Special Report... AIDS goes to college

Biff Miller
Eagle Eye Reporter

It attends classes. It plays sports. It even goes to parties, but it's never any fun...

AIDS is everywhere, and now more than ever before, it's on the college campus.

According to the AIDS UPDATE newsletter distributed by the Pennsylvania Department of Health, America's college students and teenagers will be the next AIDS reservoir.

In a study of 20,000 college students across the nation, Centers for Disease Control indicates that three out of every 1000 students are infected by the AIDS virus.

"College students are exploring their personal and sexual identities, which means a lot of risk-taking in terms of alcohol use, multiple partners and unprotected intercourse," said Charles Zimmer in an article titled, "AIDS on Campus" in the October 1989 issue of Glamour magazine. Zimmer is the administrator of the University Wellness Program at the Sindecuse Health Center at Western Michigan University.

In his program, Zimmer clarifies that AIDS "is an invisible invader that can be passed from one lover to another without either partner being aware that it was part of their relationship."

Many colleges appear to be taking a 'cover-the basics' approach by educating students about the threat of AIDS.

Rarely discussed at colleges, for instance, is sharing needles for steroid use, reports Glamour.

"A recent National College Athletic Association study found that in tests conducted without warning, more than 30 percent of college athletes in steroid-sensitive sports showed evidence of steroid use," said Glamour.

It is hard to determine whether or not students are taking steroids orally or through sharing needles, but the risk is still there.

Dr. Keeling, Chairman of American College Health Association (ACHA), told Glamour alcohol use frequents the occurrence of casual sex and the spread of AIDS.

"When you're impaired by alcohol," says Dr. Keeling, "there is no such thing as having safe sex."

Keeling also points out it is not just high-risk groups, namely homosexuals, spreading the disease.

Statistics from the Kinsey Institute at Indiana University show that three-quarters of men who call themselves "gay" have had sex with at least one woman, Glamour reports.

Keeling feels AIDS education must become a part of everyday campus life.

"Students need to understand that AIDS connects to how they drink, play athletics, and make love."

Unfortunately, these startling facts aren't immune to LHU. Here, as well as on any other campus, there is the chance of coming into contact with an AIDS carrier.

And LHU is taking steps to educate their student body as well.

On Sept. 27th a mandatory meeting is scheduled for Resident Assistants informing them of AIDS and other STD's.

Pamphlets informing students on AIDS are available at the Glennon Infirmary, said Nancy Panko, R.N. at the infirmary.

Classes such as Dr. Cox's Personal and Community Health course educates students on the spread of AIDS and STD's.

And although presently, there is no free and confidential AIDS screening on campus, there is testing available at the Williamsport Clinic, phone # 1-717-327-3440. (AIDS continued page 2)

Convocation '89

By Biff Miller
Eagle Eye Reporter

Thomas Field House-Persistence was the central theme of guest speaker Bettina Gregory's address at Lock Haven University's 1989 convocation.

Last Wednesday ABC-TV news correspondent Bettina Gregory spoke to LHU students and faculty about her experiences in the world of journalism.

Gregory started her career in 1974, working at a radio station for a mere $2.50 an hour and after losing her job there, continued working on towards her present job at ABC news.

Gregory explained, "because we have failure we must turn it around as an opportunity to succeed."

She said her persistence was the ultimate key to her success.

There is no question that Ms. Gregory is a successful journalist.

Her experience at ABC, including assignments highlighted on "World News Tonight," "Nightline," "Good Morning America" and the ABC radio network has included award winning coverage of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster, the TWA terrorist hijacking, airline safety in the United States, and the investigation of the Arrow air crash.

In 1978 she placed first in a national news competition. In 1979 she captured two awards, one for investigative reporting and another for excellence in reporting by the National Commission on Working Women.

In 1983 TV Guide selected Gregory as one of the top ten investigative reporters in the nation.

Gregory closed her address by suggesting three important tips for success related to any occupation.

First, "if you keep on persisting, you will succeed," she said.

Second, she mentioned that a person cannot be afraid to take risks in order to get ahead.

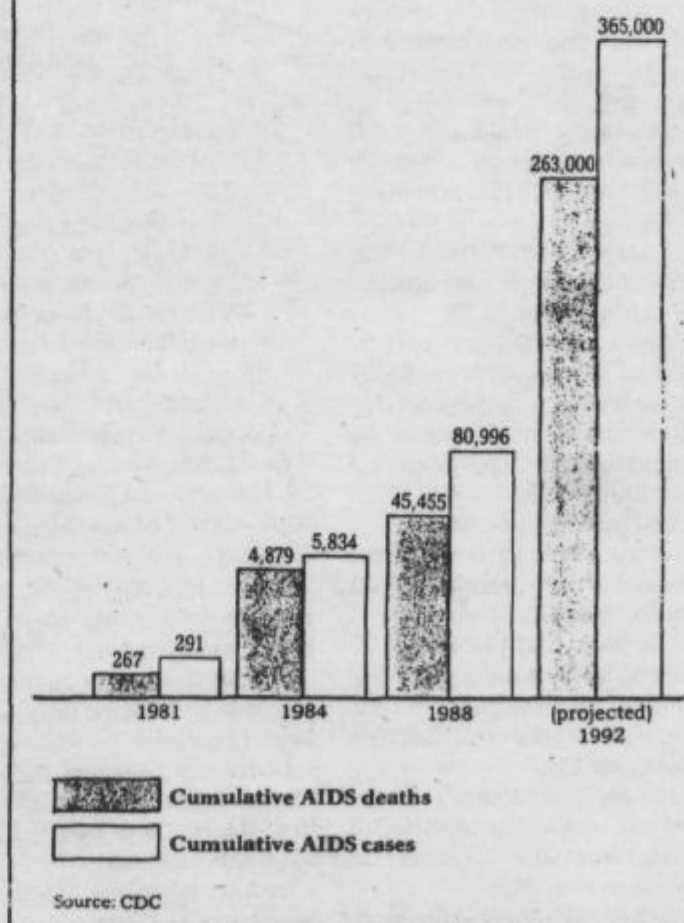

And lastly, Gregory stressed the importance of sticking to inner feelings.

"We have our own internal compass," she said. "You have to stick to that even when everyone else is going in a different direction."

The Founder's Day Convocation is held each year on the first day of classes to introduce the freshman class to the University.

Convocation also acquaints the students with academic award winners, alumni, and other faculty members.

The AIDS Epidemic and How it Grows

Gregory speaks of success and failure

By Cory Marshall
Eagle Eye News Reporter

As the old saying goes, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

This was the main topic of discussion by Bettina Gregory, an ABC-TV senior news correspondent who spoke to Lock Haven University students, faculty, and guests last Wednesday at Thomas Field House.

Gregory suggested three important tips for success in any of today's occupations or tasks.

"First, if you keep on persisting, you will succeed," Gregory said. Second, she mentioned that a person cannot be afraid to take risks in order to get ahead. Third, Gregory stressed the importance of sticking to inner feelings.

Explaining how the tips can be useful, Gregory shared a personal experience she encountered while covering the hijacking of a United Airlines jet.

Gregory, along with her crew from ABC News and other media crews, anxiously awaited on hillsides and surrounding areas around the airport on a 90 degree, 100% humidity day.

They had been there since early in the morning when the plane landed in Atlanta, Georgia.

So far, there hadn't been any action and all was quiet throughout the morning and afternoon hours.

Gregory, acting as senior correspondent, had an Interrupted Feedback (IFB) in her ear which was a small listening device about the size of a nickel.

The Director of ABC News told Gregory "it was all over" and that the hijackers had surrendered. But as the director from New York was giving Gregory this information, Gregory stumbled upon negotiations between the FBI and the hijackers through a radio pilot monitoring the situation in the hanger.

As Gregory was listening to the negotiations, the ABC Director had told her to tell the audience that it was over on her 6:00 newscast. Gregory did not feel it was over.

"You will say that the hijacking is over," said the news director.

"No I won't," Gregory replied.

"Yes, you will," answered the news director.

Gregory went on to tell the estimated 1500 spectators at Thomas Field House that the news director can tell her what to say, but cannot control what she says on the air.

Knowing that could very well have been her last newscast, Gregory dug deep down inside her heart and told what she felt needed to be said.

She told the audience that the hijacking was not over and that a plan to free the hostages was in the making.

Sure enough, within a couple of hours, the F.B.I. rushed to the plane, only to find gunfire.

After a few minutes of chaos, the action stopped. There were reports of minor injuries and fatalities and then and not before, the hijacking ceased. Bettina Gregory told the Lock Haven students that first, she kept on persisting. She didn't close up shop like the other media crews and tell the world that the hijacking was over. She looked into the situation and persisted, until she found what she was looking for- the negotiation monitor.

Second, she took a risk and told what she felt was the right information and she succeeded by telling the right story.

Third, Gregory dug deep inside her inner feelings to make what she felt was the right decision, and succeeded.

Her job remained intact, but the news director's eventually faded.

"Just because you fail, doesn't mean you can't keep trying," Gregory added.

"If you keep persisting and trying, you are eventually going to succeed in the end."

Fortunately, campuses are beginning to take more steps in the education of AIDS.

More information related to AIDS and other STD's can be easily obtained through calling the AIDS Factline at 800-662-6080.

AIDS is a devastating disease that has already claimed the lives of 58,000 Americans, a statistic which is on the rise.

Said Keeling on the campus problem, "There's still a lot of unsafe behavior going on. However, from the point of view of a realistic approach to behavior in young people, we should not expect them to utterly stop risky behavior, but you hope for modification."

Women and men cross country finish fifth and sixth

By Merritt La Porta
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

KUTZTOWN - Debbie Valansky and Tim Haring posted the best finishes for the men's and women's cross country teams in the Kutztown Invitational held this past weekend at Kutztown University.

Valansky was the first Lady Eagle across the finish line with a time of 20:15, good enough for 12th place overall.

Three places behind Valansky was teammate Jill Baumgartner who captured 15th place with a time of 20:29.

Julie Grasser took 24th place in 21:07 while freshman Dianna Szymanski took 33rd overall in her second collegiate race.

The LHU women finished fifth in the team standings with 117 total points, but managed to beat host Kutztown which satisfied head coach Leroy Straley.

"We had a much more impressive score (this week) and it was pleasing to beat host Kutztown," he said.

Millersville took first place with 27 points followed by Bloomsburg with 66, Lehigh with 68, Shippensburg with 80, Lock Haven with 117 and then Kutztown finishing last with 159.

"Deb Valansky looked strong for her first race of the season and captains Jill (Baumgartner) and Julie (Grasser) had strong performances as well."

"We need to get these top three running together and close the gap behind them," he added.

Other top finishers include Dawn Brenner, Pam Sheppard, Stacie Hubert, Mary Beth Gammon, and Nancy Petts.

"Hopefully we will continue to improve and we look forward to facing some new teams next week," Straley said.

On the men's side Tim Haring crossed the line at 29:20 to capture 36th place overall.

Behind Haring came Scott Sweitzer at 29:43 in 41st place, freshman Tony Dickensheets grabbed 44th place in 29:55, Travis Faulkner took 45th in 30:03, and John Widl finished 46th in 30:10.

As a team, LHU finished sixth with 167 points. Shippensburg captured first with 22 followed by Millersville with 59, Kutztown and Delaware tied for third with 79, and Bloomsburg finished fifth with 143.

"Inconsistency seems to be the problem in our first two weeks," said head coach Kurt Smith.

"If our first seven runners had their best runs at the same time, we would be much better off."

Other top finishers included Steve Madrak, Kevin Wheeler, Jamie Shea, Brad Reese, Dave Tyson, Marc Phillips and Brian Prushinski.

Both teams take on Baptist Bible next Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Field hockey team 0-1-1 at OSU tourney

OHIO STATE - A grueling schedule combined with blazing heat overpowered the Lady Eagles Field Hockey Team at Ohio State University Saturday.

The opener against Southwest Missouri State University ended in a dead locked 0-0 tie after 90 minutes of grueling action.

With only a 1 1/2 hour break the Lady Eagles did battle once more, this time with Ohio State University.

The Lady Eagles fell 4-1 to a more rested Ohio State team.

Senior Missy Carman was the lone scorer for the Lady Eagles.

"Overall we didn't play badly for playing on turf," said head coach Sharon Taylor.

Moreover, a rash of injuries has plagued several returning players.

Senior goalkeeper Stacey Giorgio has been sidelined since preseason.

Despite the injury to Giorgio, junior goalkeeper Dot Schmidt has played quite well.

"Schmidt is strong mentally and physically. Giorgio and Schmidt will make a solid team," Taylor said.

Also plagued by injuries are seniors Tara Egolof, Dawn Therrell, and sophomore Gia Sgrignoli.

Taylor hopes they will be healthy for Thursday's game versus Bloomsburg.

Along with the new season comes new goals for the Lady Eagles Field Hockey Team. The Lady Eagles now have the right to compete in the PSAC conference playoffs. "This is something to shoot for, something we didn't have in the last five years," said Taylor.

According to Taylor, an experienced defense along with a strong Missy Carman will help power the Lady Eagles to reach this goal, however, the front line will have to take advantage of scoring opportunities.

As for the thrust of the season, Taylor said we will be the team to beat since our move from division I to division III. The first challenge within the conference comes on Thursday against Bloomsburg.

"Bloomsburg will be strong, they are known for their strength and winning tradition."

Also, the key to the season, said Taylor, is to have a healthy team play each game as if it were the most important.

The Lady Eagles take on Bloomsburg at home on Thursday at 3 p.m.

Bald Eagle football trounced at IUP 44-10

Ry Herb Samuels
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

INDIANA - The Lock Haven football team dropped their second game of the season to Indiana University of Pennsylvania (IUP) by the score of 44-10.

The Bald Eagles started the game in fair shape. After a quick score by IUP the Bald Eagles answered with a 40 yard pass from Jimmy Broadway to Guy Wade to tie the score at seven.

After another touchdown by IUP, LHU placekicker Rich Marriott put his name in the record books.

The sophomore nailed a 46 yard field goal, a school record. The field goal was made with out the use of a kicking tee (now illegal in all NCAA games). But what impressed head coach Tom Jones was that Marriott made the kick on a field he claimed is a "Cow Pasture."

IUP struck back with an 80 yard touchdown pass by Tony Aliucci to Andrew Hill.

"We had a chance in the first quarter and a half but when they scored the 80 yarder we didn't answer the challenge," coach

Jones said.

Defensively the Bald Eagles gave up 519 yards (317 rushing, 202 passing).

Jones wasn't pleased at all with the effort turned in by the defense.

"We lost the letter D in our defense," he said.

"Were terrible right now defensively. We have a lot of people back from last season so we have no answer for why we aren't playing better than we are."

On offense the Bald Eagles are trying their hand with a new quarterback this season, Jimmy Broadway.

"For the third year in a row we're trying to find a quarterback to lead our offense. Jimmy Broadway has the capability to do so," Jones said. "He's going to need help, however, and he just didn't get it. We just didn't show up to play offense Saturday."

Broadway finished the game completed eight of 14 passes for 77 yards including one touchdown and one interception. The Bald Eagles finished with 205 yards total offense (126 rushing 79 passing).

"We played Tennessee Tech and IUP, two of the best (NCAA) Division II teams in the country," Jones said.

"But we stink, stank, stunk so far. There comes a time when players have to play and I hope hope that time is Saturday."

The Bald Eagles (0-2) look for redemption Saturday when they take on Bloomsburg at Hubert Jack Stadium. Kickoff is slated at 1:30 pm.

Tennis team loses opener to IUP

By Rob Yoegel
Eagle Eye Sports Editor

LOCK HAVEN- The Lock Haven University Lady Eagle tennis team opened their season last Thursday losing to IUP eight matches to one.

The Lady Eagle's only victory of the afternoon came when their number one singles player, sophomore Jen Jacobs defeated the Indians number one player, senior Susan Crist 6-3, 6-4.

"I didn't know what to expect," Jacobs said.

"It was my first time playing number one, I just wanted to do the best I could."

The two sets that Jacobs won were the only two that LHU could muster.

The closest of the remaining matches was in the number three singles where Rebecca Chase lost to IUP's Amy Reeher 6-3, 6-3.

In the doubles competition, the number one team of Jacobs and Peggy Buckmaster were defeated by IUP's Crist and Reeher 6-1, 6-1.

Head coach Tag Helt said that the caliber of IUP and of Lock Haven's next opponent, Shippensburg are two of the best in the state.

"Playing teams like that are good for the girls, they will stay tough." Helt said.

The match today at Ship, features Lock Haven's Jacobs versus three time Pennsylvania Conference runner-up Karen Keefer.

LHU booters split in Little Caesar Classic

By Cory Marshall
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

LOCK HAVEN - The Lock Haven University Bald Eagle soccer team split their weekend series at McCollum Field in the 3rd annual Little Caesar's Classic as they defeated Keene State, 4-0 Saturday afternoon and dropped a 4-1 decision to Oakland on Sunday for second place in the tournament.

On Saturday, in the first game of the Classic, Oakland (Mich.) scored twice in each half to defeat the Keene State Owls, 4-0.

Paul Phillips scored the only goal the Pioneers would need on an assist by Alan Stewart at 19:02 of the first half. Oakland scored three more times on two goals by Stewart and a goal by Earl Parris.

In the second game, the host Bald Eagles posted a strong offensive game while goaltender Chad Houck received little penetration from the Mercyhurst Lakers as Lock Haven routed Mercyhurst, 4-0.

Gary Ross, a 5-7 junior, scored Lock Haven's first goal.

With LHU driving in Laker territory, Brian "Butch" Williamson shot a ball towards the Laker goal. The ball hit the top of the goal post bouncing back into fair territory. Ross rebounded to kick the ball back in between the post and goalie Joe Behr with 29:32 gone in the first half.

Ross added to his total four minutes later as Tibi Kobolak, a 6-2 senior, assisted from the left wing to Ross who booted a head-on-goal across the middle for a 2-0 Lock Haven lead.

Kobolak got into the act as he scored off an assist from Williamson early in the second half.. Williamson tallied another assist on Lock Haven's fourth goal with a pass to Ken Tewsley.

Houck did not register any saves for the Bald Eagles, but the offense was impressive outshooting the Lakers, 16-3.

Sunday's action pitted Mercyhurst and Keene State with Mercyhurst edging the Owls, 2-1 on goals by Keith Carney and Robin Engle. Nick Fiorentino tallied a second half goal for Keene State.

The fourth and final game of the tournament matched Oakland against Lock Haven as the Pioneers claimed the 3rd Annual Little Caesar's Classic with a 4-1 victory.

Oakland took command in the first half as Paul Phillips scored the Pioneer's first goal on an assist from Alan Stewart at 3:22.

Oakland took a 2-0 advantage as Erik Enyedy assisted to Earl Parris with 18:11 gone in the first half.

Lock Haven cut the lead in half as Lance

DiFabio took a pass from Gary Ross to score past Oakland goalie Ralph Torre.

Oakland upped the lead to 3-1 with 35:09 gone in the first half on a goal by John Brennan off an assist by Stewart. Oakland tallied one more time in the first half as Most Valuable Player Simon Mayo scored unassisted past Houck with 40:12 gone in the half.

The second half was a defensive struggle as neither team could score in the remaining 45 minutes of the game.

Lock Haven did have a few bright spots in the game as Chad Houck made a one-on-one save as Oakland's Emmanuel Charles broke loose up the middle and booted the ball at Houck. Houck hung in and deflected Charles' kick preventing an Oakland goal.

"Well in both games, I think the reason we got up on top early and made it easy for ourselves is because we are finishing our chances," said Oakland coach Gary Parsons.

"We're getting our chances and our percentage of finishing them has been pretty high. It's not always going to happen that way, but its nice to see that we're putting chances away."

Lock Haven head coach Lenny Long thought that Oakland was ahead 4-1, but only for a short time.

"I think they were 4-1 better than us for 25 minutes. We were really flat and we made a couple of mistakes," said Long. They're a great team. But I think we're a very good team and if we can eliminate 20 minutes of the first half, it's a different game.

Lock Haven's loss to Oakland was only the first of the season, as they defeated William Patterson, 5-0 in their inaugural game of the 1989 season.

Kurt Jarnagin had two goals while Tibi Kobolak, Gary Ross and Brian Williamson each tallied a goal for the Bald Eagles. Chad Houck recorded one save in his first start for the Bald Eagles.

Lock Haven recorded their first deadlock of the season last week at McCollum Field as they battled the Lehigh Engineers to a 2-2 tie. Gary Ross scored off an assist from Butch Williamson while Tibi Kobolak scored on a pass from Chad Houck.

Lock Haven (2-1-1) will battle archrival Bloomsburg at Bloomsburg on Wednesday before going to the George Mason Tournament this weekend to battle Division I host George Mason on Saturday and American University on Sunday.
