CAS office re-opened

HARRISBURG- The Commonwealth Association of Students, the only educational "consumer advocate" group for all students in Pennsylvania's fourteen state colleges, has re-opened its office at 229 State Street, Harrisburg, Pa. 17101. C.A.S. staff members can be contacted at (717) 233-7618 during office hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

C.A.S. evolved from the individual student governments and P.S.A.S.G. (Pennsylvania State Association of Student Governments) to represent the individual students collectively, a go-between the students and the Department of Education, the State Legislature, and the governor. The decline in appropriations for higher education compelled the formation of C.A.S. as a means of survival for the students, as their voice in the capital.

With a contingency that includes 80,000 state college students, C.A.S. has the potential to influence legislation for the students.

Expectations for the coming year include: (1) A more substantial student representation on the Board of Regents for the proposed Commonwealth University Act, and a clearer definition of a student association to represent the student's voice in Harrisburg.

(2) A voter registration campaign throughout the commonwealth to involve more students in the selection of their representatives, giving the students and C.A.S. a greater influence in student-related legislation.

(3) An investigation into the regulation and control of student activity fees in the state colleges. The main question under scrutiny by C.A.S. and the Justice Department is— Are the monies collected the student government's or the Commonwealth's?

In addition, C.A.S. will attempt to provide services to its individual members: discounts in travel expenses, insurance, accommodations, tires, etc. may be contracted. Development of a student legal aid fund is forthcoming.

Douglas Dows, a recent college graduate of Lock Haven State, assumed the position of executive secretary of the Commonwealth Association of Students. His staff will include two student interns receiving academic credit in their own

Simanek speaks of Psychics

by Larry Schmidt

Plants which react to human feelings, communications with the dead, and a man who bends spoons by merely thinking are among the topics to be discussed in the first of the faculty lectures.

The lecture, "Psychic Phenomena - Science or Delusion?", will be delivered by Professor Donald Simanek on Thursday, Sept. 12th, at 8:00 p.m. in Ulmer Planetarium. Admission is open to the public without charge.

Professor Simanek's lecture will deal with the world of psychic powers from a historical outlook, as well as examine their scientific possibility. A large part of the lecture will deal with spiritualism, a phenomena popular in the 19th and early 20th centuries. Professor Simanek feels this practice of communicating with the dead through the mediums is relevant to the development of the current popularity of ESP. The lecture, illustrated with slides, will present many of the interesting and colorful characters involved with the various phenomenas throughout the years.

Some of the current psychics to be discussed will be: Uri Geller who claims to use mental power to bend spoons, Hans Holzer who claims to photograph spirits, and a look at those investigators who claim that plants can sense human emotions.

Professor Simanek has been developing an interest in those ideas that mankind accepts without evidence for quite a while. His interests deepened when people on the edge of the science world began promoting psychic ideas to receptive audiences. His lecture will discuss the various phenomenas and try to decide whether further study of them is justified.

Today's Editorial

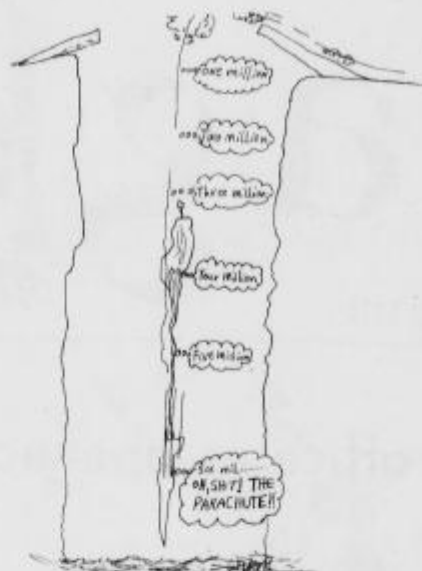

The ballotbox is the next step

Paying an activity fee has provided you with more than a free pass to the movies, athletic events and other SCC sponsored activities. Yes, believe it or not, those with validated I.D.'s can vote in the upcoming senatorial election.

But whether you vote or not depends on how you feel about the college community. If you think that there is no way your vote will have any effect on the way student government operates, then why bother? And if you've been involved in past elections, you need not be reminded that one SCC presidential election was decided by three votes.

So perhaps, why all the verbage? I guess, I'm attempting to address the uninitiated at this college, the new guys. Even if you don't belong to any campus organization at this time, it's not too late to start. Thursday's election will give you and all the other members of the student body a chance to get involved. If anything is going happen on this campus during your years here, it will be because somebody cared.

In simple laymens terms, get off your glutens raximus, get out und vote. Don't let upathy be your excuse for existance.

Movie Mania

On the movie agenda this week are "The Point," "Johnny Tremain," and "All the King's Men."

Written by Harry Nilsson, "The Point" deals with ignorance and prejudice in an animated way. It revolves around a young boy, Oblio, who lives in a land where everything and everybody is pointed. The only problem Oblio isn't pointed. The count, jealous because Oblio has many friends, envies him. Here, he learns that it isn't necessary to have a pointed head to get somewhere in life. His experience provides for good entertainment.

"Johnny Tremain," our Disney selection for this week, takes a look at the part that youth played in America's War for Independence.

"All the King's Men," which wraps up this week's showings, stars Broderick Crawford and Mercedes McCambridge. Both Crawford and Miss McCambridge won Oscars for their performances, as well as the movie winning an Academic Award. It deals with Willie Stark, the power-hungry governor who had an administration of violent, vicious and wreckless corruption. It takes its place among the great historical films of the motion picture industry.

Rusty and Andy Lewis, sons of Gubernatorial candidate Drew Lewis, will meet with students interested in working on their father's campaign staff Friday, Sept. 13 at 3 pm in the PUB.

BSC offers understanding

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article was submitted for publication by the Black Cultural Society.

The Black Cultural Society as a student organization was founded at Lock Haven State College in 1969. Its purpose is to promote better relations among the student community by creating an awareness of the Black Cultural Experience. It is only through enlightenment that a sensitivity and better understanding can be achieved. In the past in terms of cultural activities, the society has sponsored art exhibits, small theatre productions, and a modern dance troupe. In terms of social activities we also had jazz concerts with such prominent artists as Cannon Ball Adderly.

The main purpose of the Black Cultural Society is to promote a feeling of community, they welcome all interested students and appreciate any participation in whatever capacity they chose to serve.

Shootin' it with Shep

Well it's that time of the sports year again. The summer is over and for many people this means the end of baseball, and swimming, and the beginning of football, cross country, soccer and field hockey. For participants it means the end of their own personal training program, if any, and the beginning of the "real thing." Freshmen try to oust regulars; regulars try to hold on to their positions, and the coaches have the hardest job of all, deciding who has beaten out who.

The air is alive with the sound of footballs being kicked, signals being called, hockey sticks clicking together, soccer balls being booted. One can often see the cross country team running down the road, the athletes that are training for sports that are out of season, and the ever-present sight of sweat socks, sweat suits, and sneakers once again in Bentley.

But these observations require little if any imagination and are not my purpose in writing this column. My purpose is to stick my neck out and make a few personal predications on how a few things could end up. This column should not be confused with the newly appearing column "Crackback!" My column will attempt to cover more sports generally while "Crackback" is concerning itself primarily with football.

As long as I'm on the football track I may as well start with a few predications there.

On the home front, the Bald Eagles are young, no seniors in the backfield, but they seem tough to me. I think the Eagles will improve on their 1973 record of 2 and 7 and get over the .500 mark. I predict 5-4 for the '74 edition of Haven football.

On the major college scene, Notre Dame is tough, and so is Ohio State. Penn State will probably have another fine year but also will probably go unnoticed by most sportswriters. To me it looks like Ohio State is going to run into the number one spot in the nation. Notre Dame will be second, Oklahoma third, Penn State fourth, and Alabama to finish fifth. These predications are meant to materialize in January, after the bowl games.

Major league baseball is rounding third and heading for home. The division races are all fairly close. It looks like Oakland won't be caught in the AL West. Texas made it close for a while but the defending champs were too much. In the AL East it's a dogfight between New York, Baltimore, and Boston; and that's how they'll finish, too, Yankees first, Orioles second, and Red Sox third. New York wants it too bad, I think, to fold now.

Over in the National League West Los Angeles has been in first place a long time. But all that matters is who is in first when it's all over. Sorry, but I have to go with Cincinnati to overtake the Dodgers for the second year in a row.

In the East, the Phillies, led by Dave Cash, said "Yes we can," but Pittsburgh and St. Louis had other things to say. So despite a challenge by the Phillies and the Lou Brock led Cardinals, I have to pick the Pirates to win the East.

In the playoffs: Oakland over New York, and Cincinnati over Pittsburgh. In the World Series it's Oakland (ho hum) over the Reds for another title.

Well that's it for today's predictions. I'll be back in a week or so with more "earth shattering predictions" and other sport shorts such as those that follow.

Miami's Dolphins look like they intend to make it three in a row....

Lee Trevino beat Gary Player on a seventh sudden death play-off hole to win the $ 50,000 World Series of Golf.

The Reds and Dodgers face off in a crucial 3 game series next weekend.

Fall sports teams will meet new opponets

The Lock Haven State fall sports teams are scheduled to face several new opponents as well as facing opponents that have been on the schedule for years.

The football team will have two new opponents on the schedule. One has been missing from the schedule since 1957, the other since 1967.

Lycoming, who the Eagles open against Sept. 14 in the Fez Bowl, last played the Eagles in 1957. It was the "last one in a series which had began in 1954. Lock Haven has a 3-0-1 record against the Williamsport area school but last year Lycoming came out ahead 20-8 in a scrimmage against Lock Haven.

The other "new" opponent on the '74 schedule is Indiana University of Penna. It marks the restarting of a series which had started in 1925 and ran through 1967. Against Indiana, the Eagles haven't fared too well; dropping 22 decisions while winning only 12. There have been 3 ties. Lock Haven will finish the opposition for Indiana Nov. 9 in the Eagles season finale, at Indiana.

Dropped from the schedule are two teams who defeated the Eagles by a fairly large margin last year. They include Westminster, 42-7 winners over the Eagles in last year's opener, and Bridgeport University who defeated Lock Haven 47-21 in the season's finale.

Coming off a fine 10-3 season last year, the Lock Haven Soccer team will face two different opponents from last year's schedule as well as dropping two opponents.

The two new opponents are just that; new. Neither have ever played the Eagle booters before. The two newcomers to the schedule are Kutztown State College and Spring Garden College.

The two teams dropped from the schedule gave Lock Haven very little trouble last year. The Eagle booters defeated St. Francis 8-1 and St. Vincent 8-0. Both have now been dropped from the schedule.

The cross country team will face three new opponents this year while four opponents from last year's card do not appear this year. Lock Haven fared very well against the four that have been dropped from the schedule. The Eagle Harriers defeated all four.

The newcomers to the cross country's opposition are: the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown, Delhi, and Harper.

will have an expanded schedule this season. Last year the team played 8 games, winning 6. This year the team will play a 12-14 game schedule. This includes three new opponents in addition to playing two games against Slippery Rock. The new opponents on the schedule for this year are Millersville State College, Cortland State College, and the team will also compete in the Mount Pocono conference tournament, to be held this weekend. It will start the ball rolling on the '74 season for the gal's hockey team.

RICHARD NIXON PARDONED

On Sept. 8th, Richard Nixon was given a full, free and absolute pardon by President Ford. The pardon, given before Mr. Nixon had been convicted, has aroused the people to voice their opinions. Although White House calls have been almost equally for and against, the telegrams, about 600-700 an hour, are counting 6-1 against the amnesty. The pardon timing was based on the mental and physical health of Mr. Nixon. President Ford has postponed amnesty for war resisters indefinitely.

DESTROY AFTER FIVE YEARS

President Ford and Richard Nixon have made an agreement concerning the White House tapes. Although the tapes will be kept for use by the courts, after five years Mr. Nixon has been given permission to destroy them.

SUGAR PRICE GOES UP

Many sugar fields in Louisiana were recently ruined by Hurricane Carmen. This will cause an even greater shortage of sugar and a rise in price.
