70 Students Receive B.A. Degrees on January 20

Seventy students received bachelor degrees at the Jan. 20 commencement in Price Auditorium.

Dr. Robert T. Oliver, chairman of the Department of Speech at The Pennsylvania State University, gave the commencement address. The degrees were conferred by Dr. Richard T. Parsons, president of the college, to the seniors who were presented by Dr. Gerald R. Robinson, dean of instruction.

Rev. Paul H. Kleffel, pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church, gave the invocation and benediction and the Scripture reading. Robert Hinkelman, supervising teacher at The Akeley school, presided at the organ, and a quartet from the College Choir sang Brahms' "My Horn Shall Weight a Willow Bough" and Franz' "Dedication."

William Ames, a member of the graduating class, offered "Improvisation" by Charles Williams on the piano.

Receiving cum laude (3.3 - 3.7 averages) degrees were Barbara M. Cleaver, Mary J. Williams, Judith P. Ertel, Theresa M. Marano and James F. Funk.

Dee F. Bennett, Harry R. Murphy, Doris J. McCloskey, Joel E. Dysart, Patricia G. Kring, Ronald H. Meekins, Jerome S. Roberts, Carl J. Tokarsky, M. Carroll Grady, Charles H. Stambaugh, Richard J. Barich, Jacques E. Erb, Mitchell H. Arseniu, Ray R. Baker, Leon R. Miller, Dennis G. Zook.

Garry A. Dearborn, James C. Stover, John S. Brouse, Merrill E. Fisher, Thomas H. Whitehouse, Mary Fetsko, Joseph N. Marzo, Graham A. Nadal, Patricia E. McDonald, Lynne A. Nadal, Frederick H. O'Connor, Ronald G. Lilley, Thomas G. Welsh, Ronald D. Distler, Helen L. Mahaffey, Andrea R. Salvatore, Sharon E. Miller, Bradley H. Oechler, Robert W. Hammer.

The morning of graduation a breakfast was held at The Dutch Inn, Mill Hall.

Peace Corps Exams

Examinations for the Peace Corps will be given March 9 in the Williamsport Post Office or at any other listed center.

Every thoroughbred horse in the world today traces its ancestry to one of three British sires: the stallions Darley Arabian, Byerly Turk and Godolphin Barba.

Disabled Veterans Can Get Rehabilitation Training

Veterans who incurred a peacetime disability as a result of service in the armed forces during the periods July 26, 1947, to June 26, 1950, and Feb. 1, 1955, to the present can now get vocational rehabilitation training. The provision is made possible by the enactment of PL 87-815.

If you are receiving compensation from the government because of a disability incurred during either of these periods, you may apply for vocational rehabilitation by obtaining VA Form 22-1900 at your nearest VA office and sending it to the Veterans Administration at 128 North Broad Street, Philadelphia 2.

Applicants will be provided vocational counseling to ascertain what training they may need to overcome any handicapping effects to their disabilities, and to assist them in making a choice of a future occupation.

The VA will pay for books and tuition and a subsistence allowance during the period of training which may be needed for this purpose. Training will not be provided under this Act for veterans whose disabilities are rated at less than 30 percent unless they show clearly that the disability causes a pronounced employment handicap.

'Antigone' Cast Selections Made

A tentative cast has been selected by Director Jack Handley for the College Players' winter production, "Antigone," to be presented Feb. 21-22 in Price Auditorium.

The cast includes Monte Shepler, Chorus; Joan Burroughs, Antigone; Karen Richardson, Nurse; Nancy Smith, Ismene; Jack Crowley, Haemon; Art Emery, Creon; Chic Hamlin, First Guard; Alan Dassenberger, Second Guard; Harry Sisak, Third Guard; Dick Balantine, Page; Karen McMichael, Eurydice. The Messenger still has not been chosen.

Dr. Handley asked that if the above persons accept their parts, they should stop in his office to obtain a script this week. He thanked those who tried out for Antigone and invited all to return for tryouts for the spring production.

El Ed Prof Joins Akeley Staff

Paul W. Myers of Bristol begins his duties as assistant professor of elementary education and supervising teacher in the Akeley Campus School this semester. He replaces Mrs. Sue McKnight who resigned in the Fall.

Myers, a native of Williamsport, received a master of education degree at Rutgers University in 1959. He has taught for six years in the Bristol, Newton, Fallingston area.

Dr. Bernstein Co-Authors History Book

Dr. Paul Bernstein, chairman of the social science department, is the co-author with Prof. Robert W. Green of the department of history at The Pennsylvania State University of a new book, History of Civilization: Since 1648.

The book, which was published last month by Littlefield, Adams & Company, Patterson, N.J., is the second of a two-volume set. The first, published in 1960, was entitled History of Civilization: To 1648.

The new volume covers the period from 1648 to the present and greatly stresses Africa and Asia as well as the European countries. The book is divided into 16 chapters, beginning with "Western Europe in the 17th and 18th Centuries" and concluding with "The Underdeveloped Areas." Coverage includes data on events since 1945 in such problems as the European Common Market, the Marshall Plan, the threat of Communism, the Congo problem, and the Cuban crisis.

Dr. Bernstein is now engaged in a study in Franco-German history in the 19th century entitled "The Paris-Biarritz Talks of 1865." This new study is the outgrowth of work previously

Groups Asked to Comply With Praeco Deadline

The 1963 Praeco staff is rapidly working toward its final deadline for a spring distribution.

Irene J. Hash, editor-in-chief of the '63 book, announced that Wednesday is the last day for pictures to be taken of organizations and committees. She requested that any groups that have not been photographed prior to this week and have not been scheduled for next week should notify her or one of her staff members today.

Wed., 8 p.m., SCC

Miss Hash also said that any groups who have had informal action pictures taken of their activities and who wish to have these pictures considered for use on their page in the yearbook should bring the negatives to the publications office, High Hall, this week. Coverage of some organizations will be less than of others because of a lack of good action pictures, she said.

This semester the entire staff will meet in work sessions every Tuesday night, beginning at 7 p.m. Students interested in joining the staff are encouraged to attend Tuesday's session in the publications office. Photographers are especially needed, but there is much typing, copy and layout work to be done.

Serving on Miss Hash's staff are Carolyn Strouble, associate editor in charge of copy; Diane Carter, associate editor in charge of layout; Karen Hogue, Christie Lyons, Judy Ferrari, layout assistants; Mary Lou Gorton, Joe Osman, Jake Laban, Chris Dwyer, photographers; Peggy Conklin, typist. Pegge Piper serves as business manager, assisted by Frances Markel, Rita Glasl and Ann Murray.

Shakespearian Play To Be Given Here By Canadian Theatre

"Twelfth Night" by William Shakespeare will be presented by the Canadian Players Foundation at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, in Price Auditorium as the first assembly program of the spring semester.

The Canadian national touring theatre will be directed by Tony van Bridge; the set will be designed by Brian Jackson. In "Twelfth Night" Shakespeare treats the subject less farcically and with perhaps greater feeling than his "Comedy of Errors." Viola, having taken on the dress of a man to get herself into the Court of the Duke of Illyria, with whom she falls in love, becomes confused with her own twin brother whom she had thought dead.

Round this central point of fun and pathos, Shakespeare skillfully weaves two or three hilarious sub-plots but as in so many of his comedies we are not let off entirely free, for as we recognize the cruelty towards Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice," we are made to see here the cruelty that arises with regard to the character of Malvolio steward to Olivia, with whom the Duke is in love. Shakespeare seems quite often to tell us that while we all enjoy fun and a good laugh, it too often is at someone else's expense.

Admission for students is free.

So We Say . . .

Worry or Work

A talk, a plan and freedom to work are important to success in college. It is important for us, as students of higher education, to realize that those who succeed in life follow a well-laid plan of activity.

During the elementary and high school years, learners are usually helped by their teachers to organize their study time. But, when these same learners go to college and are expected to plan their own study time, they may find it difficult to plan their study activities adequately if their freedom is thereby interfered with. The result is that many of these students experience low grades or actual failure.

The learners should make an inventory of his time and plan his daily work so that he will succeed not only during his college career but thereafter. If the work for each day and the time for doing it are planned, greater enjoyment and efficiency will result.

The budgeting one's work has a tonic effect somewhat like the budgeting of one's money. The individual knows what he can do and sets about to use his energies accordingly. As long as enough time has been set aside to complete the studying activity, it is possible to participate in and enjoy some extra-curricular activities.

With the start of a new semester, everyone who finds it necessary should make a resolution to concentrate his energies on the task at hand and not to worry about the next one until the time for participation in it arrives.

Is This You?

Monday you are given an assignment due in two weeks. You say to yourself, "well, I have two weeks until it is due so I won't sweat it now."

A week slips by and you are still telling yourself, "oh well, I'll get it done; I have a week until it is due." You set a time in your mind when you are going to get this assignment done. It is due Monday and today is Thursday. I will do it Saturday afternoon.

Saturday afternoon comes and your intramural volleyball team has to play off a match in the afternoon and you have a date that night. Or, something else comes up and you say to yourself, "gosh, I was going to do that assignment today, but it isn't due until Monday. I'll do it Sunday night."

Sunday after church you eat lunch and decide to watch Syracuse play the Celtics. Before you know it 12 p.m. Sunday is here, and the assignment is due at 8 a.m. Monday. You finally force yourself, only because it is due tomorrow, to sit down and attempt to complete it. By now it is at least 1:30 a.m. and you are very tired and you say to yourself, "gosh, I wish the teachers here would let up on some of their assignments." You complete the assignment in a hurry and go to bed. Are you a procrastinator?

Budgeting of your time is one of the most important facets of your college education. If you are sensible and mature, you will do your assignments efficiently and not let them go until the last minute. You can rid yourself of the feeling that, "this is due tomorrow so I have to do it tonight."

'62 Grad to Study Law in Washington

John A. Lewis, a 1962 graduate of LHSC, has been accepted for graduate study in the Law School of the American University in Washington, D. C.

Lewis, who received his degree in elementary education, was active in student activities, having served as president of the Student Co-operative Council and as co-captain of the varsity football team.

ECONOMICS

Q. and A.

One of the most pressing needs today is to counteract economic illiteracy. Surveys have shown that there is an appalling lack of knowledge about our free enterprise system — especially among our youth.

A new feature of the Industrial Press Service is a question-answer column dealing with economic principles. Periodically, The Eagle Eye will carry this column to help further acquaint our readers with economics.

Q. What is the Gross National Product?

A. It represents the total value of goods and services in a given year.

Q. Is it important?

A. The GNP is very important because it tells us whether our economy is moving ahead or standing still or going backward.

Q. How does it do that?

A. By measuring the increase or decline from one year to the next. If, for example, the GNP for 1963 is $581 billion, while that for 1962 was $570 billion, then our rate of growth would be 2 per cent.

Q. What is the actual rate of growth?

A. Over recent years it has been 2.5 per cent. The historic average of 4 per cent.

Fluke Gets Grad Assistantship

Ronald Fluke, a January graduate in health and physical education from Altoona, has accepted a graduate assistantship in physical education at the University of Maryland.

He will begin his duties in September 1963, instructing physical education classes while pursuing a master of science degree. The assistantship grant offers a stipend plus waiver of all fees.

Accompanying Fluke to Maryland will be his wife, Donna, and their two children: Ronnie and Terri.

While at Lock Haven State, Fluke was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary fraternity; a sports reporter for The Eagle Eye, a founder of the local colony of Lambda Chi Alpha, and a member of the Student Co-operative Council, Varsity Club, football team (two-year varsity center) and track and field team.

GOOD DEFENSE

"How many students are enrolled in the university?" asked the old grad, with deceptive politeness.

"Eight thousand," replied the coach.

"Then is it too much to ask to have two of them in front of the ball carrier?" snapped the alumnus.

Book Company Opens Letter Contest to College Students

A prize contest open only to college students has been announced by Grove Press.

Grove will award $100 for the best letter of application by Kitten, heroine of Robert Gover's current best-seller, One Hundred Dollar Misunderstanding, for admission to a mythical southern university.

One Hundred Dollar Misunderstanding is a novel about the misadventures of J. S., a white college sophomore, and Kitten, a young and beautiful Negro prostitute.

Entries must be no more than 100 words in length and must be written in Kitty's own style — of which a sample (taken from the book) is given below:

"Course, he dum, ain he fault, I spose. Maybe he jes born dum. Maybe he jes born Whitefolks dum, so he kin lissen t' that big-word tee vee preachin, an so's he kin dig that shottin and fightin an ack mean an maybe even kill somebody human, but not so's he kin do nothin much else, like talk sweet an play nice."

The 100 runners-up in the contest will receive a full year's subscription to the bi-monthly magazine, Evergreen Review.

Entries will be judged by a board appointed by the publisher, and all entries will become the property of the publisher. Entries should be submitted to Kitten Contest Editor, Grove Press, Inc., 64 University Place, New York 3, New York. They must be postmarked no later than March 31.

Review by Dr. Deer Printed in Book

An excerpt from a review by Dr. Irving Deer appears as the cover of a new drama book published by the Cambridge University Press. The book is The Dark Comedy (The Development of Modern Comic Tragedy) by J. L. Styan. Dr. Deer's review was one of two American reviews included among a group of five quoted from such well-known English and French journals as the Times Educational Supplement and the Mercure de France.

Varied School Programs Offered in Britain, Austria

An opportunity to combine vacation abroad with six weeks at a European summer school is available to qualified American students through the Institute of International Education. Applications for study at three British universities and two Austrian schools during July and August 1963 are now being accepted by IIE.

The three British programs offer a choice of subjects and periods which may be studied at the appropriate university concerned. Shakespeare and Elizabethan drama will be offered at Stratford-upon-Avon by the University of Birmingham; the history, literature and arts of 17th century England will be the course at the University of Oxford; a study of British history, philosophy and literature from 1688 to 1832 will be presented at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

Courses for all three sessions are designed for graduate students and teachers but undergraduates who have completed at least two years of university work may apply. The British Summer Schools fee of $254 covers full tuition, room and board.

A high point of the two Austrian summer sessions will be the opportunity for students to attend the famed Salzburg Music Festival, including one opera, one concert and Hofmannsthal's drama "Everyman."

At the Salzburg Summer School, at Salzburg-Klessheim, Austria, emphasis will be placed on German language study. Attendance at one of the several German language courses is mandatory. Other courses in art, music, economics and politics will be taught in English. Besides the opportunity to attend the music festival, a variety of conducted tours of Salzburg and the vicinity will be available to students.

The fee for the entire program, including room, board and tuition, as well as festival tickets, is $245. Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 40 and must have completed at least one year of college work.

The historic University of Vienna will hold a special summer session at its St. Wolfgang campus, on Lake St. Wolfgang, Stroble, Austria. Courses available to students will include law and political science, liberal arts, and the German language. Students may also participate in the skiing, sailing and other outdoor sports for which the area is famous — and all of which will be available to them at very moderate fees.

The University of Vienna program is open to students who have completed at least two years of college. The fee for the full six weeks, including tuition, maintenance, tours, excursions, and Music Festival attendance, is $335, with an optional four-day trip to Vienna costing $35.

Travel arrangements to and from Europe are the responsibility of the student. A limited number of full or partial scholarships are available to both the British and Austrian summer schools, but in no case do they cover transportation costs.

Applications for admission and for scholarships may be obtained from the Counseling Division, Institute of International Education, 800 Second Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. Completed British Summer School scholarship applications must be received before March 1, and admission applications before March 30. Scholarship applications for the Austrian schools must be returned by March 1, and admission applications by May 1.

Largest Tube To Be Built At Penn State

The world's largest absorption tube for spectrographic research is being built at The Pennsylvania State University to study, indirectly, the atmosphere of the planets.

The instruments will extend 150 feet through three subterranean rooms of the chemistry-physics building on the campus. It is being built through funds supplied by the National Science Foundation.

A discovery made by Dr. David H. Rank, research professor of physics, and his associates led to the special grant by the N.S.F.

Heretofore, it was thought that molecular hydrogen lying outside the earth's atmosphere would be very difficult to detect. However, recent experiments indicate that molecular hydrogen can be identified readily through observation of the fundamental of its quadrupole spectrum.

The new instrument will be five times larger and many times more powerful than the existing equipment.

'Classrooms Abroad' Provide Summer Study in 6 Countries

Eleven groups, each containing 20-30 selected American college students, will form seminars in various European cities next summer to study the languages, culture and civilization of these countries during a nine-week stay.

Designed for the serious student who does not plan to see all of Europe in a short summer, Classrooms Abroad tries to give him a more profound experience through a summer of living in one of the following cities: Berlin, Munich or Tübingen in Germany; Vienna in Austria; Besancon, Grenoble or Pau in France; Neuchatel in Switzerland; Madrid or Santander in Spain; and Florence in Italy.

Graded classes in small sections of six to 10 students, each under the supervision of American and native professors, will deal with the reading of classical and modern texts, the daily press, contemporary problems, conversation and composition, pronunciation and grammar.

Students also will hear lectures on history and literature and meet with outstanding personalities. They will have full auditing privileges at the university in each of the selected towns and cities and will participate in all academic and social activities with German, Austrian, French, Swiss, Spanish and Italian students.

Members of Classrooms Abroad will live with private families in each city, eat many of their meals with their hosts and share the activities of their sons and daughters. They will have ample opportunities to meet young people from student, religious, and political organizations. Regular attendance at theatres, concerts and movies as well as visits to museums, libraries, factories, youth organizations, and other points of interest are included in the program. Each group will follow its seven-week stay in a city or town with an optional two-week tour of German, French, Spanish or Italian areas. Since most programs end in mid-August, participants have a chance to remain in Europe for private travel after the program.

Dr. Frank D. Hirschbach, director of Classrooms Abroad, said: "We have found through many years of experience that it is quite possible, even if you don't know a word of the language, to learn more than a year's worth of college German, French or Italian in the course of a summer," provided that we get serious and mature students who are willing to mix business with pleasure."

Dr. Hirschbach, who also heads the German-language groups, teaches at the University of Minnesota. The French and Spanish groups will be directed by John K. Simon and Robert E. Kelsey, members of the Romance Languages Department at Yale. The Italian group will be led by Charles Affron of Brandeis University.

Classrooms Abroad, now in its seventh year, has grown from 11 students in 1956 to an anticipated 300 in 1963. Its former students represent some 200 American colleges.

Full information can be obtained by writing to Classrooms Abroad, Box 4171, University Station, Minneapolis 14, Minn.

T. Albright Elected To Head Math Club

Terry L. Albright, freshman in math from Warrior Mark, was unanimously elected president of the Math Club for 1963.

Also elected were Gary Bowes, vice president; Joyce Cook, secretary; Gary Bitner, treasurer; George Taylor, SCC representative.

2 Rule Changes Made In Co-ed Basketball

Two new rules have been added to the women's basketball game this year. One called the "roving player" permits two players — one from each side of the court — to cross the center line. Previously, guards had to stay on one side of this line and forwards on the other. One guard and one forward will be designated to be this roving player for the game.

When one team gets the ball, the roving guard crosses the line and joins the three forwards, thus becoming a forward. At the same time, the opposite team's roving forward also crosses the line and becomes a guard.

Another rule change involves the fouling of a guard. Previously, when a guard was fouled, the ball was brought to the other side of the court for a forward to take the shot. (In women's basketball, only forwards can shoot). The new rule permits the roving guard to take this shot.

Lock Haven State's basketball team, in preparing for its opener next week, at first found it difficult to incorporate the new roving player rule since most of the players have been playing the sport for several years on the balanced court system. However, one of the lettermen said that once the players are more familiar in playing according to these changes, the team has a good chance for an undefeated season.

About 40 women turned out for early practices. With all but three of last year's team back and with several promising prospects in the freshman class, this prediction may hold true.

Miller to Captain 1963 Grid Team

Richard Miller, junior in physical education from Tyrone, has been elected captain of the 1963 Bald Eagle grid team.

Miller was the team's leading ground gainer this past season in his first season as a starter at halfback. In eight games he accounted for more than 900 yards and averaged almost 40 yards per kick as the team's punter.

Duttry Named HM In Football Poll

DENNIS DUTTRY

Dennis Duttry, senior in physical education from Curwensville, was selected for honorable mention in the Williamson 1962 Little All-American Balanced Poll.

Duttry's selection was based upon his performance as senior co-captain and end on the Bald Eagle football team.

Previously he had achieved conference and state-wide recognition. The Pennsylvania State College Athletic Conference named him to the second team of the Conference All-Stars, and the Associated Press awarded him an honorable mention on its All-State squad.

Co-eds Host Bloom In Opener Tomorrow

The women's basketball team will take on Bloomsburg State College tomorrow afternoon in Thomas Fieldhouse to open its 1963 season. Varsity action will take place following the jayvee game at 4:15.

The starting lineup was not available at press time, but with most of last year's lettermen returning, prospects look up for a good season.

Cagemen Face Indiana In Away Tilt

by Skip Fennell

With Coach Stan Daley's hard-court five having lost their past four games, we hope the future of the team will brighten with the beginning of this new semester. (This does not take in the Edinboro game of last Saturday since the paper was going to press).

During last semester, the basketballers posted a 1-7 record, with their lone win coming over Juniata 69-66. Two of their losses were quite close, however — 68-63 defeat to Juniata and a 60-59 thriller to California State who scored the climatic basket as the buzzer sounded.

Soph Bob Mills and Juniors Jay Garner and Wayne Short pace the squad in scoring while Mills, Garner and Soph Gary Myers lead in rebounding.

Tomorrow at Indiana, the Bald Eagles meet a fairly good Indiana team and look toward their first win of the spring semester. Monday the team travels to Mansfield.

There are many reasons for the absence of U. S. players from bigtime hockey but it was Muzz Patrick, the New York Rangers coach, who put the principal cause in proper perspective. He says that while hockey is played in the U. S. by some 600,000 youngsters, there is not the intensity of competition among the players here that prevails in Canada. Hence, he says they cannot properly develop into top-flight puck wielders.

"The unfortunate fact is that instead of developing players we are only developing fans," says Patrick. As to U. S. college players, Patrick says that they, too, do not have the competitive drive to acquire the tremendously greater skill required of big league puckmen. He says that college boys spend "too much time studying" which is a complaint that many parents would love to have said of their offspring.

With four of the six hockey teams based in the U. S. (New York, Detroit, Boston, Chicago), it's really a shame that we don't have a single native United States player in the National Hockey League today.

Will Army's eleven ever go "bowling?" The West Pointers have never played in a post-season bowl game. A Navy team tied the U. of Washington 14-14 in the second Rose Bowl game (1924). In 1955 the Mid-dies shut out Ole Miss 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl. And three years later, it was Navy 20, Rice 7 in the Cotton Bowl. In 1959 an inspired Air Force played TCU to a scoreless tie in New Orleans.

Stroble's Sport Shots

sports editor

This next week will be a busy one for all three of LHSC's varsity squads. The basketball team meets a formidable Indiana team here tomorrow night; Saturday afternoon coach Hacker's tankmen will travel to Bloomsburg for a tough splash with the Huskies; Saturday evening finds coach Ridenour's grapplers returning to the mats in Thomas Field House to face Rochester. After the weekend they all take to the road. Coach Daley's basketballers not only have to face one of the top small college teams Monday night, but also Mansfield's enthusiastic student body. Tuesday the swimmers and wrestlers will be competing at East Stroudsburg.

It seems that for the first time in many years the Bald Eagles will be the underdog when they meet the Huskies on the mats in Bloomsburg on Feb. 23. This past Tuesday there was a battle of the unbeaten as Bloom tangled with Lycoming at the nearby college. Our paper went to press before the results of this match were known, but it was expected to be closer than the match on Feb. 23. Many of the sports enthusiasts East of here feel that either of these teams could down our Bald Eagles. Both of these teams are coached by Lock Haven grads. Bill Garson, Bloom's outstanding heavyweight and our former high school teammate, boasts that there is not a team around they could not beat. We have seen the Huskies on several occasions and we must admit that they have what it takes and will be tough to match. However, do not sell the Bald Eagles short. Coach Ridenour is doing an outstanding job and his squad is improving rapidly. On that eventful day in February, anything is liable to happen.

Since we are now student teaching down Williamsport way, we are a little out of contact with the campus. For that reason we will be giving up our sports editing job. We may write a column occasionally, but the bulk of the work will be done by the capable sports staff we leave behind.

SHORT SHOTS —

Dick Miller will captain LHSC's gridders next season . . . Russ Houck recently rated Syracuse as the top wrestling power at that time . . . California SC has introduced volleyball as an inter-collegiate sport . . . Indiana's intercollegiate rifle team is the defending WPCRL champions . . . Of the four longest games in the conference's basketball history, LH has played in three of them. They all went for three over-times. One of them racked up the highest single game score on record — Cheyney 138 to LH's 128 in 1955 . . . Joe Iacone, West Chester's Little All American, has accepted an offer to play for the Philadelphia Eagles . . . We hate to say it, but it looks like our prediction for the basketball team is fast becoming a reality.
