Equipment fee money in escrow

By Sherri Lee Wray

No equipment has been bought, so far, from the $20 equipment fee students at Lock Haven University paid at the beginning of the fall semester.

The money paid by the students is in the Pittsburgh National Bank, in the college account, earning interest.

The equipment, to be used for instructional purposes, has not been bought yet because student aid is late in coming this semester, said Dean Phelps.

"Students are still paying their tuition bills, so all the money has not been collected yet," Phelps added.

Dr. John Zaharis, Vice-president of Academic Affairs, said at least $90,000 should be in the account by the end of the year.

A meeting of all department deans was held last Thursday to decide where equipment is needed the most. A full list will not be available until after November 4.

The only positive equipment allocation is for Stevenson Library, which will receive 25 per cent of the money.

An example of equipment asked for is Port-o-pacs to be used for the television station. Port-o-pacs are portable power for TV cameras to tape news, sports, and other events around the campus and Lock Haven area.

Phelps said no one has complained on the delay of buying the equipment. He added, "Everyone has been rather understanding."

Improvements made in Bentley

By Pat Desmond

Behind the scenes, there are people working on a regular basis to make Bentley's food and service better, but they need your input.

Members of the food committee are the people to see if you are concerned about Bentley's food, beyond table-talk complaints. They are the bridge between students and the Food Service, managed by John Wilt.

Greg Buckwalter, the Food Committee Chairman said, "what we're looking for are; suggestions, complaints, constructive criticisms, and ideas, not obscenities."

To get the total each student pays for a meal at Bentley it's necessary to divide the total amount paid by each student per semester by the number of days per semester. It comes out that each student pays $1.10 a meal for all you can eat. Little more than three dollars a day covers three meals, management, maintenance, payrolls, etc... as well as special meals.

There have been significant improvements since last year in the cafeteria such as: more special meals, "real" ice cream, and an increase in variety.

Last year, the meals were served in a four-week cycle. This year they are served in a six-week cycle. There will be another annual Thanksgiving dinner which will be advertised, as well as a steak dinner on Dec. 10.

For those athletes who usually eat after 6:15pm., they can ask for two servings at a time without having to come back for seconds.

Pictures of the committee members will be up in the cafeteria in about two weeks, and these are the people to see with constructive comments. The members are Greg Buckwalter, Mike Merenich, Ron Drake, Kevin O'Day, John Klacik, Gary Clark, Jerry Warner, Harry Jordon, Bill Wisman, and Mike Major.

They want to work with the students to provide the best service and food possible. If you have a specific problem, go back and speak to the management or the members of the food committee.

It's not Tiffany's, but we can make it better.

Relatives turn out in droves for successful Parents Day at L.H.U.

Parent: "I had a great time.... makes me want to go back to college"

By Sherri Lee Wray

More than 1,000 parents and relatives came to Lock Haven University for Parent's Day last Saturday.

The day began with registration from 10 a.m.-12 p.m. in all the dorms. Off-campus students' parents registered in Woolridge.

Tours of the campus were given by the RHA and students of the Admissions Office.

"I've heard from my daughter about different things on campus, today I actually got to see those things," said Mrs. Grace Penney, mother of Andrea Penney

The tours included demonstrations in the Computer and Psychology Labs, and the training room was viewed by the parents.

Parents also got a chance to visit the Eagle Eye and see how the paper is put together.

"I was really impressed with the technology that these pre-professional journalist use. They seem very advanced and disciplined," said Larry Pancher Sr., father of Larry Pancher Jr.

"The ice cream social held in Woolridge Hall went very well," said Judy Cochrane, RHA advisor. She added, "We had a really good turnout."

Apple cider and cheese were served after the football game at Jack Stadium. Cochrane said that there was a good turnout.

"I had a great time tailgating, makes me want to go back college," said Gerald Duvall, father of Dave Duvall.

A special drawing was held in the campus bookstore for the parents. Three sets of Lock Haven University towels were given away as prizes.

A special Mass was held at St. Agnes Church, 7 East Walnut Street. The Newman Center had a buffet dinner afterwards.

Life in the real world

It's Halloween and time to think scary thoughts. Well, I have what I call a scary thought for those out there complaining about how much work they have and what a terrible place Lock Haven University is.

Graduation. That's right, the "real world." At some point the time will come to leave this institution. That thought alone will cause minor depression in numerous individuals.

If the thought of graduation didn't cause at least a minor shock, let me elaborate with a few comparisons.

In the real world people are expected to get up five days a week at some ungodly hour like 6 a.m. and then are expected to work eight to nine straight hours. Being late and taking days off are not an accepted procedure.

Now think about the usual college schedule. Three days of the week it's possible to get up at ten minutes to nine and throw on a pair of sweats and attend class. If the class is too intense to handle that early in the morning it's "blown off". The average student spends less than 16 hours a week in classes and probably spends a lot less time studying for those classes.

And how about those nasty little things called (gasp!) bills. Once in a while I'm sure you must have come across one of those. If you're like the stereotypical college student, receiving a bill means it's the perfect occasion for another phone call to Mom and Dad.

I imagine, however, that Mom and Dad wouldn't be as receptive to a 24 year-old college graduate, who can't pay the phone bill because he blew his paycheck on a Friday night drinking binge.

Things may seem tough now, but down the road it's going to be a lot more complicated. I believe that life is what you make it, and college life is going to be tough to beat. Have fun while your in college, it should set a tone for the rest of your life.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,
Your editorial on Friday was, in one word, laughable.

Just because of poor attendance at a rock concert and a non-alcoholic bar we are 'apathetic'? Do you honestly expect us to attend out of simple 'loyalty' or 'obligation'? I am not indifferent to either the Romantics or Cheers, I just don't think that either is worth my time (I'm sure that many other people feel the same way).

The students of L.H.U. didn't ask for the Romantics. In this case, I feel that it was the S.C.C. that was being apathetic. They simply didn't care enough to get a group that would appeal to a large audience.

As for Cheers, it began as one person's idea and snowballed from there. Observation will tell you that many students like to go to frat parties (be that good or bad) so who Cheers was being organized for, I really don't know.

The S.C.C. has somehow managed to lose touch with the reality of what students at L.H.U. want. I certainly hope that the S.C.C. will re-evaluate why, and for whom, they, as an organization, exist.

You are right, Mr. Conner, when you said, "Apathy. It really is causing severe damage to this university." You were just aiming at the wrong group.

Sincerely,
Greg MacGowan

Sixth-ranked Indians scalp Bald Eagles 48-21 in offensive display

By Dave Walters

The Indiana University Big Indians, who are currently ranked sixth in the nation in Division II, used its explosive offense to down the Bald Eagle football team 48-21 in front of an amazed Parent's Day crowd.

IUP's offense tallied 505 total yards. On the ground, the Indians went on the war path and scalped out 305 rushing yards. In the air, IUP quarterback Rich Ingold completed 20-of-34 passes for 179 yards and two touchdowns.

Bald Eagle quarterback Pat Cahill had his best passing performance of the 1985 season by completing 11-of-16 passes for 191 yards and one touchdown. On Cahill's receiving end was wide receiver John Klacik, who caught eight passes for 166 yards.

The Bald Eagles drop to 2-5 overall and 1-3 in the PSAC. IUP moves to 5-1-1 overall and 4-0 in PSAC competition.

IUP wasted no time getting on the scoreboard when Pat McCullough crashed into the endzone from the five yard line to highlight a 20 yard drive. This drive started after Cahill made a bad pitch on the option and the ball was recovered by Indian, Chris Bache. The extra point attempt failed.

LHU got the ball after the kick off, but the Indiana defense denied any form of offense on this series. After a Peter Eastwood punt, the Indians took over at their own 31 yard line and Ingold's aerial attack put the ball in Steve Girtig's hands for the second IUP score.

The IUP defense played very physical and caused LHU fullback Roosevelt Brown to cough up the ball on the Haven 23 yard line.

Ingold then tried to put the ball into the endzone via two passes but they both fell incomplete.

On the second attempt, the Indians drew a pass interference penalty. McCullough dashed in for the score and gave IUP a 20-0 lead.

Early in the first quarter, the Eagles finally generated a successful offensive drive. Cahill completed his longest pass of the game to Klacik after it was tipped by intended receiver Ed Frisbie for a 44-yard reception.

The Indians answered right back with a 12-play, 78-yard touchdown drive capped off by an Ingold TD pass to Bob Kiel. IUP led 27-7, with 8:18 remaining in the first half.

The Bald Eagles came back and scored exactly five minutes later with sophomore Dave Gattone powering in from the one. Cahill completed two passes during this scoring drive.

Calhoun scored twice in the third quarter and once in the fourth for the Indians final 21 points.

With about five minutes remaining in the game LHU scored their final points on a nine-play, 73-yard scoring drive.

Lock Haven Booters lose last game

By Bill Hunter

Slippery Rock coach Jim Elgi summed the game up by saying, "We got the breaks." That statement seemed to characterize both Saturday's soccer match and the entire season for the Lock Haven University soccer team.

The game on Saturday against SRU not only ended in a 2-1 loss for Lock Haven, but it also eliminated them from post-season play.

The victory gave Slippery Rock the PC West title and the right to play East Stroudsburg in the PSAC championship game on Sunday Nov. 10.

Despite taking 22 shots and five corner kicks on SRU goalie Adam Fredrick, Lock Haven only found the back of the net once.

The lone LHU goal, scored by Pat McKenna, assisted by Kevin York, came with only 19:57 remaining in the game.

The first SRU goal came with 26:57 gone in the first half. Lock Haven transfer Mike Sims hit a low shot that LHU goalie Rob Cocker was unable to handle and the rebound was knocked in by rocket forward Bob Stoddart.

The second and game winning goal came as a fluke with 21:04 left to play. Haven keeper Rob Cocker tried to punch a shot out, but instead it deflected backwards and into the net.

Fredrick was credited with nine saves, while Cocker had seven.

LHU's final home game is Thursday at 2 p.m. against a strong West Virginia Wesleyan squad which is the defending NAIA national champion.

The Lock Haven booters are 8-7-2 overall.

Lady Eagles Lose 2-1 to Old Dominion U.

The Lock Haven University women's field hockey team gave national power Old Dominion a battle Sunday afternoon on the Temple University field before Stelly Seltman's goal at 22:45 of the second half lifted the Lady Monarchs to a 2-1 win.

Lock Haven took a 1-0 lead at the 13:10 mark of the first half when sophomore Doobie Caprio scored. Bev Young, credited with the assist, hit the ball across the circle from the right side. Caprio, on the left corner, stuck it in the cage before Old Dominion goalie Lynn Currie could get there, as she was defending on the right side of the goal.

Old Dominion tied the game at 20:57 of the half when Dawn Hill scored off a penalty corner. Jackie Grady picked up the assist after stopping the ball for Hill.

The score remained 1-1 until Seltman followed up a shot off another penalty corner for the only goal in the second 35 minutes.

Old Dominion led 28-12 in shots on goal and 14-4 in penalty corners. Lady Eagle goal-keeper Lori Sannella turned back 16 Lady Monarch shots, while Currie finished with 10 saves for ODU.

Now 12-5 overall, the Haven women will travel to Greenvale, NY on Wednesday to take on C.W. Post. On Monday will also be on the road, with a make-up game against Ursinus at Collegeville, PA.
