Gate Receipts Voted Down

By Matt Connor
Co-Editor

The long debate over whether the Athletic Department should be allowed to keep all of their gate receipts was finally decided at Wednesday night's SCC meeting.

By a margin of 18-5, the SCC voted against the Athletic Gate Receipts Proposal. The proposal, which was presented to the SCC by Director of Athletics Charles A. Eberle, requested that all gate receipts from athletic contests be retained by the particular sport which generates them for use toward athletic scholarships.

"I knew it would be a tough fight to come down and take the whole pie, but I think an educational process took place here tonight. I think we'll eventually make progress through compromise," Eberle said.

A major concern over the proposal was how the removal of the $10,000 in anticipated revenue from gate receipts would affect other SCC organizations.

Vice President Steve Donaldson questioned whether the removal of the $10,000 would hurt small clubs.

Eberle, who attended the meeting to express his position on the matter said, "I don't know the [SCC] operation. I don't want to take money away from small clubs, but to assume it is going to come from one place or another, at this time, is premature."

Elizabeth Eayre, the corresponding secretary of the SCC, who is also active in the athletic program, stated that although she sympathized with athletics, the $10,000 in anticipated revenue would benefit more students if the money was retained by the SCC.

"When 26 of us vote for 2,600 students, we have to think of the majority," she said.

SCC President Todd Baney said he was satisfied with the results of the decision.

"With respect to the total understanding of the physical integrity and limitations of the SCC, it was a very responsible decision," Baney said.

He also commended the SCC for its "inquisitiveness, and its actions in response to the issues."

In other matters, The SCC voted unanimously to give Chris Jackson $150 to use as prize money for the Cancer Research Basketball tournament.

The SCC/Football team-sponsored tournament will benefit Ron Drake, an LHU student who was diagnosed as having cancer.

Jackson said that all money raised outside of the $150 would go to the American Cancer Society and to Ron Drake and his family.

The SCC also awarded $500 to the Women's Consortium so that they could bring speaker Diana Nyad to campus.

The next SCC meeting will be on April 2 and the agenda will include the 1986-87 budget, and the constitutions of the Circle K Club, the Recreation Majors, and the Gospel Choir.

Skydive for the first time

By Amy Barner
Staff Reporter

The experience of a lifetime can be had by those adventurous students and faculty who are daring enough to jump out of an airplane.

Rick Busko is offering this experience for those interested in skydiving for the first time. The jump will be made on May 3 in connection with the Ripcords Parachute Club, who operate out of the Hazelton Airport.

Five hours on the morning of May 3, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., will be devoted to training for the experience. The jump will be static line, which means that the parachute will automatically open.

The jump will be made from 3,000 feet and Busko said that safety is stressed throughout the training.

"Falling through the atmosphere" is how Busko describes skydiving.

Busko said there are only a few limitations: a maximum weight of 240 pounds, you must be at least sixteen, and anyone under eighteen needs notarized parental consent.

"People usually don't go because of two reasons: money and that the parachute won't open," Busko said.

The cost is $100, but it includes training costs, equipment rental, the plane ride and the one jump.

If anyone is interested they should call Rick Busko at 893-3446.

Busko highly recommends the skydiving experience, especially for first timers.

"It's fun!" he said.

Black History Week went well

By Jamie A. Crankfield
Staff Reporter

The activities planned for Black History Month went very well this year according to the Black Culture Society Executive Board. There was a lot of support from the B.C.S. members and the B.C.S. also had help from Richard S. West, newly appointed coordinator of Human Relations and Minority Affairs.

When West came to work at LHU in January his first concern was the students.

West said, "I want to help the students here at LHU develop better leadership skills."

One of his first projects was to oversee Black History Month. Now that February has passed, he is already busy working on next year's Black History Month.

He also wants to initiate an inter-collegiate student program with Bucknell, Bloomsburg, and Penn State.

West worked at Penn State before coming to Lock Haven. He was a counselor and an advisor for the Equal Opportunity Program.

West said, "The students that I have worked with here at LHU have been very talented, and they have also shown that they possess the necessary qualities it takes to become good leaders."

Anyone interested in participating in the B C S should come to the meeting on Tuesday, March 11, at 12:30 p.m. in Price 202.

EDITORIAL

Defeat with grace

When I went to the SCC meeting this past Wednesday I had several pre-concieved notions about the athletic departement at LHU. Quite frankly, my attitude towards the department was not an open-minded one. I had decided that athletics gobbled up an awful lot of SCC money that could be used to benefit other, more worthy organizations. In fact, it wouldn't have bothered me a bit if athletics were completely fazed out at LHU. To be honest, I saw many athletes as being arrogant and loud.

That was before the SCC meeting on Wednesday. Charles Eberle described the meeting as an educational experience, and that's exactly what it was for me.

I went into the meeting feeling very little sympathy for the athletics department, but since no other reporter was available to do the story, I was forced by my journalistic ethics to put aside my personal biases.

What I found was that by the close of the meeting my biases were greatly lessened. Neither Eberle nor the athletic department as a whole were some money-grabbing monster--they're an organization, who in their own way are trying to perform some kind of service for the university.

I watched as Eberle fielded some pretty tough questions from those attending the meeting, and I watched his disappointment when the SCC voted the only way they could have voted--in opposition to his proposal. He handled the decision with grace and dignity, and he convinced me that there ought to be a way to come to some kind of compromise on the situation.

The SCC really needs that $10,000, and the athletic department needs it too. Unfortunately there had to be a loser, and Eberle was the loser this time around.

But if that old cliché about not winning or losing has any truth to it, then Mr. Eberle should be commended--he played the game well.

Mehler third Industrialist-in-Residence

By Jeffrey Hilty
Staff Reporter

Lock Haven University sponsored its third annual Industrialist-in-Residence program on March 4 and 5.

This year's guest, William A. Mehler, is the Director of Corporate Quality Management for Armstrong World Industries, Inc., of Lancaster, Pa.

During his two-day stay, Mehler's schedule included meetings with classes in Economics, Organizational Theory and Management Relations, a working luncheon with the Council of Arts and Sciences, a lecture presentation (open to the public), and a press conference with Journalism students and the campus media.

At the press conference, Dr. Douglas Campbell, Chairman of the Department of English, Journalism, and Philosophy, introduced Mehler to the Journalism students.

Mehler fielded a variety of questions ranging from his community activities to his professional career.

Mehler said, "The best career advice I could give you is to think logically and be able to effectively communicate your logical thinking. That goes for any career, not just a marketing director."

Mehler replaced William W. Adams as this year's Industrialist-in-Residence, because Adams was unable to attend. Adams is the Executive Vice President of Armstrong.

Armstrong World Industries is not totally unfamiliar to Lock Haven because Armstrong has a facility in nearby Beech Creek.

Armstrong World Industries is a manufacturer and marketer of interior furnishings. Its products include floor coverings, ceiling systems, and furniture.

Armstrong also manufactures and markets a variety of specialty products for the building, automotive, and textile industries.

The Industrialist-in-Residence program was started three years ago under the supervision of former Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Dr. Hugh Williamson.

Present Dean of Arts and Sciences, Dr. William Sadler, has taken up the cause. Of the program, he said, "The main aim will be to help students experience a link between their LHU learning and the world of business."

Charles Kent, Associate Professor of History, Political Science, and Economics is Coordinator of the 1986 program.

Kent said, "This year's (program) was the best one so far. Attendance levels of the lecture presentation were at their highest and the theme of the program—The Industrial Corporation: Issues and Challenges was fully developed."

"Oedipus" to be staged

A cast of 15 has been selected for Lock Haven University's production of Sophocles' "Oedipus the King," to be staged by the University Players in mid-March.

Robb Warren, plays the role of Oedipus and Jackie Maino plays his wife Jocasta.

Creon, Jocasta's brother, is played by Stephen Zoldi, Tiresius, the prophet, by Edison Culver, the Corinthian Messenger by Micheal Zacks, and the Theban shepherd by Chris Fischer.

The priest of Zeus is played by Jim Mitchell, and the chorus of citizens by Lynn Howard, Helen Haglich, Chris Scoonover and Marla Hyde.

The palace messenger is played by Wayne Harvey, the palace guard by Chip Miller, Antigone and Ismene, by Lori Budinger and Lori Guillermin.

The cast has begun rehearsals under the direction of Denys Gary, professor of speech and theater. John Gordon, chairman of the department of speech and theater is the technical director and designer of sets and lighting. Linda Roethke, instructor, is in charge of cast and makeup. Chris McKay, is student stage manager.

ΛΧΑ to hold marathon

The Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at Lock Haven University will hold its Fifth Annual 24-Hour Volleyball Marathon on March 7-8.

Sign-ups for the contest will go on until Friday at 1:30 p.m. Contestants can take their donations and pledge sheets with them to Zimmerli gymnasium when the marathon starts.

Teams wishing to enter may have up to eight players, two of which must be female. Any player pledging $7 or more will receive a free t-shirt.

Proceeds from the event will benefit multiple sclerosis.

"The MS chairman in Williamsport was once a member of our organization. He approached us to help fight the disease in some way, and naturally, we responded," added Lambda Chi Alpha member Kevin Kidd, "We also have a few members of our fraternity who have family members affected by the disease."

The action will start Friday evening at 6 p.m. Participants must be at the building by 5:30 p.m.

LHU Prof. sets up computer major in Egypt

Patel earns high praise from Egyptian government and military

By Linda Farrell
Staff Reporter

Dr. Arunkant R. Patel, professor of computer science, has many good things to say about his recent sabbatical leave in Egypt.

Patel was hired by Telemedia Incorporated of Chicago, to set up a four year program in Engineering and Aeronautical Studies at the Egyptian Air Academy.

The Academy, where Patel was department head of computer engineering, specializes in training of pilots and navigators.

His main objective was to set up a curriculum and syllabus for the four year program. This program will allow the pilots to graduate with a B.S. in Aeronautics, and the navigators will graduate with a B.S. in Computer Engineering.

Patel's skills in computer science were greatly acknowledged and appreciated, as this was the beginning of a new and innovative program for the Academy. Patel helped to get the first computers for the Academy's new computer science lab. In fact, the Egyptian Government did not want Patel to leave.

President Mobaric, of Egypt, visited Patel in the computer lab and presented him with a military medal for his work in the program. This presentation was aired on Egyptian national television.

Patel, besides working at the Academy, had a chance to travel throughout Egypt. He said he was impressed by how academics and the military complemented and enhanced each other.

Further more, the Egyptian officials he worked with were very knowledgeable in their fields, and Patel's skills were enhanced by this knowledge.

Patel hopes that what he has learned over the past year can be implemented to expand and help his work at LHU. He feels that the computer science field is greatly expanding and sees only good things down the road.

Fashion Line Spring brings a new crop of men's clothes to Lock Haven

By Patricia Imhof
Fashion Columnist

Spring has almost sprung, the grass has almost risen, now you may wonder what the fashion is?

The gentlemen on this campus have increasingly become more aware of the latest fashions, and I have faith this spring will be no different.

I decided to stop in at the Weaver and Probst store in Lock Haven for a look, and came out confident the slickest of dressers will be interested.

This season men's and women's fashions have almost merged and I would recommend this store for either gender.

Bright colors dominate the spring wardrobe and if you have trouble coordinating colors, this is the season for you.

Natural Life, a line of clothing for an athletic, sporty look in soft, sweatshirt materials, offers shorts, sweats, long and short sleeved tees, and bulky zip up jackets. You can find them in red, yellow, blue and aqua, and with any combination you can't go wrong.

Pastel sweatshirts with abstract designs would go great with a pair of faded dress jeans and white, leather shoes.

The shirts Dad used to wear (you know, with the prints you'd never be caught wearing), will be seen all over. Japanese influence can be credited to these new, bold prints and their line of CODE BLEU sportswear from Hong Kong is a compliment to the industry.

If you really want to spice up a yellow shirt, try one of their bright paisley or floral ties and add the matching suspenders. Be one of the first to show your spunk for spring.

If you prefer a more svelt, sophisticated look, choose a pink, white, black or grey blazer and finish it with a paisley tie in pastels. Flip up the collar for the added GQ look the ladies go crazy for.

The newest addition to male fashion, at least new to the area, is the stirrup pant for men. Nothing like the tight stirrups for ladies, the man's stirrup is baggy and the material is guaranteed to last.

Ocean Pacific tee shirts and shorts are still in demand and probably will be for a long time to come.

If your clothing coordination skills rate zero along with your wardrobe, buy just one or two shirts and a couple of ties to start. From there you may even enjoy shopping.

Knock 'em dead LHU guys!

Campus Line Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity suspended at Bloomsburg

Bloomsburg The Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity has been temporarily suspended from all activities after a prospective member was injured recently.

Vice-President of Institutional Advancement Dr. John Walker said, "A temporary suspension means they have to cease all activities--social and otherwise--until the suspension is lifted or other action is taken."

The student, Jeffrey Kuhns, was hurt in a fall at about 1 a.m. last Friday morning at the Lambda Chi house.

The administration failed to say whether the incident was pledge-related.

According to the Lambda Chi president, Kuhns was an "associate" because they do not have a pledge system.

Walker said a preliminary investigation revealed that the incident occurred during an unscheduled social event at the fraternity house.

Details of the incident were unavailable, but Walker said Kuhns suffered a head or neck injury.

"He's up and around, and is going to class. He hasn't missed a class as a result of the incident," Walker said.

Officials are not sure whether any legal action has been taken against the fraternity or the university.

Indiana Ten students from the staff of the campus newspaper, The Penn, have taken up the Nestle Quik Spring Break '86 Challenge.

The challenge is a contest sponsored by the Nestle Foods Corporation in which an individual or group builds a structure out of Nestle Quik cartons.

First prize will be an all-expense paid trip to Daytona Beach Florida., for Spring Break or $10,000 in cash.

The group built a grand piano out of the cartons.

A member said that they used 500 to 600 cartons in their first week of working on the project. The cartons supplied by the company.

The deadline for completion of the project was February 17.

East Stroudsburg The first black American to enter the University of Mississippi in 1962, spoke on campus February 11 to contribute to their celebration of Black History Month.

In 1962, thousands of Mississippi National Guard troops were organized by President Kennedy, to overcome the obstructionist aims of the governor of Mississippi and his police force.

James Meredith was instrumental in the changes that would transform American society from a separatist to an inclusive society, which would embrace its founding principle that all men are created equal.

Meredith's message in his speech at ESU was different from those of many black political representatives.

He opposed busing and stressed that black citizens should assimilate the practices of economic security and competition. He advocates becoming an aggressive capitalist, referring to full employment conditions as suitable to black self-sufficiency.

Haven Health

"Care is our #1 priority"

By Mike Colombo
Health Science Columnist

In the Thomas Fieldhouse there is a room where the injured heal and learning takes place at the same time. What is this magical room? It's the training room.

The room is located on the ground floor behind the press box bleachers and can be easily identified by the bandaged Bald Eagle on the door.

It is open Monday thru Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The room is open from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. for all university students, from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. for in-season athletes only and from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. for both in and out of season athletes.

The training room contains some of the latest and most up to date equipment. All of the equipment can accommodate both the weekend warrior and the world class athlete.

Some of the rehabilitation services available include; three whirlpools, hot and cold pack units, ice bags and a hot wax bath.

The more sophisticated equipment includes two types of ultrasound and muscle stimulation. For those who simply want to get mummified, there are seven treatment tables in which any body part can be taped.

The room is the headquarters of the athletic training staff headed by David Tomasi, Head Athletic Trainer and Beth Sloane, Assistant Athletic Trainer.

"The new training room gives us many advantages over the old one," said Tomasi, "such as being able to handle more people at our peak hours of 2 p.m. - 4 p.m."

Also contributing his expertise is university physician, Dr. Larry Lytle.

"Dr. Lytle is a very dedicated individual and doctor. He always has the athletes welfare and well being in mind," added Tomasi.

Between the three, they have 46 years experience in dealing with athletic injuries.

There are also two other training rooms located in Zimmerli and at Hubert Jack Stadium. These are not always open and are only used during specific times of the year. The TFH facility is considered the main training room.

Due to legal complications, a few guidelines must be met before someone can be examined and treated. Those who do not participate in a varsity sport must see medical personnel at either the infirmary or the hospital before going to the training room.

This means returning with written instructions from a qualified medical person.

Athletes like everyone else must follow guidelines also. They must receive a mandatory physical examination before they are even allowed to practice.

Those athletes which are in season are given preference over those which are out of season. Finally, they must have permission from Mr. Tomasi, Miss Sloane or Dr. Lytle.

The atmosphere is friendly and caring. Juniors and Seniors administer most of the treatments while the freshmen and sophomores do the preparation and preliminary work on the patient.

Every injury is unique and the clinical situation allows hands-on experience which proves to be invaluable later in the students career. The program, which is ranked among the nation's best, currently has 76 students enrolled.

Some of Lock Haven's graduate trainers have gone on to care for professional teams such as the Philadelphia Stars, Buffalo Bills, New York Jets and the Cleveland Indians to name a few.

Others have entered health related fields such as Physical Therapy, Physician's Assistants and Respiratory Therapy.

"At least 90 percent of our grads have gone on to graduate school or some other type of further education," said Tomasi.

Rehabilitation patients, Theresa Lamont and Kathy Kleppinger, are among the many cases taken care of at the training room.

The British Experience

Exchange students love the UK

By Bill Hunter
Foreign Correspondent

By the time you read this, we will have already spent eight wonderful weeks in the United Kingdom.

With only three and a half weeks remaining, the final essays are starting to pile up on us.

The workload consists mostly of reading material, with a 2000 word essay assigned for each class. Not only is there a big difference in classes, but the entire higher-education system is different in England.

At the end of your second year of study, a test (three essays and two written tests) is given to you. You have three days to complete and hand it in.

Soon after the test, you will receive a notice telling you whether you are still in the university or not. A low grade on the test will bring your immediate dismissal from school, and the complete waste of two years of study!

Sports in the U.K.

Both Karen Barna and myself will be playing in very important volleyball matches soon. The men's and women's varsity teams both have the chance to advance to the British College Championships with a win in the next match. As of now, the men will be playing in southern Wales and the women will be at home.

Supporting the visiting football (soccer) team can be quite a scary thing. I went to a match between Arsenal and Aston Villa with a small group the other day.

We took the tube (underground) and arrived at Arsenal Stadium. Upon our arrival, 250 Arsenal fans jumped off the train with us. It was four of us and 250 of them.

Much to my dismay, the scarf you wear signifies who you support. I was wearing a blue scarf for Aston Villa, and quickly hid it.

In the stadium we were put in the visitors section. The attendance was 53,200 ... 3000 of us and 50,000 of them. We cheered and sang the whole match and our team was victorious.

At the end, we wanted to leave, but found out that the Arsenal fans were waiting outside for us.

The police kept us in the freezing stadium for 40 minutes until an army of police had arrived. They then encircled us (some on horseback and some on foot), and walked us to apparent safety.

We then ran to the tube having enjoyed the whole situation. The next I go to a match, it will be in support of the home team.

Group to travel

Our group seems to be catching the travel fever. Everyone is going here, there, and everywhere.

Mark Friend is going to Birmingham, Monica Emanuel is going to London, Gina Calhoun is going to Devon, and myself to Ireland and Scotland.

After school is over, most of us are heading to Paris, where we will split up into small groups.

My group is going from France to Spain, Italy, Switzerland, W. Germany, Luxembourg, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, and Finland.

The complete tour will take about seven weeks. We will probably be hitchhiking almost 1500 miles. It is the cheapest and easiest way to see Europe.

We also have Hostle cards, which allow us to stay at youth Hostles for about $5 per night, including breakfast.

Our group motto is "go cheap!"

Next semester there will be 18 students on exchange to Lock Haven from Bulmurshe. They have different opinions and lifestyles than us, but this only makes them more interesting.

They have treated us as best friends over here, and I hope that the same will be extended to them by Lock Haven students.

Some of us plan to visit Lock Haven before the semester is out, so see you then.

Tina Martin: a true winner

By Bill Alexander
Sports Reporter

"I want to be remembered as a complete player who gave 110 percent all the time, tried to help the team win and never gave up," said senior guard Tina Martin.

Tina got her start in basketball in the seventh grade from her older brother David who is now an assistant coach of men's basketball at Wilkes College.

As with all young athletes, Tina modeled her game after a professional athlete. Her model was and still is Boston Celtics star Larry Bird.

"I have been watching him since he was a sophomore at Indiana State. I've written to him twice and have seen him play four times. I also have about seven books on him," added Martin. Although Tina has played all four of her years at Lock Haven on the varsity squad, she only played varsity basketball at Williamsport High School from grades 10-12.

Since Williamsport was not in a conference, she could not make an all-conference team, but she does hold 19 school records including the all-time scoring record.

"When I was at Williamsport, ninth graders could not play on the varsity squad. The coach asked if any of us wanted to move to the varsity team, I didn't because I was good friends with the team members and my twin sister was playing," said Martin.

Like most young athletes, Tina's parents were very supportive of her.

"My parents made all kinds of sacrifices so I could play basketball. They let me work basketball camps in the summer and didn't push me to get a job," continued Martin.

At Williamsport H.S., she would not leave practice until she made 600 jump shots.

Tina said, "The school would be closed and the janitors would be gone, and I would be in the gym shooting baskets."

Tina was recruited by several Division 1 schools such as Ohio State and Pittsburgh, but chose Lock Haven.

"I chose Lock Haven because my parents wanted my sister and I to stay together, and so did I, plus my parents couldn't afford to send both of us to a Division 1 school when only I would receive a scholarship. We received scholarships to Lock Haven but Theresa only played the first year," added Martin.

Tina has been voted to the PSAC All-Conference team three years straight and is hoping to make it four. Lady Eagle head coach Fred Riley said, "Tina is a true All-American and hopes that the university and the team is pulling for her to receive that honor."

The biggest highlight of Tina's career at Lock Haven was winning the PSAC Championship last year, along with the game balls she has received for scoring 1,000 and 2,000 points.

"My main goal was to win a championship while I was here. Winning the championship again this year would have been great, but at least my goal was obtained," said Martin.

Coach Riley also said, "Tina is a complete player. She is fundamentally sound, has good skills and is extremely dedicated. She is partly responsible for four years of success. Tina has done well for the university and the university has done well for her."

After graduation, Tina hopes to teach Health and Physical Education at the secondary level and coach basketball.

Martin added, "eventually I would like to be head coach of a high school team because I would like to put something back into the game."

As of now, Tina is Lock Haven's and the PSAC's all-time leading scorer with 2,111 points and holds the record for most points scored in a single season (626).

Tina will be playing her final game this weekend in the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) tournament at Thomas Field House and she wants to go out a winner.

"People only remember what you did last, and I don't want to go out a loser," said Tina, "winning is all I care about. That's the bottom line."

The Lock Haven University Ice Hockey Club went into the Penn State Ice Pavillion last Sunday with its dozen or so fans to face a team it had shut out, 6-0 three weeks before.

The Bald Eagles didn't walk away with another shutout, but an 8-1 win over the Raiders ended the club's three-game losing streak and preserved the possibility of a third consecutive .500 season in the Nittany Hockey League.

According to senior defenseman Doug Kiss, "We took control of the game early and never let up. That's something we haven't done much of this year."

The Bald eagles did, indeed, take control from the opening face-off as they took a 6-0 before the Raiders could score.

Dave Warnick started the scoring for Lock Haven as he took a pass from right winger Scott Saunter and found the net with a wrist shot.

Transfer student Andy Davis then scored what turned out to be the game-winner when he stole an offensive zone face-off and flipped the puck into the upper corner of the net.

Davis then assisted on Lock Haven's third goal as he found Jim Gorse parked in front of the goal and fed him for the score.

Warnick and Sautner then went back to work for LHU's next score as they assisted John Gridley who gave Lock Haven a 4-0 advantage.

Linemates Mike Bream and Rich Jaeger teamed up for the Bald Eagle's next two goals. Jaeger assisted Bream on the first one, and Bream returned the favor with an assist on Jaeger's goal which put Lock Haven on top 6-0.

The raiders then crushed any hopes of another Lock Haven shutout when they scored their only goal of the game.

The Bald Eagles quickly off-set that goal with one of their own when Bob McGettigan scored with an assist from Frazier Munsell.

Dave warnick then concluded the the LHU rampage he had started with his second goal of the game from Gridley.

The 8-1 victory upped the club's record to 3-5 in the Nittany Hockey League. The team travels to Penn State Ice Pavillion tomorrow to face the Raiders again at 7:45 a.m. The eagles then play a Sunday night game against the Geohabs at 7:45 p.m.

The club appreciates the fan support it is receiving and hopes to see all of you out there when it ends its season at Penn State March 18 against Juniata College.

LHU has pride in indoor soccer

By Joe Krause
Sports Columnists

14 years from now, in the year 2,000, it's conceivable to believe that the Lock Haven University men's soccer team will still be hosting their annual indoor soccer tournament.

Question: How does an institution such as ours, with a student enrollment of about 2,600, located some 200 miles away from a major city, consistently attract bonafied powerhouse schools to our campus for athletic sporting events?

The answer: Maintain an athletic program that is built around excellence, with a strong reputation of dominance in sports.

Look no further than the LHU soccer team, which has enjoyed more national exposure in the last nine years, than any one sport on this campus, and you'll understand why this indoor soccer tournament has enjoyed such enormous success throughout the years.

"It's nice to be able to host a tourney such as this one," said Head Coach Lenny Long, "we get good crowds out and our spirit is rejuvenated. In addition to this, the fact that I feel we are a real strong indoor team, makes this one extra special."

One glance thru the four divisions competing this weekend will add luster to this already popular marathon of soccer mania, and will provide for you, the fan, a rare opportunity to see just how good this LHU team will be when the '86 season arrives.

"It's always a challenge to play in this type of event," added veteran Sean Perry, "especially when we're competing against quality teams with quality talent."

You can rest assured that it will be a challenge. Just consider the field. George Washington, Glassboro, Bloomsburg, Kutztown... the list goes on and on.

The round robin schedule will begin Saturday (tomorrow), starting at 8 a.m. with the games being played in both Zimmerli Gymnasium and the Thomas Field House.

The teams will battle for points, following, of course, the North American Soccer League point system, which awards six pts. for a win, three points for a tie and one point for every goal up to three.

Perry added, "It's tough (the tournament) and eventually takes its toll on you by the third and fourth game. You reach down because it's a very good tourney."

Coach Long said, with a touch of arrogance in that patented smile that he so characteristically displays, "I think we'll surprise a lot of people, being 9-8-2 last year, people have the tendency to think Lock Haven is down, but I think they are in for a rude awakening."

Perry concluded, "this is our year."

People may not know that now, but I'll guarantee by the year 2000, Lock Haven will have savored many years of success at their indoor tournament.

It's not over yet for the Lady Eagles. Coach Fred Riley's team not only got a bid for the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference South Division II Championships, they will be the hosting the event in the Thomas Field House this weekend.

The tournament will open up tonight at 6 p.m. with the Lady Eagles squaring off against Mercy College. At 8 p.m. Army and West Chester will take the court.

The winners of each game will go one to the finals Saturday at 8 p.m. There will be no consolation game.

LHU was able to host the event because none of the other teams facilities were available.

Lock Haven is the defending champions, winning this ECAC event here a year ago, beating District of Columbia, 79-71, in the semi-finals and Navy, 74-71, for the title.

This years participants consist of first seeded Army (18-10), second seeded Mercy College (19-8), fourth seeded West Chester (17-13), and Lock Haven (15-9) is seeded third.

This ECAC tournament will give the Lady Eagles another chance to show off their stuff.

Coach Riley's team's chances for an NCAA tournament bid slipped away last weekend as the Lady Eagles lost a heartbreaker to East Stroudsburg in the PSAC tournament semifinals 83-80.

The Lady Rockets of Slippery Rock did get a bid for the NCAA's after capturing the PSAC title. Slippery Rock will travel to Pace University this weekend for their first round contest.

Tina Martin, LHU's all-time leading scorer and the Pennsylvania Conference record holder, now has 2,111 points in her four years here. Helen Woltman also has 1,340 points and 1,113 rebounds.

Juniors Donna Sergi, Lori Young, and Kelly Myers will dazzle the "House of Noise" one more time with their exciting style of play.

There will be a $1 charge to students with validated ID's and a $3 charge to the general public. All proceeds will go to the ECAC and for the expenses of the tournament.

Intramural Sports Update

By Abby Mylin
Intramural Reporter

Recent intramural action in men's and women's basketball and racquetball leagues finalized the standings in heated playoffs last week.

The men's basketball league had 24 participating teams with the undefeated Steamers (8-0) rolling to a 33-30 victory over AXA (6-2) in the championship game. The ZOO (7-1) finished third, followed by the fourth place GreenBuds (6-2).

The Tuffskins (7-1) earned the number one spot in the women's basketball league which had 11 teams in action this season. Taking second place was Massenys (5-3), with Shadie Ladies (4-2) ranking third and PAKA (4-3) in fourth place.

The playoffs in the men's racquetball league resulted with the team of Daryl Rosidivido and Scott Wagner in the top spot. The Defending Champs ended up second and there was a tie between WVBC and ΣΠ-Α for third.

Currently, nine coed water polo teams will wrap up their season with two games this week, before moving into the playoffs. The top four contending teams are the Steamers, the ZOO, AXA, and the Train Station.

Upcoming intramural activities include indoor soccer and floor hockey, each having a minimum number of six players per team. Indoor soccer teams are split into men's and women's divisions, while floor hockey is coed. Play will begin after spring break. To sign your team up or for more information, see William Burdett at Zimmerli 109.

A robbery took place in the athletic office last night.

Music Line

More "Depeche Mode," Please!

By Lisa Falzetta
Music Columnist

"Catching Up With Depeche Mode," Depeche Mode, Sire Records (1985).

"Catching Up With Depeche Mode" is a collection of the best hits from the New Wave band out of England.

Incidentally, around the same time as "Catching Up", Depeche Mode also released an album called "Depeche Mode - The Singles". These albums contain almost all the same songs (with a couple of exceptions, of course), except "The Singles" has the group's Top 40 hit "People Are People".

I don't know why Depeche Mode released these albums at the same time, but all I can say is, the more of Depeche Mode, the better!

As for "Catching Up", the group gives us their popular cuts, like "Master & Servant", "Blasphemous Rumours", and "Shake The Disease." Lead singer Dave Gahan has a deep, rich voice that can literally send chills up your spine! Paired up with Gahan, occasionally, is Martin Gore, whose lighter vocals are so opposite that the two singers somehow make a perfect pair. The only song on which Gore sing lead without Gahan is the ballad "Somebody".

The group makes excellent use of synthesizers on all of the songs. You won't find any run of the mill instruments here. Between the incredible vocals and the intricate use of synthesizers, Depeche Mode brings us New Wave at its finest.

Tune into WLHC, 90.3 FM to hear cuts from this album, and be sure to keep an eye out for it at the campus bookstore.

Book Ends

Curl up with a good textbook?

By Lori Budinger
Literary Columnist

Due to circumstances beyond my control, I was unable to get any of the books on the current Campus Bestsellers list. Therefore I have decided to do this column on the books I have been able to read, your favorite and mine, textbooks.

When I curl up with my favorite textbook I'm really not expecting an evening of romance, murder and intrigue. Most of the time I'm so bored that I have to read the same passage about three times before I have any idea what I am supposed to be learning.

I'm not saying that every textbook is boring. Some are actually very well written and explain the information very well, but lets face it, the average text book is a little dry; not much plot but a lot of content.

Many times you have to read a chapter so tedious, that it seems like no matter how much you read there are still more pages. This can be especially frustrating if you have a test or quiz on the material the next day.

To try and help you through this rather trying and tiring ordeal, I asked several people what was their secret for getting through a drudge of reading textbooks.

The most common response was to just let the book sit and do something that relaxes you, like watch TV, listen to a little music then go back to the book when you had a chance to unwind and mellow out.

Many times you can be so worried about getting the reading done that you are actually hindering your progress.

If this method doesn't work for you, try bargaining with yourself. Promise yourself that if you read this chapter you can do something you really want to do.

I, for example, always promise myself a new outfit that I never buy. (My subconscious does not take into consideration the size of my savings account).

Then there is the last resort. If the book is an instant sleeping pill, the only way to get through it is to read the book in the bathtub. You either get the chapter read or you die from drowning because you fell asleep while reading.

These are some of my hints, if you find them helpful by all means feel free to use them, and good luck with studying.
