

IFC's first attempt to define "Closed Party"

By Jay Zech
Co-Editor

There's going to be a lot of bouncing until a definition of closed parties is finally worked out between Associate Dean of Students, Tim Susick and the Intra-Fraternity Council.

The IFC has its ideas of what a closed party is, and they're going to have bounce their ideas off Susick until the two can finally agree.

Susick and the IFC are scheduled to meet next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Troy Shuey, ΣΠ, IFC Vice President predicted, "All hell will break out Thursday." He added, "I think he (Susick) is rushing it to fast. We only have three months, and we have no set policy."

There are many problems to overcome before the development of a policy that is acceptable to both groups.

"It's like any other problem that's mediated. Things take a long time when two groups desires need met," added Shuey.

What the IFC fears is that if they don't come up with a policy by January, Susick will use his own preconceived policy.

"He thinks as one person, while we have seven different organizations with different views," said Dave McCracken, AXA.

This Friday at 9:30 p.m. TKE will be hosting a non-alcoholic party, with proceeds from the one dollar admission going to benefit the St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

Abe Asrat said that the party could be called a preview to the type of party that may arise from the all closed party rule.

Glenn Ardis, AXA, President of the IFC, answered why closed parties would help fraternities dwindling membership.

"Now anyone can party. With closed parties, frats will become more of an exclusive thing. It would be like you'd have to join up to find out what going on," said Ardis.

The "host liability law", which means that a host who serves alcohol to his/her guests is responsible for the actions of those guests, is another concern of the IFC. The possibility of a large lawsuit is something that no fraternity at Lock Haven can handle.

McCracken mentioned the policy that is used at the AXA house is to insure that nobody drives drunk. The distance away from campus causes more students to drive to their house.

"If they can't drive, a brother will drive them home and if that doesn't work the person stays in our house," said McCracken

SCC tables money for Tutorial Center

By Kim Madgiak
News Editor

The Student Cooperative Council, Wednesday night, tabled a discussion on the tutorial center funding, in lieu of the administration's actions.

Mr. Don Pearman, Assistant Director for Upward Bound, spoke on behalf of the center. He mentioned that the administration budgets the service a specific amount of money each year, but last year the funds ran short. The center then received $3000. from the S.C.C. contingency fund in order to keep operating. However, no money was allocated to them for this year.

"I'm upset...I've had it! I can serve 175 students and quit, but I don't want to do that because I know there are more out there who need help," Pearman stated.

He then quoted statistics showing an increase in the center's use. In the fall of 1984, the service was used by 197 students, while last spring the number rose to 229. This year, 342 students have used it.

The S.C.C.'s general opinion was that it is the administration's responsibility to see that the service receives the proper funds.

Todd Baney, S.C.C. President, said, "We recognize the possible problem/crisis with the tutorial center in the future. We feel, however, that as it is the administration's responsibility we should find out what they are planning to do. Therefore, we hope to convey our point through correspondence with them."

A faculty member present at the meeting also commented on the topic, saying, "It seems like a strike may be what it takes to make the administration notice the problem. If the students would picket on Saturday, when the Admissions office speaks to prospective students, the significance of this problem may be realized."

The tutorial center's funds have to cover a variety of expenses, such as books, paychecks, etc...

A speaker for the Commonwealth Association of Students also spoke at the meeting. Reagan Straley, Acting Organizer and Legislative Liason for C.A.S., requested that, in the spring, the S.C.C. vote on bringing a C.A.S. branch to this campus. His request was approved.

"The C.A.S. is for the students like APSCUF is for the faculty," Straley stated. Some of the activities that the C.A.S. is involved in are sending literature to members on various events, lobbies in Harrisburg, and organizing campus officials.

Straley also commented on the S.C.C. here, adding, "This is one of the best. As far as people expressing themselves, there is an atmosphere here that is truly open, making it far more interesting than others I've seen."

Other issues touched upon were naming new students to various committees, and a $500 allocation to Stevenson Library.

The Student Personnel Services Committee had one opening which was filled by Todd Leiby, the Summer School Committee added Hazel Myers, and Laura Carathanasis was named to the Who's Who on Campus Selection Activity.

Mr. Tien Chu, an Associate Professor involved with Stevenson Library, asked that the $500 approved last year by the S.C.C. be given to them. It was established that Chu would donate the same sum, along with the University Foundation.

The next S.C.C. meeting will depend on whether anything needs voted upon before Thanksgiving vacation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Antonucci,

We are writing in regards to your Eagle Eye letter to the editor. The condition of the fields at LHU are a very sore subject within the athletic department and should be dealt with very carefully.

We would like to comment on your article which appeared in the November 12 issue of the Eagle Eye. We feel your article can be interpreted two ways. The first time we read the article we felt that you were making a mockery of its condition and our feelings were the same as yours. After reading the article the second time, it seemed your implications were that the field was to our advantage and the LHU soccer team benefits from its horrendous surface. If our second interpretation is correct, let me tell you how wrong you are and why a nice field is important to our soccer program.

One of the most important reasons for a nicer field is prevention of injuries. Although we have no proven statistics on the amount of injuries our field has caused, this year we did suffer a high amount. Some other very important reasons exist for a better field. First, a bumpy field favors a lesser skilled team. Lock Haven has a lot of very skilled players who have a difficult time passing and dribbling on our surface. The condition of our field makes dribbling and passing very difficult and a player with a lesser ability can be much more effective with bumpy conditions.

Also, the field acts as a recruiting tool. The caliber of players that are recruited to play soccer at LHU are very skilled and need a smooth surface to be most effective. A potential player comes to visit LHU and likes the campus, the professor, and the people, but is turned off when he sees the field. Is it fair that three time NCAA and nine time PSAC champions have to play on such a poor surface?

In closing, we feel one last additional comment is needed. Lock Haven soccer plays at a very high level and is capable of competing with the best teams in the country. As a fan or soccer supporter at LHU, this should enable you to see some home games against some of these teams. We are sorry to say this, but games like this will never be played at LHU because good teams know of our field conditions and refuse to come to the Haven.

Mr. Antonucci, we've interpreted your article as one of sarcasm and greatly thank you for your support. The reason for our article is to show the Eagle Eye readers why a better playing surface is so important to LHU soccer.

LHU soccer team

I think there is a need for change machines in the dormitories of Lock Haven University. They should be placed in the dorms because change is needed by the students for doing laundry and for use in vending machines. The desk receptionists of the dorms do not give out change; and even if they did, change could only be received when the desks are open. Change must be gotten either at the bookstore or at the AM/PM store, which is an inconvenience.

I think that LHU could afford to place one change machine in the lounge of each dorm. If enough students showed support for this cause, possibly change machines will appear in the dorms.

Trustees planning to bring many changes

By Sherri Lee Wray
Staff Reporter

A long-range planning process that will bring many changes and improvements to Lock Haven University was discussed at the Board of Trustees meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. William Sadler, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said LHU has many strong points such as a good location and excellent facilities, but he still needs to take an honest look at its weak points.

He added that, "With careful planning we can grow."

Sadler said many things need to be improved upon on campus. He added that the university needs more high-tech equipment, better relationships with the community, and a more adequate support systems, such as better tutorial and counseling services.

One improvement already put into effect this semester was the Child Care Co-op.

Dean Phelps, Acting Associate Vice-President for Administration, said it is a success so far.

"Students can come to school now, that couldn't before," said Phelps.

A director is still needed, but the position will hopefully be filled by the end of November.

Also discussed at the meeting was the $20 equipment fee. President Craig Dean Willis said the money collected from the students will be kept in a restricted account that only he will be authorized to release. He added that he will give periodic reports of spending to the Trustees. The account will also be open for inspection.

Dr. John Zaharis, Vice-President for Academic Affairs, said $145,379 has been collected for equipment and by the end of this year he hopes to replace some badly needed equipment on campus.

President Craig Dean Willis announced at the meeting that Homecoming will be held on a different date next year.

This year Homecoming was held on October 12, a date that conflicts with the Renova Flaming Foliage Festival and a Penn State football game. Next year, it will be held on September 27 to avoid the conflict.

High School students to visit

The Colleges of Education and Health, Physical Education and Recreation here will host a program, next Tuesday, for interested high school seniors from nearby school districts.

Dean of the Colleges, Dr. Ira G. Masemore, will speak to the students about the University and Dr. Greald Robinson, former Dean of Academic Affairs, will discuss its history.

LHU students from the two colleges will serve as escorts for the participants, who have been invited from 99 high schools in a 50-75 mile radius of the University.

The 12th grade students will have the opportunity to visit the college classrooms, eat in the cafeteria, tour the campus, and view audio-visual presentations on teacher education programs offered here. The programs included in these presentations are secondary, elementary, early childhood, special, and physical education, athletic training certification, and library science.

Visitors will also have the chance to meet with members of the college coaching staff.

The day's activities will conclude with "Why Select the Teacher Education Program at LHU"; a talk presented by the education students here, along with a speaker from the Admissions Office.

Head auditor to lecture soon

By Mary Jo Welker

Phi Beta Lambda will sponsor a lecture by Head Auditor of Commonwealth Bank, Harold Frauel, next Tuesday.

Several topics will be discussed at the lecture, such as banking fees, auditing procedures, and counterfeiting.

A previous lecture sponsored by Phi Beta Lambda was given by Mr. Kenneth Craig, President of Pressed Metals of Emporium. Craig spoke about the past, present, and future economy of his company, which makes gears in a multitude of shapes and sizes from pressed powders.

Phi Beta Lambda, a new, honorary fraternity, was the former Management Science Club. It provides opportunities to develop vocational skills in business, office occupations, and business teacher education.

More than 20 students overseas

More than 20 LHU students are currently participating abroad as US exchange students and teachers.

Through the University exchange program, students have the opportunity to travel to such countries as England, Poland, Germany, Australia, and Ecuador, gaining valuable experience and college credits in the process.

"The program gives students the opportunity to study and immerse themselves in a different culture," said Acting Director of International Education, Mr. John Johnston. "It gives participants a sense of self-confidence that they didn't have before going."

During any given year, approximately three percent of the student body at LHU study abroad. Prospective exchange students undergo intense interview periods with peers and faculty members to see how well they will respond to "culture shock" and different political ideologies, along with being in a situation where few people speak English.

Student teachers for the Fall term of 1985 include, Angelique Bacon, Linnette Bidelsbach, Lauren Clauson, Lori Deem, Lori Greiner, Micheal Heim, Douglas Kiss, Ilse Stempfle, Corrine Thonet, Deborah Yeager, and Jennifer Cornelius.

Police Beat

Suspicious person roamed campus

By Sue Berger
Law Enforcement Columnist

Law Enforcement has been dealing with cases involving a suspicious person, disorderly conduct, and vandalism this past week.

Campus police stopped a person who appeared suspicious because he was driving slowly and checking the campus. "The officers stopped him, and they found that he had a lengthy prior record. They then advised him to stay away from the campus," commented Mr. Richard Hepner, Director of Law Enforcement.

Many of the crimes that have taken place have happened in the dorms. Officers are investigating a charge of disorderly conduct in which two Lock Haven students and one visitor had alcohol in the dorms and were drinking under age.

A candy machine was also damaged in a residence hall. The individuals damaged the machine and stole the candy. This act of vandalism added up to $63.

Finally, once again someone has set off a false alarm in McEntire Hall. Officers are investigating the fire alarm case and also an incident in which an individual discharged a fire extinguisher.

Law Enforcement is also searching for the person who stole the "President's Parking" sign from outside Sullivan Hall.

Non-students engage in fist fight

Indiana Recently, Corey Hart, performing before a sold out crowd at Fisher Auditorium, impressed the crowd with his concert so much that they were dancing in the aisles.

Starting the night's entertainment off with "Silent Talking," one of the songs from his second LP, Boy in the Box, Hart's energy was immediately felt by the crowd, and they jumped to their feet seconds after he appeared on stage.

The artist's intensity reached its peak during his performance of his first American hit, "Sunglasses at Night."

For this segment, he changed from his trademark faded blue jean jacket and jeans with his tousled mousse hairstyle, into a tank top and a pair of sunglasses. The crowd was ready, and responded by donning their own dark sunglasses.

Hart, while expressing himself through his music, electrified the audience when he selected an Alpha Sigma Alpha sister to join him on stage, allowing the audience to share in his expression.

Millersville Non-students started a fight recently at a Black Student Union Homecoming dance held in the Gordinier Dining Hall on campus, leading investigators to check the possibility that it was just a cover up for several thefts.

University police are currently trying to make positive identifications of the instigators.

Director of MU police, Wayne Silcox, said, "We really can't identify the perpetrators. We are running a check with area law enforcement agencies and with area colleges and universities to see if there have been any similar incidents."

The fight started when about 10 to 15 non-students came into the dance and provoked members of the crowd. Soon, the provocations turned into shoving matches which the MU officers had trouble controlling.

When the fracas moved outside, several non-students grabbed tire irons and baseball bats. Some of them even had a change of clothes ready, making Silcox believe it was a diversion to prevent the officers from observing thefts which happened during the fight.

Some students said that their jewelry was ripped off, and others apparently dropped theirs in the midst of the scuffle.

Aaron Wyley, an MU alumnus, had to be treated at a local hospital for injuries resulting from the fight.

The students, among the 150 to 200 people involved in the incident, are not responsible for the disturbance.

"I don't see any fault falling on the Black Student Union. It could have happened at any dance on campus. There shouldn't be any disciplinary action against our students," said Silcox.

Edinboro A hazing incident resulted in a serious injury to a EU student recently.

Kenneth Kozekowski, a 20-year-old, fell from a 20-foot embankment in Erie, and suffered a crushed vertebrae in his back, according to Millcreek Township Police.

Apparently, four brothers from the Alpha Psi Omega fraternity were chasing Kozikowski after he had been "kidnapped" by them.

Kozikowski then jumped over a guard rail on Peach St. to escape the brothers, falling 20 feet into Walnut Creek.

Vice-President for Student Affairs, Ms. Glenda Lawhorn, said, "This has been a very unusual procedure for a service fraternity, and we are just beginning our investigation of the incident."

Ms. Lawhorn said though many people are calling it a prank, the college is treating the incident as a hazing. The university has very strict policies on hazing.

If evidence reveals it to be a hazing, there is the possibility that the organization will receive a warning, probationary status for one to five years, or complete exclusion from participation as a student organization.

Kozikowski, is now listed in stable condition at St. Vincent Hospital, recovering from the serious back injuries.

Panhellenic sponsored mixer

By Brenda Motts

Recently the Panhellenic Council sponsored a mixer for all the sororities on campus at the Jaycee Hall in town.

Panhellenic Council President Vicki Stambaugh said, "The turn out wasn't as well as we wanted. We measure success by whether or not everyone had a good time, not by the number of people who attended."

Stambaugh and the presidents of the sororities meet each month to share their ideas, feelings, and views on different concepts.

"We try to do activities that all the sororities can participate in. The sororities get along very well, the relationship and communication between everyone is great," said Stambaugh.

Panhellenic Secretary, Cathy Crowley said, "The mixer gave us a chance to have fun with all the Greek women instead of just our own sisters. We should do it again!"

Opening Night

Mr. Mom cleans up at Price

By Matt Connor

Co-Editor

Back in 1952, there was a classic episode of the I Love Lucy TV series where Lucy and Ethel take jobs at a candy factory while Ricky remains at home to make dinner. Mr. Mom is a movie that shows you can still squeeze a couple of good laughs out of that kind of domestic situation.

Starring Michael Keaton and Terry Garr, the film tells the story of Ted Kramer, a laid off engineer who is forced to become a house-husband while his wife Caroline (who works at an ad agency) brings home the bacon.

For Garr and Keaton, Mr. Mom was a kind of breakthrough film, as both stars had previously been most noted for their supporting roles in popular films (Garr in Young Frankenstein, Oh God!, and Tootsie, and Keaton in Night Shift).

Directed by Stan Dragoti, Mr. Mom turned out to be the surprise hit of the summer of 1983.

Among those most surprised by the success of the film were the critics, who called the film "an overblown sitcom" although the cast generally recieved good notices.

Of Keaton's performance, critics said, "Keaton has a pixillated charm." And of Garr, critics said she, "floats along with her usual cocktail waitress appeal."

Supporting players in the film include Ann Jillian and Martin Mull.

Sponsored by the SCC, Mr. Mom will be shown in Price Auditorium this Saturday and Sunday at 8PM.

Cadet of the Week

Cadets physically tried

By Lisa Wisniewski

ROTC Columnist

Another Tuesday yields another lab for the MS I's and MS II's (freshman and sophomores in Military Science).

Last Tuesday brought the most dreaded lab of all, the one everyone tries to avoid. The one day cadets wish for a sudden accident to excuse them, the PHYSICAL TRAINING TEST!

One never outgrows this feeling of doom about the physical fitness test. I thought that once I finally aced the test (scored 100%) the anxiety would be gone for good. I was wrong.

The test requires each cadet to demonstrate her/his proficiency in three events; the push-up, the sit-up and a 2 mile run.

For both the push-up and sit-up, the cadet has two minutes to execute as many as is possible. The two mile run is performed at each students own pace but the time is then recorded on a percentage basis.

Although there are different standards for women and men, the test is not easy for anyone. It is one test a cadet can not cram for.

Out of a possible 300 points, three cadets earned the maximum, and thus have earned this weeks honor of Cadet of the Week.

These cadets, Ed Brown, Joanne Wittig, and John Theriot aced their test.

For men, a "max" means 69 push-ups, 68 sit-ups, and finishing the run in 13 minutes and 5 seconds.

The standards for women are different, with 40 push-ups, 61 sit-ups and a two mile run in 17 minutes and 10 seconds yielding a "max".

These cadets are recognized as performing at a high level of physical fitness, especially Ed Brown, as this is the second time he maxed his PT test this semester.

Meet the World

Malaysia, country of mystery

By Tock Ping Chan

Unknown to many in the U.S., Malaysia is a country made up of lush tropical climates, many diverse peoples, a growing industrial system, and a unique cultural history.

Situated in South-East Asia between Thailand and Singapore, Malaysia is an equatorial country. Remaining warm throughout the year, the climate can often be very humid, with temperatures ranging between 79 and 83 degrees.

Penang, one of the most populous of Malaysia's thirteen states, is an island which has been called "The Jewel of the Orient." With beautiful beaches fringed with silvery sands, Penang is a major tourist attraction.

Because Malaysia's history is marked by colonization (Portugal, Holland, Britain, and Japan have all governed the country), several countries have had a great cultural impact on the nation of Malaysia.

Although the society has adopted the British style of education and etiquette, a wide variety of races dwell together in harmony in Malaysia. Festivals are celebrated by all people, no matter what the ethnic origin of a particular festival is.

The government of Malaysia has encouraged the development of industry, so the country does not become too dependant on agricultural exportation.

As a result of the governmental encouragement, factories in many areas of Malaysia are now booming, bringing additional wealth to the country.

The most remarkable production of the industries is Malaysia's first domestic automobile, the "Proton Saga."

Despite the industrial development, Malaysia is still a developing country. Many plans have yet to be carried out before Malaysia can become its most self-sufficient.

Three programs per semester

By Andrea Penney
Residence Hall Columnist

Imagine coming up with an idea for an educational program, going through each step to make it a success, then having two people show up to participate in it.

Student counselors encounter this often in the course of a semester.

Each counselor is required to hold three programs per semester. Two are to be educational and one must be social.

Assistant Dean of Students, Carol Rinaldi, said, "Student counselors are required to do the three programs because it gives students an opportunity to participate in activities that vary from their academic life, but also accentuate it."

When a counselor has an idea for a program he then must find a presenter, set a date, advertise, and oversee the program. The hardest step in this process is convincing students to come to the program.

These programs are for the benefit of students, and it pleases a counselor and the student life staff when students participate in these programs. They can enhance a student's education and open his eyes to many subjects students didn't know existed.

The alarm goes off and after you become aware of your surroundings, you hear the steady downpour of rain.

Many of you will jump under the covers once again and try to pick up the wonderful dream you were having about being on an exotic island in the hot sun, with...

Oh well, for those of you who can not afford to stay in bed (especially since the mid term reports have made their debut), is time to shower and dress.

If you dress to fit your mood, you will probably be in sweats and stay in the same mood all day long.

Why not change your pattern and dress up? It really can give your spirits a lift.

Style doesn't have to hide with the sun.

There is a lot of new raingear on the market to brighten up those drab days.

Put away the basic prep raincoat and get a weatherproof cape or trenchcoat in a bright color.

Umbrellas can be found in satin or frills, and the stores downtown have a great selection.

Instead of wearing the Sporto duck shoes, which don't allow for much grace, try a pair of Sporto's latest...the slipper back, patent leather boots that will be suitable with a dress. They can also be purchased at a suitable price, under $40.

If you are going to be stuck in this rain forest for a few more years, put some of these items on your Christmas list.

2nd Sadler teaches psychology

By Molly Grill
Staff Reporter

"Exciting" is the word psychology professor Sallie Sadler uses to describe the faculty and students here at Lock Haven University.

Sadler is one of the many new professors the university has become a "haven" to this fall.

Sadler teaches Introduction to Psychology, Human Sexuality, and Interpersonal Skills.

Sadler feels that she has entered the psychology department here at LHU at "a very exciting time. There is a real change in direction from a loose approach to really tightening up our courses, our objectives."

She added that she believes, "This department is going to give psychology the respect it deserves as a science."

In addition to teaching, she is a mother to five children and the wife of William Sadler, the Dean of Arts and Sciences.

Before she came to LHU, Sadler worked at a community health center in New Jersey as well as having her own private practice.

Sadler graduated from Rollins University in Theater Arts/Psychology with high honors, spent a year at Yale University for Dramatic Literature, and then discontinued her education to get married.

Several years later she returned to her schooling, graduating at the top of her class from Rutgers with a master's degree.

Sadler said the best thing about Lock Haven is that "there are no traffic jams on the way to work!"

Bentley fast for famine relief

By Cindi Gillmor
Staff Reporter

Help your country and other countries by giving up a meal on Thursday, November 21, the national fast day.

The fast day at LHU is being sponsored by the Newman Center in correlation with Oxfam America, an international famine relief organization.

Students have been giving up their ticket numbers this week, and on Thursday they will not eat.

Students on the five day meal plan will not be able to eat lunch in the cafeteria and students on the ten day meal plan will not be able to eat breakfast, lunch or dinner in the cafeteria.

The money the cafeteria saves from each meal not eaten, will go to local charities, such as Meals on Wheels, and also to Oxfam America.

Oxfam America will send the money to countries who need it the most, such as Africa and South America.

Jay Hallam, the Newman Center's public relations chairman, said, however, that if students have special countries where they would like their money to go they may say so.

According to Hallam, about 2,800 groups around the country are also having this kind of fast.

"A fast is a religious sacrifice where you don't eat and the suffering that you go through when you don't eat, is supposed to be offered up in prayer for those who can't afford to eat," said Hallam.

The idea is to get as many people involved as possible to help as many people as possible.

Hallam also said that on Wednesday, November 20, there will be a prayer vigil on the meaning of hunger at 7:30 p.m. in the Woolridge Hall Lounge.

This is to inform the students about why they are actually fasting.

A prayer service for the "Hungry Around the World" will take place on the day of the fast at 12:00 noon in Bentley Lobby.

This will be the time that students will pray for the people they are fasting for.

Hallam also added that on Thursday night at the Newman Center there will be a service for the breaking of the bread.

This is when the fast will end. A soup will be made by all those who participated in the fast.

All students who fasted are asked to bring something to contribute to the soup, such as carrots, potatoes or whatever they wish.

According to Hallam, 60 students have signed up so far in Bentley Lobby during their lunch hours.

He added that last year about 400 students fasted and hopefully this number will double.

Women's B-ball looking to repeat as PSAC champs

By Joy Redmon

Blisters, fatigue, high tops, and high hopes are a few signs that the Lady Eagles 1985-86 basketball season is just around the corner.

The Lady Eagles, defending Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference champions, are led by Fast Break Magazine's mid-atlantic coach of the year, Fred Riley. Riley is beginning his fifth year at the helm for the Lady Eagles. Carol Ritter returns for her second year as assistant coach and Amy Myers contributes as student assistant.

The staff is a very optimistic about the upcoming season as a strong and experienced nucleus returns and promising new comers are added to the roster.

The Lady Eagles will play 12 home games this season and will face such teams as Navy, Immaculata, and Pitt (Johnstown).

Senior captain and All-American Tina Martin has definite expectations for the 85-86 season. "This year is definately going to be a challenge to our team. I think we have the potential to repeat as conference champions if we work hard and stay healthy," says Martin. "Our strenths come from team togetherness and playoff experience. We also hasa 'never say die' attitude which is big asset."

Kanaskie to turn Men's program around

Rookie head coach Kurt Kanaskie will be looking to upgrade the Lock Haven University men's basketball program with "a lot of hustle and unselfish play."

The Bald Eagles, with an overall record of 18-84 and 4-36 in the Pennsylvania Conference Western Division over the past four seasons, are looking forward to a change in the winning direction.

The Haven has nine returning lettermen, so there is some team unity and experience.

Veteran forwards are 6-3 junior Kevin Charney, who led the team in scoring last year with 14.8 points a game; 6-5 junior Junior Price, who bucketed 11.8 ppg and led in rebounds with a 5.8 average; 6-7 sophomore Cory Hand, who netted 10.2 ppg and 5.4 rebounds in 17 games, and 6-6 sophomore Sean Scarry, who had 2.0 points per game.

Dan Williams, a sophomore, played 14 games a year ago and contributed 7.5 points per game and 8.4 rebounds a game. The back-ups at center are 6-6 junior Rich "Akeem" Haubert, a two-year letterman who scored 2.7 ppg, and 6-6 sophomore Bob Parsons, 1.1 points per game.

At the guard position, there are three impressive veterans. Senior Jeff Jackman, a 5-11 three-year letterman, averaged 9.0 points and 3.9 assists per game. Sophomore Eric Hearn, 5-10, had 9.6 points a game, and classmate June Campbell, 5-10, hit 5.7 points a game and was the assist leader with 4.0 each time out.

Newcomers to the team include Dave

This attitude is strongly projected through Martin as she goes into her final season at LHU with the opportunity to leave her mark. Not only does she have the potential to score her 2,000th point this season, but she may also break the PSAC all time record currently held by Shippensburg's Stacey Cunningham with 2057 points.

Helen Woltman, senior co-captain also has similar feelings as Martin. "Both our inside and outside games are strong, giving us an all-around team," Woltman explains, "With our excellent coaches and positive attitude, I'm hoping to be back at Hershey again this season."

Woltman, a 6'2" center also has the opportunity to break a record. Finishing last season with 999 points, Woltman may very well score her 1,000th point and pull down 1,000 rebounds, making her the first woman to do so in the history of Lock Haven.

Returning junior starters include point guard and playmaker Lori Young and the extremely versatile Donna Sergi. Contributing to the inside strength of the team is sophomore Shannan Kelly, also returning to the squad.

New additions to the team include Kelly Myers, a sophomore transfer from Chowan Junior College. Myers is a talented, well rounded player who will Wehr, a 6-0 guard, with three walk-ons who made the team in an open tryout--senior Jay Lauer, a 6-0 guard; junior Bob Wolf, a 6-2 guard, and freshman Tim Glass, a 5-8 guard.

The Bald Eagles will run. "We'll try to press the entire game," says Coach Kanaskie. "We have four presses that we'll use, then we'll drop back into a zone or man-to-man defense. Offensively, we'll try to fast break the entire game."

"I feel our team is in great shape. We have had some injuries in pre-season, but most of those guys are back now and healthy. The guys really worked hard in pre-season to get in shape."

"With the offense that we'll run, scoring will come from a variety of people. I would say now that most of the scoring will come from Williams, Charney and Price. Last year, we were third in the conference in scoring, but we were last in giving up points. I just hope we can play better defense this year and close that ratio between scoring and giving up points," Kanaskie said.

The Bald Eagles open their 27-game schedule Friday, Nov. 22 against Upsala in the Upsala Tipoff Tournament in East Orange, N.J.

The home opener is Monday, Nov. 25 at 8 p.m. against Lincoln.

Kanaskie said, "Our schedule is extremely tough, and Penn State, Philadelphia Textile, Upsala and Gannon are likely to be the toughest teams outside the conference, but every game will be a challenge."

prove to beneficial.

Five Freshman are included on this seasons roster. Cindy Richards, from Newark, Ohio contributes to the team with her quickness while Mel Frohnheiser, an excellent passer, will also seek time at the guard position. Joy Redmon, from Straburg Virginia, will help out the inside game while adding height to the team. Other freshman rounding out the squad are Kathy Bunce and Pam Swartzwelder.

The Lady Eagles open up their season with West Chester November 23 in the Lady Eagle Classic.

Riley: the brains behind the Lady Eagles

By Cindy Richards

Fifth year head coach, Fred Riley has turned the women's basketball program around since his arrival at Lock Haven University.

The Lady Eagles, which previously had losing records, have put out four consecutive winning records under the guidance of coach Riley.

Victories include a Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference championship and three tournament titles. Coach Riley's success in coaching is no surprise considering his impressive background during his high school and collegiate basketball career.

Coach Riley, a graduate of Clearfield Area High School, established numerous records during his three years there. These records include all the scoring and assist records from a single game to season and career goals. He was also a two-year All State guard for the Clearfield Bisons.

His success continued as he ascended even more honors during his collegiate career at Edinboro University. Through his stay at Edinboro he became a two time All-American. He was voted most outstanding athlete in Edinboro his senior year and was the third highest scorer in the school's history. Coach

Riley said his most memorable award was when he was recently inducted as a Charter Member to the Edinboro University Hall of Fame.

After graduating, Riley spent one year as a graduate assistant at Edinboro before he was offered the job as the boy's head basketball coach at Lock Haven High School. He spent five years coaching and teaching social studies there before being transferred to Bald Egle Nittany High School, where he is currently teaching. He helped out there with both boy's and girl's basketball programs before being asked to take over the coaching duties here at LHU.

Riley is a very dedicated coach and takes his coaching very seriously. Riley said, "I've always wanted to be part of athletics and since the sport was good to me. I feel I need to give back to young people the things I've learned. I'd like to do my best to pass on what I know."

Coach Riley has more than proved his valued as both an athlete and a coach. The spirited coach is still active in athletics. His main hobbies are running, golf, biking, and fast pitch softball. With coach Riley's intentions of remaining here at LHU the women's basketball program is sure to be led in the right direction.

Head women's basketball coach Fred Riley gives words of advice to junior Donna Sergi. Riley and the Lady Eagles are defending PSAC champs and are looking to repeat this year.

Three of six NCAA qualifiers return to pace wrestlers

By Dave Walters
Sports Editor

Experience, dedication, and brilliant coaching will be the strength of this year's Lock Haven University wrestling.

Head coach Neil Turner will be at the helm this year along with new assistant Tom Justice. Turner is in his seventh year at the head coaching spot. His program started in 1979, peaked last year with six wrestlers qualifying for the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Lock Haven finished second in the Eastern Wrestling League which is the best finish yet for LHU.

Turner says, "We're committed to being competitive individually at the Division I level. We feel Lock Haven wrestling has been built on the accomplishments of the individual."

Three seniors will be on this year's team led by NCAA qualifier Greg Wykoff at 177. Matt Avery at 126 returns to the line up after an injury shortened season last year. Jeff Smith who did not letter last season will be shooting for a varsity spot.

Two out of the three juniors on this year's team were national qualifiers a year ago. Dicky Howell at 118 who went 1-2 at NCAA's will be the lead off man in the lineup. Jody Karam at 167, also 1-2 at Nationals, could possibly red-shirt this season. Karam has a good chance to become Lock Haven's all-time win leader. Willy Metzger who was a clutch dual meet performer last year will return to his 134 pound position in the lineup.

The middle weights will be full of young talent. Jeff Karam (Jody's brother), Thane Turner, (coach Turner's son), Mark Mears from Mount Pleasant High School, and Jeff Bricker from Newton New Jersey will all be fighting for middleweight spots. Don Peters, from nearby Milesburg will be adding depth at the 126 or 134 pound spot.

"There is no question that we are a young team. We feel that it is a transitional year, but a transitional year to climb to greater heights than in previous years," said Turner.

Coach Turner will be having a tough time filling the shoes of former heavyweight Rick Petersen. Turner has called on Bald Eagle offensive lineman Todd Johnson (6'2", 260 pounds) to help at the heavyweight position.

This season the Bald Eagles will wrestle 10 dual meets, two tri-meets, and four tournaments. They will also wrestle in the Iowa State dual meet tournament, Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC), and the Eastern Wrestling League Championships before heading out to Iowa University for the NCAA Championships.

Last year Lock Haven finished second in the PSAC championships and will face EWL foes, Bloomsburg and Clarion. Other strong PSAC competitors will be Millersville, Indiana Univ. of Pa., and Edinboro.

Teams in the EWL will put Lock Haven to the test this season. Penn State, who will be shooting for a national championship is on the schedule this year as well as Cleveland State, West Virginia University, and the University of Pittsburgh.

Turner's squad will face some of the top teams in the nation at the Navy and Lehigh tournaments, Midwest championships, Iowa State Classic, and at Lock Haven's own Mat-Town USA tournament.

Clarion University will host the PSAC championships this year. Lock Haven has won the team title 15 times and has had 117 individual champions, more than double that of second place Clarion. Last year Lock Haven finished second behind Bloomsburg.

Swimmers open up season tomorrow against Mansfield

By Mike Yaroma
Staff Reporter

Head coach Jeff Lewis and his women's swimming and diving team are looking forward to the opening of their 1985-86 season tomorrow at Mansfield University.

Last year's conference qualifiers, seniors Jan Pechart, backstroke, and Jackie Thomas, record holder in the 100 and 200-meter butterfly, will take over the leadership duties as team captains.

Gymnastics team looks promising with six returning

By Michelle Trevena
Staff Reporter

With half of the gymnastics team returning, the Lady Eagles are looking forward to a good season under the direction of coach Mel Manno.

Returning this season is senior captain Shelly Ripper. Also returning are juniors Shawna Sternbergh, Elaine Lebbins, and Cindy Joseph. Sophomores

Lewis said, "Our goal is to go .500 and to have at least one individual finalist at the championships this season."

Coach Lewis feels that it will be a little tougher this year than last because the team lost a few swimmers, including diver Darlene Birney who placed sixth in the conference.

"It's going to be tough to reach our goal of .500, but through perseverance and training we will do our best," said Lewis.

back this season are Karen O'Mahn and Kim Gillespie.

Newcomers to the team include junior Gina Calhoun, sophomores Monica Fly, Janelle Ramieri, and Lisa Sadler, and freshmen Kim Brozom, Sue Farley, and Adrienne Serra.

Upon being asked the team's favorite or best events, Manno jokingly replied that it would be "easier to say what events they don't like." Seriously, Newcomers to the team include senior Beth Eayre, sophomore transfer Lynn Custer, and freshman diver Julie Keegan.

Lock Haven has 11 meets this season which include Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) powerhouse Indiana University of Pennsylvania, East Stroudsburg, and Shippensburg. December 4 York College will bring their swimmers to Zimmerli for LHU's home opener.

Manno indicated Ripper and Gillespie as being strong on vault, Sternbergh and Gillespie on the uneven parallel bars, Joseph and Sternbergh on the balance beam, and Sternbergh and O'Mahn in the floor exercise.

The rest of the team is the driving force behind these top placers. Six people compete in each event, and the top five earn points. "A lot of people will really figure in," Manno said.

Sports Line** Alternate Boxers Named

Lock Haven Boxers, Keno Saavedera (132) and Brett Stevens (165) have been named as alternates to eighth annual "Salute to Champions" boxing event at the Downtown Athletic Club in Manhattan November 25.

Eric Gravely will be boxing on the card at 172 pounds and will face Navy's Dick Hoffman in the main event.

* Red & White scrimmage

The annual Red and White basketball scrimmage is scheduled for this Monday with the tip-off at 4 p.m.

Head coach Kurt Kanaskie encourages all students to come out and get your first look at the 1985-86 Bald Eagles.

* Science and Volleyball

Last Thursday, three science clubs battled it out on the volleyball court. The clubs consisted of Biology, Physics, and Chemistry. The Chemistry Club provided two teams.

The Physics club won all four of its games and proved to be the superior of the sciences.

Enrollment highest in LHU history

Enrollment this semester has turned out to be the largest in LHU's history, with a total of 2,682 students in the three colleges.

Dr. Ira Masemore, Dean of the Colleges of Education and Health, Physical Education and Recreation, notes that this time may reflect a growing national concern about an anticipated shortage of teachers within the next ten years.

"Students feel more optimistic about the educational job market," Masemore explained.

Arts and Sciences, the largest of the three colleges, has an enrollment of 1,644 students, the College of Education has 562 students, while the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation has 456 students.

The Secondary Education program in the College of Education reflects the largest increase in students, with 29 more than last year.

"I'm extremely pleased with our enrollment figures for this semester," President Craig Dean Willis said. "Our record enrollment reflects the confidence students and their families place in our educational program. Our Admissions Office personnel, our faculty, and staff are to be commended for their roles in helping to make LHU a quality institution."
