedy Hour, and HBO.

He began performing in New York City on the Comic Strip in Manhattan, as an actor. He started doing stand-up comedy to "pay the rent."

After eight years of professional joke-telling, Shaffer said he prefers the big city audiences to smaller ones. However, he finds college audiences "brighter and slicker."

How did the LHU audience rate in the performer's eyes?

"Great, good response," said Shaffer.

College can be the perfect breeding ground for STD's

By Jeanne M. Ruczak

Associate Editor

Sex.

This little word can mean many things to many people. Some people feel it is an expression of deep love. Some people view it as a few moments of physical pleasure.

Others, however, consider it to be the cause of pain and anxiety. These people suffer from STDs.

STDs (sexually transmitted diseases) are usually spread through sexual activity.

STDs are spreading fast with 13 million Americans being infected each year. Not counting AIDS, 7000 die each year.

Why is this important for college students particularly? Statistics show that most cases involve people under 30 years of age!

Many symptoms are not easily recognized. A common symptom of STDs is painful urination, abdominal pain, fever or painful joints. Sometimes symptoms may not even appear, especially in women.

Such is the case with Chlamydia. About 10% of men and 80% of women have no noticeable symptoms. Statistics show however that 3 million people a year are stricken.

It is caused by a virus-like bacterium and infects the reproductive organs. Women taking oral contraceptives seem more at risk than those not.

It is transmitted by contact with the vagina, mouth, eyes, urethra or rectum of an infected person.

Symptoms are usually pain and discharge but can also include (for women) longer and heavier periods, tiredness, weakness, fever and nausea. If not treated, sterility in both genders is a possibility, as is tubal pregnancy in women.

The leading STD, Chlamydia is two to three times more common than gonorrhea.

There are about 800,000 cases of Gonorrhea reported each year in America.

Also caused by bacteria, it is spread during sexual contact and cannot be picked up from toilet seats and towels and other inanimate objects.

Symptoms do not always occur. If they do, they usually appear three days to three weeks after sexual contact with an infected person. Males may experience a whitish discharge and a burning sensation during urination. Females may experience both as well as abnormal menstruation and abdominal pain or tenderness.

Even if these symptoms do occur, they may disappear in a few weeks but the disease is still present.

If left untreated, the results could be the same as those for Chlamydia. An additional result is infections which damage heart tissue and joints in both genders.

Herpes is another common STD. It is a painful infection affecting millions. The main age group is 18 to 35 for first-time occurrences.

It is caused by the Herpes Virus. It can be contracted through sexual intercourse or other contact with an active lesion.

The symptoms are the same for both genders. Two to 10 days after being infected, one may experience pain, sores, flu-like symptoms and swollen glands.

Women need be especially cautious. Studies show women with genital herpes may have a higher risk of developing cervical cancer. As a precaution, infected women should have an annual PAP test.

Herpes can have serious complications, such as autoinoculation, that is, the spreading to other body parts.

"If a person has Herpes in the form of oral herpes or genital herpes, fastidious hand-washing is necessary to prevent autoinoculation," said Nancy Panko, R.N. of the Glennon Infirmary.

She cited washing hands before putting in or taking out contact lenses as an example. If the eyes become infected, blindness can occur.

Herpes can also recur. Although scientists do not know exactly why this is, the Information Center on Herpes Disease cites stress, lack of sleep, poor diet, too much sun or wind, sexual relations or even friction from tight jeans or leotards or spandex.

With more than 85,000 cases reported each year, Syphilis is also causing much irritation.

It is caused by an organism that moves through skin or mucous membranes and into the bloodstream. Although it can spread by skin contact, it is almost always transmitted sexually.

One of the most dangerous STDs, Syphilis comes in three stages.

Symptoms of the first stage (one to 12 weeks after contact) are chancre sores. Painless, they may last up to five weeks.

The symptoms of the second stage (one to six months) are rashes, enlarged lymph nodes, fever and a sore throat.

Three years or more is the third stage at which time one may experience ulcers, loss of feeling in limbs and pain and disability due to damage to heart, blood vessels, spinal cord and/or the brain.

If left untreated, damage to the heart, spinal cord and brain is possible.

It is estimated that one out of every two women will have a vaginal infection at some point.

Vaginitis obviously is an inflammation of the female genitals; however, it can be carried by males!

Vaginal infections can be acquired sexually or can arise spontaneously.

Associated with vaginal infections are excess moisture and heat (such as: bathing suits, synthetic underwear, spandex), changes in body chemistry (such as: antibodies, birth control pills, diabetes) and the use of chemicals (such as: deodorant tampons, bubble baths, lubricated condoms).

The three most common vaginal infections are yeast infections (caused by yeast fungus), trichomonas "trich" vaginitis (caused by a microscopic organism) and bacterial vaginitis (caused by a bacillus).

The symptoms for all three are similar. Frequent and painful urination, vaginal itching and an abnormal discharge may be experienced. Women may not notice any symptoms while for men there are few, if any.

Urinary tract infections also occur primarily in women. Caused by bacteria, it can occur without sexual contact.

A urinary tract infection is an infection in the urinary system (that is, kidneys, bladder, ureters, urethra).

Treated with antibiotics, the symptoms are burning during urination, frequent need to urinate, fever and pain in the lower abdomen.

Other common STDs include genital warts, which affects three million men and women annually, scabies and pediculosis pubis (crabs).

STDs can be prevented. To prevent a STD, have sex with a faithful partner, use a latex condom with a spermicide, urinate immediately before and after sex and wash genitals before and right after sexual contact.

STDs can be treated and/or controlled. Most are treated with antibiotics or other drugs. Only one, AIDS, has no known cure.

Next week: AIDS

Campus minister leads discussion on women and faith

The Rev. Deborah Casey, the Protestant campus minister at Lock Haven University, will lead a discussion on women and faith at the Lock Haven University Parsons Union Building Coffeehouse Tuesday, March 26 at 3:15 p.m.

Entitled "Keepers of the Covenant: Women and Faith," Casey's lecture will focus on women in Judeo-Christian history and how their faith informed and shaped their lives.

"By looking at history, we can gain perspective and affirmation on the faith journeys of women today as they seek to be keepers of the covenant," Casey said.

An ordained minister of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Casey served as the pastor of the Canoe Camp Church of Christ in Mansfield, PA., for 11 years.

She has also served her church as a consultant for women in ministry with the Division of Homeland Ministries in Indianapolis, IN.

After serving with the American Red Cross for a year in South Vietnam, Casey returned to Vietnam and Cambodia in 1988 as one of seven delegates representing the Disciples of Christ.

An advocate for victims of domestic violence, Casey has served as president of the Tioga County Women's Coalition Board of Directors and as a member of the advisory board for Men Overcoming Violence.

Sponsored by the Human Relations Office at Lock Haven University, Casey's lecture is the second in a series of Women's History Month lectures to be held on campus.

The presentation is free and open to the public.

The Society for Collegiate Journalists will be holding its media mixer, Wednesday March 27, from 5 p.m.-6 p.m. in the Havenscope Studio, Robinson Hall sixth floor. All those interested in learning more about the media are welcome. Refreshments will be provided.

Former LHU Graduate talks about alcohol related abuse based on college experience

By Marisa Veag-Clark
Eagle Eye Reporter

Most of us have all been in the ever-so-familiar scenario of waking up in a foreign place and having no recollection of how this position was obtained, or grasping the toilet bowl for dear life while vomiting, or even experiencing complete blackouts and loss of memory.

Alcohol and drug abuse are a major problem on most college campuses today. Instances such as the ones mentioned previously were at Price Auditorium on Wednesday afternoon during a drug and alcohol awareness presentation given by Gary Carlson.

Mr. Carlson is a former Lock Haven University Graduate, and has obtained his masters in Education from Penn State University. He is currently an Addictions Counselor for the Crawford County Drug and Alcohol Commission.

Mr. Carlson is a recovering drug and alcohol abuser himself. By relating his college experiences of socializing and "boozing," he managed to reach the many students present.

Among the topics discussed were; date-rape, drugs, abortion, alcohol, and education.

From the participation and applause from the audience, it was clear that he had succeeded in reaching out to the students. Just by stating such details as, 1 out of every 10 students in the room would become alcoholics by graduation, was enough to silence the crowd.

Mr. Carlson stated that his main purpose for speaking was to, "create awareness," and to let people know, if they do have a problem, "help is out there."

There will be another presentation on Friday, March 22 in Price Auditorium at 4:30 p.m. Mr. Carlson will also be available between 10:00 and 11:30 to discuss any questions that students might have.

Now you can afford to dream in color.

Apple introduces the Macintosh LC.

If you thought that finding a color Macintosh® system you could afford was just a dream, then the new, affordable Macintosh LC is a dream come true.

The Macintosh LC is rich in color. Unlike many computers that can display only 16 colors at once, the Macintosh LC expands your palette to 256 colors. It also comes with a microphone and new sound-input technology that lets you personalize your work by adding voice or other sounds.

Like every Macintosh computer, the LC is easy to set up and easy to master. And it runs thousands of available applications that all work in the same, consistent way—so once you've learned one program, you're well on your way to learning them all. The Macintosh LC even lets you share information with someone who uses a different type of computer—thanks to the versatile Apple® SuperDrive™, which can read from and write to Macintosh, MS-DOS, OS/2, and Apple II floppy disks.

Take a look at the Macintosh LC and see what it gives you. Then pinch yourself. It's better than a dream—it's a Macintosh.

Confessions of a dangerous mind:

These days, it ain't easy being macho man

By Steven Infanti

Eagle Eye Columnist

Most men have at one time or another in their lives been called macho. Usually it's a girl who verbally dubs the honor on a man while he's in the process of showing off for her or other men.

Most guys think it's a great compliment, but the poor fools are living in a bygone era when earning the label "macho" carried the same honor as "knight of the realm" did in the Feudal Age. Today "macho" ranks on a par with "stupid chauvinist of the city."

In the golden days of yesteryear when men were men, women were women and the only reason anybody was in the closet was to get a pair of shoes, being macho meant you were a man among men.

Then tragedy struck.

During the middle 1970s, the Village People wrote a song entitled "Macho Man" and it became a hit across the country.

Then books began to appear on shelves telling the world what "real men" were supposed to do. Any male could now be macho by following the simple recipe. No longer did you have to be handsome, debonair, courageous and clever like Errol Flynn or Clark Gable.

The macho image depended on what clothes you wore, what sports you played and what foods you ate. Macho had gone from cult status to chic overnight.

The macho period in history became a 20th century dark Ages for women, because looking down upon women and being rude or insensitive was the macho thing to do.

The fashion world created macho styles. Shirts were left unbuttoned to the waist and gold chains hanging down to the navel were the common trend. Baldness was taboo and toupee sales skyrocketed.

Cigarette, beer and beef sales were on the rise; quiche was no longer served at restaurants and eating pizza with anchovies was the fastfood fad. Golf was labeled a wimpy sport while football, skydiving, hockey and motorcross became the rage.

Getting other people to notice you quickly became a problem. Too many men fit the macho man image, so they all blended together in a pool of machismo.

Men had to compete with each other to become noticed. It was sort of a "king of the macho mountain" competition. Man outdid man in a desperate bid for the macho crown.

It peaked in 1979 when Bolt Upright, (he has since changed his name) of New York City was awarded the crown of "Mr. Macho U.S.A. For Life" for his incredible feat of running the two miles home immediately following his vasectomy.

His picture may still be found in some dictionaries next to the definition of macho.

The term has undergone a metamorphosis from "man among men" to "man willing to do the ridiculous to impress." It became common knowledge that boys will be boys and macho men pretend.

The tide of stupidity started to reverse when women got tired of being pushed around by a bunch of toupee-clad, gold-chain wearing, tackily dressed men.

Most people realized that being macho actually meant you were a wimp who was good at hiding it.

Being macho was no longer an "in" thing.

Eating quiche became popular again, and as people began to question just how macho a group of guys from Greenwich Village, could be, huge bonfires spread across the country fed by the Village People's albums.

Men actually began to work at not being macho, sort of a wimp revolt. Those who couldn't change with the times were frowned upon, criticized and forced to hide in gyms across the country.

The "Macho Era" had drawn to a close, and the days of trying to be macho instead of just being yourself faded away with the Village People.

Early demo tapes of the Cure, Siouxsie and the Banshees released for the first time

By Ryan Ritter

Eagle Eye Columnist

Welcome back one and all after a much needed week off; I'd say it's good to be back, but I'd be lying.

Spring Break must have been a very busy time for Mr. Mailman, for when I returned to Lock Haven from sunny Sellersville, PA, I found a whole, big stack of new stuff waiting for me.

So while I'm sorting through said stack, and deciding what's decent and what's not, here are two curious import CD's just released stateside.

But first, a word of explanation is in order. There are these three bears, see, and...Oops! Wrong story!

Over in England there is a man named John Peel who hosts a radio show featuring fresh, new bands. He's been doing this for some time now, so many of the bands featured on his show have become quite famous.

So somebody decided that it would be a neat idea if someone would gather the demo tapes these bands made especially for the show, mass produce them, and sell them.

Thus we have a number of releases from different bands, all bearing the title, "The Peel Sessions."

We are lucky enough to have two of these, from Siouxsie and the Banshees and The Cure.

Unless you are really into alternative music, you may not have heard of Siouxsie and the Banshees. They are (or were--they're no longer together) a British group known for a vividly different band of driving rock.

Typical Siouxsie fans would sport large purple Mohawks, more earrings than a discount jewelry store, and sharp, pointy things stuck in various parts of their bodies.

Yes, they're punk, but they are actually pretty good. On second thought, make that, "they're punk, and they are pretty good."

Yes, they're pretty loud and lead singer Siouxsie does scream on occasion, but they have an undeniable sound and a gripping beat that won't let go.

These guys are great if you are in an obnoxious mood and need something to scream along with.

Notable tracks include "Love In A Void", "Hong Kong Garden", and an amazing cover of "Helter Skelter" (Siouxsie sings the guitar slide after each shout of "Helter Skelter!" and you know that's how every average Joe sings along with The Beatles).

The best thing about The Cure's peel sessions is the picture on the cover. It was taken when the songs were recorded, about 13 years ago, and they all look so young!

Even better, they are not wearing any of that annoying make-up they are so fond of using today.

There were only three Cure members then (Robert Smith, Mick Dempsey, and Lawrence Tolhurst) but nothing is missing from their intensity.

There are only four songs on the disc, but they are from the days when The Cure was raw, fresh, young, and hot.

The songs are a little rougher than the album versions, but two of the more recognizable cuts, "Killing An Arab" and "Boys Don't Cry", almost sound better in this form.

Either way, these two CD's are something no Siouxsie or Cure fan will want to live without.

That will just about wrap things up for this week's edition, tune in next week for the latest in cool new music.

In the meantime, if there is anything new in particular you want to see in a future column, drop me a line in 710 Robinson, or call the office phone at 2315, and I'll try to

Eagle Eye Advice: Balancing time between romance and friendships

Dear Ask Us,

I have recently fallen in love with my boyfriend, and enjoy spending all of my time with him. But in the process, I have lost a lot of my close friends. I want to gain my friendship back with them, but my boyfriend thinks that they aren't worth it. They haven't responded to any of my efforts so far! What can I do?

Love Struck

Dear Love Struck,

Unfortunately, the difficulty of balancing time seems to be a very common problem in relationships. In college, there are so many things that compete for your time--homework, friends, family, and relationships.

There is certainly no magic answer about how to juggle these different factors, but the key word is balance. Devoting all of your time to any one factor would be a mistake.

It sounds like you are trying to re-establish some balance in your life. After devoting so much time to your boyfriend, it sounds like you are missing the time you used to spend with your friends.

There is certainly nothing wrong with that. One relationship cannot possibly satisfy all of a person's needs. It is important to keep striving toward balance in life, even after you fall in love.

In order to become reconnected with your friends, you probably need to discuss your feelings with them very directly. They may have interpreted the amount of time you spend with your boyfriend as meaning that you don't really care about them. You may need to correct any misinterpretations.

Let them know that you do still care about them and that you have genuinely missed them.

Having expressed those feelings verbally, you will need to demonstrate those feelings behaviorally, by spending time with your friends. Organize a "girl's night out", call them on the phone, meet them for meals or studying.

Your boyfriend feels that your friends are "Not worth it." You should really be the judge of their worth. What do you think?

Your boyfriend may be insecure in your relationship, feeling that if you become closer to your friends, he will lose you. Such insecurity could reflect a problem with the relationship or a problem with him.

On the other hand, he may simply need to get to know your friends better. Perhaps you should all go out together sometime, so that he and your friends can become better acquainted and more accepting of each other.

There is also an additional possibility that your friends really were not true friends.

If you make many attempts to discuss the situation and arrange time with them, and get no response, they may not be the kind of friends you want. (Make several attempts before giving up, or they may be hurt).

If you conclude that they really are not true friends, do not forget about the value of friendship. Friends are important throughout life; you may just need to find new ones.

Civic Chorus to perform contemporary secular music

The Lock Haven University Choir will present the Williamsport Civic Chorus in a special program of contemporary secular choral music Monday, March 25 at 8 p.m. in the LHU Price Performance Center.

The Williamsport Civic Chorus' repertoire will include William Schuman's "Orpheus with his Lute," Vincent Persichetti's "Song of Peace," R. Vaughan Williams' "Serenade to Music," Randall Thompson's "Ye Shall Have a Song," and Norman Dello Joio's cantata "To Saint Cecilia."

Later in the program, Hal Baughman, a bass from Jersey Shore, and Dr. Carmen Spinney, a soprano from Avis, will give solo performances.

Under the direction of the Williamsport

Civic Chorus music director Grace Muzzo, the WCC will perform two choruses by Baroque composer Henry Purcell with the Lock Haven University Choir.

They will be accompanied by Nancy Ackerman of Williamsport.

The choral concert marks the choirs' third joint performance.

Last March, the LHU Choir and the WCC sang with the Philadelphia Chamber Orchestra at the Price Performance Center.

In 1989, the two choirs performed Mendelssohn's "Elijah" at the Trinity United Methodist Church in Lock Haven.

Concert tickets can be purchased at Price Performance Center the evening of the show. Admission price is $3.

Symphonic Band continues two county tour

By Tara Caimi
Eagle Eye Co-Features Editor

Elk and Clearfield are the two counties that are being visited by the Symphonic Band on their five concert tour which began on Thursday, March 21.

The tour, which continues until Friday, March 22, is being supervised by Dr. Florentino Caimi, a music professor and band director.

Throughout the tour, the band will perform at Ridgeway High School, Elk County Christian High School in St. Mary's, Clearfield High School, and Dubois High School. The band will also perform an evening concert for the Elk/Cameron County Concert Association at Ridgeway High School.

Caimi feels that the tour can be seen as a type of recruiting effort by which students from the visited areas will be exposed to the quality of Lock Haven students and music ensembles.

"In this sense, we are serving as ambassadors for Lock Haven University," said Caimi, who feels that the tour will serve to attract students to all departments of the University, as well as recruit students into the band.

According to Caimi, the Symphonic Band is a 50 member ensemble which is composed of students from various majors on campus.

This is the first tour that the band has taken in five years, and Caimi hopes that the tour will be successful.

Accomplished violinist, pianist unite for duet performance

One of the country's best known "younger generation" violinists, Gregory Fulkerson, and accomplished concert pianist, Gary Boerckel, will unite for a one-night performance at Lock Haven University's Price Performance Center Wednesday, March 27 at 8 p.m.

The repertoire for their special Artist Series Concert will include J.S. Bach's Partita in E Major, Johannes Brahms' Sonata in A opus 100, and Gerald Finzi's Elegy.

The Chairman of Music at Lycoming College, Boerckel performs more than 20 concerts a year throughout the east coast.

He has appeared as a soloist in Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 and Saint-Saens' Carnival of the Animals with the Williamsport Symphony Orchestra and in Mozart's Piano Concerto No 25 with the Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonic.

Boerckel's interest in ragtime and jazz led to the development of an innovative series of lecture-recitals on such noted composers of classic ragtime as James Scott and Joseph Lamb.

After serving as musical director for Candide, Tintypes, and The Robber Bridegroom at Lycoming's Arena Theatre, Boerckel created and staged the revue Stars and Swipes: 200 Years of American Political Saire in Song in 1984.

Violinist Fulkerson has had a flourishing career as a classical and contemporary musician.

Every year, he appears with a number of symphony orchestras and in recitals around the United States, returning in the summer months to his annual residency at the Grand Teton Music Festival and Chicago's Grant Park for performances of the Menotti Concerto.

Winner of the 1980 International American Music Competition, Fulkerson has risen to prominence, performing at Carnegie Hall with the American Symphony Orchestra, at the Marlboro Festival with the New York Music Ensemble, the Sante Fe Chamber Music Festival, and at the world premiere of the John Becker Violin Concerto with the Chattanooga Symphony.

Tickets for the Fulkerson and Boerckel Concert at Lock Haven University are now on sale at the Student Cooperative Council, Inc., in the Parsons Union Building. Admission price for the show is $4.

For additional information, call the SCC at (717) 893-2332/2331.

Eight LHU Boxers bidding for trip to Nationals

ECBA Regional Boxing Championships tonight

By Dewayne Bryant
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

The nationally ranked Lock Haven University Boxing Team will host the 1991 Eastern Collegiate Boxing Association (ECBA) Northeast Regional Boxing Championships on Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23.

The bouts begin at 7:30 p.m. both nights in the Thomas Fieldhouse on the campus of Lock Haven University.

The Bald Eagles have developed during the past dozen or so years into one of the outstanding collegiate programs in the nation.

Since the renewal of boxing at LHU in 1978, the Bald Eagles have produced six boxers who have won ten National Collegiate Boxing Association (NCBA) Championships. Forty-two boxers have earned "All-American" status.

The winners of the ECBA-NE Regional Qualifying tournament will advance to the Final Four hosted by the University of Nevada-Reno, at the El Dorado Hotel in Reno, Nevada on April 12 and 13.

Champions from the four qualifying tournaments (Northeast at LHU; Southeast at VMI; Midwest at Xavier; and Far West at the University of Santa Clara) advance to the final four.

Army, PSU, and LHU enjoy a rich cultural heritage in boxing, with all three fielding strong boxing teams prior to WWII and into the early 1950's. All three started up when the NCBA was formed in the mid 70's.

Dr. Ken Cox started up the new era of LHU boxing in 1978 after a highly successful career as a wrestling coach.

Last year the Bald Eagles advanced six boxers to the National finals at the University of Santa Clara (CA) where Dave Machamer won the 119 pound national title, and Manny Rose won his second title at 165-pounds.

Machamer was a national runner-up at 125-pounds in 1989. The Bald Eagles finished third in the team race behind the U.S. Air Force Academy, who won the team title, and PSU who finished a surprising second. In 1989 the Bald Eagles tied for second with Army, for their best finish ever.

Machamer, a junior, is back again trying to earn his third trip to nationals, while Rose has moved on to pursue a shot at making the 1992 Olympic Team via the USA/ABF qualifying tournaments.

Machamer and Scott Asher, 190, are the only LHU boxers with any national tournament experience. Both have qualified to box in the regional qualifier this season.

Even without much national tournament experience, the Bald Eagles, led by veteran Coach Cox, have a good nucleus of experienced upperclassmen with the potential to advance to Reno in pursuit of national titles.

Included in this group are junior Dan Demilio, 139; junior Dewayne Bryant, 180; and 220 pound Heavyweight, sophomore Mike Lyons.

Demilio (3-3) has boxed at 147 most of the season, and is cutting down to 139 for the Regionals.

Bryant is currently undefeated (7-0) this season and has elected to stay at 180 to challenge 1989 national champion, Mike Hoos from Army for the Regional title.

Lyons is also unbeaten (3-0) this season with all of his victories coming via first round referee stops contest.

Novice Boxers, Don Buckley, 112; Jimmy Torres, 125; and Rob Noll, 147; have all been elevated to "open" status for the regional qualifier and will be underdogs in the open division.

Lock Haven has qualified eight boxers to perform in the qualifying tournament.

Seven Bald Eagle boxers will also box "novice" bouts of Friday evening. Included in this group are Son Doan, 112; Steve Cunningham, 119; Steve Kramer, 139; Todd McQuiellen, 147; Dusty Durand, 156; John Pierro, 156; and Tirso Valls, 165.

Twenty-eight boxers will compete in the "open" qualifying tournament, while 16 boxers will compete in "novice" bouts. As usual the "big-three", LHU (8), Army (8), and PSU (7) will lead the pack in the "open" division.

112 pounds

The huge favorite in this class is LHU's rangy Don Buckley. Buckley stopped (RSC-1) Haugh at Gettysburg College in early February.

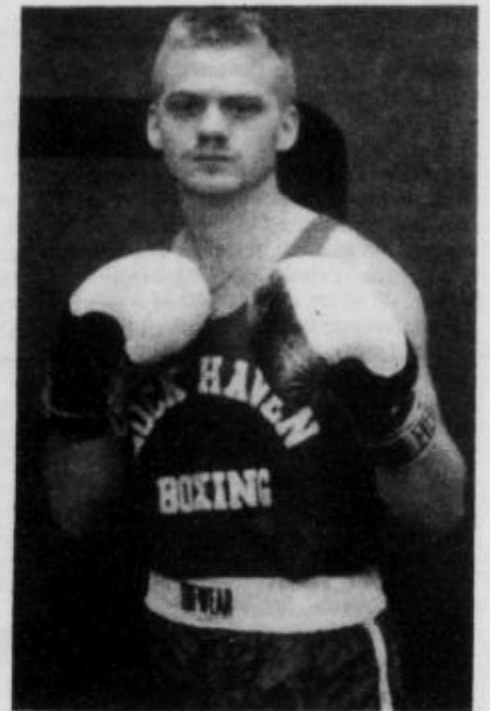

Buckley had a much tougher time in his own gym versus teammates Son Doan and Steve Cunningham than he will in Regionals. Cunningham also stopped Haugh in the 2nd round at the PSU Invitational in February. There is a lack of experience in this weightclass.

119 pounds

Defending national champion Dave Machamer, 5-1 this season, has been boxing up at 125 and 132 pounds to get good competition. It could be a walk-over unless Jack Giaro (Westfield) decides to challenge.

Machamer is ranked #1 in the nation, and should have no trouble repeating! He has developed into one of the premier boxers in the NCBA.

Dave Machamer, last year's National Champion at 119-pounds, prepares to defend his crown tonight and tomorrow in the Thomas

125 pounds

The finals Saturday night should pit PSU's classy Walter Blake against rapidly improving Bald Eagle Jimmy Torres. Blake desicioned (2-1) Machamer earlier in the year, while the rangy Torres is 1-2 with all his bouts up at 132 and 139.

Torres, a sophomore from Reading, PA, has excellent potential, and should develop into a top collegiate boxer. However, Blake, a junior transfer from PSU is believed to have too much experience for Torres. This is a tough weightclass, both boxers could be national contenders.

139 pounds

LHU's Dan DeMilio has dropped from 147, and will be challenged by Army's Reyno Arrendo. Should be the championship bout on Saturday night.

Both boxed well this season. PSU's Jay Neville will challenge. The winner of this weightclass should do well at the national level.

Men's Tennis team opened season with Hilton Head trip

By Rob Heller
Eagle Eye Sports Editor

The Bald Eagle Men's Tennis team began their 1991 season last week traveling to the Denis Van Der Meer Tennis Center in Hilton Head Island, SC to compete in four matches in as many days.

Denis Van Der Meer is the leading Tennis instructor in the world, and looked at by some people as a tennis god.

The Team squared off against Transylvania College on Tuesday, March 12. Although they lost the match 5-4 Head Coach Dale Fisher was pleased with his teams performance.

Singles Matches were won by Henning Schueter and Pat Slattery. Doubles victories went to Schueter and Frank Rosato as well as the team of Dan Miller and Slattery.

The team was not as competitive in their other three matches, facing some of the best teams in the country.

Tennessee Tech, ranked #24 in the nation in Division I, defeated our Bald Eagles 6-0 on Wednesday, March 13. Thursday, March 14, they went up against N.C. State-Ashville, ranked in the top 40 in Division I, and were defeated 8-0.

The tennis team concluded their trip to Hilton Head with a match against N.E. Missouri State, ranked in the top 10 in Division II. N.E. Missouri State won 9-0.

Coming off of a 7-3 record, and a seventh place finish in the conference last year, the new look tennis team is looking forward to a promising season.

Scott Kinlock, junior, is the only varsity player to return this year from last. Kinlock was ranked fifth on the team last year, and is the number one player this year.

Besides Kinlock this years 14 man roster includes seven freshman, one sophomore, three juniors, one senior, and an exchange student.

"It's going to be tough this year with such a young team," said Coach Fisher. "We are not going to be as strong as last year, but we should be pretty decent."

With such a young team, Fisher must depend on quality performances from his young talent.

Two players in particular are Sophomore Frank Resato, and Freshman Dan Miller. Both will be playing varsity (the top six) this year.

The Bald Eagle tennis team is scheduled to compete in 12 conference matches this year, the first one being away versus Cheyney Wednesday, March 27

Of the 12 PSAC conference teams Coach Fisher feels that the toughest opponents will be Indiana (PA), West Chester, Edinboro, Shippensburg, Kutztown, and Juniata.

Fisher feels confident that his team can easily defeat the remaining six teams. They include Cheyney, Slippery Rock, St. Francis, Lycoming, East Stroudsburg, and Sesquehanna.

This year was the first year that the men's tennis team had fall practice. They also competed in a match against PSU in the fall.

Fisher plans to schedule three or four matches next fall to go along with the practice schedule.

The tennis team started in the fall with 26 players, but due to personal problems, and conflicting attitudes with Coach Fisher the team now is made up of a 14 man roster.

"The 14 guys on the team are the cream of the crop," said Fisher, "They are the ones that I want to work with the most. I am happy with the team I have."

"We might not have the best season at LHU," added Fisher, "but I'm looking forward to a winning season, and I am overwhelmed with the positive attitude of the team. This will be one of my best seasons as a coach."

Recently Fisher became a member of the Inner Collegian Tennis Coach Association. "The ITCA lets our team compete in tournaments (like Hilton Head) throughout the nation," said Fisher. "It is an elite membership."

LHU Outdoor Track and Field team has high expectations for the upcoming 1991 season

By Shawn Liddick
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

The Lock Haven University Indoor Track season has come to a close with some impressive results. Now it is time for the Outdoor season to begin.

There are many returning veterans from last year's season and a good number of up and coming freshman to balance out the team. There are high expectations from the team this year.

Coach Elliston feels that he has a "good group of individuals that work hard." Unfortunately, there is not enough people to put in every event. Individually, however, there have been some impressive results. Some of the best runners in the conference attend Lock Haven and the team has a bright future because of this.

The veterans are going to carry the team far this year. Leading the team is team captain Steve Reeser. Reeser is expected to be one of the top 800 meter runners in the country in this event. He nearly qualified for the NCAA division II Indoor Championships and coach Elliston said that he is definitely better running outdoors than indoors.

Leading the women in this year's team are senior Kristin Walters and sophomore Sonja Yingling. Walters is expected to place high in the conference in the Javelin. Yingling is one of the premier Heptathletes in the conference.

There are many other veterans who are expected to be conference leaders. One such individual is Jimmy Rickett in the High Jump. Rickett is expected to do very well if not win the conference.

Chris Cassel and Ron McMichael are the team leaders for the distance runners. Cassel is expected to have an excellent season, after he recovers from injuries. McMichael is one of the best distance runners that LHU ever had. He is expected to set the school record in both the 5000 meter and the 10000 meter run.

Bo Thurman and Dirk Weaver lead the Eagles in the Sprinting category. Coach Elliston said that "both have real good speed and will surprise in conference meets." Their main events are the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

For the women, there are three other outstanding veterans that have high expectations for this coming season. One is Patti Smoker, who competes in the High Jump. She placed third in the conference and is expected to do better in the outdoor season.

Tracy Trapp is both a jumper and a Heptathlete. Trapp has greatly improved since last season and is very talented and strong. She placed second in the conference in the Triple Jump and is expected to do extremely well in the outdoor season.

Pan Sheppard leads the women in the distance events. Coach Elliston feels that she is "a good runner with great potential. Things will work out well if she continues to work hard."

There are also four freshman on the team who have outstanding prospects for their collegic track career.

Glen Allison is a top 800 High Jumper that was recruited from Philadelphia. He was the Indoor conference champion in the High Jump and is being converted in to being a Decathlete.

Steve Krautz is slated to run the 400 meter dash and any relay event that has an opening. Coach Elliston has said that "if he continues to work hard, he can be one of the top runners in the conference."

Kristi Oberst was a star in the 800 meter dash during the indoor season. Her times are expected to drop dramatically and she is to achieve a time in the low 2:20's by the end of the season.

Gillespie, LHU Wrestling Team conclude season at Nationals

By Shawn Liddick
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

Over spring break, six wrestlers from Lock Haven University participated in the NCAA Division I National Championship that was held in Iowa City, Iowa.

The team itself finished tied with three other teams for 47th out of 90. The other schools were Marquette, Michigan St., and Toledo. The team was seeded 22nd in the country going into the tournament.

Representing Lock Haven at 126 lb was Danny Smith. He wrestled Marcus Gowens from Notre Dame and lost by a score of 6-3.

At 134 lb for LHU was Shannyn Gillespie. Gillespie went farther than any other Lock Haven wrestler in the tournament. In the first round, he defeated Ray Serbick of E. Illinois by a score of 12-6. The second round, Gillespie had the unfortunate job of wrestling the number one seed in the country, Tom Brands from Iowa. He lost that match by a technical fall and a score of 23-8.

His third match, he bounced right back and defeated Jason Dewland of Boston University by a score of 12-4. Lastly, he wrestled number nine ranked Scott Glenn from Oregon and lost a close match by a score of 4-2.

Mike Lightner, wrestling at 142 lost a hard fought match to David Marlow of E. Illinois, by pinfall. The fall came 6:01 in to his match.

Wrestling at 150 was Kemal Pengram. He lost an extremely closer match to Anthony Camacho of Fresno State. The final score was 6-5.

Representing Lock Haven at 167 lb weight class was Ron Coffel. He lost a tough match to number 12 ranked Craig Holiday from Liberty College. The final score was 8-7.

Kenny Walker wrestled for Lock Haven at the heavyweight division. He had a final tournament record of 1-2. His first round defeat came from number 10 ranked Mike Anderson by a score of 3-0.

He then went on to defeat Brett Bourne of Navy by a score of 3-1. In his final match he was defeated by Don Whipp from Michigan State. The final score was 6-0.

Lock Haven had a tournament record of 3-8 and scored a total of 3.5 points.

Despite this bad news from the tournament, two Lock Haven wrestlers were among the top ten in final PSAC wrestling victories. They were Shannyn Gillespie, with a final record of 33-15-1 and Ron Coffel with a final record of 30-9-2. They were seventh and tenth respectively.

Tricia Ginn is also expected to be a star in the 800 meter dash. She is strong with a great deal of raw potential. She is expected to be an extremely tough competitor once she gets in to shape.

In conclusion, Coach Elliston said that he "expects several school records to be broken this year. I believe that we will have a good number of conference champions this year."

Correction

In the March 8, 1991 issue of the Eagle Eye, the headline for the Track and Field article read "Greg Allison" where it should have read "Glen Allison." Sorry, Glen.

147 pounds

PSU's John Woods is the favorite. He will be challenged by LHU freshman Rob Noll (1-2) who is dropping down from 156, and possibly Army's Mike Kenny. There is a lack of experience at this weightclass.

180 pounds

Perhaps the toughest weightclass! Army's Mike Hoos won the national championship at 172 in 1989, and LHU's Dewayne is currently 7-0 this season.

Hoos decisioned LHU's Scott Asher at the NYAC back in early November, then was upset by Navy's Tom Coss at the DTAC in New York late November.

Bryant is a veteran who has boxed internationally in both Jamaica (1989) and Barbados (1990) Regionals because he was on as exchange to the USSR.

Bryant has stopped (RSC-1) PSU's Bob Schrif twice this season. Schrif and Kyle will be darkhorses. Toss-up weight, with winner expected to be a national finalist.

190 pounds

LHU's Scott Asher, a 1990 national runner-up at this weight will be challenged by Army's John Drohan. It should be a hotly contested bout.

Westfield's Mike Baker will not box in the "open" division. Winner should be competitive at the national level. Asher has shown much improvement this season.

Heavyweight

Four better than average heavyweights are entered. LHU's Mike Lyons is a slight favorite, but will receive a stiff challenge from Army's Chris Smith.

PSU's Seth Lyter and Gettysburg's John Mautz all have upset potential. Lyons is currently 3-0 this season, with both Lyter and Mautz with one loss each. Smith is Army's Brigade champion.

The winner of this competitive weight class should be competitive at the national level. Lyons has excellent hand speed and can develop into an outstanding heavyweight.

The "top" weight classes appear to be 119, 125, 132, 156, and 180 with 139, 172, and 190 good weights. Heavy weight could be a surprise.

There is no team title awarded at the NCBA Regional level, with all emphasis on individual accomplishment. Medals are given to the individual champion and runner-up in each weight class along with an "outstanding boxer" selected by the referee's and judges.

Coach Cox and his assistant Ken Cooper believe this could be one of the best regional teams we put together in the past 12 years or so.

The Bald Eagles have been training hard since last September, and are about as ready as they'll ever be, said Cox. We have a great group of highly motivated young men, and they were willing to make the necessary sacrifices it takes to be competitive.

I have every reason to believe we will be competitive and well prepared for the Regional Qualifier, added Cox. Perhaps Bryant's attitude best describes this team. He wants to Box Mike Hoos, accepting the challenge of going up against the best.

At LHU we have always stressed individual accomplishment, Cox stated. The only negative is that if either Dewayne or Mike would have gone down to 172 it would have strengthened our region, but I have always encouraged my boxers to determine their own destiny. I can't fault Dewayne for making his decision, concluded an optimistic Dr. Cox.

The doors open at 6 p.m. both Friday and Saturday, with the bouts starting at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $3 (adults); $2 (students) both nights with $4 reserved seats on Saturday night.

Baseball Team looks good this year

By Rob Heller
Eagle Eye Sports Editor

The LHU Men's Baseball got into the swing of things over spring break playing five games in Virginia from March 9 to March 13.

The Bald Eagle batmen recorded a 0-5 record during their stay in Virginia battling two very tough teams.

They were scheduled to play 8 games versus six different teams, but due to rain and just plain bad weather the batmen only managed five games.

"We were 0-5 down in Virginia," said head coach Lefty Lovelace. "We only got five games in, and we played the toughest two teams." The two teams Coach Lovelace referred to are Hampton Sydney and Lynchburg.

The Bald Eagles lost their three games with Hampton Sydney 5-4, 9-6, 13-3. The Lynchburg scores were 10-9, 6-5.

"We were in every game down their except that one against Hampton Sydney," said Lovelace. "The wheels came off that game, we couldn't do anything right."

"The last game we lost in the ninth inning," added Lovelace. "One out, nobody on base, and a guy who never hit a homerun in his life hit a homerun. What are you going to do?"

Lovelace also felt that it is hard to win when you fall behind. "It's twice as hard to play baseball when your behind," said Lovelace. "When you don't get off to a lead everybody knows what your going to do."

Lynchburg had the Bald Eagles down 7-0, but LHU battled back to tie it up before losing in the ninth to that fluke HR. The batmen lost two of their games in the ninth inning.

With all things considered, Coach Lovelace was very pleased with his team's performance.

"Our hitting was real good down their (Virginia), the pitching was good outside of one or two games, and the defense was good," says Lovelace. "The reason we lost was that we always had a lapse, we gave up a four run inning in every game, that's what killed us."

Coach Lovelace was particularly pleased with the performance of his two freshman pitchers Brett Stehr, and Rob Wright.

On the trip the team was led by Greg Heverly who hit .600, Mike Signor who batted .444 with a HR and four RBI. Brian Naylor hit .438 with a double and four RBI while Neil Emory Batted .389 with seven hits and two RBI.

"Over all we looked good," said Lovelace. "I think when we get the team together, we are going to be tough."

Regardless of the batmen's record the most disappointing thing to happen to them in Virginia was that their hotel rooms were broken into. Eight of the players got ripped off, said Lovelace. "They didn't take credit cards or anything, they just wanted cash."

The Baseball team will head to Shippensburg for a tournament this weekend where they will face Shippensburg on Saturday at 11 a.m. and Slippery Rock on Sunday at 2 p.m. Both will be seven inning games.

The Furious Five are the champions of the Intramural 5-on-5 Basketball league

By Brian Wessner and Kristin Walters

Special to the Eagle Eye

The final games for 5-on-5 basketball were played last night. The men's final matched the BLOC against the Furious Five, both these teams are veterans of intramural basketball. The women's final also pitted two veteran teams against each other, WBC versus the Hotshots.

In the men's game the Furious Five defeated BLOC by a score of 65-48 behind 19 points from John Graves. BLOC was paced by Mark Holsterman with 14.

The women's game was not as exciting with We Be Cool winning by forfeit over the Hotshots.

Everyone would like to give a special thanks to Truman Greene and Carl Brown for Officiating.

Intramural coed floor hockey has provided tough competition for all the teams involved. Some of the teams on top as of Wednesday, March 20 are; XA-A with three wins, Team Bud with three victories, Who's Back slating has four wins, and the LHU guns have 3 victories.

The single elimination water polo tournament is currently in its first round of play. Water polo is a coed sport that can be seen Monday through Thursday at 9 p.m.

Congratulations and good luck to these individuals who will represent our university.

Upcoming events include indoor soccer, tennis singles and doubles, and softball. The indoor soccer schedule will begin Monday, March 25 with a captains meeting in the Zimmerli lobby at 8 p.m. (that's for you Mike Kendall). Official play will begin on March 27.

UNLV Favored to win it all, again

By Rob Heller
Eagle Eye Sports Editor

It's spring again, and spring means different things to different people, but to this person it means basketball, college basketball and the NCAA Tournament.

MARCH MADNESS is here and in full effect! It all started a couple of weeks ago when the field of 64 teams was announced, and we are now down to the "Sweet Sixteen" (as of yesterday).

In case you have been in a coma over the past two weeks here is a wrap up of what you missed.

Penn State, yes Penn State, not only qualified for the tournament, but defeated the heavily favored UCLA Bruins in the first round, 74-69.

Also in the Eastern region the Richmond Spiders crawled all over the Orangeman of Syracuse, 73-69, for the biggest upset of the tournament. The first time ever in the history of the tournament has a number 15 seed defeated a number 2 seed.

Enough of this first round garbage, lets move on to the big games. Up until this point there have been a few upsets, but mostly everything has gone according to plan.

The "Sweet Sixteen" consists of all four number one seeds (North Carolina, Arkansas, UNLV, and Ohio State), three number 2 seeds (Indiana, Arizona, and Duke), and three number three seeds (Oklahoma State, Kansas, and Seton Hall).

Yes, sure all the regulars are back, Dean Smith and his Tar Heels for the 21st time in the last 25 years, including 11 in a row. Sure Coach K is here with his Blue Devils looking for another trip to the Final Four. But who are the other guys?

The other six teams are made up of three number four seeds (Alabama, Utah, and St. Johns), a tenth seed (Temple), an eleventh seed (Connecticut), and a twelfth seed (Eastern Michigan).

Those are the final sixteen teams that remain, shall we call them UNLV and the rest? Is the tournament that one-sided? I don't think so, Homey don't play that! Or at least Dean Smith, Randy Ayers, Nolan Richardson, and P.J. Carlesimo don't play that!

Look for UNC, UNLV, Arkansas, and St. Johns in the final four with UNLV going up against the Tar Heels in the final.

Earlier in the tourney UNC defeated Villanova 84-69. The last time they met in the tourney was '85 Nova' won, and won it all, in '82' Carolina won, and won it all, need I say more. UNC 94- UNLV 85. Remember, you heard it here first! MVP - George Lynch.

College at 1 p.m.

Men's Baseball Saturday and Sunday at the Shippensburg Tournament. Saturday versus Ship, Sunday against Slippery Rock.
