Stadium faces another hurdle Attempted

by Tom Murray

Monetary problems have once again delayed completion of the Lock Haven State football stadium.

On July 3, the General State Authority and the stadium architect rejected all bids for the construction of the complex.

The G. S. A. feels the contractors had unreasonably inflated the construction costs.

The contractor's proposal was $172,364 in excess of the original allocation of $550,000.

Donald Stevenson, Director of Institutional Maintenance at Lock Haven, is meeting with Harrisburg today in hopes of working out a financial solution.

Stevenson's proposal is a cutting down of stadium seating capacity. The blueprint now calls for a seating capacity of 5,000. Stevenson suggests eliminating just enough seating to meet the original allocation.

The Physical Education Department, however, favors a cutback on the athletic locker and training facilities projected as part of the stadium complex.

Stevenson is optimistic regarding a suitable compromise in meeting the original allocation and having the stadium functional by the 1975 football season.

theft in Gross Hall

An attempted theft in Gross Hall was reported to security at approximately 1:30 a.m. yesterday. The soda machine on second floor had been broken into.

The estimated $30 damage is believed to have been caused by a tire iron or large screw driver. Nothing was missing, as the money box could not be broken into.

Until the machine can be repaired, soda is available from the second floor counselor.

Senate, SPB elections scheduled for next week

Elections for S.C.C. Student Senators will be held on Thursday, September 12, 1974. All full-time students (12 semester hours or more), in good standing are eligible to become senators.

Students wishing to run for Senator must secure a petition from the Executive Committee office (ground floor, PUB), have it signed by fifty Lock Haven students and returned by 6:00 p.m. September 10 to the same office.

Each senator will be representing one hundred students in their respective areas of residence, both on and off campus. The senators are responsible for the students which they are representing and are expected to attend biweekly meetings, help with committees and aid in the operation of the Senate Office.

Elections for the three positions on the Student Publications Board representing the general student body will also be held September 12. All full-time upperclassmen are eligible to run.

The procedure for running is the same as for senator, requiring fifty signatures. "Student Publications Board" must be specified in the space for position.

Meditation comes to LH campus

by Mike Holter

Looking for a way to get it all together after that big Labor Day week-end? Want to shake the drug habit, but not sure how to do it? Does clearer thinking, reduction of stress and tension, deep rest and relaxation, and improved health sound like aides necessary to complete the already long college semester?

If you've replied yes to any of the above questions, then the International Meditation Society may have something for you. On Wednesday, September 4th, at 1 pm and 8 pm free lectures on the Science of Creative Intelligence and Transcendental Meditation (TM) will be sponsored by this group. The PUB Music Room will be the location for the presentation of the latest scientific research and governmental endorsement on Transcendental Meditation. Mr. Dominic Forlini, a fully qualified teacher of TM, will present facts concerning the technique and practice of Transcendental Meditation. After the lecture the floor will be opened for questions about this mental practice.

For the uninitiated, TM is a natural and effortless technique which one practices twice a day for a few minutes in the morning and evening. Science has indicated that TM has increased learning ability and improved

Letter to the editor

Walk Softly and Carry a Sharp Fountain Pen

REFLECTIONS ON A CLAY TABLOID

by David C. Heverly

To The Editor,

I wish to thank the Eagle Eye for doing it's part in the educational process. As you have so accurately stated, education is everybody's business.

Sad that one of the first letters to the editor must be an appeal for factual accuracy. By now you may be wondering, What the hell is this guy mumbling about? Well the fact of the matter is, before you grant tenure and faculty status to the writer of the article, "More changes than you think," EE, Friday, August 30, 1974, you might give him an oral exam on data collecting and reporting.

Words put into print whether accurate or otherwise are hard to undo. No matter what the deadline on the article, zeal to see oneself in print is no substitute for factuality. The press can only be the peoples advocate so long as it provides true, unadulterated TRUTH!!

As a footnote to both veteran and novice reporters alike, make sure your head is engaged before placing typewriter in gear. You'll never get caught with your foot in the press if you have your facts straight and your shit together.

Signed, respectfully,

One who knows

Perhaps you read the article, in last Friday's EAGLE EYE, concerning the new independence granted to the Student Publications Board. For those of you who aren't quite sure about the significance of this proclamation, permit me to elucidate:

It means absolutely NOTHING!

This new agreement does not insure the freedom of the press, it just means that we have less to lose should we attempt to use our First Amendment Rights. Independence, used in this context, is just a word.

Freedom of the press is a vital organ in the body of Democracy. If it is not exercised, the organ atrophies and the very existence of the Body Democracy is imperiled.

Independence is not awarded like a prize -- it must continually be pursued and protected jealously. If we fail to take up the challenge, then democracy is just a cruel hoax instead of a reality.

Who's responsibility is it to see that the press is kept alive and functioning? In large measure, it is the job of the Editor-in-chief. He must excite and challenge both his readers and his staff. If he fails to do this, then he has violated a sacred trust by allowing the newspaper to degenerate into nothing more than a daily bulletin with advertisements.

He, himself, is just another cog in the mediocracy machine.

An editor does not challenge either his staff or his readers by underestimating the intelligence of the student body. If he edits things out, simply because he feels that they would "be above everyone's heads" than he, himself becomes an enemy of free speech.

This is a college newspaper. We should be striving for the best and the most thought provoking commentary we can attain instead of plumbng the depths for the lowest possible common denominator. To do that is to alienate the best minds we have on this campus and to keep the less than best minds at their current sub-level.

This is a college. The bodies who float around this place are supposed to be students (ie. professed ignorant persons.) They are supposed to be on this campus to confront new ideas. To provide them hackneyed pap, masquerading under the pretext of being a newspaper, is to rob them of their money and their motivation. To do that is to impede their progress as human beings, as well as students.

If there are those on this campus who recoil from even the chance of being intellectually challenged, they have no place here and should not be taken into consideration when editing this newspaper.

In short, the press is a vital element in the life of the student. How it is run will determine whether we have a Democracy or a Mediocracy!

Humanities series to open tonight

Alfred Hitchcock's thriller, "The 39 Steps," is the opening show in this semester's Humanities Film Series, Wednesday, September 4, at 8:00 p.m. in Ulmer Planetarium.

Based on John Buchan's novel, with Robert Donat and Madeleine Carroll in the leading roles, "The 39 Steps" combines a spy story with humor and romance. Pursued by foreign spies on one side and police on the other, Richard Hannay journeys from London to Scotland in an attempt to thwart saboteurs who have stolen military secrets. To add to his troubles, he meets a young lady who recognizes him as the "murderer" wanted by the police.

One reviewer says that Hitchcock's film is "written and played with a sort of bantering gaiety which permits one to laugh at the excitement as well as share in it." Another finds that "Mr. Hitchcock has the trick of giving his pictures a really sinister quality. He does it by keeping the surface matter of fact, making his characters people who look and talk like the everyday world, never permitting a heightened voice or a sense of danger recognized by more than half a dozen people."

Future films in this semester's Humanities Series include "Singin' in the Rain" (Sept 18), "Will Penny" (Oct. 2), "Village of the Damned" (Oct. 16), "Animal Farm" (Oct. 30), "Maedchen in Uniform" (Nov. 5), "The Tropic of Cancer" (Nov. 20), and "Candide; The Twentieth Century Optimist" (Dec. 4).

Letter Policy

Eagle Eye will accept letters to the Editor only if they contain at least one signature by the writers. Names will be withheld from publication on request of the writer, but all letters must be signed. In this case, however, letters must be typed or written on one side of the page only.

Eagle Eye disclaims any and all responsibility for letters, both in content and topic.

Former All-American to coach at Haven

D. Barry McCoy, former All-American swimmer at Springfield College, will replace veteran Lock Haven State College head swimming coach Harold Hacker for the 1974-75 season at LHSC.

Coach Hacker, who has also served since 1958 as an assistant football coach, will take a one year sabbatical leave.

The temporary one year appointment for McCoy as head swimming coach and assistant football mentor was announced by Athletic Director Stan Daley.

He will be an instructor in the LHSC School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. McCoy, a native of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, will come to Lock Haven State with a brilliant swimming background both in high school at Pawtucket and in college.

The 1972-73 Springfield College swim-captain was a 12-time NCAA (College Division) All-American.

He was a 5-time New England swimming champion and earned four varsity letters in the sport.

McCoy received his Master's Degree from Springfield in May and served last year as graduate assistant swim coach at that school.

Fisher added to staff

The Lock Haven State football team will have a new addition to its coaching staff this year.

John Fisher, an assistant coach at Wesley Junior College in Dover, Delaware the past ten years, has been appointed to the L.H. staff. He will serve as first assistant and defensive coordinator for the Bald Eagles.

Fisher is a native of Titusville, Pa. He graduated from Slippery Rock in 1964 and received his Master's Degree from West Virginia University in 1968. Fisher will be an assistant professor in the LHSC school of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

While at Wesley College, Fisher also was head wrestling coach from 1965 through 1974.

The 32-year-old Fisher is married and he and his wife Carol are the parents of four children.

Bald Eagles still need more work

Bob Weller, in his sixth year as head football coach at Lock Haven State College, thought his team "did well" in the first inter squad scrimmage, held on Saturday.

The veteran LHSC mentor felt the offensive unit moved the ball throughout most of the two hour contact workout and the youthful defensive unit came up with some key plays.

"But we still need plenty of work before we'll be ready for the Fez Bowl opener," Coach Weller also noted.

Thirty-six more players—30 freshmen, five sophomores and one junior—reported for pre-season drills on Tuesday of last week. This increased the squad to 88 and this big group includes only five seniors.

The young Bald Eagles could open the season with as many as six sophomores and three freshmen in the starting offensive and defensive lineups.

Lock Haven is preparing for a rugged opener at Williamsport on September 14 facing Lycoming College in the 5th annual Fez Bowl with a 2 p.m. kickoff.

The first home contest against arch-rival Clarion State College is slated for October 5 at 8 p.m. at the Lock Haven High School J. Arlington Painter Memorial Stadium.

Coach Weller is being assisted by Jack Fisher, Tod Eberle, Hubert Jack, Bob Lane, Barry McCoy and student assistant Ed McGill.

UNIONS MAY STRIKE

George Meaney, head of AFL-CIO, feels that if wage and price guidelines are put into effect, unions would have to call a strike. He says that guidelines are unfair since they only control wages. He also feels there should be complete control or none.

academic performance of its participants. Courses in Creative Intelligence are being taught for credit at more than forty universities in the United States. Over more than fifty secondary schools in the United States, Canada, Germany, Sweden and Norway are teaching TM as part of their curriculum.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare funded a TM training program for one hundred and thirty-one secondary school teachers in August 1972. This program was to raise the level of creativity and improve the psychology of high school students. Due to the growing interest in TM at both secondary and higher education levels, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, founder of the Science of Creative Intelligence, was invited to address the Annual Convention of the American Association of Higher Education in March of 1973.

A pioneer project in 1971 in Eastchester, New York, reported that students improved their academic performance, got along better with teachers, parents and other students. Also there was evidence of a lessening of the use of drugs. In the past five years, six other research projects throughout the world, have shown that drug abuse has dramatically declined after subjects learned TM.

A university has been established to allow in-depth study of the Science of Creative Intelligence in relation to various disciplines. It will also train fully qualified TM teachers. The motto of the Maharishi International University is "Knowledge is Structured in Consciousness". The motto gives an understanding of the unique ability of TM to expand the means of gaining knowledge
