Historic music donated to college

A gift of music for bands, orchestras, and choral groups has been donated to Lock Haven State College by the J.C. Penny Company in observance of the nation's Bicentennial.

The Bicentennial Musical Celebration, in the form of complete band and orchestra sets and choral books, consists of some 70 minutes of historic American music spanning the nation's 200 years, plus five newly-commissioned contemporary works on the Bicentennial theme.

The early tunes and songs have been chosen not only for their musical value and historical significance, but also as music which would not otherwise be available. The collection omits music the college now has or could readily obtain.

Band selections range from Reinagle's "Federal March" of 1788 and Hewitt's "Battle of Trenton," 1792, to "President Garfield's Inaugural March," composed in 1881 by John Philip Sousa, and "Music from every period of American history, beginning with the Colonial-Revolutionary period through Stephen Foster to a 1975 work, "Notes from Tom Paine" by Norman Dello Joio, composed for the collection.

Selections for orchestra include the 1855 composition by Louis Gottschalk, "Souvenir de Porto Rico," "Romanza for Oboe and String Orchestra" by Jack Kilpatrick (1930), "Natchez on the Hill" by John Powell (1932), and a 1975 composition, "Celebration" by Adolphus C. Hailstork III, assistant professor of music at Ohio State University.

The collection also includes works for band, mixed chorus, and orchestra by William Billings (1770), Ernest Bloch (1927), and Mitch Leigh (1975), composer of "Man of La Mancha."

The celebration is being offered as a gift to the 30,000

College choir to present winter concert

The 70-voice College Choir will present a Winter Choral Concert on Sunday, December 7, at 8:00 p.m. in the Sloan Theatre. All members of the college community are invited to attend the program, which will also feature sounds of the Brass Ensemble, String Quartet, Men's quartet, and a number of soloists.

The Brass Ensemble, directed by Florentino Caimi, will open the program with Christmas music played from the balcony area and will then accompany the choir in a performance of Praetorius's "Dulci Jubilo." The choir will perform Palestrina's "Adoramus Te," followed by Galuppi's "Magnificat" with soloists Lisa Walls, Dixie Workinger, and Greg Guiswite and a string accompaniment by area string players prepared by Dr. John Schwarz.

Response helps Crucible staff

"The Crucible will come out some time in January unless there would be problems we don't foresee," announced editor, Donna Leggett. A strong student response enabled that magazine to be published this year.

A staff of nine, the largest in years according to Miss Leggett is working on laying out the magazine.

New positions to be filled in S.C.C. office

The swearing-in of a new executive committee will highlight this semester's final SCC meeting which will be held tonight in the PUB.

One of their first priorities will be to appoint for senate approval persons to fill the positions of 1st vice-president, recording secretary, and parliamentarian.

Immediately following the roll call Lorin Mock, Robin Shimer, Glenn Miller and Sue Gaumer will all begin their one year terms on the executive committee.

The new executives have indicated that they will nominate Paul Benkert for first vice-president, Joanie Stevens for recording secretary and Phil Burlingame for parliamentarian.

The first SCC meeting of the Spring semester will not be until February 4th.

Letters to the editor Nottingham relays thanks

Dear Editor,

I would be grateful if through your columns I could thank the members of Lock Haven College for their thoughtfulness and generosity in enabling Dr. Konick to visit us at this time. Dr. and Mrs. Konick greatly comforted the Armstrong family and Mrs. Konick played for the Requiem Mass at extremely short notice. The visit has strongly cemented relationships between our institutions and we are happy to say that the Konicks are able to attend our Thanksgiving Dinner.

Bergman film screening set for tonight

By TOM MURRAY
Staff Reporter

Ingmar Bergman's "The Passion of Anna" premiered at the 1970 Cannes film festival. The Swedish Director's 31st feature, it is one of the few films in which Bergman employs color photography.

"The Passion of Anna" will be shown tonight at 8 in Ulmer Planetarium as part of the Humanities film series.

The film is set on the same Scandinavian island used in Bergman's "Shame" and the "Hour of the Wolf." The four major characters are framed against a world of war and violence, although the war is miniaturized and distanced through television images of Vietnam, and the violence is the work of a madman who roams the island ritualistically hanging a dog, cutting the throats of sheep and setting horses on fire.

Bergman uses what may be called his personal "stock" of actors and actresses. Max Von Sydow is cast as the protagonist, Andreas. As in "Hour of the Wolf" the von-Sydow-Bergman character is a man driven by inner and external demons. Andreas is drawn into a friendship with Elis (Erland Josephson) a success-

P.S. Regular copies of Eagle Eye have been much appreciated by our American students.

Again, thanks

Dear Readers,

We the Lock Haven students in Nottingham would like to express our gratitude to those who helped with their money and spiritual support after the death of Lorna Armstrong. The money enabled Dr. Konick to travel with Lorna's ashes to comfort her parents was a most heart warming gesture of which we are proud.

We would also like to compliment the Eagle Eye on its accurate account of the entire episode.

Sincerely,
The Lock Haven Exchange Students in Nottingham

The Alpha Rho chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority is one of 72 chapters. It was installed on this campus on May 18, 1935.

Though a social sorority, Tri Sigma emphasizes concern for others in their motto, "sharing, loving and giving." Tri Sigma's social service projects, though diversified, have centered around the theme "Sigma Serves Children." The sorority supports a wing in a North Carolina hospital for the rehabilitation of crippled children. This wing is in memory of a child, Robbie Page, who died of crippling polio. Tri Sigma aids this wing by donating to the Robbie Page Memorial Fund.

Sigma Sigma Sigma offers social functions such as national conventions and state day. They also enjoy special events such as winter weekend and Sigma weekend. Other social functions this semester included having a spaghetti dinner for the alumane at Homecoming, the annual mum sale, trick-or-treating for UNICEF and a party with Phi Mu Delta to raise money for Susque-View.

Tri Sigma values her pledges. They feel that a pledge is not a slave, but rather a friend with needs who desires to be a sister. Pledging takes from three to six weeks and consists of close relationships, learning, and fun in a special meaningful way. This semester they have four new sisters, Carla Chamberlin, Terrie O'Donnahue, Susan Gaumer and Joanie Stevens, who were initiated Nov. 16.

2 games yield 2 wins for Taylor's troops

The amazing and undefeated Lock Haven State College basketball team has opened the 1975-76 season with two shocking upset wins over Bloomsburg State (67-63) and Wilkes College (71-59).

The Bald Eagle cagers of head coach Dr. Dick Taylor are off to a banner start as they seek Lock Haven's first winning basketball season in 23 long years. It was sweet revenge in both games as the Eagles opened the campaign last year losing to both teams.

Against arch-rival Bloomsburg the seven point underdog Eagles topped the Huskies for the first time in nine years and only the second win in 18 seasons.

Wilkes was an 11-point favorite over the LHSC cagers, who were red-hot in the road game there shooting a fantastic record-breaking 75.6 percent from the field. Lock Haven opened up the contest going 11-for-12.

After Lock Haven had led by 15 points (37-22) early in the second half Wilkes came back strong and the home club took a one point 51-50 lead with eight minutes to play.

Freshman Ray Beddall, playing in his hometown of Wilkes-Barre, came off the bench to spark the Eagles back to a quick 10 point lead with five straight clutch foul shots and a basket.

Leading the Eagles in the first game have been star sophomore forward Dave Hendershot with 37 points plus 17 rebounds; senior co-captain center Mike Bergeron, 24 points and 17 rebounds; and junior forward Mike Fitzgerald, with 12 points and seven rebounds. Fine performances have also been given by sophomore forward Tom Huff with 14 points and junior Joe Sain who chipped in with seven points from the forward position.

Also outstanding has been the brilliant play of guards senior co-captain Pat McClellan, 15 points and six rebounds; junior Bill Vassallo, 13 points and 10 rebounds;

Thanksgiving made memorable for Eaglettes

By MARY FEUSNER

The Lock Haven Eaglettes captured fifth place honors in the First Annual AIAW-USFHA Collegiate Field Hockey Championship held in Harrisonburg, Virginia over the Thanksgiving holiday.

In first round action, the sixth seeded Eaglettes were pitted against Wooster of Ohio. Gina Graham and Sue Bowers collected two goals apiece and Ronnie Lawson contributed 2 assists and 1 goal to carry the Haven 5-0 over the experienced Wooster squad.

Although Lock Haven dominated play in the second game of the tourney, they fell short by 1 goal in attempting to defeat William and Mary. The score at half was 1-1. The Haven goal was the work of junior Pat Rudy. With only 2 minutes remaining to be played in the contest, William and Mary scored on a fluke goal. This loss placed Lock Haven in the consolation bracket.

Saturday's contest saw Lock Haven opposing the host team

Madison College. This contest ended 2-1 in Lock Haven's favor. Goals were scored by Pat Rudy and Sharon Murray.

Lawson, Graham and Rudy tallied 2 goals apiece as the Eaglettes won the fourth game of the tournament against the University of Northern Colorado. Lawson's goals were successful penalty strokes - 1 in each half.

The fifth and final game of the tournament was played on Saturday. The Eaglettes ended the hockey season in fine style on the astroturf as they convincingly defeated Longwood College 7-1. Pat Rudy took advantage of the Longwood goalie twice in the first 12 minutes. Sue Bowers slammed a Lawson hand stop into the cage for the third goal. G. Graham tallied another goal to end the half 4-0. Midway through the second half, Rudy scored her 7th goal of the tournament. Bowers added another, her 4th of the tourney, to extend the lead to 6. Rudy tallied the final Haven goal before Longwood managed to push one past goalie Cathy Sherman.

At the tournament, the Lock Haven players and Coach Sharon Taylor were presented 5th place awards for compiling

Woman to handle Eagle mat stats

By SHIRLEY YOUNG

Pat Greenleaf, a freshman Physical Education major from Arlington, Virginia, has been named statistician for the Lock Haven State wrestling team. Pat is the first woman to hold that job here.

Though new to Lock Haven, this is Pat's fourth year working as statistician. The previous three years she worked at Jeb Stuart High School and Robinson High School, both in Virginia.

Pat was also "pairing master" matching wrestlers for tournaments for three years in Virginia. This year she served as a referee for the Potomac Valley AAU.

Pat first got interested in wrestling when a boy asked her to come watch him wrestle. She kept going to the matches, grew to like wrestling, and got to know many of the wrestlers.

When she applied for acceptance here, she wrote of her interest in the wrestling team. Dr. Ken Cox sent her information, and she then asked how she could help. The previous statistician, Rob Singer, graduated last year, so one was needed. Pat was given the job.

Pat started her job as statistician, Saturday, November 22, for the Alumni Match.

Pat was pairing master for the Second Annual Lock Haven Pre-Season Wrestling Tournament held November 1. She also worked as the statistician for the Cross Country team in the beginning of this fall semester. Pat anticipates working for the track team this coming spring semester.

What does Pat like most in wrestling? "Refereeing has been the most fun for me thus far," she said. "However, watching wrestlers I know

Music program offered in New York

Creative Music Studio of Woodstock is offering a ten-day workshop/concert program, this year's "New Year's Intensive," from December 27 to January 5 at its Mount Tremper Campus ten miles outside of Woodstock, N.Y. This program is designed to accommodate student-musicians and music teachers whose schedules are restricted through involvement in other education programs and institutions.

Activities include group and orchestra workshops for all instruments, rehearsal, discussions, live recordings and concerts by guiding artist and student musician. A "Music Universe" (program of Basic Practice in vocal expression, time control and body relaxation) complement the session.

Concert.

Following intermission, the Lock Haven String Quartet will perform the first movement of Schumann's "Quintet in E flat major," with Mary Renzelman as pianist. Mezzo-soprano Dixie Workinger will perform Brahms's "Cradle Song of the Virgin."

Lisa Walls will be featured as soloist with the choir in the Hayti folk song arrangement of "Jesu, Thou Dear Babe Divine," and Diane Shermeyer will be soloist for Britten's "Jesu, as Thou art our Saviour." The choir will also sing Britten's "This Little Babe" and the "Christmas Day Fantasy on Old Carols" by another British composer, Gustav Holst.

A contemporary popular style composition, "Glory Alleluia" by Arnold Freed, will feature Paula Hart on guitar.

The Men's Quartet of Greg Guisewite, Gary Brubaker, Dan Rigel, and Mark Sundberg will perform two Shaw arrangements, "The Boar's Head Carol" and "O Tannenbaum." The choir will close the concert with selections in multi-dimensional sound sung from the balcony areas, "Still, Still, Still" by Luboff and a double choir arrangement of "Silent Night."

ists include Ing Rid, Karl Berger, Dave Holland, Kalaparusha Ahrah Difda, Leroy Jenkins, Garrett List, Stu Martin, Bob Moses, Tom Schmidt, Peter Warren, Charlie Mariano and Sara Cook. The list of visiting artists at the Creative Music Studio is open-ended.

CM Studio's regular Winter Session of eight weeks begins January 19, 1976, and will also take place at the Mount Tremper Campus near Woodstock, N.Y., with its own boarding, concert and live recording facilities. Enroll-

"We had a lot of submissions," Miss Leggett reported, "More than last year. The submissions were primarily poetry, which will be the highlight of the magazine."

Short stories, artwork, poetry, prose and photography will also make up the Crucible this year. Miss Leggett stated that photography is a new facet of the magazine.

Not everything submitted to the Crucible will be published. Miss Leggett said, "We really want to have a quality magazine. We really tried this year."
