Mock to become next president of the SCC

"Hopefully we can get some definite action," were the words of President Joe Euculano, right after he banged the gavel, calling Monday night's recessed S.C.C. meeting back to order. With the apparent option to authorize an executive reelection or to hold a special senate election to choose a new president-elect, the S.C.C. senators reconvened at 8:00 p.m. last night, and ignored Joe Nawrocki's resignation by taking no definite action at all, thus elevating Lorin Mock to the position of President-elect as of December 3, 1975. The main reason for the senate's witnessed paralysis was a formal letter of resignation that Euculano had earlier received from Nawrocki.

October cited as big month for Receiving

The year-old campus Receiving Hotline, which serves this campus and those students who live off campus, is still receiving calls and in full swing with its operation.

At the outset of the deliberation, several senators expressed the wishes of their constituents by relating that most people they consulted believed the first vice-president-elect should move up to the position of president-elect.

"We've been having trouble getting volunteers to work on the Hot Line," explained Leslie Nisson, head of the operation. She added, "We have information available on matters concerning birth control, abortion, community services, and any information on campus happenings such as movies, dances, etc."

Early in the meeting, Euculano hesitantly mentioned that he received Joe Nawrocki's formal resignation the night before, following the recess from Monday's emergency meeting. Euculano pointed out that he was Nisson also stated that the Hot Line is strictly confidential and has no ties with law enforcement or any other branch of the college.

At present a professor is giving training sessions for people interested in volunteering to be a call receiver. This training is not necessary, but it is helpful in learning to be a worker for the Hot Line.

Calls have been coming in since Receiving's start, with October cited as the "biggest month." Nisson said that approximately 40 calls have been received since Septem-

College will broadcast TV in Spring

By LARRY SCHMIDT
News Editor

Regularly scheduled TV broadcasts originating from the college may become a reality next semester.

The English Department is offering an Applied Journalism course in the preparation and presentation of TV programming. Because the course will involve actual programming, plans are being made for telecasting the programs over cable TV into the community.

Dr. William Reich, who

"WHO KILLED J.F.K.?" - Dave Williams of the Assassination Information Bureau will narrate a multimedia presentation concerning the J.F.K. assassination tonight at 8:00 p.m. in Sloan Theater. The presentation supports the theory that Kennedy was not killed by a lone assassin. Included will be a showing of the Zapruder film.

will be instructing the Applied Journalism course, notes that the class will be given a brief introduction to video and then begin organizing programming. Dr. Reich envisions as many as 15 weekly broadcasts being presented next semester.

The programs will be telecast on the college leased cable channel (Susquehanna Valley Cable Co. channel 10) and perhaps distributed to other local cable companies. A potential audience of 5,000 families has been estimated.

Students who enroll in the Applied Journalism class will have a chance to both perform interviews and assist in running TV operations. The class will make all decisions concerning what programming is presented, although only videotaped material will be used.

Dr. Reich points out that the opportunity provided by the Applied Journalism class will prove helpful to those seeking media employment. He looks forward to the idea of a permanent station as something beneficial to college and community alike.

Games people play

After two nights of deliberation concerning the vacancy of president-elect, the senate has been left with the question what constitutes a resignation? To those who attended the two night session it appears that they were concerning themselves with a situation that didn't exist - an exercise in futility.

Although a public resignation was made, copies of which were given to those present, this resignation was not bureaucratically acceptable - it had not passed through "the proper channels."

Still the second night's debate continued with the assumption that there were still valid grounds to proceed. Not until the Chief-Executive was questioned did the Senate become aware that an "acceptable" resignation had not been submitted.

Several requests did the president read the resignation that stipulated Dec. 3, as the effective date.

When the senate recessed Monday night they all felt they needed to consult the students they represented and be prepared to reach a decision Tuesday night. They felt it was in the constitutional powers to make that decision. With the combination of the dated resignation and the president's desire to hold the resignation until tonight's meeting any action taken by the Senate would be meaningless and invalid.

We feel that students working together as a student government could provide a channel for student expression but it appears that the views expressed by the students during hall meetings were neither warranted or would they be heard. How many times can a student gov't. cry wolf? [i.e. budget crisis or presidential precedent] How many more times will the student body support a gov't. either financially or philosophically that will disregard the feelings of the student?

Perhaps games are fine for athletic fields or locker rooms but not playable in the Senate. It's hard to work together when an individual will rob you of two evenings time to play the game of representing the people when in fact it was nothing more than an exercise in futility.

There are times when decisions must be made by individuals who are fully aware of the situation. But no one can make a decision when necessary info. is willfully withheld. Let's stop playing games and play gov't.

Letter to the editor

To the Editor:

Some readers will probably find this letter odd and others will probably think that it is rather appropriate. I wish to congratulate the coaching staff and the football team for a fine job on Saturday. Their 26-16 victory over California proved to me that the Eagles could do it! It takes a great deal more pride, heart and guts for a team to win the last game of a season after losing eight straight, than it takes for a team to go undefeated. Isn't that what it's all about?

Quarterback, Dave Bower took a great deal of battering this year, verbally as well as physically. On Satur-

Greeks Speak

By Bill McComas

"Greeks Speak" is a weekly column designed to inform the student body of news concerning Greek life at Lock Haven State. Any contributions or questions related to fraternities or sororities should be submitted to Student Publications, PUB Ground Floor.

Kappa Delta Rho, this week's featured fraternity, had its origins nationally at Middlebury College in Middlebury, Vermont. The year was 1905, and after several decades of campus growth with no Greek organizations, ten men founded a new fraternity and called it Kappa Delta Rho. Originally local, KDR spread in 1913 to Cornell University where an interested group of students founded the Beta Chapter. Since that time, the fraternity has expanded until there are presently 24 active chapters located at various colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Dappa Delta Rho, here at Lock Haven, was originally a local fraternity, echoing its national beginnings. This local group was called Epsilon Omega Alpha, but on April 26, 1958 the Alpha Alpha chapter was initiated as a national chapter of Kappa Delta Rho. KDR has the distinction of being the first fraternal organization to establish its own house here at Lock Haven. Originally at 428 West Water Street, in January of 1964, the brothers of KDR moved into their present residence at 220 West Main.

The past few years have seen much growth and achievement on the part of Kappa Delta Rho. With 33 currently active brothers, the group has won the Interfraternity Council Academic Trophy two years in a row, this year with a 2.78 overall, and were champs in Greek Olympics, intramural touch football, weightlifting, and softball.

The executive committee that has been guiding Kappa Delta Rho for the past year consists of Nate Hosley as president, Jim Hoke as Vice President with Treasurer Dan Fox, Secretary Dave Royer and Pledge Trainer George Way. "Greeks Speak" wishes the brothers of Kappa Delta Rho much success in the future and hopes they will continue to play an active role in the fraternity life here at Lock Haven.

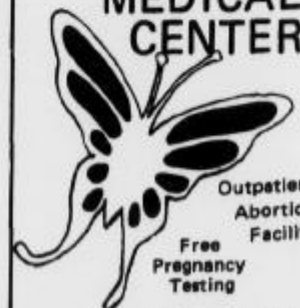

The Residence Hall Association article appearing in yesterday's Eagle Eye incorrectly reported the facts about tonight's dorm party at the Sigma Pi house. The party is being sponsored by Russell Hall and High Hall and is open to residents and their guests.

Russell Hall residents also report that the Sigma Pi house is not being rented and no square dance is planned for this semester. A square dance without a professional caller is being planned for sometime next semester.

Cathy Sherman tells it all: 'I sleep with my hockey ball'

By MONICA KOLESSAR

Captain of the Eaglettes field hockey team, Cathy Sherman, would choose lacrosse over hockey!

Cathy came from Royers Ford, Pa. where she graduated from Springford High School. After graduating from high school, Cathy attended a two-year program at Montgomery County Community College where she received an Associate in Science degree for physical education.

Why did Cathy come to

L.H.S.C.? She is majoring in physical education and is here to receive her Bachelor of Science degree. She heard about L.H.S.C. through friends in high school, but never saw the campus before she attended. She likes Lock Haven State, except that "there is not enough support for women's teams, and also a lack of variety in women's sports."

Cathy has received several awards for activities in high school: A most valuable player trophy and two letters for hockey, four letters in lacrosse, and two in basketball.

How did Cathy become interested in hockey?

"I just decided to go out for the team in high school. I hated it at first."

Why did she choose the position of goalie?

"I played center-half for two days and decided to play goalie because there is less running. There was a position open as goalie, so I took it. I've played goalie ever since." Cathy has been playing hockey for a total of eight years.

How will the Eaglettes do in Regional competition?

"This is the first time we were ever in Regionals. The team is good as a whole. The attitudes are good and we have no problems with personality conflicts. We are definitely going to the top!"

Although three seniors, one of which is Cathy, are graduating this year, she believes next year's team will be just as strong.

"There are good people coming up to fill the positions."

In Cathy's opinion the toughest teams the Eaglettes played this year were West Chester and Ursinus, because they were skilled.

"Elisabethtown was not a hard team to beat as far as being skilled, but out spirit was hard to get up."

I asked her how she gets psyched up before a game.

"I sleep with my hockey ball," Cathy says. Another thing that helps to lift Cathy's spirit is a favorite sign of hers made by two friends which reads: "Only God saves more than Sherman."

The Eaglettes played against a team which had a male player. What about men playing field hockey?

"Men don't have enough finesse," Cathy said. "There is more skill involved in women's hockey than men's."

In the 1975 hockey season Cathy's greatest day was November 4th when the Eaglettes broke three school records - most wins, consecutive shutouts, and the most shutouts for a season.

Another great day came when they were seeded #1 in the Regionals. Cathy's immediate goal is for the Eaglettes to be champions in hockey.

Hockey is not Cathy Sherman's only interest. She also plays goalie on the lacrosse team. What if she had to choose between hockey and lacrosse?

"I would choose lacrosse," she said. One thing that she would like to accomplish before leaving L.H.S.C. is to make one of the three US lacrosse teams.

Upon graduating from L.H.S.C., Cathy plans to teach Physical Education and she would also like to continue to play field hockey but prefers to play a different position.

"I need a change," she said.

reluctant to make issue of the resignation because the original purpose of the meeting had been for the senate to come to a decision regarding Nawrocki's first resignation.

Although Monday night the senators understood that Mr. Nawrocki's resignation had not been formally submitted to the Executive Committee, they showed no hesitation in acting on an unofficial disclosure. However, when Euculano remarked that he had officially received Nawrocki's resignation, effective December 3, the senate seemed befuddled.

Almost immediately, David Heverly expressed his resentment over Euculano's decision to play down the formal letter. "The resignation is the crux, the very heart," Heverly submitted. "I'm rather insulted that you kept it from up," he remarked to the president.

Heverly received support from Senators Steve Hughes and Paul Benkert. "I fail to see how we can act on something we haven't recognized," Hughes offered. "We're powerless," Benkert concluded.

Although Senator Andy Kyle injected his feeling that the senate's purpose or power had not been altered, Heverly moved to adjourn the meeting and suggested the task of amending the S.C.C. Constitution be taken up at a time when cooler heads prevailed.

So as a result of no "definite action" last night, the S.C.C. senate decided to disregard Joe Nawrocki's first bid for resignation until December 3, and consequently have Lorin Mock assume the position of President-elect as of that same date.
