Suit brought against Sec. of H.E.W.

Washington, D. C. -- Alleging continued federal funding to Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University despite acknowledged sex discrimination, two former VPISU faculty members have brought suit against the US Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The National Education Association is providing financial support for the class-action suit of B. Patricia Dyson and Christine Wollan which has been filed in the US District Court, Richmond, against Secretary Casper W. Weinberger. They seek a writ of mandamus to compel Weinberger to cut off federal funding.

Ms. Dyson, who taught business law, and Ms. Wollan, who was on the economics staff, both filed complaints of sex discrimination against the Blacksburg, Va., institution in 1971. After nearly two years of investigation, HEW in 1973 concluded that Ms. Dyson had been victimized by discriminatory policies in respect to hiring, salary, and firing, and in May 1974 a similar finding was reported in respect to Ms. Wollan. The Department of HEW also concluded that the affirmative action plan required under federal Executive Order 11246 was deficient.

However, the university has not rehired these women nor modified its affirmative action plan.

The present complaint alleges that Secretary Weinberger has violated the executive order, which prohibits "sex discrimination by institutions funded by the United States and which further mandates that in the event of uncorrected sex discrimination that funding from the United States to such institutions be terminated."

Despite the university's agreement of these anti-discrimination provisions of federal contracts, HEW's findings on the affirmative action plan and willful sex discrimination, and the university's refusal to cooperate fully in HEW's investigation and in conciliation procedures, Secretary Weinberger has "taken no steps to enforce the spirit, intent and mandate of Executive Order 11246," the complaint asserts.

Ms. Dyson's allegations of sex discrimination by VPISU are already before the federal court in Richmond in the NEA-supported case of Taliaferro vs. Dykstra,

Semifinalists for queen announced Monday

With 811 votes reported by Mary Kopp, election chairman, the ten semi-finalists for Homecoming Queen 1974 have been announced.

Listed by alphabetical order, the semi-finalists are: Barb Eveland, Debbie George, Janice Hawk, Anne Hempt, Cheryl Krause, Chris Meyer, Tam Page, Monica Peduzzi, Linda Schunder, and Yvonne Snyder.

Citing the possibility of prejudging the finalist balloting, Miss Kopp did not release the number of votes received by each candidate.

The participation in the homecoming queen balloting represented 34.5% of the student body as compared to 26% in the recent senatorial election.

Directory draft available for review

The computer printout used to compile the 1974-75 Student Directory has finally been received by the S.C.C. This printout contains each student's home and local address home phone number and major. Local phone numbers for off-campus students are also listed.

This information was taken from the college registration form that each student completed at the time of the fall billing. Students who have moved, or did not know their local phone number at the time can correct the printout at the receptionist's desk on the ground floor of the PUB beginning today between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 11:00 p.m.

Everyone is encouraged to check their listing to insure that it is printed correctly. Changes can be made through Friday, October 18, of this week.

Today's Editorial

Now hear this

Not too many people will remember the watch words of the mid 40-50's, "Shhhh, the walls have ears". Today, that idea like many others that represent conservative thinking have been put to rest.

Still, a lot of listening is going on here at the "Haven". No, I don't mean electronic eavesdropping such as that which occurred at the national level in the past. I mean something on a more personal approach which concerned individuals are trying to provide.

An open meeting is held on a monthly basis by the college president. The SCC holds two senate meetings a month, these provide an opportunity for any member of the student body to be heard. Recently a peer counseling group set up shop to listen to the concerns of others. The people at "Receiving" sit by the phone waiting to hear from you.

But few people attend the meetings to voice their opinions in an open forum. Night after night the phone at the receiving office is silent. The service exists, but most seem hesitant to take advantage of the offerings.

Some do attempt to communicate, but only in ways that are not considered appropriate behavior. The addition of more trash to neglected dorm hallways will not insure that they will be cleaned. Destruction of furnishings is not the way to file a complaint about living conditions.

As for the empty or quiet audiences at the meetings, those conducting the gatherings can only assume "that all is well". Sure these people might not have instant solutions to your complaints, but at least they are making an attempt to hear them. Who knows, some of these problems may be heard for the first time by this group. You may even shed new light or give a different perspective to what seemed to be a non-existent concern.

Remember, no one can stop you from communicating in an abstract fashion not understood by many. But coming forward and speaking out on those things you believe are significant guarantees that your message has been heard.

Letter to the editor

To the Editor:

It's no wonder to me that Smith Hall is called the Zoo. As a resident of Woolridge and a tutor in the student assistance program which operates out of the basement of Smith, I am forced to walk by it every day. There is always garbage, fruit, and broken glass littering the driveway. A new amusement, as I found out by first hand experience Thursday night, seems to be pouring buckets of water on people from the 2nd floor. I am amazed that the hall manager, dorm president, and councillors permit this type of thing, and even more so that college-age males, who should by this time have reached a level of maturity - or at least should have developed a measure of self-control - can engage in this sort of thing on a regular basis. I can say nothing about the inside of the dorm - I have never ventured inside - but from the evidence that is constantly falling from the windows of Smith, it would

Nottingham student will miss McDonalds and chipmunks

"It is definitely an excellent experience," states Anne Schofield of England.

Anne is one of the exchange students in the Nottingham program. Having been in Lock Haven since August twenty-eighth, she says her first impression of the campus was good. "I liked the setting of it and I thought the people were reasonably friendly." She also thought the campus was large, but that impression has changed since her visit to Penn State.

Now that Anne has been here awhile, she says she is "a bit disillusioned with the social life," going on to explain that at Nottingham there is a bar on campus where a student can meet with his friends. There are also discotheques in Nottingham.

In discussing academic differences between Nottingham and L.H.S.C., Anne feels that there should be a greater correlation between the courses at the two schools; however she doesn't feel that the exchange is overrated. It has lived up to her expectations for the most part.

When asked how she felt about America in general, she stated, "I think the life outside Lock Haven is a lot faster than in England." Anne feels that by the end of her stay here, she will be looking forward to going home and unwinding a bit, but she says she will miss McDonalds and chipmunks.

No wonder - a 'zoo'

overall performance being the best thus far this year.

John Kearney of Oneonta was the meet's top finisher which took place on Hartwick's course of 4.6 miles. Kearney completed the course in 25:22 and was followed by brother and teammate Jake Kearney who crossed the finish line second with a time of 25:53. Third was Binghamton's Rob Daniels. Fourth and fifth places were taken by Charles Luise and Mike Coon, both of Oneonta.

Haven was Eric Burkert who finished 8th overall in a field of 52 runners. He was followed by Kip Fraass 9th, Bill Landis 16, Lou Fiorillo 22, and Dennis Harmon was the 5th placer for Lock Haven finishing 23rd overall. Ship sails over Bald Eagles

By BILL STERNER
Staff Reporter

Lock Haven State dropped to a dismal 0-5 seasonal record on Saturday as they came out on the short end of a 33-7 spanking at the hands of the Red Raiders from Shippensburg.

A disenchanted crowd of 2,000 watched the Raiders take advantage of the "big play" in each of their scores, even though Ship had to do it around ten penalties which hit them for 113 yards.

Shippensburg opened the scoring in the first period with 2:23 remaining. Greg Day booted a beautiful punt distancing 49 yards, but the Raiders used the long kick to their advantage. In effect, Day had out-kicked his coverage allowing Ship to return the punt 53 yards to the LHS 28.

From that point on, it was all Randy Diggs. Diggs carried the ball five times, capping the drive with a one yard plunge for a touchdown. Bill Cruckshank added the extra point and the Red Raiders jumped ahead 7-0.

Neither team came close to the brass ring again until less than four minutes remained in the half. Throwing deep in his own territory, Dave Bower was intercepted by the Raiders. Al Seagreaves who returned the theft to the LHS 25. Enter Randy Stamets and company. Stamets, using power running of Randy Diggs and Rene Posey, drove the ball to the LHS 10. From there, Stamets connected with Posey on a ten yard pass for a touchdown. Cruckshank's kick died short of the crossbar, however the Ship had plowed ahead 13-0.

With less than two minutes remaining in the half, Shippensburg exploded. An excellent defense forced Greg Day to punt from his own 13. The Red Raiders again took advantage of poor coverage and returned the kick to the Eagle 24. Seven plays later Diggs ramrodded into the endzone from the one. Cruckshank's point made it 20-0 with 42 seconds remaining in half.

With the start of the second half, it appeared as if the sleepy Eagles had finally awoken. Doug Posey took the opening kick off and returned it to the LHS 47. From there, Dave Bower shoved the helpless Eagle offense down the field. Bower dropped back and drilled John Jones for 16 yards and a first down at the Raider 37. He then connected with Conlon for six to the 31.

Going to the ground, surprise sophomore Fred Lenig carried the ball four times, jamming it to the Raider 12. The drive momentarily stalled as Bower was sicked on the 17. However, on the very next play, Dan Haughman caught the ship backfield napping, and took Bower's loft for a touchdown. Greg Day added his first pat of the year, and the Eagles closed the deficit to 20-7.

The Stamets-led Raiders came right back. Using an excellent running attack, Stamets moved the ball from his own 15 to the Eagle 34. He then cranked up and hit Angelo Venditte for the fourth Raiders touchdown. The attempt for two points failed, however Shippensburg sailed in front of the hapless Eagles by 26-7.

On the very next set of own, Shippensburg again capitalized on a costly LHS mistake. Al Seagreaves came up with another steal of a Bower aerial at the Eagle 40. Randy Stamets wasted little time in moving in for another score. He spotted Venditte for 15 yards to the LHS 24.

Then it was all Rene Posey. Posey carried three times, the last for a touchdown. Cruckshank converted and Shippensburg led 33-7 going into the last stanza, where no scoring occurred. The Red Raiders record overall now stands at 3-2, while they are in with an 1-2 mark in conference play.

This weekend, the Bald Eagles of Coach Robert Weller travel to the west to clash with the Scotties from Edinboro.

SHIPPENSBURG: After cutting large portions of individual organization funding, the Student Association Senate at Shippensburg has approved its '74-'75 budget is finalized.

On Wednesday, "The Amazing Kreskin" will appear at Shippensburg.

So it's rush time again. (All the jocks think I'm talking about football and all the dope-smokers think a shipment just arrived from Mexico). The frats and the sororities will now engage in deadly combat trying to outdo each other at recruiting unsuspecting freshmen. There is something to be said for the originality of this year's campaigns. Being polite, however, I will not say it. I will simply say that they are trying. In fact they get more trying every year.

The advertising usually leaves something to be desired, like appeal. "Join us and we will help you find yourself." It tends to make one wonder how someone who managed to get into college could have misplaced himself to begin with, and secondly why this organization wants to fill up its ranks with people that are dumb. They make it sound like joining will be a semi-religious experience and you will reach Nirvana every time you pin those Greek letters on your pajamas.

Some of them will try to intimidate you. "If you have any taste whatsoever you will sign up with us without even looking anywhere else because if you don't it just shows that you are totally devoid of anything that even vaguely resembles brains, you're immature and naive and your father smokes banana peels."

The ones I like are the ones that don't mess around. Three members of the frat come to your room at four in the morning leading your mother at gunpoint and hand you a sign-up sheet. You can expect some laughs from these guys on Hell Night, too. They will drag you out of bed, make you put on all your cloths inside out with the underwear on the outside, blindfold you, tie your hands and feet with barbed wire, spring bear traps on your elbows, put in a wagon full of track shoes with the spikes all pointing up, and let go of the wagon on Grant Street at Sprowls so it rolls onto Oakland Avenue during rush hour traffic. Now how's that for a chuckle?

We are told that the frats and sororities are here to provide a well rounded education because they can teach you things you won't learn in a classroom. So can a night at a drive-in or a week on the streets of New York City, and their dues are a lot cheaper.

All I can say is that I don't know exactly how but I'm sure that ultimately fraternities and sororities are part of the Commie plot to overrun the world. I only say that because you can't write a leftist column without mentioning the pinkos at least once, and because I get paid by the word and by mentioning that I just made eighty-three cents.

Editor's Note: Now that pledging and rushing are well underway, we thought it would be appropriate to look at Indiana University of Pennsylvania and see what they think of Greek life.
