

Experience in Black Music With 'Cannonball' Adderly

Lock Haven had an experience in Black Music by one of the foremost authorities on the subject, Julian Cannonball Adderly was on campus two days, explaining and demonstrating how Black Music, particularly jazz, originated. He explained and demonstrated the chronological development of Black Music before a full house in each of his seminar talks.

Mr. Adderly pointed out one of the most important aspects in the early development of Black Music was the wandering minstrels.

These the black slaves who when traded or sold to another plantation would communicate with the slaves in an expression the masters didn't

Mr. Adderly clarified the myth about black people being the only ones who can play jazz. He stated that anyone who has musical talent can learn to play jazz because music doesn't have color. 'Cannonball' also explained how rock music originated from jazz. He then terminated each seminar with a question-answer period.

Mr. Adderly concluded his two-day program with a dynamic concert. The best way to sum up his program is to mention that Mr. Adderly is not just a great educated musician but is also a great entertainer who can superbly expose people to some thing beautiful, Black Music.

I would at this time like to express our sincere thanks to everyone on behalf of the Black Student Union and our advisors, who helped make our program a complete success.

LHS Graduates Further Ed.

Over one-third of Lock Haven State College's graduates attend graduate school, according to a report recently released by C. Herbert Larson, director of placement at the college. The report is based on questionnaires sent to the 1,285 men and women who graduated from the college during the years 1962-66.

In reply to the findings of the report, Dr. Richard T. Parsons, president of Lock Haven State, said 'The survey indicates that the Lock Haven program provides a large number of its students with the desire to continue their education. Because Lock Haven has an excellent academic reputation, those graduates who want to do advanced work are able to gain admission to some of the best graduate schools in the country.'

With almost fifty-five percent of the graduates responding to the questionnaire, 465 indicated they had attended or were attending graduate school at 117 different colleges and universities. Seventy-seven percent had taken advanced courses in education and twenty-one percent received the Master's degree, fifteen percent in education.

Of the 117 schools attended, more graduates (thirty percent) went to Pennsylvania State University than to any other one school.

Campus Newspapers Feel Censorship

(ACP) — Campus publications across the nation are feeling the scribes of censors' red pencils this year. As conservative money-holders attempt to suppress uninhibited, free-thinking editors, a variety of things happen. At Western Maryland College, President Ensor refused to allow the student newspaper, the Gold Bug to print advertisements of businesses which sell alcoholic beverages. From 1963 through 1967, the Gold Bug had run such ads with no administrative qualms. The paper figures the president's sudden decision set them back about $50 an issue.

James Hammond, Fitchburg State College president (Salem, Mass.) shut down the campus newspaper by refusing to sign a check to cover printing costs of an issue of The Cycle if an article written by Black Panther Eldrige Cleaver was to be printed in that issue.

As a result, editors of five Massachusetts State College papers got together and decided to split the cost of printing one issue of The Cycle so the Cleaver article could be run. They also decided to run the article in their respective campus newspapers. Two editors of the Oregon State University Barometer resigned when the student senate resolved to fully investigate the paper. The editors protested that this infringed on their right to freedom of the press.

In Tempe, Arizona, the editor of the Arizona State University State Press was fired by the board of student publications for 'insubordination' in a dispute with two faculty board members who censored the paper. Five of the senior editors resigned in protest of the action taken by a board composed of five faculty members and three students.

The students claim the State Press should fill the needs of the student body which pays for the paper through activity fees. The faculty claims the newspaper should be a workshop experience for journalism majors.

At the Colorado School of Mines, in Golden, President Orlo Childs threatened to remove the editor of the school's newspaper, the Oredigger for printing what he regarded as obscenities in the paper.

The publications board questioned his authority to remove the editor and quickly assured Childs that the Oredigger was "outstanding, not obscene."

Cagers Top Point Park In Overtime, 81-77

TWO!: LHS's Ziggy Tauginas goes up for two points against Point Park last Friday evening. The Eagles upset the Pioneers in overtime, 81-77.

The Lock Haven State College basketball squad assured itself of its best season in 14 years with an 81-77 overtime conquest of Point Park Friday evening in Thomas Field House.

Led by the late game heroics of little Louie Savani who scored ten points in the last five minutes of regulation and five in the overtime period, the Bald Eagles upset the favored visitors.

With Point Park in front 63-61 Savani made his entrance into the contest and quickly hit a bucket for the Eagles and then went on to add eight more points in the thrilling contest.

Floor leader John Marzlak set a new game record with 12 assists and it was the first time in many years that the cagers ended the season with a winning record at home.

The contest was close all the way with neither team holding more than a five point lead. Most of the way the ballgame was either tied or one of the clubs held a one point lead.

The opening ten minutes saw both squads throwing up shots with neither hitting with any consistency. After the midpoint of the first half both squads shooting picked up, the Eagles behind Ziggy Tauginas and Bruce Parkhill while Ed Josefowski found the range for Point Park. The Eagles held a slim 36-35 lead at halftime.

Midway through the second half the Pioneers held a 54-51 lead but the Eagles came back to tie it at 59-59.

The lead exchanged hand a few times but with 1:13 left in the contest the Eagles held a 70-66 lead then almost blew the ballgame. A quick bucket by the Pioneers and a steal knotted the score at 70-70. The pioneers regained the ball with 28 seconds but a shot slipped off the rim of the bucket and went astray and then Savani tied up a Pioneer for a jump ball and a last minute buzzer shot went wide sending the game into overtime.

Commenting on the game first year coach Jim Christopher stated, "Lou (Savani) did a fantastic job coming the bench late in the game to not only score 10 big points but also was a tiger on defense. Johnny (Marzlak) again gave us the floor leadership we needed with his record-breaking 12 assists.

"Bud Brennen and Ziggy (Tauginas) did a real fine job again on the boards for us against much taller opponents. Bruce (Parkhill) had a great overall ball game with 23 points and nine rebounds."

LHS Mermen Tie Lycoming, 47-47

The Lock Haven State swimmers won six events at Lycoming last Wednesday, but their lack of manpower allowed Lycoming to gain a 47-47 tie. The Eagles could manage only four seconds and three thirds to complete their scoring.

Larry Briggs won the one meter dive, Kevin Hammer won the 100 free, and Frank Kacinko won the 200 backstroke to complete the Eagles list of winners.

On Saturday, the Eagle mermen captured seven firsts, but added only eight more points to their total, losing Genesco 57-47.

opinion lhs

To the editor:

Mr. Al Smith's latest faux pas concerning athletics was again devoid of fact. It is most regrettable when journalistic responsibility is used to project biased opinion.

It is unfortunate when the printed word is not often used to benefit student, division and institution by aiding in the growth and development of athletics as an important educational endeavor.

Sport has not been given the assist that it deserves.
