Dormitory fee to rise $60 next semester

By Kim Wilkinson

The Council of Trustees voted Wednesday to increase the room cost by $60.00 next semester, according to Matt Huber, student councilmember.

Reasons presented by George Marshall, vice-president for administration were escalating utilities and telephone costs.

John T. Gallagher, Lock Haven University business manager, "One reason for the increase is telephone costs. Right now we subsidize all telephone costs. Bell is now charging us $37.25 to come on campus and $10.50 for every 15 minutes to fix the phone."

He added that, "The state system of Higher Education (SSHE) says we (Universities) must run the dorms and break even on them."

Huber said, "I understand the economic demands placed on the administration but the trustees were not presented with any figures or areas where the money is needed."

"I'm not opposed to an increase, but only when we can see where the increase is needed and how much. It's not fair to the students that the trustees would vote on such a matter, being ignorant of the facts,"

Huber said.

Two new bachelor of science degrees in health, physical education and recreation (HPER) were also approved by the council.

One is in recreation and the other is in the health sciences.

According to Dr. John Zaharis, vice-president for academic affairs, "The only degree that the university had HPER has prepared students to go to teach."

The job market is such that teaching positions are not always available and students want to continue in the HPER department, but do not want to teach.

"The faculty are fairly certain that the two new majors will still attract the same amount of students," Zaharis said. "The university is recognizing that we should keep up with the demands of the recent trends in society," Zaharis added.

Huber said he had two complaints about these programs. He said he believes the university is out of step with the other universities in SSHE because the Board of Governors has been stressing the liberal arts education.

Huber said, "I can't understand how the trustees could vote on adding majors that will cost the university more when the money just isn't there."

SCC awards organization $2700 to bring in speaker

By Kim Wilkinson

The Society of Collegiate Journalists (SCJ) was awarded $2700 to bring satirist, P.J. O'Rourke to speak on campus, at the Wednesday meeting of the Senate.

The president of the SCJ said the group was interested in bringing a professional journalist on campus.

Laconda Young and Jodi Schultz Robinson, co-chairpersons of the Student Cooperative Council (SCC) cultural affairs committee said they were in favor of the speaker because it would be open to all students and O'Rourke would not be speaking about writing techniques.

O'Rourke was editor of National Lampoon for five years. In the next two months, he will have articles appearing in such magazines as Newsweek, Rolling Stone, Playboy, and House and Garden. He also wrote the book called Modern Manners (edited for very rude people.)

The SCC voted down President Gary Interdonato's proposal to give the science department $3000. The money was to be used to purchase 10 microscopes for the department.

Interdonato said, "I feel it's a good expenditure of the student's money and it's a tangible asset. If we can afford to spend $120,000 on athletics, we can afford to put a little into academics."

Kevin Choate, senator said, "I don't see it as something feasible. We're going to get involved in something we just can't afford."

Robinson added, "If we could afford it, it would be a great gesture."

One senator said "We pay our tuition for our academics and our activity fee is for our activities."

In his president's report, Interdonato said he would be drawing up a proposal for a referendum concerning athletic funding. The proposal will include stipulations concerning open forums on athletic funding.

"Basically there is a lot of student concern about the amount of their activity fee that goes toward athletics," Interdonato said.

He added that the referendum would help determine what to do the next fiscal year. He said the activity fee would either have to be raised, or if kept the same, all other budgets would be frozen across the board, with the exception of athletics. This is to meet the cost of athletic insurance, according to Interdonato.

Kevin Keenan, vice-president presented a vehicle cost report. He said the SCC should begin to look into a long range plan to purchase new vehicles.

The present vehicles (a station wagon, two vans and a mini bus) were purchased in 1980. The mileage on the minibus is 79,784, while the vans have mileage of 71,936 and 63,133.

A new minibus, according to Keenan is approximately $28,000. Vans would run about $18,000 to $20,000.

He said that while it would seem less expensive to purchase two vans, the minibus holds more people and is used more often.

No decision was made, concerning vehicles.

Todd Baney, Parsons Union Building (PUB) administrator said that four pool tables in the PUB would be refinished. The total cost was $450 for all four tables.

Baney also said that the executive committee would like to create a parking committee to look into possible solutions to parking problem on campus.

The next SCC meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 28 at 6 p.m. in the lower level of the PUB.

PUB administrator Todd Baney, SCC President Gary Interdonato, and vice-president Kevin Keenan listen to a senator at Wednesday night's SCC meeting. The senate voted to give the Society of Collegiate Journalists $2700 for a speaker but turned down Interdonato's proposal to give the science department $3000 for microscopes.

Rumors must stop

One of college students' most favorite past-time must be creating rumors. Each year, someone wants to out do the year before. Sometimes it's just like the childhood game, "Whisper down the Lane" or "The Gossip Game."

Remember last year when students were afraid that a mass murder would happen on the fourth floor of a dorm, located on the top of a hill, near a grave yard etc? How many students went away that weekend "just in case"?

And then there was the "generous offer" made by Johnny Carson. He said his Christmas gift to the world was the use of his telephone charge card number. Quite a number of LHU students used the rumored, non-existent number. Bell Telephone was more than a little upset, not to mention the students who got caught and had to pay for their calls.

Now it seems that some creative mind has conjured up an assaulter who carries a lead pipe or a hammar and lurks behind Woolridge Hall, smashing girls' faces.

I'm not making light of the several individuals who have been assaulted. But it seems that the stories get bigger and worse, yet none of these stories are ever reported. Do you honestly believe that if a girl had her face smashed by a hammar, that she would not report this? These rumors have gotten to the point that many students are afraid to leave their room after dark.

Proper precautions should always be taken, as advised by law enforcement in Tuesday's edition of the Eagle Eye. Try to walk in lighted areas and with a friend. Remember to lock your door at night.

Let's not become afraid of our own shadow. When you hear a questionable story, check it out with law enforcement. Stop these rumors before they get totally out of hand.

Water pistols are dry

This reply is in reference to Mr. Gittleman's letter to the editor which appears in today's issue:

1. The Espionage article was not printed in the Friday November 2nd edition of the Eagle Eye because it didn't contain matter of more importance than anything else in the issue. The Espionage article was one of many articles received which were not printed due to lack of space.
2. No inquiry was made to us as to why the article was not printed.
3. The Eagle Eye was never informed that the game was pushed back to Tuesday November 6th, so we didn't print the Espionage article then because it would have been old news.
4. We never said the Espionage article was "grammatically atrocious," despite what you may have heard from an informer.
5. The Espionage article was not thrown away.
6. We never had, nor will we ever have, a well-known and self-acclaimed anti-Greek disposition.
7. The Espionage article didn't carry weight over any other articles in the Friday November 2nd edition of the Eagle Eye, nor should articles of this type ever carry more weight, if its prime purpose is to advertise any organization's water pistol game or any other type of fundraiser. As editors, it is part of our job to weed out articles such as water pistol games, which do not constitute a worthy news story. The information contained in your article was announcement material at best.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

If this letter had been written a week ago, it would have been a much different, more personal matter. Now I see it as more of a sacred mission. I'll elaborate, but first a story:

On Wednesday, October 30, an article one-and-one-half pages (typed, double spaced) in length was delivered to your office by the fundraising chairman of a fraternity. The article was about a project called Espionage. The campaign around the game Espionage was one that would be aided greatly by the article's publication, as it explained the rules and limitations of the game, as well as where it originated.

Friday, November 2nd's edition of the Eagle Eye did not contain the article. Some inquiries as to why the article was absent were made. Registration for the game was pushed back to begin Tuesday, November 6th, to coincide with the publication of the article. Still, it was never printed.

This time, when an answer was sought, the fraternity was informed by one of your staff members that the article in question was "grammatically atrocious."

We were also informed (and have been told many times in the past) that you were "sick and tired of printing Phi Mu Delta s-t."

The question is, which of the above reasons is true? If it is the former, then you had an obligation to edit the piece, if not throw it away altogether (which you opted to do). If the latter is true, then you have made public your negligent handling of certain news items on campus. I would go so far as to say that your well-known and self-acclaimed anti-Greek disposition would be contributing to the content of your newspaper.

I believe the question of which is the real reason should be answered by one more qualified than yourself, and so a copy of the original article is being not only attached hereto, but forwarded (along with copies of this letter) to various faculty and staff members, as well as SCC President Gary Interdonato. You'll find a list of the intended recipients at the close of this letter.

But to finish the story, Espionage died. And well it might have died with a five column-inch mention by the Eagle Eye, but we'll never know for sure. The enthusiasm for the game by those who were aware of it was refreshing; however, not enough people knew what it was to look into it further.

I am disheartened, disgusted, and more than a little tired of paper tigers. I am the author of that original article, and I know damn well that it was for from "atrocious" is grammar or content.

I feel you have been irresponsible as a newspaper editor. This instance is more the straw that broke the camel's back than anything else. If you cannot recognize the importance of Greek activities to this campus (and, to your credit, you do report on some of them) then you are shielding your eyes would pretend that Greek life is for everyone, but personal disdain on your part has us fighting for time equivalent to the time we put in for this college.

I thought your handling of the letters concerning the past TKE incident was responsible: you published all sides. Yet this was a dark area of Greek relations. What about all the good things? The programs, the service project?

Whether you choose to accept it or not, there are fraternity and sorority members that hold leadership positions all across this campus and into the community-at-large. One of these leaders is President of the Student Co-operative Council, which issues your check for being Editor. Ask Mr. Interdonato if he believes being Greek is a privilege and an honor.

You work for us. All of us. You have a responsibility not to your own predilections, but to the dissemination of news relevant and important to the 2600+ students enrolled here.

I believe you are hideously shirking these responsibilities, and I'm interested to knowing why.

Very truly yours,
David B. Gittleman
Service Chairman, Phi Mu Delta

SAT scores not required by some schools

By Kim Wilkinson

A recent trend shows that a few private colleges and universities are abandoning Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores as an admissions requirement.

Bates College, in Maine is one such school. William C. Hiss, dean of students at Bates was quoted in The Chronicle of Higher Education (Oct. 17, 1984) as saying, "We're trying to send out a clear message that the SAT is not the be-all and end-all of college admissions."

How does this affect Lock Haven University (LHU)? Will we ever see the day when senior high school students no longer have to spend weeks worrying about this particular test?

According to Dr. John Zaharis, vice-president of academic affairs, "The emphasis on SAT scores is not very great because grades and class standing are a good indicator of college success."

Dr. Zaharis said that grades, class standing, SAT scores, extra curricular activities, and counselor recommendation are all used as entrance devices.

"We do have a general policy of a combined score of 800 to get in LHU, with a few exceptions," Dr. Zaharis said.

Although, the State System of Higher Education (SSHE) has not involved itself in admissions criteria of the state universities Conrad Jones, director of equal educational opportunity said, "SAT scores seem to correlate most highly with income. The problem with SATs is that they are biased by how they are normalized."

Jones said the test is a good indicator of an upper-middle class student from a New York suburb.

Minority students are not the only ones who have difficulty with this test.

Robert Lynch, director of development and minority affairs said that many high schools don't offer the same educational and extra curricular activities to prepare a student for college. Students who attend these schools also have difficulty with the SATs.

Lynch added that if the SAT/scores are really low, a student may not even have a chance in the Equal Opportunity Program (EOP).

Dr. Zaharis said, "We don't seem to have a problem with minority enrollment because of SAT scores."

Jones said that forty percent of the higher education institutions in the state do not use SATs or ACTs as an entrance requirement. He suggested that some schools weigh heavily on class rank/instead.

According to Lynch, "SATs are an indicator of what a student might do while at college, but I don't believe it should be the only thing used. You should look at the 'whole student'."

Co-op grad program on track

The co-operative graduate program with our University and Mansfield University in Special Education has begun successfully.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Peter Matthews and Dr. David Anderson, LHU professors who are working directly with the program. Dr. Thomas Stich, Mansfield University professor and a 1962 graduate of Lock Haven University, is the liaison person with Mansfield University.

Seventeen students are enrolled in the initial course, SE 501 Exceptional Children, which is being taught by Matthews at LHU. More than half the students are teachers who are employed by Intermediate Unit 17, Keystone Central School District, or Williamsport Area School District.

Students enrolled in the graduate program receive credit and, eventually, a graduate degree from Mansfield University. With the courses being taught at Lock Haven, however, students save travel time and expense.

"We determined several years ago that there was a real need for graduate education programs for area teachers," Dr. Ira Masemore, Dean of the College of Education, explained. "Teachers and other adults who are working full-time wanted the opportunity to continue their education without traveling a distance. Our program in special education makes it feasible for some of these people to earn a graduate degree."

Anderson and Matthews serve as graduate advisors for the students and are adjunct graduate faculty members of Mansfield University. Anderson will teach Special Education 560, Problems in Special Education, next semester on Tuesday evenings.

Additional information on the graduate program is available from the University College of Education, 893-2204.

European orchestra here on Monday for program

The Lock Haven Artist Series will present the Masterplayers on November 19 at 8 p.m. in Sloan Theater.

The program will include music of Cimarosa, Mozart and Haydn. Cimarosa's selections will include Sinfonie dalle Opera l'Taliana in Londra and Caio Mario ed I Due Supposti Conti. A selection by Mozart will be Sinfonia Concertante for violin, viola and cello. The Masterplayers will present Symphony No. 46 in B by Haydn.

The Masterplayers, a chamber orchestra of 17, is composed of leading solo and chamber music players from all over Europe. Their tours have taken them throughout Europe and Latin America, the United States and Canada.

The Materplayers are directed by the distinguished Swiss conductor, Richard Schumacher. The basis for the current ensemble was set in 1954, when Schumacher formed a chamber orchestra which made many tours of Europe and many recordings.

The Masterplayers performance will be one of a third American tour which started on October 8 and will end on November 21. Because of their busy European schedule, the Materplayers have not been heard in the United States since the Spring of 1978.

Tickets for the Materplayers are available for $5 for adults and $1.25 for students high school age or under at the door on the night of the performance.

Rock 'n Roll High School is an old-fashioned musical

By Matt Connor

Ah, memories of High School... the senior Prom, football games, the Ramones, blowing up the school.. whats that? This doesn't sound like your memories of H.S.? Thats because its all part of the movie Rock 'n Roll High School.

Rock 'n Roll High School is an old fashioned Rock musical that has developed something of a cult following at midnight movie showings. It was released in August, 1979 and stars P.J. Soles, Dey Young, Vincent Van Pattern, Clint Howard, and the Ramones.

The plot involved two girls (Young and Soles) who team up to thwart the evil new H.S. headmistress, bring the Ramones to their school, and ultimately to blow the place to smithereens.

Along with that are a collection of various gags, production numbers, and some romantic complications.

Director Alan Arkush was obviously influenced by several other movies like Grease, Animal House, and those old Beatles movies.

Joe Dante, who directed this summers' smash hit Gremlins provided the storyline for the screenplay by Richard Whitley, Russ Dvonch, and Joseph McBride.

Critics were surprisingly kind to Rock 'n Roll High School, admiring the films' "well edited, fast paced style," and calling the movie as a whole, "nice, unpretentious summer fun."

Sponsored by the SCC, Rock 'n Roll High School will be shown in Price Auditorium.

SCC Tournament winners

The SCC held a game tournament in the PUB on November 4. 41 people signed up and the winners and runners-up are shown above. Brady is first recipient of Nestle Scholarship Kathryn Brady, a senior Biology Major, is the first recipient of the Nestle Presidential Scholarship. The scholarship was established from the income from $10,000 donation by the Nestle Company's Chocolate Division to the State System of Higher Education. LHU was selected as the first university to award the scholarship. In future years, the scholarship will be rotated among the 14 universities in the State System of Higher Education.

Miss Brady is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Brady, Lock Haven. After graduation, she plans to attend graduate school to study in the area of genetics.

Miss Brady is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, the University-wide honorary academic fraternity, and will serve as Vice President next semester. She has been active in both the Biology Club and the Chemistry Club. As a Student Cooperative Council senator, she served on the Homecoming Committee and the Constitution Committee and was chairman of the Student Activities Committee for President Willis' inauguration.

She has worked on campus as a student counselor for two years. During the 1984 summer, she worked as a tutor counselor for the Upward Bound Program.

Miss Brady was selected for Who's Who Among College and University Students in 1983.

The scholarship was awarded through the Lock Haven University Foundation.

The 1985 Top Ten College Women will be featured in GLAMOUR's August College Issue. During May, June or July, the ten winners will receive an all-expense paid trip to New York City and will participate in meeting with professionals in their area of interest.

Anyone who is interested in entering the search should obtain an application in the Eagle Eye Office.

Booze News

By Karl Boltz

It appears to me that the excuses, "I was just drunk" is a rather poor excuse when behavior has exceeded appropriate limits as a result of having too much to drink. However, it seems to be a popular and acceptable excuse by many.

Alcohol causes carelessness, but we can control how much alcohol we consume, and therefore we are responsible for our carelessness.

By accepting this excuse we are letting the person off of the hook for being careless and that doesn't solve the problem because it can happen again.

By not accepting this excuse, the person will realize, (hopefully), that his or her carelessness is not acceptable and he can do something to prevent it from happening again.

Fall Sports Wrap-Up

A look at these three players and you can tell things didn't go that well for the football team.

The winter is fast approaching and all but the soccer team have completed their fall campaigns.

The soccer team, fresh off their championship win over Cheyney, will be playing at Gannon on Saturday in the NCAA playoffs. The team has been led by Keith Betts and Steve Pagua and will be looking for the national title.

Things look bright for the football team, despite finishing with a 1-9 record. 21 of 22 starters will return next year with only Senior defensive end Scott Gantz leaving.

The men's cross country team, led by Bud Murphy, and the women's team, led by Pam Noll, looking promising. Roxanne Murgia capped off a brilliant tennis career with an individual championship.

Competing in Division I for the first time, the women's field hockey team did well. Sherry Derr, Ginny Neiss, and Kate Murphy led the team to a 12-5-1 record.

Women's b-ball looks tough

By Karen Merlie

The 1984-85 Lock Haven Women's basketball team are early season favorites to be one of the teams to beat in the Pennsylvania conference. "We want to have a winning season, make it to the PSAC championship, and from there get an NCAA bid," says coach Fred Riley. "We have to be ready everytime we step onto the floor."

The Lady Eagles are starting to come together as a team. "We have an inside and outside game," commented Riley.

Leading the outside game will be Junior guard Tina Martin. Last season Martin was the top scorer with 519 points in 24 games.

Martin has set her sights on helping the team to the playoffs, and she would like to break the all-team scoring record at LHU along the way.

She needs just 46 points to go over the 1,000 mark, and 253 points for the school record. Also helping out on the outside this season will be returning guard, Lori Young. Young was second in scoring last season, behind Martin, with a 10.3 average.

At center, co-captain Helen Woltman, a 6-2 junior, is coming off two knee injuries to be the force inside. "My knees are fine, and hopefully I'll have a healthy season," said Woltman.

Helping Woltman in the rebounding department, will be sophomore Donna Sergi and junior Brenda Jabs. Sergi led the team in rebounds last season with a 7.0 average, while Jabs collected five per game.

"We have six people who have a lot of experience," commented coach Riley. Still not at a 100 percent is Lori Young, who had a knee operation this summer, so for now senior co-captain, Sue Kuhn will be starting.

The Lady Eagles also have sophomore guard Tina Shupp and three freshmen; guard Paula Hymms, forward Shannon Kelly, and forward Sharon Myers.

Coach Riley stated, "Because of injuries we don't have the depth and speed we need at the moment."

The key to the Lock Haven season is to avoid injuries and get those who are hurt back. You can bet teams will be grinning for the Lady Eagles at the start of the season.

LHU opens their 24 game schedule this weekend with the Lady Eagle Classic at the Thomas Field House Saturday and Sunday. Lock Haven opens with a big game against West Chester Saturday at 6:00 p.m. and Millersville will take on Pace University at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, starting at 1:00, will be the consolation game followed by the championship game.

"This tournament is a big one for us, and we need the student body to come out and cheer us on," said coach Riley.

Last year at Hershey, the Lady Eagles took Millersville to overtime in the semi-finals before losing 76-73. Millersville won the PSAC's. LHU wound up th season with a 16-9 record. The goal for the 1984-85 season is to improve on these performances.

Lady swimmers look to improve

By Christa Landas

Under a new coach, the Lock Haven University women's swimming team will be looking to improve on last season's 0-13 record. The Lady Eagles will basically be inexperienced with only four members of last year's team returning for the 1984-85 season.

At the helm this season is Jeff Lewis, who was a three-time All-American swimmer at the University of Tennessee. He has taken over as the Lady Eagle head coach replacing Dr. Nan E. Wood. Wood had coached the women's swim team at Lock Haven since 1975.

Seniors Maura Kenny and Darlene Birney and juniors Jackie Thomas and Laura Carathanasis are all returning from last year's squad. Freestyle and breaststroke will be Kenny's specialties this season. Birney will dive for the Lock Haven team but just started practicing with the team because she was a member of the field hockey team which just completed its season. Thomas will be doing the free, back and breast strokes. Carathanasis will swim free, butterfly and the individual medley.

"We have a new team. A lot of the team hasn't swum competitively for a couple of years and are just getting back into it," said Coach Lewis.

But Kenny, Thomas and Carathanasis will bring in some valuable experience. They combined last season for a total of 11 first places. Carathanasis got one of her firsts against a tough East Stroudsburg team; she won the 100-yard butterfly in a time of 1:11.60.

Senior Tracy Holm, junior Jan Pechart and Thomas are the tri-captains of this year's team. Holm will swim breast, back and the individual medley (I.M.) while Pechart will back, fly, free and I.M.

"The three captains are doing a really good job and are some of our top swimmers," said Coach Lewis.

There are, however, two areas where the lady swimmers will be weak. According to Lewis, diving is one area where his team is lacking.

He commented, "We need divers. It's tough going into meets with a 16-0 deficit. It's just an extreme disadvantage especially with a new team; you need those points."

The other area is in the second half of the season when the Lock Haven team will lose two of its swimmers. Senior Michelle Florantina, from North Penn High School, who will be swimming freestyle, and Kenny finish out their college careers abroad this spring and will not complete the season under Coach Lewis.

Lewis's major goal for the Lady Eagle swimmers is for them to consistently keep beating their own times and to keep improving. According to Lewis a "fantastic feat" for his young team would be to just go out and win 50 percent of their meets.

Indiana University of PA, a Pennsylvania Conference foe, will be one of the toughest meets for LHU and is the team's first match on November 20, at home at 4:00 p.m. Susquehanna University and East Stroudsburg will also be rough challengers for the Lady Eagles.

The new coach has one personal goal for this season. He said, "I would like each girl to reach her potential under my coaching." Lewis feels that if he can push his team to its peak that he has then done his job. And he concluded by saying: "It's good to get back in the swim of things."

Grapplers to open at Naval Academy tourney

By Dave Walters

Head coach Neil Turner and his Lock Haven University wrestling squad are ready to take to the mats this weekend at the Naval Academy for their first inter-collegiate tournament of the 1984-85 season.

The Navy tournament will feature seven schools; James Madison, Morgan State, Navy, North Carolina State, Temple, West Virginia, and LHU.

Coach Turner is entering his sixth year at the helm for the Bald Eagles. Turner led the Bald Eagle matmen to a 11-3-1 dual match record and to a no lower than fourth place finish in tournament action last year.

Turners' right hand man Mike McCready is back for his second year as assistant coach. McCready is very experienced in the wrestling field. He won a gold medal in the 1975 Pan-American Games and was a member of the 1976 Olympic Wrestling Team.

Lock Haven will be represented by 22 wrestlers at Navy, two at each weight class.

At Heavyweight, the Bald Eagles will have the monstrous letterman Rick Petersen. Petersen captured a second place finish last year at Navy, losing only to the 400 plus pounder Tab Thacker of N.C. State. Petersen won the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference and Eastern Wrestling League titles last year and qualified for the NCAA Championships. The other LHU heavyweight is Martin Hough, a freshman from Fitzgerald, Georgia.

Todd Myers and Bob Fisher will wrestle at 190. Myers, a sophomore from Winfield PA, finished with a 3-3 slate last year and on all three of his victories scored 11 points against his opponents. Fisher comes from Hazelton High School.

Junior Greg Wykoff is back at 177 this year. Last year Wykoff finished third at the PSAC's by winning seven bouts in the tourney. Joe Pecoitis, a sophomore from Mount Carmel, will also battle at 177.

At 167 Bill Freeman and Richie Fisher will be going for individual titles. Freeman is a freshman from Southern Columbia and Fisher attended Seneca Valley high in Maryland.

Jody Karam and Bryon Benner will represent the Haven at 158. Karam as a freshman had a 21-14-1 slate and captured a third place finish last year at Navy, and at PSAC's. Benner also had a winning record of 12-9-2 and finished third at PSAC's and EWL's at 150.

At 150 the Bald Eagles are featuring a freshmen and a senior. Brad Lloyd is the fresh and Dave Toggas is the senior. Dave Toggas won one bout last year and won it big as he destroyed a Salisburg State wrestler 23-2.

Tom Kreamer, a senior from Harrisburg, is a returning letterman at 142. Kreamer won the PSAC meet by winning nine of ten bouts and finished his season 19-10. Freshman Mike Mazzer will join Kreamer at 142.

At 134 Jeff Smith and Willy Metzzer will compete. These two will be replacing the graduated Don Parsley.

Matt Avery will be back at 126. Avery, a junior from Laurel Maryland, finished last year 17-15-1 and placed third at Navy. Freshman Charlie Black will join Avery.

Jeff Husick and Dickie Howell will battle at 118. Husick is a freshman from Saxton PA and Howell is a sophomore and was out for most of last season with an injury. Howell did finish fourth at EWL's.

Turner said, "We are looking forward to it (the tournament). It will really help us evaluate where we are. This is the first official competition we have as representatives of the University. It should be a very competitive tournament."

Basketball team young

By Scott Crispell

Although the Bald Eagles hoopsters are very young and inexperienced, they are hoping to improve on last years 3-23 record. Head coach Brad Black will look to lettermen Jeff Jackman, Kevin Charney, and J.R. Price to lead the squad this season.

Jackman, a two year letterman, averaged 9.3 points a game and returns at guard. Price and Charney averaged 6.5 and 2.7 points a game respectively and are back at forwards. The only other non-freshman on the roster is sophomore center Rick Haubert.

Black had this to say about the upcoming season: "We have a lot of inexperience, but we have some depth. We have two good people at every position as a minimum. We'll play a lot of people, and our depth should help us."

Coach Black added "Jackman and freshman Lamar Belton will play the second guard position, with two freshmen, Eric Hearn and William Campbell at point guard. At quick forward will be Price and Charney. Freshman Cory Hand will start at strong forward with Roy Goldwire and Sean Scarry backing up. At center, Daniel Williams has a hand injury right now and may miss some games, but Robert Parsons and Harold Wells will help out there."

Black was pleased with the teams performance in its scrimmage against Dickinson. He stated, "The defense looked pretty good. The offense was lacking a little, but with all the new faces, it will take time to develop."

Black has also noticed the attitude of the younger players. He said "the excitement and enthusiasm of our young players is going to have to compensate for our lack of experience."

Concerning the teams success this season, Black concluded, "If we can get everybody to work within our team concept and their individual roles, and if everyone works hard, our improvement as individuals will lead to good things down the road."

The Bald Eagles open the season at Lycoming on Tuesday, Nov. 20th.

University Foundation begins solicitation program

A major area corporate solicitation program by the University Foundation began with a kick-off meeting November 5 at the home of Dr. Craig Dean Willis, President of the University. The goal of the Corporate Solicitation Program is to raise a quarter of a million dollars over the next three years for LHU.

"The Commonwealth does not supply all of our needs. At this point it is imperative that a major fund raising effort is put into action to help keep Lock Haven University the quality university it now is," explained Richard Saxton, President of the Lock Haven University Foundation Board of Directors and a member of the Corporate Solicitation Committee.

The Corporate Solicitation Program is being conducted by a committee of people which includes businessmen, a professor, and a retired professor. Committee members will be contacting major industries and businesses in the area. Members have been meeting for the past month to plan the program. They have been reviewing needs at Lock Haven University with Dr. Willis and Lynn Lytle, Director of the Lock Haven University Foundation.

They have also reviewed the recent Lock Haven University economic impact study in which the economic benefits of Lock Haven University to the area were detailed.

The corporate solicitation is a joint fund raising effort with the Annual Fund which solicits mainly from alumni, parents and staff.

The corporate solicitation program is a major thrust this year for the Lock Haven University Foundation.

"This is the first time we have had a corporate solicitation committee," noted Saxton. "Other universities have been doing this for a long time. It is only recently that LHU has decided to address the unmet needs of the University in this manner."

The most urgent which will be aided by the funds raised from the corporate solicitation are replacement and upgrading of science equipment and computer equipment for general student use.

"We are well equipped with computer equipment for our computer science majors," noted Lynn Lytle, Director of the Lock Haven University Foundation. "The University needs computer equipment for use in other academic areas."

Members of the Corporate Solicitation Committee include the following:

Charles Cruse, Hammermill Paper Company, Ronald L. Drewery, Certified Public Accountant, Ronald H. Jury, Deputy Press Secretary, PennDOT, Ted McDowell, Mellon Bank, Anthony A. Torsell, Torsell

Real Estate, Timothy J. Davey, Director of Operations, New York Jets Football Club, Inc., Alfred E. Hoberman, William Marino, Jr., Commonwealth Bank & Trust, Richard Saxton, Attorney, David C. Ulmer, Professor Emeritus.

Bloomsburg art professor exhibits painting in Sloan

By Lisa Falzetta

An exhibition of water color and egg tempera paintings was presented on Wednesday night in the lobby of Sloan Auditorium.

Dr. Kenneth Wilson, a professor of art at Bloomsburg University, presented his paintings as part of the visiting Artist's Series held here at Lock Haven University.

Dr. May White-Dyer, head of the art department here on campus, said Dr. Wilson's paintings are light and sensitive, and deal with ordinary subjects such as still life and landscapes in an individual manner.

The Visiting Artist's Series is a cooperative effort between the SCC and the university through the art department. Dr. Dyer said that the University tries to get a variety of artists in different areas of art and media techniques. The artists may either be from Pennsylvania or from out of state; some come from around the country.

The art department also presents a faculty art show once a year, in which our faculty members display their own artwork. According to Dr. Dyer, this year's show will be held from January 30 to February 11.

Award to be given for Imaginative writing contest in mid-Friday

By Lisa Ross

The Esabel Winner Miller Award for Imaginative Writing will be awarded in mid-February. The $200 to $300 award goes to a senior or junior of Lock Haven University who shows outstanding writing ability in imaginative literature.

Imaginative writing is a term referring to creative writing which is shaped by the imagination. The forms which are generally recognized are fiction, poetry and drama. The latter includes dramatic scripts written for radio, motion pictures, and television.

To be eligible for the award interested students should submit their work to the English Department Office by February 15, 1985. Students should submit a representative body of their work. For those students submitting poetry include 15 to 25 poems depending on length. If the student is submitting something in fiction or drama or any combination of fiction, drama and poetry a minimum of fifty pages is required. All manuscripts submitted should be typed double space and presented in a professional manner. Clean xerox copies are acceptable.

The English Department faculty will select a committee to evaluate the manuscripts and to select a student who has shown outstanding ability. Interested students should contact Professor Nicholson if they have any questions.

Two sophomores named Cadets of the week

By Lara Smith

Two sophomores, JoAnn Jarrett and Dawn Preston, both of Russell Hall have become this week's Army ROTC Cadets of the week. Jarrett and Preston are both physical education Majors, who plan to go on active duty in the Army when they complete their schooling. Both cadets are active in the Rangers Club. Preston is also a member of the soccer club and the Inter-mural Lacross team. Jarrett and Preston were selected as this week cadets of the week because of their dedication and contributions of their free time to the ROTC program.
