Campus Expert on the Middle East Talks

By Beth Pressler
Eagle Eye News Editor

Dr. Christopher Hill, assistant professor of history, can be considered an authority on the subject of political changes in the Middle East, although he does not aspire to such acclaim.

He has taught history for four years at LHU. Hill's specialty is Asian history and he teaches Modern Middle East every year.

According to Hill, the course "covers the Arab countries, Israel/Palestine, imperialism, industrial movement and the conflicts since the foundation of Israel in 1949."

Hill is personally affected by the War in the Gulf because both his father and brother are presently in Turkey. Hill lived in Kuwait for two years, sometime before the crisis began.

His made his opinion of Saddam Hussein clear by calling him a "ruthless S.O.B."

However, he added that as Americans, "We tend to think because he [Hussein] doesn't see things as westerners do, he's automatically considered a madman, whether he really is or not."

Hill believes that the sanctions might have worked if given more time simply because, "If we gave him a way out, he would've taken it."

Hill continued, "I dare anyone to call me unpatriotic, I have family over there and I have students that I have taught that are over there and I don't want them to die, that's why I question if there might be other solutions."

He explained that Hussein will not sacrifice his dignity for anything. Hussein would like to be seen risking his life for Arab brotherhood, said Hill.

The Iraqi leader gets his legitimacy for moving into Kuwait because the British and French came in and divided up the countries, for oil for themselves, before he did, according to Hill, and Hussein sees his actions as simply methods to reunite the Arab world.

Hill clarified the point that before the war, Kuwait occupied almost all access to the Persian Gulf and would not permit Iraq any use of its ports, mostly because of greed.

"It's as much a rich and poor issue as it is sovereignty," said Hill, "this is why his followers see him as a way out." His people believe Hussein to be a hero for standing up to the U.S. and neo-colonialism, said Hill.

It is preposterous for President Bush to deny the linkage between the Palestine issue and Kuwait, according to Hill.

As far as Iraq and Iran forming a secret alliance, Hill says it is possible but not feasible.

"Iran would have a lot to lose and a little to gain," said Hill. He said the Iranian leaders do not believe that Hussein will prevail.

Both sides of the war is determined to not allow the press decide the outcome, said Hill.

He considers the Gulf War to be the first "T.V. War", not Vietnam. He said that the information the press released, "brought more dead bodies into living rooms."

Hill feels that the Americans are receiving a much more accurate view than the Iraqis.

"There's a difference between lied to and not being told the whole story," finished Hill.

Joan Gallagher, a faculty member of LHU since 1973, died Tuesday, January 29.

Gallagher was promoted from the periodical librarian of 13 years, to associate professor in August of 1990.

She held a bachelors degree in biology from St. John's University in New York. She then attained a masters degree in library science from Rosary College Graduate School also in New York.

Before coming to Lock Haven, Gallagher worked as a Library Assistant at St. Albert College Library and a Science Instructor in both Queen of Rosary Academy and Dominican Commercial High School.

A memorial service will be held on Monday, February 4, at 4 p.m. in the Hall of Flags.

OPINION/EDITORIAL

SCC holds first meeting of Spring '91 term

By Cory Marshall
Editor in Chief

The Student Cooperative Council held its first meeting last night with several key issues addressed before the board of Senators and officers.

SCC President Andrew Wendel began last night's meeting with a welcome address to all returning and began with his report on those issues at hand.

Wendel said that all dormitories including the Infirmary and the Parsons Union Building all have two condom machines located in various points of the buildings.

He said the company "In-and-Out Rubber Company" is the manufacturer of the distributed machines on campus.

The SCC president also addressed the issue of library hours which will be extended on Saturday beginning at 10 a.m. and ending at 5 p.m. These hours will be evaluated at the end of the semester to determine whether to keep those intact for next fall as well.

Another item on the agenda was the mailboxes located in the top floor of the PUB near the bookstore which will be used for various fraternities, sororities, clubs, and other organizations on campus. The purpose of this move is for better communications between the Greek organizations and clubs on campus.

This will better link those on campus to a better understanding of what is happening and a common goal of working together.

Another key note of interest will involve all students on campus, the activity fee.

All late fees not paid by the beginning of the first week of each semester will be charged an additional $15. This will start in the fall of 1991.

Wendel and George Nasci, public relations director distributed yellow ribbons around campus in relation to the soldiers deployed over in Operation Desert Storm.

Joe Yalch, Vice President of the SCC said petitions for SCC elections must be in by Monday, February 4 at 4 p.m. to be returned in the Business Office of the PUB.

Yalch encouraged the recruitment of Senators noting that a senator is still needed in Russell, Smith, Woolridge, North, High, and also two senators for Gross Hall noting that the SCC cabinet is still not complete. He added seven off-campus senators are needed as well.

Yalch said SCC Senator elections will take place in the following dormitories: February 5-Smith; 6-North, 7-Gross, 11-Russell, 12-Woolridge, and 13-High with the inauguration of SCC Senators

Infanti confesses

Deareditor;

The reports of my graduation have been greatly exaggerated. So please stop beginning every conversation with "I thought you graduated last semester."

Many students have asked why I am not writing my column this semester. There are several reasons for this.

I am putting the finishing touches on my next book, "Confessions of A Dangerous Mind," and I am trying to make some final changes to the manuscript. This will take a fair amount of time to accomplish but, if all goes well, the book will be out in April.

I also strongly felt that with so many students at the University (myself included) having friends, classmates and family serving in the Persian Gulf that it might not be appropriate to do the column at this time. I felt, and I welcome opinions on this, that it might be considered offensive to some readers if I continued to write the column during the current Gulf War.

If you believe you need a little more humor in your life at this time and that I should restart it, please let me know via the Eagle Eye.

I hope to restart the column again in the fall, maybe sooner if the gulf situation is resolved and our friends, relatives and classmates come back. I wish everybody here and overseas the best.

to take place February 14. All elections will be held from 5-8 p.m.

The Rec Room located in the lower level of the PUB has set new hours for the Spring '91 term. They are as follows. Monday-Friday 10 a.m.-10 p.m., Saturday-Sunday 12-10 p.m.

February is Black History Month

African American Drama Company

By Andrea Vecchio
Eagle Eye News Editor

The African American Drama Company of California's (AADC) will perform Sister, Can I Speak For You? and Can I Speak For You Brother?, Monday, February 4 in Price Auditorium at 8:00 pm presented by the Lock Haven Committee for the celebration of Black History month.

The AADC is the nation's most extensively toured, privately owned black theatre which is in its 14th national touring season and has played in 43 states in the United States.

Both plays are one-person plays concerning the history of black leaders.

Can I Speak For You Brother? combines dance, drama, poetry speeches and music. It is being performed by actor Phillip E. Walker, who in addition to appearing in several made-for-television and cable movies, also has acted in Peggy Sue Got Married and Howard the Duck.

It is directed by founding president of the Black Theatre Network, Ethel Pitts Walker Ph.D. The play covers a chronology of black leaders, including Booker T. Washington, Frederick Douglas, Malcolm X and Martin Luther King Jr.

Sister, Can I Speak For You? is the newest of the AADC's productions and stars Adilah Barnes who has been seen on network series Thirty Something and the HBO movie, The Image.

The play depicts slave auction, Harriet Tubman's "Underground Railroad", presidential advisor Mary McLead Betheme's speech and a dance of motherhood.

Theresa Coley-Kaouadio, Coordinator of Minority Student Affairs, said the players will give lectures and workshops on February 5, in Faith Lapp's Freshman Seminar at 8 am in Raub Hall room 405, and in Dr. Bruce Bond's class in Raub Hall 306 at 3:10.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Birthday

By Beth Pressler
Eagle Eye News Editor

There was more than just an ordinary birthday party held on January 21.

The commemoration of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday was referred to as a "celebration of life".

"Martin Luther King was an American hero," said Robert Lynch, affirmative action officer and program coordinator of the event.

"He championed minority rights, as well as the rights of all underprivileged people," he said.

Dr. Roosevelt Green, Jr., an assistant professor of sociology and social work, was the main speaker at the presentation. He discussed his life as a black youth in the south and how he, like Dr. King, received his strength from God to overcome racial prejudices.

Assistant professor of motor performance, Howard Lucas, read a monologue entitled, "On Tuesday Morning." Coordinator of minority student affairs, Theresa Coley-Kouadio read the poem, "For My People."

President Willis presented the closing remarks with excerpts of Dr. King's writings.

Musical selections were performed by the Gospel Choir under the direction of Faith Lapp.

Federal Funding cuts Minority Scholarships

The U.S. Department of Education has ruled that colleges and universities that receive federal funds will no longer be allowed to offer scholarships designated for minority students.

In an attempt to deflect a storm of protests against its policy, the Department issued a six-point administrative policy that gives affected colleges and universities a four-year grace period to comply.

This Department response, NEAA President Keith Geiger notes, "Does not really reverse the action taken, it only delays compliance by hire education institutions for four years."

Ninth Annual Minorities in Communications Scholarship Competition

The College and University Public Relations Association of Pennsylvania (CUPRAP) has announced its ninth annual Minorities in Communications Scholarship competition, according to R. William Swauger, chairman of CUPRAP's screening committee for the scholarship.

The $1,000 CUPRAP scholarship will be awarded to a talented minority student enrolled full-time in an accredited Pennsylvania college or university. Applicants need not be residents of Pennsylvania.

Applicants must be majoring journalism, broadcasting, English, speech, public relations, mass communications or a related communications field. The competition is open to degree-seeking students who have completed their first, or freshman year of college.

"The number of applicants applying for this scholarship increases each year," according to Swauger, who is director of News Services at Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

He pointed out that "the caliber of the applicants gets better each year which makes the competition tougher each time around."

The scholarship not only provides financial support to its recipient but also serves as an incentive for the student to pursue a career in college and university public relations and communications.

The winner is invited to attend CUPRAP's annual Professional Development conference at the Hotel Hershey in March.

Candidates are evaluated on the basis of financial need, academic standing, faculty recommendation and extra-curricular activities.

Students interested in obtaining additional information and application forms should contact the Public Relations Office at their respective institutions, or call Swauger at IUP, (412) 357-2233. The deadline for submitting applications is February 22.

Rumbalski 's wood sculptures displayed in Sloan exhibit

By Andrea Vecchio
Eagle Eye News Editor

On exhibit January 28 - February 17 in the John Sloan Fine Arts Building is the works of Carl Rumbalski, associate professor of art since 1972.

The exhibit contains sculptures made of wood, which Rumbalski has been working with for 30 years.

"I like the feel of wood, that is one of the main reasons I work with it," said Rumbalski.

The sculptures are made of a variety of woods including walnut, cherry, apple, willow and black locust. He likes to use a variety because of the different colors, textures and grain sizes he encounters.

Among the sculptures one can find some imaginative ideas Rumbalski has sculpted in wood, such as a piece he calls "Imagine" which is an abstraction of John Lennon's face with a piano key embedded in the wood.

Rumbalski said he not only teaches his students how to work with wood he also teaches his students "universal knowledge" because art, he believes, involves the critical thinking needed to conquer other challenges in life.

"Art is the ultimate challenge and is worth all the pain," said Rumbalski.

Rallies for War and Peace in the Middle East held in Lock Haven

By Beth Pressler

Eagle Eye News Editor

American flags, POW-MIA flags, and yellow ribbons adorned Triangle Park at 5 o'clock last Saturday night, along with close to 200 local supporters of the current Allied action in the Middle East.

One five-year old participant held a sign that read, "The storm is strong in Lock Haven." Some people that were there wore black arm bands, and others held burning candles. Among the crowd, only a handful of LHU students were present.

According to Louis Liccione, from the elite outfit 40/8 of the American Legion, the support program wasn't a demonstration or a rally, "We're just out here to support the troops because they deserve it."

Liccione helped organize the special tribute to the troops with Lock Haven local Stacy Kuntz. Kuntz said she had only started to prepare for the tribute four days before.

"I was tired of watching all that crap on T.V., and thought it was time to do something," said Kuntz.

Even though Liccione has grandchildren serving in the Middle East, he said, "We had to do it, [go to war] Hussein is worse than Hitler, and I was over there fighting Hitler in World War II."

Kuntz started to act on her conviction to do something, by getting her friends together and calling Lock Haven City Hall to reserve the park. From there she called the local legions, V.F.W.s, Veterans' organizations, and the Salvation Army for their support.

Not only did Kuntz and Liccione get their support, but Mayor Diane Steumpfle offered her help too, by preparing a mini-speech for the event.

Local stores donated all of the candles and ribbons for the support program.

An opening prayer for the safe return of the troops and a quick end to the war, kicked off the night.

The mayor took the stage next with her own short message.

"Saddam Hussein is a clear threat to the health and mortality of this nation," said Steumpfle.

She went on to say that we should support the Congress, President, and the patriotic men and women over there by supporting President Bush's policy.

Steumpfle's final words were, "We must keep praying and keep the home front united and strong while our troops are over there and until they come home."

Following the mayor's statement, there was a four-gun salute and the bugle recital of "Taps". After a suggestion from the crowd, the congregation sang "God Bless America".

The program ended with Liccione thanking everyone for participating and expressing a desire to do this again sometime in the future.

If there were one message sent out to people that were not there, Kuntz said it would be, "We're behind our troops one-hundredpercent."

By Beth Pressler

Eagle Eye News Editor

Peace was on the minds of some 35 people of all ages, last Friday night at 7 o'clock in Triangle Park.

They formed a circle in front of the gazebo, holding lit candles and stood there for more than a half an hour, despite the bitter cold. The only hecklers included two kids screaming "Nuke Iraq!" from one car speeding past.

Luann Rumbalski organized the anti-war rally. She supplied the candles, ribbons, and addresses of senators, congressmen, and the President for the protesters to write.

"I'm in support of the troops but against the war," said Rumbalski.

She said she has been concerned about the Gulf Crisis since August and started writing letters to Congress, her senators and to President Bush during the Congressional debate. She has only received form letters in return.

Rumbalski said she is a veteran demonstrator. She smiled and added, "I've been around a long time."

She believes the fact that the majority of the nation, according to the CNN Gallup Polls, is in support of President Bush and the war effort is because of the propaganda of the U.S. Government.

"It's just a high-tech game, and it's gonna drag on," she said.

On the Iraqi recent involvement in the oil spills, "I'm not in support of Saddam Hussein. He's a violent dictator that needs to be dealt with but not with violence, a cease fire," said said.

Rumbalski shook her head when asked about the negative effect the peace protests may have on the soldiers' psyche.

"This is different than 17 years ago. We're in support of the troops but against Bush's policy," she said.

One LHU student said, "I hope it ends peacefully and soon, without any more damage."

An LHU foreign exchange student added, "There isn't a war that can be justified by the amount of destruction that has occurred and will continue to occur."

One LHU professor, among the handful that were present, suggested posters on campus to increase awareness of future rallies.

Vicki Smedley, a peace protester and group organizer from Lycoming County said, "This is not another Vietnam. The best way to support our troops is to bring them home and replace them with U.N. talks."

There is another candlelight vigil, for a pause for peace scheduled for tonight at 7 o'clock in Triangle Park.

The slogan for the vigil is "Support our Troops, not our National Policy."

Participants should bring their own candles.

State School Employees in War and Tuition Increase

News from the Capitol....

HARRISBURG---In concern for State System of Higher Education employees who are serving in the Persian Gulf, the Board of Governors for the State System approved the extension of benefits and retirement contributions during the war.

The Board has previously approved the "extension of employee dependent tuition waivers and tuition refunds for students called to active duty as a result of "Operation Desert Shield, [now called Operation Desert Storm]," according to State System Chancellor James McCormick.

The combination of the Board policies "allows our employees and students who are called to serve their country to better concentrate on their mission, rather than on personal concerns," said Board Chairman F. Eugene Dixon, Jr.

Board policy permits continuation of those tuition waivers for dependents of State System employees who are military reservists or members of the National Guard and are called to active duty.

The policy also permits tuition to be refunded to State System students who are military reservists or members of the National Guard and are called to active duty.

HARRISBURG - State System of Higher Education Chancellor James H. McCormick today recommended to the Board of Governors that a tuition increase not be considered for the 1991 spring semester and the Board further study the affects of the current budget austerity situation due to the Commonwealth's fiscal problems.

"Pennsylvania's financial crisis deserves additional study to examine the impact on State System universities," Dr. McCormick said. "Our university presidents have begun contingency planning to address the proposed cuts; however, it is premature to determine if reductions can be implemented or precisely how reductions may affect the universities.

"The System has thoughtful and conservative executive managers who will continue to maintain the academic quality of their institutions through these serious times," Dr. McCormick said. Board members also said they did not think it appropriate to automatically place the burden of fiscal uncertainty on the State System's 99,000 students.

Board Finance Committee Chair Julia B. Ansill was asked to have her committee prepare a report on System revenues and expenditures for the remainder of the 1990-91 fiscal year to be presented at the Board's April quarterly meeting.

State System tuition is $2,278 for full-time undergraduate and graduate Pennsylvania resident students. Out-of-state undergraduate tuition is $4,312 and non-resident graduate tuition is $2,884.

SCC shows concern for soldiers in the gulf

By Tara Caimi

Eagle Eye Co-Features Editor

Most students have probably noticed the yellow ribbons around campus since the start of the Spring semester, but many of these students may have been too busy with beginning their semester to have taken time to think about what these ribbons mean to them.

The Student Cooperative Council is putting forth an effort to support the soldiers in the Persian Gulf by placing an increasing number of yellow ribbons at various locations around the campus, said Andy Wendel, President of the SCC.

Wendel said that the yellow ribbons "represent students on campus just showing their concern and support for the troops in Saudi Arabia."

Many students feel that this effort by the SCC is a good way to show support by the University as a whole.

"I don't support the war, but I support the soldiers," said Heather Pecoraro, a student who believes that the ribbons are a good idea in support of the soldiers but not the war.

Tina Basanese, Vice President of membership of Sigma Kappa, believes that the sorority is in favor of the yellow ribbons.

She said that the ribbons are a good way to keep public awareness alive.

Other students, such as Tameka Reynolds, who has relatives in Saudi Arabia, and Alison Sprankle, believe that the ribbons serve a good purpose in raising the overall morale of the soldiers in the Gulf as well as that of the people who remain in the United States.

Beth Mundy believes that putting up yellow ribbons is a method by which the people who remain in the United States can make their contribution to U.S. soldiers in Saudi Arabia.

Some students believe that the idea of supporting our soldiers is a good one, but more should be done than placing yellow ribbons around the campus.

Duncan Masemore, a student at LHU, thinks the ribbons should be sold with the proceeds being used to help the soldiers in Saudi Arabia.

Sherri Riddell, a Resident Assistant in Woolridge Hall, would like to know the names and addresses of all LHU students who are now in Saudi Arabia in order to make the University's support known to them.

The SCC is interested in any ideas related to the support of the soldiers in Saudi Arabia. The SCC office is located in the bottom of the Parson's Union Building.

MTV Comedian entertains students

By Shawn Liddick

Eagle Eye Features Reporter

Wednesday night, the SCC hosted comedian Charles Zucker at Price Performance Center. There were approximately 230 people in attendance.

Mr. Zucker is a comedian whose talents have been seen on television shows such as the MTV half-hour comedy hour and Comic Strip Live.

Some impressions that the audience could pick up from Mr. Zucker was that he is very personable. The rapport between the audience and Mr. Zucker was extremely evident. He gets the audience involved and even works off the jokes that the audience throws back at him.

The topics that Mr. Zucker worked with were relationships, cats, parenthood, holidays, homosexuals and a variety of other topics.

The Gulf War...

Will there be a draft? Only time will tell

The last time the United States held its last draft was fifteen years ago.

Now that the United States and its coalition is engaged in a war with Iraq, talk of a draft is already beginning to take place.

If it does the Selective Service System will engage in a lottery. It can have as many as 100,000 American inductees ready within 30 days.

According to published reports in the Asbury Park Press, the lottery could be held on the same day Congress and the president authorize it.

The big question to many young citizens across the nation is just who exactly would be called? All men 18 to 26 -- citizens and alien residents -- are required by the Military Selective Service Act to be registered.

Men must register within 30 days of their 18th birthday. Approximately nine million men are eligible to be drafted if the lottery would be cast today.

The first age of eligibles would be the men born in the year 1970 who turn 20 this year would be the first to go.

The next set of age groups would be 21 in the calendar year of the draft, then 22, 23, 24, and 25. If not enough men were drafted then the age group would revert back to age 19 and back to the 18-year-olds.

On January 1 of the year, a registrant who turns 26 would not be liable for duty unless the registrant was granted a draft deferral making him eligible to be drafted until age 35.

Current laws have eliminated many exemptions and deferrals that were available during the Vietnam War.

The only kinds of deferrals that are granted are for ministerial students. There is also a postponement for those students that allows them to finish the semester and for those seniors to finish their final academic semester and graduate.

Other deferments including occupational grants have been eliminated.

According to the Asbury Park Press, a deferral represents a postponement of draft liability. Those granted an exemption could not be drafted.

Women are prohibited in the draft, a prohibition that has been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, although Congress does have the power to change the law.

Men who are drafted will receive an induction notice and would have 10 days to file for either an exemption or a deferral. The local draft board would then decide on the request.

If the board votes unanimously to reject the request, then an appeal can not be made. If a split decision occurs, however, an appeal can be made to one of 96 national appeal boards and from there to the national appeals in Washington.

The first draft was instituted in 1940 as World War II was beginning in Europe. The draft remained in effect until 1973 when the United States instituted an all-volunteer military at the end of the Vietnam War.

The first modern-day draft was conducted in 1969. It continued until 1975, when registration ended/ Selective Service registration was reinstated in 1980.

ZTA adopts highway campaign, Simms to present playwright lecture

By Shawn Liddick
Eagle Eye Features Reporter

This past Tuesday, the sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha (ZTA) undertook a project to help beautify the state and help with the environmental impact of the local highways. This project is known as the "Adopt a Highway" project.

The sisters adopted a mile and one half of State Route 220. This is the exit that connects with the Lock Haven exit. They clean the highway of the debris scattered on four selected off ramps in the area of Lock Haven. There were 25 sisters that were at the kick off of the project.

The sisters also have to undergo a type of training to participate in the project. This training stresses safety very heavily.

The main organizers of the project for the sisters were: Crystal Fritz - Former Service Chair; Bridget Georgetti - New Service Chair; Katie Jenkins - ZTA President; and Nancy Palma - ZTA advisor

The main objective of the project is to clean up areas surrounding the off ramps in the local area. At the same time, they are also collecting and separating any and all glass and aluminum that is on the ground so that it can be recycled. These recyclables are then given to the Lock Haven fire department for recycling.

The sisters do not go unthanked for their efforts. That part of the highway will now be known as the ZTA Bypass and acknowledged so by a sign under the bypass itself.

They also have a lot to be proud of. They are only the second group in the state of Pennsylvania to undertake in the project and the first from any state university.

ZTA and the Department of Transportation encourage any and all groups to undertake the project. For more information, contact the Department of Transportation at the Lock Haven office at 893-2430

Playwright Willard Simms will present a lecture on the art of theatrical writing at the Lock Haven University Sloan Fine Arts Center on Friday, February 8.

The winner of the Maltese Falcon Award for excellence from Mystery Writers of America, Simms will discuss "Writing for the Stage and Screen --the Art and Business of Play Writing."

His lecture will be the second in a series sponsored by the University's Department of Speech Communications and Theater which features professionals from the New York theater.

With eight published plays, Simms will describe, from his own experience, how ideas develop into scenes and grow into scripts. He will also focus on his experience as a television script writer for such network productions as FAMILY and the network productions as FAMILY and the SPIRIT OF '76 to illustrate the east coast/west coast aspects of working as a creative artist, playwright and screen writer.

The future of the theater and the role of the 21st Century playwright will also be discussed.

Simms' workshop, and those which will be offered February 15th and 22nd, are free and open to the public.

Each of the programs will be presented in two phases with the afternoon session beginning at 3:30 p.m. Following a dinner break, the evening program will start at 8 p.m.

For additional information, contact the Lock Haven University Department of Speech Communication and Theater at 893-2131/2143.

LHU welcomes Dr. Jenny Boyle:

New physician offers expertise to infirmary

By Karen Carlson

Eagle Eye co-Features Editor

This semester, Glennon Infirmary welcomes Dr. Jenny Boyle to its staff, who, through her many years of medical experience and awards, will be an exciting addition.

"It's good to have a relatively intelligent group of people who will listen, and are open to being educated", said Boyle.

She enjoys working with students, and she also enjoys the regular hours the University offers.

In addition to working at the infirmary,

Boyle is employed at the Divine Providence Hospital of Williamsport in the emergency room. She is board certified in emergency medicine.

"Emergency work is the hardest you can do", said Boyle. "After that, everything else is problematic".

Boyle is also the Medical Director of Hospice in Williamsport, an organization that aids terminally ill patients.

"People who are dying need lots of medical attention, just as much as others", said Boyle.

Boyle was educated at Temple University, where she was a President Scholar, for which a 3.8 G.P.A. is required. She graduated Magna Cum Laude.

After graduating she attended Temple University's School of Medicine.

She spent one year interning at the Presbyterian University Hospital in Philadelphia, and then worked at the Public Health Service in the Appalachian Mountains of Alabama. "It was one doctor per 8,000 people" said Boyle.

Here she was given the Commissioned Officer's Award for Outstanding Service.

Her next position was specialty training in emergency medicine at Allegheny General Hospital in Pittsburgh.

Her job was working in Level One trauma, which is the highest trauma level possible.

She was also the first female Chief Resident, which, said Boyle, is quite an honor.

In her spare time, Boyle enjoys working on her organic vegetable farm. "Organic gardening means using no pesticides or herbicides", said Boyle. "It's a lot of work".

Boyle said that she would also like to look into being involved with the Wellness Center.

Boyle works at Glennon every weekday from 9a.m.--1p.m. She says that the most common ailments she treats are colds, stomach problems, and sexually transmitted diseases.

She is originally from Clinton County, and now lives in Swissdale.

"The prevention of disease is important to me", said Boyle, "and education is necessary".

Four-day theatre workshop to start this week

By Tara Caimi

Eagle Eye Co-Features Editor

Real acting is different than the fame that most people see in the movies, said John Gordon, Chairman of the Lock Haven University Department of Speech Communications and Theater.

This is a point that Gordon wants to stress in a series of free workshops and lectures that will be presented by professionals from the New York theater at LHU in February.

Through these workshops, Gordon hopes to expose the participants to the professional aspects of art and theater.

He feels that, through the media, people seldom get a realistic view of professional theater, and hopes that the workshops will provide insight into the realistic aspects of theater as well as working and training techniques.

The four workshops, which are sponsored by the University's Department of Speech Communication and Theater, will take place at the Sloan Fine Arts Center.

They will begin on Friday, Feb. 1 and continue on subsequent Friday's.

The workshops will be presented in an afternoon session beginning at 3:30 p.m. and, following a dinner break, an evening session beginning at 8:00 p.m.

The workshops will focus primarily on writing for the stage and screen, designing theatrical lighting, sets and costumes, and surviving financially as an actor.

The workshops are open to the public, and, according to Gordon, some of the invitations sent were to 23 area high schools, dormitory residents and all faculty and staff of the University.

He is also hopeful that LHU students in basic theater classes will attend as well as the University Players.

Gordon believes that the workshops will provide general insight into an area people are interested in.

For additional information about the workshops, contact the Lock Haven University Department of Speech Communications and Theater at University Players to hold auditions for spring productions

By Neil Brennen

Special to the Eagle Eye

University Players has announced auditions for three one-act plays.

Auditions are today for two one-act romantic comedies.

"Than Never To Have Loved At All", by University student Ryan Ritter, is described by its author as a romantic story of college life.

The other play, "A Need For Brussel Sprouts, is the story of an actor who falls in love with the policewoman issuing him a noise citation.

Audition times are from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. in the Countdown Theater (Sloan 321). The cast requirements for these two plays are four males and four females.

February 4-6, auditions will be held for "Statements After An Arrest Under The Immortality Act, a one-act play by South African playwright Athol Fugard.

The play involves the love relationship of a black man and a white woman, a relationship prohibited under South African law.

According to director Craig Young, the play "makes a powerful statement about the apartheid system in South Africa."

Due to the subject and the nature of the play, roles are race-specific. The play calls for one black male, one white male and one white female.

The play calls for one black male, one white male and one white female.

Auditions will be held Monday through Wednesday, February fourth through sixth. On the fourth auditions will be held from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. in Room 316 in Sloan. On Feb 5-6, auditions will be held from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. in Sloan 316. All students are eligible to audition.

What seems to set him apart from other famous comedians, is that he employs a variety of musical instruments to aid in his performance. The two most prominent were a keyboard that he strapped on like a guitar and a miniature drum machine.

The other highlight of the event was the drawing for the cruise that was sponsored by the SCC. The winner was Mike Vener, a brother with the Kappa Delta Rho (KDR) fraternity.

New Albums by Sting, The Connells receive rave reviews

By Ryan Ritter
Eagle Eye Columnist

Greetings and welcome to the first installment of what I hope will be a regular feature in the Eagle Eye for many years, or until I graduate--whichever comes first.

But first let me introduce myself: I'm the Music Director of our mighty campus radio station, cleverly named "WLHU" (90.3 FM, if you're interested).

It's my job to hound record companies and plead with them to send us records. That's how we get new stuff. You think we have a budget to buy new records? HA! None of us ever get paid.

A typical conversation with a typical record company representative goes like this:

Me: Please! Send us your new releases and we'll play them over and over so the listening students will hear them and say "I really like this! I think I'll go out and buy it."

Typical Record Company Representative: What's the size of your student body? Larger than 20,000?

Me:...Um...

T.R.C.R.: Larger than 10,000?

Me:...Well...

T.R.C.R.: Larger than 5,000?

Me:...You see...

T.R.C.R.: I see. --click--

But occasionally we do get some pretty neat stuff--and not only when I lie and say we're part of Penn State, either. There is a myriad of tiny record companies with fresh, young bands, eager to get airplay anywhere, even here.

What I'd like to do each week is update our vast listening public on what new albums or singles we have, and give an informal review of them at the same time.

This will do three things: promote the radio station, promote the new bands (or new releases by "big name" bands--assuming they make a mistake and send us a copy), and give me something neat to stick on my resume.

Speaking of new releases by "big names", we were fortunate enough to receive Sting's new album last week. The Soul Cages (A&M Records) is, what, his third solo album by now? Anyway, it's pretty good, and you can even see the new release, "All This Time", on MTV.

There's nothing really new about this album, just Sting at his best. I happen to like Sting, so that's fine with me (even though "All This Time" sort of sounds like something Paul Simon would write. I have nothing against Paul Simon, but we did not get his new album, yet).

Soul Cages is one of those rare albums where all the tracks are pretty decent, from the opener, "Island of Souls", to the soulful

"When the Angels Fall" that ends the LP. If you like the "Sting" sound, you'll like The Soul Cages.

On a scale of 1 to 5, I give it 4 Pulses (you see, WLHU is "The Pulse Of Lock Haven" and I needed some kind of rating system...)

Like I mentioned above, we get a lot of material from new bands. Most are okay, some are pretty good, and then there are those that make me say, "I think I'll get a blank cassette and make myself a copy of this".

"The Connells" is one of these bands (if "Music Director" was a paid position, maybe I could actually buy a copy).

Under TVT Records, New York, their album One Simple Word is one of the best things I have heard so far at WLHU. This five-member, all male band has an REM kind of feel to them, but with a more universal appeal.

REM can sound a little rough at times, while The Connells sound more polished. Besides, The Connells' lead singer, Doug McMillan, has a really cool voice, unlike the sometimes annoying rasp of REM's front man (now that I'm writing a music review column, I can use terms like "front man"--neat, huh?)

I have nothing against REM, but we never heard from them after they became popular.

One Simple Word is another album where there are no bad songs, and I've even seen the video for their first single, "Stone Cold Yesterday", on MTV very late one night over break.

Notable cuts include the above single, the title track, "Get a Gun", "Set The Stage", and the amazing ballad "Waiting My Turn". This one I'll give 5 Pulses. It's definitely worth it.

Before I end this week's rambling here is the official ratings chart: No Pulse: this sucker's dead; 1 Pulse: barely alive; 2 Pulses: it can breathe on its own without CPR; 3 Pulses: a healthy, normal specimen; 4 Pulses: above average; 5 Pulses: get me a blank cassette, this one I want (it's worth buying).

What should we be expecting in next week's column? Another new, obscure band you haven't heard, but should; what is new in Rap music (the stuff we have, at least); and how you, too, can receive WLHU in your very own uorm room.

Until then, you can hear yours truly's show Tuesday night 10:30p.m.-1a.m. and Thursday morning 8-10a.m. (Free plug! Free plug! The real reason I wrote this column).

Call in your requests anytime at 893-2212. The lines are open.

New policewoman joins Law Enforcement staff

By Sharon Brooks
Eagle Eye Features Reporter

There is a new face on campus this semester and she is not a freshman. Jennifer Troup is not starting a new semester, but a new job as a Law Enforcement Officer.

Troup is a graduate from Westmoreland County Collegewith an Associates Degree in Criminal Justice. She completed Police Academy training last October.

As for her position, a woman has not held it for 12 years.

Troup, who can be seen walking through campus between 11p.m. and 7a.m., said she really is enjoying the job and doesn't mind the shift. Troup said so far she has not encountered any problems with the students

Troup is 21 years old and from State College.

Bald Eagle men hoopsters off to slow start

By Rob Heller
Eagle Eye Sports Editor

The Bald Eagles Men's Basketball team began their Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference-West schedule by dropping three of their first four conference games over the last two weeks, taking their overall mark to 10-8.

"We are definitely not out of the play-off picture, but we must win two of our next three to prepare for the second round," said Head Coach Dave Blank. "We are rising to the level of play in the conference, and the conference is pretty darn good."

The men of LHU lost their conference opener at home on January 19 to defending PSAC-West champion Slippery Rock by a score of 88-81.

The Bald Eagles took an early 4-0 lead on a short jumper by Truman Greene with just under a minute gone in the game.

The Rock came steaming back with an 11-2 run capped by a jumper by All-American Guard Myron Brown at the 16:39 mark to make the score 11-6.

The Eagles fought back, and took the lead on a trey by Dave Wood to make the score 15-14 with 15:12 remaining. Lock Haven built a 24-18 lead on a 3-point bomb by Tommy Johnson at the 12:25 mark.

Over the next three minutes the Rockets of Slippery Rock went on a 10-0 spurt which was capped by two Bob McConnell free throws, 28-24.

The Bald Eagles took a 35-34 lead at the 6:44 mark on back-to-back 3-pointers by Greene. The Rock then answered with a lay-up by Donald Burnett, 36-35.

The two teams battled back and forth to a 47-47 tie with 2:25 remaining in the half. With 1:58 remaining Dana Vaughns nailed a 3-point bucket to give the Bald Eagles a 50-47 lead at halftime.

Slippery Rock opened the second half with a 10-2 run that was capped by a Rob Wilson jumper with 15:13 on the clock, 57-52.

The LHU men clawed back to tie the game at 59 on a 3-pointer by Johnson at the 12:54 mark.

With 7:51 remaining The Rock took a 70-64 lead on a Brown 3-point play.

The Haven fought back to within one on another Johnson trey at the 5:47 mark to make the score 70-69.

With 3:09 remaining Brown connected on two free throws for Slippery Rock to make the score 77-69, and put the game out of reach for the Bald Eagles.

Greene lead the Bald Eagles with 24 points and 7 assists, and Shon Crosby pitched in with 14 points and 10 rebounds.

Brown paced the Rockets with 30 points, while Burnett added 25 points and 13 rebounds.

The Bald Eagles traveled to Shippensburg on January 21 where they lost a heartbreaker in Heiges Field House 83-77, taking their record to 9-7 overall and 0-2 in the conference.

LHU shot an impressive 50% from the field and 80% (4-5) from behind the 3-point arc in the first half. The Eagles took a 40-39 lead to the showers at halftime.

Shippensburg, who did not attempt a 3-point shot all game, came out in the second half on fire, shooting at an amazing 67% clip from the field.

Along with their great offense Ship's defense turned it up a notch in the second half holding the Bald Eagles to 39% (11-28) shooting in the second half.

LHU was led by Greene with 23 points, and Crosby added 20 of his own.

Leading the way for Shippensburg were Keith Hill with 33, and Bob Young with 13.

On January 23 the Bald Eagles returned home to face Indiana University (PA) (12-4, 0-1) in the friendly confinements of Thomas Fieldhouse.

Greene opened the game with a 3-point bucket off an assist from Johnson. IUP then went on an 11-6 run that was capped by a coast-to-caost slam dunk by Paul Newman at the 15:41 mark giving IUP the lead, 11-9.

With 14:35 on the clock Wood (six steals) stole the ball from Michael Ponda, drove to the hole, made the basket, and the foul! Wood converted the 3-point play and tied the game at 13.

IUP out scored LHU 10-2 over the next two minutes when Newman connected on a 3-pointer from the corner to make the score 23-15 with 12:27 remaining.

With 8:42 to go Wood stole the ball again and drove in for the layup cutting the lead to 27-25, and forcing IUP to use a timeout.

After a Carl Brown free throw cut the lead to one, Johnson went right baseline with a leaning one-hander to give LHU the lead 28-27 with 8:00 on the clock.

About a minute later Wood picked Fred Kerr's pocket and hit Greene dashing up court on the fast break. Greene leaped into the air and threw down a one-handed slam bam jam! LHU 30, IUP 27.

A pull-up jumper by Johnson, with 6:33 to go capped an 18-4 Bald Eagle spurt since the 9:42 mark making the score 37-29.

IUP fought back to within two, 37-35, at the 5:01 mark on a short Jumper by Newman.

With 2:07 remaining in the half Mark Mairer drove the middle for what looked like an easy two. Crosby came dashing from the right corner, vaulted himself high into the air and said return to sender with an astonishing blocked shot!

With :06 seconds in the half it was Crosby again taking a pass from Wood, and banking it in off the glass to give the Haven a 50-41 lead at the half.

During the first 3:50 of the second half the Bald Eagles outscored the Indians 11-8 to increase the lead to 61-49. The spurt was capped by a Greene steal and assist to Brown who connected on a jumper from the foul line.

With 12:04 remaining in the game Kevin Johnson, oops I mean Tommy Johnson, drove the middle, drew the defender, and dished the rock to Don Ross underneath for two, 75-61.

It was all Bald Eagles, the game was a sleeper, there was no way that IUP could come back. Or was there?

With 14:40 remaining the Indians cut the lead to single digits 96-88 on a short jumper by Newman.

"We weren't playing to win, but not to lose," Blank said. "There's a big difference."

With 1:42 on the clock Coach Blank argued an officials call a little to intensely and was slapped with a technical foul. Deon Thompson connected on one of the two free throws to cut the lead to 101-94.

With 1:14 remaining Mark Kynard nailed a trey to make it a four point game, 103-99.

IUP had to start fouling in order to stop the clock, and the person that they kept fouling was Wood. Wrong decision! Wood was 10-11 from the line on the evening, including seven-in-a-row down the stretch!

"He (Wood) stepped up and made some big free throws for us down the stretch," Blank said. "We had the sense to get him the ball, and he made some smart decisions."

Brown connected on two free throws with :09 seconds remaining to put it out of reach., as LHU defeated IUP 109-105 moving their record to 10-7, 1-2.

The Bald Eagles were led by four players scoring 20 or more points. Greene had 24 while Wood helped out with 22. Johnson and Ross both added 20.

The Indians were paced by Newman with 34, 20 in the first half, and Deon Thompson with 18.

The last of four conference games in a row was played in Hammer Hall versus the University of California (PA).

The Bald Eagles out shot California 40-31 in the first half, and took a 47-39 lead with them into the locker room.

California came out in the second half and shot a blistering 71%(27-38) from the field as LHU slumped from 45% in the first half to 34%(11-32) in the second half. California outscored the Bald Eagles by a whopping 29 points in the second half, 62-33, to defeat LHU by a score of 101-80.

The Bald Eagles were paced by Greene with 21, and Ross with 18.

California placed six players in double figures including Charles Thomas, 23, and Kenny Toomer, 22.

The Bald Eagles will travel to PSAC West rival Edinboro on February 2, and will return home on February 6 to do battle with another conference rival, Clarion.

Swimmers have positive season as Mead qualifies for PSAC Championships

By Rob Heller
Eagle Eye Sports Editor

The lady swimmers of Lock Haven University finished their fall semester season on December 11 with a convincing 113-91 victory over York College, but went 0-3 this semester to finish the season with an overall record of 3-6.

"I feel that we had a very positive season," said Head Coach Nan Wood. "A lot of swimmers had their personal best times, and they certainly worked hard all year."

The York meet was a stage for many of our swimmers to set personal records.

Sophomore Dana Goldstein placed second in the 500 yd. freestyle with a time of 5:56.20.

Freshman Kimberly Conville completed the 1000 yd. freestyle in a time of 13:06.17 which was good enough for a second place finish.

Kristin McCluskey, a Junior, swam the 50 yd. freestyle in 27.37 to take second place.

Freshman Jen Irwin took second in the 200 yd. freestyle with a time of 2:16.15.

Shawnn Shafer, a sophomore, recorded a second place finish in the 100 yd. butterfly with a time of 1:11.48.

Sophomore Amy Long finished first in the 100 yd. breaststroke with a time of 1:17.80

Senior Tracy Cambell and Sophomore Carrie Woomer finished in second and third place respectively in the 100 yd. breaststroke with times of 1:23.38, and 1:29.48.

The Bald Eagles were defeated by Millersville on January 21, by a score of 174-88. On January 24, our lady Eagles lost a tough one to Susquehanna University, 130-98. In their final meet of the season on January 29, the swimmers of LHU were downed by a strong Kutztown University team with a final score of 180-89.

One good thing to come out of the Kutztown meet was that freshman diver Jill Mead qualified for the PSAC meet in the one meter dive.

Mead qualified with a score of 160.275 with a difficulty level of 10.6. This is the first time that a diver from LHU has qualified for the PSAC in two years.

Although none of the swimmers individually qualified for the PSAC championships Coach Wood will be taking the 200 and 400 yd. medley relay teams, and the 200,400, and 800 yd. freestyle relay teams.

The PSAC conference meet will be held at West Chester University from Feb. 20-23.

LHU would like to say good-bye and good luck to the four seniors on the team. Tracy Cambell, Beth Kline, Kathy Kalemba, and diver Renee Weaver.

Coffel, Gillespie win PSAC championships

by Shawn Liddick
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

This past weekend, Lock Haven University was the site of the 48th annual Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) wrestling championship tournament.

Being the host team for this year's event, the Bald Eagles made a definite shot at this year's title. Last year's fourth place finish left room for definite improvement. Lock Haven showcased a strong squad, including many place winners from last year's event and, under first year head coach Carl Poff, came up in the PSAC standings to second place.

Coach Poff also coached two Lock Haven wrestlers to the state championship in their respective weight classes. Junior Ron Coffel, wrestling at 167 lb., and freshman Shannyn Gillespie, wrestling at 134 lb., are the two Lock Haven wrestlers to win first place in the PSAC tournament and, in the process, win the state championship.

Coffel's path to the top was a tough one. Although he received a "bye" in the first round, Coffel had two very close matches to contend with to reach the top. In the second round, he defeated his opponent with a technical fall. In the next two matches, he outscored his opponents only 6 to 3, including an extremely tough championship victory against Tom Socker of Bloomsburg. He won that match 2 to 1.

Gillespie's path to the championship was no easier. The difference between the two (Gillespie and Coffel) is that Gillespie did not have a first round "bye". The first two matches he wrestled were won by pin fall. From there, he won the semi-final round, 7 to 3. In the championship match, Gillespie won a hard fought match that went right down to the wire. The final score was 5 to 2.

Coach Poff has this to say about what happened, "The first part of the season was a struggle. The competition level that our guys had to wrestle was very high. But, we are now seeing the payoff of that competition. The staff kept a positive outlook on the season and how the guys performed. We needed a positive to happen on the mat and this weekend was it. I was especially pleased with the effort that the team put forth and placing second in the conference was unexpected. The team and I hope to use this tournament as a stepping stone to finish out the season strong."

The list of other place winners are as follows:

- 118 - Brian Slates - 3rd
- 126 - Danny Smith - 3rd
- 150 - Kemal Pengram - 2nd
- 158 - Red Childress - 4th
- 177 - Dale Budd - 3rd
- hwt - Kenny Walker - 5th

Lady Eagle Hoopsters suffer tough loss to Division I opponent, remain first in PSAC

By Merritt La Porta
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

It was a rough night for the Lady Eagle basketball team yesterday as they suffered the second worst loss of the season, 86-61 at the hands of Division I Youngstown State.

From the opening tip-off things seemed to go the Lady Penguins way. With the help of lucky rolls and some weak calls, Youngstown took control of the game midway through the first half. They dominated the Lady Eagles under the boards taking shot after shot and quickly jumped out to a 34-16 lead with 5:30 left in the first half.

"When they made that run," said head coach Frank Scarfo, "I called a time out and said, 'Hey Ladies, let's play some basketball out there.' They shot well, but you're going to shoot well when there's no one sticking hands in your face."

When the first half finally came to a close, Youngstown had a commanding 49-26 lead and a 33-18 advantage in rebounding.

"We just lost our poise and composure in this game," said Scarfo. "We beat ourselves in this one by not matching up in our transitive defense. We played better in the second half, but by then it was evident the game was out of reach."

In the second half Youngstown threw it into cruise control and continued their domination of the Lady Eagles. At one point the Lady Pens led by 31 on their way to the 25 point victory.

The worst loss of the Lady Eagles' season came at the hands of national powerhouse Bentley College. There they suffered a 29 point defeat, 84-55 over Christmas break.

Suzanne Baird was the high scorer for the Lady Eagles against Youngstown, finishing with 11 points on the night. Senior Amy Barger scored 10 in the losing effort.

"I think this game was a blunt reminder to the girls that we can't let up in conference play," Scarfo said. "The girls may have been riding high after winning four in a row, but this game showed what can happen when you let up just once."

The loss drops the Lady Eagles' record to 12-6 overall, but doesn't affect their first place standing in the PSAC Western Division. The team is 4-1 in conference play with the one loss to Slippery Rock in a 91-88 heartbreaker.

The team now travels to Edinboro for a conference tilt tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 p.m. The next home game is Wednesday February 6 at 6 p.m. against Clarion.
