SCC votes on proposed budget, $5 increase tonight

by Jan Albright

"The increase is necessary to maintain the programs at the levels they have been for the last two years," stated Rich DeBernardo, SCC President. The increase in question is an additional $5 per semester, raising activity fees for regular students to $70 per school year and $35 for student teachers.

Activity fee increases are only one aspect of the 1974-75 SCC budget which goes up for a vote tonight. Senators will have an opportunity at the 7 p.m. meeting to express the opinions of the students they represent. The evening's end will show whether the Senate Appropriations Committee's work, the budget, will be approved, changed, or defeated.

When asked why there are no increases in activity fees for summer students, Upward Bound and faculty, DeBernardo explained that summer activities will be cut back from last year when there was a movie and dance every weekend. The reduction in activities is due to lack of interest and participation. DeBernardo cited instances where only a handful of students attended movies costing the SCC $150 to rent.

Regarding faculty activity fees, there is a possibility of the state allocating $10,000 for cultural affairs. DeBernardo stated that this money, if it comes through, will compensate for activity fees from the faculty.

Two thousand dollars from parking fines are included as anticipated revenue.

If SCC no longer receives the fines due to a changed classification of college roads, $2,000 less will be coming in, DeBernardo explained that this is where the money from the contingency fund comes in, and would make up for the deficit. "The contingency fund takes up things from both ends of the balance," he stated.

The budget contains a $4,500 allocation for a radio station which, as DeBernardo added, would be used only if we get a radio station. Four thousand five hundred dollars is the cost of operating a station for one year. Necessary equipment would be purchased as a "capital investment."

Students will have no direct vote on the budget, so must make their opinions known to their senators. Since the meeting is open to everyone, students can come and express their opinion. "I will attempt to recognize as many students as possible," said DeBernardo. He added that students are urged to make sure senators know their views and can adequately represent them, rather than having to represent themselves.

Israelis present their side in tomorrow's symposium

The Israeli point of view on the cultural and political difficulties in the Mid-East will be presented at Lock Haven State tomorrow, April 9, in Bentley Hall Lounge.

The "Middle East Symposium—the Israeli Position" will be held in two sessions, 2 to 4 p.m. and 8 to 9:30 p.m. Conducting the symposium will be Mr. Ziedan Atashi, Consul of Israel in New York, and Mr. Zvi Gabay, Consul of Israel in Philadelphia.

Both sessions will include questions and answer sessions from the audience.

Mr. Atashi was born in 1940 in Osifiya, one of the two Druze villages on Mt. Carmel in Israel. When the Histadrut inaugurated its first program of courses for the training of Arab youth in 1963, He started working among the youth of Druze community, and was appointed Deputy Director General of the Arab and Druze Workers Youth Movement.

Mr. Atashi has worked in the Arabic department of Israel television in Jerusalem and in 1970 was in charge of Arabic television for the northern area of the Haifa District. He was appointed Consul with the Consulate General of Israel in New York in August 1972.

Mr. Gabay was born in 1938 in Baghdad, Iraq, and immigrated to Israel in 1951. He joined the Ministry for Foreign Affairs in 1964 and served with the African Department and with the Middle Eastern Department of the Ministry.

In 1970, he completed requirements for his M.A. degree at the University of Pennsylvania and was appointed Vice Consul in the Consulate General of Israel in Philadelphia. In December 1972, he was promoted to Consul.

The Middle East Symposium series is being coordinated by Mr. John Johnston, assistant professor of history at Lock Haven State College.

Proposed budget - What can you do?

by Mike Holter

Consider the state of the 74-75 SCC budget. Caught in the clutches of the "demon" inflation, an activity fee increase seems inevitable.

If the SCC were a religious institution, an exorcism might be in order. Because of the impressive physical profile exhibited in the past, pride will not permit a circumcision. Due to the seeming hyperactivity on campus, monasticism is not the way out. So it looks as if there is only one possible alternative, join up with "Haven revisionism".

Although not an "athletic supporter", the increase of five dollars a semester is necessary to continue the present activities; in what many people feel is an unbalanced budget. To go through the budget making cuts to offset inflationary costs would leave the students with many half-ed programs. Some of the events would be pushed to the brink of extinction due to the lack of the almighty dollar. Then the "Haven" would be faced with the possibility of becoming more of a "suitcase college" than it already is.

This evening in a special SCC meeting, the Senate must act on the proposed 74-75 budget. The only basis upon which to make this decision is an SCC questionnaire which 7.6 per cent of the student body filled out. Concerning the activity fee increase, eighty-five persons were against it, seventy-seven in favor of it.

But it's still not too late to let your feelings be known. Contact your senator before the meeting and give him the word. Better yet, if you think your elected representative is incapable of relaying your message, come to the meeting yourself. See the senate in action, validated I.D. not necessary for admission.

But whatever the outcome concerning the budget, let's not sing the old "nobody told me" song. You've been given the opportunity to take part in this participatory form of government. Without response from the student body, others are left with no other choice than to act blindly on your behalf.

WDC, reading list, proposed budget discussed by SCC

by Robin Platts

At the regularly scheduled meeting Wednesday night, the SCC discussed a situation which has developed concerning the Women's Dorm Council convention trip to Louisiana. The SCC invited the WDC to make an appearance at the SCC Senate meeting Wednesday night to report on the trip. Unfortunately the WDC was unable to attend because the invitation arrived too late for them to make themselves available. However, any members of the SCC who are available and wish to attend the Women's Dorm Council meeting Monday April 8, in Raub 308, at 6 are welcome.

Tom Rowan, chairman of the Food Service Committee delivered his report concerning the renewal of the ARA contract. Rowan stated that although it is not the students' decision as to whether the school renews the contract, the administration would like student input into the situation.

Student waste in the cafeteria is a problem and Mr. Sam Pronesti said, "If student waste could be eliminated, we could put steak out once a week."

A new self-supporting club has been approved by the SCC known as The Haven United Soccer Club. The club is not just for members of the soccer team, students, faculty and alumnae may participate as well. The club will be planning tournaments and also organize their own games. Tentative plans for next year during break include a group of fifteen students traveling to England to watch professional soccer games and perhaps play.

Mike Holter, chairman of the Liberal Arts Required Reading Committee, had a meeting with members of the administration to discuss a possible revision of 40 book reading requirement for those students in Liberal Arts. The members of the administration do realize that the requirement is failing in some aspects and are considering alternate programs.

The weekend of April 19 and 20, LHS will host the CAS meetings. Most meetings will be held in the lounge of the PUB, and any interested students are urged to attend. Also the membership drive for CAS is due to begin sometime in late April.

Treasurer Ron Vance distributed copies of next year's tentative budget. The budget shall be voted on at a special SCC meeting Monday, April 8 at 7 pm in the PUB lounge. A copy of the budget may be picked up at the SCC office.

The next SCC Senate meeting will be held Wednesday, April 24, in the PUB Lounge at 7 pm.
