Part four of the yearbook investigation series Will anyone have to pay the $10,000?

By Matt Connor and Debra Pinkerton
Staff Reporters

The question on the mind of everyone who reads the Eagle Eye is, "Will anyone have to cough up $10,000 as a result of the lawsuit filed against Aeries Yearbook editors Brian Lathrop and William McVaugh and Lock Haven University?"

Most observers would agree that the four most likely candidates are the Student Cooperative Council, the university, the editors of the yearbook, and the sales representative for Taylor Publishing Co.

An investigation into the SCC's possible liabilities begins with David Cox, Student Union Administrator, a professional employee of the SCC.

David Cox
"At that time the SCC recognized the yearbook..."

When Cox was asked if the yearbook was recognized officially by the SCC, he said, "The editors wrote a constitution and submitted it to the SCC."

"At that time the SCC recognized the yearbook as an official organization."

When Cox was asked why he was mentioned in paragraphs 6 and 8 in the filed lawsuit, he replied, "No comment."

According to paragraph six in the lawsuit, Cox contacted Charles Feiner, Advisor of the East Stroudsburg University yearbook, sometime in February, 1984.

It goes on to say that Cox told Feiner Lock Haven University was looking for a yearbook publisher and asked Feiner for a recommendation.

Feiner is said to have recommended Taylor Publishing Co. and to have agreed to ask someone from Taylor to contact Cox.

Paragraph 8 of the lawsuit says that Edward J. Patrick, Jr., sales representative for the company, arranged a meeting with Cox to take place at the end of February, 1984, at Lock Haven University.

The paragraph goes on to say that Cox then referred Patrick to Defendants Lathrop, and McVaugh, and directed the salesman to the Yearbook office.

When we asked Cox about these events, he suggested we call Attorney Mike Hanna, who represents the SCC, for further information.

After having paragraphs 6 and 8 read to him over the telephone, Hanna said, "They [Patrick and Taylor Publishing Co.] are alleging that Dave Cox is an employee of the defendant, Lock Haven University, and, therefore, I've advised Cox and the SCC executive committee not to comment."

In a related issue found in paragraph 12 of the lawsuit, Adviser Bernard C. Dornisch was said to have met several times during the balance of 1984 with Patrick.

When Cox was asked if the SCC approved Dornisch as an adviser to the yearbook, he said, "It isn't always up to the SCC to approve or disapprove an adviser."

Specifically named as defendants in the suit are editors Brian Lathrop and William McVaugh.

The Eagle Eye contacted Attorney Frederick Lingle, who said the editors had employed him as legal counsel. Lingle said he couldn't give us any details about the situation because of lawyer-client confidentiality.

Lingle did say, however, "On behalf of my clients, I am preparing to take action against the Eagle Eye. One of the options we are considering is a libel suit."

Frederick Lingle
"Preparing to take action against the Eagle Eye..."

The Eagle Eye consulted LHU professors who are experts on libel law. They said that one of the conditions that must exist in order to meet the definition of libel is that there must be an accusation resulting in harm to a person's character.

The Eagle Eye has not at any time accused the editors of committing any acts that would in any way lower a reader's opinion of their high moral character.

Besides the editors, the other defendant named in the lawsuit is the university.

According to the lawsuit, Sales Representative Patrick believed that at

Pres. Craig Dean Willis
"Our posture didn't vary in any way..."

all times he was dealing with Lock Haven University.

University President Dr. Craig Dean Willis declined to comment when asked if the university would have to pay the $10,000 if Taylor won the suit.

When pressed as to whether the university had distanced itself in any way to the production of a yearbook, Willis said, "Our posture didn't vary in any way. We were asked to do that job [provide an advisor and an office] and agreed to do it."

"But no, we didn't do anything ourselves beyond that."

The last and, at first glance, most unlikely of the four candidates, is the sales representative for Taylor Publishing Co.

A second look at the Publishing Agreement, however, shows that the only official from Taylor to sign is salesman Patrick.

He said it is common practice for the sales representative to be the only signatory for the company.

Nevertheless, this seemingly routine procedure ultimately may cost Patrick nearly $10,000.

In his opinion, if the company loses the suit, then he would have to pay for the yearbooks.

"If they lose, I'm the guy that pays the $10,000," he said. "I'm the guy who takes the loss."

Big voter turnout for executive elections

By Cindi Gillmor
News Editor

More than 19 percent of the students, a record number, voted in the SCC Executive Elections last Tuesday.

Winning with 292 votes Kevin McNamara became the new SCC President. Mike Moyer, the other candidate for president, received 218 votes.

Moyer said that he was very pleased with the voter turnout.

He also stated that it was a good election and that he was very happy Scott Bitner, the treasurer on his ticket, won.

"I congratulate and wish the best of luck to McNamara and his people," said Moyer.

Moyer also added, "I like to thank all my supporters and everyone who voted for me."

Steve Donaldson received 218 votes for vice president and Howard Briggs, the other candidate for vice president, received 193. Also, Pamela Davis, who ran as an independent received 95 votes.

For treasurer, Scott Bitner received 250 votes while the other candidate, Bob Rote, came close to winning with 249 votes.

Amy Schultz received 278 votes for corresponding secretary and Andrea Penny, the other candidate, received 223 votes.

For recording secretary Debbie Ikehara received 263 votes and the other candidate, Jennifer Brady, received 240 votes.

Sharon Bange the only candidate for pub administrator won with 477 votes.

At Wednesday night's SCC meeting many who were present congratulated McNamara for his victory.

Something like Senior-itis

There's only one thing worse than college life, and that's life without college. I'm positive that every senior immediately can (at least in part) agree with me about this one.

Let's face it, the only thing most of us are good at is going to school. We sure should be good at it, we've been practicing for about 17 years.

Then we're forced to leave the safety of college, and go out into the real world and become something resembling a responsible human.

Look at some of the most prominent responsible humans in our present lives--Professors. They've never left the college scene, yet they're expecting us to go and venture forth, alone against the world.

Here's the most menacing reality confronting us poor unfortunate graduates: A real-honest-to-goodness JOB.

At one point I think that most seniors have this delusion that their education will ensure them some kind of good and well paying job. Wrong!

I believe that it's called "paying your dues." This translates into a job that's not quite what you imagined. A school where you get mugged in the halls, a gym class that still uses peach baskets for basketball rims, a computer company with one computer and 20 employees, a newspaper that still uses typewriters, and a biology job that uses a Capt. Crunch Super Dooper Magnifying Glass to study specimens.

What's worse is that you have to track these lousy jobs down. Bend over backwards to get an interview and kiss fanny to stay in the running for that job.

If it sounds like I'm a little bitter, your right. As of now I'm digging ditches this summer. (If anybody's father is an editor of a paper, give me a call, I do windows).

Seniors--Keep in there swinging and one of those punches will eventually land you a job. Never give up or give in. Sombdoy out there wants you. Remember there's always grad school.

Underclassmen--Stay in college as long as the funds hold out.

Professors-- Cut all seniors a break. They have a few other things on their minds.

Cultural weekend planned

A night of high culture is on tap this weekend with events planned for all evenings.

The Modern Dance Club and its sub-group Jazzin' Out will be performing Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. in Sloan Theatre.

There Spring Concert will feature some very creative numbers with both solo and group performances.

"We're ready to go, this performance is going to impress everybody. There are a lot of talented dancers who are going to give their all to make the show a success," said club advisor and main choreographer, Harold Lucas.

General admission is $2 and students, faculty and staff are admitted free.

An all Beethoven Concert by the Lock Haven University Choir directed by Gary Renzelman, the Nittany Valley Orchestra directed by Jerome Hoberman and concert pianist Fred Moyer will be performing at 8 p.m. Sunday April 20 in the Sloan Theater.

The Orchestra will open the concert with the "Coriolanus Overture" followed by the "Piano Concerto Number Four in G Major" with Fred Moyer as soloist.

After intermission, the 70-voice Lock Haven University Choir, conducted by Gary Renzelman, will perform a Beethoven round "Im Arme Der Liebe" (The Evening Falls) and five scotch Irish songs which Beethoven wrote to the order of George Thomson, a zealous and enterprising musical amateur of Edinburgh.

The performance of "Choral Fantasia" is dedicated to former LHU Dean of Arts and Sciences, Dr. Hugh Williamson, who has long been a strong supporter of music at LHU.

This concert is presented as one of the 1985-86 Lock Haven University Artist Series. Concerts, sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Student Cooperative Council.

The tickets which are $4.00 for adults and $1.00 for children can be purchased at the door (Free admission for LHU students with student identification card).

Student Spotlight

Two students chosen for honors

By Donna Fleisher
Staff Reporter

Deb Kreidler and Connie Burgess will study "Cultures in Conflict" this summer in an honors program sponsored by the State System of Higher Education (SSHE).

The students were accepted on the basis of their grade-point averages, and were only two of the 28 chosen from the 82,000 students in the SSHE's 14 schools, according to Chancellor James McCormick.

The six-week program, located at Bloomsburg University, will involve two courses, one of which provides an in-depth study of the conflicting Arab and Israeli societies, their backgrounds, and how their problems relate to the American foreign policy.

Included in this course are workshops and trips to Philadelphia, New York City and Washington, D.C., which are intended to better the student's knowledge of model United Nations and summit meetings.

Both students feel honored and fortunate to be a part of such a selective course. Kreidler says the study will make her "more aware of other peoples' cultures and styles of thinking."

Dr. James Knauer, a professor of political science, served as a coordinator for this program and considers it to be an "exceptional opportunity for Lock Haven students."

The entry competition for the program was very stiff, he continued.

The summer honors program is open to freshmen and sophomores and pays all student expenses.

Burgess commented on the Arab-Israeli conflict and its effect upon the U.S.

"These relations are very important to us, and I'm pleased that I will be learning more about them," she stated.

Kreidler admits to not being a traditional student at age 35, but has a view on this opportunity she believes will have positive effects on everyone.

"The more you know about different fields, the more you know about yourself and you're more able to apply your teachings," she concluded.

Police Beat

Spring weather causes crimes

By Sue Berger
Law Enforcement Columnist

The warm weather that comes after spring break usually causes the crime rate to go up, according to Lieutenant Dennis Grenninger of Law Enforcement.

He said that spring fever hits and people stay out later which leads to more thefts and acts of vandalism in March and April than there are in the winter months.

Law Enforcement is currently investigating several thefts and acts of vandalism that happened since spring break.

Campus police are looking for the individuals who stole two microphones from Sloan Theater. The microphones cost about $250.

They are also investigating the theft of an overhead projector from Price Auditorium and the theft of two telephones. A phone was stolen from Stevenson Library, and another phone was stolen from a dormitory room.

Law Enforcement is looking into cases of a stolen purse from Sullivan Hall, a stolen radio from a student's dormitory room, and stolen t-shirts from a faculty member's office.

In acts of vandalism, campus police are investigating cases of people dumping their garbage outside of their residence halls.

They are also investigating damage done to the public address system and a fire alarm in one dormitory as well as the report of a false fire alarm in another dormitory.

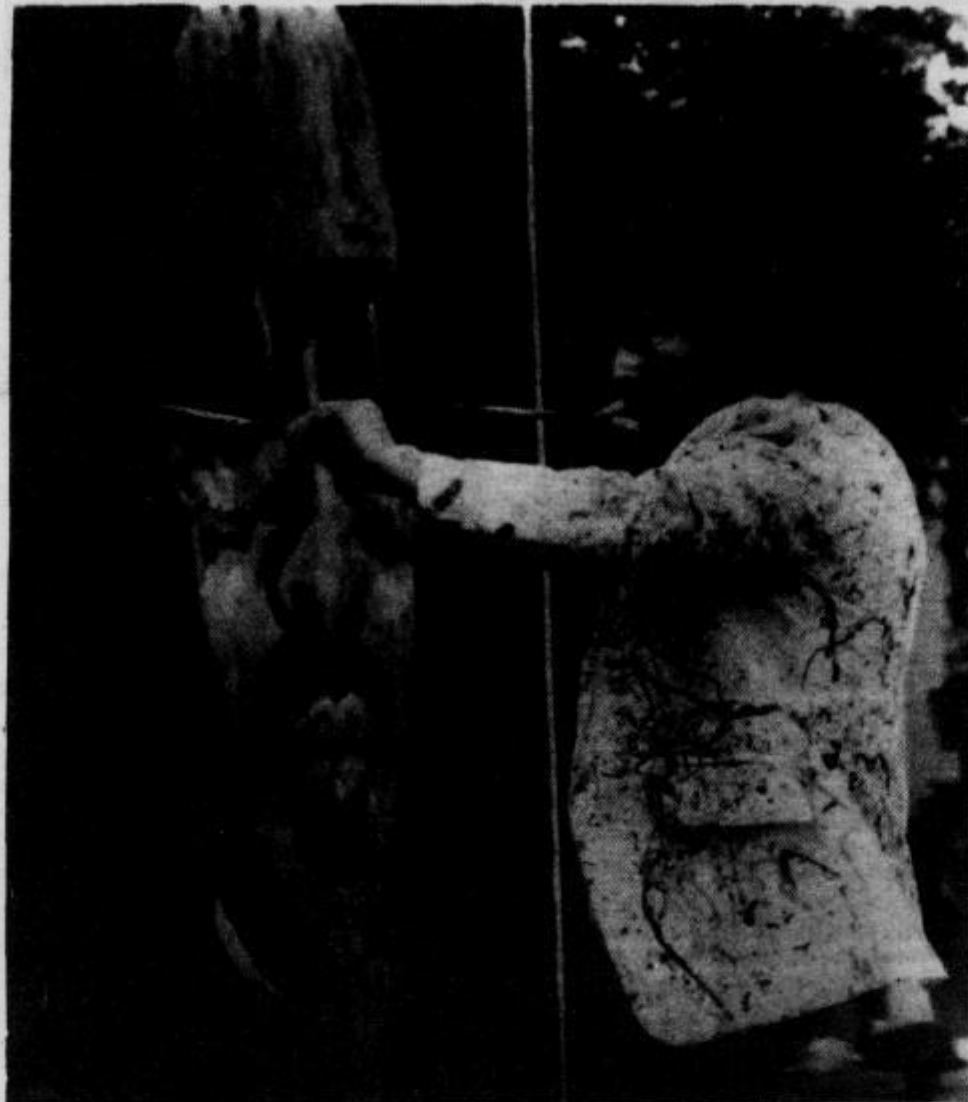

Campus police are looking for those responsible for breaking a window at Roger's Gymnasium and for those who broke a window in one of the residence halls.

With the nice weather that should be coming, Grenninger reminds students that sunbathing is not permitted on the roofs of any campus buildings.

He also said that students should not enter any of the area cemeteries, or they may be cited by city police for criminal trespassing.

Comedians "Make Me Laff"

By Chris Fischer
Features Editor

The second "Make Me Laff" show at LHU was held last night at the PUB snackbar.

Two Philadelphia comedians, Todd Glass and Lee Fielding, first entertained the crowd with 20 minute routines each.

In charge of the evening was Toni Giusti, the SCC Cultural Affairs Chairman.

Giusti said, "There was a pretty good student turn-out. It was a good break for students before finals."

The "Make Me Laff" show consisted of the selection of three audience members who came up on stage one at a time.

The audience member sat in a chair while each comedian had one minute to try and make the person laugh.

After the two minute comedy barrage, if the audience member was able to successfully hold his laughter, he walked off stage with $25.

"I wanted to show students how their money is being spent. We could have had a lecture series, but I thought the students would rather see two professional comedians for free," said Giusti.

Comedian Glass is quickly becoming one of the most sought after comedy acts in the country today.

Glass has performed at the Westbury Music Fair, the Valley Forge Musical Fair, the Tropicana in Atlantic City, and recently returned from Broadway where he toured with Patti LaBelle.

Giusti said, "I've seen him (Glass) three of four times ... he's funny! He relates to you on our level."

The SCC Cultural Affairs committee is also making plans for next week's arrival of Denny Dent and his "two-fisted art attack."

Next Thursday at 8 p.m. at Price Auditorium, Dent, the world's only Rock-and-Roll artist will perform.

Giusti said, "I've heard he's packed houses at Penn State, West Chester, and RIT."

Dent is a two-listed artist who is able in minutes to paint portraits of music personalities in which music he is playing at the time.

According to Giusti, Dent gets caught up in the music that he plays, and is able to bring the audience to their feet with excitement.

"It should be a really good show," Giusti said.

Dent uses eight foot high canvas for his paintings.

Reviews of Dent have included, "Dent may be the biggest shot of adrenalin the art field has had in centuries," by the Los Angeles Herald, and "Denny Dent has taken the Las Vegas strip by storm," by the Las Vegas Valley Times.

The LHU student band "Clockwork" will provide entertainment in between Dent's gigs.

Go ahead LHU, try some new colored hair cosmetics

By Patricia Durfee
Fashion Columnist

If you ask someone what is new right about now, they are bound to say absolutely nothing. While the weather is unpredictable and you have the LHU blues, the world of fashion is exploding with color!

Would you like to add a little snap to your outfit this weekend when you go out?

Along with spring styles termed "fast fashion," hair cosmetics can be added to the list.

Almost everyone is a little reluctant to color their hair permanently, but what about for just one night?

Take that mousey brown hair and add some highlights for a look you may never want to lose.

Clairol, Sasson, and Sebastian all offer gels, mousses and sprays in ever color imaginable, and all of them wash out after one shampooing.

Subtle changes for brunette or black hair can appear darker or highlighted by using a copper or cherry color.

Apply a mousse or gel when your hair is dry for a sleek, spiked look, or when wet before styling for just the color change.

Blondes can experiment the most, going with an entirely new shade or highlighting what they already have.

If you are really bold, touch up your hair to match your outfit, or stencil a design on your hair.

Right now you can find these hair cosmetics in sample sizes because they are new on the market.

You may not want to set foot on campus after experimenting, but you will never know until you try!

Sid Caesar to perform at Millersville

Millersville The famous comic Sid Caesar is scheduled to perform and lecture at MU tonight at 8:30 p.m.

Caesar will perform bits from several of his routines including, "The Fly," "The Professor," and "The Italian Waiter."

He will also reveal behind-the-scenes stories about his legendary TV program, "The Show of Shows."

Caesar plans to describe how the show was assembled each week by a team of then unknown writers: Neil Simon, Woody Allen, Mel Brooks, and Carl Reiner.

Bloomsburg Due to the increase of eating disorders among college populations, a support group has recently been formed.

Students have been offered counseling for two of the most common eating disorders: Bulimia and Anorexia Nervosa.

Bulimia is characterized by heavy binge eating, and then purging themselves by throwing-up or the use of laxatives.

An individual who deliberately starves him or herself is considered Anorexic.

The devastating consequences of these disorders affect the victims physically, socially and emotionally.

To help those who have the disorders begin to overcome them, the support group plans to meet for three sessions in April and one in May.

Kutztown Several cases of students making phone calls and billing third parties have been reported in the past two years.

The 12 to 15 students involved have been charged with "theft of services."

The offense could lead them to $300 in fines and/or imprisonment.

Last semester, a student made 14 calls in three days, and then billed a third party in New York (without the individual's consent).

According to Detective Don Sheetz, "The student had admitted to making several other calls prior to the arrest."

In order to save court time, Bell Atlantic settled with a plea bargain. The student pleaded guilty in exchange for a reduction of the charge.

In this case where calls were charged to the New York resident, the student has to pay a fine, make restitution and is restricted to making only on-campus calls.

The Dean of Administration said students must be forewarned that using the telephone in an illegal way could result in a criminal record.

Opening Night

"The Deep" flows into Price this weekend

By Ken Foster
Movie Columnist

Sunken treasure, drug smuggling, a beautiful woman in a wet t-shirt and a plot by the author of Jaws should add up to a lot of excitement on the screen, right? Not quite. Somehow the filmmakers have come up with something that is just not very involving and certainly not too deep.

Nick Nolte, Jacqueline Bisset, and Louis Gossett star in Peter Benchley's The Deep. Unfortunately, director Peter Yates lacks the skill Steven Spielberg used to transform Benchley's first mediocre novel into a classic. The film may be more interesting in retrospect, as many of the artists involved have achieved success elsewhere.

The plot of The Deep resembles a co-ed Hardy Boys Adventure. While scuba diving in Bermuda, Bisset and Nolte come across the wreckage of two ships. The one that strikes the interest of our duo is an 18th century merchant ship carrying a cargo of jewels. However, a more recent ship has settled on top of this, along with several million dollars worth of morphine. Thus the stage is set for a race to see who will get the cargoes up first, with a local drug dealer (Gossett) joining the battle.

The underwater photography is excellent and the action is enough to hold anyone's interest, but the performances are undistinguished with two exceptions. The first is the late Robert Shaw, who comes to the aid of Nick and Jackie. The other remarkable performance is given by Ms. Bisset's wet t-shirt, which is impressively transparent.

Sponsored by the S.C.C., The Deep will be shown in Price Auditorium Saturday and Sunday at 8pm.

"A Bridge Across Tomorrow"

Lori Budinger
Literary Columnist

I love a love story. I love a love story even more if it has a happy ending. That's why I really enjoyed "A Bridge Across Tomorrow."

The book is the latest by Richard Bach, known for his best selling books, "Johnathon Livingston Seagull" and "Illusions."

"A Bridge Across Tomorrow" is not exciting. It is the kind of book that you read when you want to relax and mellow out.

The only way to describe the book is to say that it is like spending time with someone you thought you knew, then end up realizing you didn't know them at all.

Bach delves into his sub-conscience to find himself. These journeys inside himself, send you inside your own mind thinking about related experiences, or on thought patterns you find pleasant.

The love story is really a search to find a soul mate. Bach believes that somewhere his perfect mate exists, he just has to find her.

His search leads him to his soul mate, and also helps you to realize that your perfect mate is out there, Somewhere!

"A Bridge Across Tomorrow" is for people who love a love story. This book will also bring out the romantic in anyone who reads it.

"A Bridge Across Tomorrow" is available in the Student Bookstore and is number ten on the campus best seller list.

Talking Heads sing about "Little Creatures"

By Lisa Falzetta
Music Columnist

Talking Heads -- "Little Creatures" (1985) Sire Records

The newest album from the Talking Heads, "Little Creatures," is a bit of a new twist for the band. The group who previously wrote about psycho killers, has written a whole album and titled it for one person -- a child.

Actually, "Little Creatures" is about having children in general! The story behind the album all started when band members Chris Frantz (drums), and Tina Weymouth (bass guitar) had a baby before the album was recorded.

Group leader David Byrne then got the idea for the title and the songs. Some of which have obvious references to children, such as "Creatures Of Love" and "Stay Up Late" (which is about a baby who is constantly woken up).

For the most part, the album is a nice piece of work from the band who brought us last year's incredible album "Stop Making Sense". I don't think that the group can top themselves after "Stop Making Sense," but some of these songs are strong contenders.

MTV favorite "And She Was" is a light, dreamy tune, with Jerry Harrison's keyboards playing a big part, but not taking over the whole song. "Road To Nowhere" is the same way, the keyboards are clear as a bell, but it is the song as a whole that stands up.

I did not care much for "Perfect World" and "Walk It Down."

Both of these songs are a little dull, and they aren't as memorable as the songs I have previously mentioned.

When you play this album, chances are you'll play something like "Stay Up Late" or "And She Was," but most of the album will make you sit up and take notice. No album is perfect, and "Little Creatures" is no exception, but it is still a very enjoyable LP.

All in all, I would recommend it!

Tune in to the campus radio station, 90.3 FM, WLHC to hear selections from "Little Creatures".

Aerob-a-thon gigantic success

If you happened to enter Thomas Fieldhouse April 7, you would have seen a show that would make the Rockettes look boring.

Almost 100 participants and six instructors "aerobicised" their bodies to three hours of upbeat tunes spun by one energetic D.J.

This extravaganza was the first annual Aerob-a-thon sponsored by Delta Psi Kappa, the National Professional Health, Physical Education and Recreation Fraternity.

This event was held to help establish a scholarship fund for an LHU student majoring in Health Sciences, Physical Education, or Recreation.

According to Bobbi Burdett, the president of Delta Psi Kappa, participating teams of 6 people got their friends and colleagues to sponsor them, and prizes were given by Delta Psi Kappa for the most sponsor money collected by a team. First prize was $120, second prize was $60, and third prize was $30.

Sixteen teams entered the Aerob-a-thon. A total of $711.92 was collected by the participants, and a net profit of $518.92 was made.

The top four teams in collected money were: "29 and Holding" a faculty team who collected $195; "Tuffskins" who collected $126.50; "Energy Inc." who collected $77.85; and "High Kickers" who collected $49.

Burdett said, "I can't even begin to thank everyone who made all of this possible."

Runners sweep tri-meets

By Bill Alexander
Sports Reporter

Although the weather was bad on Tuesday, the men's and women's track teams shined bright at their first home meet of the '86 season.

The women's team swept all 16 first-place finishes and dominated the meet scoring 108 points. Baptist Bible was second with 32 and St. Francis third with four.

Kim Taylor led the Lady Eagles with victories in the 100-meters (13.2), 200-meters (27.64) and ran a leg of the winning 400 and 1600-meter relays.

Deanna Hoffer, Betsy Myers, and Sue McGuire each had three victories for the Lady Eagles.

Hoffer won the long jump (16' 3 1/2"), the triple jump (34' 5") and ran a leg on the 400-meter relay team.

Myers captured the shot put (30'), the discus (94') and the javelin (99') and McGuire took the high jump (5') and ran on the 400 and 1600-meter relay teams.

Double winners included Pam Noll in the 1500 and 3000-meter runs, Ann Mullen in the 400-meter hurdles and the 1600-meter relay, and Sherry Groff in the 400 and 1600-meter relays.

LHU women's softball is on a roll, winning four games in a row. Since their disappointing losses to Bloomsburg, coach Wayne Allison's team has been unstoppable.

Lock Haven knocked off Clarion Monday afternoon in both games of their conference double-header by the scores of 12-2 and 5-2.

Gail Hiestand picked up the win in the first game, striking out two and giving up two walks. Hiestand and catcher Kim Hasson went the whole game.

"Our pitching staff has been coming alive for us in the past four games," stated Hasson. "We hope we can keep it up down the stretch."

Ginny Neiss went 3-5 scoring two runs and knocking in three RBI's to stay among the PSAC hitting leaders. Neiss got a day off from the mound and let her batting do her job.

Cathy Staib and Hasson each had one hit, one run scored, and one RBI.

Mel Frohnheiser and Kim Osterhoudt went 2 for 3. Frohnheiser crossed the plate twice while Osterhoudt came across it three times and knocked in one run.

Sue Grubb took the loss for Clarion giving up seven walks and 10 hits.

In the second game freshman Janine Finelli picked up the win, giving up five hits, four walks and striking out one.

Lock Haven won the game in the first two innings, picking up two runs in each.

Staib led the Lady Eagles going 2-for-3 with one RBI and scoring two runs.

Frohnheiser went 2-for-4. Funk, Neiss, and Martin each had a hit.

Lock Haven is at the top of the Pennsylvania Conference Western Division with a 5-1 record and a .750 PCT. Overall, the Lady Eagles are 16-7 with a .696 PCT.

LHU will host Slippery Rock tomorrow at 1p.m.

Wrestling recruiting update

After the 1985-86 wrestling season came to an end, head coach Neil Turner and Tom Justice are hard at work recuting some of the best high school wrestlers in the east.

Kurt Howell, a four time state champion from Newark, Delaware was Lock Haven's to recruit, according to Turner.

Kurt is the brother of LHU wrestler Dicky Howell.

"It appears at this time that Howell is going to Clemson unless he changes his mind," said Turner.

Terry Chaney a two time Virginia state champ came to Lock Haven for a visit. Chaney was a 126 pounder but Turner

Sue Cornish hails from the city of Philadelphia, a town noted for its smorgasbord of fine Lacrosse talent on the high school level.

And while most of the talent is absorbed by West Chester University, considered the hub of the Lacrosse world, Lock Haven has been fortunate enough to have the services of Cornish for this, her fourth season with the Lady Eagles.

"She is definitely Division I Caliber," said Head Coach Rose Ann Neff. "She has all of the necessary skills to play well at that level. We're very lucky to have her."

Cornish already owns the record for goals in a single season (52, set in 1985, surpassing the old mark of 31, set by Joan Laird in 1984), and continues to add to her mark as the all-time leading scorer in Lock Haven history. Currently, the record is at 96, and if she continues on this year's pace, she will graduate with around 120 goals for her career.

Granted, this has not been a great year for Cornish from an offensive standpoint, but then again, when you consider that it has taken the respective Lacrosse coaches three years to become aware of her abilities, 16 goals thru six games of double and triple team coverage is by no means, a lack-luster performance.

On April 6, of this year, she was held to zero goals and zero assists against a tough Division III Cortland squad and for the first time since her freshman year, she was stopped cold.

That didn't seem to bother her, though,

Home Track Meet

Other winners were Sandy Adams in the 100-meter hurdles, Lisa Bergin in the 800-meter run, and Tina Gabert in the 400-meter dash.

Coming in second for the Lady Eagles were Ranae Kwiatkowski (shot put), McGuire (javelin), Bergin (1500), Lori Gallagher (100 hurdles), Liz Brady (800), Groff (400 hurdles), and Lori Jamison (3000).

In third place were Gail Simmons (100 hurdles), Gallagher (400 hurdles) and Kwiatkowski (discus). Jill LaPoint added a fourth in the 400-meter dash.

The men scored 81 points to St. Francis' 35 and Baptist Bible's 33.

Leroy Glossner, Tim Fuller and Mike Bachman led the Eagle's attack with three victories each.

Glossner won the 100-meters (11.42), the 200-meters (23.14) and ran a leg on the winning 400-meter relay team.

Fuller captured the 800 in 2:00.95, while Bachman won the 400 in 51.34. Both Fuller and Bachman ran legs of the 400 and winning 1600-meter relays.

Rob Eaton had two victories (400 and 1600-meter relays), Carl Fisher took the pole vault (10'), Dan Moffett captured the shot put (41' 5 1/2"), Todd Ritter won the because she's the type of athlete who abides by that old cliché "Give credit where credit is due."

"I can't do anything on the field without the team," said Cornish. "Their behind me and together are part of every goal I score."

Neff added, "Sue's the team leader by far. She's learned to work with the team and that has made us a better unit."

It certainly has made them a better team, and prior to this season, they had been considered legitimate contenders again for that conference crown that they so admirably claimed in the late 70's and early 80's

That coveted crown now belongs to the dynasty of the East, West Chester, who has literally owned the championship the last three years, and who don't appear to be in any hurry to give it back to the Lady Eagles.

Even Cornish admits that the task at hand is very difficult, if not virtually impossible. "West Chester is so dominant right now that a second place finish would be a celebration for us. That's about all we can hope for."

"I feel good about the individual goals that I have established. I have no regrets, but I wish the team could have done alot better," concluded Cornish.

And so this chapter of life will come to a close soon for the senior, who will next venture on to Grad school at East Stroudsburg. She also has hopes of becoming a tri-athlete, and if the past four years are any indication of what we can expect from her, it won't be long before more goals are accomplished, and more people are blessed by the presence of a outstanding athlete and individual.

javelin (145' 11"), Glen Gusciora won the high jump (6' 3"), and Joe Kravitz ran on the 1600-meter relay.

Capturing seconds for the Eagles were Bachman (long jump and 200), Moffett (discus and javelin), Rich Haubert (triple jump and high jump), and Joe Kravitz (800).

Coming in third were Fuller (triple jump), Gusciora (long jump), and Dan Sheredy (5000). Adding fourths were Ritter (shot put), Sheredy (1500), Greg Mahon (discus), and Joe Madrak (5000).

The next home meet for the track team is April 22 against St. Bonaventure.

The Lock Haven University women's lacrosse team had a great boost in confidence on Monday as the Lady Eagles beat Kutztown, 13-2.

Kathy Michner led off the LHU scoring 21 seconds into the game. Kutztown's Cynthia Rawa tied the game 14 seconds later. Sue Cornish gave the Lady Eagles back the lead, which they held for the rest of the game, with goals at 3:21 and 7:44.

Michner scored again at 13:14, followed by Lisa Coppock and Vicki Haber at 14:18 and 15:35 respectively. Cornish added yet another goal at 23:23, assisted by Michner, to finish out the half.

Nora Sharkey began the second half for LHU by scoring at 59 seconds, assisted by Karen Fry. Cornish followed at 3:38, Coppock at 10:28, and Fry at 11:43. Sharkey hit again at 13:09, and Cornish scored the final goal at 16:52.

In shots on goal, LHU had a 29-18 margin over Kutztown. Goalie Sue Baird had 10 saves.

The Lady Eagles will host Millersville on Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Lacrosse team finally pulls one out of the hat

Paul Keysol is scheduled to visit Lock Haven and wrestle at 167. Keysol was a Pennsylvania state champion.

At 177, Ben Oberly a two time state champ from New Jersey will visit the campus next week.

Mike Fuselly and Wade Rome a Florida state champion will be candidates at 190.

At Hwt, the two wrestlers Turner would like to get are Andy Cope and Ralph Stanley.

Big Greek week planned

By Dawn Jankowski
Staff Reporter

The end of the spring semester is coming up rather quickly, as the Greeks on campus prepare to celebrate by joining together in a series of events; namely, "Greek Week."

Greek week will feature events from April 21-27. The events have been discussed and planned by Greek representatives from every fraternity and sorority. Pam Bronner, a sister of Zeta tau Alpha sorority, followed through with her idea of all-Greek T-shirt day on Monday. All Greeks will wear the same T-shirts which have been designed by Kappa Delta Rho brother, Greg StClair.

Rod Watson, of Team Work Graphics, at Montoursville, is manufacturing the T-shirts. Nancy Hess, also a Zeta Tau Alpha sister, created the lettering of the T-shirts.

Monday evening a Trivial Pursuit Match will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the PUB. The finals will conclude on Tuesday evening.

The girls Greek sing-along will be presented at 1 p.m. in front of Price Auditorium on Tuesday. Each sorority will present a number of songs from their organization.

A volleyball tournament will be held in Zimmerli at 8 p.m. Tuesday evening.

The fraternity guys will perform in an airband from 5-7 p.m. in front of Price

Auditorium on Wednesday.

Water events will take place on Thursday beginning at 5:30 p.m. with a raft race in the Susquehanna River. Swimming events will be held in Zimmerli afterwards.

All of the Greeks on campus will gather at Hanna Park for a picnic dinner. Each person's meal ticket number will be given to the cafeteria, in turn the cafeteria will provide food for the picnic.

Each Greek organization is represented by someone who will assist running the picnic. They are as follows: ZTA Nancy Hess; AXA Ron Cummings and Brian Warenius; AET Lisa Keines; EΠ Chris Molinari; EEE Laura Trevis; AXP Ron Stetler; EK Deb Moore; KΔΠ Jim Weeks; ΦΜΔ Hector Fontan; TKE Bruce Kohl.

Professor Bill Burdett's recreation leadership class will be conducting the events on Sunday.

The Greek Olympics' main events on Sunday are as follows:

Frat Burger	3:30
3 Mile Race	3:30
Obstacle Course	3:40
Chariot Race	4:00
8-man-mile	4:20
Egg Toss	4:35
Softball throw	4:50
3-legged race	5:10
Tug-of-war	5:45

ΦΜΔ's provide night escort

By Jennifer Brady
Staff Reporter

An escort service for any student who must walk to a campus building alone at night is now being offered by the Phi Mu Delta fraternity.

The service runs Sunday through Thursday evenings from 9:30 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. Students may be escorted from any building on campus, such as: the PUB, Stevenson Library, any of the classroom halls, to any dormitory--or to the parking lot for off-campus students.

Stephen Schulz, public relations coordinator for the fraternity said the brothers decided to offer the service after learning of students who are uneasy about walking alone at night.

He said, "We started on the suggestion of a freshman who said that though many students leave their classes with friends, they often go to the library alone."

Schulz said that all students have to do is call the Phi Mu Delta House at 748-9931 to receive their escort.

Donna Ferko, psychology major and resident of Gross Hall, said, "It's definitely a good idea. Sometimes after I've worked out at Zimmerli Gym, I'm afraid of walking back to my dorm."

Elementary Education major and resident of Woolridge Hall, Carol Stokes said she believes girls will take advantage of the service.

Stokes said, "I think it will make girls feel safer knowing someone will walk them home when they go out at night alone."

The service is not limited to female student added Schulz, "We hope students will feel comfortable about using the service."
