Revised bill may make getting financial aid tougher

By Sue Berger
Co-News Editor

Students who want to get loans to help pay for spring semester college bills should fill out the forms now, according to Dr. William Irwin, Director of Student Financial Aid.

Irwin said that if President Reagan signs the Financial Aid Reauthorization Bill that the House and the Senate have already passed, it will be more difficult for many students to receive a Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL).

President Reagan will probably sign the bill said Irwin, but he added that students will be able to use the older, more lenient, standards to get a loan if they complete their forms up to 30 days after the President signs the bill.

"I personally hope that President Reagan doesn't sign the bill until the end of the year, in which case it won't go into effect until after we (the financial aid office) have done all the processing for spring," said Irwin.

The new standards of this bill say that the GSL will now be completely based on need.

All students who want financial aid must complete financial aid forms. These completed forms must include all of their family's income and assets including home value.

By the old standards, students whose family's earned less than $30,000 a year could receive a $2500 loan as long as this loan and other financial aid did not add up to more than the semester actually cost.

Also by the old standards, students whose family's earned more than $30,000 a year could receive a loan based on their income without reporting all of their assets.

These new standards are going to keep many students from getting loans because with assets added in, students and their families will have too much money to qualify as needy, according to Irwin.

"Students who have been relying very heavily on the GSL are not going to be able to get as much the way it looks now," Irwin said.

The bill does, however, raise the amount that the most needy students can borrow.

It raises the maximum loan from $2500 to $2625 for freshmen and sophomores, and from $2500 to $4000 for juniors and seniors.

Irwin said that students who receive a small GSL after the new standards are in effect should look into a National Direct Student Loan.

He said that this loan has a more favorable interest rate and the repayment burden is less.

This bill also raises the amount of money a student can receive from a PELL grant. The bill raises the maximum amount of a grant from $2100 to $2300, and allows for a $200 increase each year.

"Unless the appropriations committee appropriates enough money to fund the PELL grant at that level," said Irwin, "it won't be that high even though the authorizing legislation says it can be that high.

Another change the bill will bring is a revised definition of an independent student.

According to Irwin the new definition will make it more difficult for students to claim themselves independent from their parents.

Students who claim themselves independent must not have been counted on their parents tax return for the past two years instead of the past year as it had been before.

These students must have earned a minimum of $4000 a year and must not have received more than $750 support from their parents or have lived with their parents for more than six weeks.

Veterans, married students, orphans, and students over 24 years old are automatically considered independent.

This bill also requires that students have a 2.0 grade point average in order to receive financial aid. This is already a requirement for LHU students.

The Financial Aid Reauthorization Bill was originated to reapprove the Federal Financial Aid program. This program has to be updated approximately every five years.

Irwin said that he will be conducting an in-depth study to learn how this bill will affect LHU students.

He is currently attending a conference of the State Financial Aid Association where he'll hear about aspects of this bill.

Dr. William Irwin, Director of Student Financial Aid.

Irwin says that if President Reagan signs the Financial Aid Reauthorization Bill, it could become tougher to get a Guaranteed Student Loan.

McNamara hosts meeting of student government presidents

Kevin McNamara, LHU's SCC president.

By Sue Berger
Co-News Editor

Lack of parking space, underage drinking, and athletic spending were discussed by student government presidents from seven of the fourteen universities in the State System of Higher Education.

SCC President Kevin McNamara and LHU hosted the meeting of the Board of Student Government Presidents on Saturday.

Student government presidents from Mansfield, Bloomsburg, Edinboro, Kutztown, Millersville, Shippensburg, and LHU exchanged ideas on several common problems said McNamara.

McNamara said that one of the things he learned at the meeting is that LHU is not the only campus with a parking problem.

"Almost every campus represented said that they have a parking problem and that parking is a real 'pain-in-the-neck' for students," said McNamara.

He said that most of the campuses do not have any land to turn into parking lots, but the student governments will continue to look into the problem at their respective schools, and they will share any solutions they find.

Another common problem at the state universities is the relationship between fraternities, alcohol, and underage drinking said McNamara.

He said that many schools are having a problem with underage drinking, but that most schools are seeing an increase in alcohol awareness programs that educate students about the side effects of drinking.

The student government presidents also discussed athletic spending and came to a conclusion that athletics should not be funded by student governments because it is too expensive for the organization said McNamara.

The student government presidents could not conduct business since only seven of the fourteen members were present, but McNamara said that it was a productive meeting for those who were there.

McNamara, who had been planning the meeting since last May, gave the other student government presidents a tour of the campus, which included a look at how the SCC runs the bookstore and the snackbar.

He said that the other presidents were surprised at how independent the SCC is, because most of their student governments have people from the university staff who oversee their work.

EDITORIAL

Back to business as usual for fraternities

The headline of the top story in Friday's Eagle Eye read, "The verdict is in on EIT, TKE hearings," and indeed the LHU Administrative Board handed down their decision. When I first read the sanctions that the two fraternities were going to have to abide by, I laughed. Not because I thought the hearings and subsequent sanctions were not serious . . . because they were meant to be, but because I believe that the sanctions are a joke.

It appears to me that the LHU Administration sure would like to give the impression that they are putting their foot down, and showing the fraternities who's boss. The sanctions though, really seem just for show. I'm not going to relist all the sanctions issued by the Administrative Board, but they in themselves are humorous reading. Are both fraternities really going to try hard to fulfill all their required public service projects? Is the Administration really going to check up on all the sanctions issued? Are these sanctions going to make any difference in the operation of the two fraternities? Is anyone taking any of this seriously?

The final sanction issued to both EIT and TKE reads, "Failure to abide by any and all of these sanctions will result in the ceasing of University recognition of the fraternity and the withdrawal of their charter." Wasn't this exact same thing said to some of the fraternities before? So why didn't all hell break loose when these latest bad situations occurred? Oh, I get it, this situation is like the movie "Animal House." You remember, the part where the college president puts the Delta House on "double top secret probation!"

Let's get to the nitty gritty of this whole issue. The Administration of LHU should not try to impose sanctions against the fraternities, unless they are dead serious about them. Scare tactics just don't seem to work. To the fraternities . . . it is just back to business as usual.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I had the pleasure of returning to Lock Haven University for Homecoming, and generally had a very good time. Something that did concern me, though, was the new methods used by the Lock Haven Police Department.

Most of the students I spoke with, ranging from freshman to international students at LHU, felt that the police force was out to harass them.

Lt. Joseph P. Sanders says that his police force is not out to arrest anyone, but the number of citations that have been loosely handed out are, in my opinion, far too numerous.

If this possible harassment continues, I can not personally see how LHU is going to attract new students, or even keep those already enrolled. The students seem to perceive these policies as an attempt to stamp out social life at LHU.

I sincerely hope that the situation does not get out of hand, since it is ultimately Lock Haven University itself that will lose out.

Sincerely,
Abraham P. Asrat

Lady Eagles make it three for three over weekend

By Joselle Melito
Sports Reporter

Despite the bad weather and the wet field conditions, the Lady Eagles were victorious over Ursinus College on Thursday, 3-2, and came away with two more wins over the weekend.

In Thursday's game against Ursinus, Lori Sannella had seven saves for the Lady Eagles. In addition, Laurie Cartwright, Doobi Caprio and Heidi Firth all scored unassisted. Cartwright and Caprio each scored their goals in the first half, while Firth had the winning goal in the second half.

According to Head Coach Sharon Taylor, the game was not as close as the score indicated. Ursinus did not score their second goal until the last three and a half minutes of the game.

Saturday's game against South West Missouri State University resulted in a 2-0 victory for the Haven.

"We totally dominated South West Missouri. They did not get a shot on goal during the whole game," said Taylor.

Firth scored the first goal of the game off of a deflected shot taken by Ginny Neiss. Firth then went on to assist Karen Geremia in the second and final goal of the game. The goal was Geremia's first of the season.

Sunday's game against C.W. Post ended in yet another victory for the Haven, by the score of 3-0.

"The interesting thing about this game is that our first two goals were scored by substitutes who replaced each other in the left inner position," said Taylor.

Geremia had the first goal of the game off of an assist by Tammy Flowers.

Neiss then hit the ball straight across the center to assist Lisa Coppock in the Lady Eagles second goal of the game.

The final goal was scored by Caprio off of an assist by Firth.

"It felt good to get three big wins in a row," said Taylor. "We played pretty well as a team, especially against Ursinus."

The Haven's next game will be home, against Kent State University on Wednesday.

Gridders lose at California

By Bill Alexander
Co-Sports Editor

For the fourth consecutive week, the Bald Eagles played a tough opponent and for the fourth week, were denied a victory, losing to the Vulcans of California by a 28-21 score.

The Vulcans scored the winning touchdown with 5:45 left in the game on a one-yard TD run by QB Brenden Folmar.

Eagle QB Pat Cahill again led the offensive charge as he gained 80 yards on 29 carries and one TD. Also, Cahill was 6-of-13 passing for 52 yards and had one interception.

California started the scoring as Folmar hit Frank Sacco with a 13-yard TD pass. Greg Schuessler added the extra point and the Vulcans led 7-0.

The Eagles came back in the second as halfback Tom Smykowski scored his second TD of the season on a one-yard run. Mickey Miller's kick tied the score at 7-7 with 8:36 left in the first half.

Folmar put the Vulcans ahead as he romped 14 yards for a TD with 1:15 before halftime. Schuessler's PAT gave California a 14-7 lead.

The third quarter was all Lock Haven, as the Eagles scored twice to take a 21-14 lead.

Cahill scored on a two-yard run at 5:17 of the third and then freshman halfback Rob Gair gave the Eagles the lead on a 29-yard run around the left end. But the Eagles lead didn't last long.

Fifty-five seconds later, Cal's Steve Brown took off on a 79-yard gallop and Schuessler's extra point knotted the score at 21-21.

Folmar's go-ahead TD late in the game gave Cal a 28-21 lead, but the Eagles weren't about to give up yet.

Cahill drove the Eagles to the California 34 yard line, but on 4th and 8, the Eagles came up short and the Vulcans ran out the clock for the victory.

The loss dropped the Eagles to 0-4 and 0-2 in the Western Division of the PSAC. California upped its record to 5-0 and leads the Western Division with a 2-0 record.

The Bald Eagles will host the Slippery Rock Rockets at Hubert Jack Stadium this Saturday. Kickoff is at 2 p.m.

Paguia leads booters to win

By Bill Hunter
Co-Sports Editor

When you play an 0-7 team, the idea is to destroy them. That is exactly what the LHU booters did to Kutztown University over the weekend.

Saturday, on a rain soaked McCullum field, the Haven blasted Kutztown by the score of 5-1.

LHU forward Steve Paguia, who stole the spotlight, had one goal and three assists to lead the team on to victory.

The Haven started out fast as Paguia drove the ball down into the corner (beating two men) and crossed the ball to Sean Perry. Perry received the pass and lit up the scoreboard 1-0. The goal came at 16:30 of the first half.

Only :35 later, the Bald Eagles struck again when a ball, crossed by Paguia, was knocked into the net by midfielder Rob Eaton.

Before the first half could come to a close, LHU would be on the scoreboard again.

With just 9:01 remaining in the half, defender Brad Evans passed the ball into the air and on to the awaiting head of forward Ron Minges, who put the ball into the net.

The second half was to be icing on the cake for the Bald Eagles.

At the 59:54 mark, Paguia got his third assist on a cross to midfielder Chris Kelly. Paguia's cross went over the outstretched hands of the Kutztown keeper Jeff Boner, and Kelly finished the play by putting it into the empty net.

The final Haven goal of the game came off of a shot by Roy Mehl. The ball ricocheted off the post and was knocked in by Paguia.

Not to be shutout, Kutztown got their first and only goal at the 74:55 mark.

Kutztown forward Joey Hefner scored off of a free kick past the diving LHU goalie Warren Westcoat.

Lock Haven took 19 shots and four corner kicks as compared to Kutztown's six shots and one corner.

Boner hauled in 14 saves and Westcoat had two.

"Eaton, (Doc)DuMars, and Paguia all played fine games," said assistant coach Mike Corney. "Paguia was beating people left and right."

Lock Haven will take their 7-0-3 record on the road Wednesday to Shippensburg. The Red Raiders are 7-1.

According to Corney, "Ship is the biggest game of the year."

Editor's note:

Congratulations to head soccer coach Lenny Long on the birth of his baby daughter on Monday afternoon.

Haven runners have tough weekend

By Dan Hanson
Sports Reporter

The women's cross country team, still without the services of senior Sue Kutz, took third place at the Bloomsburg Invitational on Saturday.

In the meet, Pam Noll crossed the line in 18:37 to take fifth place. Jill Baumgartner and Kathy Staib finished seventh and tenth respectively for the Lady Eagles (1-2).

East Stroudsburg's Georgina Messinger covered the 2.9 mile course in 17:56 to finish first, but Millersville took the team title with 40 points. Bloomsburg's 53 points gave them second, followed closely by Lock Haven's 67.

Two LHU men run impressively
Freshmen John Widl and Jason

Tremblay gave impressive performances in an otherwise disheartening team showing, as the men's team finished fifth in a field of five teams.

"It was just one of those days," said coach Kurt Smith. "We got caught in the back of the pack at the start."

Widl, a freshman who has been coming along all season, placed 18th overall in 27:26, and Tremblay in only his second meet after recovering from an injury, took 28th in 28:44.

Dan Sheredy finished 22nd in 27:42, and Brad Seth ran a 28:03 to place 24th on the 4.6 mile course.

Kutztown University won the meet with 44 points followed by Clarion's 51, and Bloomsburg's 54.

Both the men's and the women's teams will be at Slippery Rock this Saturday for a 1:45 p.m. meet.

Students and town get together for charity dance marathon

Dancers competed for over $1,000 in cash and doorprizes while raising money for four local and national charities at the Phi Mu Delta fraternities' 48-hour Dance Marathon last weekend.

The twelfth annual charity event, which raised money for the United Way of Clinton County, The Infant Development Program, and the Jeffrey Scott Dubois Memorial Scholarship, began at 6 p.m. Friday and concluded at 6 p.m. on Sunday.

"It was a pretty long haul, but I had fun and I'd do it again...if it were shorter," said Sherri Minnick, an LHU student who participated in the Marathon.

Minnick and the other dancers apparently liked the tune "Superfreak" best, as that was the most-requested song of the weekend according to deejay Hector Fontan.

The theme of this year's Marathon was "Dancing on the Ceiling."

First prize of $500 will be awarded to the dancer who made the most money in sponsors, and who lasted the entire 48 hours.

The remaining prizes include a $300 second prize, a $100 third prize, and $50 each for fourth and fifth place winners.

"All the dancers showed great dedication and enthusiasm," said Marathon Chairman Steve Schultz, "And both the fraternity and the dancers are very appreciative of the enormous generosity shown by area merchants."

According to Schultz, area businesses contributed over $700 in cash and doorprizes to the Marathon.

Cash prizes will be given away on November 4, during a reception for the dancers at the Phi Mu Delta house.

Opening the Marathon this year was Lock Haven Mayor Diann Stuemple and Dean of Students George Rhoades, who surprised even a few of the fraternities' members when he revealed that he had helped found the Lock Haven chapter of the fraternity nearly 20 years ago.

Participating as dancers in the Marathon were Minnick, Alex Sabatino, Tani Wyatt, Lisa Clinefelter, Kelly McGhee, Jill Newhardt, Craig Orefice, Becky Carl, Kristy Poloski, Paul Knox, Tabatha Margerum, and Karen Cameron.

Area businesses which contributed to the Marathon include Burger King, Harer Photo, Regal and Blum Shoes, Goose and Gander, Little Caesar's, K-Mart, Pizza City, Luigi's, Monument Sub Shop, Woolworth's, Shore Auto Parts, Claster's, Pizza Hut, Big Wrangler Steak House, Scot's Low Cost, Radio Shack, Ames, Janet Tire Company, Revco Drug Store, Derr's, Wagner and Son, Widman's, Sweet Evergreen, Eisemann Jewelers, Bortoff Shoes, Hoy's Clothing, Haven Bake Shop, Math's Boot Shop, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Video Adventures, Sweeny Florist, Foodliner, Wendy's, Sal's, Mr. Donut, Wolfe Camera, Dutch Haven, Roxy Theater, Miller's Gift and Bible Shop, Addie's, Bierly's Office and Supply, OK Corral, Ricker Bros. Florist, Clyde's, Original Italian Pizza, Jerry's, Hair Concepts, Clinton Electrical Supply Co., Texas Luncheonette, Under-Wraps, and Ding-a-Ling Phone Store.

Meet the World Malawian student is fascinated by the "land of opportunity"

By Jayesh I. Kumar

I guess I was one of those people who heard a lot about "America the country."

Though I did intend to come to the U.S. for my studies, it was the stories about this "land of freedom and opportunity" which fascinated me and made me really determined.

And so began my exciting adventure when I arrived at LHU.

I was born in Mozambique and brought up in Malawi, a small peace loving country in Central Africa.

Malawi is a mountainous country. It has the third largest lake in Africa (Lake Malawi) and the third highest mountain in Africa (Mulanje Mountain).

It also has some of the most outstanding national parks and game reserves in that part of Africa.

The main tourist attraction is Lake Malawi. It has several hotels and camping sites scattered along the almost 600 miles of beach.

Some of the best and unique species of fish and birds in the world are found here.

A documentary, taken by experts from the U.K. and shown on London TV, received worldwide acclaim.

The landscape is "green" throughout.

The staple food for the local Malawians is "nsima," a dough-like substance made from cassava flour and the ever popular 'CHAMBO' fish.

There is a lot of Western culture influence (Malawi, then NYASALAND, was a British colony until 1964).

Lilongwe is the capital city, while Blantyre and Limbe are the commercial cities.

Lock Haven often reminds me of "home" due to its similar landscape and "greenery" (except for the weather, Malawi has a tropical climate). But I'm glad I came to LHU.

Graduate school fair to be held

By Jennifer Pepper
Staff Reporter

Lock Haven University will be hosting its third annual Graduate School Fair this Friday, October 10 in Bentley Hall.

Representatives from eleven universities will be attending to answer the questions of any students interested in obtaining graduate degrees.

Herbert Larson, LHU's Director of Career Planning and Placement, is the organizer of the fair.

The ten schools originally advertised as planning to participate have been changed. Kutztown University is no longer able to attend, but the universities of Clarion and Drexel have since signed up.

The other universities which will be represented are Bloomsburg, Edinboro, Mansfield, Millersville, Shippensburg, Slippery Rock, Alfred (NY), Penn State, and Temple.

The fair will be held in the Bentley Hall Lounge between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. so that students on their way to or from lunch may stop by the tables and request information.

"Some schools are expected to have several tables, each one representing a separate college within the university," said Ann Hartman, Larson's assistant on the project.

The representatives will include faculty, deans, and assistants to deans from the visiting schools.

Hartman also said that in Larson's office, room G-3 of Smith Hall, students may obtain reading material from various graduate schools.

Students may also obtain applications for graduate school entrance exams. Schedules for the exams are also available.

The administration currently plans to continue the Graduate School Fair in future years.

Concert scheduled for this week

By Jeffrey Hilty
Co-News Editor

The Lock Haven University Choir will present a fall Pops Concert in Sloan Theatre.

The concert is scheduled for this Thursday, October 9.

The University singers will be singing three pieces by the Manhattan Transfer.

Also, such songs as 'Ease on Down the Road', and 'Over the Rainbow' will be performed.

Director Gery Renzelman has taken a spirit song by Jule Styne (Sing It True for L-H-U) and put words to it.

Renzelman said, "I think that the university could start to sing it. It's not an alma mater but a peppy, upbeat spirit song."

Solo performances will also be a part of Thursday night's concert.

The soloists include Pam Soloick, Perry Bartlett, Patty Bell, Melissa Lewis, Darrell Scott, and Kirsten Naeger.

Naeger will perform a jazz tune, "Don't Nobody Bring Me No Bad News".

The women will solo with the performance of "Mr. Sandman".

The night's festivities will come to a close with 'Rhythm of Life'.

Renzelman noted that Kris Dowd will be accompanying quite a bit during the evening.
