Union hearing goes well for senate reps

By JIM "TAZ" DORAN
Staff Reporter

Union and Student cooperative Council representatives met before the hearing examiner for labor relations board today in a preliminary hearing to decide whether or not the full time employees of the S.C.C. will be unionized. Presenting the S.C.C.'s case was Mr. Don Faulkner, and representing the American Federation of State, County, and Munciple employees (AFSCME) was Mrs. Anne Lewis.

The hearing was called after the S.C.C. employees produced the required 30 percent of workers wanting unionization.

Faulkner began by contending that the SCC is not a public employer, and also the union may not fall under Pennsylvania Labor Boards Jurisdiction.

After the opening remarks, Faulkner submitted three names that would be classified as supervisors in case the union was allowed to come in. Mr. Joseph Nagy, Director of the Student Union for the SCC, was called to give a brief description of the three supervisors present responsibilities and why they should be classified as supervisors.

With no serious contention on the question of supervision, Faulkner moved to present the rest of the SCC's case.

Faulkner called Lorin Mock, President of SCC, to explain the structure of the government. Mock described the SCC as "an independent non-profit corporation." Mock also added, "We provide services for the students not provided for by the school."

Mock explained that the SCC is a strictly autonomous organization and receives no

Nelson cites paper's error

Mr. Carl Nelson, Director of Law Enforcement at Lock Haven State College, corrected an earlier Eagle Eye article today, concerning the accident in Parking Area 7 on Monday, March 30.

Although the reporter who wrote the article had received all of his information from George Rhodes, Dean of Students, Nelson had cited several errors in the article.

According to campus Law Enforcement reports, a vehicle struck and damaged three parked cars in the area in front of High Hall. The accident took place around 3:00 a.m. on

Students travel to Chicago

This year a group of twelve students are traveling to Chicago Illinois for the 54th annual cont. on page 4...e (CEC) Council for Exceptional Chil-

"The students pay for most of the traveling expenses," said Mr. Peter Matthews, faculty sponsor of the affair. "The Penn Association for Retarded Citizens (PARC, Clinton Council Chapter) did donate money for the students."

The students purpose is to act and participate as observers at the convention.

The group left in an SCC van today and will return to campus Saturday, April 10 in the same vehicle.

"While in Chicago, they will be staying at a Holiday Inn on Lawrence Avenue," stated Matthews.

The students also receive money from the SCC for funding as a club, but the twelve students still pay the bulk of their own expenses.

Only 400 tickets are available for this Saturday, April 10th event. Music will be provided by the big band sounds of Johnny Nicholosi and the New Approach. The band promises to satisfy every musical taste ranging from the thirties era to the seventies.

Tickets are available at Price 101, extension 256. The $10.00 donation includes the 10:00 am - 2:00 pm dancing and the breakfast buffet. Any realised profits will go to a scholarship fund for Art, Music and Theatre students.

Jan Albright, a senior at LHS and former Editor-in-Chief of the Eagle Eye, finished her first nine weeks of student teaching this semester under Mrs. Garnet Strouse by directing a television program in her creative writing mini-course at Bald Eagle Nittany High School in Mill Hall.

This mini-course involved 10th, 11th, and 12th graders whom Albright described as, "Students that normally would not have gotten in drama productions in school." After taking an interest inventory in the class, she discovered that her 18 students wanted to write a television script. She gave them an introduction to basic television terminology, and the class began work on a script for "Happy Times," its own combination of "Happy Days" and "Good Times."

The enthusiastic students created sets, costumes, and giant storyboards for their production and used brown greasepaints for some of their make-up jobs.

Their script employed the humor found in the two popular situation comedies and featured characters from both shows, including Thelma, the daughter from "Good Times," and Fonzie, the super-cool greaser from "Happy Days." According to the script those two fall in love with each other. J.J., Thelma's brother, is opposed to their going together, but changes his mind when he faints and hits his head and Fonzie saves his life by rushing him to the hospital.

Although Albright had anticipated a problem in getting the class's episode of "Happy Times" videotaped, the Keystone Central School District complied and filmed it in an hour.

Not everything went as smoothly, however, as the student playing the role of J.J. was absent from school the day of the videotaping. At the last minute, one of the girls stepped into the part and successfully ad-libbed her performance.

The tape was received in class and then shown for the rest of the school.

Thinking back on the experience, Albright felt that it was a good one for the students. "They got to do the writing and got to apply it to something the other people could enjoy," she reported.

Local group accepted into academic frat

By WENDY AKELEY

An academic honorary society for LHS students which goes by the name of PKP, was installed in a national college academic fraternity last semester. The national fraternity is known as Phi Kappa Phi, and LHS is the only state college in Pennsylvania that has obtained a charter membership.

PKP was started here by Dr. Alan Crosby five years ago when he was Dean of Arts and Sciences. The organization was begun with the idea of eventually applying to Phi Kappa Phi for a charter. The local society members raised the money necessary to pay the national membership fees and submitted their application in May, 1975. They sent background information on the college and a description of the types of students enrolled here, and were pleasantly surprised when the national board approved them as soon as they did.

Phi Kappa Phi holds two initiations a year. The local chapter has planned a general meeting of active members and faculty for April 7, and is currently looking for a speaker for its annual spring dinner.

Initiates must be second semester juniors in the upper ten percent of their class. They will pay a $10.00 initiation fee and $5.00 each year as national dues. Because the original local organization adhered to

Dr. Paul Klens, the president of the local chapter, hopes that it will eventually have a large enough treasury to bring a speaker of national repute to campus every year. Mr. Bruce Thomas, Secretary-Treasurer said, "We're hoping that we can be able to establish some sort of scholarship fund."

Members of Phi Kappa Phi receive a quarterly journal and have access to a national scholarship fund for graduate study. And as Klens expressed

Trackmen take second in quadrangular

Last Saturday afternoon, the Lock Haven State Track team participated in their first outdoor meet of the season. Also participating were host Shippensburg, York College, and Cheyney State. The Haven took advantage of some early first places and wound up in second place in the quadrangular meet; Ship won with a total of 75½ points, followed by the Haven with 48 points, Cheyney State with 33½ points and York with 25 points.

Leading the way for the Haven were sophomore transfer Dick Bisking, senior co-captain Tom Burns, senior hurdler Daryll Walters and frosh Stan Burke. Bisking and Walters both qualified for NCAA Division III Nationals in their respective events. Bisking heaved the javelin 200'11", and Walters equalled the standard in the 120 yard high hurdles. Burns was the Haven's only double winner, with wins in the shot (47'9") and a personal best in the discus (147'5¼"). Burke was the only other first place finisher for the Haven, winning the high jump at 6'5".

Other outstanding performances were made by Lou Fiorillo, Andy Carey, and Walters. Fiorillo placed second in the mile with a time of 4:19.1 (a personal best by almost 10 seconds). Carey's personal best in the javelin of 185'6¼" was good for a third and Walters had another personal best by placing 2nd in the 440 yard Intermediate Hurdles with a time of :57.05.

Famous runner will give talk

By ABE STAUFFER

Track fans who keep up to date on the National scene are in for a real treat Tuesday night (tonight). Greg Fredericks will be on campus to talk about his experiences as an amateur distance runner in an informal question and answer period in Raub 106 at 7:15. Most of you are probably saying, "Greg who?". To give you a little background on the man here are some of his accomplishments: placed second in NCAA in 1972 losing to the late Steve Prefontaine; American record holder in 10,000 meters in 1972; won the 10,000 meter race in Japan in 1975; 1975 AAU Cross Country Champ; won the 5,000 meter event in the 1976 U.S. - U.S.S.R. dual meet.

Strong pitching leads Eagles to double win

By STEVE HEVERLY
Staff Reporter

Exploding for ten runs in the middle innings of the first game, and getting strong pitching in both contests, the Lock Haven State College baseball team swept a double-header Sunday from California State by scores of 10-2, and 1-0.

The Bald Eagles scored four runs in the third inning of the first game after there were two outs. Sophomore left fielder Russ Martin then ripped a double. Senior Ed Stum followed with a double and scored when Dave Royer (senior right fielder) ripped a triple.

First Baseman Steve DeLisle then closed out the inning's scoring with one of the longest home runs ever hit at Woolrich Field.

In the fourth inning, again with two outs, Mike Mersky singled and stole second. Mike Crone singled Mersky home and Martin singled driving in the sixth run.

Lock Haven blew it open in the fifth inning scoring four more runs on a DeLisle single, and three consecutive triples by catcher Jeff Kashner, third baseman Galen Miller, and center fielder Joe Tarconish.

Junior Steve Lebo pitched a super first game allowing five hits and just one earned run. He struck out five and walked none.

Freshman Ed Sampsell was the story of the second game as the Eagles shut-out California State on just two third inning singles. Sampsell struck-out four and walked only one in his first collegiate start.

The Bald Eagles got all the offense they needed in the third inning by once again calling on the two-out rally. Mike Crone singled and went to third on Martin's single, and Martin stole second without a throw. Ed Stum was then intentionally walked. "Heads-up base running then got the run as a super head first slide by Crane avoided the pitcher's tag on a wild pitch.

The defensive gem of the day was delivered in the last inning by right fielder Royer making a diving grab down the right field line and saving at least a double.

Lock Haven now has five players hitting .300 or better including DeLisle at .413; Ed Stum .357; Russ Martin .355; Jeff Kashner .322; and Mike Mersky at an even .300.

The two victories were sweet revenge for Coach Eberle's squad. Last year California State won both games by scores of 2-1 and 16-1 to snap LHSC's ten game winning streak.

The Eagles will take a 7-5

College is coming to Lock Haven on the invitation of Mr. James Dolan, head cross-country coach here and former head track coach. Mr. Dolan, who is a close friend of Greg's, has known him since 1969. Mr. Dolan coached Greg that year as a freshman at Penn State where he won the IC4A freshman cross-country meet. Mr. Dolan says, "Greg Fredericks is one of the top 5,000 and 10,000 meter men in the country. He has a very good chance of going to Montreal this summer to represent the U.S. in the Olympics".

Greg, like most good long distance runners is very dedicated and self-motivated. Experts say that the 1972 Penn State grad is becoming the man to watch as he is coming off his best cross-country and indoor seasons ever.

state funding. Mock said the SCC is funded primarily by the student body through the $40.00 activities fee, athletic events, cultural affairs, vending machines and a variety of other methods.

In an effort to show the SCC as independent from the state, Faulkner then recalled Nagy. He asked him to go into more detail of SCC expenditures and income. Nagy again repeated that no state, federal, or local grants are given to fund the SCC, and he emphasized that all employers of the SCC are paid out of the SCC's budget.

Neither representative gave a summary and both decided to submit a brief to conclude their respective cases.

Mock expressed confidence that the final decision will favor the SCC. "It went very favorably. Better than we expected," commented Mock.

A decision will be reached after both briefs are submitted and reviewed.

Gary Thain, former bass guitarist of Uriah Heep, is dead. He left Heep in February, 1975. He was found by his girl friend unconscious in his bath one day this winter. Days before his death he had faced charges at a magistrate court for possession of dangerous drugs. Thain was 27.

In 1968, Thain joined the Keef Hartley Band, and in 1972 he joined Uriah Heep. He played on three of Heep's LP's: Magician's Birthday, Sweet Freedom, and their live LP. In 1974, Thain suffered an electrical shock while playing onstage in Dallas, Texas.

Thain left the band in 1975 because of his inability to stand the strain of recording and touring. In February of 1975, Thain was replaced by John Wetton, formerly of King Crimson and Roxy Music.

It was not so sweet a night for the new British rock group Sweet as they played in Miami, Feb. 26. Brian Connolly's voice (leadsinger) was harsh and strained. It was apparent that his voice was not in the best of shape. The cohesiveness that the band usually displays was not there. Guitarist Andy Scoot was having troubles with his monitor, which didn't help matters. During the encore, "Sweet F.A.," Scott's guitar strap broke. He slammed his guitar to the ground and fumed offstage leaving the band hanging. The audience ironically loved it.

Captains' Comments

Conlon - "For once in my 4 years here, I felt the team finally has some unity - we are a team now more than in the past. The team has been working out harder and the personal bests of the meet show it. If the performances of Saturday are any indication of what's to come, the Haven will be making noises at the Conference meet in May."

Burns - "I am very pleased with most of the results but I also saw a lot of room for a lot of improvements. If the team can stay away from Chokes and dumb mistakes we have a good chance of hitting a winning season for once. That's been a goal of mine for 4 years.

Any students who ate at Elby's Restaurant - Memory Lane - York, Pa. between March 11, 1976 and March 25, 1976 should report to the infirmary as soon as possible. A food handler who worked at Elby's has a positive diagnosis of hepatitis.
