Wrestling ticket sales fall short

By Laura Lyman
News Editor

The Student Cooperative Council (SCC) raised 1,700 dollars in the mud wrestling ticket sales, although it spent 4,250 dollars to bring the Chicago Knockers to Lock Haven State College (LHSC) and promote them, said Christopher Theodore, SCC committee chairman.

Of the 4,250 dollars spent by the SCC, 2,000 dollars was used to pay the Chicago Knockers and 1,000 dollars was spent on advertisements, said Theodore.

Of the remaining 1,250 dollars, 550 dollars was spent to move a special stage for the wrestlers to Lock Haven, 250 dollars for the sound system, 50 dollars to pay Craig "Rosy" Rosenwald and 70 dollars for insurance for him, said Theodore.

An additional 80 dollars was spent on t-shirts with the original intent to sell them, although they were given away free to the 20 volunteers who worked at the event. Twenty dollars was spent in laundry bills and 30 dollars was spent to purchase fruit for a party at the "Havoc", for the mud wrestlers after the event, said Theodore.

"I think it was an enjoyable time and the people who attended had an exciting evening," said Steve Greber, a student volunteer.

Most of the people went to see the Chicago Knockers, Rosy and Billy Hibbs and Kelly Gasper because of simple curiosity. "I'm pleased with the attendance and very happy with the set up, tear down and security during the event!" said Theodore.

University system bill signed Friday

The State System of Higher Education Bill (SSHE) was signed Friday by Governor Thornburgh at a luncheon ceremony in Harrisburg.

The bill which will take effect July 1, 1982 will remove the Pennsylvania State College and University System (PSCU) from the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Department of Education and establish a board of governors and a chancellor.

Commonwealth Association of Students (CAS) Legislative Director, Brenda Burd, said that she was pleased by the passage of the bill because SSHE over the past seven years had been one of CAS's primary legislative concerns.

"We have been working for passage of this bill for the past seven years and this represents a major victory for the students of the PSCU system," Burd said, "three students will hold seats on the board of governors increasing student input in the decision making process and for the first time in history allowing students to have a say in governing their education."

CAS President, Maggie Kulyk, said, "The centralization of the system will hopefully cut red tape, help cost effectiveness and accountability of the system."

LHSC Law Enforcement survey; crime rate has risen

By Laura Lyman
News Editor

Crimes on campus have more than tripled from the 1973-'74 school year to the 1981-'82 school year, according to annual surveys compiling all incidents by campus Law Enforcement. Incidents increased from 119-336.

Although the amount of crimes has increased since 1973, the severity of the crimes has gone down, said Richard Hepner, director of Law Enforcement.

In 1973, criminal mischief was the largest problem constituting 24% of the incidents and in 1974 criminal mischief and criminal trespass were tied as the most often occurring crimes. Each constituted 23% of the total inidents reported, according to the surveys.

In 1973 and 1975, possession of explosives were reported, and in 1974 illegal use of firearms was reported, according to the surveys.

Possible reasons for increase

A possible reason for the increase in crimes in residence halls may be the change from Hall Managers, who seemed to be more respected and thought of as parent figures, to the Hall Directors, said Hepner.

McEntire Hall with its reported crimes from 1973, '74 and '75 school year combined equals only slightly more than one half of the total of reported incidents for 1981, according to the surveys.

Dorms on the whole reported an increase of crime of about 26% from 1973 to 1981, according to the surveys.

Spring semester worst

Spring semester seemed to be the worst time for crimes in the past with March being the most active month in both 1973 and 1975 and February in 1974. The trend has changed towards Fall semester in 1981 with October having the most reported incidents, although in April 1982 an estimated 2,294 dollars' worth of property was stolen, well over the next closest figure of 787 dollars in November 1981.

The time of day when most crimes occur has changed from 1973 when most crimes were committed between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 1974 and '75 when most crimes occurred between 4 p.m. and 12 midnight. In the 1981 survey more crimes were committed between 8 p.m. and 12 midnight.

The day of the week when most crimes occurred changed from Wednesdays in 1973, '74, and '75 to Saturdays in 1981.

$8,400 in damage and loss

More than 8,400 dollars' worth of damage and losses was incurred in 1981 alone in the form of theft and criminal mischief the two most often occurring crimes in that year, according to the surveys.

According to Hepner, "The information (from the survey) tells where activities are taking place in order to increase patrols."

Nutrition computer visited Bentley Hall last week

By Laura Lyman
News Editor

The Custom Management Corporation brought a computer to Bentley Hall as a public service to analyze individual exercise and caloric intake programs Thursday.

Exercise as a way to lose weight was stressed.

The program was brought to Lock

Haven State College (LHSC) to make students more aware of nutrition and their physical fitness, said John Wilte, director of LHSC food service.

According to Ann Y. Marsteller, regional dietitian for Custom Management Corporation, college students seem to be in better physical shape if they attend a college with a good athletic program like LHSC.

Pam Garnett, another regional dietitian, added that college students seem to be in better shape because of the amount of walking they do.

After filling out a short test and receiving an individualized print out, each participant's name was put into a box for a raffling off of T-shirts, said Marsteller.

The food service also has plans for special meals for the rest of the semester, said Wilte.

Included in these are the Country Fair dinner, Thursday, November 18, featuring Tahoka Freeway, a blue grass band; a southern style breakfast, December second; Pizza Hut lunch, December eighth, and steak and ravioli night, December 16.

Commentary / Announcements

City Council; clamping down

Through the licensing of all rental units in Lock Haven, the Lock Haven City Council is in the process of tightening the clamp on off-campus students.

Licensing will eventually hurt the off-campus students' privacy and pocketbook. If we care about either of these, we must prepare strong representation for off-campus students and fight for our rights at the Dec. 6 council meeting.

If the licensing ordinance that has been proposed is passed, a code enforcement officer will be hired to inspect apartments in Lock Haven. There is no provision in the ordinance that requires the notification of the tenant before an inspection. Unless provisions are made in the ordinance guaranteeing privacy, the city's code enforcement officer will be able to drop by anytime to inspect off-campus apartments and houses (this officer will also have the power to make arrests if anything illegal is going on in the apartment). It is up to our off-campus students to see that some provisions for privacy are put into the ordinance.

We should ask that appointments be made before any inspections take place. This request, supported by a large group of off-campus students, should be made at the Dec. 6 city council meeting.

The cost of the license and any updating of an apartment's condition that may be required as a result of these inspections will obviously be passed on to the tenant.

It is hard enough to make it through college at this point without any added costs or pressures. We must stand up for our rights. Hopefully the SCC will cooperate by forming a committee at their meeting tomorrow night to organize representation for the off-campus students. Remember, the meeting at which we should be heard is December 6. Let's get involved, for our own sake.

Confessions of a klutz

By Barbara T. Thwaites
Guest Columnist

A year ago last summer, in the Ten Mile Arts Festival Race, I finished 749th out of 750. How do you feel finishing so close to the end? Great! You see, I always was a klutz. I not only had two left hands, I had two left feet. I was not just scared of a ball coming towards me--I was petrified, and always ducked. Most of the girls I knew wished they were boys; I was aghast at the prospect. If being terrible in games was so bad for a girl, what would it be for a boy? I hated recess in grade school because all the other girls played hop scotch or jacks or jumped rope--none of which I could do. I was always the last girl to be chosen for a team--great for the ego. Snippy girls would claim that I lost the game on purpose; more tolerant girls said I couldn't help it. And as for the phys. ed. teachers--I used to wonder how they could go home at night and face their families and friends after torturing fat little girls like me all day.

Sports in high school were no better. I vowed that when at last I could escape from the enforced misery of phys. ed. classes, I would never do anything more athletic than turning the pages of a historical novel or whipping up a batch of fudge. And for years I never did.

Then I met my husband, Tom. And he showed me, to my amazement, some sports that freed me from the horror of competitiveness; individual sports, such as hiking, canoeing, and cross country skiing, could actually be fun. Later I discovered jogging. On some days I plod along, but on good days I feel a sensation of floating through space. I feel, not young, not with all those trim college girls zooming past me, but ageless.

Even races are fun if you enter them with no thought of winning, or even placing--but with the aim of being around others who like to jog, too. In a race, there's lots of camaraderie in the rear.

So if there are any other sedentary klutzes here, forget all your phys. ed. teachers have ever told you about the necessity for team work and excellence in sports. Find an individual sport that you can do in your own clumsy, klutzy way, and you may be amazed how delightful it can be. Don't be afraid to be awful!

From The President's Desk

By Karen Culligan
SCC President

Now that the elections are over, the new Student Cooperative Council Executive Committee is preparing to take office on December 15. The present officers have been preparing for this transition period and will be working hand-in-hand with the new officers to facilitate the acceptance of their responsibilities. The SCC has made a lot of positive advances during the last year and hope to see this forward progress continue.

The new officers have instilled the students on campus with a lot of high expectations. Some expectations are feasible, some are not so feasible. The realities of an organization such as the SCC are soon learned after a short time in office.

However, accomplishments do come about with time and effort and a great deal of cooperation. It takes people working together to achieve a common goal. We've been promised an "honest and responsible" administration. It will be up to us as students to insure that this is what we get. Your continued interest and support will bring this about.

The SCC has been working hard for the students. Input, feedback, criticisms and suggestions have made the SCC a stronger, more efficient organization. Only you can keep it growing stronger.

The Special Education department is to be commended on their Handicapped Awareness Day held on Wednesday. It was an enjoyable and enlightening experience for all those who participated. I'd like to thank Heidi Raffaele and Jane Edel for being my guides during the wheelchair tour of campus.

Do something different tonight--Take a road trip to Bucknell and watch the Lady Eagles swim team take on Bucknell. The meet starts at 7:00 p.m. Come out and support the swimmers.

Lady Eagles to meet BSC for hockey title

By Chris Brooks and Kevin Campbell
Sports Editors

Senior Kelly Canavan's breakaway goal at 3:23 of the first half proved to be all the Lock Haven field hockey team needed as the Lady Eagles defeated Kutztown State 3-0 in the semi-finals of the NCAA Division II championship tournament Saturday.

The win, coupled with Bloomsburg's 1-0 "stroke-off" victory over Cal State-Chico, means LHSC will play the Huskies this Saturday for the championship. The meeting will be the third between the two rivals this season. The Lady Eagles have won the two previous games, the second being a dramatic 1-0 overtime "stroke-off" win in the final game of the Pennsylvania Conference tournament.

During Saturday's semifinal game, the Lady Eagles controlled much of the early play and went on top to stay when Canavan blew by one Kutztown defender and beat the Kutztown. Leading scorer Sherry Derr added her 17th goal for insurance at 10:32 of the second half and senior Jill Ridley iced the game on a break-away at 30:32.

The play by both Kutztown and Lock Haven during the second half was aggressive, but it was clear that the Lady Eagles were always a step ahead.

"Whenever an opponent is physical, your team tends to hold back. Players like Lori Ferguson and Kelly Canavan, though, will just get tougher," head coach Sharon Taylor said.

Assistant coach Rose Ann Neff said of the win, "The team played very well. Kelly Canavan and Jill Ridley had two of the nicest goals you'll ever see in field hockey."

Saturday's championship game will take place on Bloomsburg's Robert B. Redman Stadium because of the poor LHSC field conditions. The Lady Eagles, last years Division II national champion, are currently ranked No. 1 in the nation (Division II), while last years Division III champion Huskies are ranked No. 2. The starting time of the game has not yet been announced.

Lock Haven's Ann Grim concentrates during the second half of the Lady Eagles' 3-0 win over Kutztown. The win gained Lock Haven a berth in the Division II field hockey championship game against Bloomsburg this Saturday.

Gridders down Mansfield to even record at 5-5

By Kevin Campbell
Sports Editor

The Bald Eagle football team ended their season in victory last weekend by defeating Mansfield State, evening the squad's record at 5-5 this season. The victory kept the Haven's non-losing season streak alive at four in a row.

Place-kicker Dan Young drilled a 41 yard field goal with 8:17 left in the quarter, putting the home team on top early. The kick was the longest of Young's career. The kicker added a 31 yard boot later in the quarter to increase the lead to 6-0.

The Mounties could not get on the board until mid-way through the third quarter. The Mansfield offense generated an 88 yard touchdown drive, highlighted by a 38 yard pass from quarterback Mike Spiess to wideout Scott D'Amoto. Fullback Troy Fisher scored the touchdown on a 15 yard gallop to put Mansfield on top.

Trailing 7-6 with 8:59 remaining in the game, the Bald Eagles took possession on their own 33 yard line and marched 67 yards on eight plays to recapture the lead. Junior tailback Mike Kresovich ran for sixteen yards and quarterback Dan Greer hit sophomore running back Ty Hall for 33 yards before fullback Willy Mathias plunged in for the score from four yards out. The snap on the extra point attempt eluded the hands of holder Doug Pickell, and the attempt failed. The score proved to be all the Bald Eagles would need to clinch the victory.

The Mounties had an opportunity to score late in the game, but safety Frank Groome picked off a Mansfield pass to ice the Eagle triumph.

Head coach Jack Fisher expressed his delight with the victory, pointing to the game as a momentum builder for next season.

"Our objective was to win the game for the seniors in our program because they have been with us four years," the coach said. "Hopefully this will give us some momentum for next season. It gives us something to build on during the off-season."

GRID NOTES ... Seniors playing in their final Lock Haven State football game were: Terry Crecraft, Carl Dean, Bruno DiMartile, Barron Grantham, Randy Graham, Ron Helton, Mike Kelley, Mickey Krause, Bobby Lynn, Gerry Novak, Brian Sekarak, and Dan Young.

For the third consecutive year Lock Haven State has been chosen to have boxers compete in the "Salute to Champions" Intercollegiate Boxing Spectacular at the Downtown Athletic Club in the Wall Street District of lower Manhattan, on November 22.

Returning for the second consecutive year will be senior captain Bill Lingle, the 1982 National Collegiate runner-up at 147 pounds. Making his first trip to the affair will be junior 156 pounder, Martin Santiago, a 1982 National qualifier. Lingle is scheduled to box tough Grant Davis of the U.S. Military Academy (Army), and Santiago will take on Conrad George of West Chester State.

The "Salute to Champions" is the kick-off of the National Collegiate Boxing Association (NCBA) season each year. All-American Jim McNally was LHSC's first participant in 1980, scoring a 3rd round knock-out over Chief Swanier of the U.S. Air Force Academy. Last year, All-Americans Lingle and Rob Revercomb participated. Lingle lost a split decision to Davis from Army and Revercomb upset defending NCBA champ, Bill Padden of West Chester. Padden came back to decision Revercomb for the national title on national T.V. last April at West Chester.

Dr. Ken Cox feels both Lingle and Santiago are in "good" pre-season form and should do well in New York. "We'll have another fine team," stated Cox, "and are hard at work preparing ourselves for the 4th annual LHSC Invitational on Dec. 8th in the Thomas Field House." The 16 man team who placed a surprising 4th in the nation last season will be led by Veteran All-Americans Tim Frymyer, 112; and, Dave Washington, 119; along with letterman Ken Cooper, 125; Chris Fogg, 165; Lingle, and Santiago.

LH journalism student working in Harrisburg

Pamela J. Yoblonski of Wilkes-Barre, a student at Lock Haven State College, is one of five students chosen to participate in the first Legislative Fellowship Program, sponsored by the Pennsylvania House of Representatives under the direction of the Bipartisan Management Committee.

The highly competitive program is a 14-week intensive study of the workings of the House, open to students of all majors attending Pennsylvania state colleges or state-related universities. This program is designed to give students firsthand knowledge about the operations of state government.

Fellows are placed with a committee or department and are required to carry out various assignments, including analyzing legislation, researching and writing reports. In addition, fellows must attend legislative sessions, committee meetings and discussion sessions, whose topics range from Pennsylvania history to how to run for office. Students also have weekly assignments and major projects to work on throughout the semester.

"I'm grateful that the Bipartisan Management Committee was willing to take a chance on me as one of the first five fellows. It's exciting being here to observe and learn and to see government and politics operating first-hand. It's the best way to learn," Yoblonski said.

Yoblonski, a senior journalism major at Lock Haven State, is working in a House Public Information Office. Currently she is writing press releases and speeches and directing television interview shows for representatives.

"This experience is invaluable to me, because it is giving me a background and understanding which I couldn't have received any other way. It will have a great influence on my future work in journalism," Yoblonski said.

McEntire Hall is currently involved in a charity fund-raiser throughout the dormitory until the end of the semester. All proceeds will be given to a local charity.

The fund-raiser deals with "tuck-ins." For fifty cents, a person can get a friend or roommate tucked in their bed between the hours of 8:00 p.m. and 12:00 a.m. All tuck-ins have to be arranged three days in advance and are done by members of the opposite sex. The person being tucked in is read a bedtime story, given a lollipop, and possibly a good night kiss.

The coordinator for the fund-raiser is Jeff Norton. When asked about the program Norton replied, "Response has not been too good, but as more people hear the idea the number of tuck-ins will increase."

The psychology department professors are the advisors of the club, and along with club president Corinne Snell they urge all interested students to attend the meeting.

Phi Kappa Phi's initiation banquet held last week

Last Tuesday the Phi Kappa Phi (PKP) Fall Initiation Banquet was held at Sal Assante's. Thirteen new members were initiated.

Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society is a prestigious organization dedicated to the recognition of outstanding academic achievement in all academic fields. Members are voted into the Society on the basis of academic performance and outstanding character. Juniors elected must be in the top five percent of their class, and Seniors elected must be in the top ten percent. In all cases, the students must have at the time of their election at least a 3.3 cumulative grade point average.

President Craig Willis was the guest speaker for the evening. Following his address, Miss Dora Vandine, Secretary-Treasurer of PKP, presented the new members, and Mrs. Dorothy Vaughn, President of PKP, addressed them and fully initiated them into the Society. According to Linda Overman, Vice-President of PKP, these new members are as follows: Isabel Bryson, Lynne Huber, Lisa Kreisler, Sheree Lauver, Ronald Lundy, David Nganele, John Rife, Joy Rydzewski, Laurie Saiers, Michael Shirey, Penelope Snyder, John Stemler, and Claire Venezia.
