

Office Releases Dean's List 12 Percent Make Grade

REQUIREMENTS HIGH

Through the courtesy of Dr. H. L. Offner, Dean of Instruction, "The Spectator" has secured the names of those who "made" the Dean's List at the end of the first semester. This honor comes only to those who have earned a B average or better in every subject.

Since Dr. Offner and his staff were busy with the innumerable details involved in clearing last semester's records and with the complexities of registering students for the second term, "The Spectator" reporter thought it wise not to risk massacre by requesting further information. If possible, a list of those earning an A average will be published in the next issue.

The following students are on the Dean's List:

Leslie Agens, Maryalice Armagost, Joseph Barolak, James Barfoot, Katherine Bartoo, Harry Bennett, Gale Boak, John Bonnell, Jackson Bonney, Frederick Brennan, John Brukner, John Brumbaugh, Gerald Byrem, Eugene Carnahan, James Carver, Pietro Colpo, Edwin Crowe, Henrietta Crownover, Dewey Davis, Charlotte DeLay, Pius Dillon, Forrest Doucette, Martha Doucette, Jeffrey Douville.

NEWS BRIEFS

President L. H. Van Houten attended the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Presidents of Teachers Colleges in Harrisburg on January 16 and 17. It was noted, during the session, that Edinboro is to cooperate with Penn State for another year in handling Penn State's freshmen students.

The new steam table will soon be in operation. It yet lacks a few essential parts, which are being bid for in Harrisburg. Its completion will mark the end of the congestion that now hampers the serving of meals.

Mr. Bruce McFadden has purchased Gleen's Cross Road Dinor, having assumed active management on January 1. The Dinor will now go under the name of McFadden's Cross Road Dinor.

Mrs. Miller would like all students who have lost or misplaced articles during the last semester to check on the list of things that have been turned into her office.

Amelia Chundrek has undergone an appendectomy in Union City and is now recuperating from her operation.

Kitchell Reslated For Performance

Iva Kitchell, originally scheduled to give her dance "spoofing" recital this evening, has been re-scheduled to appear on March 25. Her managers said that the change was desired in order to accommodate Miss Kitchell's extremely heavy schedule. Her popularity has risen sharply in recent months, especially after she pleased a Carnegie Hall crowd and was featured in "Life" magazine.

Vets Bill Before Congress

A bill providing for substantial increases in monthly allowances for veteran students has been introduced by Senator William Langer, (R.—N.D.), according to a United Press story of January 17 from Washington.

Allowances of single students would be raised from $65 to $100 a month, while the allotment of students with dependents would go from the present $90 to $125.

The story goes on to cite figures from an American Council of Education survey. These figures show that living costs of GI students have jumped 26 percent in the past 15 months.

Cupid Captures Campus Couples

During the brief mid-term vacation, four Edinboro students took the vow of love, honor and obey their chosen partners. Miss Lois Cumpson became Mrs. Gerald Byrem, and Miss Marjorie Waida is now addressed as Mrs. Louis Dell.

Lois and Jerry were married here in the Presbyterian Church by Rev. Hayes. The ceremony was well attended by the couple's friends, who littered the pavement with pounds of rice as the newlyweds fled the traditional shower of Chinese wheat. The bride wore a lovely white gown with a fingertip veil and carried a beautiful matching bouquet of white camellias. Helen Conrader attended the bride, while Norman Emerick was the best man.

After the wedding, the couple spent a short honeymoon gazing at that familiar honeymoon sym-

Chalk Magician and Sculptor Highlight Coming Assemblies

DR. E. R. LAFOLLETTE TO PRESENT CHALK-TALKS

One of Dr. Ernest R. LaFollette's unique "chalk talks" will be featured in assembly next Wednesday morning, February 5. The local instructor, who has given his performance before hundreds of audiences, describes himself as a "chalk magician."

Audiences usually are fascinated, Dr. LaFollette reports, by the surprise element in his artistry. Cartoons and caricatures, his chief stock-in-trade, often turn out to be something far removed from what observers are led to expect.

Ten cents worth of chalk and some old wall paper made up Dr. LaFollette's total equipment when he began presenting chalk talks as a hobby. He became interested in chalk-work after seeing a chalk artist perform in his high school, Shaker Heights, Cleveland, Ohio.

Although he was able to earn part of his college expenses by giving chalk programs before banquets and other gatherings, Dr. LaFollette never took art lessons. After several years of experience on the platform, he toured sections of the country with his unusual show. Being active in summer camp work, he declares that chalk talks are highly effective in "getting across ideas to young people."

Players Initiate 20 New Members

FREELAND, CHAIRMAN

Yesterday evening 20 probationary members of the Edinboro Players were initiated as full members of this dramatic organization. The ceremony, under the chairmanship of George Freeland, began at 7 P. M. with the reading of the constitution and by-laws of the local thespians.

Formal initiation began at 8 P. M. on the stage of the new auditorium. The ceremony was highly colorful and very impressive. The officers of the club, clad in gaily colored robes, administered the rites of initiation.

This initiation is very significant as it marks the 20th year of the existence of the Players on this campus. Over this period 1,000 members have been initiated—an average of 50 members per year. Miss Ludgate, who took charge of the players in 1927, has built it into a very powerful, scholarly, and highly important organization.

One feature of last night's program was the report of the play-selection committee, which made known its choice for the annual spring production of the Players. Details in respect to this 1947 opus will be published in the next issue of "The Spectator."

Of the original twenty-seven probationers, the following twenty students became full-fledged members of the organization:

Bob Chester To Play At Sweetheart Ball

FRESHMEN SPONSOR AFFAIR

"Pop" Warner performing a precarious stunt with the aid of two chairs. (see story)

On the night of February 15, the Freshman Class will hold the "Sweetheart Ball," which promises to be the outstanding social event of the year. Bob Chester and his seventeen-piece band have been engaged to supply the music for this gala affair. The gym will be completely decorated in the color and spirit of the Valentine season by the decorating committee plus any freshman art students who will volunteer their help. It was through the efforts of the president, Jack Kinney, that the class was able to secure a name band for this occasion.

The highlight of the dance will be the naming of the "Sweetheart" of the campus. If you wish to nominate some girl for this complimentary title, place her name on a slip of paper and deposit it in one of the "Sweetheart Contest" boxes in Haven or Normal Hall. A long ballot will be compiled from the names in the boxes. Of the names on the long ballot, five will be chosen for the final vote. The girl who is voted "Sweetheart" of the campus, out of the five finalists, will remain unknown until the night of the dance. There she will be named and honored.

The admission for the dance will be $1.50 per person or $3.00 per couple. This permits fellows or girls to come stag and not have to pay the higher price.

Reporter Interviews "Pop" Warner

CUSTODIAN NORMAL HALL

By DOLLY JOHNSON

Old Noah Webster's handy book says that "a hobby is something in which one takes an absorbing interest." Only by chance it was discovered that "Pop" Warner, custodian of Normal Hall, has an unusual avocation.

Mr. Warner's hobby, acrobatic artistry, was started way back when. Starting his work with the Y. M. C. A. in Erie, Pop has provided amateur entertainment for innumerable crowds in Erie and the surrounding vicinity for many years.

The Warner Trio consisted of Pop and his two boys. Their main feats were ground-tumbling and hand-balancing acts. During a conversation with Mr. Warner it was learned that he had put on a chair-and-table act some time ago in the old auditorium in Normal Hall.

This "fifty-eight-year-young" guy is really named Harvey D. Warner. He was born in Jamestown, North Dakota, when that region was not a state as it is today—but only a territory. After graduating from Central High School in Erie in 1907, he then attended Valparaiso University in Valparaiso, Indiana. Mr. Warner, who now resides on Meadowville Street here in Edinboro, previously lived in Erie for twenty years. Besides "Pop" and his wife, there are five young-uns. Now his home is overrun by college boys, who are billeted there.

He has more or less given up his hobby now, because of his fire-some work. One of his sons, however, is now with the famed Ringling Brothers Circus.

When asked if he thought he'd ever go back to this avocation, Pop said, "I ought to go back for Maridahl's sake—she's a born acrobat. I keep promising myself I'll go back." Maridahl, by the way, is "Pop's" youngest daughter. It must run in the family.

Prize-winning entries in the "Campus Snapshot Contest," conducted by the Photography Club, have been selected as follows:

First prize: a shot taken by Bob Murray in the Village Gift Shop shows Leita R. Hopkins holding a white-necked kitten. Second prize: The front of the new auditorium in bright autumn sunshine, caught by Peter Jung. Third prize: A river-shore scene snapped by Patricia Faulk. Fourth prize: Peter Gall captured walking past Haven Hall, taken by Marshall Webb.

Third prize in the veterans' contest was copied by Don Cherrle with an Alpine scene. The first and second prize winners appear on page 3 of this issue.

"You Can't Legislate Love"

Some weeks ago a woman student intimated confidentially to an editor of "The Spectator" that campus rules pertaining to male-female social contact were, in her judgment, one or two shades less than liberal.

The girl alleged that existing regulations actually stated the number of inches of daylight that must appear between couples walking along Edinboro's charming streets. Holding hands or assuming other poses which could be construed as being amorous, continued our complainant, constitute offenses which carry stiff penalties.

We feel that a bit of proximity between the sexes is unavoidable during operation of the crowded "chow" line, if not at other times, but that is not our reason for narrating this incident. Our chivalrous aim is to point out concrete evidence which should be inspiring as well as consoling to all students who may think that their natural romantic impulses are being unduly curbed.

Witness the several campus courtships that have blossomed into weddings recently. Although this outburst of nuptial ceremonies could hardly be termed a "wave" or a "rash," the number is sufficient to prove that love is invincible even in the face of highly technical inhibitory rules.

The loss of "The Spectator's" first sports editor and the imminent resignation of his successor can be traced to matrimonial factors. Since we like to be referred to as "liberal," however, we do not intend to request more stringent social rules. We shall restrain ourselves from asking for more daylight between strolling couples, and we shall purge our minds of all vicious thoughts of suggesting an armed anti-love guard for Haven Hall.

The immutable fact—which we hope our lamenting girl will absorb—is that true love can not be thwarted by any number of interdictions.

As a fitting conclusion, then, to this discourse, we remind all at ESTC who aspire to become June brides that there are only 114 days left in the semester. With the present male-female ratio, it is purely a woman's market. It should be easy, girls.

—John B. Bonnell

Welcome

To those individuals who but in the recent past arrived on the E. S. T. C. campus, we dedicate this column. To them we sincerely extend a hearty welcome, but we leave it to gifted poets to express our feelings in more fitting language than is at our command.

"Welcome, my old friend,
Welcome to a foreign fireside."
Longfellow — To an Old Danish Songbook.

"Welcome as the flowers in May."
—Scott—Rob Roy

"I hold your dainties cheap, sir, and your welcome dear."
Shakespeare—Comedy of Errors.

"Small cheer and great welcome makes a merry feast."
Shakespeare—Merchant of Venice.

"Sir, you are very welcome to our house:
It must appear in other ways than words
Therefore I scant this breathing courtesy."
Shakespeare—Merchant of Venice.

"Welcome ever smiles, and farewell goes out sighing."
Shakespeare—Troilus and Cressida.

"His worth is warrant for his welcome."
Shakespeare—Two Gentlemen of Verona.

"Alike he thwarts the hospitable end
Who drives the free or stays the hasty friend;
True friendship's laws are by this rule expressed,
Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest."
Homer—Odyssey.

"And Snow Was Born"

God looked at the world
 One winter morn,
 At its barren fields
 And its trees forlorn,
 Who lifted their leafless
 Arms to the sky,
 And whispered, "Cover us, Lord,
 Or we shall die."
 Then God took pity
 On this world below,
 And waving his hand
 He created snow.

Correspondence

TO THE GIRLS OF ESTC

"Why we had lots more fun around here last year even though there weren't many fellows."
 "That's right, the fellows hardly seem to notice us. What's the use of griping about the number of late per's that we get when most of us won't even have use for those that they do give us?"

I overheard this bit of conversation among several girls in Haven Hall shortly after Thanksgiving vacation. Upon inquiry, I found that we, the ex-G.I.'s, are held in rather low esteem by a surprising number of our co-eds. We are accused of taking very little interest in the girls here at college. Perhaps we owe them an explanation.

Girls, let me clarify our position. Our main interest here is to gain an education. I have been told that this is not your main reason for coming here. For most of us, studying is a full-time job that leaves few leisure moments. Then, too, most of us are living under the G. I. Bill of Rights, which has no provision for funds to be used for your entertainment. We look at our jobs and our lives more seriously and more realistically now than we did when we graduated from high school. In the service we found that we couldn't be "kids" any longer; we had to assume responsibility.

We are sorry that we can't have more dates now. We'd enjoy them too; however, as I have said, our main ambition at present is to graduate. Perhaps you will realize your main ambition before you graduate too. In spite of our apparent lack of interest now, we really have your interests at heart.

Signed—An Ex-G.I.

Editor's Announcement

Calling all critical students whose convictions are strong! "The Spectator" solicits your comment! Here is your opportunity to voice your opinions on such subjects as: Lasting Peace, Taxes, Portal-to-Portal Pay Suits, Veterans' Benefits, ESTC Student Activities, etc.

The above topics are presented merely as samples. You may have stimulating comment on hundreds of others. The editors reserve the right to reject material which holds no interest for the student body at large. "The Spectator" is not a channel for airing personal controversies. In fairness to other writers, please limit letters to 200 words. As an indication of good faith, authors should sign their letters.

Letters must be received by us not later than Friday, February 7, in order to appear in the next number. Either mail them or drop them at "The Spectator" office, located downstairs in Music Hall. See above letter, received just before press time.

CUPID CAPTURES

 to the far-off state of Maryland, where the age hurdle was easier to jump. They contemplated on keeping it all a secret, but that look of new-found happiness in their eyes betrayed the whole story.

Pressure has been on students and faculty alike for the past three weeks. During this rush period, it was made manifest to the editors of "The Spectator" that full attention to studies is likely to result in the neglecting of the "outside" world. Since events, however, have no respect for a student's inability to stay abreast of them, the editors decided that an occasional column on national and international developments would be a commendable addition to this page.

All news is not "heavy" or dry. There is a certain grim humor, for example, in the Georgia gubernatorial battle, as any radio comedian will quickly admit. "The Spectator" nevertheless, will welcome comment on this new feature.

A LOOK AT WORLD AFFAIRS

When, after months of rumors and denials, James F. Byrnes finally ended his brief but colorful career as Secretary of State, it was no surprise to "insiders" that General George C. Marshall was promptly named to the top diplomatic position. Soon, though, people who cannot bear to see the United States dominated in any respect by military men began to voice their distaste for the appointment.

While the press overwhelmingly favored Marshall's rise to the secretaryship—at least one editor felt it was President Truman's wisest appointment to date—many citizens began to read into the event several unrecorded angles. It is safe to say that some ex-G.I.s, long forced to suppress their resentment to wartime methods of the "brass," found it difficult to applaud when the wartime chief of staff became the nation's foreign policy chief.

WILL MOSCOW UNDERSTAND?

An aspect which is disturbing to a much wider segment of the population is: how will Marshall's appointment be interpreted in totalitarian capitals, notably Moscow? Will the men in the Kremlin be able to understand that Marshall has severed his military connection, that he would rather retire, but bows to his patriotism, and that he clearly lacks the power to wage war on any nation? It is a provoking question, and it is doubtless being asked throughout the world's diplomatic halls.

Five other high foreign posts are currently occupied by Army or Navy officers. General Eisenhower's right-hand man during the European campaigns, General Bedell Smith, sits in the American embassy in Russia. General Douglas MacArthur reigns in Japan. General Mark Clark, soon to be replaced by General Geoffrey Keyes, is top authority in the American zone of Austria. General Lucius D. Clay is supreme in American-occupied Germany, and Major General John Hilldring is Assistant Secretary of State for Occupied Areas.

Since the last four of the above high-ranking gentlemen are concerned with the job of military occupation of defeated countries, it may be argued that they are the logical men for the task, because victory by the armed forces undeniably made the occupation possible. Just as cogently, however, it may be held that the war is over, and that the time has come for the U. S. to impress the conquered with a de-emphasis of militarism.

OBSTACLES OVERCOME

In behalf of the military office-holders, it should be granted that they have done, by and large, a good administrative chore. Terrifying obstacles have been overcome. Germans, for instance, threatened with starvation, have been persuaded to refrain from mass violence. Then there is the delicate problem of the conduct of occupation troops.

Until the passage of time permits a more adequate judgment of the sagacity of appointing military men to civilian offices, young Americans, especially those attending colleges, will do well to keep close tabs on State Department and foreign occupation activities.

THE OPEN SHELVES

While browsing through the many volumes upon display in the library, we found that innumerable books have titles that are synonymous with situations and events here at E. S. T. C. A few of these are:

- "The Crisis" — Semester tests and final grades.
- "Lays of the New Land" — A new semester of work.
- "American Humor" — Pop Bates' classes.
- "Three O'clock Dinner" — Down at the Hut.
- "The Sheltered Life" — Staying in the Girls' Dorm.
- "Slow Smoke" — Some people burning up over their low grades.
- "Being Met Together" — On the way home from the movies.
- "Goodbye, my Son" — A new "frosch" off to E. S. T. C.
- "No Hearts to Break" — Married students.
- "Vein of Iron" — Ask Miss Ketcham. She knows where it is.
- "In This Our Life" — Good ole school days!!!!
- "Journey in the Dark" — On the way to eight o'clocks.
- "People Are Fascinating" — Inmates of this state institution.
- "Raw Material" — Lowly "frosch." Hal Hal
- "Out of the Clouds" — What Lois and Jerry Byrom aren't.
- "A Thief in the Night" — Mouse in Haven Hall.
- "A High Wind Rising" — Plus rain equals weather in Edinboro.
- "Red Morning" — Sign of more bad weather in Edinboro.
- "Rise to Follow" — Getting in chow line.
- "We Happy Few" — Those lucky enough to attend Edinboro, of course!

Scuttlebutt

"Congratulations" to the newly-weds, "welcome back" to the sick, a friendly "hello" to the new-comers, and a "happy birthday!" to all the sons and daughters of Capricorn. We think that is quite inclusive, but if you should feel slighted in the least—forgive us, huh?

We have heard that there are many on the sick list — or the "near" sick list. Some have colds, others have tonsillitis, or "ailing" appendices. Howard Kerrick is residing at the present time in the infirmary, where he is keeping company with the chicken pox!

We have heard of several comical incidents involving student-teachers before they left the training school. For instance—

Miss Barber's fourth-grade students were always raising their hands to tell Idabelle Gordon that she had dotted her "I's" wrong or made some other letter differently from what they had been taught.

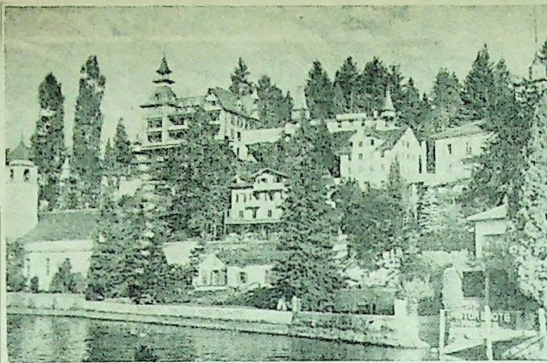

Betty Deeter's sophomore boys paid her back for certain happenings (we hear) by washing her face in snow—(After she had finished her teaching—you understand.)

One of Joyce Weldon's little sophomore boys tried to bribe her by offering to fix her up a date with his cousin. The reason for the bribery? It seems that Joyce decided to give her "darlings" a tough test before she left her duties. The little guy wanted a little help with the test—that's all.

To celebrate the termination of his duties, George Kasonovic got a short haircut. When we came back from semester vacation and saw it, we thought that the moths had had a field day.

Of course, we know that there must have been "unusual" happenings in the teaching experience of the rest of our "veterans," but they prefer to keep them private, and just snicker at them a little to themselves.

We are glad to see the other students are hearing of our swell school, and are coming here too. There are several persons we've seen strolling the campus lately. To all we extend a hearty welcome. At the same time we also wish to mention the fact that we are missing the presence of some people who used to be seen hanging around a lot.

"At Lake Lucerne, Switzerland" above, won first prize for Don Cherrie, Penn State Assignee rooming at the Hotel Bartlett.

"Our Only Trees," taken by Bob Murray, records the barren surroundings of Kwajalein, in the Marshall Islands. This shot copped second prize in the veterans' contest.

David J. Phillips, "Moose" to his pals, invested in a box of very choice Havanas last week and then proceeded to dispense them liberally. The cause for this philanthropy was the fact that Moose had just become the father of Margaret Jean Phillips, born in Bradford Hospital on January 22. Mrs. Phillips, a native of Colorado, is doing very nicely. Later in the year she and the new arrival will move into Reeder Hall in order to be with Father, who will end up his collegiate career by braving the trials of student-teaching during the spring term.

Faculty members of the colleges cooperating with Penn State in its off-campus program met at State College on Monday, January 20, to discuss problems relevant to their undertakings.

Mr. Hoshauer, of the mathematics department, and Miss McDon-

GIORDANO'S CONDITION REMAINS SERIOUS

The condition of Carmen Giordano, one of four ESTC men involved in an auto accident near McKean, Pa., at 3:15 Sunday morning, remained serious as "The Spectator" went to press. Giordano and Dan Susie, who received lacerations, are undergoing treatment in St. Vincent's Hospital, Erie.

The driver of the car, Arthur Warren, and the fourth passenger, Angelo Susi, escaped injury. The mishap occurred during the students' return trip from the Edinboro-Slippery Rock basketball game.

Indiana Cagers Edge Red Raiders Five

By TONY VESCO

Indiana State Teachers eked out a 45-44 victory over the Red Raiders on the winners' floor January 17. The lead changed hands several times during the forty minutes of play, but neither team was able to pile up a big lead at any time.

Big John Lipchik copped scoring honors for the evening by sinking 14 points for the losers. Stillson and Stroup each contributed 12 markers for the winners.

Coach Harrison's players jumped to a 12-8 lead at the close of the first quarter but failed to click in the second stanza, trailing 18-16 at halftime. A hot third quarter put the Red Raiders out in front, 34-31, with ten minutes of playing time remaining.

The fourth quarter turned into a thrilling do-or-die battle. The Edinboro cagers held a slim 44-42 lead with less than one minute to play when Indiana's Bruffman swished a circus shot to even up the score. Dunwiddy, fouled in the waning seconds, successfully converted his free try to give Edinboro its defeat.

Records Smashed In Pitt Meet

Four pool records and one varsity record were established in the swimming meet held at Edinboro last Saturday between ESTC and The University of Pittsburgh. The result was a 46-31 victory for Pitt.

A pool and varsity record of 3 minutes, 24.3 seconds was made in the 300-yard medley relay by the powerful Linburg, Abbott and Warren combination. The old record of 3:25 was held by Allegheny.

Pitt forged ahead in the succeeding events, marking up three other pool records during the day's meet. These record-breaking events are listed below.

- 60-yard free style—old time, 32.3; new time, 31.9.
- 100-yard free style—old time, 58.2; new time, 57.7.

Aqua - Men Win One, Lose Two

By GLENN HETRICK

The E. S. T. C. swimming team journeyed to Grove City, January 9, where they chalked up their second victory of the season with a 49-22 score.

On January 16th, the Maroon and Whites had their home pool invaded by the Allegheny College aqua-men, who went home with the high side of a 42-24 total.

The home team, traveling again, had their spirits dampened once more, this time by Cleveland's Fenn College. This January 18th fray ended with a count of 50 for Fenn and 25 for E. S. T. C.

The Linburg, Abbott and Warren trio, featured in the 300-yd. medley-relay for the locals, copped three wins in the meets, while Schindwein and Linburg tied for top honors in the three meets by placing first in three of three events. Schindwein ably handled the 200-yd. breast stroke department by racking up a time average of 2:40:3, while Lindburg performed equally well by churning out an average of 1:57:4 for the 150-yd. back stroke.

The team is under the leadership of Mickey Schindwein and the competent management of Clyde Snyder.

Matmen Downed By Veteran Teams

In two recent mat engagements ESTC wrestlers bowed to experienced Lock Haven and Waynesburg teams. Jack Weixel turned in the only Edinboro victory in the Lock Haven match, although Gordon Smith managed to go the limit of eight minutes only to be defeated Lock Haven, a school for physical education, boasts several stars from its 1946 Middle Atlantic (small college) champions. Waynesburg's octet, made up of ex-high-school champs, had a tougher time downing Edinboro.

Here is ESTC's roster:

- 121-pound class—Don Weiss.
- 128-pound class—Pete Dowds, Gordon Smith.
- 135-pound class—Jack Weixel.
- 145-pound class—Bill Hunt, Joe LaSlavic.
- 155-pound class—Dewey Davis.
- 165-pound class—Chuck Berg, Spike Karsznla.
- 175-pound class—Felix Matuszewski.
- Heavyweight—Roy Bennett.

Rally Fails To Stop Slippery Rock Team

The Raiders dropped their first game with Slippery Rock on the opponent's home floor last Saturday night by a score of 46-51. The local dribblers played a hard fought game all the way. Babcock, who substituted for McCoy, led his teammates with 15 points.

The game started slowly but increased its tempo in the second half. The Raiders started in the fourth quarter, in which they led in scoring. With their fast-breaks in the closing minutes of play, Slippery Rock clinched their win. Babcock and Markewitz were the only Edinboro replacements during the game.

In the preliminary fray, the Edinboro J. V.'s also sustained a loss, 40-26.

Raiders Nose Out Fenn College Quint

After dropping their first home game to Alliance and losing one point to Indiana the following Friday, ESTC's Cagers came back last Friday on their own court to defeat Fenn College, 34-33, in a game that was a thriller to the final whistle.

Johnny Lipchik, who paced the locals with nine points, opened the scoring as he swished a neat two-pointer in from near the foul line. Conkle sank one for Fenn to make it two-all. At the end of the first quarter, the Red Raiders were behind, 7-6.

Fenn continued to march through the second quarter until Edinboro, trailing by five, called time out. Then the home team bounced back and tied the score at 13-all. Just before the half, "Tippy" sank a basket and a foul, and Abahazi shot a basket. The Harrison men left the floor leading 18-15.

Early in the third quarter, the locals really showed strength. The Raiders' Dzvonar and Strand had a basket apiece, while the Fennmen garnered only a foul. The Raiders rolled until the score at the end of the third period read 29-23.

The final stanza proved to be the most thrilling part of the game. In the first six minutes Fenn scored twice. With less than two minutes remaining in the game, the tally read 32-29, ESTC ahead. In the final minute of play some 800 rabid fans watched Edinboro's lead dwindle to a single marker.

Van Sykle, who copped scoring honors with 15 points, dropped one from a corner of the court to put Fenn on Edinboro's heels. In a fast-breaking play which originated with Babcock, Strand sank a basket which became the winning margin. Fenn led by Von Sykle, threatened again, but time ran out with the Raiders in possession of the ball.
