

Kihn concert goes on without Robert Hazard

Greg Kihn belts out a song at Saturday night's concert.

Just when it looked like Lock Haven University (LHU) would finally get a concert featuring two top name bands, it was announced that one of the groups (Robert Hazard) could not perform. But the quick work of social committee chairman Mike Moyer enabled LHU to get a State College band (RPM) to replace Hazard and perform ahead of Greg Kihn on Saturday night at Thomas Fieldhouse.

Robert Hazard was unable to perform because he had been struck on the head by a microphone stand during a concert his group gave on Friday night at Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. Hazard was treated at a hospital and later released, and has been advised by doctors not to perform for awhile.

Of RPM's performance, sophomore Colleen Stanford said, "I really came to see Robert Hazard because he's from my hometown area (Philadelphia) and he always has good concerts. RPM was alright, but the crowd was never really excited about their music."

WLHC radio station manager Brian Sansoni said, "As an opening band, RPM did their job of getting the audience warmed up. They (RPM) did a good job for a last minute replacement."

WSQV news director Kurt Gallagher said, "RPM was rowdy. It took a lot of guts for them to go up there. But I'm really looking forward to seeing Greg Kihn." So was everybody else.

The Greg Kihn Band, which came on stage approximately a half hour after RPM's fifty-minute performance, gave the LHU crowd an hour and a half of their vintage music.

Following the concert, social committee chairman Moyer said, "I was upset when I got the call about Hazard not being able to perform. RPM did a good job for being contacted on such short notice."

"Greg Kihn put on a great show. The crowd was more responsive than I thought they would be. I was pleased with the student response," said Moyer.

Concert finances not in 'jeopardy' as possible $2,000 profit is seen

By Mike Flanagan

According to Student Cooperative Council (SCC) social committee chairman Mike Moyer, the SCC has made an unofficial profit of $2,000 from Saturday night's Greg Kihn concert.

"The way things look today (Monday)," Moyer said, "We have made a $2,000 profit, but it will take about a week to get the exact figures. We still have to pay a few small bills."

Moyer said that the entire concert cost $14,300 to put on. The social committee chairman had $10,000 to work with in the budget and said $6,381 came in from ticket sales.

Slightly over 1,000 people paid to see the concert, according to Moyer. Including security and set-up personnel, Moyer estimated that the total attendance was Moyer added, "I'd like to thank the 110 workers made up of volunteers, members of the Ranger Club, Weightlifting Club, and High Hall. I'd especially like to thank my corresponding secretary Danette Bixler."

Moyer said, "I'd also like to commend six particular LHU students for helping each band set up. Rick Ansel, Scott Campbell, Mike Ditto, Paul Epley, Barry McGlumphy, and Roger Sparks worked from 8 a.m. Saturday til 1:30 a.m. Sunday."

"The road crew of Greg Kihn is the best I've seen in a long time. They weren't a pain to work with as most crews are. Not having Hazard was detrimental, but everything looks good for future concerts here," said Moyer.

"Besides Robert Hazard (who was scheduled to open the show for Kihn) being hurt and not able to perform, we had no major problems," Moyer said.

"We had to find a band to replace him and RPM (a band from State College) went on stage for $500 and I think they did a good job," the social committee chairman said, "If we would have had to pay Hazard his $4,000 fee, we might have lost money, but we might have made more money if Hazard would have been there because more people might have attended."

SCC President Gary Interdonato praised Moyer and the social committee for doing a good job. "The social committee did an excellent job getting things organized and they put a lot of their free time into this," Interdonato said.

State democratic primaries today

By Steve Coffman

The democratic primaries are in full swing and the show will reach its climax in Pennsylvania today as the primary elections are held for this state.

For one candidate, Gary Hart, young people and specifically college students are very important. Hart is trying to appeal to the "new" generation with his new ideas and his interest in the future.

Mr. John Washburn, associate professor of political science at LHU, said, "It's pretty clear that Hart is doing better with the younger more educated people."

Washburn said he sees a conservative trend among younger people. While they are after a strong foreign policy, many fear Ronald Reagan is more apt to get the U.S. in trouble in Central America.

Of the three democratic candidates Hart is the most conservative and therefore the closest to Reagan, said Washburn. "Hart would be the next choice to the right in the spectrum of candidates," said Washburn.

While Hart and Jesse Jackson would both support more money for education, Washburn said that "Mondale has the clearest commitment in general to education. He would most likely try to achieve aid levels equivalent to those of the mid 70's for education."

Dr. Jim Knauer, also of the political science department, agreed that Hart and Mondale would be less likely to get us involved militarily in a situation like El Salvador. He said, however, that "Hart has tried to have it both ways. He has tried to draw those people for a strong foreign policy and those who would like less military spending."

Knauer said in the case of the primaries the candidate with the best image has the best chance. He said, "I still see it as a popularity contest with issues assuming the less important role."

While typical college students show little interest or concern for politics, there are those who feel it is important to keep up with the issues.

Blake Bergey, a senior computer science major, said "The candidates are not facing the issues directly. I know more about what each candidate can't do." He said, "In a debate, instead of showing their own strong suits, they cut the other candidate down."

Matt Huber, a junior history major and the student trustee on the College Board of Trustees, said, "I like Hart because I feel he is the only one who can beat Reagan."

Huber said he is turned off by Reagan's Central American policies. He said he sees this as an important issue for college students because if something were to erupt down there, we would be the ones sent there.

"Hart has a better grasp of Central America," Huber said. He said Hart has a strong foreign policy yet would be less likely to get us in trouble.

Huber said he likes Hart and Mondale because they both propose a cut in the percentage of increase in defense spending. Jackson is unique in that he proposes a cut in the spending itself.

Huber, who has visited Poland and seen a situation where people cannot speak up and take part in government, said people here should take advantage of our system. He said people should familiarize themselves with the issues and exercise their right to affect them.

Few appreciate concert

It's done. The concert event 'everyone' had been waiting for took place Saturday night. Though the SCC reached its goal of breaking even (actually they exceeded it), one can't help to sense an air of disappointment. That let-down may be a result of the turnout, which certainly wasn't what it could or should have been. But, then again, that's Lock Haven.

It's too bad. Even though Robert Hazard turned out to be a no-show, the performance by Greg Kihn more than made up for it. He proved that he is a class act by putting on a high energy stint for over 90 minutes. What made it special, though, was that he did it for such a small, relatively mellow audience.

The size of the crowd may have been a direct result of Hazard's "calling in sick." Perhaps many did not buy tickets at the door or come out Saturday because they knew the Philadelphia based band was not performing. Which brings up another point. The SCC and WSQV are to be commended for not holding back the news of Hazard's accident. In a way, the SCC was rewarded for its efforts as the event resulted in at least a one-thousand dollar profit.

SCC Social Committee Chairman Mike Moyer is also to be commended for acting quickly in getting RPM, a State College group, to fill in for Hazard.

It's just too bad that all the efforts that went into the concert were appreciated by so few. Well, that's Lock Haven for you.

Reichenbach's hit keys win

By Dave Walters

Junior Tom Reichenbach's hit in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted the LHU baseball team to a 12-11 victory over East Stroudsburg in the first game of their double header conference opener on Saturday. LHU later lost the second game 14-12.

The Bald Eagles, down 11-0 after five innings, rallied to score 12 runs in the final two innings to gain the victory. ESU tallied six runs in the first three innings and had a five run rally in the fifth to take the lead.

LHU came back and scored two in the sixth. Tim Heaster led off the inning with a single, and Reichenbach doubled to score Heaster. Glen Fultz walked and then Jim Gardner hit into a fielder's choice that scored Reichenbach.

LHU's seventh inning was a scorekeeper's nightmare, as the Eagles had 12 base runners due to five hits, three errors, and four walks. Mark Jackson, Mike Snyder and Heaster all drew walks to load the bases. Reichenbach then stepped up and singled to drive in Jackson and kept the bases still loaded. Fultz got on base on an error and brought in Snyder. A single by Gardner still kept the bases loaded and added another run. Third baseman Randy Koleno bolted a base clearing double to slowly close the gap. Catcher Terry Fasold got on base on an error and Koleno scored. Jackson then singled and Snyder walked to load the bases. Two more runs scored after Heaster got on base due to an error. Reichenbach then drove in the winning run.

Head Coach Gary Bartley said, "The comeback was a real character builder. Everybody that came off the bench had a positive contribution. This game proved that it's not over til' it's over."

In the second game LHU fell short by two runs. The Bald Eagles were down 8-2 and came back with a nine run rally in the fourth but ESU pulled out the victory in the final two innings.

Koleno went 4 for 7 on the day to boost his average to .451. Carl Goshorn also had a hot bat and hit 4 for 6.

Bartley said, "It was a bizarre day; good pitching and defense were non-existent, and hitting prevailed."

Kutztown shuts out tennis team

By Rocco Pallotto

The matches were closer, but the result was the same Saturday as the tennis team dropped another 9-0 decision, this time to the Kutztown Golden Bears.

Russ Krise played a good match but was dumped at number one singles 7-5, 6-2 by Dan Houck. Mark Savage fell 6-3, 6-4 at number two to Golden Bear Joel Block.

Bob Kudlack knocked off Joe Green 6-1, 6-0 at number three, while Keith Miel won his match 6-4, 6-5 over Bryan Belman at number five.

Dan Yurchan defeated Chad Kammerer 6-1, 6-3 at number six. In exhibition play, Mike Wolfgang defeated Eagle Rob Burckfield 6-2, 6-2.

Krise and Savage dropped the number one doubles match 6-3, 6-2, while Belman and Mishra lost number two, 6-1, 6-1. In the day's final match, Green and Kammerer dropped a 6-4, 7-6 match.

"Youth and inexperience hurt us," said Eagle head coach Glenn Miller. The fact that LHU's most experienced player, Rob Lentz, quit the team for personal reasons didn't help things.

"I expect some changes in the singles rankings and we're going to make some changes in doubles," Miller said.

"I think our players, along with myself, felt pretty depressed after the match because we felt we could've won it."

Miller said that he thinks the outcome might have been different if the two teams would have met later in the season.

Things won't get any easier for the Eagles this Thursday, as they host Millersville, who, Miller says, is in the same league with Bloomsburg, who defeated the Eagles 9-0. Match time is 3 p.m.

A lecture entitled Violence in our lives: Focus on rape will be presented by Ms. Margaret Ross, a counselor from Hillcrest Clinic and Counseling Service in Harrisburg, Thursday, April 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Woolridge Lounge. All are invited.

Washington crowned national boxing champ

Kevin Campbell
Sports Editor

After a long history of successful boxing teams and national runners-up, the Bald Eagle boxing team finally has its first national champion in 119 pound Dave Washington.

Washington, along with LHU boxers Tim Frymyer and Steve Greber, were in California this past weekend for the Collegiate National Boxing championships. Frymyer and Greber placed second to lead the Bald Eagles to a third place national ranking.

After winning the regional tournament here in Lock Haven, Washington went on to challenge Henberta Fermin of Cal-Berkeley in the first round of nationals. Washington won all three rounds on all cards to earn the decision.

"Dave looked real good and had no trouble in the opening round," said coach Dr. Ken Cox, "He was just too quick and too strong."

Washington then advanced to the finals, where he met Sander Wolf of Ohio University. Wolf had beaten 1982 national champion Carl Wilson of West Chester in his opening round, but Washington again won all three rounds to capture the national crown.

"We were scared after seeing what Wolf did to Wilson," said Cox. "Wilson is a tough, hard punching kid. Dave fought a good conservative fight and looked just great," Cox continued.

The Lock Haven boxers have had seven national runner-ups in past years, including Frymyer and Greber this year. Yet this is the first time a Bald Eagle has been crowned national champion. Washington placed third as a sophomore before being national runner-up last year.

At 112 pounds, luck seemed to be in the corner of Tim Frymyer. In the first round Frymyer's challenger was found academically ineligible, and the junior was on his way to the finals.

Frymyer lost a 3-2 split decision to Navy's Tracy Howard, the same fighter whom he had defeated in New York City this year on a 3-2 split decision.

"It was a cat and mouse fight, but Howard was the cat," commented Cox. "Frymyer outboxed Howard, but these two are so close that if they fought 100 times, each would win 50," said Cox.

This marks the second time Frymyer has earned runner-up honors. The junior will be back next year to go for the gold.

Perhaps the greatest surprise of the evening came at 156 pounds, where Bald Eagle Steve Greber knocked out highly touted Frank Delzompo of California. Delzompo was cited as being one of the toughest, hardest hitting fighters in the tournament. The knock-out came at 1:10 of the first round.

Greber then lost a 3-2 decision to Navy's Greg Christmas, but again fought a hard battle. In the final round Greber staggered the Navy fighter, but lost at the bell.

"Had the fight lasted 10 more seconds the fight would have gone to Greber," said Cox. "I thought maybe Steve should have won, but it was close."

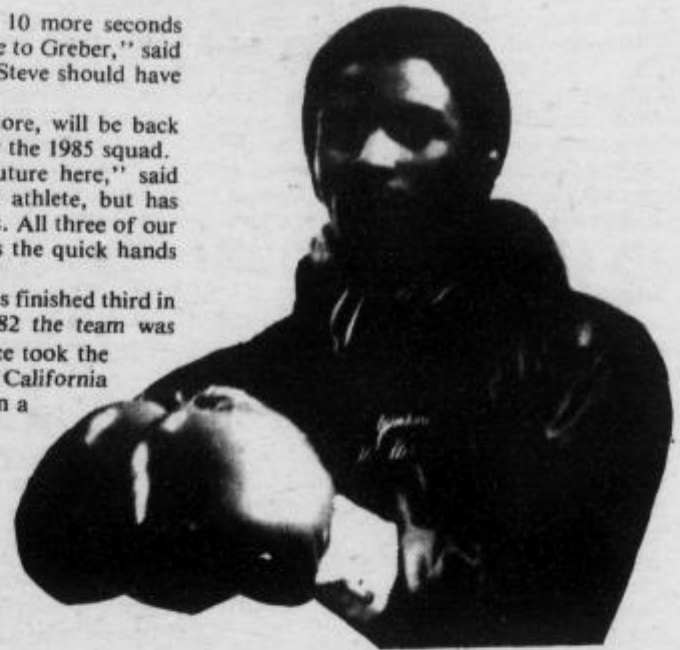

Greber, just a sophomore, will be back again next year to bolster the 1985 squad.

"Steve has a bright future here," said Cox. "He is not a great athlete, but has good, quick boxing hands. All three of our national qualifiers possess the quick hands needed in boxing."

Last year the Bald Eagles finished third in the country, while in 1982 the team was fourth. This year Air Force took the team honors, followed by California and Central Connecticut in a tie for second. The Bald Eagles were close behind in third place.

Frymyer and Greber may be back for the Haven boxers again next year, but for senior Dave Washington, there was no better way to end a fabulous boxing career than with a national championship.

After going to Nationals in 1981, LHU boxing great Jesse Shaw turned professional.

Dave Washington became the first LHU collegiate national boxing champion Saturday by virtue of his decision over Sander Wolf of Ohio University.

Lacrosse team loses two games in New York

By Dave Prusak

Opponents Ithaca and Cortland dealt the Lock Haven University (LHU) lacrosse team its first two losses of the young season this past weekend in New York.

On Sunday, Cortland University scored the last six goals of the game and went on to a convincing 11-3 victory over LHU.

Scoring goals for LHU in the loss to Cortland were sophomore Sheila Murphy, junior Rhoda Thorn, and senior Mary Buzby. Goalie Chris Cortellessa made seven saves, while Cortland keeper Lisa Christiansen stopped nine.

On Saturday, Ithaca College built up a five goal halftime advantage and held on for a 11-7 win over LHU.

Scoring goals for LHU in the loss to Ithaca were senior Joan Laird (3), Thorn (2), Murphy, and senior Mary Beth Driscoll. Cortellessa had 13 saves, while Ithaca goalie Andrea Norton stopped nine.

Following the loss to Ithaca, LHU coach Rose Ann Neff said, "We didn't have a very good team performance against Ithaca. They (Ithaca) had a five goal lead at the half and in the end it was just too little too late for us."

Neff added, "On offense we clumped and clustered in front of the goal cage instead of spreading out for open lanes to shoot through. We did better in the second half but our shooting wasn't accurate. On defense we didn't put enough pressure on their players. We left them pass and catch at will."

After the defeat at Cortland, Neff said, "Cortland had players with blitzing speed. Sooner or later a score will occur when you get two player advantages because of speed on offense."

Neff added, "We had a lot of opportunities but our offense didn't deliver for us. We had poor angles and bad shot selection. They (Cortland) wore our defense down and beat us to ground balls."

The JV team beat Ithaca 7-3 and Cortland 9-1. Nora Sharkey had three goals against Ithaca and Kelly Kinckner had the hat trick versus Cortland to lead the wins.

Tomorrow the 1-2 lacrosse team will host Slippery Rock at 3 p.m. in their home opener. Laird leads the team with eight goals. Thorn has scored five.

Lady Eagles have winning streak snapped; Lassen carrying hot bat

By Christa Landas

The Lady Bald Eagles softballers had their five game winning streak snapped by Bucknell University in a doubleheader Monday.

It looked as if Bucknell would prove to be an easy match-up as the Lady Bald Eagles took the first game of the doubleheader, 8-0. Beth Hess pitched two strikeouts and three walks for LHU.

Bonnie Lassen was 2 for three and hit a double. Sandy Elstrodt and Lori Ferguson both had RBI singles.

In the second half of the doubleheader, the game was tied 1-1 until the seventh inning when Bucknell caught fire and scored two more runs to take the win from LHU, 3-1. Staib was the losing pitcher for Lock Haven.

Staib and Kreisher were 2 for 3 in the batting department for the Lady Eagles. Heiges scored off a wild pitch for the only Lock Haven run.

LHU was 2-1 going into Saturday's East Stroudsburg contest and came out with a 4-1 record.

In the first game, Lock Haven easily beat ESU, 7-3. Pitcher, Kathy Kreisher had two strikeouts and two walks for the Lady Eagles.

Bonnie Lassen was the only LHU player with multiple hits. She went 2 for 3 with one RBI single. Tina Martin had a triple in the winning effort.

The second game was closer at 2-1 and the cold, windy weather took its toll as many errors were committed. Sandy Staib was the victorious pitcher for LHU.

Wendy Heiges stole third as the score stood at 1-1 and then came home on a wild pitch by ESU for the crucial security run.

"Wendy Heiges is a heads-up player. She stole third on her own," commented Coach Wayne Allison.

Coach Allison said, "We hit well and had some timely hits in pressure situations which is a good sign. East Stroudsburg is a good team and we played well against them, so I was happy with the wins."

Next for the 5-2 Lady Bald Eagles women's softball team is Slippery Rock University at home Wednesday.

Fulbright scholar awards available to American scholars

The Council for International Exchange of Scholars, through the United States Information Agency, has received from agencies and embassies abroad the list of Fulbright Scholar Awards available to American Scholars. Competition begins in early April, with published information and applications released directly to college and university campuses. Information mailings also go to over 50,000 newsletters and journals, professional organizations and associations, libraries, and interested scholars.

Usually covering periods of two to ten months, Fulbright Scholar Awards are available in all academic fields and a wide range of professions. This year's offerings include approximately 275 awards for postdoctoral research, about a third of the total. The remainder are for college and university lecturing or for consultative or teaching positions with governmental bodies or other professional institutions such as hospitals, orchestras and theatres, museums and cultural centers, and the news media.

Over 100 countries, in all geographic areas of the world, offer awards under the Fulbright program. Approximately 750 awards are available this year. Application deadline for 1985-86 are: June 15, 1984 - Australia, India, and Latin American and the Caribbean; September 15, 1984 - Africa, Asia (except India), Europe, and the Middle East.

Applications and information are available from Dr. Harvey Sterns at Lock Haven University. Prospective applicants may also write directly to the Council of International Exchange of Scholars, an affiliate of the American Council on Education, which organizes and carries out the annual awards competition. All applications are reviewed by recognized specialists both in the applicant's professional and academic discipline and in the chosen geographic area. The Presidentially appointed Board of Foreign Scholarships makes final selections, with the agreement of agencies in the host country abroad.

Established in 1947 to promote mutual understanding between citizens of the United States and other nations throughout the world, the Fulbright Program is funded and administered by the United States Information Agency. Since 1947, approximately 50,000 Americans have received awards. In addition, almost 150,000 foreign recipients of awards have visited the United States as Fulbright Scholars.

Health and Phys Ed courses scheduled for summer

During the first summer session from June 4 to 22, the University will offer a variety of courses in health and physical education for students majoring in the subject and for those in other majors wishing to meet their general education requirements, as well as for those interested in taking an elective.

One-credit activity courses will include, Racquet Sports, from noon to 2 p.m. each weekday, with instruction in tennis and racquet ball for the beginner and for those who would like to strengthen their game.

The Water Safety Instructors Class, will be held in the Zimmerli Pool from noon to 2 p.m. on weekdays to provide competency in water safety and certification needed for employment.

Two-credit courses will include Safety Concepts, First Aid, and Emergency Procedures; Care and Prevention of Athletic Injuries, for future physical educators and athletic trainers; and Personal and Community Health, made up of units of instruction applicable to all.

A course in "The Organization and Administration of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation," for three credits, will also be held. The course is designed to help in the conduct of programs for other people, as well as how to handle details and arrangements in a well organized manner. All will be held each weekday from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m.

The second summer session from June 25 to July 27 will provide a number of three-credit courses designed to study, understand, and appreciate the human "machine."

Human Physiology will offer an analysis of the various systems of the body, 8:00 to 9:49 a.m. each weekdays.

Human Anatomy, will explain the composition of the body, including the origins, insertions, and actions of body parts, from 10:00 to 11:49 a.m.

Physiology of Exercise, from 12:30 to 2:19 p.m., will examine the effects of various forms and kinds of activity on the body's systems.

A new course on Personal Physical Fitness, will be offered for one credit from 12:30 to 2:19 p.m. It offers a basic approach to preparing and following a personal program of exercise, adapted to each person's ability and needs. Kinesiology, a study of the action of muscles and joints and how the parts of the body move, will be held from 2:30 to 4:19 p.m. daily.

Adult summer sessions scheduled

Three courses during the summer session at appealing times are being offered for adults here at Lock Haven. These courses, however, are open to all students.

Introduction to Computers and Programming is scheduled for Mondays and Wednesdays from 6 to 9:30 p.m. The course runs from June 25 through July 27.

Fundamentals of Speech will be Tuesdays and Thursdays, 6 to 9:30 p.m., June 25 through July 27.

Science for the Elementary Grades will be from June 25 through July 27. Days and times for this course will be announced later.

These courses are open to interested Continuing Education students.

All students are expected to register on the first day of each session. Registration is held in Sullivan Hall between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Schwarz to participate in seminar

The National Endowment for the Humanities selected Dr. John Schwarz, Professor of Music here at the University, to participate in a seminar for college professors at the University of Michigan in July and August 1984.

Schwarz is one of 12 professors from colleges and universities around the country who are invited to work with American Music authority Dr. Richard Crawford. The topics of the seminar include American Music and its history.

The seminar provides the participants with the opportunity to work with specialized library collections of American Music.

Dr. Schwarz took part in a seminar which dealt with American Music before the Civil War in the summer of 1976 at the University of Kansas.

Dr. Schwarz is a member of the American Musicology Society, the Sonneck Society, another music society that specializes in American Music, and the Royal Musical Association of Great Britain.

Principals to learn "Who's Driving?"

The Road to Educational Excellence, "Who's Driving?" is the subject for annual conference of the Central Pennsylvania Association of Secondary School Principals. The conference, sponsored in cooperation with the University Career Planning and Placement Center, is scheduled for Wednesday, May 9, at LHU's Seig Conference Center in Lamar.

Topics for discussion include current legislation concerning education, discipline, curriculum standards and testing, as well as others.

The conference planners urge informal dress for the occasion.

Reservations should be received no later than May 3. Mail the $12 per person registration fee with the reservation. Make all checks payable to "Central PA Seco-dary School Principals." Send the reservation and check to: Mr. C. Herbert Larson, Jr., Lock Haven University.

Aviation teacher training slated

A unique aviation aerospace teacher training program is scheduled for this summer here at the college.

"Lock Haven '84" an aerospace teacher program for teachers, administrators and counselors will be held at LHU from June 25 to July 13. The class offers six hours of either graduate or undergraduate credit.

The course offers preparations for FAA written exams as well as exploring aerospace history, and the socioeconomic, political and cultural impact of the aerospace age. The nature of space and rocket fundamentals will also be discussed.

Demonstrations, guest speakers and other presentations will be utilized in both the graduate and undergraduate sections. The laboratory phase of the course includes five hours of dual flight instruction for both the basic and advanced section participants. A grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation, Bureau of Aviation, pays for a substantial part of the flight laboratory.

Dormitory rooms and cafeteria meals will be available for both the participants and their families. Total cost for the class will be approximately $890.

Persons wishing more information should contact Professor Alfred Hoberman, Chairman of the Chemistry/Physics/Geosciences Department at LHU. This will be the seventh year that Hoberman has directed this program in connection with Eagle Aviation.
