

Apollo Boys Choir to Perform In Auditorium on April 9

Artist Course Committee Has Arranged
For the Appearance of This Nationally
Famous Group on Our Campus

The famous Apollo Boys' Choir of Dallas, Texas, will appear in the College auditorium at eight-thirty o'clock on April ninth. This group of well-trained boys are taught at the Apollo Music School in Dallas, and the boys are young, with their voices still unchanged. Their arrival on our campus will be the highlight of our Artists' Course programs.

The performance will, of course, be free to college students. Tickets for townspeople will be sold at seventy-five cents plus tax, and are available from members of the Artists' Course Committee, and from Miss Ullemeyer. The committee includes Jane Plumpis, Helen Lawrence, Marian MacPhee, Marjorie Rathburn, and Robert Williams.

We are fortunate to have such an accomplished group on our campus. The young men will remain at the college as over-night guests. They

Five New Members Initiated by Naturalists

At the regular meeting of Naturalists, five new members were initiated: Carolyn Banghart, Mary Bossert, Frances Kilsdonk, Hope McCartney and Ruth Rolin.

If you have been wondering why the girls were wearing acorns and sprigs of evergreen and looking like beggars carrying those tin cups, you will find the explanation as one of the requirements for becoming a Naturalist; also, two trips to the Naturalist Cabin must be made.

The night of initiation, the incoming members were called upon to give a lecture on a bird and were cross-examined by the regular members. The formal part of the initiation was by candlelight in a very fitting background of an array of plants, stuffed birds, and various other objects which symbolized the ideals of Nature. The girls were heartily welcomed into the Club by the President, Janice Sackett and Miss Russell.

After the strain of initiation, everyone relaxed to enjoy Miss Russell's famous brownies served on a lovely wooden tray from California, and delicious punch. The new members were told that they were to be responsible for getting breakfast for the former members at the cabin in the very near future. It is needless to say that the Naturalists are looking forward to a grand time.

Dean's Honor List

At the end of first semester, the following Dean's Honor List was announced:

Class of '45

Davis, Edwina; Forsythe, Mrs. Adela L.; Rathburn, Marjorie; Smart, Emily.

Class of '47

Badick, Martha; Berger, Lois; Kratzer, Marian; Lawrence, Helen; Niemond, Miriam; Pier, Le June; Shope, William.

Class of '48

Johnson, Ethel; Shirey, Jean.

will also be guests at several meals including dinner.

The Artists' Course committee is to be congratulated for bringing such a climax to our year of programs. The members have worked hard and faithfully and deserve the thanks of the entire student body.

Former Editor Doing Graduate Work at State

Miss Margaret Madden, former editor of the Times left for Pennsylvania State College several weeks ago. On Friday, March 16, Miss Madden completed her art work with Miss Gardner of State. Miss Madden was not among the January graduates because she lacked two art credits.

With the completion of her art work, this former T.C. student began graduate work. She is anticipating a scholarship either this or next semester. At State, Miss Madden is acting as chaperon of an off-campus dormitory. We wish her all the luck in the world.

Boys in Service

George Ralston was seen on campus the first week in March, looking very smooth in a uniform, and beaming at all the old gang. He is home from Lehigh on extensive leave. . . . Rumors have it that he'll be back next week—military objective—Ginny Williams!

Frank Kamus and Marge Bossert made a happy couple during that furlough in February. Frank's new address is:

Hank has the latest word on Bob Weaver. Bob is at Keesler Field, Mississippi, with the Army Air Corps, awaiting classification.

Johnnie Ryan is in Mississippi, at basic engineering school. His new address is:

John M. Ryan F2-c

Gulfport, Miss.

The following letter was recently received from Pvt. G. M. Beals:

Monday Evening
March 13, 1945

Hello Josie and all the Gang,

I warn you before I start that I'm in a morbid mood and anything's liable to happen out of this pen I write.

The fact is, Easter's just ahead of us and too many people are getting the wrong attitude. You know, pals, it is hard to try to imagine Easter as Life and Resurrection when fellows are being trained to kill and destroy, but there's something much deeper than just that surface impression. True, fellows are, or will be, trained to destroy in this halo-caust which is just the opposite of the meaning and standards of life set down by that Man so long ago, and true, men and women today are thinking of the Easter at hand and are blue because things are as they are. Why, though, look at the pres-

Students to Be Examined at End Of Second Year

Comprehensive examinations will be given this spring for those students who are at the end of their sophomore year or who will be starting their junior year next fall. The exact dates and the list of students to take the examinations will be later posted by Mr. Sullivan, Dean of Instruction. The purposes of these exams are to see how our students compare with other students of other colleges in the basic subjects such as English, social sciences, general culture, contemporary affairs, and science; to guide properly students who are entering subject fields of specialization; and to assist in the general appraisal of students that are to remain in our institution. Dr. Parsons said that it is most important that the teacher-training institutions select wisely those who will later become teachers in our public schools. These comprehensives will assist the faculty in making decisions regarding those who are to teach. They are to be given over a period of two days. Students will be excused from classes which conflict with the examinations.

Colleges Will Not Close

From time to time, students have read articles in papers, showing controversy as to whether or not the State Teachers Colleges will be continued as a part of the public school system. In order to clear the situation, President Parsons states that there is little likelihood that any of the State Teachers Colleges will be discontinued. They seem to be in a more favorable position at present than they have been for a number of years. If any changes are made, they are likely to be for the better. In fact, the trend seems to be for the expansion of teachers colleges to include other fields of specialization in addition to teacher training. Students should not be confused by articles written by opponents of the expansion of free public education beyond high school.

Bel Cantos Sing At Assembly

On March 9, the Bel Cantos presented a music program, "Pennsylvania Music and Musicians," in the regular assembly program.

Rose Minnie Akeley reviewed the lives and compositions of famous musicians from Pennsylvania. After each comment the Bel Cantos sang selections from the musician's works. These included "Beautiful Dreamer," "Little Papoose," "We Did," "Chinese Lullaby," "The Little French Clock," and "The Sleigh."

Solos were sung by Marie Bulger, Josephine Lynn, Louise Clark, Tessie Bartges, Thelma Harvey, Peggy Swope and Hope McCartney.

Thelma Harvey and Jane Thomas sang a duet. A two-piano duet was played by Marjorie Rathburn and Gwendolyn Kephart.

The assembly on March 2 ended Religious Emphasis Week for this year. Mr. Shultz was the speaker, his topic being "Wake Up and Live." The scripture and prayer were read by Mr. William J. Shope. Music for the program was furnished by the Bel Cantos.

Nominations for President Of Student Council Total Five; Election After Easter

Candidates Nominated at March 16 Assembly
Hour; Campaign Speeches to Be Made Soon

In the regular assembly hour on Friday, March 16, nominations for president of the Student Cooperative Council were held. Bill Harbach, the present president of the Council, conducted the meeting, and the following five people were nominated: James Hartle, Martha Badick, Doris Greene, Margaret Swope, and Hope McCartney.

The names must be posted on the bulletin board for from five days to a week.

The candidates were told that they are to make campaign speeches at an assembly hour in the near future. In these speeches, the candidates outline their qualifications for the office, and endeavor to give the students some idea of the work they will do as president of the Student Council. All of the students nominated stand high in both academic achievement and general school spirit. They are all active in one or several other extra-curricular activities.

Some question rose at the assembly meeting about whether or not the president could work at Sylvania. According to the present rule this will not be possible since the Council meets at 7:30 o'clock, a time at which a good many students are working. Future developments, could, however, perhaps modify this rule.

Air Force Bulletin

HONDO ARMY AIR FIELD, HONDO, Tex.—The recent promotion of Edward L. Saiers to the rank of captain has been announced by officials at Hondo Army Air Field, Hondo, Tex., huge navigation airbase of the AAF Training Command, where the navigation officer is on duty.

Capt. Saiers, formerly of 125 N. Summitt, Lock Haven, Pa., and his wife and young son now make their home in Hondo, Tex., located near the big navigation airbase. He attended Lock Haven State Teachers College, 1937-41, where he received his B.S. degree in mathematics. Capt. Saiers received his navigation training and wings at Hondo Army Air Field, Dec. 17, 1942, and now after serving in the African and Italian theaters of operations is back at Hondo as an instructor. He wears the Air Medal and eight Oak Leaf Clusters.

YWCA Active

During the past few weeks the Y.W.C.A. has been busy with the Religious Emphasis program. Although that week is past, religion must and shall continue to play an important part in our lives.

On Wednesday night, March 13, at nine o'clock, the girls held a short worship service in the Y.W. room with Lois Berger in charge. The service included scripture reading, prayer, singing of hymns, and thoughts given for meditation.

Mrs. Ernest Thornton, an English lady living in Lock Haven, spoke to the girls on March 21, at seven o'clock. She discussed the religion and customs of the English people.

Hoe Downs Prove Very Successful

The "Hoe Down" has certainly made a great comeback at L. H. S. T. C., judging from the two that were held on February 24 and March 10, respectively. Both the students and faculty "allemanded" left and right all over the gym, and had a grand time doing it. Girls in dungarees and plaid shirts, and with their hair in pigtails, the fellows likewise, except, of course, for the pigtails, added color—if nothing else—to the old gym.

The first "Hoe Down" was sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA. While the orchestra had an intermission, a short program of entertainment was presented with James Hartle as Master of Ceremonies. Taking part in the program were Loretta Moran, Pat Bodle and Peggy Swope. Mr. Lehman, Mr. March, and Mr. Schrott. Doris Greene was in charge of refreshments for the evening.

The Social Committee made the arrangements for the second "Hoe Down" which was held in the same place, at the same time, two weeks later. Gwen Kephart was chairman of the refreshment committee and Marion MacPhee was Mistress of Ceremonies. Loretta Moran sang two popular song hits. Eddie Montarsi, a guest artist, sang and played some boogie woogie. Mr. Lehman and Pop Fleming sang a duet, as only they can sing. The Rippling Rhythm Sisters (Hope McCartney, Doris Greene and Tessie Bartges—all submerged) rippled a few numbers. To conclude the program of entertainment, Marion MacPhee took us on a tour of the Hollywood Canteen, but she couldn't fool us—we knew that she wasn't Kathryn Hepburn.

Nevertheless, a good time was had by all, and the members of the faculty and student body are looking forward to the next "Hoe Down." The Social Committee and the YMCA and the YWCA did a fine job. Our motto for the future is:

Don't slow down.
Let's have Another "Hoe Down."

English Club Held Thursday Evening

On Thursday evening, March 8, the English Club held its meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Nevel.

The program for the evening was in charge of the hostess, Eleanor Williams. The subject for discussion was "Southern European Short Stories." Short stories written by Southern Europeans were reported on by several members. Gwendolyn Kephart and Rose Minnie Akeley discussed "Reserve Coffin" and "The

HERMAN SPEAKS

You're all probably wondering who in the gold-plated blankety-blank-blank is Herman, or else you're overjoyed to think there's another man in this school. To put you straight, my friends, I'm the mechanized K.P. unit that carries on a clean-up campaign three times a day; I'm that chromium-plated (not gold) job full of soapsuds and rumbling, and splashing noises; I'm the long-suffering electric dishwasher that lets off steam (to good advantage) behind those swinging doors while you are merrily feeding your faces in the dining hall. I'll admit I'm a public servant, but in these days of labor unions and the rights of the common man, I feel that I've got a right to my rights. Right? You don't have to roll up your sleeves or start drying glasses, either. Just a little cooperation is all I ask.

If you're my friends, or even merely interested in me for mechanical or sanitary reasons, you won't want to gum up my works. You won't want to, but maybe you'll forget sometime and leave a precious little wad of Spearmint on your plate. The plate will slip unnoticed into a wooden tray and from there into the insides of me. The steam, soap, and boiling water in my interior will melt the little cud of gum until it is very gooey and sticky. You will admit that this is hard on the gum (rendering it unfit for further chewing), but it is even harder on the three girls who assist me in my work. In fact, they are definitely getting stuck up. The gum gets all over everything and then refuses to come off. Scouring powder, elbow grease, time, and patience are required for its removal. More fun.

And don't try to make excuses, either, girls. I don't want any of your lip — stick. Honestly, some days I think I'll burst a pipe trying to wash those greasy imprints off glasses, cups, and silverware. Some days I think the three girls will burst a blood vessel trying to scour it off by hand. Judging from conversations I happen to overhear occasionally, there is a better place for lip imprints than on dishes. Can't you save it until he comes home? The war won't last much longer.

Now statistics may bore you, but do you know that the American people waste 20% of all their food? Do you know that if each person had saved one-half ounce of butter a week, it would have been enough to supply our entire Army last year? Do you know that the garbage pail gets pretty heavy sometimes and there aren't any men around to help carry it out to empty it? Do you know that the girls pour more half glasses of milk down the drain? It's an udder waste. You're bright people, and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if you got the drift of this. "This is a watchbird watching a plate-cleaner. This is a watchbird watching you. Were you a plate-cleaner this month?"

Well, I've had my say and it's time I was shutting down. I hope all this didn't just go down the drain. Remember your old friend Herman when you're eating your meals tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow.

STUDENT COOPERATIVE COUNCIL?

"Please remember that the Student Cooperative Council meetings are held at 7:30 o'clock, and that this time is not going to be changed. Any student working at Sylvania and wishing to be on the Council will have to give up his job."

The above statement was quoted in the recent assembly program at which nominations for president of the Student Council were held. It throws no reflection on the person who said it, because she was merely quoting an existing part of the constitution. Why was such a statement necessary? America is a Democracy, and we try to run the student body in a democratic manner, in accord with all American principles and ideals. Then why base the election of a capable president of the Student Council on such a small element as time. In America, persons are no longer prohibited from voting because they cannot pay a poll tax, or because they do not own a property. Why should a student be prevented from participating in his own government simply because his parents cannot afford to pay his school expenses? At least half of the student body are prevented from holding a position on the student council because they are working. These students contribute half of the support of the Student Council—and the school, and yet they have very little active say in what is to be done with the money.

The national constitution has it, and I'm sure our constitution also does—the power of amending itself. The matter seems very simple to me. Amend the constitution so that one half the student body—the more academically capable half it has been proved, has a fighting chance to hold office in the Student Council. Surely that is the American way.

Sororities . . .

Pi Kappa Sigma

On Tuesday, March 6, the active and pledge members of Pi Kappa Sigma welcomed the new members. The new girls were pledged on March 13. They are: Gloria Bauman, Betty Long, Phyllis Brumbaugh, Lillian Conser, Peggy Swope, Jean Cummings, Nancy Zimmerman and Marletta Snyder.

On Wednesday, March 14, Pat Bodle and Frances Kilsdonk were initiated and after the initiation there was a party for both the actives and pledges.

Alpha Sigma Tau

On Sunday, March 4, three new members were initiated into the Alpha Sigma Tau Sorority. They are: Evelyn Ellzey, Catherine Kelley and Virginia Speaker. After the initiation, the ribbon pledging was held. The following girls were included: Jane Thomas, Betty Hanka, Grace Davis, Betty Sentelik, Beverly Walls, Charlene Solt, Caroline Diack, Josephine Lynn, Betty Lorigan and Barbara Coates. Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

On Sunday, March 18, the new members were pin-pledged. Following the ceremonies, the actives had a party for the pledges and presented them with gifts. The gift to each girl was a small photograph album with the sorority insignia.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

Five new members were pledged into Sigma Sigma Sigma on Sunday afternoon, March 18, with a very impressive ceremony. The pledges include: Carolyn Banghart, Mary Curran, Carol Roper, Myrtle Stabler and Betty Lou Thompson. After the pledging the active members held the election of officers for next year. They are: president, Sally Zubler; vice-president, Mary Drick; secretary, Fil Bonfillo; treasurer, Helen Lawrence. The new officers will be installed Thursday evening, March 23.

"Pick up for your eleven o'clock." "Before and after." "For that heavy eleven o'clock, pep up with Tri Sig coffee." "Help us to help you with Tri Sig coffee." These were some of the sayings on posters drawn for the Tri Sigma Soffee Hour. Last week, the Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority had been helping students and instructors to become perked up for their eleven o'clock classes by selling coffee and doughnuts in Social Square. The Tri Sigmas wish to thank the faculty and students for a very successful sale.

Musical Memos

Recent engagements have kept the Bel Canto Choral Club very busy during the past few weeks. The group entertained the Rotary luncheon members on February 28. This meeting of the Rotary Club was in celebration of the Fortieth Anniversary of the organization of the club.

During Religious Emphasis Week the Bel Cantos contributed various musical selections to the meetings.

On March 1, in the College Auditorium, the Bel Canto Club entertained the Lock Haven Music Club, with the musical theme centered about "Pennsylvania Music and Musicians." The same program was presented to the student body on March 9, during the regular assembly hour. Portions of the program were eliminated because time would not permit the presentation of the entire program.

The program in its entirety was as follows:

- I—The Star Spangled Banner.
- II—Pennsylvania Music and Musicians, Mrs. Rose Minnie Akeley.
- III—Stephen Collins Foster—Beautiful Dreamer, Ensemble; Uncle Ned, Some Folks Do, Jane Thomas, Thelma Harvey; I Dream of Jeannie, Louise Clark; Gentle Annie, Peggy Swope; Descant, Hope McCarthey.

VESPERS

The first vesper program for the new period was a song service in charge of Miriam Niemoind and Marian Kratzer. The following week a book review was given by Mrs. Sally Beck Rieker on the Jewish-American problem. This program was sponsored by the Pan-hellenic Council.

"Trumpets of the Dawn" was an inspiring talk given by Rev. Alfred J. Thomas of the Evangelical Church of Lock Haven, the next Sunday. This program was arranged by Audrey Neuhard. The third floor of the girls' dormitory had a program of poetry under the leadership of Edwinna Davis. A sportsmanship theme was contributed by the Women's Athletic Association with Jean Drye, Janice Sackett, Fil Bonfillo, Barbara Coates, Frances Kilsdonk, Marjorie Bossert, Mary Bossert and Betty Thompson participating.

A. C. E.

The members of the A.C.E. met in Miss Elizabeth Faddis' apartment Friday night, February 23, and spent their evening enjoying the comfort of easy chairs, magazines, popcorn and candy, games, and finally a taffy pull.

After having eaten that taffy, anyone could at least credit the A.C.E. with the ability to get taffy thick enough to pull. As to any difficulties encountered while making that taffy, please don't ask any questions. Everyone had fun making it and that is all that counts.

DRAMA CORNER

By JOSEPHINE PAVLOCK
 SPRAY ON THE PAINT

"Hold it! Hold it!" Poor Pop Nevel had himself a time the other night at the Staging Forum trying to control a large paint spray in the weak, lily-white hands of female members of the forum. That is, most of the girls were weak. Not so Sally Zubler. Jim Hartle almost got himself sprayed when he suggested that Sally had gained her experience on potato-bugs. After a while, Marty Badick got the hang of the thing, and she gave the finishing touches to the three flats the group was working on. Most of the girls tried a hand at it, however, so don't blame the looks of the set on Marty Badick, entirely.

The Costuming Forum was holding a meeting in the next room and when things got boring in there, the girls wandered in and mixed the paint a little. Marion Burkhardt chose a pair of Easter shoes from the ads in the newspapers that covered the floor. The highlight of the evening came when Kay Johnson slipped and fell in the paint. "It'll wash!" Everyone echoed the words that Kay had been saying all evening.

To get on to the more serious side of life, the large number that attended the forms proves that everyone knows about the changes in the time of the meeting. Just to put any Doubting Thomas straight—the Make-up Forum and the Lighting Forum will meet at eight o'clock, hereafter, and the Costuming and Staging Forums will meet at nine o'clock—on the dot. Be on time or honors will be deducted from your accumulation!

At the meeting directly before the one on March 19, pledging of the new members of Alpha Psi Omega was held. These members were Pat Bodle, Peggy Swope, Doris Greene, James Hartle and Kay Johnson. The whole club was present, and refreshments were served after the ceremonies.

The one-act plays that are to be given in the spring have been chosen and casts have been completed from the list of try-outs. All the members are a little curious about when rehearsals are going to start. Once they do, they will probably be intensive.

 ent? Why not think of the Easters and other great times to come when our mission is accomplished? Only by seeing the hope that lies beyond the tomorrows and by passing that hope and assurance on to your fighting men can you let them know that you know what the score is. They do! With this added assurance from you, they will go on and do the job ahead so that the Easters to come will be like the ones we like to recall to our minds.

We will now take up the collection!

You know, I wouldn't wish this army onto my best enemy. We fall in and fall out so darned much that we trip over our own feet going each way. And it gets so hot down here that we have to take our water canteens off our belts 'cause the water in them gets so hot it begins to boil and burns us. (Wow! Didn't think I had the nerve to write that!) While you watch the ice go out of the river and expect a flood, I swim and gingerly touch my sunburn. Oh, yes, that's what we do in those odd and few minutes when we're not hiking, camping, sweating, swearing, or doing K.P.

Enough trash for now, till I see you.

So long and have a good Easter.

Religious Week Very Successful

Religious Emphasis Week, which was held on our campus from February 27 to March 2, proved to be very successful. The theme of the programs "Wake Up and Live" was interesting and inspiring, and all the meetings lured large numbers of students.

The guest speakers included: Rev. J. Rester Schultz, Rev. Edwerth Korte, Mrs. Donald Carruthers, her daughter, Mrs. Robert J. Stickler, and Mrs. Robert H. Eads.

Counselors from the various churches of Lock Haven held conferences with the students of any particular religion.

The first meeting was held on Tuesday morning at ten o'clock. Doris Greene introduced the speakers for the week and Mr. Shultz spoke on "Christianity, and the World of Tomorrow." At nine o'clock that night, Hope McCartney presided over a meeting in the auditorium at which Mrs. Carruthers discussed "A Great Time to Be Alive," a talk which made us realize what a truly marvelous age this is.

At ten o'clock on Tuesday evening in the Social Room Mr. Korte spoke with wisdom and sincerity on "The Christian Approach to Marriage."

On Wednesday evening, Tessie Bartges presided over the meeting and Mr. Shultz spoke on "Contemporary Obligations." After this the girls were entertained in the YWCA room by Mrs. Carruthers, Mrs. Stickler, and Mrs. Eads. An informal discussion on "Popularity" was enjoyed by everyone.

A panel discussion was the program for Thursday night. "Preparation Today for the Life of Tomorrow" was discussed by most of the guest speakers.

The program of the week closed at assembly on Friday morning. The Bel Cantos added beauty to the service with a few devotional selections. Mr. Shultz told us of the friends he had made here and of how we, as young people, would ever remind him of the work he is doing in helping youth prepare itself spiritually for the future.

LOOK HOW POPULAR HELEN IS. SHE USED TO BE SUCH A WALL-FLOWER BEFORE SHE JOINED THE WAVES

Everybody likes these poised, smart, trim-looking young women who have gone "all-out" for Victory.

WHY DID YOU INSIST ON WALKING TO THE MOVIES? 'CAUSE I'M PROUD TO WALK WITH YOU, SPECIALLY WHEN YOU GET SALUTED.

The WAVES need thousands more young women, between 20-36 for interesting, well-paying, war-winning work.

Your Last Chance

By MARIAN KRATZER

This is the beginning of the last quarter of this school year. That means there are only nine more weeks left for you to read those novels that your heart has been set on. Besides all the other best-sellers already in the lending library, seven new books have been added.

Black Boy is the exciting story of a Negro child growing up in the South. It is the moving and terrible story of Richard Wright's childhood and tells of his struggles with hopelessness, fear, poverty and his eventual triumph. It will challenge your thinking, and help you to understand better some of America's problems.

Yoman's Hospital takes us to London Hospital for its setting. The heroine is a young woman doctor who is desperately in love. This book takes you inside the walls of the institution, and lets you live for a while, sharing the diverse human personalities found there. The author is Helen Ashton. The book is excellent for reading aloud.

Here's another novel about the war. "Apartment in Athens," says Clifton Fadiman, "is the first considerable American work of art to come out of the war." Although the setting is Greece, it could have taken place in almost any European country. Learning to understand the German people is the theme of this best-seller by Glenway Westcott.

And now to something of another sort. Sumner Welles and his collaborators have given us the basic facts on which our ideologies of foreign policy should be based. An Intelligent American's Guide to the Peace gives in condensed form the essential facts of geography, economy, and history for every important country in the world. The aim of the book is to help American citizens to understand better our foreign relations.

Stanley Vestal has told the story of the Missouri River in a way that gives it personality. He does not neglect the people whose lives were influenced by the Missouri. The author is famous for his historical works on the Old West.

To the religious shelf has been added The New Testament in English. This is a Catholic translation of the Vulgate. It is written with clarity and is supplemented with footnotes. Since the author, Ronald A. Knox, has written in the vernacular, it is particularly helpful to the common reader.

The Lending Library appreciates the excellent patronage of the past few months. However, matters would be a lot easier for the book-keeper if students returned books promptly. Promptness would help your pocket book and give others a chance at the books.

Campus Chatter

By LOIS O'NEILL

Dope from Diz

By GUESTWRITER
HAL ZEIDERS

Joe Bernas got me into this so blame it on him.

Lois O'Neill copies Hedda Hopper's style, so why can't I?

Frank Yon is here on his weekly visit. Right now he's trying to sell Hartle a stamp for ten cents. He just bought it from me for three cents.

Bernas is studying, for a change. Bill Royer has his book open, but that's as far as it goes. His mind operates on only one subject.

Jim Cooklis is singing his own arrangement of "Don't Fence Me In." He wakes us up every morning with the "Trolley Song."

Dietz just came in looking for a match. Jan must have swiped another cigarette for him. Uh, oh, my mistake. He got it from Dot Hollenbach. I hear that's how she keeps Dietz around.

Bob Currin is pestering me, as usual. Life would be dull without him. Who would keep me up all night, and then drag me out of bed in the morning?

It is now time for Rev. Mr. Bernas, and Father James Hartle to have their evening service. It is an elaborate set-up. Pin-up girls all over the wall, with an altar on the window-sill. Oh, yes, Bill Royer is the altar boy. He lights the candles and blows them out. Bernas got his glasses back, so tonight he's leading the prayers. He will when he quits looking at the pin-ups, I mean.

Bill Brown seems on the fickle side. Between listening to his stories about girls, and his double-talk, the "dorm" is going crazy. Ask Bartges about the wrestling match he had with himself. It seems Bill's double-talk had him mixed up.

Every Sunday Steve gets two desserts. It seems the one comes with "compliments of Grace." That's probably the reason Steve never gripes about the food.

Just a minute, Volansky wants a nickle to call "DeDe." What's the matter, George? Don't you talk when you go out with her?

Here comes "Straight A" Wyland again. He wants to be "Straight A" with women now. All he ever talks about is girls. Silly boy. Some girls called him cute, and he just can't get over it.

For the sake of his marks, Paul Ballock had better start settling his own troubles. Dr. North doesn't like getting out of bed at 12:30 in the morning.

Rev. Stonge is a new member of the boys' dorm. At last we have a gentleman in the dormitory. The boys gave him a room far down the hall. Could it be they consider us a bad influence?

Coach Jack is now a happy man. Formula: One room next to his minus Joe Bernas equals much sleep. I forgot to mention that Frank Yon and Bill Royer used to serenade Joe at all hours of the morning. One night six beds accumulated in that room. P.S. Coach Jack looked very sleepy the next morning.

Just had a hot rumor. John Solensky is trying to cut in on Bill Royer. We wonder, does he woo Helen with his polkas and cowboy records?

We all say good-bye to Frank Lingenfelter, and wish him the best of luck.
