International students to tell of life in their countries

By Jennifer Brady
Staff Reporter

Four female international students will be presenting an informal discussion on the native customs, lifestyles and foods of their countries this Thursday in the coffeehouse of the PUB.

"In the process of telling the audience about the women's political situation in our country, we'll be telling them about our country as a whole," said Eva Sindiyu, a sophomore majoring in special education (representing Kenya).

Sindiyu added that she hopes to make students aware of the progress women have made in her country.

Margaret Egbe, a chemistry major from Cameroon who will be graduating this May, said, "I want the students to know the economic and political roles of women in our countries, as compared to women in the U.S."

Two other students, Angela Hansen, an international studies major from the Federal Republic of Germany, and Barbara Ruetschi, a theater major from Switzerland, will also participate in the presentation.

Hansen said that she will also speak on women's roles and some of the general attitudes toward women.

The presentation, which starts at 7:30 p.m., is sponsored by the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

LHU's Assistant Director of Admissions Elizabeth Thomas is the International Representative and a board member of the AAUW.

Thomas said, "Everybody's very excited about the program, and we're looking to see members from the campus community there."

Thomas added that after each of the women give a brief presentation, a question and answer session will be held.

The members of the association, composed of women professionals from the community and campus, have decided to open the event to the entire campus.

Viral infections at LHU are up from last year

By Janet Alrgood
Staff Reporter

Viral infections are at a higher level this year compared to last, according to Dr. Thomas Rodgers of the Glennon Infirmary.

Rodgers reported that the infirmary is averaging about 200 new cold cases a week.

The basic symptoms of the virus is respiratory problems, he said.

Rodgers added that students are complaining of sore throats, ear infections and persistent coughs.

The infirmary is treating the virus with Robitussin DM, Sudafed, Actifed, Tylenol and throat lozenges.

Rodgers commented that it is not yet in epidemic proportion.

Mononucleosis is also spreading around the campus of LHU, he added.

The infirmary reports the reason for it being so prevalent on college campuses is the day to day close contact and the young age of the average college student.

U2 and Huey Lewis to have showdown . . .

Airband winner decided tonight

By Michael Dally
Staff Reporter

Two groups of LHU students portraying J2 and Huey Lewis and the News, are scheduled to battle it out for the tie-breaking win tonight at 8 p.m. in Price Auditorium at the Air Band Run-off competition.

Two weeks ago, these two groups tied for first place at the original air band competition. In order for a group from LHU to be eligible for the MTV finals, one air band must prevail.

U2 will be portrayed by an air band composed of Brian Wagenbach as Bono Vox, Tom Shay playing lead guitar as The Edge, Don Nordstrom on drums as Larry Mullen and Steve Griffith as Adam Clayton, the bass guitarist.

The songs by U2 used for the performance will most likely be "Sunday Bloody Sunday," "I Will Follow" and "Electric Co."

"If any U2 fans would happen to watch us, Tuesday night, they could see that we parallel them in many ways, like the flag, the dress, the hairstyles and the choreography," said Shay.

"We want more people to turn out," said Shay. "It's for a great cause...for a great band!"

Three songs by Huey Lewis and the News will be "performed" tonight by an airband representing Alpha Sigma Phi.

The group is comprised of Dave Ashenfelter as Huey Lewis, Mike Moyer as the lead guitarist, Walt Kramer as the drummer, Rich Johnson playing bass, Jim Hashimoto on guitar and saxophone and Brian Cielinski playing keyboards.

The songs tentatively scheduled by the Alpha Sigma Phi group are: "Workin' for a Livin'," "Hip to be Square" and the live version of "Jacob's Ladder," which must all be convincingly choreographed and lip-synched to the music.

"You actually have to know everything about the songs," explained Moyer. "It's the toughest thing for the drummer because he's got to know where every beat is."

Moyer said his group is really psyched up, and that they've turned to video tapes of Huey Lewis and the News for added authenticity to their performance.

"We've been watching videos of the songs on tape as much as possible," said Moyer. "It helps, especially on 'Jacob's Ladder' because that was a live performance (video)."

All profits go to SAMS, Students Against Multiple Sclerosis.

The admission cost is $1, and the audience will be able to vote for the air bands by filling out a ballot at the end of the show.

Admission and the ballot is free to those students wearing a SAMS sweatshirt, which can be purchased from any RHA representative for $15.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I read with interest IS DRUG TESTING THE ANSWERS? in the February 13, 1987 Eagle Eye. I am writing this letter in an effort to clarify the place of steroids in sports. In fact, there is little evidence to support such a practice. Steroids is a broad classification of organic compounds having a common organic nucleus. The androgenic steroids, identified in drug testing, have no place in sports even though they are promoted as builders of muscle and strength. The corticosteroids are promoted for their ability to decrease inflammation associated with injuries to joints, muscles and tendons. Clearly, Brian Bosworth's claim that he "took the drug for an injury" is a case of confusing his steroids. The serious harmful effects of androgenic steroid use are well documented in the lay press.

Drug testing has evolved because of the use in sports, of performance enhancing substances in deference to the use of therapeutic drugs including corticosteroids in a sports medicine environment. The use of recreational drugs has made a tragic scar on our society. Blood doping by our Olympic cyclist is an extreme example of the world class athlete attempting to get the competitive edge. Unfortunately the attitude of these heroes filters to all levels of competition. We seem to lose sight of our purpose for playing the game. The governing bodies are forced into drug testing in an effort to maintain parity in athletic competition, not to change the Bosworth attitude of self-abuse and the search for the "final ingredient which will make them a success." The list of fallen stars enlarges daily through use of performance enhancing drugs by our athletic community. Only success realized by the suppliers is testimony to a misguided and misinformed athlete and his competitive attitude.

Sincerely,

Larry H. Lytle, M.D., F.A.C.S.
Team Physician, Lock Haven University

Dear Editor,

In Tuesday February 24th's Eagle Eye, reporter Mike Leavy did a fine article on the recent Council of Trustees meeting. However, I feel it necessary to clarify one statement made concerning the new Director of the SCC. That statement was that the director "will be working under the direction of Willis." This is true only to the extent that everyone on our campus works under the direction of Dr. Willis. I wanted to clarify this so that no student feels that the SCC is losing its independence or autonomy.

Allow me to explain. In the past the SCC has always had a full time director who was responsible to the SCC Executive Committee and the Student Senate. This individual's salary was paid entirely by the SCC and they could be fired at anytime with approval of the Senate. The position provided "no" job security for the person holding it. (In fact the average stay of any SCC Director in the past 15 years is under three years).

What has been agreed upon by the SCC and the University Administration (which was approved by the Senate) is a plan that will provide any future SCC Director, job security. This will be accomplished by the person being put on the state payroll but being paid by the SCC and the University. The individual's responsibilities and job description will not change. Nothing has changed except that the director's salary will come from two sources instead of one. This will not only allow the SCC to attract more qualified candidates to the directorship, but will also provide job security, more cooperation between the University and the SCC, and free up funds that can be directly put into student activities.

Two of the strengths of the student government at Lock Haven have always been autonomy and independence. This has not and will not change. The SCC has always been an organization of students, for students and by students.

Sincerely,

Kevin M. McNamara, President
Student Cooperative Council, Inc.

Women hoopers lose state finals; receive ECAC bid

By Chris Kardoley
Sports Reporter

Despite losing to the Lady Marauders of Millersville University in the PSAC championship game on Saturday, the Lady Eagles earned a bid to the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Division II playoffs.

The Lady Eagle's ECAC challenge will begin when they play at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, MD, this weekend. The ECAC committee has yet to decide on an opponent for the Lady Eagles.

"I can't imagine us being ranked high in the tournament, knowing that we were sourly defeated previously by Navy," said senior tri-captain Lori Young.

Last Saturday the Lady Eagles went to the wire with Millersville, only to lose the PSAC championship 56-55.

After leading at the half 27-25, the Lady Eagles soared to a 35-27 lead with 3:14 gone from the second half clock.

Outscoring the Haven 10-2, Millersville battled back to 39-37 at 5:38.

With 2:50 left on the clock, LHU's Maryellen Jaskuta fouled Kathy Howell sending her to the line. By making her two foul shots, she tied the game at 52-52.

Millersville took their first lead of the second half at 54-52 with 1:50 left in the game.

The Lady Eagles tied the game up at 54-54 with 1:27 left when Donna Sergi hit from the outside.

Striking back, Millersville's Jill Zuber hit a jump shot from the top of the key to take the lead 56-54.

Lock Haven had a chance to tie the game with 11 seconds left, but Young hit only one of two free throws.

With three seconds remaining, Young fouled Zuber, who missed her one in one.

The Lady Eagles rebounded the ball with one second apparently left on the clock, but the referee said time had expired.

The Haven was led by Jaskuta scoring 13 points. Sergi and Young contributed 12 and 11 points respectively. Lisa Klepp also added ten.

Millersville's leading scorers were Heckler with 16 points, Zuber 13 and Howell with 12.

Lock Haven got the chance to play Millersville in the PSAC final with a 58-53 victory over over the Bloomsburg Huskies on Friday night.

Sergi led the Lady Eagles in scoring on Friday with 14 points, while Klepp and Young added 12 and 10 points respectively.

Bald Eagles heading to NCAA playoffs

By Bill Alexander
Co-Sports Editor

Although the Bald Eagles didn't win the PSAC championship, they received a bid to the 32 team, NCAA Division II playoffs on Sunday.

"I think that it is almost overwhelming when you consider how far the program has come in a short time," said Head Coach Kurt Kanaskie. "It's really a credit to our players. They worked extremely hard and I think that they are very deserving of the bid."

The Bald Eagles will compete in the North Central Region and travel to St. Cloud, Minnesota to compete against St. Cloud State in the first round. The winner will face the winner of the Wayne State vs Ferris State game on Saturday.

A pep rally is being planned for Wednesday night since the team is leaving on Thursday.

"We have just started working on getting information on St. Cloud. They are 22-6 and played three Division I schools," said Kanaskie. "Obviously they are a very good team and it is going to be a great challenge for us to win out there."

Three of five boxers win at Williamsport on Friday

Three of five Bald Eagle boxers were victorious at the Amateur Golden Glove/Collegiate Boxing Club Show at Bethune-Douglas in Williamsport last Friday night.

Brad Klein, the Bald Eagles 132 pounder, led off with a 3-0 victory over Chuck Doggett of Villanova.

Continuing the trend was freshman Frank McClary. McClary, fighting at 156, finished with a 2-1 win of Villanova's Joe Walton.

The final Haven win of the evening came from sophomore Don Gallucci. Gallucci, a left hander, scored a referee stopped contest at 30 seconds into the third round over Manny Baez of Williamsport Area Community College (WACC).

Suffering defeats for the Bald Eagles were juniors Paul Levy and Frank Lynch.

Levy, boxing at 139, lost to Rob Colman of Lafayette College with 1:29 gone from the second period.

Lynch lost a unanimous decision (3-0) at 147 to Julius Bruno of WACC.

The Bald Eagles return to action Saturday at Central Connecticut State University.

Division I schools steal show at Penn State Invite

By Bill Hunter
Co-Sports Editor

An open track and field invitational can be very positive for some teams, but in the case of the Penn State Invitational last Saturday, the Lock Haven team found themselves outclassed.

"Division I teams like Colgate, Syracuse and Penn State were too powerful for us. If it was a regular Division II meet, we could have dominated it," said Head Coach Stan Burke.

Richard Nurse and Tom Reese, both of whom are LHU football players in addition to track team members, gave just two of the highlight performances by the Haven.

Nurse tied the Lock Haven University record with a 6.3 second time in the 60 yard dash in his first college meet.

Reese, also a first timer, threw 42 feet 11 inches in the shot put for a sixth place finish.

"Football coach Tom Jones has encouraged his players to keep in shape by going out for track. This has really helped our program," said Burke.

Also taking a third place for the Bald

Eagles was Mike Bachman with a time of 34.1 seconds in the 300 yd. dash.

Sonja Yingling, a freshman, placed fourth with a nine second time in the 60 yard hurdles.

In addition to Reese's finish, Deanna Hoffer also turned in a sixth place finish with a distance of 36 feet 6 inches in the triple jump.

The team's next meet, the first outdoor meet of the season, will be held on March 28 at the Susquehanna University Invitational.

Softball team returns with nine letter winners

By Stephanie Shultz
Sports Reporter

Optimism seems to be the key word in the Lady Eagle's 1987 softball season.

"With the number of players that we have returning, and the excellent attitude, I have a very positive outlook for this year's season," said Lady Eagles Head Coach Wayne Allison.

Allison added that the team has much more pitching depth than last year and a steady defense that could really help carry the team into post-season play.

After losing only two starters from last year's team, the 1987 squad has experience that could prove to be very helpful.

Among the nine returning letterman from last year are Regional All-American Ginny Neiss, All-PSAC Leslie Funk and All-Western Conference Mel Frohnheiser.

In addition to their experience, this year's team will be traveling to South Carolina over spring break to play better competition than in past years.

"This season will be much more demanding with tougher games. When play-off time comes, this will really be an advantage," said senior co-captain Neiss.

Hitting seems to be the team's only worry. "After losing Tina Martin from last year, we need to find someone to pick up the slack," said Allison.

Three possible replacements include Neiss, Funk and Frohnheiser who finished last season with .385, .337 and .329 batting averages respectively.

The team is coming off a 22-10 season and finished third in the PSAC's.
