Philharmonic Couldn't Keep It Together

by Rob Singer

Continuing the Lock Haven Artist Series, March 25, was the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Thomas Briccetti. It was the first appearance of any major orchestra in Lock Haven for at least two years, but was not representative of the quality of major American orchestras.

Actually, the Rochester is made up of excellent musicians, but throughout the concert they had trouble, not in "getting it together," but in keeping it together. Little things would pop up here and there which would detract from the various performances.

The program opened with a reading of Rimsky-Korsakov's Russian Easter Overture. Some credit must be given to the group: it is a difficult overture to play. However, coordination problems were exhibited throughout the work: muddy precision here, lack of agreement there. The entire performance tended to lack something—most likely guts to the string section, which did not produce enough in the louder sections but came through excellently in the softer passages. It should be noted here that the soloists handled their parts well.

The next number was Shostakovich's Symphony No. 1, Op. 10. In terms of performance, this was probably the best work on the program. The ensemble responded very well to all the embellishments and other assorted tricky passages. It was typical Shostakovich and typical contemporary music.

Opening the second half were the Overture and Scherzo from Mendelssohn's A Midsummer Night's Dream, Op. 21. This was the oldest piece on schedule, and produced the most enjoyment by the audience, since it was a breather from the more modern fire. The playing here was adequate also, but using only two excerpts of the major work left the second half a bit shorter and ended up closing out the performance with a quiet ending—something the audience was not prepared for.

Debussy's La Mer, slightly overworked this season in other musical circles, served as the finale. Here again, more contemporary music left the listener somewhat high and dry, although the production was credible. However, perhaps it was not as good as it could have been, due to minor intonation problems that had not been ironed out.

After the end of the program, the orchestra played Dvorak's Slavonic Dance in C, which ironically enough was the best job done, drew the best response and was the most indicative of the expertise of the individuals making up the organization.

Nat'l Eco Spells Trouble

The direction of the national economy may well have a rather serious impact on the educational spending patterns of students at Lock Haven State.

School officials predict that Lock Haven students will face the highest costs in the history of the College with an estimated budget for 1973-74 of $2,000 for tuition, fees, room, board, activity fee and personal expenses. In addition, students might also be confronted with an increase in tuition which the College administration, Board of Trustees and student government have all officially taken a position as opposing.

Baroque Art Is Film Subject

"Grandeur and Obedience" is the title of the seventh and the last in this series of CIVILIZATION films. This film is being shown in Ulmer Planetarium at Lock Haven State College on Sunday, April 1, at 3 p.m. without admission charge.

This film deals with art and architecture of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, a style called Baroque, which is characterized by both swirling movement and classical control. It is a style which began with Leonardo da Vinci and Michelangelo and found outstanding expression in the architecture of St. Peter's Cathedral and the work of Palladio. This style influenced Inigo Jones and Thomas Jefferson. In painting, it is expressed in the work of Caravaggio, Rubens and Poussin. Like the other films in this series, it provides for the eye and ear.

To lend interesting dimensions to the film, Mr. Robert Perry, associate professor of English at the College, and a specialist in world drama and Renaissance literature will introduce it.

The series is brought to Lock Haven by special arrangement of the Division of Humanities and Department of Learning Resources with the National Gallery of Art. The remaining six films will be shown in the fall.

The show is being sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega with $1.00 contribution admission charge. All proceeds are to go to the United Fund.

Second Set Of One - Acts Staged Tonight

The second in a series of one-act plays to be produced by Dr. Gary's Directing class will be presented Thursday, March 29, at 8:15 p.m. in Price Auditorium. The plays are "The Lover" by Harold Pinter, and "Bringing It All Back Home" by Terrence McNally. No admission fee will be charged.

John Peregrin is the director as well as the lead actor of "The Lover", by Pinter. Pinter is one of the better known absurdist playwrights. The cast also includes Chris Salidis and Gary Mazza.

Ben Aptaker will be directing "Bringing It All Back Home". The playwright Terrence McNally, is a highly acclaimed young writer, whose other plays include "Noon", and "Next," which along with Elaine May's "Adaptation" was chosen as a best play of 1969. The play to be presented is a stylized black comedy, and the cast includes Richard Wagner, Lesley Madison, Nancy Wiener, Kim Coon, Tim Burgess, and Patty Speth.

The lighting for both plays was done by Mark Manahan.

To the Editor:

To the students, faculty and administration:

I have a few pertinent questions which I would like every member of the college community to consider for the next few weeks. But first, let's clear up the confusion concerning the tuition increase—there are no more ifs, ands or buts about it. It's in the governor's budget, and it's going to stay there unless something is done.

To the students: If the tuition is raised, what sort of financial hardship will you be burdened with to attend college next fall? Better yet, will you be able to attend college next fall?

To the faculty: Since this whole thing is rightfully or wrongfully being blamed on you, if enrollment does drop, how is that going to effect your curriculum?

To the administration: If enrollment drops, the dorms won't be filled and institutional funding will drop, which means some programs will have to cut back (or may be eliminated). Who's going to go first?

For the students the problem is far more serious. Along with the freeze in the college budget, there is probably going to be a freeze in PHEAA scholarships. By fall, 1973, the Federal Equal Opportunity Grants and National Defense Student Loan Programs will be phased out and replaced by the Basic Opportunity Grant Program. Every student in higher education is eligible for this money. Do you know what that means? On both the state and federal levels the same circumstances exist. The same amount of money is available, but divide that by the increase in students eligible and you have less money per student. Increased tuition—decreased scholarship, does anyone still think that scholarship is going to absorb the increase?

I guess that pinpoints the problem. At least one thing is "perfectly clear"; everyone will be effected, directly or indirectly, especially the students. What can be done? Certainly, sitting around and worrying about it won't help; there is still a chance that we can stop it. All you have to do is write a letter, or get a friend to write one. Better yet, ask your parents to write one, too. If you need some help, the SCC is going to help you help yourself. If you need envelopes, paper or information, we will supply it. If you want to know who to write it to, we can tell you your legislator's name and address. In fact, if you bring us a copy of your letter, we will give you a stamp.

Lastly, think about it this way—if you can find just one hour to write a letter now, you may save 40 hours in summer employment to make up the additional cost in your education.

Respectfully,
J. Douglas Dows
President, Student Cooperative Council, Inc.

One Week Not Enough ?

To the Editor:

We are being made aware of a National Boycott of meat to take place April 1st and to last until April 8th. If anyone truly believes that a one-week boycott will help to drop meat prices, he is naive.

I was discussing the boycott with a grocer-friend of mine. He claims that the boycott will not work (although he is in favor of any action to bring meat prices down). He tells me that would-be boycotters are preparing for the coming action by purchasing large freezer-pieces, often entire sides of beef. This is not helping the cause at all.

If it were the grocers we wanted to hurt, this might do it. But a grocer's profits are rarely much more than one or two per cent on meat. The people we want to hurt are the beef growers. They don't care about the time or quantities.

Since many people are stocking up for the boycott one week of boycott will not be enough. I believe that this boycott should last for at least thirty days, preferably until the prices drop considerably. Anyone who has further evidence supporting or opposing my ideas should write a letter to the editor of the Eagle Eye.

Dolan Not Making Any Early Predictions

After a 1-6 record last year, head Coach Jim Dolan isn't making any pre-season predictions for track at Lock Haven State this season. The young Bald Eagles, however, could surprise some opponents before the rebuilding season is completed, Coach Dolan feels.

The Eagles will open at home on April 4 at 3 p.m. hosting Juniata College. Then on April 7, they face powerful Millersville State, also on the home track.

For the first time Lock Haven will host the annual Pennsylvania Conference Track and Field Championships on May 11-12 at the new Hubert Jack Stadium.

Commenting on the upcoming season Coach Dolan said: "We lost some fine performers by graduation including three-time All-American Steve Podgajny. However, two outstanding individuals returning who we're counting on to rank high in the conference this year are Wayne Covington, defending conference high hurdles champion, and Mike Gaige in the one mile event.

"Another strong performer back for us is senior Bill McNelis who should score a lot of points during the season in four field events.

"We'll be going with a lot of freshmen who hopefully can give us some much needed depth for the season. I was very pleased with the performances of several freshmen during the indoor campaign.

A tentative lineup for the home opener lists 11 lettermen but also includes 17 freshmen.

Competing in the sprints would be three freshmen, Jerome Conlon, Leo Monteforte, and Mike Iannetta. In the 440 and 880: lettermen Tom Rowan, Tom Bush, George Bower, and Hal Fried plus freshman Barry Yoder.

Top contenders for the mile, 3-mile and 6-mile are Gaige, two lettermen, Bill Landis and Larry Wise and newcomers Dennis Harman and Eric Burkert.

In the field events two freshmen, Dave Sheen and Bill Sterner at shotput; discus, two more frosh, Tom Burns and Laird Schafer and junior Bill Ambrose.

For the 120 high hurdles and 440 intermediate hurdles will be two veterans Covington and Jack Weaver, a junior.

In the javelin the Eagles should be strong with veterans Terry Mantle, McNelis, and last year's PIAA State runnerup Les Probst, a freshman from Lock Haven.

Another fine returning letterman Randy Kress and Tom Schrader are set for the pole vault. Kress holds the LHS school record for this event.

Top candidates for the high jump, triple jump, and long jump are McNelis, Weaver, Monteforte, and Burns.

Linksmen

Tee Off

April 6

The Lock Haven State golf team opens the 1973 season at Juniata College on April 6 at 1 p.m. The linksmen of Coach Stan Daley face a tough 11-match schedule this year.

The first home match at the Belles Springs course is slated for April 12 with the Eagles hosting a strong York College club at 1 p.m.

This will mark the fourth year for intercollegiate golf at LHS and this could be the season for that first victory in the sport.

Coach Stan Daley, starting his third year at the helm, feels this should be the best team in the short history of the sport at LHS.

Four regulars return from the 1972 team. Heading the list is Bob Butz, who averaged 84.3 last year. Also back is sophomore Dave Williams of Mackeyville (87.5); Ron Fuller (88) and Don Vance (92). Another letter winner returning is John Wilt. Williams was the top medalist of the season with a 79 in a triangular match with Clarion State and the University of Pittsburgh.

Several newcomers have looked good in early practice and Coach Daley says the veterans will have to work hard to retain a regular berth.

Netters Facing '73 Season With Only Two Lettermen

Only two lettermen will be in the lineup when the Lock Haven State tennis team opens the 1973 season traveling to Bloomsburg State on April 4 for a 2 p.m. match with the arch-rival Huskies.

Bald Eagle head coach Karl Herrmann lost through graduation, four three-year regulars off last year's team that posted a fine 6-3 record. This was the best mark since the sport was resumed at LHS eight years ago.

Returning for another season of action are regulars Ken Gibson and Scott Kaercher, and with some varsity experience Bill Lentz. All three are graduates of Lock Haven High School.

Gibson, a sophomore who has looked terrific in pre-season drills, will move to the No. 1 position after a fine freshman season of 6-3 at No. 2.

Junior Kaercher reached the Pennsylvania Conference finals at No. 6 last spring and posted a great 7-2 season mark. He will move to the No. 3 spot. Lentz, a senior, is slated for the fifth singles position.

The three newcomers to the lineup will probably be at No. 2, freshman Craig Shindler; No. 4 senior Tom Bowen and at No. 6, Chip Snare a sophomore in his first year of tennis competition but a tremendous natural athlete according to Coach Herrmann.

Also fighting for a varsity berth are two sophomores Lennie Long, John Dick and junior Ron Bolton.

coach Miss Sharon Taylor, former outstanding LHS athlete, returning to her alma mater after five years of coaching at Susquehanna University.

Among those battling for a varsity position are four members of last year's junior varsity squad, Toni Littleton, Marcia Kicher, Carroll Rhodes and Gale Franck.

Other contenders for the team are juniors Doris Bush, Fran Luft and Georgia Olson and five freshmen newcomers led by promising Linda Stout; Cheryl Prosser, Pat Lopasky, Candy Jones and Renee Perry.

Taylor Comes to Helm

Four 1972 letter winners will lead the Lock Haven State women's tennis team against Gettysburg College in the season opener at home on April 11 at 3 p.m.

Back for another year on the courts are returning singles regulars Vivian Murphy, No. 2 last season, and Pat Brunner, who compiled a brilliant 5-1 record at the No. 3 position. Also back are a veteran No. 1 doubles duo of Kelly Cromer and Jeri Johnson, coming off a fine 1972 season of 4-1.

At the helm for the Eagles this year is new head

Spotlight: Oberheim Dedicated to Baseball, Pirates

The Eagle's primary long-ball threat the past three years, and returning for a fourth, is outfielder Ray Oberheim.

Ray, who wears number 21 because his hero was always Roberto Clemente, is a big Pirate fan whose childhood dream was always to play for Pittsburgh.

When asked whether that dream was still his ambition, he answered, "I'd play for whoever took me, even if I had to pay them, all the guys on our team would. You've got to love baseball a lot to be still playing it yet in college."

Ray comes from an athletic family, as do most of the other ballplayers. His father, also named Ray, and his Uncle Horace were both good football players at Lock Haven High School during the late 30's. Ray Senior then went on to become an exceptional football and baseball player here at Lock Haven State. Those were the days of leather football helmets and paper-thin shoulder pads.

Ray Junior's biggest baseball thrill came at Bloomsburg two seasons ago. He boomed a three-run homer in the first inning and then a grand-slammer in the second inning. Surely it was a once-in-a-lifetime type feat.

His biggest disappointment came at East Stroudsburg just last season. As he himself describes it:

"We needed a double-header sweep over East Stroudsburg to make the conference playoffs. Since the Warriors had only an average team, we had a good shot at taking them. But because of a heavy downpour the night before, their field was unplayable and the two high school fields in town, where we could have then played, were already being used. Since it was the last day to qualify for the playoffs, we got shutout and Edinboro, the team we would've beaten-out with a sweep, went and eventually won the conference playoffs."

Like the rest of the Eagles, Ray wants to atone for that and many of the other past disappointments this season.

"All the heartaches of past seasons will be forgotten if we can just put-it-together this year. We've got a bundle of veteran seniors who'll have something to tell their grandchildren, if we can only, this season, leave college in style," he stressed. Ray is one of 11 experienced seniors with their sights set on a conference championship.

"It's like Coach Eberle has said, " Ray commented, "If we don't do it this year, we never will."

The average Navy Pilot isn't.

No man who has mastered the flying skills it takes to fly and land on a ship at sea can be called an average pilot. And the sense of accomplishment and satisfaction that he enjoys are also above average. Which is only right. For the man who would go places as a Naval Aviator must pass through the most challenging and demanding training program to be found anywhere.

From Aviation Officer Candidate School through Flight Training to the day his golden Navy Wings are awarded, he is tested; driven; pushed and tested again. And for good reason. The Navy has learned that without the will to succeed, no man can be successful.

The benefits aren't average either. A Naval Aviator can earn up to $10,000 upon completion of flight school. The pay after three years is up to $14,500. There is also a program for obtaining a masters degree at no cost. The Navy gives its Aviators the best.

Which brings us to you. Do you have what it takes to fly Navy? Send in this coupon and find out. Or talk with your local Navy recruiter.

Gentlemen:

I like it. Please send more information on what it takes to be a Naval Aviator.

Tuition Increase, Scholarship Decreases Could Spell Financial Trouble For Many Lock Haven Students

This problem is further complicated by the general confusion that surrounds the financial aid picture. Lock Haven's total financial aid for its students during the current academic year will exceed 1.7 million dollars. This healthy sum includes various forms of loans, scholarships, grants and employment from both federal and state financial aid programs.

In the past, needy students qualified for financial aid by submitting a Parents' Confidential Statement (PCS) and an application for a state scholarship. However, both the availability of funds and the manner of application will change.

The Guaranteed Loan Program (GLP), which, for hundreds of LHS, students has been a ready source of financial aid, will now require a loan amount recommended by the Director of Financial Aid. In the past, students have been permitted to borrow up to $1500 annually without a need analysis of the ability of their parents to contribute to their educational expenses.

CUT EXPECTED

During the 1972-73 academic year it is anticipated that approximately 500 Lock Haven students will borrow over $550,000 to pay for educational expenses. Fran Cornelius, Director of Financial Aid at LHS, has predicted that the change in the manner of requesting a loan will reduce the total amount available to students next year by approximately $200,000. The loan amount recommendation by the Director of Financial Aid is a new provision of the program as established by the federal government. The interest on the loan is paid by the federal government until the student leaves Lock Haven at which time the student assumes responsibility for the loan at a 7% interest rate. The Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) guarantees the loan to the lender as a means of further assistance.

On the federal level the biggest news is related to the President's budget proposal. It features the elimination of two long standing programs of student financial aid-The National Defense Student Loan and the Educational Opportunity Grant. In place of these two programs would be a Basic Opportunity Grant (BOG) for all students. The BOG would be an amount not to exceed one-half the educational costs with further adjustments based on parents' contribution. This program means still another application, need analysis, award system, etc.

DIRECTORS DISPLEASED

Financial Aid Directors are particularly displeased with the proposed discontinuation of the NDSL and EOG programs. Both of these federal aid programs have been a part of the financial aid picture for more than ten years. Since the inception of the National Defense Student Loan program, students at LHS have borrowed approximately 1.2 million dollars. The NDSL program for the present academic year will approach $135,000 in loans to students at the college. The President's budget proposal, which does not request funding for either NDSL or EOG, actually circumvents the existing law which requires NDSL and EOG to be funded prior to any new programs.

Work-Study (WS), another federal aid program for students, provides employment opportunities for students both on-campus and at state agencies while living at home during the summers. It too appears to be in serious jeopardy in spite of a funding proposal in the President's budget which is approximately the same as the current fiscal year.

STUDENTS WILL BE HURT

The secret in this case is that some 500 new institutions are now eligible for WS funding, and preliminary requests by participating colleges and universities is some 25% above last year's requests.

Lock Haven will utilize $151,000 in WS funds this year on various student employment programs. Any decrease in fiscal year '74 funding coupled with an already reduced state budget will seriously hamper the opportunity for students to earn a portion of their college expenses.

Although it is expected that the President's budget proposal will preside, the resulting program of student financial aid will most certainly reflect a cutback in federal spending. On the local front, Lock Haven State students can expect increased confusion, a greater demand to prove their eligibility for financial aid, less money in fewer financial aid programs and a general uncertainty as to the source of funds to pay for their college education.

APSCUF/PAHE Opposes Tuition Hike

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the membership of the Lock Haven State College Chapter of the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties and the Pennsylvania Association for Higher Education (APSCUF/PAHE) at a chapter meeting held on March 15, 1973:

"Be it resolved that the Lock Haven State College Chapter of APSCUF/PAHE is unalterably opposed to the proposed Governor's budget for the fiscal year 1974 as it applies to the State Owned Colleges and University. APSCUF/PAHE feels that the proposed budget and its implications for program retrenchment, restrictions on admissions and tuition increases runs completely counter to the traditions and philosophy of public higher education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Furthermore, we feel that placing the blame for the fiscal crisis on the recent faculty contract is dangerous, divisive and will do great harm to the educational process. Faculty contract negotiations conducted last year with the Governor's Office proceeded under the mutual understanding that the funding of increases would represent new appropriations for the colleges, not constricting of existing programs. We call upon the members of the State Legislature and particularly local representatives to the legislature to assert their opposition to this regressive direction by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."
