Financial aid excesses returned to students

By TINA BROOKS
Staff Reporter

Bryan Van Deun, Financial Aid Director, has reported that refunds for students with an excess of financial aid for this semester will be received within the next seven to ten days.

All checks will be sent in the mail with the exception of the National Direct Student Loan refunds. A notice will be sent to the students receiving NDSL checks to come into the financial aid office and sign the necessary forms. Checks can be picked up at this time.

Excess financial aid is created when the total amount of aid a student receives exceeds the cost of his tuition, books, room and board, and other college expenses.

Van Deun pointed out that the off-campus student is more likely to receive a refund because he doesn't pay room and board on campus. "The student who lives on campus very rarely gets a refund and if he does, it is a small refund," stated Van Deun.

Beginning this year the amount of refund a student is to receive is being verified by computer. Van Deun said that the checks have always been late because of the time it takes to check the various programs from which a student could receive aid. In previous years the refunds had to be verified completely by hand.

This semester, while the computer system is being set up, the refunds must be verified both by hand and by computer. Speaking about the effect the new computer system will have in the future Van Deun said, "Now that it is developed we can get the checks ready earlier in the semester."

Psych. courses scheduled for spring term

By REBECCA GERMER

The Psychology department will offer two new courses next semester and a third new one at the close of the spring semester. "Perception and Memory" will be taught next semester by Mr. John Brendel. This course will deal with human perception and memory, what we take from the environment, and how we interpret it. Brendel plans to use visual and auditory processing, including attentional processes, reaction

Exchange student found dead

Lorna Armstrong, 19, of 232 Gross Hall, was found dead Saturday night at approximately 9:30 by her roommate.

According to Dr. Marcus Konick, Director of Academic Services and International Education, her death occurred sometime in the early afternoon and was non-violent.

At this time, her death has been attributed to heart failure. Results of the autopsy will not be available until later this week.

An exchange student from Nottingham, England, she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, one older brother and one younger sister.

While at Lock Haven State, Miss Armstrong participated in the College Players' production of "You Can't Take I With You," and was a member of the International Club.

A memorial service has been tentatively scheduled for Tuesday. Details were not confirmed at press time.

Notes of sympathy may be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, 27 Elm-sleigh Gardens, Cleadon Village Nr. Sunderland, Tyne and Wear, England.

Singers to present fall soloist concert

The annual fall Soloists Concert by the Lock Haven State College Singers will be presented Wednesday, November 12, at 8:00 p.m. in Sloan Theatre.

The program will open with a group of compositions by the English composer Henry Purcell sung by Lisa Walls, Dixie Workinger, and Gregg Guisewite. Dan Rigel and Dixie Workinger will follow with selections from "Fiddler on the Roof."

Paul Hart will accompany Michele Robinson's singing of "Old English Street Cries" and Deborah Rumsey's rendition of "Touch the Wind" by Calderon. Guitarist Paula Jaffe will play for Diane Shermeyer. Also performing will be singer-guitarist Anita Zinobile.

Performing for the first time in the Soloists Concert will be a new group, the Women's Barbershop Quartet of Susan Rarich, Ann Kriebel, Pat Ciccarella, and Sally Roth. The Men's Quartet of Gregg Guisewite, Gary Brubaker, Dan Rigel, and Mark Sundberg will perform several selections from a program they recently presented in Middleburg.

Other soloists include Natalie Preston, with accompanist Mark Sundberg, plus Blair Wilson and Marcella Moseley singing gospel selections.

Special guest Tim Noone will perform his virtuoso "blue grass" harmonica music, with audience participation. Choir president Mark Sundberg will serve as master of ceremonies.

Today's Editorial

The time is now

The second Monday in November, the day mandated by S.C.C. constitution for the election of an executive committee, has arrived.

Who is elected and for what reasons is dependent on the members of the student body. The students who participate in the democratic process will decide who will guide the "our corporation" during the upcoming year. How many people make that decision will be a factor over which none of the candidates have any control. For what reasons one chooses to vote or not vote and for whom is a matter each student must decide for himself. Once that decision is made there is no turning back; the only thing left to do is resign oneself with the choice of the majority.

Hopefully the newspaper and your own interest in the election has provided enough information for each individual to make an intelligent selection of candidates. Visceral responses like those at a sporting event are not enough for making a selection at the ballot box - too much is at stake. Nor is it like the pretty girl you pick up at the frat party then try to forget for the next semester; these people are going to live with you the next year, like it or not.

So what's left as the basis for choice in the S.C.C. election? Most assuredly an open mind. Darning candidates for past experience in student affairs or saying that novices couldn't gain the necessary experience to make them good, strong leaders would leave no one to chose from. But still the ability to differentiate between the "real" and the "ideal" is something that every voter should be concerned with. There is a difference between new ideas and programs that can be realistically implemented. Anyone who has attended a few days of classes knows the difference.

Hopefully the knowledge gained throughout "the campaign" will aid the voters in making their choice. Don't be counted among the drolls. Get out and exercise the privilege you've paid for. VOTE.

To The Editor:

In reply to several remarks and questions concerning our decision not to attend the Eagle Eye Press Conference, we the Co-Operative slate would like to state that a press conference is only one of many ways to contact the students and to discuss pertinent issues with them. We sent out to every student living in the dorms (approx. 1,700) a copy of our basic campaign platform. There were copies distributed in various parts of campus for off-campus students also. We have arranged for meetings with each dorm to discuss any issues or problems of interest to the students. We have met with various men's and woman's athletic teams. We have had representatives at the I.F.C. meetings and various club meetings. We feel that it was more effective and to our advantage to go out and personally meet with students on a more personal basis. By going to the students, not them coming to us, we feel is a better way of contacting the vast majority of students. We felt that student interest did not warrant a press conference, we are running for the students vote not for the Eagle Eye's. We felt that by going to the students directly in their homes (so to speak) and their everyday surroundings, instead of by the media (Press Conference, Eagle Eye paper) we could better associate with the students and their problems. We feel that we wouldn't remain totally neutral either. Because of the relationship the other slate has with the Eagle Eye staff, we felt they would lean toward helping their friends. It is a perfectly normal reaction for a person to help friends any way they can. You just can't help but have your feelings come up in your writing of articles, and questions dealing with issues concerning your friends and the opposing slate. It is

Who is this John Sloan fellow and why have we named our Fine Arts Center after him?

For those who don't already know they can be publically informed of this mystery this week. Today the gallery, in the center which bears the name of Mr. Sloan, is scheduled to display the works of Sloan's students and friends who he associated with during his career in the arts. It can be noted in these works both the similarities and diversities in the many artists which will have their creations exhibited between now and the 25th of November. This includes the paintings of Alexander Calder, Stuart Davis and David Smith.

Thursday in the Sloan Center's Theatre Andrew Grugan, the curator of the Lycoming County Historical Museum will give a talk on this artist who was born in Lock Haven and his accomplishments in his field.

To complete a rather heavy schedule for the next few days the College Singers will present a number of the members doing solo performances in vocal music Wednesday evening, again in the Sloan Theatre and again at 8:00 p.m.

Tuesday night the first sounds of the coming holiday season ring out in the Sloan Theatre as Clinton County's own College/Community Orchestra and Choir under the direction of LHSC's Bob Lynch present their annual sounds of joy.

I.U.P. Indians scalp Bald Eagles

By FRED SCHULTZ
Staff Reporter

The Big Indians of Indiana University of Pennsylvania led by All-American quarterback Lynn Hieber trounced the hapless Bald Eagles of Lock Haven Saturday here at Hubert Jack Stadium by a score of 59-7.

I.U.P. completely dominated the first quarter with a 36 yard field goal by sophomore Tom Alper. The Bald Eagle defense looked very impressive in holding the Indians to a field goal. The ball changed hands again after the kickoff and the Lock Haven fans began losing hope. John Menhart capped this scoring drive when he plunged to the end zone to end the scoring in the first quarter.

to play sloppy football as I.U.P.'s Rick Johnson tsted paydirt two times in a row with 1 yard dives through the middle of the Lock Haven line. Quarterback Hieber then proceeded to pick apart the Bald Eagle secondary with an 11 yard touchdown pass to two-year letterman Len Pesotini to wrap up the scoring for the first half making the score 31-0 in favor of the Big Indians.

After a fine half time show featuring the I.U.P. Band and our own Bald Eagle Marching Band, the Big Indians again showed the crowd that they didn't forget how to play football.

Sophomore defensive back Don Kenney picked off a Bald Eagle pass and scampered 41 yards for the touchdown. Again with 9:54 remaining in the third quarter I.U.P. got within field goal distance as the Big Indians called on the big toe of Tom Alper. The Kick was no good, but the Indians again gained possession of the ball and romped to the Lock Haven 1 yard line where Hieber tossed a short pass to Tony Marciano for the score. This ended the scoring in the long third quarter. Because of an injury to Lock Haven's fine veteran offensive guard Chip Boone, the game was delayed for several minutes because the ambulance had to come on to the field. Additional information on the seriousness of the injury to Boone is not known at this time.

Lock Haven's only spark of the life came in the fourth quarter when backup quarterback Bill King scored on a quarterback keeper from the 1 yard line after a long scoring drive. Barry Walter kicked the extra point and the Bald Eagles seemed to be starting to move.

The Big Indians' backup quarterback Ray Musto entered the game and passed two times, completed both for 26 yards and scored a touchdown from the 7 yard line. While most of the fans were filing dejectedly out of the stadium King threw a pass that was intercepted by Russ Palehak who ran 36 yards for the last touchdown of the game.

Freshman fullback Charlie Lucas played a fine game for the Bald Eagles. The team had 98 yards rushing and Lucas had 84 himself. As far as passing goes Bill King made a very respectable showing passing 18 times, completing 9 of them for 112 yards. Starting quarterback Dave Bower completed 4 passes out of 13 for no yardage at all.

Quarterback Lynn Hieber for the Big Indians made believers out of everybody that he is an All-American. He was 19 for 31 for a total of 225 yards.

Next week California State College will travel here as the Bald Eagles will try to salvage a victory in the last game of the season, and for the seniors, the last game of their career.

13 Eaglettes go to Susq. tourney

Thirteen members of the Lock Haven women's field hockey second team travelled to Sellingsgrove to compete in the annual Susquehanna Hockey Tournament. The tournament was held on Saturday and Sunday for the purpose of selecting two squads who will represent the Susquehanna Association in the Mid East Tournament set for November 15 and 16.

The LHSC squad played seven teams compiling a 5-1-1 win loss record for the two day tourney. Game highlights included the 4-0 shut out of a supposedly tough Wilkes Barre team and wins over Bucknell and Central Penn.

Major's club coordinates b-ball clinic

On Saturday, November 1, Sue Eschbach on behalf of the Physical Educations Majors Club, with the assistance of the women's basketball squad coordinated a basketball clinic for 8 high school teams and coaches in the Lock Haven area.

The clinic began at 10 a.m. with station work in all the Zimmerli gymnasiums. The 10 stations included ball control, dribbling, one on one, shooting, 2 on 2, rebounding, passing, defense, lay-ups and fast breaks. The 73 participants rotated from station to station as time allowed.

Third year coach, Ms. Carol Eckman held a morning session for the 11 coaches.

Ten teams, composed of two players from each school team and coached by LHSC basketball players, competed in 20 minute games during the afternoon.

time studies, and analysis by synthesis models of speech perception. Current memory models will be discussed, including sensory memory and short and long term statement processes.

"Small Group Experiences and Interpersonal Growth" will be taught by Dr. Dick Kohlan. Through required course reading and classroom experiences, the students will engage in behaviors that make for interpersonal growth. Some topics that will be explored include the importance of goals, self-disclosure, expression of feeling and emotion, and confrontation as a means of contact. Both of the above courses are PY501.

At the close of the spring semester, but prior to the beginning of the first summer session, an "Advanced Interpersonal Skills" course will be offered.

sonal Skills" is prerequisite to this course. The purpose of the advanced course is to build to a higher level the insight, understanding, and acceptance of the empathic listening and self-disclosure skills that were developed in the PY235 course.

Designed to enhance the capacity for psychological growth for the normal individual, the course will tentatively start on May 22, 1976 and continue for ten days. Those who have not taken PY235 and wish to enroll in the advanced course may discuss the possibilities with Dr. Neil Wilson in Russell 17.

Participation for both courses is limited to teachers, undergraduate and graduate students who can meet the entrance requirements of the State University of New York and have a serious purpose for participating. There are no language requirements.

Dr. Yonah Alexander, Professor of International and Foreign Area Studies of the State University College at Oneonta, will be the Director of this program for the tenth consecutive summer. During the 1968-69 and 1969-70 academie years he was Resident Director for the full-year State University of New York programs in Israel at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and the Tel Aviv University.

Persons desiring further information may write Professor Alexander at State University College, Oneonta, New York 13820, or the Department of Education and Culture of the Jewish Agency, 515 Park Avenue, New York, New York, 10022. As only a limited number of enrollees will be accepted, early application is recommended.
