TKE Receives Award Faculty Members Promoted

For the sixth consecutive time, the Interfraternity Council honored Tau Kappa Epsilon for the highest fraternity scholastic average of 2.52. Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority received the Pan Hellenic Council award this year with an average of 2.798. This is the third time that Tri Sigma has won the award.

Faculty promotions were also presented at the convocation. Fifteen faculty members were promoted. C. Richard Bressler, Alfred E. Hoberman, Nora Huergo, Marian L. Huttenstine, Harry F. Keeler, Donald R. Keener, and Bertha L. Mayes attained the rank of assistant professor. Four professors, Audrey W. Kuhn, Clifford L. Smith, Dean R. Wagner, and Robert F. Weller were promoted to associate professor. Four other faculty members became full professors: Edward C. Clawson, Jean F. Deobold, John P. Irwin, and Ernest I. Schrot.

Three professors also achieved advanced degrees. Jeanette E. Cruse, Instructor of Elementary Education, received her Master of Education from Penn State University. Elliot G. Simons, Instructor of Health Education, received his Master of Education from East Stroudsburg, and Paul W. Schwalbe, associate professor of biological science, received his Ph. D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Following the academic announcements, James M. Cass delivered a speech centered around the theme of "The Educational Revolution."

Academic achievements were recognized yesterday at the annual academic convocation in Thomas Field House.

One hundred and sixty-five students made the dean's list for attaining a 3.5 cumulative average at least one semester of the '68-69 academic year.

"People hearing without listening, people talking without speaking and words like silent raindrops fell." (Paul Simon)

In other words, James Cass was a bore.

James Cass came to speak at LHS armed with the standard solutions and explanations in an attempt to clarify the educational revolution.

Although Mr. Cass's speech did have some merit in that his vast knowledge of the educational scene in America was concerned, the intangible ingredients were still lacking.

Cass, at great length, explained that there is no such thing as THE educational revolution since the educational system is currently in a constant state of flux. According to Cass, technology played an integral role in spuming the revolution.

In an exclusive interview with Eagle Eye Cass discussed the problems encountered by college administrations. He voiced the opinion that "Universities need not worry about organizations such as the SDS." Cass projected that it is the middle group who are concerned, upset, and alienated from the university, who could eventually destroy the university.

According to Cass, students are qualified to contribute ideas concerning course content and selection but should not have the final say. Cass hastened to comment however, that the students' complaints must be heard and more importantly understood.

Today there is much talk about the generation gap. Differences between children and their parents have always existed and, in all probabilities, shall continue to exist. The quotation, "For as we are, so shall they be," often hurled at us by our elders, raises a question in young people, especially future teachers. We may ask if this question is valid. Cass answers that "teachers should do their very best to recollect their experiences as young people." However, even this won't do since we can "see things intellectually but still act out of gut."

James Cass told us nothing new.

His theories on the American educational system are common knowledge to those in the field of education.

Cass presented no unique ideas or workable explanations to the dilemmas facing our nation, but must be respected in view of his knowledge of education.

Gridders Entertain Huskies in Opener

The 1969 edition of the Lock Haven State football team will be unveiled tomorrow night at the Spring Street Stadium. The opposition will be furnished by the aggressive Bloomsburg Huskies.

Coch Weller commented that, "Our team is ready mentally and physically for this season's opener. I feel we will put up a very strong battle."

LHS Soccer Team Home Tomorrow Against Frostburg College

Lock Haven State's junior varsity and varsity soccer teams play Frostburg College on Saturday afternoon at McCollum Field. The team still has a large number of players on the injured list but Coach Karl Herrmann expects his starters to be ready to play on Saturday. The probable starting lineup for the varsity team is Galen Hess, Jim Sleicher, Joe Knight, and John Garmon playing the forward positions. Tom DeFrancesco, Steve Steffen, and Steve Moyer as halfbacks. Fullbacks will be George Magliaro, Tom Ellis, and Curt Wolf. Goalie will be Bruce Parkhill.

Keith Harman, Bruce Pearson, John Carpenter, and Bill Lingle are expected to start as forwards for the junior varsity squad. Don Trautman, John Mingos, and Mike Burkhart will go in as halfbacks. Karl Wolf, Zigmus Tauginas, and Lee Westenberg will start as fullbacks. Ken Dawson will tend the goal.

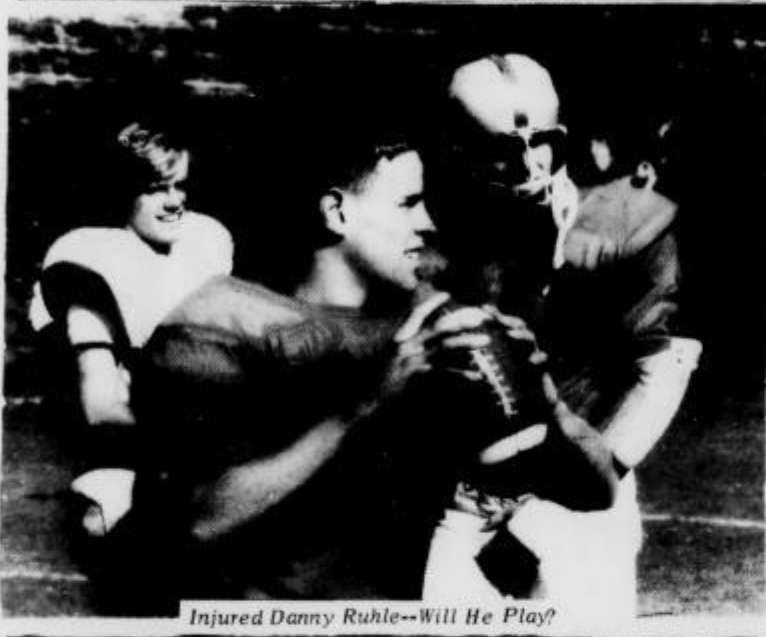

Coach Herrmann expects the Eagles to do well against Frostburg. They were a strong team last year but LHS beat them by one goal in overtime. In the four years that Coach Herrmann has coached here, the Eagles have beaten Frostburg three times, winning each game by one goal and losing only once to them by the same margin.

Coach Herrmann feels the team has a very good chance to win all their games this year. "If we can get the eleven players we want on the field at the same time, it should take a very good team to beat us. There have been so many injuries thus far this season that not all of the players have been able to play together at one time."

Sleicher Readies for Meet

Injured Danny Ruhle--Will He Play?

LHS Harriers Open Season

The LHS harriers, coached by Jim Dolan, will open the 1969 cross country season on Saturday, against Slippery Rock State College. The meet, which begins at 1:30 pm, will begin and end on McCallum field.

Slippery Rock, which finished 4th in the conference championships last year, will rely on veteran Phil Anderson and sophomores Ed Galewski and Joe Speher to play well against the Bald Eagles.

Lock Haven will be defending a streak of 19 consecutive dual meet victories. Last year the Eagles defeated the Rockets by a 23 to 33 margin.

Being new to the conference, Coach Dolan couldn't comment on the Slippery Rock strength, or on the expected outcome of the meet. Commenting on his own team, Dolan said: "I expect the team to do well on Saturday and I expect some freshmen to help in the scoring. I say this in light of the fact we have three key men injured."

The "walking wounded" include Steve Podgajny, Harry Smeltz, and Dave Mosebrook, all of whom may or may not run, depending on their condition on Saturday. Slight injuries will hamper captain Keith Rider, Em Borowski, and Nibs Gordon, but all will compete. The freshmen who must fill the gaps left by injuries are George Bower, Steve Harnish, Carl Klingaman, Bob Wagner, and John McDaniels.

LET'S GIVE 'EM HELL

"Colossal waste of time." These are the words which Mike McLaughlin used last evening when he referred to President Parsons' 16 point-by-point summation of the SCC constitution. Eagle Eye must emphatically concur with this opinion (perhaps will outgrow it and become nice mothers and fathers in ten years or so).

Dr. Parsons appeared to be legitimately questioning whether the resigning SCC members had followed their constitution improperly during their period of office. We feel, however, that President Parsons was in fact deliberately trying to challenge the integrity of the former officers and to undermine any united student stand.

The SCC officers resigned because they realized that our so-called student government is really only a puppet after all. If our SCC has been a little children's game, then we are tired of playing this game.

The number of interested people who assembled at last night's SCC meeting was large enough to demonstrate that the students are greatly concerned about their student government. And to have their intelligence insulted by an explanation that the president has had really wild girls who turned out to be nice mothers is almost offensive — even odious.

The overwhelming turn-out at the "Bitch In" (estimated 700-900 people) today is another outstanding fact which speaks for itself.

Although many students expressed their dissatisfaction in an orderly and legal manner, mere talk will not make a dent in the 28-year period of the Howdy Doody puppet program. All the students of this college must unite and fully support the properly channeled measures of improvement — the new government now under Mike McLaughlin. We will have changes at this college and we will have them through the students. Through the proper channels—

Four Explain Resignations, Encourage Student Unity

This afternoon, for the first time in the history of LHS, the student body held a mass meeting. Students gathered on the lawn in front of Russell Hall from 12 noon-4 pm. This gathering gave students an opportunity to air their grievances.

Mike McLaughlin, president of S.C.C., addressed the gathering first and denied the rumors that his colleagues had resigned because of friction within the S.C.C. executive board.

Also present at the "bitch-in" the six S.C.C. executive board members who resigned their posts early yesterday morning explained the reasons for their resignations. Walt McCallum, former president of the S.C.C., Gary Landon, former second vice president, Gary Gadsan, former treasurer, and Joe Levandoski, former parliamentarian, delivered addresses to the meeting. Peggy Mahaffey, former corresponding secretary, and Mary Lou Campana, former recording secretary agreed with the statements presented although they did not speak at the gathering.

The six members also issued a statement of support for Mike McLaughlin's government and declared that they had resigned but not quit.

Following the addresses of the former S.C.C. executive board, the floor opened to any students who wished to speak. The comments ranged from complaints on cafeteria policy to calls for united student action.

Music provided by records and a band and hot dogs cooked on charcoal provided entertainment. Approximately 900 students turned out to speak, listen, dance, and eat.

MIKE McLAUGHLIN moderated "Bitch In".

President Parsons Calls Emergency SCC Assemblage

"It doesn't matter to me. I'm just an old man, with long years of experience, like an old bull — I'm used to everything," stated President Richard T. Parsons during an emergency meeting of the Student Cooperative Council last evening.

This gathering was not an official board meeting, but rather an assemblage called by Dr. Parsons because of the mass resignation of six SCC officers.

In addition to members of the board of directors, the meeting was attended by several of the college trustees and administrative personnel who were invited by the president.

Implies 16 Deviations

Dr. Parsons referred at length to 16 different points within the SCC constitution. He implied that the former student government officers had not followed proper procedures in exercising their duties.

The president said he had "the purpose of perhaps an older person to younger persons... to point out some things you probably never thought of."

The 16 constitutional points ranged in topic from the duties of each officer to financial considerations.

No More Checks Signed

"There will be no more checks signed" for SCC-funded clubs Dr. Parsons said, until Monroe Hurwitz, SCC general manager, receives the itemized budgets of the organizations from the student council.

Pay vouchers from organizations must be checked against the approved budgets before checks can be written, Parsons pointed out.

Although checks have been written up until this point, no more vouchers will be accepted except for necessary materials, the president warned. He indicated that this order will stand until the budgets are presented to Hurwitz.

'Backs' New SCC Chief

While throwing no light on the reasons for the resignations Dr. Parsons praised the efforts and good motives of the former SCC executives. He added that sometimes "it's hard for me to keep my cool in dealing with students. I hope you'll keep your cool too."

The LHS president also threw his support to Mike McLaughlin, the former SCC first vice president who has assumed the duties of president.

"He's not all bad yet," Dr. Parsons commented, adding that he will "back him (McLaughlin) in his duties as president."

Waste of Time

Following the president's statements to the board members, Mike McLaughlin cleared the room of all but SCC members and advisors.

McLaughlin said he would not refute Dr. Parsons' implications of SCC's failure to follow its constitution. This, he said, would be "another colossal waste of time."

He did, however, comment that the present SCC constitution, which is being studied for revision, contains "certain gears, regulations, and cop-out devices" which the college administration has used to control students.

McLaughlin also said that he believes, although he has no definite proof, that the constitution was originally written by Edward H. Young, assistant to Dr. Parsons.

Offers Impeachment Move

Concerning the resignations, McLaughlin said: "I assure you it was due to no internal dissension within the board... My colleagues realize that SCC is not a game to be played."

The meeting would be officially called, McLaughlin said, and procedures could be begun there for his impeachment as president, if that was what the board wished.

The new SCC president said that the council could return to being a "howdy-dooody puppet government" of the administration, if the board of directors wished to ask for his resignation.

••• Landon - Optimism •••

STUDENTS:

Today marks a new and unique undertaking here at Lock Haven State College. For the first time, a peaceful and well-organized assembly has been set up giving students an opportunity to voice their bitches and exercise two of their most precious freedoms; the freedom of assembly and the freedom of speech. Today also marks the last public remarks regarding situations and events surrounding the resignations of six executive board members of the SCC.

Some of you may think we are surrendering with a pessimistic view on such things as the SCC and the student body. But actually nothing could be further from the truth. It's OPTIMISM, not pessimism, that causes people to alter their course of action. It's OPTIMISM that causes men to sacrifice and wait, hoping that later achievements will more than justify the earlier sacrifice. It's time we all take a good hard look at ourselves and see exactly what is going on around us. There seems to be a cancerous growth gaining a strong foothold on this campus. Some pass it off as merely apathy, others believe it is a lack of communication. But personally I can not pass it off as either one. Granted, apathy and a lack of communication help spread this cancerous growth but are these the only factors involved? Or is this cancerous growth something much deeper? Think about this students, and think realistically.

I am tired of getting the run around and no real answers. It's almost like a game sometimes, to see who can befuddle, confuse, and divert one's attention the longest before he catches on. It's time we are given straight answers for our straight and pertinent questions. They are insulting our intelligence and fooling themselves if they actually believe we can not see what their evasive and delaying tactics represent.

But probably one of the most annoying factors is the pseudo sincerity which has flooded the Student Government. Student Government should not be used as a game in which some members take turns in seeing who can disrupt the meeting the quickest and for the longest period of time. Maybe you think I am exaggerating this point, well to that I say, go to the next SCC meeting and judge for yourself. Take note of the trivial matters brought up as the juvenile game of politics, Lock Haven style is unveiled. We have even been severely criticized by an SCC committee chairman for undermining the activities of his committee. This same committee was formed and directly responsible to the SCC and President Walt McCallum, not the SCC directly responsible to this committee.

But there were worthwhile and rewarding moments that I experienced serving the students as an SCC officer. Probably my most rewarding experience was serving under the enthusiastic and capable leadership of Walt McCallum. It is really a tragedy when such a capable person as Walt has to resign to keep his self dignity as a person. I would like to thank our advisors Miss Martin, Mr. Johnson, and Dr. Klens for surrendering a large amount of their valuable time. They did this not for themselves, but for you students.

Now students, think about the questions I am sure you have pondered since yesterday, "Why did these people resign?" I did say resign not quit, because we will never quit, because we owe that much to you students who care and have cared.

There are people on this campus who really do care about student government. To these people I extend a very sincere thank you. Thank you not only for your active support but for your moral support as well. You know who you are and we know who you are. To you people, again thanks.

Gary Landon

••• McCallum - Beat the Drop of the Axe •••

Fellow Students:

I should like to give you my reasons for resigning from my post as president of the S.C.C. This was not an overnight decision but rather a four-month decision.

My reasons for resigning were not any of internal conflicts between the executive board. We had a very good working relationship, but as I progressed into my term of office, I have noticed various problems in the S.C.C. government. The government is only a nickel and dime game people play every first and third Wednesdays of each month. When we would present new policies or problems that the students had shown concern over, the board of directors would only think that parliamentary procedure was pertinent. I feel it was a game of some of the board of directors to see if one of them could nail the president and/or the other officers on some petty procedural point.

There was a definite personality conflict between the executive board and the board of directors. No matter how much a resolution might benefit the entire student body; if we presented it, the board of directors would let personalities affect their votes. This is fine people, because I like to laugh and joke also, but I don't play!

The executive board has no power whatsoever! Read the S.C.C. constitution and look at the various distribution of power. Power and authority is very wisely dispersed and my compliments go to the author(s) who organized our government, whoever they may be.

Various people have called certain members of the executive board "troublemakers", these people were not students.

As a president, I feel I have exhausted my benefit to the student body and if I continued to function as such, it would do harm to the students. I have done all I can, we have been called "trouble makers" and if we present student problems, we hear that we are only looking for trouble, not trying to solve existing problems. I am convinced that I am no longer an effective president and I must do what is right. When I ran for president, I promised I would do all I could for the student body's benefit. The reason I resigned was because this was the only way left for me to still serve the students in a good way. Don't worry about the government because it only gets what it is allowed anyway!

For the students who have supported me since my political career began at Lock Haven State College, I am sorry; for those who did not support the S.C.C. or tied up the S.C.C. with petty points of procedure because I was in office, I feel more sorry for, for you people are really sorry.

These are my reasons and opinions, based on observations, comments, and actions of other people. I believe what I am doing is right. I can justly say that I have never lied to the students of Lock Haven State College since my political career began, I will not end my career with a lie. Just remember that "Students for Students" are not dead! Retired politicians do not die, they just fade away! Keep the faith! All we did was beat the drop of the axe!

Respectfully submitted,
Walt McCallum

••••• Gadson - Rubber Stamp for Administration •••••

In the wake of recent events there is a certain cloud of confusion prevailing over the Lock Haven State College campus. Therefore, I think it only fair that you receive an explanation.

It was back in early January of 1969 when a small group of students banded together under the mentorship of Walt McCallum, President of the Sophomore class, to form the Students for Students Party. This "coalition" if you will, of various "student leaders" was in certain circles - degraded and our intent was challenged. I might point out that little to none of these circles were composed of students.

The Students for Students ran on a platform vowing to make the Student Cooperative Council, which is termed the proper channel for student action - the "official mouthpiece of the students."

The unity and devotion of this coalition proved fruitful as you the students confirmed and reaffirmed your faith in us in not one but two general elections. In the election we gained another member as Mike McLaughlin, an independent candidate emerged victorious to become first vice-president.

When we took office we did not take any oaths with our hands on the bible. There was no pomp, glamour and splendor. Instead, we expressed our sincere interest in representing you - the students - our supporters - the ones who elevated us to public office.

However, some four months after we have taken office we have seen constant opposition, sometimes ever so slight, lack of communication and cooperation stifle our vigor, our creativity.

Time after time we sacrificed our self-interest, jeopardized health and academic achievements in the name of the Students of Lock Haven State.

and for what-----
To become a rubber stamp for the administration!

I should like to reiterate that there was no "power struggle" among the members of the Executive Board with no one member emerging victor.

I have had - in very subtle ways of course and in very elite and select circles - my name slurred and my integrity deplored.

But more over there is an absence of awareness. There has been a handful of students who have proved that they want a better educational community through the utilization of the democratic process.

We have not abandoned the students but rather we have been abandoned by them.

After all, only a minority of students at any school support the leaders whether official or unofficial. Most, as if the dominant case at Lock Haven State happily and eagerly support the status quo, whatever its faults. More accurately, they refuse to take the trouble to get involved. I believe the most appropriate term is apathy - a lack of involvement - an "I don't give a damn attitude."

This has been the fallacy of our student government - the overwhelming degree of apathy. The attitude of the student body as well as the administration and faculty has limited the effectiveness of any student leadership on the Lock Haven State College campus.

I have resigned not because of any animosity between any member of the Executive Board and as a student I pledge my whole-hearted support to Mike McLaughlin.

And so students of Lock Haven! There is no question that Lock Haven State College is a small college.

There is no question that the city of Lock Haven, with a population of about fourteen thousand provides an ideal setting for the college.

There is no question that all this affords a quiet, serene, calm, tranquil unique atmosphere. There is no question that many of the ideals of this institution stem from passe conservative principles.

There is no question that there are many pressing issues on campus which directly affect the students.

There is no question that lack of student involvement will continue to sustain these problems.

There is no question that this institution exists for the betterment of the students.

There is no question that some of the undesirable conditions can be changed with proper organization and with unity.

There is no question that if the students unite and become involved in securing what they want and in the rights they feel they deserve, changes can be made in a sensible and pleasing manner.

There is no question that many aspects of student life can be manipulated to student satisfaction.

There is no question that the students of Lock Haven still possess dormant student power.

Therefore, it is about time the students on this campus realized the potential power they hold as members of a growing and increasingly progressive student body.

Therefore, student power is relevant; it is a means to secure rights and to change outdated regulations. Don't just complain. Do something about what you want - the change you create may make you glad you did!

••• Levandoski - Cemented Feet •••

To all students: "making waves..."

Today marks the end of what was for some of us an official dream. An end to something Walt McCallum and I worked on for three months before election, and as a unit with the rest of the executive board, for the last six months. A hope to better this place in so many ways and for so many reasons. A desire to make students aware of what is happening here, and what we were trying to cure. We called for change, and people turned pale; we called issues "controversial" and people shook down there cement entrenched feet; we asked for help and students lost interest in our rhetoric.

But not all students lost interest, for some supported us, and you know who you are and how we feel about you. We tried people-believe me we did. But it's hard to constantly pull one's feet from constantly laid mud, or to dodge road blocks laid from all branches of the academic tree-laid so meticulously. Again, for you people who helped and believed in us, a deep and sincere thank you.

Now, if I may, let me pass on some "bitches" that I feel need bitching at: first, that cafeteria, I do not know about you, but I am tired of having to inspect my knife, fork, and spoon to see if dirt and grease are on them; I am tired of being looked at as some sort of a criminal, because I might take an extra dessert; I am tired of being given the run around-just like the rest of you-you know that those people over there called me a trouble maker because I complained about those conditions, well, I will admit I did and I do regret it; I say go through the proper channels, but but get on that proper channel's back-before he sells you down the river, just so he can be liked. Take it from me, this is no popularity contest and I do not plan on making it one.

And my second "bitch" is directed at your souls. Open your eyes wide-if you dare, question every move you took for granted before, make them provide you with all that you are suppose to get-in all areas. I think you will find that their is room for improvement.

And please give Mike McLaughlin a chance; he is one hell of a great guy and I was proud to serve with him and am proud to call him my friend.

Walt plus the rest...
Students, we have come to the point now of knowing too much to ever understand why, or what to do about it.
