

198 Students Will Graduate at Lock Haven State Teachers College

CLASS OF 1932

Dr. W. M. Denison Is Speaker at Commencement

Noted Pennsylvania Educator Gives Brilliant Talk at Graduation Exercises

The commencement address on Tuesday, May 24, was made by Dr. William M. Denison, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction at Harrisburg. Dr. Denison is at the head of the Bureau of School Administration in the state organization of the Department of Public Instruction. He is also secretary of the committee on the Recodification of School Laws which Dr. Rule, State Superintendent, appointed last year.

Dr. Denison was a teacher, principal, and Superintendent in the public schools of Pennsylvania for fifteen years.

Training School Remains Open Until May 27th

Contrary to usual custom, the College Training School will not close this year with the end of the College session. The state ruling requiring a minimum of sessions makes it necessary for the Training School to remain open until May 27. The regular supervisors, in most instances, and a few of the student teachers have volunteered to carry on the work during this extra week.

One half sessions, each morning except Tuesday, will enable the Training School to fulfill all requirements.

The Junior High School closing exercise and annual picnic scheduled for last Friday have also been postponed until May 27, due to the lengthened school term.

Junior Class Play "Old Days in Dixie" Is Fine Presentation

On Thursday evening, May 19, a cast of twelve under the competent and imaginative direction of Miss Mabel-Louise Arey, presented the Junior Class Play, "Old Days in Dixie." This very mellow melodrama from the pen of Walter Ben Hare was acted in modern costume against a setting that was a composite of the Southern parlors that were so dear to the pre-bellum South. This play with its long, flowery speeches, hysterical histrionics, and acting that was intensely serious became in the hands of the capable cast a vehicle that gave true pleasure to the audience.

In order of their appearance, the cast was composed of the following people:

Shad, a colored servant, who never forgets that "all us Bonfoey's is high and mighty," was admirably played by Walter Wilkinson, who showed a distinct flair for comedy and character delineation.

Judge Pennymint, a central figure of the play, brother of Mme. Bonfoey and ardent suitor of a neighboring damsel, found in the person of Thomas Blyler, a competent and interesting portrayer.

As Cameo Clemm, gambler and person of notoriety, Elwood Rohrbaugh was appropriately wily and impudent in a role that called for these qualities.

Raoul Chaudet, villain and trickster, was enacted splendidly by H. L. Sykes in a manner that pointed out the "opera buffe" qualities of such a role—insolence, treachery, and craftiness.

In the person of Beryl Dewalt, Nancy, a charming little minx, and a delight to eye and ear, was by turns charmingly coy and more charmingly petulant.

Rev. Taylor Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon

The sermon of Baccalaureate Service Sunday morning was delivered by the Reverend Mr. William M. Taylor, of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Lock Haven. His subject was "The Need of the Hour." Mr. Taylor used the well known passage: "Be doers of the word and not hearers only," as his text. Mr. Taylor asserted that what we need in religion, in education, and in government, is not to have more knowledge but to live up to the knowledge that we have. The general breakdown in religious, social, or political matters is not the fault of institutions but of men. The ultimate responsibility always goes back to personality. The most crying needs of our day is right conduct on the part of persons. Without manhood or womanhood, no institution can be made great.

The Vesper Trio, composed of Caroline Raker, Frances Wenrick, and Ellen Louise Rooke, sang "Peace." Bernard Hamblen's "Benediction" was sung by the Vesper Choir. "Send Out Thy Light" was beautifully presented by a mixed chorus composed of the following: Sopranos—Margaret Dorries, Hildegard Baer, Hazel Fouse; tenors—Christian Feit, Tom Smith, Charles Curry; contraltos—Marguerite Bovard, Ruth Harpster, Virginia Long; basses—Tom Wilt, Harold Cronister, Edward Dettrey.

The orchestra played, "God of Our Fathers," as the processional, and "Onward Christian Soldiers" as the recessional.

A great many repairs and improvements are being made upon the College buildings and grounds this spring, getting everything into condition for the Summer Term which opens on June 13 and for the next regular year, which opens on September 12.

Dr. Armstrong Addresses Alumni Association

Dr. Armstrong addressed the Alumni Association at its banquet in the College Dining Room at six o'clock, on Saturday evening, May 21.

After extending cordial greetings and welcome to the returning Alumni and other College friends and congratulating the new members of the Alumni Association, that is the Senior Class of 1932, he stated that all would be interested in the fact that after many years the old Lusk Run Road was being relocated taking it out of the College grounds altogether. This will remove much danger by eliminating public traffic through the College grounds also making it possible to proceed with the construction program of the College with regard to its Athletic Field and Play Grounds and building the additional units to the new Training School building. He also stated that the bids for the reconstruction of the kitchen, dining room, and bakery would be opened on May 25. This project will probably cost about fifty-five thousand dollars. In addition to this there is being spent in improvements on the grounds almost six thousands dollars this spring.

"Another fact that will be interesting to all," continued Dr. Armstrong, is that your College has been given an unconditional "A" rating in the American Association of Teachers Colleges. This Association covers the entire United States

Honor Students Deliver Orations

Martha B. Zeigler and Gladys Gearhart Represent College and Intermediate Groups

The commencement orations delivered at the Commencement Exercises Tuesday morning, May 24, were given by Martha B. Zeigler and Gladys Gearhart, who merited the honor of representing the college group and Group II respectively, by their standing in academic work. Ruth Klinger, honor student of Group I, was unable to give her oration as a result of illness.

Miss Zeigler, speaking on the subject "An Ideal of Freedom," stressed the necessity of choosing the best from the old and new educational systems in order that, through felt needs and shared interests, students may, most profitably, educate themselves with the aid of good teachers.

Speaking of the value of the progressive school system Miss Zeigler said, "The new schools are making an attempt to respect and safeguard the individual personalities of the pupils. According to Dr. William Kilpatrick, author of a recent New York Times article on the subject, our personality can develop only as we act with some definite purpose, and as we realize the consequences of our acts. To carry over this idea into teaching makes it necessary for the teacher to SENIORS—You are to be congratulated upon the completion of your course of study at this college. You are not only completing a course of study but are about to enter new pathways of life.

EDITORIALS

Life is a funny thing and differs for many individuals. The following poem entitled "Life," by Gerald Foley, can only describe it partially but is one every senior should use to analyze his past college life and the life he is about to begin:

To the preacher life's a sermon,
To the joker life's a jest;
To the miser life is money,
To the loafer life's a rest.

To the soldier life's a battle,
To the teacher life's a school;
To the great thing for the thinker,
But a jolly to the fool.

Life is just one long vacation,
To the man who loves his work
But it's constant dodging duty
To the everlasting shirk.

To the faithful, earnest worker,
Life is a story ever new;
Life is what we try to make it,
What, my friend is life to you?

AFTER four years of toil you, Seniors, are about to enter in the pursued you chose to follow. You have pursued a course of study at this college which is preparatory to the field of teaching. Whether you have acquired the characteristics and traits of a good teacher depends on the effort and sincerity you displayed in your everyday life and work while attending this college.

The college can not merely hand you an education for your attendance of four years at this college. It can not give you an education. It can only provide facilities whereby you may secure an education.

Are you merely receiving a piece of paper for your attendance at this college or are you receiving a piece of paper which represents earnest sincere work and living? Your success in later life, in the teaching profession, will be the measure of your efforts during the last two or four years at this college. May your diploma represent a piece of earnest labor and living at this college, and may your success be as great in proportion.

John Haberstroh Is Elected Editor of Praeco for Coming Year

At a meeting of the Junior Class on Tuesday morning, May 17, John Haberstroh was unanimously elected to the position of Editor-in-Chief of the annual year book, The Praeco, for the ensuing year.

Mr. Haberstroh has held various offices throughout the school, being president of his class in the sophomore year, and class representative in the junior year. He has also served as Editor-in-Chief of the College Times during his sophomore year. Mr. Haberstroh is a member of the Dramatic Club and of the Shakespeare Literary Society. He resides in Lock Haven.

The newly elected Editor has not selected his staff yet, but expects to have it fully organized soon after school opens in the fall.

Annual Art Exhibit Is Appraised Highly by Faculty and Students

The annual art exhibit, representing work done during the year by several courses given in art, is considered by the faculty of the College to be one of the best.

Since a great deal of emphasis in public schools today is placed on self-expression on the part of the child, free hand colored chalk sketches aroused to help children in their daily expressions. Some very excellent and outstanding examples of this are spring flowers, March winds, April showers, and activities of children.

The Primary people find bookbinding and lettering good ways of preparing for the first grade primer. Bookbinding is represented in the Intermediate groups by photograph albums, poetry, silhouette and books on other special topics.

To some the outstanding originality expressed in design and color makes a strong appeal. Various designs are featured in surface patterns, stick prints, patterns for holidays, dish mats, color charts, color wheels and borders.

An appreciation of sculpturing is as developed through soap carving and clay modeling of figures, pottery and animals.

Applications on mounts of costumes in the home, health posters, illustrative stories, and silhouette drawings of children also add greatly to the exhibition.

A great deal of apparently hidden artistic ability has been revealed in this exhibition and much credit is due the art department.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Moore, the aunt and uncle of Miss Madeline Lesser, a senior, will be present at the Commencement exercises on Tuesday, May 24.

KLUB RESUMÉ

A. C. E.

Many of our faculty members featured in the programs of the A. C. E. meetings. Miss Erickson, Miss Hatcher, and Miss Himes related their experiences in kindergarten work. Miss Arey, of the Dramatic Department, gave an instructive talk on "Story Telling to Children."

Delegates were sent to the annual American Childhood of Education Convention which was held at Washington this month. Reports of the convention were made at a regular meeting.

The officers installed for next year are President, Clarissa Wainger; Vice President, Marjorie Dice; Secretary, Ellen Louise Rooke; Treasurer, Nellie Manning.

Rho Omega Lambda

The annual events, the Alumni Banquet held at Herlocher's, the picnic, at the reservoir, and the farewell breakfast held at Achenbach's Party Garden are outstanding to all the members. Miss Mabel-Louise Arey, faculty adviser, entertained the members at various times throughout the year. Feeds and get-together parties were frequent occurrences.

The officers installed for next year are: President, Dorothy Grubb; Vice President, Mary Jane Nichols; Secretary-Treasurer, Isabelle Welsh; Social Secretary, Elva Powell; Usher, Lynn Norman; Inter-sorority council members, Beatrice Burg, and Helen Myers.

Educational Club

The Educational Club concluded a year of successful work with the aim in mind to do better work next year. Their program will include more social and educational activities. The officers for next year have been installed and have made plans for the future meetings. Mr. Patterson has been appointed as a faculty adviser succeeding Dr. Coppens.

During the year Mr. MacDougal and Mr. Patterson gave interesting talks about "Education." These were open forum meetings. Members of the club were in charge of other programs.

W. A. A.

The W. A. A. sponsored its second annual Play Day. This event, although quite new, proves to be of great interest to all the students. This organization attempts to promote athletics among the women of our college. Each year awards are given to the active members who received a certain number of points; this year's winners will be announced soon.

Social activities have been linked with the physical. Early morning breakfasts, long hikes, and gymnasium parties were included in the programs of the year; these provided enthusiasm, enjoyment, and entertainment for all the members.

The officers for next year have been installed and assumed their duties.

Shakespeare Club

The Shakespeare Club held a series of systematic meetings throughout the year. At each meeting a committee was selected to be in charge of the program for the next gathering. These consisted of various types of entertainment such as debates, dramatics, and special reports on educational subjects.

The annual banquet was held at Achenbach's May 10. The program and entertainment was in charge of the pledges; this concluded their initiation.

Naturalist Club

The Naturalist Club had many programs and hikes that were interesting and educational in its field of work. Mr. Ross, a game warden, was one of the principal speakers of the year.

On their early morning hikes the members learned many significant facts about plants and animals; with this they also had outdoor breakfasts along the "Nature Trail."

Much of the success of the organization is to be attributed to Mr. Ulmer and Miss Russell, faculty advisers, who helped to plan the instructive meetings and programs.

The officers elected for next year are: President, Robert Smith; Vice President, Al Heydrich; Secretary, Ruth Schmoyer; Treasurer, Floyd Bloom.

Art Club

During the past year the Art Club members enlarged their organization. All students displaying talent in their art classes received bids to join. The club was very successful in carrying out its new plan for its meetings. Instead of formal business gatherings, they had lessons in appreciation and application of art. The adviser, Miss DuBois, taught them many practical things, such as tie dyeing, working with leather, and making of invitations. The club also sponsored art exhibitions for the public. The organization offered many educational and cultural values to its members.

Dramatics

The Dramatic Club was enlarged this year so as to give more talented people a chance to become members.

The annual play, "The Ivory Door," played by a cast selected from this organization, was one of the major events of the year. Delicious luncheons after business meetings, and the annual banquet held at the Country Club are memorable to all.

During the summer the members are to collect material about any phase of dramatics; these will be presented at the meetings during the next year.

Officers for the next year are: President, John Haberstroh; Vice President, Dorothy Grubb; Secretary-Treasurer, Lauvon Basinger.

D. R. B.'S

The D. R. B. Fraternity contribution for the year was furnishing a room in the Training School for leisure and comfort of its members. This club took an active part in the initiation of the freshmen boys last fall. This and a few social functions were the main forms of activities.

A. S. T.

The A. S. T. Sorority installed their officers for the next year. They are: President, Ruth Schmoyer; Vice President, Mildred Sechrist; Recording Secretary, Ruth Henninger; Corresponding Secretary, Mary L. Borland; Treasurer, Myra Evans.

During this school year this sorority had many feeds, teas, and other social activities. The Alumni Banquet was the largest function; about twenty-five alumnae were present.

L. A. L.

The L. A. L. Sorority Members had many social hours in the day room; book reviews, and story telling were the main features of their programs. Teas and parties were held quite common.

Inter-Sorority

The annual inter-sorority tea and dance was one of the largest sorority functions of the year. Others were the dinner party held at Achenbach's for the members and their guests to the Junior Prom, and the tea given in the gymnasium on Alumni Day.

The inter-sorority council members met at various times to discuss expenditures, the rushing, and plans for parties.

French Club

The French Club, organized last fall, received a great deal of recognition. Its

Jenice Sharpe Gives Report at Conference

In an informal conference of the Branch Organizations, Jenice Sharpe, President of the Lock Haven State Teachers College Branch of the Association for Childhood Education, reported upon the year's work of the Lock Haven A. C. E. This included the activities conducted and the programs given for the year. The purpose of this meeting was to have the Branch Organizations get together and talk over their problems and discuss ways in which each respective group might better themselves. The Lock Haven A. C. E. was asked to take part in this meeting by Miss Mary Leeper, Executive Secretary of the A. C. E. Similar reports to this one were given by other representatives, including representatives from Cleveland, New Haven, Memphis and Yonkers.

At this same meeting Commissioner John William Cooper extended an invitation to the delegates and their friends to visit the U. S. Office of Education, Department of Interior.

English Instructor Dies Following Operation

Miss Pearl Alma Payne, a member of the faculty of Lock Haven State Teachers College, died at the Lock Haven Hospital on Friday, May 13, 1932, of complications following an operation for appendicitis performed a week before.

She is survived by five sisters and three brothers. Miss Payne came here from Greensboro, North Carolina, where she was a teacher in the North Carolina College for Women. She was a graduate of the State Normal School at Farmville, Virginia, and held bachelor's and master's degrees from Columbia University.

Miss Payne was extremely popular among her colleagues of the faculty and among the students. During the past year Miss Payne was a speaker at a number of teachers' institutes, in Elk County and other nearby sections. Miss Payne's appearances before the entire student body in chapel exercises will be especially remembered. Her reading of some of the Uncle Remus stories, in negro dialect, was particularly enjoyable.

The body of Miss Payne was sent to her home in Charlottesville, Virginia, where funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon, May 15.

MISS PEARL A. PAYNE

In Memoriam

A perfect woman, nobly planned
To warm, to comfort, and command;
And yet a spirit still, and bright
With something of an angel light.

THE faculty of the State Teachers College unanimously adopted, in a regular meeting, the following statement in regard to the death of Pearl A. Payne, of the Department of English and Education:

In the death of Pearl Payne the State Teachers College has lost for its students an unusual teacher. It is fairly easy to be a well-prepared and conscientious teacher; it is not impossible, by taking thought, to be an interesting or even stimulating teacher. But when these qualities are combined and to them are added humor and charm and imagination one finds a rare teacher. Miss Payne needed less than a school year in Lock Haven to establish herself as such a teacher and personality.

The faculty of the State Teachers College has suffered a professional loss. Intelligence tempered her educational philosophy; generosity mellowed her judgments; understanding salted her wisdom. She had security in learning, without vanity; and her concern for the education of others was matched only by the vigor and delight with which she came up to her teaching every day. No professional group could have contained her without admiration for her skill and pride in her possession.

Students and faculty and friends are her mourners. There is sorrow for her dignity and activity and grace which were lost too soon to them, but there is joy in remembering her one brief year. When Mr. Valiant-for-truth crossed the river, John Bunyan tells us, "many accompanied him to the river side, into which, as he went, he said, 'Death, where is thy sting?' And as he went down deeper, he said, 'Grave, where is thy victory?' So he passed over, and the trumpets sounded for him on the other side." And like the many friends who accompanied Mr. Valiant-for-truth, those friends of Pearl Payne find that to them who shall succeed her she has left her sword; to those that can get it, her courage and skill; and to them all the sound of blowing trumpets.

Faculty Vacations

Mr. Weldon Williams will spend the summer in research work at the British Museum in London. He will leave from Montreal on May 27.

Miss Lottie Larabee is going to spend her vacation with friends in Montreal and Chicago.

Miss Lyndall Fox, accompanied by Miss Roberta Seltzer and Miss Ruth Weisner, will motor to her home in Illinois. The party expects to see all of Illinois and parts of Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Stemple are planning to make a four weeks' tour of the New England States in August. They will be accompanied by two friends from Muskingdon College: one a professor of history who expects to study spots of historical interest, and the other an instructor of art who will study scenery and do painting. Mrs. Stemple will arrange for the musical entertainment on the trip and Mr. Stemple of course will look after the scientific side of it.

Miss Mabel-Louise Arey will attend the summer session at Emerson College of Oratory at Boston, Massachusetts. Emerson College is Miss Arey's Alma Mater. She expects to continue her work in Dramatic English there.

Mr. Ulmer will be on the faculty during the summer session. He expects to spend June and probably part of the August vacation at his camp.

Miss Russell will be a member of the faculty this summer too. She expects to spend the June vacation at Cleveland, Ohio, and New Castle, Penna., visiting with relatives and friends. She plans to spend the August vacation at Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. Rude expects to go Atlantic City to enjoy the sea breeze. He will also visit Hoover, at Washington, to discuss the depression and then go on to New York to shop.

Miss Daniel intends to spend the July vacation at her home in Minnesota and in St. Louis, Missouri.

Mr. Patterson will be a member of the faculty during the summer session and spend his vacation at Lock Haven.

Association for Childhood Education Hold Conference

The Annual Convention of the Association for Childhood Education met in Washington, D. C., May 4-7. Prominent educators were present and many worth-while speeches given.

Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, Professor of the Philosophy of Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, N. Y., spoke Friday evening, May 6, in the Memorial Continental Hall before the Annual Convention of the A. C. E. upon "Education and the International Mind." The leading thought of this address was that there is no such thing as mind, but only different ways of behavior. Dr. Kilpatrick substantiated this statement by showing how the getting of meanings and putting to work these meanings is really the basis of what we call mind. Through communication, we make use of other people's meanings. In concluding his address, Dr. Kilpatrick said that anyone could build a mind on any subject if he cares about it and sticks long enough.

Joy Elmer Morgan, the Editor of the National Education Association, Washington, D. C., spoke on the same evening as Dr. Kilpatrick on the subject of "The Satisfaction of Mankind." In his speech, Mr. Morgan touched upon one of the causes of our present economical condition. We are too materialistic; in the struggle for money and material values, the cultural benefits are forgotten. The home is just as much a profession as any business. The average American parents should consider it as such. The greatest problem of education today as expressed by Mr. Morgan is leisure time both forced and enforced. This interesting address was brought to a close with the thought of organizing an Industrial Democracy similar to our Political Democracy.

Other speakers of the conference included: Hon. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Department of Interior; Julia Wade Abbot, President of the National Association for Childhood Education; Patty Smith Hill, Kindergarten instructor of Columbia, and Dr. George Stoddard, President of the National Association of Nursery Education.

This school organization of the A. C. E. was well represented at the Annual Convention of the Association for Childhood Education by Miss Jessie Scott Himes, the adviser; Miss Laura Barkhuff, Miss Sue Northey; Janice Sharpe, the President of the A. C. E.; Hildegard Baer, Program and Meeting Chairman; Martha Hamman and Myra Evans.

Among the many interesting happenings of this convention was that President Herbert Hoover received the delegation, and paused long enough to have his picture taken with the group on the White House lawn.

Student Teachers Entertain Supervisors At Theatre Party

The fourth grade teachers entertained Miss Rowe at the theater and then had a lunch at Herlocher's Restaurant afterward. Miss Rowe entertained the teachers with a breakfast of bacon and eggs and hot rolls at the reservoir. The breakfast was spiced with laughter, talk, and merry retorts.

The fifth grade entertained Miss Rook at a picnic in the room during conference period. They also gave her two plants. Miss Rook and Miss Phillips went together to entertain their student teachers at Miss Rook's home. They report an interesting and enjoyable evening.

COLLEGE SENIORS

and since only half of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges have as good a rating as this it is something for the Lock Haven Alumni to be proud of.

"There are 198 students in the graduating class this year. This includes those students who finished their work at the end of the first semester and those who will finish it at the end of the Summer Term. Of this number there are twenty-six who have or will have completed their work for their Bachelor Degrees. This brings our total number of Alumni up to almost six thousand, located throughout all Pennsylvania and in fact throughout all the world. You also may be interested in knowing that ninety-eight per cent of our 1930 class secured positions, eighty per cent of our last year's class secured positions and already this year more than fifty per cent of our graduates have positions for next year. This is encouraging, indeed, under the present economic conditions and as soon as the economic depression is over no doubt one hundred per cent of the people that may be graduated from our College may be able to secure positions. There has always been a supply of teachers that are certified to teach school but there has never been an over supply of good, first-class teachers. Another encouraging thing at this time is that there are about thirty of the students in this graduating class who have completed the two years' work and will receive their Normal School Certificates who will return to complete their four-years' work if they cannot find satisfactory positions this year; in fact, as I have stated to the students themselves, it may be even fortunate if they do not secure positions this year thereby having an opportunity to make better preparation in the longer course.

"I saw a quotation in one of the Colleges I visited recently as follows: 'Say it with results. Good work needs no bouquets to recommend it. It speaks for itself. Make your work talk for you.' This is a quotation or a motto that every one of the Senior Class should continue to keep in mind. 'Say it with results.' Do good work and make your work talk for you.

"Of course it is oftentimes thought of a College that it is located back where the

Music Department Furnishes Program For Commencement

The Music Department, directed by Miss Lottie Larabee and Mr. George F. Lehman, deserves much credit for its splendid response to our need for appropriate music for the activities of Senior Week and for Commencement exercises.

The College orchestra began its work on Thursday, May 19, when it played for the annual Junior Class Play. It also played for the Alumni Banquet on Saturday, May 21. At the Baccalaureate Services on Sunday morning, beside selections by the orchestra the Vesper Trio, composed of Caroline Raker, Frances Wenrich, and Ellen Louise Rooke, sang "Peace" by Roberts-Ryder, the Vesper Choir sang "Benediction" by Hamlen, and a mixed chorus sang "Send Out Thy Light," by Gounod. Sunday evening at the Vesper Service the music consisted of selections by the Vesper Trio, the Vesper Quartette, composed of Hazel Fouse, Viola Fouse, Evelyn Livingston, and Nellie Manning, and a solo, "The Penitent," by Vande Water, which was sung by Mr. James Harlan.

The orchestra played at Class Day exercises on Monday morning, and accompanied Miss Ruth Harpster when she sang "Trees" during the planting of the tree on Monday afternoon.

At the Commencement exercises, Tuesday morning, the "Recessional," "Processional," and "Venetian Love Dance," by Rich were the orchestra's offerings. A mixed chorus closed the program with "The Heavens Resound," by Beethoven.

Seniors Conduct Last Vesper Service of Year

The Vesper Service Sunday evening was given over to the Senior Class. The splendid program consisted largely of Senior contributions. The speakers of the evening, the President of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Noel, and the Senior representative of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Biddle, gave very interesting talks on what their college life has meant to them.

The special music directed by Miss Lottie Larabee was greatly enjoyed by the many parents and their friends that attended Senior evening.

Training School Pupil Dies

Virginia Schaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schaffer, and a pupil in the sixth grade of the Training School, died on Sunday, May 15, at the Lock Haven Hospital. Her death was due to spinal meningitis which developed from a cold and sinus trouble. Virginia, who was a bright and promising child, was well acquainted with many of the college students.

Alumni Return for Annual Meeting, Banquet and Dance

The Alumni Day of Lock Haven State Teachers College was held on Saturday, May 21. Dr. D. W. Thomas, president of the Alumni organization, was in charge of the program for the afternoon, and the election of officers. Invitations were issued to sixteen hundred alumni by the secretary, Mrs. C. C. Donahue. Special reunions of the classes of 1882, 1887, 1892, 1897, 1902, 1907, 1912, 1917, 1922, and 1927 were held throughout the afternoon; officers for the coming year were elected later in the afternoon.

In the college dining room, a banquet was served to the alumni of the college and to the graduating class at 5:45 o'clock. A reception and dance in the gymnasium followed the banquet. The reception committee consisted of Dr. Dallas Armstrong, President of the College, Mr. M. DeTurk High, Dean of Instruction; Dr. D. W. Thomas and Donald P. Rice and Miss Martha B. Zeigler, Senior Class representatives.

The afternoon session included, besides the regular business meeting, a musical program directed by Mr. George F. B. Lehman with Mrs. P. R. Kamp, '20, accompanist. Many of the former graduates gave short talks; among these was a delightful talk by William P. Cornely, of Madera, one of the Vice Presidents of the organization.

Former Student Places In National Contest

Francis Coughlin, a student in the Lock Haven State Teachers College last year, recently has been notified that an essay he submitted several months ago in a national contest sponsored by the George Washington Bicentennial Committee, has won second prize in a field of two hundred and fifty contestants.

This announcement was made in the New York American and also in the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

The essay contest was open to high school and college students who wrote on the subject of Washington's Farewell Address.

First prize, a gold cup and $100, was awarded to Howard Elliott, a post graduate of the Theodore Roosevelt High School.

Mr. Coughlin won a gold medal as second prize. Coughlin was a graduate in the class of 1927 from the Williamsport High School, and last year pursued a course of study in this college.

Praeco Staff Enjoys Banquet at Herlocher's

The Praeco Staff enjoyed a banquet at Herlocher's, Thursday evening, at 5:30. Those who attended were Mr. Weldon Williams, faculty adviser; Sebastian Grieco, Editor-in-Chief; Martha Zeigler, Assistant Editor-in-Chief; Omar Harris, Business Manager; Christian Feit, Associate Editor; Madeline Lesser, Assistant Business Manager; Marion Francisco, Feature Editor; Carl Wassen; Art Editor, Clarence Cowfer; Snapshot Editor, Dorothy Bickel, Edith Sharpe, Jenice Sharpe, Harold Sykes, Ethel Quigg, Isadore Ziff, Ruth Wilt, Anne Vujcich.

Following the banquet, many of the guests returned to school for the Junior Class Play. The others were guests of Dorothy Bickel, at her home on High Street. Here, cards and music provided entertainment.

Clarissa Wainger as Phoebe and Gladys Weber as Mary Rose, read their lines with commendable eclat and moved about the stage like the two Goddey's lady book creatures that they were supposed to be.

Florence Hunt as Sallie Sellers, the object of Judge Pennymmin's devotion, undoubtedly won the hearts of more than one member of the audience even in those moments when her role demanded that she be obstinate and impulsive.

Elizabeth Miller, the Madame Bonfoey whose blindness makes her an object of care, acquitted herself ably in a difficult and central role of the play. Her characterization as the aged and heart broken mother of the hero elicited true sympathy from the audience.

Beverly Bonfoey, the dashing and brave hero, was enacted by Clarence Eld who revealed a thorough knowledge of histrionics and in ease of stage presence.

Ellen Reighard as Shad's wife, Madame Dicey, won a distinct triumph for herself in a role that called for a discriminating sense of comedy as well as keenly sensed characterization.

The play was evocative of much applause on the part of the audience. It is a feather in the cap of the Junior Class as well as the director of dramatics, Miss Mabel-Louise Arey.

Dramatic Club Holds Formal Dinner Dance

Chi Kappa Sigma, Dramatic Club, held a dinner dance at the Clinton Country Club Saturday evening, May 7. About 50 members attended and 23 new members were formally initiated. Miss Mabel-Louise Arey chaperoned the affair. With Donald Rice acting as toastmaster, the club's new officers, John Haberstroh, president; Dorothy Grubb, vice president, and Lauvon Basinger, secretary, were installed.

The entertainment, an original skit directed by Harold Sykes and entitled, "Ten Cents a Dance," was presented by the entire group of pledges. Marion Francisco, Thomas Blyler, Hulda Starr, Walter Wilkinson, Dean Shroat, Ann Crist and Harold Sykes presented individual interpretations of current songs in the modern manner.

Students Hear Pastor in Last Vesper Service

The pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. William Taylor, gave an interesting talk in Vespers on Sunday evening, May 15. His theme was "Service."

In illustrating the kind of service he meant, Mr. Taylor used Christ and Albert Switzer as examples. Albert Switzer was gifted in many ways; for one thing he was a musician. Both of these men spent a large part of their lives preparing to give service to all the people they possibly could. Albert Switzer at last decided to spend his life in Africa giving service to the Africans. There he mingled with the people and lived and talked "Jesus Christ" and "Service."

Prior to Mr. Taylor's talk, Kathryn Kitko sang the song "Farewell" to commemorate the last Vesper Service of this year when all the students were together.

present history, science or Latin, not arbitrarily like a slave-driver ordering his slaves to work, but purposely and with encouragement like a guide at a crossroads pointing out where each road leads and what each part of the way may be."

In conclusion Miss Zeigler said that as teachers it is necessary to definitely encourage the pupils to think, to imagine and see everything they learn in relation to life at large, and always the encouragement must be of such a nature that the finest ideals of honor, of progress, and of freedom may remain mankind's ultimate goal.

Miss Gearhart had as her theme, "Character Through Discipline." In opening she said, "The present like no recent time calls for an accounting of the trends of character in youthful and adult America. 'Old Timers' returning to Sing Sing fail to understand a great prison filled with youth, representative of a certain type of strongly but badly developed character."

Continuing Miss Gearhart stated that America has the potential forces to set matters right if true character is developed—a character that will allow legitimate administrative forces to act for the safety of children and institutions. This character, said Miss Gearhart, can only come through self-discipline, and it is the duty of the teacher to face squarely and not lightly this responsibility of assisting high character development through discipline.

In conclusion Miss Gearhart said, "The magnitude and weight of our obligation to this Commonwealth and to this nation lies in our ability as teachers to develop characters that will function among our people and in our institutions for the next fifty years of progress."

Is There No Justice?

School papers, we suppose, are nice.
The school gets all the fame.
Printers take their money.
The staff—they take the blame.

The editors from work can not shirk
They labor, worn and sore—
While some wise guy just up and says—
"I've read all that before."

Seniors Observe Class Day With Tree Planting

The events of the Class Day, Monday, May 23, were centered about activities that were especially significant to this year's Senior Class. The morning was devoted to a tree planting exercise in which the class set up a marker for the class tree as a memorial to their activities here. At ten o'clock Monday morning, the class marched in solemn procession from the College Auditorium to the East Campus near the president's residence, placed the marker, and returned singing the Alma Mater. Hugh Fry, the class vice president, gave an address of welcome, and Myron Biddle dedicated the tree.

The dramatization of the afternoon was unique in the respect that it incorporated into one single unit all the traditional class day offerings. A group of student teachers assembled at the home of Miss Shapen, their supervisor, played by Dorothy Bickel, in the year 1957, and proceeded to arrange for a correlated activity program about the glory of the class that graduated from the Lock Haven State Teachers College in 1932. Gwendolyn Stringfellow, as Miss Snoop, the history teacher, read the class history; Elizabeth Crain, as Miss Meter, the poetry teacher, presented the class poem. Olive Pelton, as Miss Chroma, the art teacher, illustrated by means of silhouettes, the class limericks. Other teachers, including the two music teachers, Miss Flat and Miss Key, played by Marguerite Bovard and Hildegard Baer, a geography teacher, Miss Alta Tude, played by Jane Rathgeber, Albert Sundberg as Mr. Volt, the science teacher, Sebastian Grieco as Dr. Longworth, the English teacher, and Myron Biddle, as an intermediate teacher, furnished interesting dialogue about the successes of his class in 1957—a class prophecy in reality.

Interesting musical selections were interpolated throughout. Ambrose Fortney directed a rhythm band which played an old French rondo, "Amaryllis," and the well-known lyric, "School Days." Margaret Miller, Olive Hoover, Barbara Rhoads, Audrey Finn, Mirabelle Eliason, and Mildred Carbaugh played in this band. The theme song of the operetta "Pepita" was sung by a quartet of girls, consisting of Dorothy Cunningham, Alma Soyster, Martha McDowell, and Helen Johnson. At the end of the chorus the audience joined in singing this popular melody. Marguerite Bovard and Hildegard Baer sang a duet, "Oh Swallow Swift." Jane McGirk played a violin solo, "The Old Refrain." Accompanists for these musical selections were Betty DeFrehn, Gwendolyn Radebach, and James Harlan.

At the conclusion of the whole program Margaret Dorries directed the class in the singing of the class song, written by Margaret Dorries and Betty DeFrehn.

The program was arranged for by a committee including Olive Livingston, as chairman; Dorothy Bickel, Kathleen Noll, Michael Shishak, and Christian Feit.

Senior Class Song

OUR SONG

Dear Alma Mater, long may you live,
We'll love you always and cherish thy dear name,
Your colors to us will long be true,
Dear old Lock Haven, we are proud of you.

And to our classmates loyal and true
We'll love and honor our friendships old and new.
Where life takes us down thru the years,
We'll e'er remember our farewell to you.

Music by Betty DeFrehn.
Words by Peg Dorries.

buildings are on the old College Campus. I rather like to think of Lock Haven College being located in all parts of the earth, in those places where our Alumni are; and wherever our graduates have gone or may go we hope that as they go on with their work that in the years to come we may find exemplified in their lives those qualities of Christian Character that we hope have been developed in each of them while they have been students here.

"Always I have felt that the destinies of America have rested largely with the public school. I am more convinced of that fact as the years go on. I believe those things that we want to appear in American lives tomorrow we must put in the public school today. That was never truer than it is today. The world is unsettled, has been breaking away from the 'land marks' of our fathers and trying this expedient and that expedient that most frequently are poorly thought out hoping by these expedients to again stabilize world conditions. These conditions will not be stabilized until the leaders of thought and action in this country and among the chief of these leaders as I have already stated is the public school teacher who is able to lead the people back into sanity of thinking and living. There are too many people that have thought that we can disobey the laws of our country, tear up the Constitution of our nation, with impunity violate all of the ten commandments, even forget God and then hope to prosper. It is a responsibility of the Alumni of this College as public school teachers and as men and women not only in their actual teaching in the class but in their daily lives to prove that the laws of our nation must be obeyed, the constitution respected, the ten Commandments observed and God duly revered. When the world can come back to these fundamental principles, then the conditions which we all desire will exist again.

"We believe that the men and women who graduated from this institution will help in the effort for a return of these desired conditions and each of you may rest assured that this College through its Faculty and Trustees will do everything in its power to hasten the return of these days."

Annual Music Recital Proves Great Success

The annual pupil recital was given in the auditorium on Friday evening before a full house. The recital, which was exceptionally good, was under the direction of Miss Larabee and Mr. Lehman.

The piano and voice solos were given by the pupils who are paying for individual instruction, while the remaining numbers were presented by the musical organizations of the college. Both the solos and group presentations were excellent and worthy of praise.

The vesper trio has been organized for only six months and the quartet for even a shorter period. Both groups will remain intact for next year. The choir is also a comparatively new organization, having been formed only last year with but one member appearing for the first practice.

All the presentations, including piano solos by Elizabeth Bigelow, Lenore Morgan, Mary Ulmer, and John Miller; voice solos by Anthony Ryan, Lenore Morgan; and voice ensembles by the Vesper Quartette, Vesper Trio, Vesper Choir, and College Glee Club, provided an evening of fine musical entertainment.

Snatched From the Blotter

The end of the school year always brings a varied assortment of regrets for things one has not done and rash promises of what is to be accomplished next year. But isn't the feeling a grand and glorious one . . . you know; tests over, classes over, summer still here. Who cares about the grades? Well, we can easily think of seven or eight people. Still, what's a grade or two between friends.

No, and we must be emphatic. "A Farewell to Arms" is not a senior's parting apostrophe to his tasks and duties. It is still a Hemingway title.

The Dramatic Club has plans for producing "The Merchant of Venice" next year. This production of Shakespeare's drama will be a richly costumed one. It is decidedly worth looking forward to—and now that you know about it, look forward, boys and girls (pardon, ladies and gentlemen).

Ethel Barrymore and her production of Sheridan's "A School for Scandal" was another proof of the fact that old theater is good theater. Ethel Barrymore's Lady Teazle was played in the classic tradition, Miss Barrymore looking radiantly young and hardly the mother of Ethel Barrymore Colt and John Drew Colt.

We're wondering:

If the movie made from Upton Sinclair's "The Wet Parade" was cynical, satirical, propaganda, or merely mad. We can't decide upon any judgment for the poet. But we do hand a laurel wreath to Lewis Stone and Walter Huston for two portraits that were compelling and finished even if they were a trifle too much in the "grand manner."

Whether "Old Days in Dixie" couldn't have been titled "Old Daze in Dixie" and still have been a meller-drammer.

If you realize that a group of people (and we don't crave glory and honor) worked diligently during those final exam days to get this paper out for you. How we dare you to say, "What of it?" especially you to whom we are sending it.

One of the fair seniors donned her cap and gown and had a gay time flitting around the campus. It recalled dear Old Oxford and Cambridge to all of us who have never been there, including the fair young senior.

Suggestion for a gift, next year of course! A Thermos bottle filled with hot coffee and a Salvation Lassie with a basket of doughnuts to be added to the office equipment of the "Times." It would come in handy those nights when ye staff stays up half the night trying to tell commonplace things in "literary style." It's just a suggestion; since you've never heeded them before, you're eager to be surprised.

If you've read this column at all, this past year, we thank you for your kind indulgence. If you haven't read it, we can't do anything about it. You see, with everybody dripping "senior sentiment" around and our not being a senior, some sort of "ave atque vale" is necessary. In the words of that immortal bard, and so you'll know who we're talking about, we'll not name him, "It's rather well that it ended so well. So, well?"

Among the Plots

Books you can read, and will read this summer, if you are wise:

The Flowering Stone . . . by George Dillon.

This is one of the Pulitzer prize books, specifically the prize book of poetry. Of the four or five volumes which received consideration, Mr. Dillon's verse seemed the most original and authentic. Dillon is also the author of "Boy in the Wind."

Of Thee I Sing . . . by George S. Kaufman, Morrie Ryskind, and Ira Gershwin.

The Pulitzer prize for drama was awarded to this current musical comedy, to the surprise of many who thought that "Mourning Becomes Electra" or "Distant Drums" and other plays of this caliber deserved the award. The Pulitzer Prize Committee in its citation says: "This award may seem unusual but the play is unusual. It is a biting satire on American politics and the attitude toward them. The spirit and style of the play are topical and popular, but of course the work is all the more spontaneous for that, and has a freshness and vitality which are both unusual and incomparable."

Theodore Roosevelt . . . by Henry F. Pringle.

This is the Pulitzer biography book, a truly vitalized portrait of an outstanding American. It is very human in point of view and is undoubtedly a contribution to American letters as well as a distinct aid in the historical survey of American progress.

The Roof . . . by John Galsworthy.

This is the latest play from the pen of this eminent English writer. It is an attempt to view the happenings in an old and very intimate hotel between midnight and one o'clock of a summer night. The play is divided into six scenes, a climax occurring when a fire of mysterious origin breaks out. As is the case with all Galsworthy plays, the drawing of the characters is superior to the plot of the play, but it is unusually good reading.

And just by way of mention, we might recommend (with the aid of the critics who know) the following:

Conquistador . . . A narrative poem dealing with the conquest of Mexico and vouched for by Stephen Benet.

Three Loves . . . A. J. Cronin's successor to "Hatter's Castle" and said to be every bit as good.

Limits and Renewals . . . A collection of poems, stories and sketches by none other than Rudyard Kipling, who still holds his own admirably.

Amber Satyr . . . One of those first novels that do more than show promise. This one is about a bronze giant who carries his own destiny in his clenched fists. The author is Roy Flannagan.

Lives . . . by Gustav Eckstein is an illustrated documentation of the reactions experienced by a scientist in his laboratory work with a lake, cats, rats, guinea pigs, and the macaw.

As I See Religion . . . None other than Harry Emerson Fosdick speaks for himself. You will probably be interested.

Having kept their marriage a secret for a year, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Hoy recently surprised their friends by announcing that they had celebrated their first wedding anniversary.

Getting Personal

What's Don Rice gonna do for cigarettes, and who is going to be kind enough to press Jimmie's rompers, now that the pledges—certain ones—are free?

Why did Cronister pick such a late hour to take a shower the other night? We even heard that he had been asleep. Curry seeks apologies—does he get them?

Graveyards, stones, spooks, pledges, and one who solicited aid.

Poor abused Cowfer. Can Mike Shishak be to blame?

Wepsic is skeptical. He can't figure out whether he's good looking, attractive, or if the certain somebody's around school only think so. Could we help you—you big blushing he-man?

Izzy's power hath fadeth shoost like the last beam on a midsummer night. And after that we had a warm frost.

Can anyone imagine Myron Biddle as a chiseler—a heart breaker?

I wonder is Clyde Snare and Dale Smith appreciate intervention during their playful moments. Social square 10:00 on a certain evening last week.

Floyd Bloom reports to Sekula that DuBois is very anxiously awaiting his arrival. What are you doing in the metropolis Floyd? Why wasn't it Stoges-toun?

And the freshmen are still childish? Lots of them are looking forward to going to the "graduation ball" at the high school back home.

Many students are graduating with honors in the course, which could be entitled, "the art of collecting bills." The junior class treasurers and Leona Brown, who have worked all year to collect day room student council dues deserve special mention.

In Physiography class—Mr. Fleming: "Miss Hamilton, is the world round like a silver dollar?"

Pauline—"No, round all around."

Some more of Physiography class—Mr. Fleming: "What's the disadvantage in putting out a pan to make a rainfall test?"

Rohrbaugh—"A dog might come along and lick the water up."

Belle Milligan is afraid she might get some freckles. The other evening when she was out for a walk she asked: "Say, Ruth, you can get freckles at night, can't you?"

Jack Haberstroh, like Caesar of old, declined the laurel wreath—in this case Praeco Editorship—twice, but the third time was the charm. He has it.

Junior Play Pranks: Rohrbaugh's sidewhiskers as fiery red as his hair.

Blyler on his knees and Flossie looking calmly at him.

Ellen Reighard and Wilkenson having words all over the stage.

The Praeco feature section holds more than one laugh. Look at the way they recreated Dot B., Olive L., Sabby, Omar, Vivian M., Scott—and the rest. No, thank you, Don and H. L. aren't receiving any callers.

June Breining wanted to know what to do with "John Brown's Body"; she had been "dating" with John, but now comes summer—new season, new suit. Maybe Icky has something to say.

Ed Dettrey says that Rome must have been built in a night. He's just read the old saying—"Rome wasn't built in a day."

Class President Rice Plants Tree on Campus

On Monday morning, May 23, at 10:30 o'clock, the class of 1932 marched in solemn procession from the main entrance of the college to a point on the campus near the residence of Dr. Dallas W. Armstrong, the President of the College, to formally dedicate the class tree as a part of the annual class day exercises.

Myron Biddle, a two-year graduate of the intermediate group, gave an excellent presentation address as he fittingly dedicated the tree as an everlasting memorial of the class of 1932.

The traditional ceremony was even more significant this year, for throughout the nation the bi-centennial celebration of the birth of Washington is being observed.

Everywhere trees are being planted and dedicated to the memory of the Father of Our Country and the class of 1932 did not wish to lag behind in that endeavor.

Don Rice, the President of the class, planted the tree, after which Myron Biddle formally dedicated it to Washington in memory of the class of 1932 as an everlasting symbol of their college days.

Track Squad Obtains Sixth Place in Meet at West Chester

"Russ" Burd again displayed his prowess on the track by taking two firsts in the track meet at West Chester last Saturday. He won his special events, the pole vault and the broad jump. The only other local man to place was Shively who tied with Gulden, of Millersville, for third and fourth place in the 440-yard dash.

The Lock Haven squad earned sixth place in this meet by taking ten and a half points. West Chester won first place by scoring in twelve of the fourteen events, to total 48 3-7 points. Shippensburg was second; East Stroudsburg, third; Millersville, fourth; Clarion, fifth; Lock Haven, sixth; Bloomsburg, seventh; Slippery Rock, eighth; California, ninth; Mansfield, tenth, and Indiana did not place.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals were awarded for the first three places in each event. The championship trophy was awarded to West Chester, which has won every dual meet in which it has participated.

A number of records were broken. Radowski shattered the shot put record with a heave of forty feet. The hundred-yard dash record was bettered in the record time of 10.1. The time for the mile run, the high hurdles, the 220-yard dash, the half-mile, and the two-mile run was shattered in this meet.

Al Marie—A penny for your thoughts. Don Francisco—I was just going to leave the room.

Ruth Sherman—Give her a quarter! It's worth it.

Margaret Potter, a College Sophomore, played hostess on Sunday afternoon, much to her pleasure. On Tuesday, with tarts over and worried in the past, Margaret went home for the summer months. She will return next fall.

Senior Week is Bridge Week to certain fans of Second East. A tournament is being conducted, with Hilda Payne, Dorothy Bly, Fern Snyder, and Madeline Lesser as participants.

Mrs. Ella Glock, '88, of Lock Haven, died on Friday, May 13th.

Training School Holds Colorful Spring Festival In College Gymnasium

On May 13, at three o'clock in the gymnasium of the College, the Training School Spring Festival was given under the supervision of Miss Maloise Dixon of the Physical Education Department. Following is the theme of the Spring Festival:

To the little cinder maid comes a dream of prancing fairy horses with their pumpkin equipage, and a touch of her godmother's wand, Cinderella is clad in a diaphanous frock and shining slippers, to grace the prince's ball until the witching hour of twelve.

Throughout the land the flare of trumpets hails the approach of royal heralds, following the meager clue of a single shining slipper. In the market place, as villagers dance about a ribbon-decked pole, and sing their homage to the coming of the May; beside the winding stream whither the womenfolk trudge to wash their linen to snowy whiteness beneath a kindly sun; at the village school, where a demure mistress watches her lasses and lads at their merry play in that fleeting moment before the clanging bell shall summon them to more drudging tasks; among the rollicking gypsies, while children laugh and caper and the jingle of tambourines pulses through a lively dance—everywhere they seek, and yet their search seems all in vain. Nor can Cinderella's haughty sisters add aught to its success.

But when the little maid of the cinders shyly proffers her foot, all at once the quest is ended; it is none other than Cinderella whose modest charm is indeed that of the lost princess, and the prince comes with joy to claim the hand of the loveliest maid in all his kingdom.

College Team Wins By Large Margin

On Thursday evening, May 5, at 6:00 p. m., the local nine made it four in a row by taking the Winner Weiners to the tune of 8 to 3. The visitors are a highly touted aggregation and close competition was expected throughout the game, but from the first to the last the Kaiserites were masters of the situation. They failed to make a run only in the fifth inning.

Though the game was only a six inning affair the locals made enough hits to put the game on the ice. The locals had seven extra base hits to the single one of the visitors.

Long, who began the game, pitched nice ball for three innings. He didn't give the visitors a single hit. Wolfe, who relieved him, allowed but three hits.

The game scheduled for last Saturday at Rockview was called off because of wet grounds.

W. A. A. Holds Play Day for County Schools

On Saturday, May 12, the L. H. S. T. C. Women's Athletic Association held its annual Play Day in the gymnasium. Representatives from the Mill Hall, Jersey Shore, Altoona, and Lock Haven High Schools registered in the gymnasium at 1:30 where Margaret Gardiner, President of the Women's Athletic Association, was in charge. Lodging for the representatives was provided by Ann Oven. Margaret Dorries, as activities chairman, placed the entrants in four groups, each of which had its own color. The groups were made up of representatives from each school so that the winners were on the basis of groups rather than schools.

Baseball, volleyball, and track, including running, broad-jumping, and high jumping, made up the list of competitive events. The treasure hunt which followed took the participants around the college grounds. The treasure, a small tennis racket, was found by Ann Seminitis.

A picnic lunch, prepared by the W. A. A. members, was served in the gymnasium, after which the participants danced. About twenty-five students represented the four schools.

Lock Haven Overwhelms Mansfield, Score, 15-13

By winning last Tuesday afternoon from the strong Mansfield nine, the Lock Haven Teachers baseball team was able to make it a perfect season, without a single setback. This fine record is certainly a good start in a new athletic field for the College.

Hits and runs were plentiful as the box score will indicate. Katchik and Snare were the big stickmen for the day. The only three-bagger was credited to McLean.

The game was a tie affair most of the way. At the beginning of the lucky seventh the score stood 7-7. The locals came through with seven runs to apparently cinch the game, but Mansfield came back with plenty of fight to earn six runs and make the score 14-13. However they were unable to earn another run in the final frame, so that the final score stood at 15-13 for the local nine.

McCall started on the mound for the Lock Haven outfit. He had six strikeouts to his credit. Long, who replaced him in the sixth inning had two strikeouts to his credit. McCall was credited with the victory.

Football, Basketball And Track Squads Receive Letter Awards

The regular Monday morning chapel on May 9th was an especially interesting one to a great number of the students who have participated in school athletics in the past. Letters were awarded by Dr. Armstrong to the lettermen in football, basketball and track.

The highlight of the chapel program was the award of a letter to F. E. Ritter, who has been a sincere and devoted sports fan. The school owes him a great deal of credit for the interest he has taken in school sports for the past fifteen years.

Another interesting fact is that this is the first year track letters have been awarded in the history of the college. Five letters were awarded to those men in the school who have earned at least five points in a track meet.

The program was further enhanced by the presence of Dr. Armstrong, Coach Kaiser, F. E. Ritter, Mr. Sullivan, and "Whitey" Lawrence on the stage. Coach Kaiser mentioned the fact that almost every boy of the one hundred and fifty in the school had participated in some sport, such as football, intra-mural and varsity basketball, baseball, and track. Dr. Armstrong presented the letters to Mr. Ritter and the boys.

Those receiving football letters were Captain Ed Dettrey, Captain-elect Speed Hatter, Hart, Wepsic, Smith, Burd, Torok, Cowfer, Poust, Shively, Baker, Schnarrs, Densham, Rice, Snare, Biddle, Bossert, Hammaker, Poole, McCloskey, Sundberg, Achenbach, and Manager Cook.

Basketball letters for the 1930-31 season were awarded to Captain Scott McClean, Bardo Cooke, Hammaker, Weber, and Plummer.

Basketball letters for the 1931-32 season were awarded to Captain Calvin Cooke, Hammaker, Poust, Weber, Plummer, McClean, Bardo, Schnarrs, and Condo.

History was made when track letters were awarded to Captain Russ Burd, Hoy, Shively, Smith, and McCloskey.

First Round of Tennis Tournament Played Off

It seems that all the scheduled matches in the inter-class tennis tournament will not be played before the close of the school term. Because of the bad weather of last week all of the first round matches were not played and only one of the second round matches was played. Probably the tournament will not go beyond the second or third round. There are a number of excellent players in the school and it would be of interest to many to find out who is the champion. Possibly this will be decided next fall.

The following are the results of the first round matches: McCloskey won from Moon, 6-3, 6-3; Bryerton had things his own way in winning from Bob Smith, 6-1, 6-2; Heydrick defeated Bardo, 6-2, 6-0; Buchanan won from W. Rorabaugh, 6-3, 6-4; Stehman easily defeated Sekula by the scores of 6-0, 6-3; Snare walked away with things in his match with Wilkinson, 6-0, 6-1; Ziff won from Stringfellow, 6-1, 6-4; Burkart had a hard time winning from M. Lucas, 7-5, 7-5.

In the only second round match, Cook, who drew a by in the first round, was the loser to Burkart, 6-1, 6-3.

One of the most interesting of the second round matches will be the one between Snare and Stehman, who are both considered as excellent players.

membership was opened to all who had studied French in high school.

A series of educational reports about the history of the French Language, French writers, and French literature were given. The members learned French songs and began the dramatization of the play "The Buff." Records were purchased to aid them in their mastery of the language.

Y. M. C. A.

During the past year the Y. M. C. A. has carried out projects in their program such as The Y. M. C. A. Welcome Party, sponsoring delegations to intercollegiate conferences, and the securing of speakers at their regular weekly meetings and for the campus as a whole. Probably the high spot of the year in the work of the Y. M. C. A. is marked by the visitation of "Dad" Elliott to our Campus. The Y has also undertaken to provide a weekly program of devotions to the men of the college. In these meetings outside speakers were secured, and group discussions were formed.

The Y. M. C. A. has sent a total of eleven men to intercollegiate conferences this year, and expect to send a representative to the annual summer conference to be held in June.

Y. W. C. A.

On Wednesday evening, May 11, the Y. W. C. A. closed a most successful year with an indoor picnic in the College Gymnasium. A resume of the year's work reveals many worthwhile things done by the various committees. The meetings committee provided programs including interesting talks by faculty members, Miss Lillian Russell, Dr. Frances Coppens, and Miss Bertha Daniel, a program by former Girl Reserves presenting worthwhile standards for every girl; and various music selections.

The Social Service Committee saw to it that every child at the Children's Home had a happy Christmas and heard stories every Sunday afternoon. The magazine chairman furnished current magazines for the girls. At the first of the year, the Big Sister Movement helped the new girls orient themselves to College life.

The fun affairs included a Blimp Tea, a Valentine Tea, a Pajama Party, and an Informal Picnic.

This year the Y. W. C. A. of our college was represented at the Eleventh Quadrennial Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement for the first time in history. Delegates will be sent to the Summer Conference of the Y. W. C. A. to be held at Camp Whelan, New Jersey, on June 9-19.
