Alcohol... A Problem

By MARTHA HAROLD

Low grades, excessive absences, vandalism and violence are often the results of alcohol abuse on many college campuses. Saturday, over 100 student counselors, resident assistants, and student life staff members from colleges all over Pennsylvania attended the Alcohol Education Workshop in Ulmer Hall to help control these problems.

The main presentation was given in the morning by the staff of the State Alcohol Program for Colleges (SAPC).

Barbara Fletcher, project director of SAPC, said during the presentation "Alcohol abuse is not just a college phenomenon students start drinking at early ages."

Fletcher told about a 1978 study of alcohol abuse on the SUNY Agricultural and Technical College campus in New York. Among the findings was that in 90 percent of the dismissals in college over a four year period, alcohol abuse was a contributing factor.

Interest sessions in the afternoon focused on effectively dealing with alcohol abuse on campus.

The session entitled Creative Prevention Programming gave suggestions on how to make presentations more interesting to students. One alternative was to have a popular person associated with alcohol, co-sponsor a program. For example, have the bartender from Sal's as a speaker.

The most popular session was a tour of the CAMPS Drop-In center in Woolridge Hall. Peer educators there explained Lock Haven's programs on alcohol awareness. CAMPS uses films and student educators to present programs in residence halls and Greek houses.

Other sessions dealt with recognizing the signs of an alcoholic and how to effectively confront such a person.

John Brendel, associate professor of psychology here at LHSC, discussed government regulation of substances other than alcohol.

A program for professionals, such as hall directors and the Student Life staff, discussed how a campus alcohol program could be developed.

Kirby States Goals For SCC; Reaches For The Presidency

By PAM YOBLONSKI
NEWS EDITOR

"I feel I can add something to this college" were the words of Joe Kirby in relation to his candidacy for President of the SCC. "I don't know anyone who is more qualified. The only qualified people are past presidents," he said. "I do feel that my past experience makes me more qualified than the other candidates, though."

Kirby's past experience includes being a senator for three different dorms, a member of the Finance Committee, and serving on different ad-hoc committees.

Kirby said he is running for president because students asked him to campaign for the position. He said "I'm fulfilling the students' expectation." He first thought of running for president after running for vice-president on an unsuccessful ticket last year.

Kirby defines the position of president as hard, demanding, and requiring the ability to make a lot of decisions. He stresses cooperation between the executive board and the president. He said, "To me, the president acts as a leader, but doesn't make the decisions. A good president will take into consideration not just what's good for one, but what's good for all."

Kirby doesn't plan any major changes in the SCC, outside of a few additions.

He wants to start a publicity committee, which would tell students where and how the SCC operates. Another new facet would be a complaint department, where students could tell what they dislike about the SCC. He said "Criticism is fine and welcome."

Kirby says he will continue concerts and Quiet Wednesday. He also wants to start a tradition of bringing famous comics to LHSC. He suggests the number of concerts would depend on the amount of money available.

When asked about the activity fee, Kirby pointed out that "The activity fee is the backbone of the student government." Kirby won't raise the fee, and said, "If the activity fee is raised, the students can come and knock down my door."

Kirby was involved in a political scandal last year during election time. Running for vice-president on Al Fluman's ticket, the slate was caught using SCC stationery for their own use. The constitution points out that SCC materials can only be used for official SCC business. After the violation Fluman wrote a letter to the editor in the Eagle Eye apologizing for the slate's misuse of materials. Kirby suggests that what Fluman did was wrong, however, he thinks it shouldn't be held against him because he publicly apologized for it. He also mentioned that he was not aware of what was going on at the time.

Kirby's running-mates are Kent Hatter, vice-president; Cindy Swinehart, second vice-president and PUB administrator; Joe Carucci, treasurer; Ron Williams, Recording Secretary, and Carla Willis, Corresponding Secretary.

When asked what qualifications Carucci has to handle the SCC's $1 million a year operation, Kirby was quick to point out that Carucci is on the Finance Committee, and he knows how finances should be handled.

Kirby emphasized the fact that his running-mates' roles as students will have a priority in their lives. He said "their education comes first."

Kirby also denied a rumor that his slate will cut the athletic budget. He said, "The idea that my slate doesn't support athletics is wrong."

When asked about his opinion of the other candidates, Kirby said "Chris Birdsey is a friend and a good senator, but I've never seen much leadership from him." He said he doesn't know Phil Burge.

Kirby is 20, and is a junior majoring in secondary education with an emphasis in the social sciences.

Six Haven Students Fined For Mischief

By MARTY MYERS
Staff Writer

Six Lock Haven students, including five Tri-Sigma pledges, were found guilty on two counts of criminal mischief charges yesterday resulting from the theft of street signs on Pearl Street on the night of October 20th.

Judith Kerner, Carol Allison, Virginia Tinker, Elizabeth Long, Heidi Raffaele, and Lisa DeLong each were fined 60 dollars, plus 32 dollars for court costs and damages by District Magistrate Carl Hamberger.

According to testimony given at yesterday's hearing, the students first attempted to steal a sign at the corner of Pearl and Bald Eagle Streets, but were unsuccessful. They were then seen getting into a car at the corner of Walnut and Pearl with a street sign.

The six were then stopped in front of North Hall by Law Enforcement Officer Dwayne Royer, who summoned city police.

During questioning, one of

A Bird's Eye View

By PAM YOBLONSKI

"I've been working for the students since I arrived at LHSC, and it's time that I stepped into a leadership position." This is the reason Chris Birdsey gives for wanting to be the new SCC president. He added, "I don't believe there is any other candidate qualified to do the job."

Birdsey has worked on the Food Service Committee and with the CAS. He has been a senator for the last year, serving on the Curriculum Committee, the Nominating Committee, the International Education Committee, and the Finance Committee.

Birdsey said he feels that "the president's job is the role of organizer and facilitator of activities, to direct and oversee the activities of the entire organization, and to watch out for the students and act in their best interests."

Birdsey proposes some new SCC policies. He firmly believes in students' rights, and said the SCC should help guard them. "Students are consumers of education," he said.

Birdsey wants to establish those arrested said they had, "stolen the street sign for a sorority pledge," however the sign was taken to the room of Deb Palo, Tri-Sigma president, according to Sgt. C.E. Shoemaker of the Lock Haven City Police.

The six were also found guilty of the theft of another sign, taken from the corner of Pearl and Woods Avenue, according to Officer Michael Kibler, also of the city police. Kibler testified that one of the suspects had told him that they had to go back twice to get the sign, the second time with a tire iron, since their first attempt to remove it by hand was unsuccessful.

Sgt. Shoemaker also said, "I think that a charge may yet be brought against a seventh defendant," but would not reveal any names.

J. Michael Williamson, defending attorney, would not comment on whether the case would be appealed, however one of the Tri Sigma sisters said that they planned to take further action.

an agreement with the administration where people who are in triples would be refunded a certain amount of money each day they are in this situation. Birdsey feels the administration violated a contract by putting people in triples.

Birdsey also wants to make a deal with the administration to share the expenses for upkeep of the PUB.

The SCC constitution is another concern of Birdsey's. He wants to draft a final document and see it distributed to students. He also wants to distribute more student interest surveys which help determine students' attitudes about the budget.

Birdsey also wants to see the senate become more active, and have a larger voice in the making of legislation instead of just ratifying what the executive board decides. He wants to eliminate what he calls a "rubber-stamp senate."

Birdsey's slate consists of Daryle Rustivito, first vice-president; Karen Culligan, second vice-president; and Pam Fletcher, Corresponding Secretary.

Most of the time the good aspects of this campus are overshadowed by the negative issues and therefore are seldom printed in the paper. But, alas, a beneficial program set up by the Writing Committee on campus has stolen the limelight, at least temporarily, from the detrimental incidents that occur frequently at LHSC.

The Writing Committee is an organization of volunteer members from both the faculty and administration. The Committee has set up writing emphasis courses. What are writing emphasis courses? Well these courses are designed to improve the quality of student writing. The teachers of these courses, which include many categories on the campus, will spend time giving writing assignments while they help students sharpen their writing skills.

The Committee deserves a pat on the back for their insight into the future importance that will effect students when they start applying in the job market. Many students are not aware that their writing skills, or lack of writing skills, will many times be the reason for their getting or not getting a job. Listen, if you can't write properly, chances of getting a job of any importance are very slim. Many times employers look at resumes finding spelling or other gramatical errors. These resumes end up in the trash can before the applicant has even had a chance for an interview.

According to a LHSC English professor, the quality of student writing in recent years has decreased at the college. Many people cannot construct a meaningful, grammatically correct sentence at LHSC. This is a deplorable fact and speaks very lowly about institutions of higher education. Many students don't seem to care about whether they can write well or not, for these individuals there is not much hope anyway. However, most students realize the importance of possessing good writing skills, and it is in the interest of these people that the Writing Committee established writing emphasis courses

The Eagle Eye strongly urges students who want to better equip themselves for the job market to sign up for these courses. They are marked on the Master Schedule as W.E. (writing emphasis). After all, expanding academic horizons is what college is all about.

The job market is becoming more and more competitive and if students are not well prepared the market will simply bypass them. The world is full of too many qualified people for employers to waste their time on people who don't possess the proper writing skills.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Fellow Students,
It is with much regret that I announce my withdrawal from the running for SCC President. At the same time, I feel that this move is the most advantageous to all involved. This decision came when I saw myself pulling support away from my opponent Chris Birdsey and vice versa. If this would have continued, the chances of myself and Chris both losing were inevitable. I feel that this would be disastrous, as Chris and I share basically the same platform and goals. Also, this would be disastrous in that what I consider to be two less qualified candidates for SCC President might win the election, referring to Joe "Kerbs" Kirby and Phil Burge. As a consequence, I give my endorsement to an equally qualified candidate for SCC President, Chris Birdsey, and I hope that all those who were backing me will do the same. Lastly, I wanted to give my thanks to all those who were supporting me in my efforts, especially those who have already started making my campaign posters. Also, I hope that my decision has been a wise one that will benefit all the students at Lock Haven State College

P.S. This I address to Jonathan Bravard;

I have nothing against you personally, but your article in Friday's Eagle Eye was a superb display of your ignorance of SCC politics. To clear up a few points, I must first mention that the position of SCC President is not one that we can do without. The President's responsibilities are basically to oversee the smooth running of the SCC and to control those things connected with our SCC activity fee. This may not seem like much work to you, but it can be a full time job through the course of two semesters. Secondly, in reply to the four candidates not being qualified to do the job, what do you consider "being qualified" and have you talked to any of the candidates to discover their qualifications? I know you have not talked to me. Thirdly, in reply to your comment of Gerald Getz stumbling and bumbling around to get "good things" done, I don't think that there is anyone who goes into a new position such as SCC President without making a few mistakes to get good results. However, Jonathan Bravard may be that person. With that I close by saying, stick to writing about subjects that you know something about, not SCC politics.

With warm regards,
Allen D. Rabert

Commentary

By ROBERT BULLET

Think back-we are in the first few weeks of school. We are reading the first issue of the Eagle Eye. The SCC is blasted for certain policies that students have taken exception to. Now is the time to take action on grievances against the SCC. Now and on Thursday, November 20, 1980 students can take part in the shape and direction of the SCC. It is time to elect a new SCC President. The Executive Elections is what it will be called. These are important elections. The positions of President, Vice President, and Treasurer are the most important. I hope to enlighten students with some pertinent and unbiased facts about the candidates.

Joe Kirby is running for President of the SCC. He was a Senator for one semester last year and is a Senator now. Joe Kirby ran for Vice President last year. Kirby and his running mate used SCC paper and envelopes to mail their own campaign information to students. This was wrong. No one should use SCC paper except for SCC business. Kirby and company knowingly made false statements about their opponents and their opponents' policies. After the election was over, Kirby dropped out of the Senate. He made no attempt to run again until this semester. I believe that Joe Kirby is only going to hurt the students' interest. Joe Kirby is running to help Joe Kirby, not the students of Lock Haven State College. Do you want a person with this kind of record to be SCC President?

Kent Hatter is running for Vice President. Kent Hatter was a member of the Finance Committee last semester. The Finance Committee is in charge of all money spent by the SCC. Hatter was expelled from the Finance Committee because he never attended the Finance Committee meetings. Do you want that type of non-commitment for Vice-President?

Joe Carucci is running for Treasurer. He is a Political Science major and a first term Senator. A Treasurer has to control the money and know enough about facts and figures (math and accounting) to be able to control the money. Joe Carucci does not have those qualifications. How in the world can he run for the position of Treasurer? Will he be able to understand what is going on? Would he be able to tell if the figures are or are not right?

The people the President picks to run with him tell something about him. I believe that Kirby has picked irresponsible and unqualified people. Doesn't that say something about Joe Kirby as a person, and his abilities? I ask you to think about these questions. If I may use Mr. Kirby's slogan, Think about it-vote!

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I'd like to clear up some of the statements made by Mr. Bravard concerning myself and the other candidates running for SCC president. You state that none of us are qualified to run. I agree that none of us have the experience, but I feel no one has, except for the present president. In this one-of-a-kind office, there is no way to get the experience you feel is necessary to do a good job.

What you're implying is that you shouldn't vote for anybody running for an office where you can't get experience. That's like saying that you shouldn't vote in the US presidential elections. No one has the experience, but you vote with only an idea of what a president would be like.

You ask for qualifications? The only qualification needed is a desire and ability to work for the student body and work for their goals, whether it be increasing library hours

Hobbit's View

By K.J. REIMENSNYDER

"The Hobbit" by J.R.R. Tolkien, came to life last Friday evening in the manner of a puppet show. The production, presented by The Hutsah Puppet Theatre, was not only for children. Most people see puppet shows to be only directed to the young people. "The Hobbit" was enjoyable for all ages.

The story of "The Hobbit" is not a complex one and is easily understood. The main character hobbit, Bilbo, is confronted by the wizard, Gandalf, who forces him to partake in an adventure. Gandalf's followers also go on the trip. They encounter many strange situations along the way and come in contact with many unusual characters during the course of the story.

The Hutsah Theatre Company did a fine job of presenting "The Hobbit" for the LHSC audience. The scenery was very vivid and the characters were quite amusing and full of life. The story, itself, was long but the theatre company did an excellent job of quick scene changes to make the production as smooth as possible. The dialogue was presented through the use of a recording which was crisp and distinct.

Anyone who missed the puppet production missed out on a very enjoyable evening. If the overall production were to be rated on a scale of 1-10, it would have taken a solid 8.

or increasing the athletic budget. The job of the president is to help everyone. That means increasing the athletic budget or increasing library hours at no cost to any of the other activities funded by the SCC. I can't speak for the other candidates, but I get my qualification from being a student, a participating student in most activities on campus. I represent the middle of the road: an athlete who cares about their needs, and a student who cares about my education.

A college experience here has to involve all that goes on at this school. Its not just studying or just sports. There has to be a social life that is just as important to a person as is a good education. I feel that I represent a well-rounded individual, who knows and understands what an individual needs and wants from this school.

Black Students Adjust To LHSC Las Vegas Comes To Lock Haven

By CLARENCE WASHINGTON

What kind of adjustments are black students, who during their lives have been brought up in predominately black areas, faced with when they arrive at Lock Haven?

I talked to a number of black students about their adjustments to the physical surroundings and the social activities. Most agree that the adjustment to the surroundings has been pleasant. One student, Kevin Grimes, a junior from Philadelphia, PA specifically mentioned that he likes the calm, quiet setting of Lock Haven as opposed to the noisy, fast-paced life in the city. Another student, Debbie Campbell, a senior also from Philadelphia, PA expressed the enjoyment she receives from just being able to talk a walk downtown and look around at the flowers and trees. She said she can't do this in the city because often traveling means a ride with the public transportation system where "you don't see many flowers and trees."

So the adjustment to the physical surroundings of Lock Haven poses little or no problem to the black students. What about the social adjustment?

Brian Palmore, a junior from New York said the social adjustment is difficult if the black students don't realize that the white students they are dealing with may be coming in contact with blacks for the first time in their lives. Palmore said the blacks might regard some of the actions of these white students as offensive. An example of an "action" Palmore spoke of is a black student who walks into a party and notices "everyone in the house is checking him out." Palmore explained that blacks must first try to wipe out the images or stereotypes white student might have formed about blacks. He feels this, and just wanting to interact with other students, will help make the adjustment easier.

Kenny Summerford a senior, from Harrisburg, PA believes the black student must first understand himself and what he wants before he can make an adjustment. Summerford notes that black students who admit there is an adjustment to be made and takes steps toward making the adjustment, helps to change the images or stereotypes the white students might have.

So the black students are faced with this problem of social adjustment. Most of the blacks interviewed believe it is a major adjustment, especially for the blacks who have had limited dealings with whites. The black students agreed that the adjustment experience to this area and the people is one of the most valuable parts of their education.

To Lock Haven

An evening of games Las Vegas style will be held Friday, November 21 at the Clinton Country Club with the proceeds to be used for scholarships here at Lock Haven, according to George Marshall, vice president of administration.

Las Vegas night is a joint effort of college faculty and their wives, administrators, and staff members, to provide an annual fund raising event, and is open to everyone in the community.

Marshall said, "We hope to provide area residents an opportunity for an enjoyable evening in which they can win themselves some prizes and at the same time contribute to the education of some young person through the scholarships we will be able to offer with the proceeds we raise."

A three dollar admission fee will be charged, which includes a supply of play money to use in the various Vegas-style games.

The play money can be redeemed for a variety of prizes including tennis racquets, record albums, glassware, electric appliances, and much more.

Members of the committee responsible for the planning of Las Vegas night include Charles Kent, John Johnston, Nelson DeLaven, Arden Holland, John Zaharis, Joseph Nicholson, Edmund Carney, James Hamilton, Robert Coltrane, Thomasine Barzona, and Sunny Woodward.

Musical Movie "Band Wagon" Coming Here

By MARY BETH O'BOYLE

The movie "Band Wagon" will be presented Tuesday, November 11th at 8:00pm in Raub Hall and Wednesday, November 12th at 8:00pm in Ulmer Planetarium.

This movie, directed by Vincente Minelli, "...is one of the best musical films ever made," according to the New York Times. It is performed by an excellent cast starring, Fred Astaire, Cyd Charrese, Oscar Levant, and Nanette Fabray.

The cast tried to put a play together before and failed until finally they succeeded in a knockout musical.

The movie lasts 111 minutes and is free, in color and everyone is invited.

Biology Club Hosts Lecture

The Biology Club will host a lecture, "Diabetes - Genetic and Environmental Causes," given by Dr. Mary Pursell, professor of Cell Biology and Genetics. The talk will be held Tuesday, November 18 at 1:00 in Ulmer 219 and is open to all students, faculty and staff.

The main points of discussion will be:

- types of diabetes and their characteristics
- primary and secondary complications
- treatment
- risk factors to asymptomatic persons - those with diabetes who show no symptoms

The talk is of interest to everyone because of the unexpected attack of the disease. The lecture will last approximately one hour with question time and refreshments following.

There are two other lectures scheduled for fall term; Dr. Paul F. Klens will speak on environmental factors on paint and Dr. Blair Carbaugh will give a slide presentation of his visit to Mount St. Helens.

Soccer Team Completes Undefeated Season

By RICK BAKER
Staff Writer

The Lock Haven State College soccer finished the regular season with a perfect 16-0 record last Saturday, as they blasted Slippery Rock State 6-1. The win, which clinched the fourth straight Pennsylvania Conference Western Division Championship for the Bald Eagles, marked the first unbeaten season for a Lock Haven soccer team since 1951.

The Bald Eagles started slowly against Slippery Rock and managed only two goals in the first half, taking a 2-0 lead into the lockerroom. Trevor Adair was the first Eagle to score when he took a pass from Neil Johnson and drilled a hard shot at Slippery Rock goalie Rick Tongel. Tongel mishandled the shot and the ball slid into the net for a 1-0 Bald Eagle lead with 12:50 gone. At 32:45 Adair scored again, this time off a direct free kick just outside the penalty area. Adair put the ball into the upper left side of the goal and Lock Haven led 2-0.

Mike Corney headed in a Jan Felker corner kick with only 1:30 gone in the second half and the Bald Eagles opened up a 3-0 lead. Just seven minutes later at 8:30, Tim Gargan followed his own shot in for a goal and a 4-0 lead. Allen Dawson started the play when he gave Gargan a good lead pass. Gargan went one-on-one with the goalie. His first shot was deflected by Tongel but Gargan put the rebound home for the score. A direct free kick by Gargan at 14:15 moved the score to 5-0 Lock Haven. Robby Gould scored the final Bald Eagle goal as he nailed a shot into the upper left corner of the net off an assist by Gargan.

Eagle Coach Mike Parker said later that his team played a good game and that things look good for the upcoming playoffs. "We completely dominated them in the final 45 minutes. We did the simple things well which we hadn't managed in the first half. It was a steady team performance with nobody having an outstanding game," he said.

"Things look very promising for the playoffs. We're playing fairly well and it's going to take a good side to beat us."

The Bald Eagles remained the top ranked team in the nation in Division II last week as they earned 22 out of a possible 24 first place votes in the balloting.

Tomorrow Lock Haven travels to Cheyney State College for a game with the Eastern Division winners for the Pennsylvania Conference championship.

Then on Saturday at 12 noon, the Bald Eagles will host Eastern Illinois University (11-3) in a Division II Mideast-Midwest playoff game. The winner travels to St. Louis on Nov. 22 to play first seeded Missouri-St. Louis University for the Regional championship and a trip to the National tournament in Miami.

Runners Take Ninth At Tournament

By PHIL BURGE

The Lock Haven State Cross Country team ended its season on Saturday, taking ninth place at the Conference Championships at Slippery Rock. Taking first was Edinboro, with Shippensburg in second and Indiana in third. Gregg Sanders of Shippensburg took the individual championship, running 26:24. Lock Haven's Mark Amway finished third in 26:33. Amway will head for Wisconsin this weekend to compete in the National Championships.

Tim McNicholas was next for the Haven, taking 24th in 27:40; followed by Phil Burge in 49th; Frank Passaniti in 56th; Alan Buck in 62nd; Robert Walker in 70th; and Pete Digirolamo in 78th.

This race marked the end of five seniors' college running careers. The seniors are Al Buck, Phil Burge, Robert Walker, Pete Digirolamo and Don Henise.

Indiana Shuts Out LHSC's Red Fog

By ROSS NEVEL

Indiana--The Indiana University of Pennsylvania football team (5-4) scored a convincing 20-0 victory over Lock Haven State (4-5) here Saturday afternoon before a partisan crowd of 4,500 fans.

The loss gave the Bald Eagle gridgers a final 2-4 mark in the Pennsylvania Conference Western Division.

The Indians ground out 369 yards total offense while limiting the Eagles to a mere 17 yards rushing and 135 through the air.

One bright spot for Lock Haven was the pass catching of tight end Bill Sementelli who hauled in five passes for 59 yards including one amazing one-handed grab.

Sementelli probably set a new LHSC one game record when he caught passes from four different passers in the game.

The ex-star BEN graduate was at the other end of successful passes from quarterbacks Ben Pavalko, Doug Shilling, tailback Joe Speese and wide receiver Jeff Bailey.

Pavalko passed for 58 yards going 4-for-11 and Shilling hit on four of seven passes for 43 yards.

The top receivers were Sementelli, Speese with two catches for 34 yards and Bailey hauled in two for 32.

Lock Haven's defensive unit came up with two pass interceptions by Tony Gazione and Lance Lehner for a new LHSC season record of 27.

After a scoreless first quarter the home team marched 42 yards to paydirt in six plays at midway point of second period on a 10-yard end sweep by Ken Moore. Then Kurt Bowers hit on his 60th straight extra point from placement and the Indians led 7-0.

With 3:55 left in the first half Indiana scored again going 68 yards with Moore going in from six yards out and Bowers adding the 14th point.

The only scoring in the second half came on two field goals by Bowers with a 39 yarder in the third quarter and a 33 yarder in final period.

This Saturday the Eagles will host Mansfield State at Hubert Jack Stadium in a 1:30 p.m. Parents' Day season finale clash.

College Park, Md.

The 1980 women's field hockey season came to an end Sunday following the Bald Eagles' loss for third place in the EAIAW championship tournament to Delaware University by a 2-0 score.

The loss gave the Bald Eagles a final season record of 12-5-4. Lock Haven did win the Pennsylvania Conference championship for the second consecutive year and placed fourth at the EAIAW tourney.

Just two days earlier the Bald Eagles' chances for a championship were looking very good as they upset sixth ranked Temple University by
